Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	Carr,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Mor,	—	Methuen,	"
*Nimrod,	470	Manning,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,	—	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Queen Mab,	—	Ainly,	Jardine M. Co.
*Regular,	389	Rudd,	Turner and Co.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybas.
Royal Exchange	155	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
*Reliance,	1243	Green,	"
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	Hugheson Brothers.
Sir Robt Peel,	—	Craig,	Pox Rawson & Co.
S. R. Crawford	—	Robertson	A. A. de Mello.
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	"
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, | Commodore Kearney.
*Akbar, | Dumaresq | Russell and Co.
Panama, | — | — | —
Henry Pratt, | Rogers, | J. D. Sward and Co.
*Cayuga, | Bissel, | W. A. Lawrence.
Forum, | Murdoch, | Russell and Co.
Horatio, | Howland, | G. Nye jr.
Levant, | Foulke, | J. D. Sward & Co.
Ann MacKim, | Vassmer, | W. A. Lawrence.

PERUVIAN.

Ara, | — | Riestro, | Russell and Co.
*James Boorman | — | Rimser, | Russell and Co.

at Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 32.]

Macao, Saturday, 7th May, 1842.

[No. 334.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

JOHN SMITH will sell by Public Auction, at his rooms on the Praya Grande, on Monday next, the 9th instant, at 12 o'clock precisely, the fine Clipper Brig "WILLIAM BUGHES," of 219 tons old measurement and 124 tons N. M., with all her Stores, Armament &c., as she now lies off the Praya Grande.

This fine vessel was built at Havannah for the slave trade, and was sold as a prize, and thoroughly repaired in London in 1838; she was subsequently purchased and fitted up as a Yacht at great expense, draws only 8 feet water, and is particularly recommended to parties in want of a vessel for the coast.

A list of stores may be seen on application to the Auctioneer.

Macao, 3rd May, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

ON Tuesday the 10th instant, at 10 o'clock in the morning at the house of JOSE CARLOS BARROS, at Rua Formosa, will be sold by Public Auction, a Collection of selected Books of MEDICINE in French, &c., the property of the absent VICENTE AGOSTINHO BRANCAO.

F. A. P. SILVEIRA.

Escrivão do Juiz de Direito.

Macao, 4th May, 1842.

NOTICE.—In hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed).

W. E. ACRAMAN.

SAMUEL BRIGGS.

A. THURBURN.

F. W. COLLARD.

R. THURBURN.

R. C. JENKINS.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCALES DRYDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.

LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug. 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE OF BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 23rd April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DAVIS, p. pro.

C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "PANTALON," Capt. PORTER, shortly expected, will be dispatched for the above ports about the 20th inst. For freight or passage apply to

HENRY PYBUS.

Macao, 6th May, 1842.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A J Barque "CRUSAN," Capt. LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

THE A J British Brig JOHN HORTON, (336 Tons new measurement) Captain O. CONNINGHAM. Apply to

W. T. KINSLEY—Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.—Macao.

Macao, 14th April, 1842.

THE A J British Barque "ANN" 271 tons Register, Capt. McAlpine, now lying at Whampoa and is ready to receive cargo, apply to

GRIBBLE, HUGHES, & Co.

Macao, 18th March, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER,
TO THE EAST COAST OF CHINA OR ANY PORT IN ASIA OR THE WEST COAST OF SOUTH AMERICA.

THE new Clipper Arrow, Captain GRAKE, H. C. S., now in the Roads. Apply to

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

THE Ship "GENERAL WOOD" receives Goods on demurrage at Hongkong, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

THE British Barque "LADY HAYES," receives Goods on demurrage in Macao Roads, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

TO MERCHANTS &c.

A GENTLEMAN lately arrived in China is desirous of obtaining a situation in a Mercantile establishment as Clerk, Warehouseman, or Corresponding Clerk; he has for years been similarly employed, and can give the most undeniable references as to his respectability and qualification. Applications addressed to S. J. C., care of Messrs JARDINE MATHESON & Co., will meet with prompt attention.

FOR SALE.—MADDERA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter cases, from the well known house of KEIGS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN PINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases. SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads. BRANDY and GENEVA do. PALE ALE HASS's do. BEEF in tins, PORK in barrels. COALS, 120 tons. GILMAN'S Stores late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEER and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADRIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEI CANDLES; best quality EAU DE COLOGNE; apply to

J. A. DE SILVA.

at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 4th April, 1842.

BILLS on Messrs BARING BROTHERS and Co., London, at 6 months sight for sale by GIDEON NYE, Jr.

Macao, 7th April 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS on LONDON. E. J. CO'S DRAFTS on CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Saphro" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hds. ex "John O'Grady" & "Regular." TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to

B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.

MANILA SGOARS, da superior.

COGNAC BRANDY.

SELTZERWATER and HOCK.

HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.

RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to

JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also RUSSIA CORDAGE, FELT. LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to

J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KRAOU LUNAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.

ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a new and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SLEUTHWORK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.

Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 2.

Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.

for 3 months $ 6.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.

For one year payable in advance $ 12

For six Months $ 7

For three $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pr do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the Bombay Times of 33d February.

"THE POLICY OF LORD AUCKLAND MUST NOW BE SUPPORTED AT ALL EVENTS"

The doctrine enunciated in the above line is so generally found in the mouths even of those who, up to the 1st November were disposed to question the policy of the departing Governor General, and is laid down with such unsuspecting emphasis, that it seems to be considered all but axiomatic; to be received as standing in need of the support of an argument; and as so self-evidently true and so universally acceptable, that no one will be found hardy enough to encounter the unpopularity of assailing it. We have little doubt that amongst the inconsiderate and ill-informed of those who know no more of the Afghans and their affairs than partisan newspapers have been pleased to tell them, and who take no higher views of our position in India than that of a powerful and opulent people, who war when they have the will, and waste when they find the way—who rule with absolute and uncontrollable sway the millions of Asia as caprice may dictate—the doctrine is acceptable, and the conduct of those who dispute it appears extremely monstrous. It is not by considerations such as these that an honest journalist will be deterred from the discharge of his duty; and we venture to affirm, that a more fallacious or intangible dogma never was laid down than that which is at present so generally assumed as unquestionable—that the Simla policy deserves more support, or a different line of treatment in Feb, 1842 than it did in Feb, 1840. So far from the system which was before considered unwise demanding constance, it deserves execration now that it has proved disastrous. There are at this moment ten thousand reasons which existed not till now, for the instant abandonment of the policy we have for the last three years maintained amidst unprecedented waste of blood and treasure—there is not one in its favour which existed not before. Let us, how-over, in the first place examine what this system is in which we are now bound to persist because of the sweeping disasters it has produced, which we were before the full and fatal proof of its perniciousness permitted to canvass according to its merits. To ascertain this, we must take the Simla manifesto for our guide; and here we shall find that the scheme laid down as uniform and entire, consists not of one but of many discordant parts, not one of which can now be pursued without the jeopardment of nearly all the others. We may dismiss from consideration the references to our ancient Ally Runjeet Singh: he is dead, and there has since been but little more pretended betwixt us and his successors. We may also pass by the opening of the Indus, and the Scinde and Bhawalpora alliances,—the objects of these have, been already in part carried out, and have, besides, no earthly relation to, or connection with, the 'Doorancee' alliance. The maintenance of the Peshwar as an integral portion of the Punjab, became a fiction when the Survey recommended its re-annexation to Cabool; and the Sikh alliance itself a delusion when we took on us the arbitration of Sher Singh's legitimacy, and determined that the treaty we had made with the former ruler, in no shape bound us to the present one.* The remaining angles of which we have to tread, are confined within narrow limits—the extension of commerce; the procurement of that influence in Central Asia which an interchange of benefits would produce (See 2d, Proclamation); and the establishment of an ally on our Western Frontier, who is interested in resisting aggression and establishing tranquillity, in the place of Chiefs ranging themselves in subservience to a hostile power (Section 12, Proclamation). The hostile powers here referred to are explained (in See 3d)—to be Persia in the first place, and (as noted in a separate paper), Russia as the ally of Persia. We have a printed before the oft-published Simla Proclamation; that our readers may judge for themselves whether there be not the sole points of the Auckland policy which now require to be carried out, and which yet remain unfulfilled. In what manner do the adherents of the maxim that "the policy of Lord Auckland must now at all events be supported"—propose carrying into practice the maxim they have adopted? They urge us to an interchange of mutual injuries, not of benefits; to extinguish, not to foster, the means of commercial intercourse; and to raise up, not an ally but an enemy, on our western frontier, who, instead of resisting aggression and establishing tranquillity, will cherish the heritage of unending vengeance as dearer to him than existence as an enemy, who will league, and rightfully league, with Russia or Persia, or any power on earth which will do him injury, and sharpen every sword and spear in Central Asia to point them against British supremacy. It may be good policy to do all this, to reverse every item of the grand Simla scheme; but if so, let the expediency of the reversal be argued on its own merits. Let us not be led into other delusions of dreaming that we are following out the views of Lord Auckland, when in fact we are labouring with all our might to have each one of them undone.

The whole of the Simla scheme has already been proved fallacious in its conception and objects, and disastrous in its results. We may now wisely spurn and abandon it; but we need not reverse it: and this, too, on pretence of adhering to it.

A Calcutta print recommends that the notable Proclamation of the 31st Jan.—the Gazette Extraordinary—as it well may be called, should be published at every native Court in India. Should this advice be taken,

* The following is an extract of a letter from the Rivyn, dated Nov. 29th, 1841. The Peshwar question, as will be seen from the Blue Book, was that on which the whole quarrel with Dost Mahomed turned: the Ameer expressed the strongest anxiety for our alliance: he at once yielded every thing but this. How insignificant after all it appeared to the Envoy within a twelvemonth of our occupation of Cabool, the following extract will demonstrate. This might almost be classed under the catalogue of delusions noticed above.

Cabool, Nov. 29th 1840

"The removal of the Dost's unwieldy family has been a trifling loss on my attention. The Dost himself has safely reached Jellalabad, and is represented as having made himself very agreeable on the march. He is an accomplished dissembler, and if I am not much mistaken, before he reaches his destination the public prints will be swarmed with letters from the pens of our glib-tongued countrymen descriptive of the virtues of our illustrious exile. Dost Mahomed's surrender appears to have had a magical effect as far even as Herat. But now is our time for setting our house in order. We shall never have such an opportunity again of stretching the kingdom of the Shah Shoojah to its proper dominions. The Afghans should be required to go back to the East of the Indus, but I much fear Lord Auckland will content himself with keeping matters on their present footing. I have already written an essay to prove, that the tripartite treaty is at an end, as Sher Singh—the present ruler of the Punjab—cannot, by the most forced construction, be considered as of the posterity of Runjeet Singh, with whom alone the treaty was made."

2 An Army and a Proclamation, when well ordered and applied, are both good things in their war, and both very useful to a government which knows how to use it is to be hoped that the translator may somewhat amend the language in the native vernacular into which he may require to render it. There are inconsistencies in the paper which are, however, leaving the reach of the healing art of the interpreter. Will the Governor General in council, or will the admirers of his proclamation, explain in what way "a partial reverse," which only furnishes new occasion for displaying the stability and vigour of the British power," can require vigorous measures, powerful reinforcements, and so forth "for the maintenance of the honor and interests of the British Government?" If the reverse we have sustained in Cabool is slight and partial, it cannot endanger our position in India. If it endangers this, it is much more than a mere partial reverse. The English nation must not suffer this slander on the stability of our position to be breathed in the last pages of expiring political existence by the departing Governor General, that it is no slight that a partial reverse in Cabool may vitally endanger it. The disasters the counsel of Lord Auckland have drawn down upon our arms beyond the Indus, are not slight, and not partial: yet sweeping beyond precedent, and terrible as they are, they do not endanger our position, or impair our honor, in India. The calamities to be apprehended from the loss of these, it is yet within our option to avert or encounter—by retreating within, or organizing a new campaign beyond, the Indus.

Whatever turn things may hereafter take, or whatever the policy Lord Ellenborough may pursue, the calamities which have occurred at Cabool are the most fortunate events that could have happened for the political character of the originators of the Afghan war. The monstrous unwind of the Simla policy had, before the advent of Sir Robert Peel to office, been proved in the face of the world in a manner not to be disputed; its advocates were dying out; its consequences were crushing India: it was rotten at the core, and falling to pieces from natural decay; and the time had all but come when it must be repudiated and abandoned for ever—remembered only from the enormous delusions by which it had been supported, and the burthens which its consequences had entailed on us. At the very hour its doom was about to be pronounced, the Ghilzie insurrection alike altered its character and prospects. The extermination of our Army saved Lord Auckland the disgrace of withdrawing it: the wisdom of remaining in Cabool and maintaining the Shah Shoojah on the throne, ceased to be a matter of discussion. The subject of enquiry now is,—shall we re-occupy Cabool with a new Army? Shall we re-seat the former sovereign on his throne, if he still exists, or impose another in his place, if he be no more? It would be no reflection or ground of censure on any man who advocated the principles of Lord Auckland in 1839, that he should in 1842 admit that it was now no longer practicable to maintain them; it would at once be the most honest, easy, and wise mode of recantation. If the advocates of a new campaign be thwarted in their wishes by the prospective Governor General, they will have an excuse to cover past mischances in asserting that, if their advice had been taken all would have been well; and the "partial reverse" which has occurred, scarce been felt as an interruption in our onward march in the path of renown. If again the new Governor should, accede to the general desire, and move a force of 30,000 men beyond the mountains, and these should experience the same success which, fallacious as it was, contrary to all human calculation attended the armies of Lord Kanne, matters will at all events, stand, in one sense at least, in this much of a better position than before, that we shall have fresh despatches such as those of Ghuzni, and fresh Votes of Thanks, Ribbons, Earldoms, Knight-hoods, and it may be—Pensions. The real consideration of the question will at any rate be postponed till the outlay of a dozen or two millions more requires to be met—when it will not be requisite for the candour of the Hon. Mr. Bird, or the manliness of Sir Henry Willock, to acknowledge that the treasury of Fort William, "must some months hence stop payment." When the owners of the four, five, or six per cent loan, under these circumstances apply for their dividends, it will be found that the treasury has stopped, having no assets to meet either principal or interest. In the worst view of the case, should we encounter another "partial reverse," and be compelled to withdraw from defiles where the finest armies in the world require only to be resisted to ensure defeat, we can then say as we have already said, that we found matters different from what we had expected, and that we may now withdraw with honor, having shown, that from the position we ought never to have occupied, we retired not so long as it was possible to remain.

We live remote from the atmosphere of the vice-regal Court: we are beyond the reach of that heaviest of mortal ills, the "being debarred from the Government House of Calcutta, because our opinion had, on one solitary occasion, not jumped with that of the Governor General" (vide Englishman, 1st Jan 1841). As the franchise of the Bengal Secretariat affect us not, we can afford to them. The war-advocate would fire on volleys of proclamations at the Native Courts, and send the Army beyond the Indus: we would keep the things themselves, but reverse their uses: we think our position and moral influence would be best maintained by keeping the Army in India, and sending the Proclamations into Afghanistan.

smile at the "King Cambyes reign" in which the announcement of its pleasure is made known by journals devoted to its interests. An appeal to the chivalry of the British army which never yet was made in vain, in a good cause, may succeed even in an evil one while the delusion lasts which makes it for a time be misunderstood. We should as soon think of complimenting the natives of India on the darkness of their complexion, as we should the British army on its bravery, or the British nation on its power or its bold in India. The parties who feel it necessary to impress the world with doctrines which have hitherto been admitted as undisputed, virtually proclaim that they have heretofore held them not unquestionable. The individuals now appealed to on these points, will know how to appreciate the compliment: to answer to the appeal of the Calcutta Press. To recover our honor, and restore the brightness of our renown, we must admit that there have been lost or tarnished; that the bravery and endurance ascribed to our troops have existed only in name! It is right that those who assume that our reputation has been stained, should take means to restore it to its previous purity. We spurn the imputation as a slander on our name, and we refuse to permit the handful of insane politicians who have brought about the present position in our affairs, to attempt restoring their own character by blackening that of the nation or the Army; or to cover the onus of their own inflated and selfish schemes, by sacrificing the interests of the Empire.

The barbarous notion, that the honor of a nation can only be restored or sustained by an appeal to the ordeal of single combat, is laughed at by the enlightened of the nineteenth century. The nation which battled and conquered all Europe in arms, needs not a new Crusade into Central Asia to prove the matchlessness of her prowess.

Latest Europe News.

From the Calcutta Englishman Extraordinary of 23rd March.

The India Steamer has arrived from Suez, anticipating the Bombay Mail. We have received a batch of London Mails, from which we make the following extracts:—

The young prince was christened on the 25th January.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

FEB. 4.—Yesterday the Queen proceeded in state from Buckingham Palace to attend the Session of Parliament. The following is her Majesty's most gracious speech:

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I cannot meet you in parliament assembled, without making a public acknowledgement of my gratitude to Almighty God, on account of the birth of the Prince, my son,—an event which has completed the measure of my domestic happiness, and has been hailed with demonstrations of affectionate attachment to my person and government, by my faithful and loyal people.

I am confident that you will participate in the satisfaction which I have derived from the presence in this country of my good brother and ally the King of Prussia; who at my request undertook in person the office of Sponsor at the christening of the Prince of Wales.

I receive from all Princes and States the continued assurance of their earnest desire to maintain the most friendly relations with this country.

It is with great satisfaction I inform you that I have concluded with the Emperor of Austria, the King of the French, the King of Prussia, and the Emperor of Russia, a treaty for the more effectual suppression of the Slave-trade, which when the ratifications shall have been exchanged, will be communicated to Parliament.

There shall also be laid before you a treaty which I have concluded with the same Powers, together with the Sultan, having for its object the security of the Turkish empire, and the maintenance of the general tranquillity.

The restoration of my diplomatic and friendly intercourse with the Court of Teheran has been followed by the completion of a commercial treaty with the King of Persia, which I have directed to be laid before you.

I am engaged in negotiations with several Powers, which I trust by lending to conventions founded on the just principle of mutual advantages may extend the trade and commerce of the country.

I regret that I am not able to announce to you the re-establishment of peaceful relations with the Government of China.

The uniform success which has attended the hostile operations directed against that power, and my confidence in the skill and gallantry of my naval and military forces, encourage the hope on my part that any differences with the government of China will be brought to an early termination, and our commercial relations with that country placed on a satisfactory basis.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

The Estimates for the year have been prepared, and will be laid before you.

I rely, with entire confidence, on your disposition, while you enforce the principles of a wise economy, to make that provision for the service of the country which the public exigencies require.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I recommend to your immediate attention the state of the finances, and of the expenditure of the country.

You will have seen with regret that, for several years past, the annual income has been inadequate to bear the public charges; and I feel confident, that fully sensible of the evil which must result from a continued deficiency of this nature during peace, you will carefully consider the best means of averting it.

I recommend also to your consideration the state of the laws which affect the import of corn, and of other articles the produce of foreign countries.

Measures will be submitted for your consideration for the amendment of the Law of Bankruptcy, and for the improvement of the jurisdiction exercised by the Ecclesiastical Courts in England and Wales.

It will also be desirable that you should consider, with a view to their revision, the laws which regulate the Registration of Electors of members to serve in parliament.

I have observed with deep regret the continued distress in the manufacturing districts of the country. The sufferings and privations which have resulted from it have been borne with exemplary patience and fortitude.

I feel assured that your deliberation on the various important matters which will occupy your attention, will be directed by a comprehensive regard for the interests and permanent welfare of all classes of my subjects, and I fervently pray that they may tend in their result to improve the national resources, and to encourage the industry and promote the happiness of my people.

EAST INDIA INTELLIGENCE.

The overland mail from India via Marseilles reached London on the 27th January, with advices to the following dates:—

China, 10th Oct.	Madras, 22d Oct.
Singapore, 24th Oct.	Ceylon, 21st Oct.
Calcutta, 21st Nov.	Bombay, 1st Dec.

Sir T. Cochrane has been appointed to succeed Sir W. Parker as naval commander-in-chief in the East Indies.

Her Majesty has appointed Lawrence Peel, Esq., Advocate General at Calcutta to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature in Bengal.

On 2d Feb. a Court of Directors was held at the East India House, when Mr. John Edwards Lyall was appointed to the office of Advocate General in Bengal.

Sir C. E. Grey, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court at Calcutta has left this country to assume the government of Barbadoes to which he has been appointed in succession to the late Sir E. N. Macgregor.

A very painful feeling was excited at Montrose on the arrival of the last Indian mail, by the appearance of a paragraph in several papers, stating on the authority of a letter from Meerut, that an insurrection of Afghans had taken place in Cabul, and that Sir Alexander Burnes was killed, or severely wounded.

On the 14th January a deputation from the Bank of Asia, consisting of Mr. Jardine, M. P., chairman, Sir John Campbell, K. H., Mr. Sheriff Rogers, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Brooking, Captain John Hine, Hon. Company's Service, Mr. Kingston, Mr. B. Williams, and Mr. Goldworthy, had an interview with the Earl of Ripon at the office of the Board of Trade. A deputation has also had an interview with Lord Fitzgerald, the President of the Board of Control and a general meeting of shareholders is to be held on the 14th Feb. to determine on further proceedings.

It is stated that Messrs Boggis, Taylor & Co have effected an arrangement of their concerns by a composition of seven shillings in the pound.

On the 28th January the Court of Bankruptcy adjourned the final examination of Messrs Fairlie and Hare, East India merchants, for six weeks, to give them time to complete their accounts, which are voluminous.

We regret extremely to announce the failure of Messrs Hunter Gouger & Co., which has been a subject of very general regret from the well known respectability of the house. The engagements, it is said, do not exceed £50,000, and from the statements of the parties themselves, there is some reason to hope they will be met to a great extent. Some other failures have taken place, but principally among ship-owners. We allude to Messrs Jupp and Barr, Messrs Arnold and Woollet, and others.

JAN. 13.—Such is the state of distress at present prevailing in London, that the shops of several bakers have been openly plundered in the day time by gangs of from fifty to sixty hungry men, who, having consumed the spoil, readily surrendered themselves to a single policeman.—Mr. Justice Bosanquet has resigned his seat on the Bench of the Common Pleas, in consequence of continued indisposition.

Mr. C. Kean has been united to Miss Ellen Tree; the distinguished performers were married in Dublin.

Feb. 2.—The report in circulation yesterday of the resignation of the Duke of Buckingham has been confirmed by the nomination of his Grace's successor, the Duke of Buccleuch having been appointed to the office of Lord Privy Seal.

On the 10th January a portion of the ransom paid by the Chinese for the evacuation of Canton arrived in London, and was transferred to the Royal Mint, in which establishment it was deposited at two o'clock. The treasure was landed at Portsmouth from Her Majesty's frigate Conway and thence conveyed to Gosport. A special train was engaged to bring the treasure by the Southampton Railway to London, under an escort of the 32d regiment. On the arrival of the train at the Vauxhall terminus, the boxes of silver about 400 in number, were transferred to 43 vans and carts each drawn by two horses, and guarded by the soldiers of the 32d, in command of an officer. The procession attracted much notice in the streets through which it passed, and upon its arrival on Tower Hill, the mob was so great that the guard on duty at the Mint was immediately ordered under arms to clear away for the vans and carts to advance which they found some difficulty in effecting. The great gates having been thrown open, the vans and carts entered amidst loud cheering from the populace. The value of the treasure is 550,000 sterling, consists of small bars and lumps of pure silver, the whole of which is to be melted down and reduced previous to its being converted into the current coin of the realm. Many years have elapsed since a treasure so valuable entered the metropolis. After the Spanish galleons were taken, the money they contained was conveyed from Portsmouth to London in waggons, and entered the metropolis while the guns were firing to announce the birth of the Prince of Wales afterwards George IV.

AMERICA.

The Treasury of the United States was bankrupt, owing to the failure of the loan, to which the capitalists would not subscribe to the full amount. The members of Congress could not yet get their wages. The judges of the court, their salaries, nor the functionaries their pay. There was therefore, a dreadful "pressure" on the pockets of legislators and civilians. The deficiency in the Treasury was increasing. Its amount was 14,000,000 dollars, between two and three millions sterling. A bill was before Congress for supplying the deficiency.

FRANCE.

The Court of Peers assembled on the 9th Jan. After the names of the members had been called over, the President read a letter from the Minister of Justice, announcing that the King, by a decision dated the 7th, had been pleased to commute the capital sentence pronounced by the Court on the 23rd December last against Quenisset, Colombier, and Juvet Bruniere. The first is to be banished for ever, and the two others are condemned to hard labour for life.

The Chamber of Peers met in the 13th January to consider the draft of an address in reply to the speech from the Throne. It was a mere echo of the speech, except in one passage, which was directed against the conclusion of the treaty with Belgium. The Prince of Moskwa opened the debate with a very warlike oration, in which he charged the King with using too much reserve on foreign affairs. M. Boissy made a furious attack on Spain, calling Espartero an "executioner." M. Guizot called upon him to withdraw expressions which could not be suffered towards an individual exercising a portion of the sovereign power in a friendly state. M. de Dreux-Brézé commented on the silence of the Royal speech with regard to Spain. M. Guizot declared that M. de Dreux-Brézé was right to remark that silence; for silence on so important a subject in the speech was proposed, voluntarily, and the result of reflection; and the reason which had dictated it still checked M. Guizot in offering explanation. Negotiations were pending, between the French and Spanish Governments, which inopportune explanations might have the effect of interrupting. The French Government approved of the treaty of Bergara; and as to the reports current respecting the last insurrection, and the participation or favour shown to it by the French Government, he declared them totally without foundation. Every act of the French Government was directed simply to the restoration of order.

The address in the Chamber of Deputies was carried, after a long debate, by a majority of 34.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Conway, 26, reached P. month on the 5th Jan., after a tedious passage from China, having been to the eastward of the Philippines. In the early part of her voyage home the Conway lost no fewer than 13 of her officers and crews from dysentery, fever, and ague, contracted during their service with the expedition, and two men who, in a state of delirium from their wounds, leaped overboard and were lost. The treasure for this vessel, which weighed 60 tons, has reached London by the South Western Railway. At the paying off of this shipment of the treasure received upwards of 700 wages and some as much as 960 and 980.

Sir T. Cochrane, appointed the new naval commander-in-chief in the East Indies, is to hoist his flag in the Hastings, 74. Captain W. H. Bruce, Sir Thomas was to have sailed immediately in the Fidellio, 50. Captain S. T. Nicholas but this vessel having got on shore on Dean Bank during the late hurricane in making up to Spithead, will proceed to China with the Impacable, 74, recently returned from the Mediterranean. The Waterloo, 16, Commander Johnson, is to sail in a few days to China.

LONDON MARKET.

RAW SUGAR.—The market generally, for the past month has been rather more active; previous rates have been fully maintained, and the deliveries have somewhat increased. The arrivals of Bengale continue free, and the quality rather improving upon the late unloadings. There has been some increase in the demand, and anything fair and good in quality is still wanted. One continues scarce. As the China market there is nothing new, except perhaps that the demand has rather improved; further arrivals are expected, but the quantity home this season is expected to be small. The deliveries of Brussia Silk are rather large and the market firm. The stock is 707. In Persians not much doing, stock 520, including bales and cases. The arrivals since the 1st January have been as follows:—From Bengal 742 bales; China 144 bales; July 530 bales; Turkey 3 bales.

STOCKS AND DELIVERIES OF BENGAL, CHINA, BRUSSIA, AND PERSIAN RAW SILKS.

	Ben.	Chi.	Chi.	Can.	Chs.	Brus.	Pers.
Remain Jan. 31st
1842 sold	2563	726	20	197	37
unsold	2704	973	..	194	3	707	520
stock	6267	1701	20	391	30	707	520
Deliv. from 1st to 31st Jan. 1842.	673	216	..	83	19	320	111
warehoused do do.	693	252	273	26

PRICES CURRENT.

CHINA.	1st and 2nd.	2d and inferior.
	s. d.	s. d.
Tattee 9 12 mos	30 0 a 23 0	16 0 a 18 0
Yunnan (sons)	18 6 a 23 0	6 0 a 17 0
Yunnan 6-8 mos.	13 0 a 15 0	9 0 a 12 0
Canton	14 0 a 16 0	8 0 a 13 0
Chin Chew	8 6	12 6
Persia	16 0 a 20 6	12 6 a 15 0
Brussia, short	13 6	14 0
long	13 6	14 0

TEA.—At the close of Jan. the market for free trade has presented a firm appearance. A good demand has prevailed for both black and green sorts, for actual consumption, and the rates previously established have been fully sustained for all kinds of 18,300 packages offered at public sale, 12,500 packages (chiefly Pouchong) were sold. In 1842 was the lowest price in the sales for ordinary Congou. Company's Congou have been in fair request for clearing at 1s 10d to 1s 10d cash; this kind of Tea however has nearly ceased to be an article of speculation. The deliveries of Tea keep large, and amounted to 610,000 lbs. during the past week. The arrivals during that period amounted to 1,560,000 lbs.

On 1st Feb. there was less activity in the Tea market, and although the public sales consisting of 35,000 packages attracted a good attendance of traders, still they were cautious in their operations, and the demand was limited for both black and green descriptions. Importers for the most part were firm and bought in large parcels at full rates; those, however, who were disposed to realize, were compelled to submit to prices. 1 to 3, under those of last sale for Congou and Twankay, and 1d to 2d for Pouchong; other kind of Tea went a shade lower. Of 17,000 packages passed the sale and 7,800 were sold at the following rates:—Congou, coarse new and mixed leaf went at 1s 10d to 1s 10½d, rather strong and mixed blackish leaf 1s 10½d to 1s 10½d, blackish leaf rather strong 1s 11d to 1s 11½d, strong 2s to 2s 1d, do. Pekoe flavor 2s 2d to 2s 4d; Pouchong, ord. to fine 1s 3d to 1s 3½d; Twankay, common yellow leaf 1s 10d to 1s 10½d, brightish leaf 1s 11d to 1s 11½d, Hyson kind 2s to 2s 1d; Hyson, coarse yellow leaf 2s 2d to 2s 3½d, but mid. to mid. 2s 6d to 2s 10d, good bright leaf 3s 1d to 3s. 8d; Young Hyson, Canton bright leaf and Hyson flavor 2s 9d to 2s 3½d; Company's Congou dull at 1s 10½d cash.

On the 2nd the sales closed. One sale of 4,404 packages was withdrawn; of the remaining 11,178 packages, only about 3,900 sold. The previous day's prices were fully supported, and towards the close there appeared to be rather more spirit. Company's Congou, is to 10½d per pound cash.

Spices.—For Cassia Lignea last week a good demand existed, and former rates have been sustained; at auction 1,558 chests were all disposed of, low ind. at 73s 6d to 74s, middling 74s 6d to 76s, mid-ewed 76s to 78s 6d, beetle-stained 71s to 72s, broken 60s to 68s 6d per cwt. Ginger has met with more attention, and full rates have been paid; at auction 190 bags Malabar sold at 11s to 11s 6d for fair bid, and 12s 6d to 14s for good. Holders of Pepper have displayed firmness, privately a good demand has existed, and 2½d to 2½d paid for common, 2½d good Sumatra, and 3d to 3½d for common Malabar; at public sale, 730 bags sold at 2½d to 2½d for fair and good Sumatra. White has sold steadily at 3½d to 7d for low to good quality.

On 1st Feb. the public sales consisted of 500 bags Malabar Pepper, and 900 cases Cassia Lignea; the former went at full rates, middling quality at 3½d to 3½d, and half heavy 3½d to 3½d; the Cassia Lignea sold freely at 2s to 3s advance, mid. quality fetched 7½s to 78s 6d, ordinary coarse, 73s per cwt.

AFFGHANISTAN.

From the Singapore Free Press, of 21st April.

CALCUTTA.—Our files from this quarter have received no accession since on last, notwithstanding the recent arrival. We are indebted to the politeness of Captain Bayers of the Anna Watson, for a few Nos. of the Bengal Hurkaru to the 21st March, and to a friend for a more recent No. of the 24th, a few Extracts from which will appear in the usual place, touching the state of matters at the seat of War, which however present nothing of interest—albeit our accounts extend to the 6th March. General Sale and his brave band still continued unmolested—and the chief obstacle on the part of General Pollock to advance to his assistance, is said to be the want of sufficient ammunition—another account mentions that the delay is owing to an expected reinforcement. Be this as it may, there is certainly no doubt that the time for action is fast approaching, and that we shall soon have the gratification of recording some signal act of retributive vengeance!

We had written thus far when the arrival of the Pantheon, brought us our files of the Englishman to the 24th ult. We are too full to admit of any extracts being given, but we gather that another cause of the delay to the advance of the Force was owing to a discontent that existed among the native troops at Peshawar. We farther learn however that according to the latest accounts, (in the Englishman of the 24th,) that that feeling had nearly subsided.

We have also received the Friend of India and give an extract from the number of the 17th ult., contained in a Letter addressed to that Journal in vindication of the late Sir W. Macnaughton, by the Hon'ble Mr. Erskine a relative of the late Envoy—the Extract purports to be from a letter addressed by the deceased to Mr Erskine. What of space alone prevents our publishing the letter to the Friend of India. The facts thus brought to light, show an awful responsibility on those who concluded the last treaty with the rebels—and at the same time exhibit our troops in a most disgraceful light!

"Cabool, December 9th, 1841."—"We have now been besieged thirty-eight days by a contemptible enemy, whom the cowardice of our troops, and certain other circumstances which I will not mention, have emboldened to assume an attitude of superiority. Our provisions will be out in two or three days more and the Military Authorities have strongly recommended me to capitulate. This I will not do till the last moment. We have enemies that a force is coming to our assistance from Candahar, and I sincerely trust it may, for we have no energy or spirit amongst those here."

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 7th May, 1842.

By the arrival of the Tenasserim, Company's Steamer, yesterday morning, we are put in possession of news by the Feb. overland Mail, which had been received at Calcutta by the India Steamer direct from Suez, which arrived there on the 21st March, before the overland mail had reached by way of Bombay. The few papers and letters brought on by the Tenasserim had reached Singapore by the Pantaleon, from Calcutta the 30th March. To friends at Singapore we are indebted for a Calcutta Englishman Extra of 23d March, from which and the Sing. Free Press of 21st April we have made as many extracts as time and space would permit. It will be seen that the news brought by this mail is not of much general interest; as regards us in China the most important is that Sir William Parker is succeeded by Sir Thomas Cochrane in command of the fleet. Several ships, as will be seen from our extracts, were about sailing for China, and in Singapore a number of transports had arrived and partly sailed again. In Calcutta not less than 17 vessels had been engaged by government, and the fleet of steamers that must soon be collected on this coast, will be very great—in fact the naval armament, as well as that of troops, for the third expedition, will far exceed anything hitherto seen here, and we may therefore hope that in this year some approach to a final arrangement may be made. The news we have received from Afghanistan by this opportunity, adds, judging from the few papers we have seen, little to that already known. No movements of any importance seem to have been made, and the new invading force seems to be awaiting new reinforcements and the end of winter. The commercial accounts from England are by no means satisfactory; several failures had taken place, of houses connected with the East India trade, and had caused considerable alarm for the safety of others.

The Pluto Steamer had arrived in Singapore from Calcutta on her way to China; the Endymion frigate and H. M. Brig Childers were expected there every moment for the same destination.

If in countries in Europe honors are frequently conferred on the unobscuring, this seems to be a settled practice in China. Since the war with this country we have had to record the distribution of we know not how many peacock's feathers, of promotions &c. upon no other grounds than lying representations of the prowess of the troops or their commanders; yet no set of soldiers could have shewn less repugnance to face an enemy than the Chinese have hitherto invariably done. But notwithstanding their cowardice, they understand the secret of appearing brave on paper, and it will be seen what a fine account they have sent to the Emperor of their capture of the wreck of the Nerbudda, for which honors have been showered upon them with no sparing hand by the Peking Government, which seems to be willing to be deceived. What has become of the 123 prisoners does not appear; we all know well enough that the boast of the Chinese of having killed or driven into the sea so many Europeans is altogether a fiction, these having left the vessel and the poor natives to the mercy of the winds and waves. The particulars of this abandonment have never yet been explained, and Capt. Smoult, the commander of the Nerbudda, still owes us the promised account of it.

The following is a literal translation of a paragraph we find in a Paris paper of 17th November; it is remarkable chiefly as unrepresenting the strength of the crew of the fine Frigate Erigone, which had her full complement of men, and was in as fine order as any ship can be. We also doubt much the correctness of the remainder. The following is the paragraph in question:

"The Frigate Erigone, says a letter from Singapore of 4th September, anchored in our port yesterday. She comes from Rio Janeiro, which she left on the 17th June. Her crew is in good health; it consists of her commander, Capt. Cécille, of two lieutenants, one surgeon, and several sailors. The frigate is under the orders of M. Dubois de Jancigny, charged with a mission of the government.

"She was to have remained here several days; but the instructions which awaited M. de Jancigny at the French Consulate, will cause her to sail at the latest day after to-morrow. The Erigone is to touch at Manila, and will thence proceed to Macao. It is supposed that M. Jancigny goes there to obtain exact information of passing events, and to enter, if necessary, into some commercial negotiations between France and China."

We understand that Commodore Kearney, whose ship still remains at Whampoa, and will be joined there by the Boston, had some difficulty at first to convey a communication to the local authorities of Canton, the Hongmerchants being desirous that it should pass through their hands, which the Commodore refused. It was at last settled that an officer from the Constellation, a lieutenant of Marines, should deliver the letter, and he in consequence went up to Canton, and was there received, at the Consolhouse by the Kwangheep (military commandant of Canton) to whom it was handed. An answer has we learn, been since sent to the frigate at Whampoa. The subject of the correspondence is, we believe, the attack on the boat of the Harrison, on the 22d of May last, when a Mr. Sherry was killed by the Chinese, and the authorities of Canton excuse or palliate this event by stating that the boat was attacked at a moment of great excitement and disorder, when it was difficult to distinguish between neutrals and enemies.

By the Eagle, transport, from Chusan, letters to the 28th April had been received. They contain little intelligence of interest. Ningpo had not been destroyed by the English, nor was it at the latest date evacuated by them; but it was very soon to be abandoned, and the force, leaving a small garrison at Chinghee, would, it was said, without further loss of time, proceed by water to Hangchowfoo. Accounts from Amoy to the same date have also been received, and they state that nothing new had happened there; the rumours of a threatened attack on Kolangsoo have not therefore been verified.

It is said that Yik-shan, the rebel quelling general had left or was about leaving Canton, and that orders had been given for marching most of the troops from Canton Province. A good many passquinades are said to have been stuck on the walls of Canton, ridiculing the general, whose exploits, they say, have been limited to buying off the barbarians with a large sum of money—this is true enough.

H. M. S. Cambrian has, we are told, during the week proceeded to the northward, whither the Coltipe is to follow in a few days. Both these ships have brought large sums of specie from Calcutta, the former we hear 15 lakhs of Rupees, and the latter has brought back all the dollars she took from here of the Canton ransom money, thus giving a freight to Capt. Kuper both going and coming, which might have been saved had the dollars been kept here.

The french Frigate Erigone sailed from Manila for the northward on the 2d of last month. We are sorry to learn that her commander, Capt. Cécille has been afflicted with a dangerous ophthalmia; but the last accounts state that his eyesight was improving.

CHINA TROOPS REWARDED.—We have the greatest pleasure in making it known, upon what we consider very good authority, to the gallant troops composing the China expedition, that Her Majesty has been pleased to give them a due share of the Canton money, and that it has been removed at home, to bestow it on them in the handsome shape of a donation of twelve months' batta. To this extent, we understand, all will receive it who, though not employed in the actual Canton operations, were so in those on the coast of China to the end of last year, from the beginning of the business; but that the force employed at Chusan in 1840 will receive only six months' batta—which is in fair proportion. Lastly, as is just and right, we understand that not only all the officers and men of the royal fleet, but those of the Company's steamers, are to receive batta to correspond with that bestowed on the landmen.—India Gazette, 26th February.

SINGAPORE AND HONGKONG.

We shall venture a few remarks on these settlements, seeing that a writer in the Friend of China, under the signature of "an old resident" draws a comparison between Capt. Elliot and Sir Stamford Raffles, injurious to the memory of the latter. Due allowance is to be made for a zeal to cry up one's own wares, in a writer at whose identity we might have no difficulty in pointing, having seen an editorial a few weeks since in the same paper, where in a similar spirit, a comparison is made between Hongkong and Singapore; but if such writer transgresses the bounds of moderation, he justly exposes himself to ridicule, and what little truth his commendation may contain, will be confounded and lost sight of under such unpardonable exaggeration. We never certainly expected to hear Captain Elliot and Sir Stamford Raffles compared with each other and the palm of superiority assigned to the former! Sir Stamford Raffles, a man whose capacious resources of his mind drew success after him wherever he moved, and whose fault it certainly was not if many of the benefits he contrived for his country were but of short duration. But the object of the writer under consideration is to compare the two settlements of Hongkong and Singapore, and to deplore that Capt. Elliot was not permitted to continue in China, as he would then "have rivalled if not surpassed the reputation of Sir Stamford Raffles." Any one who has been in China since the troubles began, must be aware that "an old resident" is for the writer in question a gross misnomer, for from various causes Capt. Elliot had so utterly forfeited the confidence of the commercial community, that the project of the settlement at Hongkong under his auspices, was likely to have given little confidence, and that this want of confidence would, at least before the sanction of the home government for the permanent retention of the settlement should be received, effectually have retarded the success of the establishment. The high price realised for the land offered for sale by Capt. Elliot does not invalidate our position, for, instead of the 100 lots promised to be offered on that occasion, only 34 were put up, by which of course a much greater competition arose than could reasonably have been expected: much of the high price given for the land may be ascribed to the novelty of the sale, and much to the great wealth and commercial profits of the bidders, who many of them, however, when the excitement was over, we have heard to wonder themselves how they could have been brought to offer sums of money much exceeding the probably value of the land. "An old resident" says that, had Captain Elliot continued in office, he would have assured the settlers, that if the island was ever again given up by the British government, compensation would be made. It is very likely, indeed that Capt. Elliot would have given such a promise, for we all very well know that he was by no means reluctant to engage his government in all sorts of responsibilities; but we also know that the government was equally averse to acknowledging them, and that Capt. Elliot, on ascertaining the sentiments of his patrons to be contrary to his promises, might then again, as he did on the 29th of Nov., 1839 in his famous despatch to Lord Palmerston on the subject of the Opium claims, perhaps try to persuade the home government, that indeed those who had built their houses or their godowns at Hongkong at his instigation, were not deserving the consideration of the crown; and he might perhaps again find arguments why the relinquishment of their houses and property could not be a real loss to the possessors, as, had they retained them, they would have been losers to the extent of 2 or 300 per cent. Such was the official conduct of a man who it is attempted to put on a par with Sir Stamford Raffles! But, if in intellect and capacity and political integrity it were little honor to the memory of Sir Stamford Raffles to be compared to Capt. Elliot, it must be confessed that the comparison itself as to their enterprises is misplaced, for the circumstances under which Singapore and Hongkong sprung into existence, are so widely different, that with the exception of both having been but little inhabited and known islands, we do not see what analogy can be detected in their occupation. The object of Sir Stamford was, after Java had been restored to the Dutch, to found a Colony at which the great trade of Polynesia might be concentrated to the advantage of his country. After long and mature consideration Singapore was selected, and purchased from its owner. We need not now enter into the unprecedented success of that establishment, which with a perfectly safe roadstead, a healthy climate, and its unrivalled situation, soon attracted the commerce of that part of the world it was intended it should, and proved how correct Sir Stanford's discernment had been. Singapore was an island many miles remote from any populous country, and had to create a commerce, which had not hitherto existed. Its progress was slow at first; but sure. Its population had to be gradually collected from many parts of the known world. Europe and India sent their merchants; the Malabar coast her boatmen and traders; the adjacent terra firma and islands a Malay population anxious to earn an easier subsistence than they had been hitherto accustomed to; from China came the cultivators of the soil, the artificers and laborers, and even Arabia sent her inhabitants to swell the numbers of this motley population. Soon the port was visited by numerous native fleets from Celebes and Borneo, from Sumatra and Java, and the hundreds of smaller islands in their neighbourhood. Junka from Siam, from Cochinchina, and China made it the staple for their trade, and at the present day Singapore may be considered as the heart, from which issue the arteries that supply the commerce which connects Polynesia with the South of Eastern Asia and even the rest of the world. How very different indeed from Singapore are the circumstances under which Hongkong is now colonized, and how very different the degree of credit due to the promoters of either!

Circumstances over which, certainly Capt. Elliot had no control, and which would probably without his interference have arisen, and possibly assumed the same shape, and drawn after them the same consequences, ruined the British trade at Canton. Great Britain resented the indignities her officers and subjects had suffered, and sent out a large force to demand satisfaction. We all know in what manner the forces of the first expedition were flattered away, how the Chinese were allowed to amuse the pseudo Sir Stamford with diplomatic notes, which sent him from one end of the empire to its other extremity, and how, after all, the result of eight months negotiation was, not the attainment of the objects proposed by the Expedition, but a treaty the provisions of which fell far short of the most reasonable expectations. This treaty was subsequently disavowed on both sides; on that of China because her vanity and perhaps interests, by the cession of territory, however, valueless hitherto, were deeply wounded, and she had not yet learnt a proper estimate of her antagonist; by England, because it gave to that power so much less than she had demanded, and than her great exertions gave her a right to expect. Comparing the preparations of England, for obtaining redress, with the Chuenpee treaty, the old adage naturally obtrudes itself—Parturient montes, nascitur ridiculus mus.

But to return to the establishment on Hongkong; the treaty having become null and void, the island which had been taken possession of under it, was retained by force, and became British by right of conquest, unbacked by any conditions, which, had the treaty remained in force, would have very considerably interfered with the commercial success of the settlement. That it now promises to become a free port, where no duties whatever are to be levied is a circumstance for which no credit can be due to Capt. Elliot who had stipulated with the Chinese Government, that the same duties as at Whampoa should be levied by them at Hongkong, and if this stipulation had been acted on it is probable that very little of the Canton trade, or trade of any kind indeed, would have gone to Hongkong. As soon as circumstances permitted, after the island had been taken possession of, a needy population from the neighbourhood was drawn thither by a most profuse expenditure of the public money. A road at vast expense was cut through the island, government buildings were commenced, and the whole of the British forces being at anchor in the Bay, the Chinese soon commenced supplying them with all necessities, by which a considerable trade was created. How different then is Hongkong in the beginning from Singapore, which had not a single one of these extraneous advantages; where the government from the beginning most scrupulously balanced income and expenditure, and where even to this day, we believe, there are no buildings belonging to government, but the small police office, a jail, barracks, a battery, and a bungalow on a hill! It is the great expenditure of the public money which in the first instance draw towards Hongkong the population we now find there; that expenditure has continued; and during the last six months the many buildings now erecting on private account, have caused it to increase, and to be still increasing. Yet, to say that success has attended the new settlement, and to compare it on that score with Singapore is, at the least, premature; every cash now spent by the Hongkong population is an outlay for which as yet no return whatever has been made, although we ourselves have little doubt, that very soon trade, unconnected with the mere consumption of Hongkong, will be transacted there, and that as long at least, as the differences between England and China shall remain unsettled, a great part of the commerce of Canton will find its way to the new settlement; which, if retained after peace shall have been concluded, will probably continue to carry on a considerable trade with many parts of the coast of Canton, Fokien, and perhaps Chekiang, and very likely many of the junks that now visit Singapore, will find it more to their advantage to go to a market nearer home. These however are expectations which time only can realize; the "unexampled success" which we are told, has attended the settlement, has up to the present hour merely consisted in drawing together, from a country overflowing with human beings, a mass of population glad to earn their portion of the large sums of money expended by government and on private account, and the same sort of success would have been met with anywhere with the same means and where labour was equally abundant. After the town shall have been built, we fear it will be somewhat difficult again to get rid of a great portion of that population, which now finds employment there, but which will soon again sink to its former state of pauperism.

If no comparison can therefore properly be made between the motives which called Hongkong and Singapore into existence, nor between their respective success, as owing to such different causes, we may yet compare the locality of the two islands, and the advantages or disadvantages they possess. Singapore is avowedly established on the best possible spot; the roads are so safe that a disaster there from bad weather to the shipping is unknown; the climate of the town is very healthy, and the island itself capable of producing even more than a sufficiency for the support of the town, and would long ere this have done it, had not injudicious land regulations discouraged the culture of the soil. These regulations have been amended, and the jungle is fast disappearing from the face of the island, and sugar, coffee, spices, rice, pepper, and gambier are now cultivated with success. With the exception of a fine harbour, Hongkong, we fear, will not be found to offer the same advantages. The present site of the town is a narrow stripe on the margin of the Bay, from which the hills rise abruptly to a great height, immediately behind. To prepare the ground for building, in most situations, is immensely expensive, and the island, consisting of nothing but hills rising abruptly, and covered with coarse ferns, will never be able to produce except a very small part of the food consumed in the town, for the valleys capable of yielding crops are very few and small. We are indeed told that the rearing of South American camels on Hongkong was likely to answer, and that their wool might supply China with Camlets; we might wish as much justice, and in a similar spirit of exaggeration recommend rabbits as the only stock likely to find a scanty subsistence there. As regards the climate of the town, we are without the necessary experience to guide us to a safe judgment; there existed last year during the warm weather a good deal of fever and ague, and many of the Bengal troops died; but the former may have been caused by exposure to the sun, and the latter happened in consequence of the malaria encountered in the fields near Canton, and does not afford a criterion to judge by. During the winter the health of the inhabitants of Hongkong has been good. It must however be observed that high hills exclude the southerly breezes from the town altogether, and that the heat during summer is likely to be excessive.

We do believe that spots better qualified for a town than the present site of Hongkong could have been found; the opposite shore, for instance, at Kowloon, so memorable for the poultry fight in September 1839, offers a fine level space, whereon a town might have been built, and where the climate from its being open to the southerly winds, would very probably be found preferable.

We find that our observations have already run to a greater length than we intended, and as we may again be accused of being incited by a clique inimical to Hongkong, we beg to state that we sincerely wish for the success of the new settlement, but that we think it our duty by laying before the public the unvarnished truth, to guard it against being misled by the too highly colored statements published elsewhere.

From the Canton Register, 3rd May.

TRANSLATION.

From the Peking Gazette.

A supplementary report of the minister, Menekinggh (a Manchew.)

He further reported that Tamsui and its neighbouring ports had been strengthened by an addition of 6000 troops. The privy council have already consulted with the six boards, and sent on their report. It is estimated that 3000 men will be removed thither from the province of Chih le (Tientsin is in that province—probably Peking, to the capital of Chih le is indicated, by the name of the province), besides 2800 men who are in the province of Shensi. From each of the thirteen neighboring provinces it is absolutely necessary to raise 2800 men for one year's service in the important and pressing duty of guarding against the barbarians; but fearing time may be lost in selecting, it will be best first to invite by proclamation the experienced and valiant; and when their duties are explained, to distribute them among the cantonments, for the purpose of defence; and let measures for providing them with rations be devised and settled; and so forth.

It is my duty to discriminate in these affairs, respectfully obey, and manage accordingly.

Your minister, have considered that a long time will be required to raise 2800 men from each province. The troops that are first raised by proclamation to join the ranks; should be provisioned the same as the regulars, for their subsistence; and the numbers of eacharrison must be fixed that horse armour may be prepared, and rations supplied. As to the troops of the province of Pecheli (Pekin?), those who are drafted will receive their ordinary rations; but as the climates of the several provinces are different, and as the numbers of the troops raised may be more or less, and if the rations of the troops in the new cantonments are in the same proportion as those who are being transported about, many may be unwilling to be removed, and then it will be necessary to invite by proclamation, to supply the deficiency; and provisions should be prepared for the new troops as they arrive; I have consulted with the treasurer and judge, and find that to supply, arms, ammunitions, and provisions, there is sufficient funds in the treasury.

It is authenticated I have requested 60000 taels for the rations &c. of the new levies, and when all the details are finished, the case will be reported, and if there be any surplus it will be returned into the treasury. A respectful report. The repetition copy has been received. Let it be communicated to the said boards.

(21 year 11 moon 17 day, Dec. 29 1841.)

By J. S. Ed. C. Ar.

TRANSLATION.

From the Peking Gazette.

SUPPOSED CASE OF THE NEARBUDDA.

The Imperial will has been received as follows; To Hung Ho and others, have sent up a document memorialising in relation to their having sunk a barbarian ship, seized barbarians, and captured their great guns. From the 9th moon to the present (10th moon) barbarian ships have been coming and going to and from the Formosan offing, incoherently wandering about and then casting anchor, regarding which the said high officers have already repeatedly given orders that rigorous measures be adopted for preventing such proceedings. At 5 o'clock on the morning of the 11th of the present moon a barbarian ship sailed into the port and when opposite the Sha Wan fort commenced an attack with her great guns. The advisory general Yeu Chin King and others having made ready, straightway opened fire, and being opposite to the said ship their shot with thundering roar took effect and overwhelmed her in the water. In the strife he was aided by Tao Kio and others who were also at Shawan. When Yeu Chin King with his own hand had fired off the gun, he forthwith beheld the inside of the barbarian ship split and her ropes part, when her retreating out of the port, she was dashed against the rocks and broke in pieces, and a vast many of the barbarians falling into the water immense numbers were drowned. Those who reached the shore got into a boat and attempted to escape, but our high officers made ready, took soldiers, and proceeding in a boat in pursuit caught alive and put to death a great many black barbarians. Another officer was also employed who stationed himself in a vessel and proceeded out to sea, and putting forth his exertions seized alive many names of black barbarians and beheld the white barbarians plunge into the sea of their own accord. At this juncture also the high officer Chio-lai opened fire from his vessel and sunk a ship's boat, put to death all the white barbarians, and brought off alive very many of the black barbarians and secured alive many of the black rebels, and having secured the guns and found a valuable chart.

Thus then the civil and military officers, and the patriotic among the people have made a public numerical statement as follows;

Killed white barbarians, five men.
ditto red barbarians, five.
ditto black barbarians, twenty two-men.

Captured alive 123 black barbarians.
ditto ten large barbarians, guns.
ditto barbarians, books & other such like articles.
In the conducting of this affair, that such vigorous exertions were put forth, is matter for highest congratulation.

To hung ho, the Commander in chief of all the Formosan divisions, is rewarded by his Imperial Majesty with being allowed to exchange his Peacock's feather for a two eyed flowery one, and the Formosan Intendant of circuit is rewarded with being allowed to wear a plain flowery feather. Let the merits of the other officers and brave men be represented to the high Ministers at Peking, and the Emperor will make the awards. And let the wounded and killed be clearly enumerated, that out of commiseration, their families may be rewarded. Let the same officers retain their stations, as Formosa, and let thorough preparations be every where kept up.

RESPECT THIS.—Friends of China.
From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, April 23.

PROCLAMATION.

The letter, of which a copy is herewith annexed, having been addressed to me by the mercantile firms who have signed it, on behalf of themselves and others, I do hereby direct and proclaim, in conformity with their application, that, pending the gracious pleasure of the queen of England, the Mexican and other republican dollars shall be taken as, and considered to be, the standard in all government and mercantile transactions at Hongkong, and other places in China, in the occupation of her majesty's forces, unless at the time of such transactions taking place, it should be expressly specified to the contrary.

And I do further announce, that the present proclamation is not to be taken in any way or shape as affecting the provisions of the one which I promulgated on the twenty ninth day of last month relative to the circulating medium on the island of Hongkong.

God save the Queen.
Dated at Hongkong, government house, this 27th day of April, 1842

(Signed) HENRY POTTINGER.
J. ROBT. MORRISON.
By order Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

To His Excellency
SIR HENRY POTTINGER, BART.
&c. &c. &c.

Sir,—With reference to the existing scarcity of the Spanish Pillar Dollar, and the certain further diminution of that currency in consequence of the coinage having ceased. We beg leave suggest to your excellency the eligibility of making the Mexican and other Republican dollars, the standard in all government and mercantile transactions at Hongkong or other places in China in the occupation of her majesty's forces.

It is the general wish of the mercantile community in China to adopt the Republican dollar as the general standard of value, as soon as circumstances may admit of their doing so but they are clearly of opinion that some time must elapse before the Chinese will be brought to abolish the distinction between the different coins, and in the meantime they conceive an early public intimation from government to the effect suggested would tend to accelerate and facilitate the measure.

Sir, your most obedient servants,
(Signed) JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
DENT & Co.
FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.
MACVICAR & Co.

Macao, 4th April, 1842.

True copy J. ROBT. MORRISON,
Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTICE.

Any persons having representations to lay before the land committee, are hereby required to send in written statements of their cases without delay, else they will not be taken into consideration. By order

GEO. F. MYLIUS.—Land officer,
Hongkong, Land office, April 27th, 1842.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED

27, H. M. S. Calliope, Capt Kuper, Calcutta.
29, (P) Margarida, Aquino, Singapore.
30, (B) William Hughes, Abbot, Sydney.
May.

3, (B.) Castle Huntly, Reddie, Bombay.
3, " Pestal, Young, Bombay.
3, " Falcon, Baker, Calcutta
6, " Regie, Wilson, Chusan
6, (Du.) Orion, Batavia.
6, H. C. S. Tmeserim, Calcutta & Sing.

SAILED

29, (Parr.) Ana, Riestro, Lima.
May.
3, (B.) Forth, Baxter, London.
3, " Cecilia, Campbell, Singapore.

4, S. R. Crawford, Robertson, Singapore.
4, Queen Arab. Ainly, Liverpool.
4, U. S. S. Boston Capt Long, Manila.
5, (B.) John Henwick, Morgan, London.
7, Reliance, Green, London.
7, J. H. Pates, Moullins, London.
7, (Swed.) Janica Boorman, Rimmer, Hamburg.

The Montague, from Bombay bound for China was lost near the coast of Luconia. Crew saved and arrived at Manila—further particulars have not yet reached us.

UNDER DESPATCH

For England,—Nimrod
For Sing. & Cal.—Mor, Juverna.
For Bombay,—Lady Leith.

Arrived in England,—11th Jan, Fortitude, Lombock, Falmouth; Laura, Lombock, Gravesend; 18th, Earl of Clare, China, Portsmouth; 26th, Isabella Watson, China, Margate; Recovery, China, Bristol, Feb. 1st, Candahar, China, Liverpool; 2d Brulah, China, Brighton.

Sailed from England,—Jan. 7th, Thomas Coutts, Wade, China; H. M. S. Thalia, Hope, China, Portsmouth; 23d, H. M. S. Dido, Keppell, China; 28th, Sir Robert Peel, Somes, China, Portland.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Ann Birdon, Anna Eliza, Dovecot, Borussia, John Christian, Guinare, Bengalee, Devon.

From Bombay,—Corair, Caledonia, Drongen, Bombay Royal Suez, Margaretha

From Calcutta,—Lawrence, Sea Queen, Fortescue, Anna Watson, Pantaloon.

From Singapore—John Cree, Gratitude.
LATEST DATES,
ENGLAND, 4th Feb. SINGAPORE, 24th April
UNITED STATES, Dec. 29, MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 24th March. AMOY, 26th April.
BOMBAY, 20th Feby. CHUSAN, 26th April.
JAVA, 2d April.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arun, Packet	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Austria, Hill,	208	Hill,
Arrow,		Geare,	Jardine M. & Co.
Arduer,		Manciny,	Macvicar & Co.
*Ann,	271	Mescaline,	Gribble Hughes & Co.
Abbot's Reading,		Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Chusan,		Laird,	Dent and Co.
Columbine,		Major,	H. Pybus.
Castle Huntly,		Reddie,	Macvicar & Co.
Eleonora,		Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Falcon,		Blaker,	H. Rustomjee.
Georgiana,
Hygiea,	478	Woodbury,	C. Fearon.
John Horton,		Cunningham,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Javarna,		Grundy,	Wetmore & Co.
Lomax,		Forgan,	Dent and Co.
Lady Hayes,		Peterson,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Lady Leith,		Lewis,
Mahamoodie,		Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly,		Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,		Carr,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Mor,		Methuen,
*Nimrod,	470	Manning,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,		Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Regular,	389	Budd,	Turner and Co.
Rob Roy,		Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Royal Exchange,	155	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
Rosa,		Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Saipa,		Morton,	Hugheson Brothers.
Sir Robt Peel,		Craig,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Vesta,		Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer,		Smith,
Wild Irish Girl,		Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
William Hughes,		Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston, Commander Long.
*Akbar, Damarac Russell and Co.
Panama, —
*Henry Pratt, —
*Cayuga, —
*Fornum, —
*Horatio, — Levant, —
Ann MacKinn, —

DUTCH.

Orion, —, Reynvaan & Co.

* at Whampoa.

SUPPLEMENT.

STATEMENT OF THE QUANTITIES OF TEA AND RAW SILK EXPORTED, from 1st July, 1841 to 30th April, 1842.

Black Tea, lbs.

Green Tea, lbs.

DATE.	SHIPS.	PORT.	Tons.	Bobas.	Congou	Caper	Sou chong	Sorts	Hong Muey	Pekoe	Orange Pekoe	Twan-kay	Hysan	Hysan Skin	Young Hysan	Gunpowder	Imperial	Total 1841.
July 15	Apolline ..	London	492	41645	416268	6974	3901	..	2812	13490	14695	7968	18809	5191	3716	531999
Oct 17	City of Derry	413	..	245937	1152	7810	19318	15139	37911	47513	7391	7391	8134	5092	403066
Aug. 27	Thomas Lowry	450	..	52881	8408	6270	371883	16101	1457	1611	9788	6267	472612
..	Beulah	500	..	208633	17549	192296	68629	23063	19914	53973	32749	618905
Sept. 23	Simon Taylor	431	..	172058	..	59303	10311	143944	123633	13259	46761	19512	16444	605219
..	Candahar ..	Liverpool	680	..	365014	..	12696	11461	26946	163429	34233	2355	35150	63157	30192	746533
Aug. 31	Isabella Watson ..	London	434	..	338593	74168	57481	17625	..	70936	48483	22764	624890
Sept. 20	Asia	523	..	64123	..	17925	125888	302858	..	2142	82068	60853	674994	..
Oct. 9	Agnes	300	13520	133169	4692	8798	1895	5534	1248	2869	45881	30079	44258	32755	68044	18866	411519
..	Agathia ..	Liverpool	350	..	389791	21204	13563	8136	6240	411926
Sept. 23	Eusorah Merchant ..	London	531	..	8066	2640	2640	159832	58713	31768	168389	22510	15250	470007
Oct. 2	Greyhound	317	138218	127900	7069	4987	327980
..	1st. Mungo	342	..	67118
..	Neptune	641	18833	153860	..	19933	1333	14390	124622	..	15120	130085	81033	421648
..	Peang ..	Liverpool	347	284702	54777	..	121	54704	..	84805	156404	8553	219643	35686	15686	768292
Nov. 8	Ann Jane ..	London	302	..	391051	18494	..	22440	9853	38923	15029	430441
..	13 Fatima	373	..	327317	2926	30100	34076	42962	12326	12716	406093
..	10 Blakely	330	..	153463	..	16262	..	15289	73143	1095	12438	26610	..	6643	17165	21076	482204
..	4 Forfarshire	600	..	662019	3703	17964	1989	49238	30990	379503
..	16 Litherland ..	Liverpool	385	..	315926	17056	12019	4017	716778
..	17 Ann ..	London	789	..	331297	..	14458	1619	..	71276	7897	229810	90811	28945	127400	72205	36774	1015462
..	27 Eiza Stewart	442	..	475088	10628	67922	..	2655	19123	56266	16019	35	1097	1928	6304	1976	688788
Dec. 6	Mauritius	329	..	289199	..	52319	29631	..	33109	3227	..	3000	12746	9843	432776
..	John Tomkinson	260	..	104340	6365	..	11888	..	14627	16038	36872	725	2861	10847	28581	86394	328114
..	Gondalier ..	Glasgow	343	..	493194	5313	..	5664	..	6530	1303	7398	8152	813	764	838631
..	Stork ..	London	300	..	333417	..	26500	359917
..	John Bartlett ..	Leith	323	..	415180	520	..	5824	..	3088	11884	7398	3824	560	869	453155
..	Thomas King ..	London	346	..	391325	..	85	6193	3749	3570	9938	..	60	419235
..	Posthumous	390	..	587901	14106	869	940	2395	1767	607889
..	Ellen	440	110322	218156	3889	..	39744	..	988	30733	430832
..	General Kyd	1318	..	138680	..	50156	25330	35094	10785	..	79661	7752	24539	18198	2510	3078	1683158
1842.
Jan. 5	Elephanta	310	231731	4000	..	67	65051	..	13000	583	14772	9397	837501
..	John O'Gaunt ..	Liverpool	490	..	498008	20587	..	1000	9645	..	7070	4328	5320	1094	1214	548364
..	Thomas Sparks ..	London	437	..	602401	..	3344	..	10158	..	5400	..	7883	2480	5021	1170	1097	618954
..	Alexander Baring	505	..	529957	..	48690	7175	16115	42662	17850	..	28802	23247	17181	717785
..	Young Queen ..	Liverpool	288	..	388831	..	390	11803	..	3849	580	443	485896
..	Samuel Winter ..	London	313	..	388954	15566	21509	5052	2399	433179
..	Doe of Northum	541	..	778773	..	25876	..	24537	..	32369	18343	3036	..	42974	10019	..	629189
..	Parkfield [herland	486	72680	412459	..	35256	12453	9304	6769	314809
..	Fenn	303	83000	185566	9567	..	8857	29293	629189
..	Sorbia	489	..	636183	..	8649	121	409348
Feb. 9	Many Ann Webb ..	Cork	339	36943	21806	6485	..	1312	2709	1635	656958
..	Rajah	353	540561	409348
..	Slains Castle ..	London	504	..	572054	16940	9012	7109	..	541800
..	Indus	351	..	477296	..	230	411	..	2576	8551	..	24423	..	18588	6920	6431	639833
..	Pestonjee Boman	595	..	586761	..	82500	7288	3621	1713	492607
..	Earl Grey	571	..	393548	5819	105258	6892	3116	21104	30673	795702	..
March 7	Louisa Baillie	415	..	421063	500	462797	..	8424	870586
..	Cordelia ..	Liverpool	378	..	431752	10534	..	3358	..	7150	24088	24789	..	5593	..	11940	..	824889
..	John Bibby ..	London	649	..	601004	7879	5127	186	..	11892	..	10250	..	570	5877	819104
..	Pearl	394	..	448128	..	21769	3164	33180	10910	10311	..	6128	844128
..	Autumnus ..	Cork	323	..	396728	..	3300	860139
April 1	Sappho	388	..	253193	4448	3310	450	..	8025	6650	139478	1785	4354	4837
..	Euphrates ..	London	617	..	390947	11968	9093	3669	..	20028	53285	24128	65412	8278	34385	17019
..	John Beawick	403	..	297562	1563	14262	52354	61273	13132	15552	20729	19651	602098
Total Export from 1st July 1841, to 30th April, 1842, in 45 vessels			24283	1816345	19453759	129367	385628	77340	132904	477757	636802	2777568	1684224	271583	1102801	1928897	616236	30701108 760

Statement of Tea exported to the United States, from 1st July to date as follows.

Total Black ..	22 132,436	Young Hysan ..	71,051 Chests.
.. Green ..	7,491,309	Hysan ..	6,960
.. Sorts ..	77,340	Hysan Skin ..	13,137
Grand total, lbs.	30 791,105	Twan-kay ..	5,494
		Gunpowder ..	5,790
		Imperial ..	4,518
		Congou ..	3,046
		Souchong ..	15,015
		Powchong ..	5,972
		Pekoe ..	594

From the Canton and Macao General Price Current, 3d May, 1842.

May 2nd. Total 137,888 Chests.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 33.] Macao, Saturday, 14th May, 1842.

[No. 335.]

AUCTION.

AT the Factory of Sr. FELIPPE JOZE DE FREITAS, "Praya Manduco," P. J. MARÇAL begs to inform the Public that he will sell by Public Auction to the highest bidder, on Monday next the 16th instant at 11 o'clock A. M.

A 54-inch Chain Cable, 100 fathoms in length, a large Anchor weighing about 50 cwt., 4 large Spars measuring 60, 64, 65, and 71 feet long, 6 Coils of Hemp Hawser for Shrouds, measuring 6½, 7½, 8, and 8½ inch, and a 4 oared London Wherry by "Searle."

Macao, 12th May, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNMAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co., having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

(Sd.) GEORGE MARTIN.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
C. CARNIE
ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
P. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCALES DRYSDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.
LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
W. W. DALE.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Honwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUOS, or to

C. FEARON, Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

TO MERCHANTS &c.

A GENTLEMAN lately arrived in China is desirous of obtaining a situation in a Mercantile establishment as Clerk, Warehouseman, or Corresponding Clerk; he has for years been similarly employed, and can give the most undeniable references as to his respectability and qualification. Applications addressed to S. J. C. care of Messrs JARDINE MATHESON & Co., will meet with prompt attention

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "PANTALON," Capt. PORTER, shortly expected, will be dispatched for the above ports about the 20th Inst. For freight or passage apply to

HENRY PYBUS.

Macao, 6th May, 1842.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A 1 Barque "CHUSAN," Capt LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th April, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A 1 British Brig JOHN HORTON, (336 Tons new measurement) Captain O. CUNNINGHAM. Apply to

W. T. KINSLEY—Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.—Macao.

Macao, 14th April, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A 1 British Barque "ANN" 271 tons Register, Capt. McAlpine, now lying at Whampoa and is ready to receive cargo, apply to

GRIBBLE, HUGHES, & Co.

Macao, 18th March, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE new Clipper ARROW, Captain GRANK, H. C. S., now in the Roads. Apply to

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

THE Ship "GENERAL WOOD" receives Goods on demurrage at Hongkong, at 3 p Chest 7 month, and no fee charged on delivery.

THE British Barque "LADY HAYES," receives Goods on demurrage in Macao Roads, at 3 p Chest 7 month, and no fee charged on delivery.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "LEVANT" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BREAD, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARK, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases. SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads. BRANDY and GENEVA do. PALE ALE BARS, do. BEER in tierces, PORK in barrels. COALS, 120 tons. OILMANS Stores late Imports. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; Biscuit and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADEIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEAN CANDLES; best quality Eau de Cologne; apply to

J. A. De SILVA.
at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 4th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hhds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allison's fine PALE ALE in Hhds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHALSAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SHOGAS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SULTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to

JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also RUSSIA CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to

J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to

B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTTA, price one Dollar. ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese; with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTTA, price two dollars. THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the London Mail, 4th February.

PARLIAMENT.

The business of the Session was commenced in the House of Lords by the Marquis of Abercorn, who rose to move the address. His Lordship called especially the attention of the House to that portion of the speech which referred to the state of the national finances. With respect to the Corn Laws, he rejoiced to find that the question would be taken into early consideration; and after feelingly adverting to the great prevalence of distress in the manufacturing districts, and urging the necessity of instant legislation for its relief, his Lordship concluded by reading the address, which as usual, took up the same points as the Speech from the Throne.

Lord Dalhousie seconded the motion, and congratulated their Lordships upon the happy event which had added so much to the domestic felicity of the Sovereign.

Lord Melbourne observed, with reference to the topics contained in the address, that it was a good omen for a country, when those who had the management of it entertained a good opinion of the state of the affairs which they had to conduct. His Lordship adverted particularly to the aspect of affairs in China, which appeared, he said, to have made a sudden and surprising step towards a satisfactory termination; since the occasion on which the now President of the Board of Trade declared such a termination to be impossible. His Lordship then remarked upon the proposed alteration in the Corn Laws, and expressed his hope, that whatever measures Her Majesty's Government might adopt on that subject, it would not for a moment entertain the project of continuing to shroud a system as the sliding scale.

The Earl of Ripon, in reply to Lord Melbourne's charge of his having stated his belief on a former occasion that the wars in China and in Persia were not likely to be satisfactorily concluded, justified his statement with regard to the former country, and denied having made it with reference to the latter.

Lord Brougham declared his satisfaction at the intimation of an intention to propose a revision of the Corn Laws. He was convinced, however, that the only safe mode of dealing with the subject was by a total repeal of all restrictions—gradual, indeed, in its progress, but total in its result. In connexion with the treaty which had been concluded for the suppression of the slave trade, his Lordship remarked upon the circumstances which had attended the recent capture of the Creole. He contended that the slaves had only acted in the exercise of a natural right. A life had been lost in the scuffle which obtained them success, and eight of the slaves had been imprisoned on a charge of piracy and murder; but if a demand were made for the surrender of these slaves, compliance would be unlawful.

Lord Fitzwilliam felt much gratified at finding that the measure for which he had laboured unsuccessfully was now to be submitted to the House, by a Ministry which owed its possession of the office entirely to the agricultural interest; but he feared that but little would after all be effected, although the Duke of Buckingham had, in consequence of the intentions of his colleagues, felt himself compelled to retire from the Cabinet.

The Duke of Wellington had no doubt that he could easily clear himself from the charge of inconsistency, but he thought that he ought not at that stage of the discussion to be more explicit as to the nature of the intended change.

The Duke of Buckingham declared that his opinions upon the Corn Laws had undergone no alteration; that a measure had been proposed by his late colleagues on the subject which he found it impossible to support, and that as an honest man he had no alternative but to retire from the Ministry. On no other question had there been the slightest difference of intention, and although upon that one point they were opposed, yet every other measure which Her Majesty's Government might bring forward, and which would conduce to the interests of the country, should have his cordial support.

The motion for the address was then agreed to and their Lordships shortly afterwards adjourned.

In the House of Commons Lord March moved the address. He urged the necessity of providing a revenue which should be equal to our necessary expenditure, and protested against the false and foolish economy of crippling the nation in its means of defence. On the subject of the Corn Laws, he must say that he preferred to see their revision undertaken by those who would give a just protection to agriculture—(and the landed interests desired no more)—than a party, some of whom were for a fixed duty of 8s., and some for the removal of all protection whatever.

Mr. Breckin seconded the address, and dwelt with some enthusiasm on the birth and baptism of an Heir to the Throne; and felt it his painful duty to declare that at some distress had widely increased.

Mr. Ewart was particularly anxious for a reduction of the duties on sugar and on coffee. He feared that the plan contemplated by government on the subject of the Corn Laws, were not very likely to involve any arrangement which would increase our export of manufactures to America, and bring hither the coin of that continent in return. He was anxious to see the sliding scale abandoned; and would rejoice to find Sir Robert Peel now prepared to change his commercial policy, as he had formerly changed his views upon religious exclusion.

Lord John Russell expressed his concurrence in several points of the address, particularly in the expressions of congratulation on the Prince's birth—of gratification at the Prussian Monarch's visit—of satisfaction at the state of our foreign relations. He was glad, too, to find that the subjects to which Ministers had called the attention of Parliament, were of the same nature which it had been the pride of the late Government to bring forward. He was of opinion that the disorder of the public finances required correction; but that this matter ought not to be considered except in conjunction with the laws affecting trade. Remedies very different from those advanced by the late Government had been lately suggested. Delegates on the question of the Ten Hours' Bill had been received by the present Ministers in a somewhat theatrical style—some of which delegates turned out, after all, to be the editors of Socialist newspapers—and restrictions on labour had been proposed, which he was glad Sir R. Peel was prepared to resist, since the concession of them would have gone to the root of all manufacturing industry in England. Schemes of emigration too had been started; but he had collected that they were not encouraged by the Colonial Secretary. The repeal of the Poor law had been threatened, or at least an abrogation of the Commission; but the recent appointment of a Commissioner refuted that apprehension. He was glad to find that instead of any of these remedies, the measures contemplated were not materially at variance with those wholesome principles which the late Government had left as a legacy to the nation. Into the subject of the Corn-laws he would now enter in detail; but he must press the principle of fixed duty; and he begged Sir R. Peel to consider the ill consequence of making an arrangement which would presently be disturbed by fresh discontent and agitation. He was not prepared to promise his assent to new taxation: his own opinion was, that it would be more proper to try a modification of our commercial system, and await its effects upon our exchequer. He saw nothing, however, in the present address which ought to preclude the unanimous concurrence of the House.

Sir Robert Peel was gratified, but not surprised, at this expression of unanimity. Ministers thought it desirable to avoid forcing the House of Commons, on the first night of a session, into any pledge upon precise measures, which gentlemen had not yet the opportunity of knowing and considering. On the subject of the treaty with Persia, the most cordial cooperation had been given on the part of Russia; and with respect to the United States, he rejoiced that Lord Ashburton had consented to undertake a mission necessary for the termination of all differences. Lord Russell had adverted to several supposed remedies for the present distresses of our own people. Ministers had certainly received the delegates on the Ten Hours Bill, whom the noble Lord described as Socialists, but whatever the political opinions of those parties might be, at least they had not been encouraged to hope for the high honour of a presentation to Her Majesty. Having given notice for the 9th of a motion on the Corn Laws, he would not anticipate that discussion. He had wished to bring on the financial and commercial policy of the country both together, but was withheld by a consideration of the public interest. He would, however, make his financial statement as soon as the House should have voted so much of the supply as would be necessary for the public service and for the ascertainment of the amount of revenue to be raised. It would then be for the House itself to decide whether it would ratify the measures of the Government, or adopt some others to be proposed by those who dissented from the views of himself and his colleagues.

Mr. Villiers would avail himself of the earliest opportunity to take the sense of the House respecting the principle of taxation upon food. Mr. Escott hoped that Ministers would bring forward a measure which should settle the Corn question, with a view to the interests of all. The Address was then carried without a division.

LYNCH LAW IN TEXAS.—The terrible practice of Lynch Law, instead of decreasing, in the south is evidently spreading far and wide. Men are now Lynched by dozens instead of singly; and their murderers appear to progress in the very refinement of cruelty. And the pestilential influence of the recent horrible murders on the Arkansas and other United States rivers has caused the practice of Lynching to break forth with renewed fury in Texas, where it has apparently slept for the previous year. And we find recorded in the Texas papers nearly a dozen of these murders, that have occurred, and undoubtedly there have been more than as many more. In Shelby county, two citizens have been shot down, and several houses burned by a party of outlaws. In Red River, two men have been hanged as horse-thieves, without judge or jury. In Washington county, one man has been shot down, under the pretence that he was a murderer. In Austin county two men were killed, and two hostile parties were in arms for several days, taking the laws in their own hands. In Jefferson county, two men have been killed, and the house of one of them burned to the ground by a party, self-styled, regulators. And all this in the space of a year. If the press would do its duty fearlessly, the officers of the law would be compelled to punish the perpetrators of these outrages, and then—but not till then—would they cease.

The new skating room at Jenkins's nursery-ground in the New-road, bids fair to become the rage, and we shall, probably, shortly see a skating room as indispensable an appendage to a country house, as a billiard room. The ice appears to be some species of saponaceous mixture, and looks as if it had been laid down in blocks of about two square feet each. Several of the crack skaters have tried it lately; ladies attend daily. Sir William Newton, the doyen of the skating club, pronounces it better than bad ice, but inferior to the best; but, at all events, it is one of the most extraordinary inventions that has astonished the natives of London for some years.

Commissioner Liu and his favorite wife have been added to the collection of the portraits in wax of Madame Tussaud. The figures are as large as life, and were modelled by a Chinese artist at Canton.

March Overland Mail.

From the Sing-Free Press, Calcutta, of 29th April.

The Steamer Auckland, arrived yesterday from Bombay the 14th instant, with the Overland Mail, bringing intelligence to the 4th of March. We give below the most interesting extracts from our files just received.

Commercial advices from England are, we understand, anything but cheering.

In America great difficulty it appears exists in raising funds—and Gerrard & Co the great Bankers of New York have failed.

H. M. S. Endymion, Hon'ble F. W. Gray, Commander, also arrived yesterday from Calcutta the 7th inst.

We regret to hear the failure of Messrs Gilmore & Co.

THE INDIA MAILS.

The Bombay Mail of January 1st, via Marseilles, arrived in London on February 8th, with dates from Calcutta, December 22d; Madras, December 23d; China, November 14th.

INDIAN HOME INTELLIGENCE.

The late firm of Magniac, Smith & Co., having admitted W. Jardine, Esq. M. D., late of China, the firm is now Magniac, Jardine & Co.

Colchester has been declared a warehouse port for tea, sugar, coffee, fruits, and other dry goods.

We have been highly gratified by an inspection of a very magnificent service of plate just completed by Messrs Mortimer and Hunt, and which is intended as a present to Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Esq., of Bombay, by William Jardine and James Matheson, Esqs. The two principal pieces the candelabra have inscribed on them the following:—"Presented to Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Esq. of Bombay, by William Jardine and James Matheson, of Canton, as a mark of their sincere friendship, and to commemorate their admiration of his liberality in business, pure philanthropy, and extensive benevolence." There are also on the base of the candelabra two clasps representing the great services rendered by this gentleman in relieving the inhabitants of Surat at the time of conflagration, he having distributed both food and clothing with an unsparing hand. The service is for twenty four persons, and of the value of 3,000!

Messrs James Cockburn & Co., of Broad street, East India merchants, not having succeeded in arranging with their creditors, have been declared insolvents in the Gazette of 15th of February.

The Venerable Archdeacon Robinson, D. D., late of Madras, is to be appointed Bishop of Malta and Gibraltar, with clerical superintendence of the British possessions in the Mediterranean.

Sir Charles Metcalfe, bart., whose government of Jamaica has been one of unparalleled popularity, is to be succeeded by the Earl of Elgin.

Capt. Rogers of the Bombay Marine, has been appointed Master Attendant at Calcutta.

The successful voyage of the India from Calcutta to Suez has given the utmost satisfaction in this country to all who are interested in comprehensive steam communication. The enquiry is, why the public permitted this vessel to remain so long in India without attempting what she has now so efficiently performed?

Some Nutmegs of very superior quality, grown at Singapore by Dr. Montgomery, have reached England, and been reported fully equal to any yet imported. We believe that these nutmegs will entitle Dr. Montgomery to the premium offered by the Royal Society.

The value of the rich island of Java to the revenue of Holland may be gathered from the fact, that only eight years' labour (1835 to 1841) has brought its produce of coffee from 12 million kilogrammes annually to 55 millions; its sugar from 7 millions to 50 millions; and its indigo, from scarcely anything at all, to upwards of 800,000 kilogrammes.

Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Knight.—Our Indian readers will observe that the distinguished honour of knighthood has recently been conferred on the above individual. Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Knight, is an opulent Parsee merchant of Bombay, as well known to the denizens of that presidency as Rothschild to the city of London. He is as reputed for his intelligence, his acute commercial knowledge, his hospitality, and his boundless munificence, as he is for his enormous wealth and his liberal and enlightened distribution. The precise object of the high distinction, or the paramount merits that elicited it, are unknown to us; but there cannot be a shadow of doubt that the precedent is an excellent one, and will serve not only to exalt the Asiatic character, but urge others to emulate the enterprise and noble liberality of their exemplary countryman. There are many natives in India of unimpeachable integrity, extensive acquirements, and great opulence, who will regard this unprecedented reward of merit in the light of a goal richly worthy of contest. The results of such emulations are incalculable; setting aside the mental amelioration that must ensue, the liberal spirit it will infuse into the native exchequer (Sir Janssee once gave a lac of rupees to establish a native hospital!) it will be no mean tributary to the prosperity of useful public institutions. We accordingly hail with delight this appropriate acknowledgment of private worth, and shall watch with the deepest interest the fruits of so judicious an example.

The India steamer arrived at Suet on the morning of 11th Feb. She left Calcutta on 11th Jan., stopped 24 hours at Madras, 36 at Point de Galle, and 50 at Aden for the purpose of coaling, having thus completed her voyage to Suet, all delays included, in little more than 30 days; the whole distance is about, 4000 miles, and the rate of going averaged 190 miles a day. Her stoppages on the route caused a loss of six days. The letters brought by this vessel have been delivered in London in 6 days from Calcutta, which it seems was the exact time consumed in the instance of the November mail from England to Calcutta in the delivery of the first portion of the Government express, the general delivery being of course some days later; and hence it is inferred by those interested in it that the "comprehensive scheme," when fully matured, will bear the route by way of Bombay. Whether or not this may prove to be the case, the experiment is justly a matter of great interest.

The despatches left Alexandria on 14th and arrived at Marseilles on 23rd Feb.

GENERAL HOME INTELLIGENCE.

Upwards of sixty firms in Manchester, who trace the distress of the cotton trade to the high price of provisions, trace that to the sliding scale, and recommend an early struggle for a fixed duty. Their proofs are certainly demonstrative.

The marriage of Prince Nicholas Esterhazy, eldest son of Prince Esterhazy, and Lady Sarah Villiers, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Jersey, was solemnised on the 8th.

The Marquis of Londonderry has been appointed Lord Lieutenant of the county of Durham. In the place of the late Duke of Cleveland.

It is said, that by the late Duke of Cleveland's death his eldest son, the present Duke, succeeds to 80,000 l. a year. Lord William Poulett has a legacy of 580,000 l. and Lord Harry Vane another of 410,000 l. There is a legacy of 200,000 l. to a grandson; the Dowager Duchess has the Yorkshire estate, the house in Grosvenor square, and an immense amount of plate, jewellery, and furniture. A large portion of the unentailed estates in Durham goes to one of the daughters. His grace, it is said, had 1,250,000 l. in the Three and-a-half per Cent. Consols besides plate and jewellery to the value of a million sterling.

Lord Ashburton embarked at Portsmouth, in the Warspite frigate for New York on the 10th, and dropped down the Channel.

The Thames Tunnel is now completed. Its approaches (circular or turret steps,) on each side are commenced, and the whole will be opened to the public in the third week in April.

If an obscure paragraph in the daily papers is rightly construed, the King of Hanover has refused to allow the Prince of Wales's name to be inserted in the church service in his dominions; though his domestic chaplain is bound to follow the liturgy of the Anglican church in other respects.

It is confidently reported that the Duke of Buckingham, feeling the peculiar delicacy of his position, and being anxious to give his most strenuous opposition to Sir Robert Peel's proposed alteration of the Corn-laws, has refused to accept the Garter; and that it will be offered to the noble mover of the address, the Marquis of Abercorn.

Lord Frederick Beauclerk, who was a passenger on board the Martin steam-packet, and on the point of starting for Liverpool from Kingstown, on the night of the 7th, at half-past 10 p. m., at which hour an unfortunate woman fell between the vessel, and the quay, and was on the point of being drowned, without hesitation jumped overboard, and held her up until assistance was brought, and thus saved her life.

THE FOREIGN OFFICE.—The personnel of the Foreign Department under Lord Aberdeen, including the new appointments made by the resignation of Mr. Under Secretary Backhouse, is as follows:

Under Secretaries, Viscount, Canning and Mr. H. U. Addington; Presses Writer, W. B. Stopford, Esq. Private Secretary to Lord Aberdeen, C. G. Dawkins Esq.; Collector and Transmitter of State Papers, Archdeacon Goddard. In consequence of the press of business relating to the slave-trade, four clerks have been attached to that department. The Hon. S. Ponsonby, son of Viscount Duncannon, and the Hon. C. Spring Rice, son of Lord Montagu, are to retain their appointments as junior clerks.

Mr. Justice Crosswell, the new judge, has since his acceptance of the ermine, returned all his briefs, fees, and retainers in the causes not heard. This is said to be contrary to established practice; if so the practice might be characterised as downright robbery.

Sir Robert Peel has been burned in effigy at Manchester, Leicester, Rochdale, Huddersfield, Nottingham, Derby, and at Hailey and Shelton in the Potteries. At the last place, placards have been put up in several windows, bearing—"No more taxes will be paid here till the Corn laws are repealed."

A joint deputation of merchants and bankers of London and Liverpool, headed by Lord Sander, M. P. had an interview with Sir R. Peel on 19th inst., to urge an amendment of the law relating to advances upon merchandise.

RIGHT OF SEARCH.—We learn from Paris that a delay of four months has been asked and obtained for the French Government to ratify the right of search.

The King of the French has conferred two gold medals on Captains Sharpe and Ward, masters of the Clifford and Ulysse, merchant vessels, in testimony of the services rendered by them to the French frigate Mugiscienne, wrecked in the China Sea in November 1840.

It is rumoured that it is the intention of Government to impose a property tax, probably of 3 per cent. It is undoubtedly Sir Robert Peel's intention to make some material improvements in the Import duties. The West India interest are already suspecting him.

Popular Feeling.—The Duke and Sir Robert are nightly teased as they proceed to the Houses of Parliament. According to the Standard, men in the pay of the "anti-corn law league" are placed about the entrance on purpose.

On the 28th a public meeting, the largest ever known in the borough of Marylebone, took place in the warehouse yard, New road, "for the purpose of denouncing the Government measure on the corn and provision laws, and expressing a want of confidence in the present Administration, or any Administration not having sympathy with the sufferings of the people whilst famine is stalking through the land."

New Members returned.—Mr. W. H. Gregory, for the City of Dublin. Mr. G. Arkwright for Leominster. Sir H. Douglas, for Liverpool. Viscount Bernard, for Brandon. Viscount Newport, for South Shropshire. Viscount Jocelyn for Kings Lynn. Sir T. E. Colebrooke Bart., for Taunton. Mr. J. D. Jackson, for Dublin University. Sir C. Lemon, for the Western division of Cornwall. Hon. Captain Ducombe, for East Bedford. Viscount Archeson, for Armagh. Major-General W. Morrison, (late of Calcutta) for Clackmannan.

The petition against the Sudbury election is stated to be withdrawn. Mr. Maclean, it is rumoured, is about to resign his seat for Oxford.

FRANCE.

There is great agitation in France on the subject of the slave-trade treaty. All rejoice in the firmness of their Ministry in refusing it, and all are boiling with indignation at the foreign powers, who by acting consistently and in union, have again "isolated" France. It is expected that Guizot will dissolve the Chambers, and from a more practicable Parliament obtain leave to ratify the treaty for the exchange of the ratifications on that day in London will, no doubt, give it the title of the treaty of the 19th Feb. In the meanwhile, the right of search stands, with regard to France, as it has done since 1833, when she bound herself to the principle.

A rumour is current that the French Government has discovered a new and formidable plot against the lives of King of the French and his family, and that in consequence the most extraordinary precautions are taken to guard the Tuilleries and the various entrances thereto.

If we may judge by the expression of opinion in France on our affairs in America and Afghanistan, and on the question of the right of search, we should certainly conceive that the French hatred of England was in this, the twenty-seventh year of peace more deadly than ever.

The Paris papers announce a signal triumph of Ministers in the Chamber of Deputies on the preceding day on the motion of M. Dabos for parliamentary reform to which a splendid speech of M. Guizot is said to have mainly contributed. On a division the majority for Ministers was 41.

We are informed on good authority, that a marriage between the Prince Imperial of Russia and the Duke de Bordeaux has been finally determined on by the ex-royal family of France and the Emperor Nicholas. The alliance is said to be the main cause of the bad understanding which at present subsists between the Courts of Tuilleries and of St. Petersburg.

It is positively stated that General Com, the American Minister at Paris, has addressed to M. Guizot a remonstrance against the European treaty intended to sanction the right of search, and that in this document he declares that America will consider as equally guilty with the chief offending power (Great Britain) any government that signs that treaty, which he considers as an overt attack upon the independence of the United States. It is said that M. Guizot's hesitation, we may almost say refusal to sign the treaty, has been induced by this decided remonstrance.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

Admiral Sir Charles Rowley is to succeed Admiral Sir Graham Moore, as the Commander-in-chief at Plymouth, at the latter end of April.

SECRETARIES.—Edward Waller to be Secretary to Rear-Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane; G. Smith to be Secretary to Vice Admiral Sir E. Owen.

The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have very deservingly bestowed three of the good service pensions at their disposal on Captains J. W. Manrice, J. Pasco, and White, natives of Devonport.

Capt. Nicholas, C. B. has been tried by a court martial for grounding the Indivicta, 50, on the Dean-shoal, and "honourably acquitted." The cause of the accident has not been explained; at least so we presume from the following, extracted from the finding:—

"The Court cannot decide with precision on the causes which led to the disaster. They appear to have arisen mainly on some error in the supposed position of the ship when an anchor off the Nab on the morning of the 26th of January last, and in the course intended to be made good whilst under weigh, but it is not proved by evidence that there was any material error or deviation in the compass."

The Indivicta has been repaired with extraordinary dispatch, and is now at Spithead, ready to proceed to China with Rear Adm. Sir T. Cochrane.

The Harlequin, 19, left Madeira for China on the 29th and the North Star, 29 on the 30th Dec.

The Walverine, 16, Com. Johnson, has sailed for China with numerous supernumeraries for the fleet. She is to be followed immediately by the Minden, 72, Capt. McQuinn; the Carysford, 26, Lord G. Paulett, the Ringdove, 16, Com. Sir W. Daniel, and the Driver Steamer, Com. T. F. Harner.

The Implacable, 74, having been found defective, the Agincourt, 84, has been commissioned by Capt. H. W. Bruce, for service in China.

Eighty first and second class boys are on board the Minden for distribution among the China fleet.

ROYAL MARINES.

It is expected that the honourable distinction of "C. B." is about to be conferred upon the gallant Lieut. Colonel Ellis for his services in China, and that of a Brevet Majority upon Captain Whitcomb for his services in the same quarter.

Sir James Alexander, R. M. A. proceeds to China in the Driver. Lieut.-Col. R. Edward, Capt. J. Land, and Lieut. H. H. McCarthy, have been appointed to the Minden. There are also on board Captains Graham and Pearce, Lieutenants Farrar, Pennington, Ren Jones, Allen, and Wilson, with 3 sergeants, 2 drummers, and 130 privates, for China.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR INDIA.—We have heard, on what we consider good authority, that a reinforcement forcement of 5,000 troops is to embark for India with the least possible delay. We hope the report is well founded, for it seems perfectly clear to all experienced soldiers that even three times that number would not be more than the necessity of the case appears to call for. On the other hand, Sir W. Parker is said to have declared that a similar augmentation of seamen and marines is imperatively demanded for the China Expedition.

A rumour has gone the round of the daily papers, stating that the Government immediately intended to raise an additional force of 20,000 men, and that three regiments of Cavalry were to be forthwith ordered to India. We cannot trace this report to any authentic source; but we hear that it is certainly in contemplation to increase the standing Army to some extent, but nothing like what has just been mentioned. We are also informed that the 6th and 7th Dragoon Guards are to be made Light Dragoons for the purpose of taking their tour of duty in India (the same as the 3rd and 4th Dragoons were a few years back.) This is quite fair and proper, as the 6th returned from foreign service so long ago as 1806, and the 7th Dragoon Guards in 1763—whereas all the other heavy Dragoons have had their share of the Peninsular war, and many at Waterloo; and as to the Light Dragoons, they have been continually employed on foreign service to the present day, without an exception. The Horse Guards are now determined to carry out the rotation system to its fullest extent throughout the army.

COMMERCIAL.

RAW SILK.—The principal transactions have centred in public sales, which took place on the 16 and 19th ult. at which 1,700 bales Bengal and 1,011 bales China were brought forward. Of the Bengal the greater portion was sold at about previous rates; the China being held for advanced prices were chiefly bought in or withdrawn.

	Bengal.	China.
Stock 1st March 1841.	4,366 bales.	2,590 bales
1842.	5,873 "	2,145 "

TIN.—The market has been very dull, and at a public sale of 450 tons of English (on account of the Minor's Company) on the 10th ult. prices further declined, and the value of E. I. Tin is again reduced. Sales of Banca are stated to have been made at 72s per cwt. and of Straits at 61s a 62s. The Dutch trading company have declared 36,150 slabs Banca for sale on the 18th and 22d inst., and until the result is known this market will remain inactive.

TEA.—During the last month the market continued steady, with prices a shade higher; and previous to public sales a large amount of business was transacted at full rates, the lowest sound Congou and Twankay fetching 1s 10d per lb. Of 6,200 packages offered on 24th Feb. 3,000, principally green, sold at full prices. Of the 39,000 offered on 1st March 14,000 sold on the two first days at full prices, with an advance on Congous of full 3d over previous sales. Company's Congous 1s 11½d to 1s 11½d.

ARRIVALS IN ENGLAND.

Feb. 4th, St. Lucie, from Lombeck; 7th, Diana, from Singapore; Rubens, from Batavia; 12th, Asia, from China; Singapore, from Singapore; 14th, Harlequin, from do; Simon Taylor, from China; Baker, from Lombeck; 16th, Bussorah Merchant, from China; 18th, Countess of Durham, from Singapore; Zeeuw, from Batavia; Triton, from do; Lucie, from do; Maximilian Theodore, from do; 21st, Naghallen, from China; 23d, Ocean, from Batavia; Elizabeth Anthonie, from do.

DEPARTURES.

Feb. 4th, Anna Eliza, for China; Henriette Claisa, for Batavia; Lewie Nigenstyn, for do; 6th, Martina, for do; James Ewing, for do; 10th, Peruvian, for China; 16th, Malay, for Singapore; 17th, Tannaseeh, for Madras and Penang; 23rd, Henry Woolley, for Singapore.

SHIPS LOADING AT LONDON.

Elizabeth, for Madras and China
Raymond, and Judith Allan, for Hongkong.
Pink, for Singapore and China.
Anna Marian, for China.

SIR ROBERT PEEL'S PROPOSED DUTIES ON CORN.

We propose that when corn is at 50s. and under

51s. in price, the duty of 90s. shall be taken, but that in no case shall that duty be exceeded. We propose that when the price is 51s. and under 52s. the duty shall be 19s.; and after this we propose that there should be what I should call a rest in the scale—that at the three next items of price the duty should be uniform. Thus it would be:—When the price is 52s. and under 53s. the duty should be 18s.; when 53s. and under 54s., 18s.; and when 54s. and under 55s., still 18s. When the price is 55s. and under 56s., we propose that the duty shall be 17s.; when 56s. and under 57s., that it shall be 16s.; when 57s. and under 58s., that it shall be 15s.; when 58s. and under 59s., that it shall be 14s.; when 59s. and under 60s., that it shall be 13s.; when 60s. and under 61s., that it shall be 12s.; when 61s. and under 62s., that it shall be 11s.; when 62s. and under 63s., that it shall be 10s.; when 63s. and under 64s., that it shall be 9s.; when 64s. and under 65s., that it shall be 8s.; when 65s. and under 66s., that it shall be 7s. At the three next items of price I propose another rest in the scale similar to the former I should propose upon the next three a duty of 6s.; that is to say, when the price is 66s. and under 67s., when it is 67s. and under 68, and when it is 68s. and under 69s. In each of those cases the duty would be 6s. When the price is 69s. I propose a duty of 5s.; when 70s. and under 71s., a duty of 4s.; when 71s. and under 72s., a duty of 3s.; when 72s. and under 73, a duty of 2s.; and when 73s. and under 74s., a duty of 1s. the quarter. When that price is arrived at I propose that the duty should altogether

THE CANTON RANSOM MONEY.

(From the Englishman, March 3.)

Fort William 2d March.—The Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council has great gratification in publishing for the information of the Army, the following paragraphs, which they have been informed by the Secretary to the Hon'ble the Court of Directors, will form the next Military letter to the Governor General of India in Council.

Para. 1. 'We take the earliest opportunity of apprising you that as a mark of the high sense which Her Majesty entertains of the gallant behaviour and successful exertions of the Officers and men of Her Majesty's and of our Service employed in the late operations in China, the Queen has been graciously pleased to direct that a grant be made to them of a portion of the sum of money received from the Chinese Authorities at Canton under the Convention concluded by Captain Elliot.

2d.—'We now enclose a copy of a Minute by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, directing that Her Majesty's Grant shall consist of the following Allowances; viz.

1st.—The Officers and Men employed in the operations against Canton in 1841 (eighteen hundred and forty one) twelve months full Batta.

2d.—To the Officers and Men not entitled to share under preceding para who were employed in the operations on the Coast of China from the commencement of hostilities to end of the month of June 1841 (eighteen hundred and forty one) twelve months full Batta.

3d.—To those employed only at Ningpo, Chusan and in the operations in the Canton River in 1840 (eighteen hundred and forty,) or in one only of those operations, six months full Batta.

'A deduction will necessarily be made from this allowance in either case of any sum which may have been already given as gratuity to any portion of the Force employed.'

'It is further the pleasure of Her Majesty that the Officers, Petty Officers, Seamen and Marines of Her Majesty's Fleet should receive the same allowances of full Batta as are accorded to the corresponding ranks in the Land Forces employed, and further, that officers and Men of the East India Company's Steamers should receive the allowance as Officers and Men of Her Majesty's Ships.'

3d.—'You will take the necessary measures for carrying these instructions into effect.'

J. STUART, Lieut. Col.

Secy. to the Govt. of India, Milly. Dept.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, 7th April.

The Readers of this Journal must, we feel, regret in common with us, the retirement of our Predecessor from the Editorial chair; which he has filled for upwards of seven years, with so much credit to himself and advantage to the interests of the Straits Settlements, and this community in particular; who, we are sure however, will ever justly appreciate the value of his services. For ourselves, whilst conscious of disadvantages, soliciting all due allowance for inexperience in our future career, and a liberal contribution to these pages, and professing to steer by the Chart which has already been so ably marked out, we indeed hope, that in undergoing a change of management, the Free Press may never experience a change of that system hitherto sustained by its kind Friends and Supporters, under the dissemination through its columns of the earliest intelligence of general interest to its Readers both far and near, communicated from private sources on the spot, was not the least striking feature of its public usefulness!

We may here mention, as announced a few weeks ago, that with the present number is revived the publication of the Price Current, to be continued weekly as formerly. Its suppression, as has been stated, was unavoidable from the then existing circumstances; but the want of one having been very generally felt among the mercantile community, and the objections once taken being obviated by the transfer of the proprietorship of the Press to other hands, we presume there will be no further obstacle to the requisite information being in future supplied, which alone can render the present Edition as acceptable as the Commercial interest could possibly wish. Care will at the same time be taken, that the Price Current does not interfere with the other arrangements of the Paper, as a Supplement will always issue when our Extracts are of an unusual interest and amount!

AFFGHANISTHAN.

The only incident of moment, in reference to this country, which the week presents, is the reported capitulation of Col. Palmer, and the repossession of Ghuzni by the Affghans. This piece of intelligence has come upon us so much the more by surprise, that all preceding accounts intimated that the Garrison was abundantly supplied, and being in high spirits, there seemed little probability of the loss. By one of our contemporaries it is suggested that there was a want of water—and as the Col was understood to have abandoned the Town, it is possible the citadel did not contain a sufficient supply. Another morning journal conceives that the Ghuzni party were ignorant of the turn which matters had taken at Cabul; this argument, because it is very unlikely that, even at an early period, some arrival from the capital should not have put the Colonel in possession of correct information. The recapture is most unfortunate, in as much as it will prove a source of trouble not calculated upon in the ensuing campaign, to reduce the fortress with the view of opening the road to Cabul from the South. This work, we suppose will devolve on General Nott—but at a sacrifice of time that obliges General Pellock to relinquish all hope of a simultaneous advance from Candahar, whenever his own, beyond Jullalabad, is undertaken. As the story runs we are obliged to believe it; but at present, it has only taken the form of rumour—though of rumour which obtains general credit. The terms, it is said, are payment of a certain sum on the detachment reaching Peshawur in safety; and in pursuance of them it is announced as having started for Cabul, en route to its destination. This being the case, the Sepoys must move along the track of General Elphinstone's unhappy corps & pass the beleaguered position of Jullalabad—thereby impressing the men with a sad conviction of the altered condition of things. We are understand apprehension for the fate of this little band, but still incline to the opinion that there can be no guarantee for the fidelity of the Affghans to his arrangements. Have hostages been given, and received? if not, we fear there may be the old excuse of inability to control the tribes, and in truth we shall regard the safe return as matter of extreme wonder. The only other items worth recording are, the determination of General Pellock to await the arrival of the Dragoons and Horse Artillery now proceeding to join him by forced marches under Brigadier White; and an attack upon the quarters of General Aitabili by some parties of Khyburries who were repulsed with loss, after a brisk affair.

It is reported that Capt. Macheson has been obliged to take refuge in the Peshawur camp—Ukbar Khan having resolved on his assassination; but how far this is correct we have not the means of knowing. The news came in a letter of the 14th from Peshawur, where also an express is said to have been received from Lord Ellenborough, containing his Lordship's approbation of the General's arrangements, and directing him to call for as many troops as he required, in a stern determination to make the next endeavour a final one. In the dispatch it is affirmed there is a suggestion that no movement in advance of Jullalabad shall be made, till ample force is disposable for the eventual march to Cabul. We think this asseveration defeats itself; for when united to his remaining Brigades, the General has delivered Sale from his thralldom, he cannot have less than 14,000 men ready to execute his bidding!

if these are not adequate to the reconquest (aided too as they must be, sooner or later.) by Nott, we conceive the business had better be left alone, altogether. Pollock's or Nott's divisions, separately, are more than a match for any strength the enemy can oppose in fair fight; and if the former is able to win the Khyber pass we apprehend that the same body may overcome all other local difficulties lying between Jullalabad and the Capital. Any halt is to be deprecated in our humble judgement, when once Jullalabad is relieved. That mere circumstance will have a most discouraging effect on the Afghans, and we would have the last blow struck while the iron is yet warm. Besides, the delay is objectionable on the score of a too advanced season, since it appears our men are as likely to suffer from the extreme heat as from the cold of the climate. It would be worth half a life to be present when the brave defenders of Jellalabad are delivered from their strait, and willingly would risk the chance of a clink for the sake of witnessing the meeting of relievers and relieved. Long ere this, operations will have commenced, and therefore it is more than probable that, before another issue of our paper we shall have something decisive to record.—Eastern Star, 3d April.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 14th May, 1842.

At noon yesterday the arrival of the Lord Auckland Steamer from Hongkong from Bombay 14th and Singapore 29th April, became known here, but the general letters did not reach the post office till late in the evening, and part only this morning, and in order to give as much as possible of the intelligence received, we have delayed the publication of our paper 24 hours. We have received Bombay papers to the 19th April, from Calcutta to the 30th March, and a Singapore Free Press Extra of 29th April, from which Extracts will be found in the usual place. The discussion of Sir Robert Peel's bill for amending the Cornlaws was the subject of all engrossing interest, and there is no doubt, that the bill will be carried with a great majority, several motions by Lord John Russell, Mr. Villiers, and others having been lost. We do not find many items of general interest. The news of the rebellion in Afghanistan and of the death of Sir A. Burnes had reached England, and created there great sensation. 5,000 troops were to be sent out to India immediately, and it was rumoured that the whole of the intended reinforcement would amount to 20,000 men. Subsequent accounts from Caubul, as is well known, are of still gloomier cast, and had not yet become known in England.

From the Calcutta papers we see that Lord Ellenborough was about leaving that City for the Mofussil, and it was supposed his Lordship would proceed to the seat of war, and probably be absent from Calcutta during a long time. The accounts from Afghanistan are to the effect that the Afghans have been repulsed with loss by General Sale at Jellalabad, and General Nott at Candahar; but it was said that Ghuznie had again fallen into the hands of the enemy. On the 8th of March General Pollock's brigade was still at Camp Kawsair—and many of the Sepoys were deserting. Mohamed Akbar Khan was investing Jellalabad with a force of only 2500 men, and the garrison would, it was thought, easily be able to hold out, until reinforced by General Pollock's brigade.

The Pluto Steamer had sailed for China from Singapore a day before the Lord Auckland, we have not yet heard of her arrival at Hongkong. H. M. S. Endymion had arrived at Singapore on her way to China.

We gave last week such portion of the news brought by the February Overland Mail as we found in a Calcutta Englishman Extraordinary of 23d March. The Atlas for January has since been kindly lent us, but we find in it very little of interest, indeed the intelligence brought by this mail is most barren. The English papers are chiefly filled with the festivities at Windsor Castle on occasion of the christening of the Prince of Wales, and with the movements of the illustrious guests invited on that occasion, amongst whom the King of Prussia was the most conspicuous. His Majesty has been invited by the Corporation of London to a banquet at Guildhall, and £500 have been sent to the city kitchen to provide for it, and has also been entertained by Sir Robert Peel. The Prince of Wales received the names of Albert Edward, and in said during the ceremony to have behaved with all due decorum. Great distress, we are sorry to see from the papers, prevailed in many parts of the Kingdom; and so great was the want of a number of men that they in bands attacked several of the bakers' shops, and made no opposition to those who took them into custody, but rejoiced that their imprisonment would give them both food and lodging. Mr. de Salvandy, French Ambassador at Madrid has left that Court, on account of a point of etiquette; he persisted in delivering his credentials into the hands of the Queen; while the R^{te}gent Espartaco pretended that the Ambassador should place them in his hands. Owing to the nonadjustment of this important debate, political relations between the two countries have for the present ceased. Points of etiquette equally unimportant have also caused coolness between the courts of Paris and St. Petersburg.

We were misled by copying from other papers last week, the appointment of Sir Thomas Cochrane to succeed Sir William Parker in the command of the fleet here; Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, C. B., we perceive from the Atlas of 29th January, was gazetted as second in command on the East India Station.

We hear that a boat of the American Frigate Constellation when sounding in Salt Junk River, was warned off by the Chinese by some blank shots, which not being taken notice of, the Chinese fired at the boat with grape, which fell but little short of her. Commodore Kearney, we are told, has demanded satisfaction for this insult to the American flag, and it is said the Chinese have made the most ample apology for the mistake; and the Ty-tuck or Chinese Admiral of the station has paid a visit to the American Commodore at Whampoa.

H. M. S. Druid arrived from Amoy at Hongkong, leaving there the Hycinth, on the 6th instant with dates from Kolongsoo of the 3d May, at which time nothing worth notice had occurred. We are glad to learn that her commander, Capt H. Smith, C. B., will, after the sailing of the Blenheim to the northward, be in command of the station at Hongkong. H. M. S. Calliope, has sailed for Amoy and Chusan on the 6th, and H. M. S. Herald left Macao Roads for Amoy on the 12th, where Captain Nyas will be in command of the station, until relieved by H. M. S. Thalia, Captain Hope, daily expected from England, when the Herald will join the Admiral's fleet at Chusan. The H. C. S. Tenasserim has also left Hongkong for the North. The H. C. S. Ariadne, with Sir Henry Pottinger, arrived here on the 10th from Hongkong. H. E. it is said, will very shortly proceed to the northward in H. M. S. Blenheim, we suppose as soon as the transports from Calcutta arrive at Hongkong; they were, many of them, we understand seen by the Cincinnati near Palo Sapato, and may be hourly expected, if their destination be Hongkong; it is supposed that many will sail direct for Chusan; indeed the Singapore Free Press states them as bound for the latter port; fine weather and the southerly monsoon have now set in and a large force may therefore in a very few days be concentrated at Chusan, whence we have no news later than the 26th April.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, of 5th May.

NOTIFICATION.

His Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart., having been pleased to increase, in some respects, the powers and authority originally granted to the Chief and Marine Magistrates, respectively, the Warrants of those Officers have been revised and modified, and in their new form are now published for general information.

By order,
J. ROBT. MORRISON,
Acting Secretary and Treasurer.
Government House, Hongkong, 30th April, 1842.

CHIEF MAGISTRATE'S WARRANT.

By his Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart., her Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary Envoy Extraordinary, and Chief Superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China, charged with the Government of the Island of Hongkong.

Pending her Majesty's further pleasure, I do hereby constitute and appoint you, William Caine Esq., heret Major, and Captain in Her Majesty's 26th, (or Cameroonian) Regiment of Infantry, to be Chief Magistrate of the Island of Hongkong and its dependencies; and I do hereby empower and require you to exercise authority, according to the laws, customs, and usages of China as near as may be (every description of torture excepted) for the preservation of the peace and the protection of life and property of all the native inhabitants on the said Island, the shores and harbours thereof.

And I do further authorize and require you, in any case where the crime, according to Chinese laws, shall involve punishments of such severity as are included in the annexed scale, to remit the case for the judgment of the head of the Government for the time being.

SCALE.

Imprisonment (with or without hard labor) for more than six months.

Penalties exceeding 400 Dollars.

Corporal punishment exceeding 100 Strokes or lashes.

Capital punishment.

And I do further require you, in all cases followed by sentence or infliction of punishment to keep a record, containing a brief statement of the case, and copy of the sentence.

And I further authorize and require you to exercise Magisterial and police authority over all persons whatever (other than natives of China dwelling on the Island, or persons subject to the military act or to the general law for the Government of the fleet), who shall be found committing breaches of the peace on shore in any part or dependency of this Island, or breaches of any regulations to be the issued from time to time by this Government according to the customs and usages of British Police Law.

And I do hereby authorize you, for the police purposes herein before specified to arrest, detain, discharge, and punish such offenders according to the principles, and practice of General British Police Law, and to inflict on any such offender corporal punishment, to the extent of thirty six strokes or lashes, when you may consider that mode of punishment called for by, and appropriate to, the offence.

And all persons subject to the military act, or the general law for the Government of the Fleet, found committing police or other offences, shall be handed over to their proper military superior for punishment.

And I do further authorize and require you, to detain in safe custody any persons whatever found committing within the Government of Hongkong, crimes and offences amounting to felony, according to the laws of England; forthwith reporting your proceedings therein and the grounds thereof, to the head of the Government for the time being.

And I further authorize and require you to investigate and summarily to decide all claims for debts, not exceeding the sum of Fifty Dollars, or one hundred and twenty five Rupees, that may be brought before you; and further to investigate when so brought to your notice, either claims for debts, beyond that sum and not exceeding two hundred Dollars, or five hundred Rupees, but referring in all cases, such larger claims to the head of the Government for the time being, for instruction. And I further require you, as often as you may deem it necessary to confine debtors, with the view of enforcing your awards, immediately and specially to report such decision to the head for the time being of the Government.

And for all your lawful proceedings in the premises, this warrant shall be your sufficient protection and authority.

Given under my hand and seal of office at Hongkong, this twenty-fifth day of April, in the year 1842.

Signed: HENRY POTTINGER.

By the Chief Superintendent &c. charged with the Govt.

Signed J. ROBT. MORRISON,
Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

MARINE MAGISTRATE'S WARRANT.

Pending her Majesty's further pleasure, I do hereby constitute and appoint you, William Pedder, Esquire, Lieutenant in her Majesty's Royal Navy, to be Marine Magistrate of the Island of Hongkong and its dependencies;—And I hereby empower and require you, to exercise authority, agreeably to the Regulations from time to time issued by the Government over all persons other than those subject to the military act, or to the General law for the Government of the fleet, resorting to or abiding in the Harbors of the said Island.

And I further authorize and require you to exercise Magisterial and police authority over any persons other than those herein before described, who shall be found committing breaches of the peace in any of the Harbors of this Island, or breaches of any Regulations issued from time to time by this Government, according to the customs and usages of general British Police Law.

And I do hereby authorize you, for the police police purposes herein before specified, to arrest, detain, discharge, and punish, such offenders, according to the principles and practice of general British Police Law: requiring you, however, in any case when the crime shall involve punishment of such degrees of severity as are included in the annexed scale, to remit the case for the judgement of the head of this Government for the time being.

SCALE.

Imprisonment (with or without hard labor) for more than one calendar month.

Fines exceeding $400.

Corporal punishment exceeding thirty-six strokes or lashes. Capital punishment.

And I do further require you, in all cases followed by Sentence or infliction of punishment, to keep a Record containing a brief statement of the case, and copy of the sentence.

All persons, subject to the mutiny act, or the general law for the government of the fleet, found committing police or other offences, shall be handed over to their proper Naval or Military superiors for punishment.

And I do further authorize and require you to detain in safe custody and person whatever, found committing within the Harbours and waters appertaining to the Government of Hongkong, crimes and offences amounting to felony, according to the laws of England; forthwith reporting your proceedings herein, and the grounds thereof, to the head of the Government for the time being.

And I further authorize and require you to investigate, and summarily to decide, all claims for debts, not exceeding the sum of fifty Dollars, or one hundred and twenty five Rupees, that may be brought before you; and further to investigate, when so brought to your notice other claims for debts, beyond that sum, and not exceeding two hundred dollars, or five hundred rupees, but referring, in all cases, such larger claims to the head of the Government for the time being, for instruction. And I further require you, as often as you may deem it necessary to confine debtors, with the view of enforcing your awards, immediately and specially, to report such decision to the head for the time being of the Government. And for all your lawful proceedings in the premises, this warrant shall be your sufficient protection and authority.

Given under my hand and seal of Office at Hongkong, this Twenty-fifth day of April in the year 1842.

Signed HENRY POTTINGER.

By the chief Superintendent &c. charged with the Govt.

Signed J. ROBT. MORRISON,
Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTIFICATION.

With a view to the prevention of future misunderstanding and difficulties, His Excellency, Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart, is pleased to direct, that no Sales of land are to be made by the holders of Grants, to other parties, except with the knowledge of the Land Officer: and that any Sales that may have been made, or may be made in future, unless registered in the Land Office, shall be held to be invalid.

Purchasers of grants from the individuals before holding them are to understand distinctly, that they will come under the same liabilities to Government as the parties from whom they purchase.

By Order, GEO. F. MYLIUS,—Land Officer.
Land Office, Hongkong, 2d May, 1842.

NOTICE.

Any Persons having Representations to lay before the Land Committee, are hereby requested to send in written statements, of their cases without delay, else they will not be taken into consideration.

By order GEO. F. MYLIUS,—Land Officer.
Hongkong, Land Office, April 27, 1842.

From the Peking Gazette.

PATRIOTISM OF NATIVE MERCHANTS OF CHEKEANG.

The Imperial will has been received as follows:—Low yuen-o, (the Lieut. Governor) has sent up a memorial representing, that Kin yu shing, and other merchants of Sze Shu in the Province of Che Keng, with warm patriotism, desire to respond to the Imperial favours shown to them. In consequence of the troops assembling in this said Province, and the preparations required for exterminating the barbarians, and the necessary expenses of the war being urgent and important, the above merchants have petitioned that they might be permitted to offer to the State the sum of one million two hundred thousand Taels (nearly three millions of dollars), and Low yuen-o solicits his Imperial Majesty to reward them accordingly.

The said merchants anxiously desiring to repay their obligations to the State, hastened to meet, the Imperial wishes—they certainly are worthy of being most handsomely rewarded. The Lieut. Governor is therefore, hereby ordered to enrol their names in an official list and lay it before the throne, that the Emperor may manifest his imperial favours toward them. —RESPECT THIS.

1842.

From the Friend of China, of 12th May.

NOTIFICATION.

General orders by His Excellency Lieut. General Sir Hugh Gough G. O. S. Commanding Expeditionary Land Force.

Dated Head Quarters, Ningpo, 17th April, 1842.

I. Lieutenant General Sir Hugh Gough has the gratification to communicate to the Force under his command, the following letter which his Excellency has had the honor to receive from the Right Honorable the Governor General of India, expressive of His Lordship's approbation of the concluding operations of the last campaign.

No 1866.

To His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir Hugh Gough G. O. S. Commanding in Chief Expeditionary Military Force China.

SIR.—I have the greatest pleasure in acknowledging your Excellency's several despatches noted in the margin, and received yesterday per "Ariel."

2. And I avail myself of the first opportunity of conveying to your Excellency the expression of my most sincere congratulations, and warm admiration of the brilliant successes, which those despatches communicate and of the gallantry and excellent conduct of the officers and men of all arms and ranks on every occasion, by which such successes have been achieved, and such honor resulted to Her Majesty's arms.

3. I have hastened to communicate the despatches now acknowledged to the authorities in England, by the Packet from Calcutta for the Mail, which will leave Bombay on the 1st Proximo, and I am well assured that those authorities will cordially share in the sentiments of high approbation which I have now the satisfaction to record of the courage and conduct of the Troops under your Excellency's command.

I have &c.

(Signed) AUCKLAND.

By order A. S. H. MOUNTAIN,
Lieut. Colonel Deputy Adjutant General Expeditionary Force.

HONGKONG MARKET PLACE.

This establishment, which promises much convenience and benefit, will be opened to the Public on Monday morning next the 16th instant. The whole has been judiciously arranged into separate and well constructed departments, 1st for all kinds of Meat, 2nd Fruit and Vegetables, 3rd Poultry, 4th Salt Fish, 5th Fresh Fish, 6th Weighing rooms, 7th Money Changers houses &c. &c. Its position is central, fronts upon the Queen's Road, and faces also in a long line on the water. The gentleman to whose spirited enterprise the town is indebted for this convenience, well deserves and will receive the best thanks of its inhabitants.

NAVAL COURT MARTIAL.

A naval Court martial was held on Monday last, on board H. M. S. Blenheim, to investigate a charge of drunkenness, which was preferred against Lieutenant Christopher of H. M. S. Herald by his Commander Captain Nias C. B. The Court was composed, of Capt. Clads C. B. Capt. Kuper, Comr. Glasse and Comr. Reynolds. After a lengthened investigation, Lieut. Christopher was honorably acquitted of the Charge. Mr Purser Dobbins of the Calliope officiated as Judge Advocate. The Court was crowded by officers of the Fleet; among whom the inquiry excited much interest, and who most unequivocally expressed their satisfaction at the verdict of the Court. We are told the accused is much esteemed by his brother officers. It is said the specific charge originated, in Lieut. Christopher having fallen down in a fit, on the day in question, and cut his chin. The very conclusive evidence of the Surgeon of the Ship, Mr. Bankier, also satisfied all present, that the charge would not have been preferred, had Capt. Nias been at the time in good health. Unfortunately when this occurrence took place, he was confined to this cabin, by severe indisposition.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED
May,
3 (B.) Christina, Birkett, Bombay.
6, H. M. S. Druid, capt. H. Smith, Amoy.
9, (B.) Morha, trapt. Donaldson, Calcutta.
9, Royal Saxon, ———, Bombay.
12, (A.) Cincinnati, Wilson, Baltimore, 12th Dec.
13, H. C. S. Lord Auckland, ———, Bombay.
14, (B.) Fortescue, ———, Bombay.

PASSENGER Per
Lord Auckland, Mr. E. F. Elmalié, Secretary and Treasurer to the Superintendents.

SAILED
May,
6, H. M. S. Calliope, capt. Kuper, Amoy
6, (B.) Juvena, Grundy, Singapore & Calcutta.
9, H. C. S. Tennasserim, Wall, Amoy.
11, (B.) Mor, Methuen, Singapore and Calcutta.
13, (Du.) Orion, ———, Batavia
15, (B.) Lady Leith, Lewis, Bombay
Despatched this afternoon at 4 p. m. Lady Leith, for Bombay. To-morrow Horatio, for New York; Nimrod, for Liverpool.

UNDER DESPATCH
For England,—Nimrod
For Sydney,—Australasian Packet.

VESSELS EXPECTED
From England,—Ann Birdson, Anna Eliza, Dorvcolt, Borussia, John Christian, Gulnare, Bengalee, Devon.
From Bombay,—Corsair, Caledonia, Drongon, Bombay, Margaretha.
From Calcutta,—Lawrence, Sea Queen, Anna Watson, Pantolon.
From Singapore,—Gratitude.

LATEST DATES,
ENGLAND, 4th March. SINGAPORE, 29th April.
UNITED STATES, Dec. 29, MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 5th April. AMOY, 3d May.
BOMBAY, 14th April. CHUSAN, 28th April.
JAVA, 3d April.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Aran,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Austra. Packet	206	Hill,	"
Arrow,	—	Gear,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ardaeer,	—	Macintyre	Macvicar & Co.
*Ann,	271	Macalpine	Gribble Hughes & Co.
Abbot's Reading	—	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Christina,	—	Birkett,	"
Chusan,	—	Laird,	Dent and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Castle Huntly,	—	Reddie,	Macvicar & Co.
Eleanora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Falcon,	—	Baker,	H. Rustonjee.
Fortescue,	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Georgiana,	—	—	—
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	C. Pearson.
John-Horton,	—	cuningham	Holliday Wise & Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgan,	Dent and Co.
Lady Hayes,	—	Paterson,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
*Nimrod,	470	Manning,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,	—	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Regular,	389	Budd,	Turner and Co.
Royal Saxon,	—	—	H. Rustonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Bord,	H. Pybus.
Royal Exchange	155	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	Hugheson Brothers.
Sir Robt Peel,	—	Craig,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Vestal,	—	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durrant jr.
William Hughes	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation ,	Commodore Kearsey.
U. S. S. Boston ,	Commander Long.
*Akbar,	Danmaraq
Panama,	Russell and Co.
*Henry Pratt,	Rogers,
*Cayuga,	Bisael,
Forum,	Murdoch,
*Horatio,	Howland,
Levant,	Faulk,
Ann MacKim,	Vassmer,
Cincinnati,	Wilson,

* at Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

ON Monday the 30th instant will be sold at Public Auction, by C. MARKWICK.
THE PREMISES of the late A. B. LABAT in two lots.
Terms Cash 7.1.7.

ROBT. EDWARDS.
Administrator to the Estate.

Hongkong, 16th May, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

JOHN SMITH will sell by Public Auction, (by order of parties concerned) to the highest bidder, (on an early day, of which due notice will be given, and if not previously disposed of by private contract) the fine and fast sailing three masted schooner "GOVERNOR DOHERTY," of 157 tons or thereabouts, with all her Masts, Yards, Sails, Boats, &c. &c.; as she now lies at anchor in the Tyne.

Inventory may be seen on application.
Macao, 20th May, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.
Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the Firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.
Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

(Signed) GEORGE MARTIN.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
(Sd.) C. CARNIE.
ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
Singapore, 30th April 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCALES DRYSDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.

LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, F. E. Force.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAAS INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Rafts, &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

TO MERCHANTS &c.

A GENTLEMAN lately arrived in China is desirous of obtaining a situation in a Mercantile establishment as Clerk, Warehousman, or Corresponding Clerk; he has for years been similarly employed, and can give the most undeniable references as to his respectability and qualification. Applications addressed to S. J. C., care of Messrs JARDINE MATHESON & Co., will meet with prompt attention.

FORCHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 208 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

Macao, 30th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "ABBOT'S READING" A I 350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

WETMORE & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "PANTALON," Capt. PORTER, shortly expected, will be dispatched for the above ports about the 20th Inst. For freight or passage apply to

Macao, 6th May, 1842.

HENRY PYBUS.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A I Barque "CHOSAN," Capt. LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

Macao, 13th April, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Brig JOHN HORTON, (336 Tons new measurement) Captain O. CUNNINGHAM. Apply to

W. T. KINSLEY—Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.—Macao.
Macao, 14th April, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Barque "ANN" 271 tons Register, Capt. McAlpine, now lying at Whampoa and is ready to receive cargo, apply to

GRIBBLE, HUGHES, & Co.
Macao, 18th March, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

TO, THE EAST COAST OF CHINA OR ANY PORT IN ASIA OR THE WEST COAST OF SOUTH AMERICA.

THE new Clipper Arrow, Captain GEARE, H. C. S., now in the Roads. Apply to

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

THE Ship "GENERAL WOOD" receives Goods on demurrage at Hongkong, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

THE British Barque "LADY HAYES," receives Goods on demurrage in Macao Roads, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, one-flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DA MELLO.
Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship 'LEVANT' in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BREAD, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADDERIA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KRIS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 31st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases. SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads. BRANDY and GENEVA do. PALE ALE Bass', do. BEEF in tides, PORK in barrels. COALS, 120 tons. OILMANS Stores late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADEIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEAN CANDLES; best quality Eau de COLOGNE; apply to

J. A. DE SILVA.
at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 4th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hds. ex "John O'Garra" & "Regular".

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 3 dozen cases. MANILA SGOARS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SELTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also Russia CORDAGE, Felt LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to

J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to

B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest recension of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. Esor's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars. THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 60 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SHAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING AND JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange. 100—
Policies and folio pages ..
Letter paper size ..
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships ..
Not exceeding 7 lines ..
for 3 months ..
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance. 12
For six Months. 7
For three .. 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the Bombay Courier Overland Mail, March 4.
GENERAL HOME INTELLIGENCE.

For the Week ending February 12th.

In Spain a law has been presented to the Cortes forbidding all recurrence to Rome for mass, dispensations, &c. A complete reformation of the Spanish church is implied in this act.

A dancing-master at St. Petersburg, by origin a Dutchman, has given notice that he will give a ball in the snow, and intends to take advantage of the first snow which falls for that purpose. He proposes to bet with any lady or gentleman that he will dance out in the snow their names at full, in legible characters, that he will not once miss time, and that each of his steps shall form part of a regular dance. Several persons of distinction have accepted the bet.

Upwards of sixty firms in Manchester, who trace the distress of the cotton trade to the high price of provisions, trace that to the sliding scale, and recommend an early struggle for a fixed duty. Their proofs are certainly demonstrative.

The moon exhibited a very beautiful phenomenon on the morning of the 4th in England, which was observed also about the same time in Ireland. The ordinary rim or halo which surrounds it, was in its outer part surrounded by a brilliant prismatic circle, the tints of which were almost as vivid as the solar rainbow.

Lord Ashley declares that he readily gives up all chance of honour and material employment in order, by public agitation in every way, to advocate the Ten Hours' Factory Bill, to which Sir R. Peel has announced the decided opposition of the Government.

Charles Barry, Esq., has been elected a Royal Academician, in the room of Sir David Wilkie, deceased.

SUP MARINE DAINTIES.—A wooden box, marked "Conserve Artichena de Catron, Marveilles," and containing twelve tin cases, has very lately been brought on shore from the wreck of the Royal George. The canisters were air-tight, and closely filled with boiled French beans; neither rancid nor spruce was to be detected. A dish of these curious vegetables on being dressed was pronounced excellent, and although at least fifty-seven years old, was as plump and full of flavour as though it had been just purchased in Covent Garden Market.

At an assembly of the governor of the Charter-house, held lately, Prince Albert and Lord Wharfedale were elected governors, and Archdeacon Hale was elected master of the Charterhouse, in the place of the late Dr. Fisher.

For the Week ending February 19th.

Considerable sensation has been created among the English in Paris by an impudent but unsuccessful "bold stroke for a wife;" and the interest has been communicated to London by the cooing out of some names connected with the affair. A young lady of fortune in Devonshire met at a friend's house with a married couple, who paid her great attentions. Observing her spirits to be depressed, they importuned her to take a trip with them. At last she consented, and made one of a party for Paris. Her friends had previously introduced her to a young man, who joined the party; and there were besides a gentleman and two young ladies, seemingly his daughter and stepdaughter, and Lord and Lady William Paget; only the initials of the other persons are given. Lord William's name is mentioned by his solicitor in a letter to the papers. The single gentleman was made caterer for the party; who lived in a splendid style at the Bedford Hotel, with four carriages and many servants. One night, the hero of the story treated the young lady's three servants to the play, and a supper after it at a restaurant's; but the lady's maid returned before the supper. Her mistress retired to her bedroom about half-past twelve, and sat there till past two; the lady writing, the maid waiting. They then went to bed, together—the lady's feet being cold; soon afterwards they heard a noise, and the lady saw a man in the room. He had been concealed there the whole time that they had been in it. It was the caterer, playing the part of Don Juan of real life. In spite of his efforts to prevent them, they raised a disturbance, and broke from the room. The gentleman who had induced the lady to travel threatened, that night, to shoot his treacherous friend "like a sparrow" but next morning

"gentlemen and ladies" (such is the vague term in the account before us) begged her to forgive him and grant him an interview. She refused, and placed herself under the protection of Mrs. Lawson, the hotel-keeper's wife; and she returned to England next day. The lady declares that she had never encouraged the intruder as a suitor. He had received 178 l. as the lady's share of the expenditure; but it never passed to the hotel-keeper; on the contrary, the latter was made to pay a heavy fine for arresting the adventurer on a charge of fraud, just as he was decamping for Belgium—the arrest being faulty in a point of law.

THE REFORM CLUB.—Lord Cottenham and other ex-ministers of state were on Wednesday elected members of the Reform Club.

ELECTION PETITIONS.—The first committee for the trial of controverted election petitions will be ballotted for on the 10th of March.

THE REV. MR. SIBTHORP.—This reverend apostate from the protestant faith has been at Oscott college, near Birmingham, ordained a priest of the Roman catholic church.

The Porte has withdrawn its protest against the installation at Jerusalem of Bishop Alexander.

Mr. T. Campbell, the sculptor, has just finished for the Duke of Wellington, a bust of the Marchioness of Douro.

A merchant advertised lately for a clerk accustomed to confinement. He received an answer from a person who had been seven years in gaol!

The Pitt Scholarship, the highest classical honor in the University of Cambridge, has been adjudged to Mr. Gifford, of St. John's College. Among many other candidates, the second best was Mr. Drury, of St. Peter's. Both of these gentlemen were educated at Shrewsbury School.

The King of the French has sent a handsome pin in brilliants to M. Tolbecque, who, at the command of their Majesties, composed for the last ball at the Tuileries a quadrille upon the old air of La Belle Paule.

WINES.—The consumption of wine was fallen off within the last year upwards of 300,000 gallons. A very remarkable change has taken place in the use of Port, which fifty years ago, constituted 70 per cent. of all wines consumed, but has fallen to little more than 32 per cent. Sherry, on the contrary, risen from 16 to upwards of 40 per cent. French wines are gradually becoming better known, and last year there was an increase of 7 per cent. Madeira has fallen, Rhenish has fallen 15, and Marsala risen 6 per cent. Cape has fallen 5 per cent., and it was only the temptation of paying half the duty of any other wine that induced the importation of a single pipe. Of the half million gallons that paid duty, a large proportion was sold as Sherry.

Sir Herbert Jenner, Dean of the Arches, on succeeding to the estate of the late Sir John Fust, of Thornbury, Gloucestershire, has, in compliance with the will of the deceased, taken the name of Fust in addition to that of Jenner.

Portions of the Royal Christening Cake have been presented, by command of the Queen, to nearly 200 of the leading nobility, enclosed in elegant white boxes, upon the covers of which is the following inscription, surmounted with the Prince of Wales's feathers, and the motto "Ich Dien."—"In honour of the Christening of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Jan'y. 25th, 1842."

THE LATE JOHN SYDNEY TAYLOR, A. M., BARRISTER AT-LAW.—A public meeting was held, pursuant to advertisement, for the purpose of evincing some testimonial of public respect to the memory of Sydney Taylor, A. M.

The Queen's patronage of Paisley shawls, which she has worn lately, has given a considerable impulse to the trade of the place, and orders are numerous.

The Earl of Elgin has been appointed Governor General of Jamaica, Sir Charles Metcalfe retiring on account of ill-health.

For the Week ending, February 26th.

BRITISH RESIDENTS ON THE CONTINENT.—According to the late returns made to the Prefect of Police at Paris, the entire number of British residents in France was estimated at 54,000, but the thousands of Continental tourists who pass through France are not included in this estimate. The number of British settled in the Netherlands, France, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, is now supposed, by far to exceed 100,000.

EARTHQUAKE.—On the morning of the 17th, about 8 a. m., a vibration of the earth, accompanied by a rumbling noise, supposed to be the effects of an earthquake, was felt at Falmouth, Penryn, Helston, Constantine, St. Mawes, also in the parish of St. Just, and in some other places. So great was the motion, that doors in the houses are said to have been thrown open, which created great alarm; but we are happy to say that we have not heard of any serious results.

PRESBYTERIAN MARRIAGES.—The Lord Chancellor of England has referred to the Irish judges for the grounds of their decision against the legality of presbyterian marriages, in order to form a bill for the amending the law this session.

THE GREAT WESTERN STEAM-SHIP.—Bristol, as well as London, has been compelled to admit, that Liverpool is the port of transit for passengers as well as goods to the United States. After running their splendid steamship for several seasons to and from New York, her owners have resolved to run her alternately from Bristol and Liverpool to New York, and thence alternately to Liverpool and Bristol.

ENGLISH CARDINALS.—Five new cardinals were proclaimed at Rome on 24th ult. One of the new appointments of his Holiness is an Englishman, Cardinal Acton. Cardinal Acton is a younger son of the late ambassador at Naples, and is related to one of the oldest families in Shropshire. His eminence was educated at Magdalen College, Cambridge, where, though he much distinguished himself by close application to study, his religious tenets prevented him from proceeding to his degree. He is the youngest member of the sacred college, and has long lived at Rome, with his mother, Lady Acton.

The Rev. Mr. Garbett, the newly elected professor of poetry, delivered the first Bampton lecture for the present year at St. Mary's church, Oxford, on the 20th. Mr. Grant, commander of St. John's College, has followed the example of the Rev. Mr. Sibthorp, and several others of the "junior members of the university are expected to secede from the establishment."

The Edinburgh and Glasgow railway was opened throughout on the 18th.

The manuscripts and copyright of the works of M. de Chateaubriand have been sold by auction to M. Delandine de Saint Esprit for 153,000f.

THE COST OF A SOLDIER.—Le Presce calculates that in England the annual expense of a soldier is 540f.; in France, 340f.; in Prussia, 212f.; in Austria, 240f.; and in Russia, 120f.

BREACH OF PROMISE OF MARRIAGE.—DARSON V. ROSSER.—In this case the damages, by an arrangement, have been reduced from 1,600l. to 500l. The costs in the cause have been subsequently taxed at 588l. making together the sum of 1438l.

In the event of the Earl of Elgin vacating his seat for the town of Southampton, it is understood that Mr. Humphrey St. John Midway, of the firm of Messrs. Baring, Brothers, and Co., will come forward in the Conservative interest.

The cold of the season is intense in Vienna, and on the public roads the mails are attacked by droves of hungry wolves, who eat the guard, driver, and passengers, and—do not open the letters.

A new species of rice, requiring neither a damp soil nor constant irrigation, has just been introduced from Mongolia into France.

The freedom of the navigation of the Rhine, proclaimed by the Congress of Vienna, in favour of all nations, remains intact.

The Archbishop of Lyons has determined on restoring, as far as possible, all the stained glass windows of his cathedral, and has forwarded plans to that effect to Paris, to be approved of by the Minister of Justice. A new archiepiscopal palace is to be formed in that city out of some buildings already existing.

A Russian agent, with unlimited power of purchase, is understood to have arrived in London, to watch the sale of Horace Walpole's Strawberry-hill collection.

The marriage of the hereditary Prince of Modena, with the Princess Aldegonda of Bavaria, is to be celebrated at Munich on Easter Monday. Immediately afterwards the King of Bavaria will accompany the Prince and Princess into Italy.

A young lady within three months of her majority, when she enters on a fortune of 40,000l., was to have been married to the nephew of her guardian, but in the tender care of her own happiness, she married secretly about six months ago, and eager to possess the privileges she had thus purchased, eloped with her husband. The guardian and his nephew pursued in vain.

Mr. Bullock, the Senior Pleader, has been elected Judge of the Sheriff's Court for the Poultry Couper, vacant by the death of Sergeant Arabis.

Two more illustrious foreigners are likely to pay us a visit early in the spring, namely, his Imperial Highness the Archduke Frederic of Austria, nephew to the Emperor, and youngest son of the Archduke Louis, a young prince, in his 21st year, who distinguished himself as a Lieutenant in the squadron of Admiral Baron De Baudouin, in the operations on the coast of Syria, and Prince Leopold of Sicily, Count of Syracuse, brother to the King of Naples and to the Prince of Capua.

NATIONAL DEBT.—It appears that the dividends due and not demanded which remained in the hands of the bank amounted, on April 3th, 1841, to 1,443,880l.; on July 5th, 1841, to 1,267,880l.; on October 10th, 1841, to 1,185,301l.; and on January 5th, 1842, to 1,096,043l.

THE LATE MR. WEST.—The entire of this gentleman's personal effects are advertised for sale, in order to discharge the liabilities incurred in his several contests with the liberal party in the city of Dublin elections.

AFGHANISTAN.

From the India Gazette, 25th March.

THE SALE OF THE JEMADAR SYCE.

The following has been sent to us by an obliging and intelligent correspondent, whom we have to thank for other valuable favours. Though the document is but the confession of a native, it has an air of truth and accuracy which many others, from a higher source want. It tallies in its main details with our accounts, and adds some particulars which are new to us. Thus, what is said of the conduct of the men of the Queen's 44th has not, to our recollection appeared before, though there was a vague, general rumour imputing misconduct to them. We are far, however, from vouching for the accuracy of the account now given, though we confess we see in it the only cause that could induce British soldiers to misbehave themselves in the face of an enemy—and such an enemy!—and that is, disgust, and a want of confidence in the measures of their superiors. But we must trust to time to disclose the mystery with which this part of the Cabool tragedy is obscured.

As regards Akbar Khan, the statement below agrees with the best accounts we have, and which when viewed altogether, leave no doubt on our mind that this hero of the Bombay Times and the Bengal Hurkaru,—their mirror of honour, chivalry and humanity, was virtually the assassin of Sir Wm. Macnaghten, the treacherous and lying deceiver of General Elphinstone and the cowardly skulker, who urged his savage followers to the slaughter of troops deprived of the means of defence, in consequence of having trusted him and his gang; for all which, if Government value the peace and stability of their Indian Empire, they will inflict a full and adequate punishment.

(From the Agra Ukhbar, 10th February, 1849.)

"A rumour which has been some time afloat and is daily gaining ground says, that Shah Soojah has been closely connected with the Cabool tragedy, in all its stages. His maintaining his position in the Bala Hissar strengthens the report, as well as other circumstances which will yet come to light.

"Every Hindoostanee either Moosulman, or Hindoo, who has escaped from Cabool to Peshawar, concur in fixing the odium of the "Cabool Tragedy" on Shah Soojah, and branding him as the base of the base, for his ingratitude and treachery. The following statement was taken down, immediately after the arrival of a public camp-follower, a respectable jamadar once attached to Captain Nichol's troop, at Peshawar, who came in there wounded.

"I Wuzer syce, belonged to Captain Nichol's troop of Horse Artillery. Sir Wm. Macnaghten told Shah Soojah, that as the cold season was approaching he must go with him to Jullalabad to winter, on which the Shah replied, I will go there after I see the Raghoojee ka-Chand. Three days before the Raghoojee ka-Chand, the 13th Foot, the 39th Regiment of Native Infantry, some Cavalry, some Artillery, and one Company of Pioneers, marched from the plain of Syar Sing to Boodh-kar four kos on the Jullalabad road. The detachment was attacked there, and intelligence of the same having been sent to cantonments, two of Nichol's guns were sent out, and remained with the detachment on this ground for two days. On the third day that march was continued fighting on the Khoord Cabul, during the night a clappa or night attack was made on the troops, and many men killed. The 37th Native Infantry joined here and the two guns were sent back to cantonments, the grass-cutters accompanying them having been all cut up. There was fighting every day to Gundamak, from which place the 37th Regiment N. I. returned towards Cabul. On the day this Regiment reached Khoord Cabul, Sir A. Burnes, was murdered by the Ghoolame Khaneh, or servants of Shah Soojah, said to be 12,000 in number. He and other officers were at his house in the city, which was immediately plundered. His murderers then went to the treasury in the city, guarded by two Companies, cut up every man there and plundered it. They next went to the Bala Hissar, saying that they had killed a Lord Sahib, and would kill the King, but this was all "jooth," as they were his servants, and a good understanding subsisted between them. The Shah sent an officer with a letter to the General in cantonments stating what had happened. Four of Nichol's guns, three of Backhouse's, five Companies of the 44th Foot, and the 54th Native Infantry, were immediately sent into the Bala Hissar under Brigadier Shelton. The Shah made his appearance, and said if you had not come I should have been killed; he shed tears, but they were false ones. The detachment having been kept standing from 6 A. M. till evening, Brigadier Shelton asked what were the King's orders, he replied, destroy the city. On which the guns opened by his direction on some parts of it, occupied by Duraanees, hostile to him. The 37th Regiment returned to cantonments from Khoord Cabul during the night fighting all the way. On the third day after Brigadier Shelton entered the Bala Hissar, the Commissariat godown in the city was attacked, and its guard massacred to a man. It was plundered for four days in succession by the city people and completely gutted. Brigadier Shelton with the Europeans returned at night to cantonments, taking one of Nichol's and one of Backhouse's guns with him, and leaving the 54th Regiment Native Infantry, in the Bala Hissar. These soldiers had little to eat, while the Shah's had an abundance. A few days after the Commissariat godown was plundered, Brigadier Shelton attacked a small fort with some Companies of Europeans and Natives, and took a large quantity of grain, bhooza, &c. The grain would have afforded half a seer daily for each soldier and one and a half pao for each camp-follower, for about two months. The enemy having two guns, mounted them in a village and kept up an annoying fire on cantonments; to capture these, Brigadier Shelton with three companies of the 44th foot, four Companies of Native Infantry, three Troops of Cavalry and one gun, went out at 12 o'clock A. M. and surrounded the village; at day-break it was stormed with great slaughter and the guns captured. One of them being dismounted was spiked and the other taken into cantonments. A chief with followers of Horse and Foot, came out from the city to aid the village. He was immediately attacked and with numbers of his men killed, the remainder immediately fled into the city. Brigadier Shelton was advised to return to cantonments, as the men had been out more than 12 hours; he refused to leave the ground while an enemy remained in sight. The city people seeing the smallness of the Detachment, horns were sounded, the enemy was rallied and came out of the city in great numbers both horse and foot to the fight, as well as from the surrounding forts. Squares were formed and the men desired not to fire, nor the gun to open on the advancing enemy. When the enemy had arrived at nearly twenty paces from our men flourishing swords, knives, &c. and making the most horrid yells, the kneeling Europeans rose and the whole of them fled and were immediately followed by the natives, horse and foot, towards cantonments. The gun was captured and many of our men slain. A company of the 44th and one of the 5th N. I. kept a small fort near the city and were relieved daily. The city people coming out to attack them, the Europeans and Natives, fled into cantonments, without firing a shot, leaving all their bedding, &c. to be plundered. From that day the Europeans did not come out of the cantonments to fight, and all the officers appeared to have washed their hands of life; when they saw the Europeans would not fight, dejection was general. After this the enemy increased in great numbers as also in confidence; surrounding the cantonments and coming unopposed to within thirty yards of the walls, the men not being allowed to fire on them owing to the shortness of provisions and ammunition. Negotiations were commenced on which Akbar Khan came, and drove off the people; it was stipulated that he was to receive 13 lacs of rupees, as soon as the force reached Jumrood—the guns and all stores to be given up to him, before the march commenced. Five or six days after Akbar Khan had received all the guns and stores, he demanded a conference with Sir W. Macnaghten who went out to meet him with three Officers, four sowars, and two Chaprassies. At about thirty paces outside the cantonments his horses' reins were seized by the footmen, sent to accompany him, who spoke as if pointing in the direction of Akbar Khan; they took him away towards a small fort, from which Akbar Khan approached and took him into the fort. Rumour had it that he cut off Sir W. Macnaghten's hands and then his head, he was also said to have killed Captain Trevor; the other officers desired Akbar Khan to kill them also, he paid no attention to them and ordered them to be confined. Eight days after this the General sent Rs. 13,000 to Akbar Khan for food, bhooza, &c., for the march. He took an oath on the koran and on his sword, that he would send two thousand horse and one thousand foot to escort the force to Jumrood. About the 5th of January, 1842, the march commenced; as soon as the troops were out of the cantonment, Akbar Khan's men attacked them, he keeping some distance in the rear with about fifty horsemen. I was wounded in the thigh on the march from Koord Cabul and saw all this, being now some miles in the rear with Akbar Khan. He was fully aware of what his men were doing, and only kept in the rear that he might not have the appearance of countenancing their conduct. At Char Bagh, the force was completely surrounded by Akbar Khan's men, cut up and destroyed. He remained here for three or four days, he then went to Kala Char Bagh and afterwards to Lookmun-Char-Bagh. I had been stripped of all my clothes, and suffering from cold, hunger and my wound, I saw Akbar Khan come out of his tent, I went, bent my head and besought him, either to cut my throat or to give me food and send me to Hindoostan. He was silent for some time and at last called a horseman and told him to escort me to Jalpura, where I arrived in two days; my guide then put me on a puggundee to the left of the Khybar which I was to follow to Peshawar, I was taken before a Khybar Nawab and searched for letters. He gave me two rotres, I continued my journey and reached Peshawar in seven days; the natives of all descriptions as they fell into the enemy's hands, were stripped naked, and many of them soon died of cold. No mercy was shown in quarter given to the Europeans, every one of them being slaughtered wherever they were met. I was in the rear and saw their wounds. The General Brigadier Shelton, some officers and Ladies, were taken to Akbar Khan and were at Lookman five kos from Jullalabad when I left it, I could not get assistance to nor see any of them. The Commissariat godown at Cabul was in the city and contained supplies of every description in great abundance, had this store room been in cantonments, no want could have been felt for many a long day. I left about 300 Hindoostanees with Akbar Khan, he allowing them two rotres each a day; four Troops of Anderson's horse returned towards Cabul during the March. The Afghans required General Arvishile to govern them; they were in the habit of offering the grossest and most unprovoked insults to officers and men without the offenders being punished or fearing it, conduct which at Peshawar would have caused many of them to have been suspended; the consequence of this apathy added considerably to the long list of unprovoked murders."

Many parts of this man's statement may be seen corroborated in the Bengal and Bombay papers. He was frequently warned to state only the truth, and he as frequently replied he had no object or intention of doing otherwise.—Agra Ukhbar, March 12

From the India Gazette, 21th March.

We have letters to the 8th instant from General Pollock's camp—containing abundant details relative to the state of affairs at Jullalabad and Peshawar. There is not much news in them, and such as it is we are sorry to say is of a very dispiriting character. The sepoys are deserting in large numbers. One correspondent says that a Havildar and thirty men, from two regiments, deserted, in one night. The following details will be read with interest:—

March 7, Camp Kamulair, Major-General Pollock's Force.—Despatches, reaching from 24th to the 28th ult. inclusive, have just arrived from General Sale. The letter of the 24th mentions an affair which had taken place on the morning of that day between a party of the enemy, consisting of 300 horsemen, and the foraging party sent out by the General with the cavalry grass cutters under the command of a Jemadar of the 6th. The Jemadar's party was only composed of sixty men, with a proportion of Non-Commissioned Officers, and yet the enemy were afraid to charge them. All they ventured to do was, to cut up a few unfortunate grass-cutters who had strayed too far. Lieutenant Mayne, with a few irregular horsemen, was sent to the Jemadar's assistance, in case of accident—the enemy no sooner descried the appearance of this reinforcement, than they retired in haste. The following day, the 25th, Lieut. Mayne was sent out again, with the foraging party—he had ninety sowars with him and about as many cavalry. The enemy were seen emerging from their encampment at Umeer Khai, about three miles to the N. W. of Jullalabad, whilst a body of cavalry, apparently of the same strength as that of the preceding day, demonstrated in front. Sale sent out positive orders to Mayne not to attempt to skirmish; on the contrary to retire, and avoid any unnecessary effusion of blood. The orders given were strictly obeyed, the enemy became emboldened by the retreat, which was being made, and pressed so hard upon Mayne's rear, that he thought it absolutely necessary to turn and charge. This was done so gallantly and suddenly as to take the enemy a-back. They broke and fled, and Mayne was thus enabled to continue his retreat without other molestation, except such as the party on his right threatened him with. Sale sent out to his assistance two nine-pounders, some infantry and sappers, and Oldfield with the remainder of the cavalry. The enemy immediately retired; and it was ascertained, that only two troopers had been killed and five wounded on our side, whilst on that of the enemy the loss must have been very much greater. I omitted to mention, that by the 22d the defences of the fort had been entirely repaired; and although some few slight shocks of earthquake had been felt, there was nothing to speak of in comparison with the extraordinary phenomenon of the 19th. The cheerfulness with which the men worked is stated to have been above all praise. The letter of the 26th mentions, that Mohamud Ukhbar Khan had appeared before the place with 1,500 horse and 1,000 foot. The former kept out of range of the guns, but the infantry crept close up and fired a good deal. The fire was not allowed to be returned, as musket ammunition is valuable, but a few rounds of shrapnel were let fly amongst themselves, creating great havoc; this was ascertained by observing the effect of the fire through a telescope. All these letters came together, which verifies what Sale writes on the subject of the very vigilant manner in which the fort is invested. Mohamud Ukhbar's force is supposed to consist of merely the 1,500 horse and 1,000 foot, which he showed on the 26th. Since that day the foraging party, with the grass-cutters, have not been molested; and it is fully anticipated by all hands, that Sale will be able to hold out till the 1st of April, or thereabout, without any help and men; by which time he shall have been joined by the 2d dragons, 1st cavalry, 6th N. I. and shall be able to walk through the pass as if nothing was the matter. Sale talks very slightly of the enemy, and they certainly seem to have given the old boy right good cause for doing so. No mention is made of Ukhbar Khan's guns, as we may fairly presume that these are at Cabul, and without them Jullalabad will never fall. The report that was so freely and confidently circulated in camp yesterday, on the subject of instructions having been received by Genl. Pollock from the Governor General in council, to the effect, that he was not to advance under any circumstances until joined by the brigade, that is on its way to join us, is all fudge. I have this from most undoubted authority. The pass is not yet bought, nor do I think it is likely to be until the Afreedis become intimidated by the presence of the European dragoons. Negotiations are still going on, but nothing seems to be done. The Europeans are to go on with sepoys' pauls, instead of those clumsy double-poled remies they have at present.

Twenty sepoys deserted from one of our native Infantry regiments during the course of the last two days; one havidar and five sepoys from another, and so on! Rather ugly this—eh, one man left 80 ra in his havidar's hands. Our propensity to the Sikh camp is playing the very mischief with us all. A Court of Enquiry is sitting on Capt. B. of the 64th, something connected with his having said that he had not written in the Delhi Gazette, whilst others seemed to think they should prove that he had. I will let you know the end of the business, when it transpires. The politicals are in a devil of a taking—every thing going against them.

The following is from the letter of another correspondent under the same date:—

"I am concerned to hear, on the very best authority, that the sepoys are beginning to desert in considerable numbers;—that last night, a havidar and 17 men, deserted from the 60th, and 12 men from the 53rd; and that among these were many old soldiers and men who, up to that period, had been regarded as good men and true neemuk wallahs. In the 64th only one desertion has taken place, and but few in the 30th, and not, I believe, many in the 38th; but more are expected when the pay for last month has been distributed, which it will be in a day or two.

They are nearly all well again, and the few who have not recovered have just been sent to Peshawar. I am delighted to learn, on good authority, that the Sikhs (perhaps with no friendly desire, but no matter for that) have clapped an effectual stopper against further desertions among our junks. This they have done by cutting up several of the runaways—not fewer than ten between this and the Utuck, as I am assured;—but the most effectual lesson of all is one that was impressed upon them last night—with a practical example and warning in the shape of a nimuk harram sepoys, who was cut up in a most cruel manner, as he was "cutting away" a few hundred yards from camp.

Much as one would be disposed, under ordinary circumstances, to regret the poor man's fate, the salutary effect that is likely to produce upon the minds of others who would perhaps otherwise followed his example, is calculated to make one rejoice, at the event, for the sake of the cause in which we are engaged.

By the way, these murders of our runaway sepoys, involve a refutation of the report that was current here, that Goolab Sing had been inveigling our men to desert to him!

PESHAWAR.

(From the Calcutta Star, March 24.)

Yesterday's dawn brought numerous letters from Peshawar, the latest being of the 8th instant. The ammunition had arrived, and it is said that the force, under General Pollock, was positively to have marched on the 10th or the 11th. There seems to have been considerable doubt in camp as to whether the pass had or had not been bought. A Court of Enquiry has been sitting to investigate the conduct of Captain Bart, of the 64th, relative to a certain letter addressed by him to the Editor of the Delhi Gazette, and there had been a convocation of commanding officers in the Major General's tent, for the purpose of ascertaining from them whether they and their men were "ready and willing to go on!" One gallant Colonel is said to have replied, that he had hoped there was no occasion to ask such a question. So had we—and every body, we suspect, but we fear that some doubt is entertained, in many quarters, on this highly important point. One of our correspondents writes, "fears are entertained that the whole of the native troops will not go on with a will, if indeed they go on at all. The bad example, lately set them by the Sikhs, has not failed, I much fear, to be attended, by any but the most pernicious effects." There was a report in camp, that Ukbar Khan had paid them a visit in the disguise of a wood cutter. We give the following extract from a letter of the 8th instant:—

Our correspondent has, we think, omitted to send us a portion of his letter, for this, in the MS. begins with the word of a sentence, and is without the usual heading.—Ed.

"Capt. Tehbs, of the 23d N. I. with two companies and 540 camels, the latter laden with the munitions of war, has just arrived. They are all to proceed with us on the 10th. The dispositions of the advance are as follows:—Start at 2 A. M. on the morning of the 10th, with four companies H. M. 9th Foot, and four of the 30th N. I. forming the advance guard, 2 nine-pounders and the 24-pounders howitzer, and the sappers. The rear guard is to be composed of a similar force from the same corps and the right and left heights to be crowned respectively under the command of Col. Taylor, H. M. 9th Foot, and Major Huish, N. I. with one company of the 9th, and five companies of the 26th N. I. on either hill. The remaining corps to protect the baggage. Should this order be altered, I will let you know of it. Nothing has yet appeared in orders on the subject, but I have been privately informed, that such arrangements are in contemplation. No news from Saie for some days. The last khawar from that quarter mentions the murder of two men, who were discovered with dispatches secreted in a loaf of bread. An unfortunate grass-cutter of the 10th Cavalry was murdered yesterday in sight of Camp, and his son, who was with him, escaped by running away. Three other grass cutters are said to be missing, and to have been carried off alive by the Afreedis."

The following is from another letter, under the same date:—

"Camp near Peshawar, March 5, 1842.

The order is not out; but it is written, and we march immediately the ammunition under Tehbs arrives. He is expected on the 8th, and we shall probably be off on the 10th or 11th. One Company of the 9th Foot, and five Companies of the 26th are to crown the heights on the right, under the command of Colonel Taylor. The same on the left, where these details will be under Major Huish. Four Companies of the 9th Foot, with an equal number from the 30th N. I., two nine pounders and the 24-pounder howitzer are to form the advanced guard, and the rest of the 9th is to be with the rear guard which is to consist of a wing, in addition to that force. These are the arrangements as far as I can ascertain them.

The foregoing was written this morning. I have since (with a view to making a few arrangements and bidding General Avitabili adieu) ridden over to Peshawar. On my way I met—to my surprise met—Tehbs of the 33d, with two companies of that regiment, in charge of about a couple of thousand camels, laden with ammunition, and of some twenty or thirty bakeries said likewise to contain "munitions." He had received constant letters from Pollock within the last few days, to push on with all possible despatch, and he has been journeying at the rate of a march and a half a day, for this week and more; and this morning (starting at two o'clock) he made 20 miles. His camels seemed knocked up, and he fears that they will not be able to proceed for another day or two.

"I mentioned to General Avitabili, that Mr. Tehbs, with the ammunition that had been expected on the 8th or 9th, has just passed me, en route to our camp, and that we should now in all probability, start for Jellalabad the day after tomorrow. I also told him, that the pass had been bought and that injunctions (and such is the report) had been received by General Pollock, direct from Government, to the effect, that he was on no account to enter the Khybur Pass unless it had been bought. He was sceptical of its having been bought, and he offered a lakh of rupees to 25,000 with any officer in camp, (and begged me to say so on my return hither!) and if we went on less than 25,000 fighting men, perfectly equipped, we should be all massacred—that in short the by gone tragedy will be played over again."—Herkers, March 26.

From the Sing. Free Press, of 28th April.

On Monday morning some hours before day-light, a Sampun with seven peons rowed by four Malay boatmen, was dispatched from the shore by one of the Constables, to silence the noisy proceedings of some of the Junks in the harbour, who had thus early begun to celebrate one of their numberless festival—days by pounding the abominable gongs, firing guns and so forth.—Shortly after the sampun put off, the clamour instead of abating was redoubled, rising into a tumultuous uproar which alarmed the inhabitants of several of the houses on the beach. In the meantime two other sampans each with a European Constable on board had put off, and on their making for the Junk which appeared to be the centre of the tumult, they found it encompassed by boats from the other Junk in the roads, and were assailed from the Junk itself, with a shower of missiles of every description which deterred them from advancing further. The Chinese boats round the Junk however went away on the appearance of Constables, but the Sampun which had been sent off was nowhere visible, neither were any of the peons and the Malay boatmen who were taken out of the water, all of them wounded except one who escaped without injury. According to the account given by these men, the peons were assaulted from the Junks as soon as they got alongside in a most furious manner, and all of them more or less wounded driven into the water. The Constables returned on shore with the men they had fortunately arrived in time to save; and after day light were again sent off with a posse of peons to take the Junks Crew into custody, which was done with, as we understand, the assistance of Captain Congalton of the H. C. Steamers Diana. On Tuesday morning the bodies of two of the peons were washed on shore and carried to the Police Office; when it appeared on examination that both received mortal wounds. A Coroner's Jury was immediately summoned and the evidence that was brought before them was briefly to the following effect.

The boat with the peons went on board of a Junk, put a stop to the gonging, and brought along with them the Nakhoda of the vessel, with the offending gong &c., and proceeded towards another Junk the Nakhoda of which they had removed from the former one, was allowed to go on board first; and after he had held a short colloquy with the Crew; a simultaneous cry arose on board the Junk of Pak-Pak. "Strike-Strike"; and the attack upon the peons commenced the moment that some of them had got on board, and others were ascending the sides of the vessel: with the results that have been already mentioned.

From the Sing. Free Press, 5th May.

The investigation at the Police Office of the case alluded to in our last—namely—the seizure and plunder of a junk by another, about 2 days sail from China terminated on Saturday last—and it turns out to be a regular piratical affair! Thirteen of the Junk men with the Nakhoda have been committed for trial at the next Sessions charged with Piracy. We hear that the other Junks in the roads have expressed great dread of these sea marauders, and seem anxious that some example may be made of them!

It appears that the bodies of five only of the Public Peons who were despatched to put a stop to the gonging in the roadstead, as mentioned by us last week, have been found; that of the Duffadar (being 6 Peons altogether and not 7, as stated by us in error) not having been discovered as yet. The Inquest to which we have alluded brought in a Verdict of "Wilful murder against some person or persons unknown." The other three bodies were buried without that formality, in consequence as we learn of their being found in such a state of decomposition, as to preclude all approach to them or even identification. The Chinese Junk people who had been taken up originally on suspicion, are still detained in custody, until the complete recovery of some of the witnesses who have been severely hurt, as the magistrate we hear intends to further investigate the matter.

CANTON PRESS. Macao, 21st May, 1842.

By the Steamers Viceroy and Medusa dates from Singapore to the 11th. May, and from Calcutta to 20th April have been received. The driel from this 19th April had arrived at Singapore on the 7th May, having made a fine passage of only 17 days. It will be seen that we have made some long extracts concerning Afghan affairs of no very recent date now, as papers received only yesterday bring the accounts from the camp near Peshawar down to the 30th March, at which date General Pollock had not marched to the relief of Jellalabad, but it was confidently expected that the column would begin to move on the 1st or 2nd April Jellalabad continued to be gallantly defended by General Sale, and it was reported that he would be able to hold out until the 13th, by which time, the relieving force must have reached. The Khybur pass it was supposed had been bought, and a payment been made on account, although little confidence was had in the friendly dispositions of the people. The fall of Ghuznee into the hands of the Afghans we are sorry to see confirmed. It appears that on warm weather coming on, the snow and ice which had been put into a wall, melted and was absorbed by the ground, leaving the garrison without water. On making a sortie from the fort into the town, the garrison was repulsed, and then obliged to capitulate, the Afghans pledging their faith on the Koran to carry them safe to Cabul. We much fear that the scenes between Cabul and Jellalabad will there again be repeated.

THE HOBURN MEMORIAL.—We have copied with much pleasure from a Singapore Free Press a notice regarding this memorial, from which it will be seen that the treasurers here, Messrs JARDINE MATHESON & Co. have addressed the Straits Government, offering to pay over to it the funds collected, provided the India Government will apply them, adding from its own resources the necessary sum; for the building of a light-house on Pedra Branca, at the entrance to the Straits of Malacca. From the fact of an officer having been sent to select the most eligible spot for the purpose, we are led to hope that the offer has been favorably received by Mr. Bonham, and that the Bengal Government may be led to accept it thus conferring a great boon on the numerous and valuable shipping continually passing the Straits, and doing due honor to the memory of Horsburgh.
SEE SUPPLEMENT.

We have by the Pluto received the first number of a new weekly paper which has appeared at Singapore under the name of "Straits Messenger, a General Newspaper and Journal of Literature." As to size it is more ambitious than its neighbour, the Free Press; of the quality of its contents it would be premature to judge.

From the Harker, 19th April.

OPIMUM SALE.—The following is the result of the opium sale, held at the Exchange Rooms, yesterday:

	cheats,	highest,	lowest,	average,	proceeds
Behar	8925	805	770	788.2.4	29,73,000
Benares	1165	775	765	768.4.2	8,95,025

HONGKONG.—We understand the Medusa steamer to have brought orders from Calcutta, making the settlement of Hongkong for the present at least a mere military post, of which Major-Genl. Burrell, C. B. has been appointed military commandant. All the officers holding civil employments on the island are ordered to join their respective regiments forthwith, and most of the works commenced for the improvement of the town on account of Government are to be discontinued, indeed that no more expence than necessary to keep the place as a military post is on any account to be incurred. This looks almost as if the government had no intention of the permanent occupation of Hongkong, or at least that it was not contemplated to make it the centre of the foreign trade, and if so will be a severe disappointment to many who have already invested large sums of money in building there. We suppose that Hongkong will never be absolutely abandoned, for its position as a military and naval station offers advantages which may be sought in vain elsewhere, and as such we suppose, if no other support is given it, a considerable coasting trade will always be carried on there. But a large population like that of Hongkong, which has been drawn thither in the hope of mercantile employment, will be a source of great inconvenience to the military commander, who with probably no very large force under his command, will be puzzled how to govern that multitude, and we fear that many disorders will take place in consequence. The town itself extends for the length of about four miles from east to west, and we have been informed that since we visited it in February last, the Chinese population has very considerably increased. The applications from Chinese at the land office for lots whereon to build have of late been many, and we have been assured by some who have within the week visited Hongkong that already no less than 1300 Chinese habitations have been erected. In this estimate we are tempted to make considerable allowance for the want of exact statistical information, for we believe that no enumeration has been made; but at all events the Chinese in the expectation of carrying on trade there have thronged to the new town in considerable numbers, and instead of the 8000 inhabitants it numbered in February last, there may be double that number now, or perhaps even more. There are very few British commercial houses in China who are not at this moment extensively engaged in building warehouses and dwelling houses, and it was said that several of them intended removing thither within a few months. How far the late orders from the Bengal government may paralyze their activity remains to be seen. It appears to us that the encouragement given by H. M. Plenipotentiary hitherto for the building of the new town, and the consequent expenditure of large sums by private persons, will deserve due consideration from the government, and perhaps much may not be risked by proceeding towards the completion of the buildings already commenced, as the large capital laid out, and consequent value of the island, may then possibly induce the authorities to look on it with favor. Besides, government themselves have spent vast sums of money on the improvement of the island; the expenditure has been profuse in the extreme and we should not be astonished to learn that since its occupation in February last year it had not fallen short of a million of dollars, perhaps more. Is all this to be lost? no return to be made for all this capital? We are anxious for official information on this very important subject, which we suppose the course of next week will supply.

This is the anniversary of the treacherous attack of the Chinese last year upon the small force then in sight near Canton, and the Factories and foreign merchants there, which led to the memorable occupation of the heights near that city, and the ransom of it for six millions of dollars. Up to this time this has been the most signal, and certainly most successful achievement of the war with China; and however short of the expectations entertained by many, the results of that memorable military movement have been, it must be confessed that in the 12 months following, although the troops have been successful in many engagements, no similar advantages have followed. This, however, was chiefly owing to the landforce being inadequate to any great enterprise, having, although its total was small enough, been dispersed to garrison five different places, namely Hongkong, Kulongsoo, Tinghae, Chinhae, and Ningpo, by which no force of sufficient strength was left available for any enterprise at any great distance. Now however, both India and England are pouring forth their troops, and Steamers are daily arriving on these coasts, of which latter already we count as many as eleven, and near twenty will be here in the course of another month. The number of ships of war not including, steamers will not fall short of 35, and the landforces will altogether treble the number heretofore employed. It is an immense effort made by England to obtain redress from the Chinese, but not greater than is thought to be necessary; and the management of this great force, in order to obtain through it the objects of the mission, will require no ordinary ability. What the next point of attack may be, whether Haugchowfoo, and after that Nanking, or whether a movement upon Peking be contemplated is not known; and as in all such cases of uncertainty, various are the opinions on the subject; some are in favor of Nanking, to obtain possession and control of the great canal; others think that without the Emperor be properly frightened by paying him a visit in his palace at Peking, no terms of accommodation will be obtained. Whatever may be the plan of the present campaign, we trust that all the forces will be out in time, and that another year may not be wasted without striking a decisive blow. But a few of the transports from Madras have yet arrived at Hongkong; none of those expected from England; although we perceive that H. M. S. Harlequin had arrived at Singapore. The Chinese as yet seem determined to resist to the utmost, and unless demonstration is made, convincing to them, that the British force is irresistible, and that it is able to penetrate their country everywhere, and to take possession of their strongest or most important posts or cities, creating thereby among the people, great contempt for their own government, it cannot be expected that any advances towards the arrangement of existing differences will be made, or any desire to submit to the necessary sacrifices be created. This is likely to prove an eventful year in the history of China.

THE HORSBURGH MEMORIAL.—In the last number of the Canton Press, one of the Subscribers of the Horsburgh Memorial writes, with the view of ascertaining what has been done or is doing with the Funds subscribed since the meeting of December, 1836, held, as our readers may remember to perpetuate the memory of that celebrated Nautical Character. We are informed from an authentic source, that the Treasurers, Messrs Jardine, Matheson & Co., have lately been in communication with the Government of the Straits, offering to hand over the amount of subscription, a trifle above Spanish dollars 5,500, to the Governor, in the hope that a Light House on Pedra Branca, to be named after Horsburgh, would, (agreeably to the general wish of the subscribers,) be erected to his memory, to be backed by the "monument" of the East India Company, and also learn, that their Agents in Singapore have been instructed to pay the amount, upon the Governor pledging himself that it would be undertaken. We happen to know that a reference has been made by the Authorities here to the Supreme Government about this matter, and that a proper officer had been dispatched to select the most eligible spot for the purpose. We here take up the subject upon public grounds, and believing as we do, that a more appropriate testimony of public gratitude and approbation than a "beacon light to the Mariner," could not be fixed upon to attest the worth of one who had devoted the best years of his life in endeavoring to smooth the course of the navigator through the rocks and shoals of the ocean—and that no other public body but the British Government is better fitted to carry the scheme into effect—we are not however prepared to go the length of supposing, that the Government is called upon to bear nearly the whole, (for the fund already available is but small in proportion to bulk of the required expenditure), burthen of the undertaking. The fact must not be lost sight of, that Commerce, will derive immense advantages, (in which this Settlement will participate not a little), from the project in question, and it is but right therefore that it should sustain a conspicuous portion of the expence—hence, the Commercial Body of this place ought, which they will not be backward (when called upon) to be in adding liberally to the funds required for such a useful work. There is we apprehend every reason to believe, that the British Government will subscribe freely—for independent of its public utility; the memory of JAMES HORSBURGH has a further claim upon their sympathy as a meritorious public servant—and it must not, we repeat, be forgotten that it has a stronger claim upon Mercantile interests from whom a more eminent display of liberality is looked for towards a building of immense public utility.—Singapore Free Press

It will be seen from our Singapore extracts that a junk bound for that place from China, was attacked and robbed by another on the high seas, and that the pirate afterwards sought the port of Singapore in the guise of a peaceful trader, but was recognized by the injured party, and nakodah and crew arrested. There have been as yet few instances of Chinese pirates leaving their own shore at such a distance to carry on their nefarious practices. We hope that evidence will in this case not be wanting to bring the guilty to condign punishment. We are glad to see also from the Hongkong paper that several pirates have there of late been taken, convicted and punished, and we hear that during this week another pirate crew has been apprehended, consisting of 29 men, now waiting for trial. The utmost vigilance against piracy is highly necessary, for from all accounts the evil seems to be very much on the increase.

At length we learn that some tidings have been received from Captain Denham of the Brig Ann which we stated some weeks since to have been cast away on the Island of Formosa, and her crew made prisoners by the Chinese. Capt. Denham writes that up to the 10th of April, the date of his letter, he, Mr. Gully, and crew were kept by the Chinese in four different prisons not far from the seaside, almost opposite to Chimoa, and very severely treated. We hope that H. M. Ships of war will be able to do something for their release, although we understand close approach by sea is impracticable. We have heard nothing of the shipwrecked crew of the Norhuda.

We learn on good authority that the Emperor, apprehensive of a visit from the English to Peking has retired into Tartary, and has before his departure, magnanimously issued proclamations to his people enjoining them to defend themselves to the very utmost. We wonder what the people will say to be forsaken by him whose duty it is to protect them: such pusillanimity deserves that the people should throw off their allegiance to a prince who seems so little deserving of it.

The transports Thames, Roberts, Perry, Meria have arrived at Hongkong. H. M. S. V. Fish, passed through the roads here on Thursday last, only six days from Singapore. Only part of her letters and those per Medusa have yet reached Macao; and we are among those who have not received as yet any letters or papers. H. M. S. Cruiser has during the week proceeded to the northward.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
AT CHUAN, CHINKAI AND NINGPO.
Cornwallis. 78.—Bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; Capt. Richards, SUPPLEMENT.

Blonde 42—captain T. Bourcier, c. B.
 Cambrian — " H. D. Chade, c. B.
 Callope 28— " A. L. Kuper,
 Cruiser 18—comdr. J. Pearce,
 Pelican 18— " Napier,
 Morlette 18— " Watson,
 Columbine 18— " Morhead,
 Clio 18— " E. Troubridge,
 Algerine 18—lieut. Maitland.
 Lady Bentinck, surveying, vessel comdr. R. Collinson,
 Troopship Jupiter mr. comr. R. Fulton,
 H. C. S. Nemesis lieut. W. H. Hall,
 " Queen mr. comr. W. Warden,
 " Phlegathon lieut. McCleverty,
 " Senostris comdr. Ormsby, I. N.
 " Tenasserim " Wall I. N.

AT AMOY.

Herald 96—captain J. Nias, c. B.
 Hyacinth 18—comdr. G. Goldsmith,
 Pylades 18— " Tindal (absent)
 Chameleon 10—lieut. Hunter,
 Starling 6—comdr. H. Kellett,

SQUADRON AT THE MOUTH OF CANTON RIVER,

Blenheim 78—captain { Sir Thomas Herbert K.
 " " " c. B. senior Command" " " ing Officer.
 Druid 44— " H. Smith, c. B.
 Nimrod 48—comdr. Glasco
 Royalist 40—lieut. Chetwood,
 Young Hebe 4— " Wood.
 H. M. S. V. Wixen, comdr. H. Boyes,
 H. C. S. Hooghly mr. comr. Ross,
 " Ariadne Roberts I. N.
 " Lord Auckland " "
 " Medusa " "
 " Pluto " "

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

May, ARRIVED
 15, H. C. S. Pluto, —, Singapore.
 18, (B) Margaret, Tomkins, Bombay. (Sing.)
 18, H. M. S. V. Fizan, comr. Boyes, England &
 18, H. C. S. Medusa, —, Calcutta & Sing
 20, (B) Caledonia, Lawson, Bombay.

May, SAILED
 4, (B) Sir Robt. Peel, Craie, Manila.
 10, " Nimrod, Manning, Liverpool.
 16, (A) Horatio, Howland, New York.
 19, (B) Chelydra, —, Bombay.

UNDER DISPATCH

For Sydney, — Australasian Packet.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England, — Ann Birdson, Anna Eliza, Do-vacot, Borussia, John Christian,
 Gulnare, Bengalee, Devon.
 From Bombay, — Corsair, Drangan Bombay, Wm.
 Perry, Herald, Devonport, Ra-parcell.
 From Calcutta, — Sea Queen, Anna Watson, Crest,
 From Singapore, — Pantaloon, Fourteen, Lawrence,
 Zee, Ternate.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th March. SINGAPORE, 11th May.
 UNITED STATES, Dec. 29. MANILA.
 CALCUTTA, 30th April. AMOY, 3d May.
 BOMBAY, 14th April. CHUAN, 26th April.
 JAVA, 2d April.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arna,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Austra. Packet	208	Hill,	"
Arrow,	—	Geare,	Jardine M. & Co.
Arduces,	—	Macintyre	Macvicar & Co.
* Ann,	271	Macalpine	Gribble Hughes & Co.
* Abbot's heading	350	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Christina,	—	Birkett,	"
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dixon & Co.
Chusan,	—	Laurel,	Dent and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybas.
* Castle Knutly,	—	Reddie,	Macvicar & Co.
Eleonora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Falcon,	—	Baker,	H. Rustomjee.
Fortescue,	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Georgiana,	—	—	—
Hydra,	378	Woodbury	C. Pearson.
John Horton,	—	cunningham	Holliday Wise & Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgan,	Dent and Co.
Lady Hayes,	—	Pateron,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Margaret,	—	Tomkins,	Turner & Co.
Mahmoodie,	—	Byworth,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	W. Scott,	—
Prima Donna,	206	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
* Regular,	389	Hudd,	Turner and Co.
Royal Saxon,	—	—	H. Rustomjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybas.
Royal Exchange	155	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Vestal,	—	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
William Hughes	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
* Akbar,	Dumaresq Russell and Co.
Panama,	—
* Henry Pratt,	Rogers,
* Cayuga,	Bissel,
Forum,	Murdock,
Levant,	Faulk,
Ann MacKim,	Vasmer,
Cincinnati,	Wilson,
	Wetmore & Co.

* at Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,
 at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 35.]

Macao, Saturday, 28th May, 1842.

[No. 337.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

ON Monday the 30th instant will be sold at Public Auction, by C. MARKWICK.
THE PREMISES of the late A. B. LABAT in two lots.
Terms Cash 7.1.7.

ROBT. EDWARDS.
Administrator to the Estate.

Hongkong, 16th May, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DADABHOY RUSTOMJEE is admitted a Partner in our Firm from this day.
RUSOMJEE COWASJEE & Co.
Calcutta, 1st March, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines at Subrégimes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs aires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine,
Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUGMAN in our firm here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

{ GEORGE MARTIN.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
(Sd.) ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this 31st day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
P. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCALES DRUIDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.
LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841.

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Forre.

NOTICE.—The undersigned, having been appointed Agents in China, for the STRAITS INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to M. DUVAL, or to

C. FEARON.—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MARGARIDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO.
or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Bark SEA QUEEN, will proceed to Hongkong on Monday the 30th instant to take such freight as may offer, and will be despatched from this for the above Ports on the 18th June.

FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.

Macao, 27th May, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 268 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "ABBOT'S READING" A I 350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

WETMORE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "FANTALON," Capt. PORTER, will be dispatched for the above ports about the 20th Instant. For freight or passage apply to HENRY FVBUS.

Macao, 6th May, 1842.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A I Barque "CHUSAN," Capt. LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th April, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Brig JOHN HORTON, (336 Tons new measurement) Captain O. CUNNINGHAM. Apply to

W. T. KINSLEY—Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.—Macao.

Macao, 14th April, 1842.

THE Ship "GENERAL WOOD" receives Goods on demurrage at Hongkong, at $ 3 per Chest per month, and no fee charged on delivery.

THE British Barque "LADY HAYES," receives Goods on demurrage in Macao Roads, at $ 3 per Chest per month, and no fee charged on delivery.

FOR SALE.—Bills on Messrs Baring Brothers & Co., London. Apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 28th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "LEVANT" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot Board, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, and favored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN PINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases.

SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads.
BRANDY and GENRYA do.
PALE ALE BARS, do.
BEEF in tierces, Pork in barrels.
COALS, 120 tons.
OILMANS Stores late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BACON and BRAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADRINA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEAN CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to

J. A. DE SILVA.

At Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. CO'S DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Botts and Hbls., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Saphro" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hbls. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.

MANILA SGOARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SELTZERWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also Russia CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to

J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to

B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG, A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar, Ebor's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars. THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SHAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.

Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 2.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS
Of Ships 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines 1.
for 3 months 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press,
For one year payable in advance 12.
For six months 7.
For three 4.
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

OVERLAND MAIL, 4TH MARCH.

AFGHANISTAN AND CHINA.

Immediately on receipt of the overland mail, the state of affairs in Afghanistan became the subject of paramount interest, and, notwithstanding the very favorable character of the news from China, Government securities were immediately affected to the extent of 1/2 per cent. India Stock fell 2 per cent and Bonds between 5 and 6. Much astonishment was manifested that persons of such matured oriental experience as Sir W. H. Macnaghten and the unfortunate and lamented Sir A. Burnes should have been so completely ignorant of the mine upon which they stood; and that the flash by which it was fired should have been the first indication of a storm which must have been long gathering, and which at length burst upon the British with such fearful intensity. The profound secrecy with which the revolt appears to have been organized has occasioned a belief in this country that we are yet in complete ignorance as to the precise nature of its objects, or the extent to which disaffection has spread; and this feeling accentuates the anxiety and apprehension which must prevail until the arrival of further advices. In the meantime there appears to exist no difficulty in assigning to the Ghilzais an adequate motive for their hatred and revenge. This is attributed, whether correctly or otherwise, to Lieut. Lynch, and the storming and massacre at Kheilat-i-Ghilaie, which has, we believe, been universally reprobated. Speaking of this affair, the Times says:—"We are glad to remember that we immediately denounced this atrocious act of barbarity with all the force we could exert—that we reminded Englishmen of the terrible account they were running up in India—of the enormous masses that they were uniting against themselves—the deep feelings they were rousing—the reputation they were casting away, so long as such acts of savage wantonness remained unpunished—acts even more heinously impolitic than wicked. We warned them that such things could not last—that there were such things as universal national feelings, never to be trifled with, least of all in a country like India, where a few thousands have to maintain authority over many millions, which, if once they gained head, would sweep as away in spite of all our energy, and discipline, and forethought. Meanwhile, however, events took their course. Whether Lieutenant Lynch was promoted or dismissed, we cannot say with certainty; we rather hope and believe the latter. The over-sensitive Ghilzais, however, were 'coerced,' in due course. They were attacked and beaten in some very severe actions. It is not, however, so easy, when a whole people are justly enraged, to stop their mouths with market-balls. A war with natives of a difficult mountainous country—brave, determined, united, inflamed by settled resentment and religious enthusiasm, and finally, with right on their side, is, indeed, no pleasing incident: and still less so when we remember that these very men offered comparatively no opposition to our (virtual) occupation of their country, but have been roused into this bitter hatred by our behaviour there. The first measure, of course, is to save our own men. This, we trust, has been effected. Bodies of troops were being thrown on the contested country, and we earnestly hope they may not have been too late to rescue their gallant comrades from becoming the victims to the storm raised by their leaders' misconduct. For the rest, these gentlemen seem to have brought us into a dilemma which we have not patience to think of. The Indian Government must either advance through injustice, or retreat with the most alarming risk to our whole Indian empire. We yet will hope that things are not so bad as they seem. We will hope that a dishonourable war or a dishonourable peace may still be avoided; that such a display of force may be brought to bear on the hostile tribes as may render tranquillity possible, without either the dangerous danger of having been plainly baffled, or the horrors of a war of extermination, which some persons, in these days, seem to regard with so much serenity.

Speaking of China, the Times adds:—"Meanwhile we go to battering the unfortunate Chinese with much rigour. They are no fighters, poor creatures, and so our success there has been easy and complete. We want only men to take possession of our conquests, and whatever peace we choose to make, we shall at any rate not be suspected of having done so from failure of power.

On the whole, we must confess, it is with almost unmitigated pain that we look on our oriental prospects. The steadfastness and bravery of our troops must always be recorded with pride and gratitude; but it is truly depressing to think that these gallant men, in support of an arrogant or a bungling policy, should be employed to shoot down and disperse a crowd of silly and helpless puppets, or be sacrificed in attempts to crush the spirit of hardy and justly-irritated mountaineers. May the arrival of the fresh Governor-General, in the middle of these difficulties and dangers, give a turn to Indian policy which may enable us to look upon it with something more of satisfaction.

When the news of our partial reverses in Afghanistan transpired in Paris, it was regarded as the forerunner of the breaking-up of our Indian empire. A Paris letter, in speaking of this disastrous intelligence, says:—"You will attribute the movements in India to Russian management, and you may be right in some degree—but you owe it more eminently to the intrigues of Frenchmen. Alas! in particular, though now dead. You are said to be about to sanction the establishment of a number of French Consuls in India. Heaven grant that you repeat it not!"

On the receipt of further advices by the steamer India, the Times remarked:—"The authorities in India have nothing to do but to fold their hands, and wait till the spring enables them to advance into Afghanistan, and see whether anything is still left living of that gallant force which their blind lust of empire, pushed forward into that sterile region: Miserable end of the daring and successful exploits which characterized our conquest of that country: And a terrible, perhaps useful, lesson to those rulers who think that a territory may be gained by a few military successes—blowing open a few gates, storming a few forts, and shooting down a few hundred wild Afghans!"

We have been intoxicated with military success in India. Every man thinks himself a Cive or a Hastings—and fancies that he is sent out for nothing else than to add some thousand miles to an empire already extended beyond what true policy would warrant. Instead of pursuing the course of consolidation, amalgamation, and improvement which this position of our empire imperiously demands, we must needs aim, in the true spirit of the day useful in itself, and very far worse than useless in its consequences. Never was there a country for which so much might be done by its governors as India. We may dare (and how few governors can say as much) either to be firm or to be civil, to indulge or to rule our subjects. Only we want peace and quiet: we must be content to chastise instead of reducing our neighbours—to defend instead of appropriating. Our force is undeniable and undeniable. We have all the power of a despotism, with what ought to be checks of a constitution. The representative of the British Government, while he is strictly responsible to England for gross and palpable abuse of power, is yet powerful for good to an extent, scarce conceivable in a country where all authority is checked and limited as it is here. We earnestly trust that those promises with which the present Governor-General left England may be performed, and that he may make it his task to pay India some of that large moral, religious, and political debt which England owes her for all those treasures which we have so largely drawn from her.—London Mail, March 4.

PRESENTS BY THE KING OF PRUSSIA.

The following is a list of the magnificent donations given by His Majesty to the different charities and establishments in the metropolis:

To the Society of Friends of Foreigners in distress £ 500
To the Dracnought Hospital Ship 100
To the Shipwrecked Fishermen & Marine Society 50
To the German Catholic Church 100
To the German Lutheran Church (Saroy) 50
Ditto (Little Alie Street) 50
Ditto (Hamburg Church) 50
To the German Reformed Church (Hopper-sq.) 50
Fifty pounds to the workmen of the Thames Tunnel.
To the attendants of the Great Western Railway 100.
The Royal barbeten at Greenwich, 251. To the Queen's household at Windsor Castle, 1,500. To the poor of Windsor, 500. The domestics of Buckingham Palace, 100. The six beautiful vases presented by His Majesty to the Queen and Prince Albert are reported to be unique and of inestimable value. They are of the finest porcelain, covered with exquisite paintings, and elaborately ornamented, and stand six feet high. They were conveyed from Berlin in eighteen cases; and their value may be judged, for they were insured at Antwerp for "sea risk" to this country for 100,000 francs. At His Majesty's desire they were unpacked, and placed in the Queen's apartments at Buckingham Palace. 6001. to be divided among the crews of the Firebrand and Shearwater steamers, proportioned to the rank of each person employed on board. His Majesty presented handsome gold boxes to the Earl of Jersey, Master of the Horse; Earl Delawar, Lord Camberlain, and the Earl of Liverpool, Lord Steward. The boxes may be considered the finest specimens of Berlin workmanship; and the value of each box is said to be upwards of 700l. The Earl of Hardwicke, Capt. Meynell, R.N., M.P., and Colonel Arbuthnot, the Lord Groom, and Equerry in Waiting to the Queen, selected for the honor of attending on His Majesty, have also been presented with similar tokens of His Majesty's esteem.—London Mail, March 4.

AFGHANISTAN.

CALCUTTA.

NORTH-WEST INTELLIGENCE.

April 4th, 1842.

The following Calcutta Gazette Extra confirms the intelligence, of the fall of Ghuznee, announced by us some days ago:—

Notification Fort William, Secret Department 4th April.—The following copy of a Despatch from Lieut. Colonel Palmer, Commanding at Ghuzner, to the address of the Officer Commanding at Jellalabad, dated the 1st March 1842, is published for general information by order of the Governor-General-in-Council.

Ghuzni 1st March, 1842.

To Officer Commanding at Jellalabad

Sir,—It is with much concern I acquaint you, that from want of water and by an overpowering force under cover and within 50 yards of us in the City, I have been compelled to enter into terms to evacuate the Citadel and Fort, within six days. The Garrison is to occupy the N. E. corner of the Town. The Garrison is exhausted by fatigue and constant duty, and the men have suffered greatly from cold, the thermometer having been 140 below zero. The terms are honorable treatment and safety whilst here and on the march to Cabool, solemnly sworn to by the chief. In capitulating I have only acted up to the orders of Major Pottinger and General Elphinstone, who directed me, in an official letter, to evacuate the Citadel and City on the arrival of Roolilla Khan; son of Ameenullah Khan, Sirdar of Lagur. This chief arrived and promised to escort us in safety to Cabool. Amoon Shumsooden Khan, nephew of Dost Mahomed Khan, has also arrived as Governor of Ghuzni and as Political Agent. I received instructions to march immediately on his arrival for Cabool, from the late Sir W. Macnaghten, Bart. Abandoned as this Garrison has been in the very centre of the enemy's country, cut off from all communication with any quarter, and without a sufficiency of water even at this season, with 200 men detached to hold an outpost which is destitute of water, and must have fallen in 48 hours, nothing but capitulation remained. From the outpost falling into the hands of the enemy, they would command our only Well and Cong. Fort, the whole Garrison would have been destroyed in a few days. The bearer has received only subsistence on the road, and is to receive a handsome reward on delivering this letter. We have upwards of 100 sick and wounded and 137 exiles. The Officers, including Capt. Burnett, 54th, and Lieutenant Crawford, S. S. Force, are all well.

I have &c.

(Signed) J. PALMER, Lt. Col.
Pol. Agent, Coming at Ghuzni.

P. S.—There is great reason to fear for our safety as there are some thousands of Ghazis in the city, whom the Chiefs cannot disperse. The snow is still deep. No tidings from the Southward, but report says the Troops hold the city of Kandahar, and are daily fighting.

True Copy

(Signed) H. WADE, Captain,
Major of Brigade

True Copy

(Signed) R. H. POLLOCK, A. D. C.

The Governor General in Council has directed that the Commander in Chief will submit the conduct of Lieut. Colonel Palmer, in surrendering the Citadel of Ghuznee, to the judgment of a Court Martial, at the earliest period at which such Court can be duly assembled.

The Governor General in Council has already (on the 28th of January last,) directed that a full Military Enquiry shall be made into all the circumstances connected with the direction and conduct of the Troops at Cabool, at the earliest period at which such an Enquiry may be practicable.

The Governor General has now directed that the conduct of Major General Elphinstone, in Afghanistan, shall be submitted to the judgment of a Court Martial, at the earliest period at which such Court can be duly assembled.

The Governor General in Council will further direct that a full Enquiry shall likewise be made into the conduct of all the Political Functionaries employed at Cabool, at the earliest possible period after he shall be in possession of certain material documents of which he has already ordered the immediate transmission to Government.

By order of the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

T. H. MADDOCK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

Rumours were afloat early yesterday morning, to the effect that Government had received intelligence of a successful action near Candahar, but upon making enquiries in the proper quarter, we ascertained that no such news had arrived. The afternoon's dawn, however, brought us the following, in a Delhi Gazette Extra-diary. It is somewhat singular that up to the 4th of April no intelligence of the fall of Ghuznee had reached Delhi although our own letters (of the 30th ultimo) from Kuraul and Meerut speak of it as a positive fact, well known at those stations. The account of action at Candahar is rather confused, and some portions of it seem rather improbable, but we presume that the main facts of the narrative are essentially true. The Quetta intelligence, however, seems almost totally incorrect.

"We hasten to lay before our readers the following particulars of an assault on the city of Kandahar by the enemy, on the night of the 10th March, and of their complete discomfiture, with very heavy loss, and not one casualty on our side.

"As the news is of the utmost importance at this particular juncture, and will allay the great anxiety which is now felt as to Candahar and Ghuznee, we give it without any remarks, beyond the congratulations upon the very reasonable event, and, on our side, bloodless victory; as our friends say, 'let the people in this quarter but learn, that General Pollock is at Jellalabad, and not one of them will dare to raise his head.

"Our readers are already aware from the latest account given out, that the insurgents had mustered large numbers in the vicinity of Candahar and General Nott moved out about the 7th March, to attack the enemy, who gradually retiring as he advanced, gave him no opportunity of bringing them to a general action. He was thus led on to pursue them to a distance of between thirty or forty miles from Candahar when they eluded his vigilance and doubled round the city, taking up a position within five miles of its walls.

"On the 9th their numbers had increased to at least, 5,000 Infantry, and between 1,000 and 1,200 horsemen. The Garrison was diminished by five and a half Regts., and sixteen guns, which General Nott, had taken with him in pursuit. On the night of the 10th about 8 o'clock the whole of the enemy's force came down to attack the city; succeeded in setting fire to and burning the Herat gate, and had actually surmounted a barrier of gram bags raised in the gateway, before they were repulsed. To ensure success at the main point of assault, they had made false attacks on the other two gates, but entirely failed in their attempts to set one of them on fire. The moment the real point of danger was ascertained, and our chief force in guns and Europeans brought to bear, the enemy were driven back, leaving ten men dead in the gateway, and forty bodies so close to our fire as to be allowed to remain there until morning.

"The enemy's total loss, was at first computed at 300, but, subsequent accounts, which are stated to be more accurate give upwards of 600 men, and nearly 1,000 were either killed or wounded on the side of the Doonances, whilst, extraordinary to relate, not a man of the garrison was touched. The consequence of this signal failure was that the Afghans broke up their encampment on the same night, and on the 11th not a man was to be seen on the plains, which the day before were covered by a large army; and several of the more influential chiefs have actually sent to the Political Agents proposing terms.

"General Nott during his movements in the district, in pursuit of the enemy, destroyed several villages and killed some 90 or 100 of the enemy's skirmishers on different occasions; and with the necessary proportion of Cavalry he would have been enabled to force the enemy into a general action, but his small complement of Irregular Horse have been so hard worked and badly fed, that their good-will was beyond their strength. We have no letters from Peshawar since our last issue.

"This morning dawn also brought us letters from Quetta to the 20th ultimo, which mention that Shah Kamran had fallen into the hands of Yar Malomed; Kelat-i-Ghilzie and Ghuznee, are both reported safe; Girish also holds out under the Killedar Bulwant Singh.

"Brigadier England intended to move towards the Peshean Valley about the 25th ultimo. The want of Cavalry is severely felt."

"It has been ascertained that Capt. Arthur Conolly, Envoy to the Khan of Khiva, no doubt entertaining well founded apprehensions, when he heard of the insurrection at Kabul, that his own safety did not rest on the surest foundation, has left Orgunj and retreated within the Russian frontiers."

(From the Englishman, April, 20.)

Although the advances published yesterday, were dated a day or two in advance of the following from the Delhi Gazette Extra, the details may nevertheless interest our readers:—

"CAMP, JUMROOD, 1st APRIL, 1842.—We left our ground at Kawulser yesterday morning, and were very glad to do so, for it was becoming very unpleasant in consequence of the filth and dirt which had accumulated round the camp. The army commenced its march at gun fire, and every thing was on the ground by about 10 o'clock. The order of march was in accordance with the programme I sent you. The Cavalry Brigade joined us the day before yesterday (the 30th March), and we are now encamped between Jumrood and the mouth of the Khyber pass, which we expect to enter to-morrow morning. Shortly after we came to our ground, yesterday, a party of Capt. Ferrie's Jezailchees were sent to take possession of a small hill about a mile from us, below which and the larger hills are a number of caves in which the Afreedis secret themselves. A bill to the left was also crowned by the men lately raised for our service by Capt. Thomas. These were merely precautionary measures; however, during the night some stragglers were seen who fired upon Ferrie's party and wounded one of them, in return for which two of the marauders were shot and brought in. The rain, during the first part of the night, came down in torrents, otherwise, it is said, the freebooters were to have made an attack on the Camp; parties of them are seen on each side of the entrance to the pass, and from the hill on which the Jezailchees party are placed, it is easy to see, with the assistance of a telescope into it as far as the bridge, which has been partly injured or broken down. This morning and throughout the day, great numbers of Afreedis could be distinguished within the pass; they were on each side of the gorge, and they appeared to be increasing to thousands. This will, no doubt, appear strange news to you, as strange as it is to us, as a free passage had been stipulated for; but, it is now said, that the Chiefs have not full control over these wild fanatics, who it appears, care but little for their lives. I dare say we shall have a struggle after all, but there is no fear of the result. A report is abroad that the Chiefs now require us to pay them the full amount agreed on before we enter the pass, although they received a moiety a few days ago, with a promise of the balance at Akre Musjid, an arrangement with which they then expressed themselves satisfied; and it is the general belief that they are now making a demonstration in such force to induce us to comply with their present demands.

"All the Soldiers appear in good spirits, and I hope nothing may take place to damp them. It is said of the men of the 10th Cavalry that they sent a deputation to the officer commanding the regiment to say that if it was deemed necessary they were agreeable to march to Jellalabad without their packs. It is this in true some public notice should be taken of conduct so much to their credit. Great anxiety of course prevails amongst us regarding the encounter which is now deemed more than probable, and its result; there will, even if the new arrangement with the Chief's is made, be an attempt at plunder, and if they hold out we shall most probably have our hands full of work; those who proceed along the gorge will, no doubt, have the greater share, and it may be a desperate engagement; however, I will not pretend to anticipate and will only promise to put you in possession of facts as they shall hereafter occur. Three or four days ago the sheep belonging to the 25th N. I. were stolen, and have not since been heard of, for the rogues took care to carry off the shepherd with them.

"The rain is again pouring down heavily, and unfortunately it may possibly prevent our entering the pass to-morrow. The reports and conjectures about us are so numerous, that one half of them would fill your Gazette. The Commissariat agents ordered to join our force without delay, require a little touching up, for they are coming very leisurely along the road, and do not appear to make any effort to join us. Two days ago Lieutenant Duffin, Interpreter of the 16th Native Infantry, was appointed to act, temporarily, as an Assistant to Capt. Nugent, the only regularly appointed Commissariat Officer with us. If it is really amusing to see the little bits of Pauls concocted by the Officers of H. M. 9th Foot, for the march through the pass. They are scarcely long enough to lie down in, or high enough to stand upright in, but the inmates are as merry as crickets, and happy as the day is long. Real comfort throughout the Camp is now in fact little thought of or cared for, our halt of to day is caused, I hear, by the disappearance of 400 camels yesterday.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF OFFICERS BELONGING TO THE REGIMENTS ON SERVICE IN AFGHANISTAN.

(A correspondent at Peshawar has sent us the annexed list of Officers belonging to the Punjab Regiments (corrected from the Agra Ukhbar). It seems to us more accurate, than any which has yet been published.—Ed. Hon.

Alexander, (Major 5th Cav.) absent.
Alexander, (Lieut. 5th N. I.) missing.
Anstruther, (Capt. 5th N. I.) ditto.
Airey, (Lieut. H. M. 8rd) at Cabool. [Badeabad.
Anquetil, (Brig.) killed.
Anderson, (Capt. 60th N. I.—Shah's Cav.) safe at Bourke, (Paymaster H. M. 44th) missing.
Balfour, (Assist. Surg. ditto.) at Cabool.
Blair, (Capt. 5th Cav.) missing.
Bolt, (Ditto ditto) ditto.
Bazett, (Lieut. ditto) ditto.
Bryce, (Assist. Surg. ditto) killed.
Bygrave, (Capt. 4th N. I.) safe.
Birch, (Ditto ditto) absent.
Birkinyoung, (Lieut. ditto) missing.
Brydon, (Assist. Surg. ditto) safe at Jellalabad.
Barstow, (Capt. 37th N. I.) absent.

Beaton, (Ditto, 54th N. I.) ditto.
Burnett, (Ditto ditto.) with 37th N. I. Chumra.
Bossawen, (Lieut. ditto) absent.
Bird, (Lieut. Madras Army) killed.
Boyd, (Capt. 68th N. I.) Badesabad.
Berwick, (Surg. ditto.) Cabool.
Campbell, (Major M. V. 58th.) absent.
Crawford, (Ditto ditto.) in England.
Cotton, (Capt. ditto.) died on his way to England.
Collins, (Lieut. ditto.) missing.
Carter, (Ditto ditto.) in England.
Cumberland, (Ditto ditto.) missing.
Cadell, (Ditto ditto) ditto.
Chambers, (Lieut. Col. 5th Cav. ditto.
Collyer, (Lieut. ditto.) killed.
Christie, (Coronet ditto.) in England.
Campbell, (Assist. Surg. 5th N. I.) missing.
Curtis, (Lieut. 37th N. I.) absent.
Caryon, (Ditto ditto) ditto.
Corri, (Capt. 54th N. I.) ditto.
Cunningham, (Ens. ditto.) ditto.
Cardew, (Surg. 38th Madras N. I.) ditto.
Codrington, (Capt. Shah's Service.) killed.
Conolly, (Lieut. J.) at Cabool.
DeWend, (Capt. H. M. 53th.) missing.
Dodgin, (Lieut. ditto.)
Deas, (Ditto 5th N. I.) ditto.
Dawson, (Ditto ditto.) Jullalabad.
Duff, (Surg. 54th N. I.) killed.
Drummond, (Capt. 3rd Cav.) at Cabool.
Evans, (Lieut. H. M. 44th) at Cabool.
Ewart, (Major 54th N. I.) killed.
Elphinstone, (Major General.) safe at Badesabad.
Eyre, (Lieut. Arty.) ditto ditto.
Ferryman, (Lieut. H. M. 44th) in England.
Fortye, (Ensign ditto) missing.
Fulton, (Ditto ditto) ditto.
Fennie, (Lieut. Colonel 27th N. I.) absent.
Ferrie, at Peshawar.
Gray, (Capt. M. M. 46th.) safe in India.
Grant, (Lieut. ditto.) in England.
Gray, (Ensign ditto) missing.
Gascoyne, (Lieut. 5th Cav.) absent.
Garstin, (Ens. 5th N. I.) at Peshawar with 68th.
Griffiths, (Maj. 37th N. I.) safe at Teesoo, supposed.
Gordon, (Ens. ditto.) killed. [ad to be.
Grant, (Capt. 37th N. I.) missing.
Gerard, (Lieut. 1st Eur. Regt.) at Jellalabad.
Halford, (Capt. H. M. 44th) in England.
Hogg, (Lieut. ditto) missing.
Hackett, (Ens. ditto) ditto.
Halahan, (Q. Mast. ditto.) ditto.
Harcour, (Surg. ditto) ditto.
Hamilton, (Lieut. ditto) ditto.
Hall, (ditto ditto) absent.
Harrington, (ditto ditto.) Peshawar.
Hardyman, (Coronet ditto) killed.
Harper, (Surg. ditto.) killed.
Haig, (Capt. 5th N. I.) missing.
Horsburg, (Lieut. ditto.) ditto.
Hutton, (Capt. 37th N. I.) Mussoorie, Inv. Estab.
Hawtry, (Lieut. ditto) ditto. [blishment.
Hopkins, (Capt. Shah's Service.) killed.
Houghton, (81st) missing.
Ingils, (Lieut. 37th N. I.) lost at Allahabad.
Johnstone, (Capt. J. H. M. 44th) with depot.
Jervis, (Lieut. 5th N. I.) absent.
Kipling, (Capt. H. M. 44th.) on leave.
Kisby, (ditto 54th N. I.) ditto.
Leighton, (Capt. H. M. 44th) missing.
Lock, (Lieut. 5th N. I.) killed in Khybur with 68th.
Lukin, at Peshawar.
Lyons, (ditto 37th N. I.) absent.
LeGeyt, (ditto 1st Bombay L. C.) killed.
Lawrence, (Capt. 11th Cav.) at Badesabad.
Mackrell, (Maj. H. M. 44th) killed.
McCrea, (Capt. H. M. 44th) killed.
McMahon, (Lieut. ditto) missing.
Mollan, (Ensign ditto) ditto.
Macnaghten, (Lieut. 5th Cav.) absent.
Mackay, (Int. and Quar. Mast. ditto.) missing.
Metcalfe, (Assist. Surg. ditto) ditto.
Macintosh, (Capt. 5th N. I.) killed.
Miles, (Lieut. ditto) missing.
Mayne, (Ditto 27th N. I.) at Jellalabad.
MacMullen, (Ens. ditto.) safe.
Moorehouse, (Acting Int. 37th N. I.) at Jellalabad.
Macgath, (Surg. ditto) safe.
Morrison, (Lieut. 54th N. I.) missing.
Melville, (ditto ditto) Badesabad.
Macartney, (Ens. 38th Madras N. I.) missing.
Marshall, (Lieut. Shah's Service) missing.
McCinner, (Surg.) at Cabool.
Mackenzie, (Lieut.) at Badesabad.
* Secret Major Commanding Secretariat at Peshawar.

Mein, (Fns.) ditto.
 Nicol, (Capt. H. A.) killed.
 O'Neill, (Capt. H. M. 44th) in England.
 Oldfield, (Capt. 5th Cav.) with General Sale.
 Oliver, (Lieut. Col. 5th N. I.) killed.
 Osborn, (Capt. 54th N. I.) absent.
 Primrose, (Assist. Surg. H. M. 45th.) missing.
 Plowden, (Coronet 5th N. I.) absent with Sale.
 Pottinger, (Ens. 5th N. I.) missing.
 Prole, (Capt. 37th N. I.) on leave.
 Parrot, (Ens. ditto.) absent with 60th.
 Palmer, (Lieut. 54th N. I.) missing.
 Paterson, (ditto ditto.) Peshawar 30th.
 Pottinger, (Ens. ditto) ditto missing.
 Paton, (Capt. 48th N. I.) safe at Cabool.
 Pottinger, (Maj. E.) Badesabad.
 Pensonby, at Peshawar.
 Robinson, (Capt. H. M. 44th) killed.
 Raban, (Lieut. ditto.) ditto.
 Reid, (Lieut. 8th Cav.) in England, not in the regt.
 Rind, (ditto 37th N. I.) missing.
 Robertson, (Ens. ditto.) Peshawar 53d.
 Rose, (54th) killed.
 Shelton, (Brigadier) safe at Badesabad.
 Scott, (Major) missing.
 Swayne, (ditto ditto.) killed.
 Smith, (Lieut. ditto) at Ferozepore.
 Souter, (ditto ditto.) said to be a prisoner.
 Swinton, (ditto ditto.) missing.
 Skipton, (ditto ditto.) not in the service.
 Shelton, (ditto ditto.) ditto.
 Swayne, (Ens. ditto.) ditto.
 Swayne, (Maj. 5th N. I.) ditto.
 Salkeld, (Lieut. ditto.) in England.
 Spottiswoods, (Capt. 37th N. I.) Provincas.
 Steer, (Lieut. 37th N. I.) wounded and left in a cave between Jugdulluck and Jullalabad.
 St. George, (Ens. ditto.) missing.
 Shaw, (Lieut. 54th N. I.) ditto.
 Skinner, (Capt. 61st N. I.) ditto.
 Stewart, (Lieut. H. A.) killed.
 Sturt, (Lieut. Bl. Eng.) killed.
 Strien, Dr. at Peshawar.
 Salasbary, (1st E. R.) killed.
 Turner, (Lieut. H. M. 44th) in England.
 Tombs, (ditto 5th N. I.) missing.
 Thain, (Maj. H. M. 21st Fus) killed. [Queer?—En.]
 Tyler, (Coronet) missing.
 Trevor, (ditto 3d L. C.) killed.
 Troop, (Capt. 48th N. I.) safe at Badesabad.
 Vanneke, (Lieut. 37th N. I.) missing.
 Vetch, (ditto 54th N. I.) absent.
 Woolhouse, (Lieut. H. M. 44th.) in England.
 White, (ditto ditto.) missing.
 White, (Ens. ditto.) ditto.
 Wheatley, (Capt. 5th Cav.) absent.
 Wrench, (Coronet ditto.) at Jullalabad.
 Warren, (Ens. 5th N. I.) ditto.
 Westmacott, (Capt. 37th N. I.) killed.
 Wilkinson, (Lieut. Col. 54th N. I.) absent.
 Weaver, (Lieut. ditto.) missing.
 Warburton, (Lieut. Art.) at Cabool.
 Webb, (Lieut. Shah's service.) ditto.
 Walker, (4th Irreg. Cavalry) killed.
 Walsh, (Lieut. Madras N. I.) at Cabool.
 Waller, (Lieut. Artillery) at Badesabad.
 Young, (Lieut. H. M. 55th) at Cawnpore.

THE CANTON RANSOM MONEY.

MILITARY.

BY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.
Fort W/ham, 6th April, 1842.—No. 93 of 1842.—In continuation of general orders No. 84, of the 2d March 1842, the right hon'ble the governor general of India in council is pleased to direct, that the following para. of a military letter, No. 2, from the hon'ble the court of directors to the governor general of India in council, dated 2d February 1842, be published in general orders:—
 "Referring to our military letter of the 19th ultimo, relative to the donation granted by her majesty to the forces employed in the late operations in China, we have to apprise you, that the secretary of state for the war department has now stated, with reference to the minute of the lords of the treasury, on that subject, that the only persons who are entitled to participate, under the first class defined in it, are those who were employed in the operations against Canton in May 1841, under the immediate pressure of which the sum of money, out of which the gratuity is to be paid, was obtained from the Chinese authorities.

N. STURT, Major.

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India, Milly. Dept.

CALCUTTA.

From the India Gazette, 18th April.

They who are interested in the progress of the Governor General will, perhaps, consider the following extract from a Kurawole letter of the 11th instant, worthy of perusal:—

"The Governor General arrived here this morning in progress to the Upper Provinces. For the last week there has been great stir up the road, in the shape of having khush-taties prepared and sending them up by dak, having the banzalows well armed, &c., for the convenience of his Lordship and Staff. I am informed the villagers of Gopalpore, which place was burnt down a few days ago, waited in a body on His Lordship, stating their loss of property and all their grain; and that His Lordship has made them a remuneration of Rs 500, very little of which will reach the hands of the poorer class of labourers, but will be an excellent prize to the zemindar and his dependents. His Lordship was to have inspected his body Guards, who are at Ungul; (18 miles west of this place) but leaves this rather late, and will remain at Beldongah all day to-morrow."

Late on Monday evening we were favoured with the following:—

"An express of the 2d of April, from General Pollock, states that, in consequence of heavy rain, his advance is postponed to the 4th instant, when it will be supported by a diversion on the part of the Sikhs. It also appears from letters from Jullalabad, of the 29th and 30th of March, that Mahomed Akbar's followers were deserting him, and that he had written to Cabul to intimate that he must relinquish the contest, unless reinforced from thence. General Sale says, that he could hold out as far as regards provisions, till the 13th, and that they continue to procure grass daily. The investment had become less close, in consequence of Mahomed Akbar having sent a detachment of his troops to aid in the defence of the Kkyber."

It was reported in Town on Monday, that intelligence of the forcing of the Khybr had arrived, and letters to that effect have been received, but not from any very trustworthy sources of intelligence. We have little doubt, however, that the pass has been carried, either by force of arms or of bribery, though we have no authentic accounts of the fact. Yesterday's dawn brought us no letters from Pollock's division, our correspondents, in all probability, being too much engaged to write; but a letter from an up-country correspondent, who has often sent in Peshawar news, of a later date than that, which we have received direct, writes to us, that "a letter of the 2d instant, from Ali Musjeed, had been received, by which it appears, that our troops had penetrated so far unopposed."—The pass, as we have already stated, had been bought thus far; but there was a band of Afghans in the service of Utkar Khan—variously stated at 2,000 and 12,000—occupying the fort of Ali Musjeed. It was, however, supposed, that they would retreat, before the arrival of General Pollock.—India Gazette, April 20.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 28th May, 1842.

We have had no arrivals during the week with any fresh intelligence. In Canton everything continues as before, nor are we aware that the Hyacinth lately arrived from Amoy at Hongkong has brought news of any interest, except that H. M. S. Herald had arrived there before she left. Several of the Steamers, we believe the Viceroy, Medusa, and Pluto have proceeded to the northward, whilst some of the Madras transports come dropping into Hongkong, mostly after very long passages from Singapore. We have heard of the arrival of the Belleisle, Apollo, and Sapphyre at the Cape, and they may now be daily expected. H. M. S. Blenheim it is said will, with H. M. Plenipotentiary on board, leave for Chusan in the course of next week. We publish a list (kindly furnished us by a friend) of the force of the Expedition to China, in 1842. It is to be hoped that this splendid armament will succeed in enforcing the demands made by England upon China. We earnestly hope that every part of it may reach this country in time, and that no disappointment may be experienced from the loss of another season. The naval force, it will be seen, is particularly strong, counting no less than about 35 ships of war, 6 armed transports, 19 Steamers, and 50 transports—altogether a fleet of about 110 sail. So splendid an armada has never been seen in any seas east of the Cape of Good Hope, and we hope that its imposing appearance will make due impression upon the government at Peking. What the object may be of sending so powerful a naval force to a country which has no ships to oppose it, is matter of conjecture, and it remains to be seen whether it is intended to blockade therewith any great portion of the extensive coast of the Chinese Empire. Whatever be the plan of the now beginning campaign, we hope it will be perseveringly adhered to, so as to show the long-tailed gentry that John Bull is in earnest and no longer to be trifled with, and that the objects of the expedition will not be lost sight of. We regret exceedingly that temporizing measures should still be persevered in, in one part of the Empire, we mean in the province of Canton, and that for the sake of getting tea, Whampoa should continue to be a friendly port. We have no doubt whatever that, were the Cho-kiang closely blockaded, the necessary quantity of tea and silk would, by the enterprising Chinese, be taken to Macao and Hongkong, whilst now, with the port of Whampoa open, all sorts of munitions of war are continued to be supplied to the Chinese, and means afforded them of paying for them with the duties the English trade pays. We have frequently before adverted to this subject, and the bad consequences of such line of policy, which it might have been desirable to follow as long as the conditions of Captain Elliot's truce were not infringed; but since the Chinese have, in violation of the conditions of that truce, been building fortifications all along the river's banks between Canton and Whampoa, there can be no obligation on our side any longer to respect it.

H. M. S. Hyacinth. Commander Goldsmith, is we understand to return home from Hongkong early next week. This vessel has, we believe, been upwards of five years on the India Station, and being one extremely well suited for navigation in shallow seas, and an excellent sailor, would we hear have been retained in China, had the crew been willing to volunteer for a new term of service.

By the Oncida from New York, we have received New York papers to the 22d January. The Oncida spoke on the 16th May, lat. 9° 15' N., long. 108° 40' E. British Barque John Henrick, from China for London; on the 19th May, in lat. 19° — N., long. 111° 28' E., transport barque Eagle from Singapore. The news from the United States, we find in the papers is not of very great importance. The Bill to repeal the new Bankrupt law had passed in the Chamber of Deputies. Many banks throughout the Union were failing and in Cincinnati the populace had taken the law into their own hands, and broken open some Bank-offices, at which payments had been suspended. The money market continued as unsettled as ever.

A report has been very generally spread, and obtained belief by many, that some Chinese soldiers had obtained instruction in the art of gunnery on board the U. S. S. Constellation and Boston at Whampoa, and that officers from these ships had likewise instructed the Chinese how to work their guns in the Forts. We refused belief to a report of so extraordinary a nature, but thought it our duty to make enquiries, which have not led to its confirmation. Letters from Canton mention the same report, but merely as such, and as to officers being in the forts, a gentleman on his passage from Whampoa to Canton only states that he saw several foreigners walking near one of the forts. It is probable that the report first took its origin, from several visits which the Chinese Admiral made on board the Constellation, where he was received with a salute and manned yards; the crew is then said to have been put through their exercises before the Chinese officers, and as those are generally accompanied by a great number of followers, people looking on from a distance may have thought them soldiers come on board for the purpose of instruction. On Thursday morning last the two ships of war were anchored off Second Bar on their way out of the river.

We received only on Monday last our papers per Medusa from Calcutta to the 20th of April, and Singapore 7th May. We have extracted largely from the former, containing accounts from Afghanistan; also a list of officers with the force of Cabul shewing which have suffered and which escaped in the dreadful tragedy there. We likewise extract from the India Gazette a government order, limiting the full batta for a year, of the Canton ransom money, to those who were immediately engaged in the operations near Canton.

From O Portuguese na China, 28th May.—The friends of the late Reverend father JOAQUIM A.

FORNO GONCALVES, and of literature, have bought a catacomb in the public cemetery of Sam Paulo, wherein to deposit the mortal remains of that illustrious Portuguese and well deserving clergyman; and the title of purchase contains the declaration that the grave under ground corresponding to the catacomb, is reserved for the burial of any clergyman who may die poor. We cannot say more in praise of the ever to be remembered and lamented father Goncalves than to copy the epitaph upon the catacomb, which is as follows:

D. O. M.

HIC JACET REVER D. JOAQUIMUS
ALFONSUS GONCALVES. LUSITANUS

PRÆBYTER CONGREGATIONIS MISSIONIS.

IN REGALI SANCTI JOSEPHI.

MACAENSES COLLEGIUM.

PROFESSOR EXIMIIUS REGALIS SOCIETATIS
ASIATICÆ SOCIUS. EXTER.

P.R.O.

SINENSIBUS MISSIONIBUS SOLICITUS.

PER UTILIA OPERA SINICÆ LUTITANO
LATINOQUE ÆRERONE COMPONUIT.

E.

IN LUCEM EDIDIT MORIBUS SUAVISSIMIS.

DOCTRINA. PRESTANTISS. INTEGRÆ VITA.

QUI

PLENUS DIERUS IN DOMINO QUIEVIT.

SEXAGENARIO MAIOR

QUINTO NONAS OCTOBRIIS. ANNO. MDCCCXLI.

IN.

MEMORIAM TANTI VIRI EJUS. AMICI.

LITERATURÆQUE CULTORES.

HUNC.

LAPIDEM CONSERVAVERE.

BRITISH EXPEDITION TO CHINA IN 1842

NAVAL FORCE.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 74, Bearing the blue flag of vice Admiral, Sir Wm. Parker, K. C. B. Capt. Richards.

.. *Agincourt, 74, Flag ship of Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, G. C. B. Capt. Bruce.

.. *Rienhelm, 74, Capt. Sir T. Perbert, G. C. B.

.. *Vindictive, 50, Troop Nicholas, G. C. B.

.. *Cambrian, 36, Chads, G. C. B.

.. *Thelia, 44, Hope

.. *Blonde, 44, Bouchier, G. C. B.

.. *Endymion, 44, the honble F. W. Grey.

.. *Druid, 44, H. Smith, G. C. B.

.. *North Star, 20, Sir J. E. Hoare, Bart.

.. *Carysfort, 20, Lord G. Paulet.

.. *Dido, 20, the honble H. Koppell.

.. *Calliope, 28, Kuper, G. C. B.

.. *Herald, 28, Nias, G. C. B.

.. *Pelican, 18, Napier.

.. *Hyacinth, 18, comr. Goldsmith.

.. *Modesta, 18, Watson.

.. *Columbine, 18, Morshead.

.. *Hazard, 16, Bell.

.. *Syren, 16, W. Smith.

.. *Ringdove, 18, Sir Wm. Daniell.

.. *Harrisquit, 18, the honble F. Hastings.

.. *Wolverine, 16, Johnson.

.. *Serpent, 16, Nevill.

.. *Childers, 16, Halcott.

.. *Nimrod, 18, Glasco.

.. *Crotzer, 18, Pearce.

.. *Clio, 18, E. Troubridge.

.. *Pylades, 18, Tindal.

.. *Algerine, 10, Lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.

.. *Chameleon, 10, Hunter.

.. *Royalist, 10, Chetwood.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

.. *Stirling, 8, comr. Kellett.

.. *Bentick, 8, Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

.. *Bellerophon, capt. Kingcomb.

.. *Apollon, ..

.. *Sappho, ..

.. *Jupiter, ..

.. *Rattlesnake, ..

.. *Alligator, ..

.. *Mindem, 74, C. P. McQuin, Hospital ship.

STAMERS.

.. *Queen, Frigate.

.. *Sensitiva, ..

.. *Auckland, ..

.. *Semiramis, ..

.. *Akbar, ..

.. *Memnon, ..

.. *Tennasserim, ..

Nemesis, Iron Steamer.
Pluto, ..
Ariadne, ..
Medusa, ..
Phlegathon, ..
*Proserpine, ..
Hooghly, ..

H.M.S. Vixen.

.. *Ardent,

.. *Driver,

.. *Growler,

.. *Geyser,

And about 50 hired Transports.

LAND FORCE.

Under Lieut. Genl. Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B.

and Major General Lord Saltoun, G. C. B.

H. M. 18th, 96th, 49th, 58th and 98th

Regiments of the line say 5,300 Bayonets.

Royal Marines of the fleet 1,100 ..

Marine Brigade of blue jackets 2,800 ..

Royal Artillery 170 ..

One troop of Horse and 3 Companies of Foot Artillery from India 430 ..

The Engineers, Sappers and Miners 340 ..

Rifles 170 ..

7 Hble Company's Regts. from India 6,000 Bayonets.

Camp followers, gunlascars, etc., say 1,500 men.

We have since heard that what we stated with regard to the government of Hongkong having been conferred on Major General Burrell, was at least premature, and occasioned by some letters addressed to the General as Governor of Hongkong having passed through the Postoffice. It is however said still to be perfectly true that a stop has been put to the further expenditure of the public money, except in so far as shall be necessary for its military occupation, and that the several military officers holding civil appointments are to join their regiments forthwith. As will be seen from what we copy from last week's Friend of China, the appointments of Land Officer, and Acting Colonial Surgeon are already abolished, and we doubt not, had we received this week's Gazette in time, we should there have found other Notices for retrenching the establishment. Meanwhile the building of private houses continues with unabated spirit, and a considerable part of the projected town is already covered with brick and mortar. As yet however no trade to speak of is carried on there, except that necessary for the supplies of the place. Before the determination of the government at home be known, we doubt that many British merchants will remove their establishments thither.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China, 19th May.

The appointments of Land Officer, Surveyor, and Acting Colonial Surgeon at Hongkong, are under instruction from Her Majesty's Government, to cease from the 31st of the current month.

The arrangements to be continued for the discharge of the duties hitherto performed by the Land Officer will be notified in due time.

By order,

CHAS. E. STEWART,

Assistant Secretary and Treasurer,

Government House, Hongkong 17th May, 1842.

FROM THE PEKING GAZETTE.

DEFENCES OF SHANTUNG PROVINCE.

To kwai fuo (Lieut Governor of Shan tung Province) kneeling memorialized and beseeches the sacred place. It is palpably evident that encampments and military stations on the sea-board for the keeping out of the English barbarians, the selection of ablebodied recruits, and the disciplining of the troops are now matters of highest importance. And still more is it decidedly necessary for the general officers (up to the highest of them) to be on their guard, that they may be able to take charge of the men, be always ready thoroughly to explain military tactics, and being in a state of preparedness and having their plans laid, victory may be definite and certain. When I, your Minister, was in the department of Tongchow, every encampment upon the sea board was under the most careful inspection of the general officers. The Commandant of Wan tung has under his charge the military station of King shing, which, as it borders on the eastern offaga (of Shantung Province) is a station of the very first importance. Having, in person, seen the sea entrenchments put into a state of defence; the said Commandant aided by an Adjutant General removed the troops to King shing—his original encampment in Wan tung being also near the seaport. It was difficult for the said high officer to govern both stations; but he held his subordinates responsible for drilling the troops and keeping up preventive guard on the coast. I now, however, memorialize his Imperial Majesty that the high officer Le chang hang, he ordered to the interior defence, as both of these officers are best qualified by long experience for these said stations. Then will errors be avoided in the arrangements, and every territory of Shantung be properly guarded.

* Not yet arrived.

And I your Minister, herewith present this memorial praying that the Imperial will may be recorded.—1842.

Canton Register, 10th May.
HONGKONG.

From the land where fair Houri's exultingly swaggers, Where drunken Jacks reel, and the "Scarlet Coat" stag- Where government "cabbages" all the best land, [sic] And its attache prop up a large huckster's stand, Where drains are much wanted, but never are cut, And the queen's roads disfigured by many a rut, Where the voice of the growler is heard loud and long, At the hybrid committee, for right or for wrong, Where contracts are made that are never completed, Where villains are cherished and honest men cheated, Where projects are made by the wild terming brain, Which lull like the breeze, and cease like the rain, Where the p's of the hills are concealed from the sight, And the daylight resembles the darkness of night, Where the brick fever rages triumphantly high, And the clamor of coolies is borne to the sky, Where the value of land is increasing each day, For which fools pay large sums still willing to pay, Where opium is vendied by sleek oily men, And the dice rattle a loud in the gambler's den, Where Jacks fight it out in the broad light of day, Whilst the police stand close by, on her majesty's way, At which land, if the merchants would but settle down, And, by that means, establish a flourishing town, A mart, I am certain would quickly arise, For their longcloths, their woollens, and other supplies, And the sale to importance would speedily spring, As the gay bird to heaven doth merrily wing: In idle enjoyment, for worse or for better, In rambling metre I send you a letter, 27th April, 1842.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHEAST, AT CRUSAN, CHINA AND NINGPO.

Cornwallis 72—Bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral Sir W. Parker, G. C. B., commander in chief; Capt. Richards, 44—captain T. Bouchier, G. C. B. Cambrian 36—H. D. Chads, G. C. B. Calliope 28—A. L. Kuper. Cruiser 18—comdr. J. Pearce, Pelican 18—Napier, Modeste 18—Watson, Columbine 18—Morshead, Clio 18—E. Troubridge, Algerine 10—Lieut. Maitland, Lady Bentinck, surveying, vessel comdr. R. Collinson, Troopship Jupiter comr. comr. R. Fulton, H. C. S. Nemesis Lieut. W. H. Hall, Queen comr. comr. W. Warden, Phlegathon Lieut. McCleverty, Sesostris comdr. Ormsby, I. N. Tennasserim Wall I. N.

AT ANOY.

Herald 26—captain J. Nias, G. C. B. Pylades 18—comdr. Tindal (absent) Chameleon 10—Lieut. Hunter, Stirling 6—comdr. H. Kellett.

SQUADRON AT THE MOUTH OF CANTON RIVER,

Blenheim 70—captain Sir Thomas Herbert G. C. B. Senior Commanding Officer. Druid 44—H. Smith, G. C. B. Nimrod 18—comdr. Glasco Hyacinth 18—G. Goldsmith, Royalist 10—Lieut. Chetwood, Young Hebe 6—Wood. H. M. S. V. Vixen, comdr. H. Boyce, H. C. S. Hooghly comr. comr. Ross, Ariadne Roberts I. N. Lord Auckland Etherney, I. N. Medusa Pluto Lieut. Tudor, R. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

May. ARRIVED

21, (B.) Sea Queen, Harvey, Calcutta & Singapore.
22, .. Pentelogen, Porter, ..
23, .. Anna Watson, Layers, ..
24, .. Corsair, Martyn, Bombay and ..
25, .. Gratitude, Harvey, Singapore.
27, (Sp.) Ramonello, .. Manila.
27, (A.) Onaida, Swift, New York.
.. .. Grafson, Gardener.
27, (B.) John Christian, Withycombe, Liverpool.
27, .. Bengales, .. Liverpool.
27, .. Lawrence, Foster, Calcutta and Singapore.
27, (A.) Huntress, Lovett, New York.

SUPPLEMENT.

PASSENGERS Per

Huntress, Mr. C. W. King, Mr. James Bunker ; Mrs C. V. Gillespie, and Miss Gillespie.

AT HONGKONG.

Transports City of Palaces and one or two more.
H. M. S. Endymion, Capt. the honour F. W. Grey.

May.

SAILED

- 22, (A.) Henry Pratt, Rogers, New York.
- 24, (B.) Courier, —, Manila.
- 26, (A.) Panama, —, New York.
- 26, " Akbar, Dumaresq, Sing and Madras.
- 27, (B.) Anna Watson, Layers, Amoy and Chusan.
- 27, " Ann, Macalpine, London.

PASSENGERS Per

Panama, Mrs Gutzlaff and 3 blind Chinese children;
Miss Ritchie.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Sydney, — Australasian Packet.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England, — Ann Birdson, Anna Eliza, Devecot, Borrassia, John Christian, Gulnare, Bengalee, Deven, Ger-mini, Peruvian, Elizabeth, Raymond, Pink, Anna Marian.

From Bombay, — Drengan Bombay, Wm. Perry, Herald, Devenport, Ruparell.

From Calcutta, — Crest.

From Singapore, — Fourteen, Lawrence, Zoe, Ternate.

LATEST DATES

ENGLAND, 4th March.	SINGAPORE, 11th May.
UNITED STATES, Jan'y 23.	MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 20th April.	AMOI.
BOMBAY, 16th April.	CHUSAN, 26th April.
JAVA, 2d April,

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNER.
Arus ,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Austra , Packet	205	Hill,	"
Arrow ,	—	Genre,	Jardine M. & Co.
Arduiser ,	—	Macintyre	Macvicar & Co.
Abbot's ending	350	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Bengalee ,	—	—	—
Clanton ,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Christina ,	—	Birkett,	"
Caledonia ,	—	Lawson,	Dirom & Co.
Chusan ,	—	Laich,	Dent and Co.
Columbine ,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corsair ,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Castle Huntly ,	—	Reddie,	Macvicar & Co.
Eleusora ,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Falcos ,	—	Baker,	H. Rustonjee.
Fortescue ,	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Georgiana ,	—	—	—
Gratitude ,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar & Co.
Hygeia ,	378	Woodbury	C. Pearson.
John Horton ,	—	cunaghan	Holliday Wise & Co.
John Christian ,	400	Whitbycom	Dirom & Co.
Loniss ,	—	Forgan	Dent and Co.
Lawrence ,	—	Foster,	"
Lady Hayes ,	—	Paterson,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Margaret ,	185	Tomkins,	Turner & Co.
Mahmoodie ,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly ,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury ,	—	—	W. Scott.
Prima Donna ,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Pantaloon ,	—	Porter,	H. Pybus.
Regular ,	389	Budd,	Turner and Co.
Royal Saxon ,	—	Crawford,	H. Rustonjee.
Rob Roy ,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Royal Exchange ,	153	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
Rosa ,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Saipa ,	—	Morton,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Sea Queen ,	—	Harvey,	Ferguson L. & Co.
Vesta ,	—	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer ,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl ,	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
William Hughes ,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston, Commander Long.

Cayuga ,	—	Biesel,	W. A. Lawrence.
Forum ,	—	Murielock,	Russell and Co.
Lerant ,	—	Faulk,	J. D. Sword & Co.
Ann MacKim ,	—	Vasmer,	W. A. Lawrence.
Cincinnati ,	—	Wilson,	Wetmore & Co.
Grafton ,	—	Gardener,	J. M. Bull.
Onida ,	—	Swift,	G. Nye jr.
Huntress ,	—	Lovett,	Olyphant & Co.

* at Whampoa.

BIRTH.—At Macao on the 21st instant, the LADY OF DAVID LAING BURN, Esq., of a Daughter.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Po do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 36.]

Macao, Saturday, 4th June, 1842.

[No. 348.]

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the Arm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

WM. ALLANSON.
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DADABHOY RUSTOMJEE is admitted a Partner in our Firm from this day.

RUSTOMJEE COWASJEE & Co.

Calcutta, 1st March, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNNAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the Firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

(8d.) GEORGE MARTIN.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
C. CARNIE.
ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS

MR. ADOLPHUS SCEALES DRYSDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.

LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE or BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks; as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double sea-walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR MANILA.

THE new Brig "RAMONCITO," Capt. R. G. GONZALEZ, has part of her Cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th June, 1842.

FOR WHAMPOA.

THE GRAPTON, having nearly a full Cargo engaged will proceed up, in a few days. For freight of Treasure, Piece Goods and Cotton. Apply to Capt. GARDENER, at Mr. Nye's, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 4th June, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MARGARIDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO.

or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Bark SEA QUEEN, will proceed to Hongkong on Monday the 30th instant to take such freight as may offer, and will be despatched from this for the above Ports on the 18th June.

FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.

Macao, 27th May, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 208 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 28th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "ABBOT'S READING" A I 350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

WETMORE & Co.

Macao, 29th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "PANTALON," Capt. PORTER, will be dispatched for the above ports tomorrow the 5th inst. For freight or passage apply to

HENRY PYBUS.

Macao, 6th May, 1842.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A I Barque "CHUSAN," Capt. LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co

Macao, 13th April, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Brig JOHN HORTON, (336 Tons new measurement) Captain G. CUNNINGHAM. Apply to

W. T. KINSLEY—Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.—Macao.

Macao, 14th April, 1842.

THE Ship "GENERAL WOOD" receives Goods on demurrage at Hongkong, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

THE British Barque "LADY HAYES," receives Goods on demurrage in Macao Roads, at $ 3 p Chest p month, and no fee charged on delivery.

FOR SALE.—BILLS on Messrs BARKING BROTHERS & Co., London. Apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 29th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "LEV-NT" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BREAD, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BAAS' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SALTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRA & Co., apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases, SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads, BRANDY and GENEVA do. PALE ALE BAAS' do. BEEF in tierces, Pork in barrels, Coals, 120 tons. OILMANS Stores late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADEIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEETI CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to

J. A. DE SILVA.

at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's Drafts on CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hhds, PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hhds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regulus,"

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 30th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases, MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SALTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEAF. ROMAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also Russia CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to

J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 18th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gambos's to R. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

SINGAPORE.

From the Free Press. 12th May.

A rumour reached us some days ago, that a European Regiment was likely to be quartered at Singapore, to be availed of for service in China. We have since learned, that in accordance with instructions received from the Supreme Government, the Authorities here have directed the most eligible spot to be marked out for their accommodation, (near the lines at present occupied by the 39th,) and are to report thereon as also on the means of victualling them. The object, we understand, of this measure is to have a British Corps at hand in case of any emergency calling for their services in aid of our force in China. We have also heard that a Depot for the troops expected from England is to be established at Singapore—if so, the above mentioned plan of having a Regiment here will, we should suppose, answer likewise for the accommodation of the soldier's wives and children, whose comforts every means should doubtless be adopted of securing during the absence of the men on service.

We have a daring case of Piracy to record, committed within the last few days in sight of the Harbour, the vessel on which the outrage in question was perpetrated, being a trader from Cochinchina. It appears that now is the season for these vessels to trade to this port, of which advantage is taken by these marauders to plunder. The parties boarding appear to have used sampans with Malays in them, and from their proximity to Singapore, we may fairly conclude them to be from this place. The gun-boat has not yet returned.

The following is the deposition taken before the Magistrate which will give the true version of the attack:—

SINGAPORE }
TO WIT: }
HOO-AN-TEK appears and on his affirmation states, that on the 28th day of the Second Chinese Moon, I left Anam in Cochinchina as mate on board of a Cochinchinese Junk, Nakhada Ang-Oh, who is owner of the Junk. The crew consisted of nine men altogether, including the Nakhada. We came in sight of Singapore Harbour after sun-rise yesterday, and while off the Red Cliffs not far from shore a sampan put out to sea from the shore and made for our Junk. We had no suspicion of its being a Pirate until they came near and fired into our Junk. There were twelve men in the sampan. As the sampan was approaching our Junk only three men were visible, the others concealed themselves. Some of the Pirates had handkerchiefs tied round their heads, the others with their hair loose. Two of them in the Pirate sampan spoke Chinese and asked if we had rice on board—one of them spoke like a real Chinaman. Another sampan then pushed off from the shore and joined the first sampan. She had nine men in her—Malays. The Pirates had only one musket amongst them. They attacked us with stones and spears and fired with the said musket, about ten times and wounded two men. There were three men wounded, one of them received a spear wound. We resisted as well as we could for about two hours when we were captured. I can identify two men, Malays, one of them I have frequently seen in Singapore Town—a young man—the other one is a lad I had never seen before. I have been for the last eight years employed in Junks trading between Anam and Singapore. I saw the following articles taken out of our Junk belonging to the Nakhada, Passengers, and Crew:—5 piculs Beche de mer, 30 catties Raw Silk, 14 cayan Rice, 3 Brass Pots, and some Wearing Apparel, and 7 Dollars, and sundry other small articles. The Pirates took our Boat with them loaded with Rice. We came in about midnight last night.

Deposition before me the 5th May 1859.
(Signed) J. Low,
Justice of the Peace.

Mark of HOO AH TEK.

HANGCHOWFOO AND CHAPOO.

From the Chinese Repository for May.

Hangchow, as we have elsewhere stated, lies on the north bank of the river Taientang, at a point where that river, after a rapid course from the southward and westward, through the western districts of the province, begins to open out and form a wide embouchure toward the sea. "The tide, when full," says Sir G. Staunton in his account of Macartney's embassy, "increases the width of this river to about four miles opposite the city. At low water, there is a fine level strand near two miles broad, which extends towards the sea as far as the eye can reach."

On its southern shore, as we proceed eastward from Hangchow, this swift-flowing river has deposited, during the lapse of ages, upon the slope of a ridge of hills that skirts it to the southward, bank upon bank of sand and earth, brought down by its rapid stream from the high mountain range (one of the outposts of the off-branches of the Himalayas) wherein it has its source. Under the triple distinction of hardened ground, firm sands, and quick sands, these deposits of centuries have so narrowed the stream in its progress onward, that the deep channel that has been left on its northern edge has been found to flow with a rapidity, which even the steam vessels, when sent out to survey were unable during the spring tides to stem.

A stone causeway, built and kept in repair with much labor and the utmost exertions of Chinese engineering skill, serves on the northern bank to keep out the encroachments of river and sea from the generally flat country that lies between this place and the Yangtze' kiang,—a country everywhere intersected with streams, rendering it rich and fertile in the highest degree, and at the same time sufficiently diversified with hills to add beauty to the scene, and to make it in all respects one of the most lovely and interesting parts in the whole empire of China.

The sand banks on the southern shore reach nearly to Chihhai, not many miles to the westward of which the unfortunate ship Kite was lost in 1840, and her crew conveyed to Tsz'ki and Yuyau, and thence to Ningpo. The river Taungoo rising in the centre of the Chekiang province flows northward, almost in a straight line, into the embouchure of the Taientang or Hangchow river; and thus makes a slight break in the line of these sand banks, to examine which commander Collinson has recently been sent out, but with what success he has met we have yet to learn. Communicating, too, with the river of Ningpo by means of a canal, that extends likewise from the Taungoo, westward, past the city of Shanghai, and ends at a place directly opposite to Hangchow, a line of communication by inland waters is thus afforded between the British position at Chihhai and Ningpo, and the headquarters of the Chinese force at that provincial capital,—a line which has been twice described to us,—first, by the PP. Bonnet, Fontenay, and others, on their route from Ningpo by way of Hangchow to Peking in 1867,—and then, by a portion of Lord Macartney's embassy proceeding in an opposite direction, from Hangchow to rejoin their ship at Chusan, in 1795. The embankment and causeway, on the northern shore of the Taientang river and embouchure, extend from Hangchow, with little interruption to the knot of hills that encircles the bay and town of Chapoo,—passing by the ancient Kanfu (Kaupu) of Mohammedan travelers, before it reaches this the modern seat of the rich trade with Japan: and nearly parallel with this road runs a canal, its banks adorned at short distances with prettily wooded villages.

We have thus three modes of approaching Hangchow:—first, by the sea and the river of Taientang, a route which sand banks and rapid tides render most difficult, if not impracticable;—secondly, by inland water, from Chihhai and Ningpo to the shore opposite the capital, carrying us past Shanghai and several other fortified towns, and meeting interruptions in some places of locks that must be ascended; and thirdly, by land route from Chapoo, upon a carefully preserved causeway, whereof we possess rather well-drawn native maps, and which we have reason to believe good, and of sufficient width for artillery. Of these routes a question can scarcely arise as to which will be found the best to advance upon.

A distance of about fifty miles of sea, measured on a line drawn northward and westward, separates Chihhai from Chapoo; and a somewhat greater distance of causeway has to be travelled over before reaching Hangchow from this latter place. But the town of Chapoo once taken (and it can be come at by the guns of the British ships, as the Algerine proved in 1840), and its hills once crossed, there is little other than a large tract of plain ground, with perhaps only small streams intersecting it, to be passed over in the march thence upon Hangchow. The city of Kiating fu lies, however, not far from this route, nor many miles distant from Chapoo, and here the main force of the Chinese left wing will have to be encountered. Its centre rests upon Hangchow, and "the rich and beautiful country about ninety miles in length," that lies between it and Suchau, on either side of the Grand canal. The chief position of its right wing is Shanghai, a large city, situated, as already mentioned, on a branch of the river Taungoo, and about midway between Ningpo and Hangchow,—from which advanced parties have been frequently pushed out to Yuyau and Tsz'ki, chief towns of districts on the north bank of the Ningpo river, situated between that river and the sand banks of the embouchure of the Taientang.

With the centre of this extended Chinese force we find, surrounding himself with every sensual indulgence, the imperial high commissioner, Yiking, "awe-inspiring general, a minister of the cabinet of six, a president of the Tribunal of Civil Office," and a nephew or cousin of the emperor,—attended by a galaxy of high provincial officers, the Tartar-general, the governor, &c., &c., and by two joint-commissioners, by name Teishun and Wan Wei, to whom a third has lately been added, and a multitude of "courtiers," or officers sent immediately from the presence of the emperor. Kishen, too would have been of the number, (for he is among the friends of Yiking), but for the strongly urged remonstrances, as we are led to believe, of the governor, Liu Yunko. With the left wing, at Kiating fu is Huchan, another joint commissioner, who having gained rank and nobility by the war of 1831 against Jehanguir and his Turks, at Cashgar and Yarkand in the farthest west, hopes now to adorn himself with honors wrested by his own right hand from the English on the sea-coasts of the east. At Shanghai, with the right wing, is Chin Kiaiping, an aged man lately retired from the chief command in Fukien, but now again called forth as joint commissioner and commander-in-chief of Chekiang,—with whom are associated the active and intelligent old general Yu Fuyun, late commander-in-chief of the provincial force, and all those who, with him retired, defeated, from Chihhai and Ningpo, after the death of that savage self-commissioned generalissimo, Yuhien. Under these numerous officers are assembled many thousands of select troops from almost every province of the empire, foremost among whom stands a detachment of the imperial guards,—a body of the men of Kanau, tall and athletic inheritors of the blood of Mohammedan Turks and Tartars,—and a band of aborigines from the mountain fastnesses of Hukwang or of Sz' chuen, called forth now to meet the new invaders of the country, from whose plains they themselves have by former invaders been long since expelled.

Against this whole force we find marshalled, under the gallant lieutenant-general and vice-admiral, Sir Hugh Gough, and Sir William Parker, besides the necessary detachments of royal and Madras artillery and engineers, only four regiments of foot, the 18th, 26th, 49th and 56th (none of them complete) and two battalions from the navy, consisting of royal marines and seamen. And of so small an array, portions must yet be left to rest upon Chihhai and Tinghai, while the main body is moving forward to meet the left and centre of the Chinese army. That army met and worsted, its right wing will alone remain, hemmed in, resourceless, between the division of the British force at Chihhai and at Hangchow,—and quickly as the dew must it dissolve away. But so dispelled it will become yes more formidable than in its entirety, if, instead of withdrawing from one field of battle to seek elsewhere another, the British forces should repose from their toils amid the scattered, but not subjected, multitudes of the enemy. Blow must succeed rapidly to blow, if final success is to be hoped for. It was by the windmills in active motion that the redoubtable Don Quixote was worsted: he might have come off scatheless in the collision with them, in the calm and idle rest of a breathless summer's day.

CANTON PRESS.

Macdo, 4th June, 1842.

Accounts from Chusan have during the week been received, from which we learn that Ningpo had been evacuated by the British force, that small garrisons with a small squadron had been left at Chihhai and Tinghai (Chusan) and that the force had on the 11th of May sailed from Chusan for the river Taientang where the first object of attack will be the City of Chapoo not far from its mouth. We have recopied from last month's Repository an interesting account of the situation of this city and of that of Hangchowfoo, and of the forces the Chinese have collected in the neighbourhood to oppose the English. Whilst we are writing, Chapoo must be already in the hands of the latter, and letters from the north mention, that after the taking of this town, the army is to march overland to Nanking, a distance of about 60 miles. It is probable that Sir Hugh Gough will go in quest of their camps and give battle to the Chinese, with a view of disbanding their armies, there being a great number of troops in the neighbourhood as will be seen from the extract above quoted. According to the same authority there is a fine causeway leading from Chapoo to Hangchowfoo the capital of Chekiang, which at present is the headquarters of the high imperial commissioners, and we think it not unlikely that instead of marching upon Nanking, Hangchow will be the next object of attack. It is gratifying to learn that all the troops embarked in the finest possible health and spirits. Their number including marines and naval brigade will not exceed, if it reaches, 4,000 bayonets. This small and adventurous band is about to push into the heart of a country teeming with a hostile people, yet we doubt not its operations will be successful, as in all events hitherto of the war in China the prowess of her people have caused the invaders the least uneasiness.

After writing the above, accounts from Chusan to the 25th May have been brought, from which we learn that the whole force left on that island does not exceed 300 men, and that it is encamped on Joshhouse hill without the City of Tinghai with a guard at the gate opening in that direction, which has again reverted to Chinese government. Chinese troops are fast collecting, and it is expected that before long an attack will be made on this small force, which is already obliged to keep closely within the encampment, as any one moving beyond it is immediately attacked. Watering parties from the camp have been fired at by the Chinese, who indeed do all in their power to annoy the garrison. Fire-ships have on several occasions, since the force left for Chapoo, been sent upon the shipping, but fortunately got rid of without damage. We have not heard whether the still smaller garrison at Chihhai is exposed to the same annoyances; this is however very likely, although their post is more easily defended. The garrison left at Amoy or rather on Kulungsoo is equally small. That Tinghai should thus be again in possession of the Chinese is contrary to the promise given by Sir Henry Pottinger. On the 2d day of October, 1841, H. M. Plenipotentiary informed H. B. Majesty's subjects "that under no circumstances will Tinghai and its dependencies be restored to the Chinese government, until the whole of the demands of England are not only complied with, but carried into effect," and in a proclamation dated Hongkong, 16th February this year we are told as follows:—

"Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary, Minister Extraordinary, and Chief Superintendent of the Trade of British subjects in China, deems it advisable to notify that pending the receipt of "the Queen's gracious and royal pleasure, the harbours of Hongkong and Tinghae (Chusan) and their dependencies shall be considered "Free Ports," and that no manner of Customs, Port-Duties, or any other charges, shall be levied in the said ports, on any ships or vessels of whatever Nation or sailing under whatever flag, that may enter those ports, or on their cargoes." The same proclamation also promises protection to merchant shipping resorting to Kolongsoo so long as that Island may be occupied by Her Majesty's forces. Yet although, as has been seen, the harbour of Tinghae has been declared a free port, the town is again in the possession of the Chinese, and whatever hopes merchants may have had of extending their trade to the northward, are for the present at least crushed, for it may well be supposed that, unprotected by the military, no merchant or trader could possibly venture into the city of Tinghae or to any part of the Island. We much regret that Sir Hugh Gough should have again left Tinghae in possession of the Chinese government, but hope that as the force now is arriving daily, that city will again be taken full possession of, and never relinquished until all differences with the Chinese government are at an end, and that means will likewise be taken to organise the British government all over the island. The commander in chief must have considered the whole of the force under his command as absolutely necessary for the military operation he had in view, or he would never have acted so directly contrary to the pledge given to the Public by His Majesty's Plenipotentiary, who, we know on good authority, is much vexed at the defection of Tinghae, and it must be a matter of regret that His Excellency was not on the spot, to prevent by his advice a step which savours too much of vacillation.

FALL OF CHAPOO.—By the Keirel, a day later from Chusan than the date of the intelligence brought per Harlequin, the gratifying news has reached of the taking of Chapoo, although we do not hear that any letters descriptive of that event have yet reached; these we are told are likely to arrive by the Steamer Queen about to be sent from Chapoo with despatches. As far as we can learn the City was taken by assault, and we regret to hear with greater loss on our side than has been suffered in former engagements. It is said that 5 officers and 20 privates were killed; and several wounded officers had arrived at Chusan when the Keirel sailed. If any credit is due to the few particulars that are circulated, it would appear that the town was sacked, and that the loss did not take place during the assault, but afterwards when the soldiers were engaged in plundering, in a Joss house where a number of armed Chinese lay concealed, who unexpectedly fell upon the stragglers. We are anxiously awaiting further intelligence, as the steamer must by this time have arrived at Hongkong.

The French Frigate Erigone, Capt. Cécille has arrived at Chusan; and lately destroyed a firevessel which the Chinese had sent against the shipping. We are sorry to learn that another officer, whose name our informant did not know, has lately when out riding alone beyond the lines, been seized by the Chinese and probably been strangled. This fate at least met an unfortunate private of the 49th, who by a woman was allured beyond the lines of the encampment, instantly seized by the Chinese, and strangled on the spot. A detachment was immediately sent by Sir Hugh Gough in pursuit of the perpetrators of this cruel and cowardly act, and a mandarin with a blue button and 24 soldiers were made prisoners, and we understand there is no doubt they are the same party who had committed the murder. We cannot but regret that summary justice was not inflicted where the outrage had been committed, so as by salutary dread to prevent the repetition of these murders, which have, we are sorry to say, been but too numerous already, and been allowed to pass over without punishment. During the occupation of Ningpo a number of soldiers have been enticed away, and there can be little doubt of their fate; the last intended victim was luckily detected bound hand and foot in a boat when just about to be carried away. Had the first of these outrages been followed by a severe but just retaliation, it is to be supposed many of the others would not have been committed. Instead, however, of striking awe into the Chinese by the immediate execution of some of the 25 prisoners, they have by Sir Hugh Gough been sent in the transport Catharine Stewart Forbes to Hongkong, where they arrived a few days since, and where, we suppose, punishment awaits them; a punishment which will be one of revenge and not of justice, and the principal object, that of setting a severe example and thereby protecting for the future the lives of our people, will not be attained. We are by no means friends to unnecessary bloodshed; we would rather see it avoided altogether, but when war is carrying on, the sacrifice of human life becomes necessary, nor can it be a blameable act to take the enemy's life, in order to assure the safety of one's own. The Duke of Wellington is a high authority on this subject, and he will not be suspected of any act of wanton or useless cruelty; yet he gave orders to have the thieves of Purneah shot as there was "as other way to put a stop to these robberies." We copy here his note on the subject to Col. Close, from the Canton Register of 10th May.

To Lieut. Colonel Close.

Camp at Pahlood, 26th October, 1833.

"My dear colonel, In my opinion, Purneah's thieves ought to be hanged. There is no other way of putting a stop to these robberies; and I am not quite certain that it would not be best to send six to be hanged at Sungoly, two at Gorgery, and two at the post on the Kistna, and the remainder at Horrybur. If you agree in opinion on this subject, I will give orders that the thieves may be escorted and executed accordingly. Coleman should keep his post, at present; hereafter, when I shall have brought up the Rajah of Berar, I will write respecting the attack you have proposed. I am moving to the southward with all expedition.

Believe me, &c.

ARTHUR WELLESLEY.

We believe there is little doubt of the fact that orders have been received from government to suspend all such works at Hongkong as are not absolutely necessary for rendering it a military position only, and for the safekeeping of Government military and naval stores, and that every other expense is to be avoided. It is owing to these instructions we suppose that the native police has been dismissed, retaining for the present only the Europeans. It may be supposed that with the large native population, composed of the lowest of the people, a large police establishment is absolutely necessary for the protection of property, and that in consequence of this reduction the number of robberies there has within the last days greatly increased. The detection of thieves has become almost impossible, and although we hear of a great many robberies, we do not find any thieves to be brought before the Magistrate, at least the official organ at Hongkong omits to report them if such there are, and what is very singular, never mentions any of the robberies of which with proper industry it might have recorded a great many. Whether that paper is anxious not too soon to retract the certificate of good conduct it gave to the native population the other day, or whether care for the reputation of that "sweet literary retreat" causes the total silence on these "soul gladdening evidences of prosperous industry" we will not decide, but think that justice is thereby not done to the public, who has a right to expect the whole truth. Even before the reduction of the Police establishment the walls of a godown were broken through, and a very large quantity of Copper Cash stolen; an officer of engineers was robbed of all his instruments, and many valuable documents; others whose chattels were but ill protected by the metashed in which they lived, found themselves relieved of them by silent and dextrous thieves during the night. Under present circumstances we should think property warehoused at Hongkong, unless well protected by a strong private watch, extremely unsafe. The town is so straggling that it invites thieves by the security with which they may carry on their depredations, and by the facility with which by water they may carry off their plunder. Very much remains to be done, if Hongkong is finally to become a commercial settlement, for the due protection of the minority of honest inhabitants against the majority of rogues.

A great many transports and several ships of war have during the week arrived at Hongkong; among the latter are H. M. Ships Thalia and Dido and Northstar. The troopship Railtenah had arrived Singapore. We have not been able as yet to obtain a list of all the arrivals, nor of the departures from Hongkong for the northward, but are informed that most of the steamers had left, and that H. M. S. Blenheim was to sail this day. Sir Henry Pottinger will in a few days likewise proceed to the northward in the steamer Auckland. The Medusa steamer had arrived at Amoy, H. M. S. Cambrian at Chusan and it is said will go to Amoy, and Captain Chads take command of that station, while the Herald is to join the Admiral's fleet. The Belleville with Major General Lord Saltoun, and the 98th Regiment on board, arrived at Hongkong, as we just learn, the day before yesterday. The force now assembled at Hongkong, where we are told no less than 18 transports have during the week arrived, is very considerable, and we doubt not will leave immediately for the northward. Yesterday morning the Steamer Queen with Sir Hugh Gough's despatches for H. M. Plenipotentiary had not arrived. It is said the Chinese at Chappo have evinced some inclination to negotiate, and that the General commanding in Chief urges the Plenipotentiary's immediate departure for the north. We copy from the Friend of China the shipping list of the past week up to Thursday, but since then a number of Transports must have arrived, four of them passing in sight of Macao on Wednesday last.

CAUTION.—A great number of bad dollars is now in circulation here. These dollars are to all outward appearance perfectly good, and indeed their outside is really that of a good dollar; but by some fine instrument, a very thin plate has been cut off, from the top and the silver removed from the inside, leaving only a plate not thicker than letter paper at the bottom and sides; this is then again filled with base metal, the topplate carefully fixed on and with such nicety that the sharpest eye is unable to detect the deception. We have lately been victimized to some extent by these dollars, and hope that this notice of the fraud may protect others.

We hail with pleasure the appearance of another work intended to facilitate the study of the Chinese language. This is a volume which has just left the Press of the Chinese Repository, under the Chinese title of "Ship Kap Taihking, short steps to Excellence," and the English "Easy Lessons in Chinese or Progressive Exercises to facilitate the study of that language, especially adapted to the Canton dialect By S. W. Williams." It is introduced to the notice of the student by a short preface by the author, and we think this volume, of which we may hereafter be able to take more ample notice, will be an acceptable present to the now increasing number of Chinese students, and great credit is due to Mr. Williams, not only for the labor of the compilation, from which he can hope for little or no remuneration, but also for the manner in which the book is got up, it being decidedly the best specimen of typography we have seen issue from the foreign press in China. We shall close our remarks with the closing paragraph of Mr. Williams's preface, agreeing heartily with what he there in says.

"In preparing these lessons, some aid has been derived from follow-up students, and some extracts have been taken from the Chinese Chrestomathy; the system of orthography is the same as in that work, and the exercises in writing are also the same. The hope is cherished that this volume will facilitate the acquisition of the Chinese language, and by inducing some to commence the study who have been deterred by its forbidding aspect, and disheartened at its reported difficulty, thus assist in improving the intercourse between two great portions of the human family—those who speak English, and those who can understand Chinese. The time has come when their intercourse must be in some other commodities than those of the shop, and every friend of man will rejoice to see so mighty and so ancient a race as the sons of Han about to be made acquainted with the arts, the improvements in social life, and the knowledge of the West, together with that greatest gift, the fountain-head of all other excellencies, the religion and the hopes of the Bible. To the advancement of all these objects, and the extension of every measure to promote an honorable and Christian intercourse, is this volume contributed.

S. W. W.

At a time when a powerful armament is about again to proclaim to China the power of the British nation, and to enforce compliance with her just demands, we think it not out of place to republish the document in consequence of which 20,233 Chests of Opium were delivered over to and destroyed by the Chinese authorities. It will be seen that that document contains the strongest possible pledge of Capt. Elliot, the Agent of the British government, of his own and his government's responsibility to the owners of the Opium for subsequent repayment, nor do we see how such a pledge can honestly be evaded. Yet, although three years have now elapsed, nothing has been done to redeem it, and those that delivered their property amounting in value to upwards of 10 Millions of dollars, continue still deprived of it, but not we hope without expectation of its restoration. Although the English government has hitherto refused payment, it has never expressed an opinion or done anything to make us believe that it disregards the claims of the holders of Capt. Elliot's Opium scrip; and we suspect that H. M. Plenipotentiary in the progress of the present war will not lose sight of their interests. If the military operations are as successful, there is every reason to suppose they will be, it may be hoped that the Chinese government will soon be brought to reason, and in the conditions of the ensuing peace we are confident that stipulations must be made in favor of persons who by the hostile acts of the Chinese have been deprived of the greater part of their substance, and to whom government stands solemnly pledged for its safety. Capt. Elliot having been appointed, H. M. Plenipotentiary in China subsequent to the delivery of the Opium, and subsequent to his having drawn upon the treasury for the value of about 500 Chests of Opium, which he thought himself bound to the Chinese to purchase to complete the number of Chests originally promised to be delivered, is a proof that his acts have generally had been approved of at home; and although those bills were dishonored, they were afterwards paid out of the Canton ransom money, to relieve Capt. Elliot from the personal responsibility in which he was involved by the dishonor of his bills. The following is copy of the important document:

PUBLIC NOTICE TO BRITISH SUBJECTS.

I, CHARLES ELLIOT, Chief Superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China, presently forcibly detained by the Provincial Government, together with all the merchants of my own and the other Foreign nations settled here, without supplies of food, deprived of our servants, and cut off from all intercourse with our respective countries (notwithstanding my own official demand to be set at liberty so that I might act without restraint), have now received the commands of the High Commissioner issued directly to me under the seal of the honorable office to deliver over into his hands all the opium held by the people of my country.

Now I, the said Chief Superintendent, thus constrained, by paramount motives affecting the safety of the lives and liberty of all the Foreigners here present in Canton, and by other very weighty causes, do hereby, in the name and on the behalf of Her Britannic Majesty's government enjoin and require all Her Majesty's subjects now present in Canton forthwith to make a surrender to me for the service of Her said Majesty's government, to be delivered over to the government of China, of all the Opium under their respective control: and to hold the British ships and vessels engaged in the trade of Opium subject to my immediate direction: And to forward to me without delay a sealed list of all the British owned Opium in their respective possession. And I, the said Chief Superintendent, do now, in the most full and unreserved manner, hold myself responsible for, and on the behalf of Her Britannic Majesty's government, to all and each of Her Majesty's subjects surrendering the said British owned Opium into my hands, to be delivered over to the Chinese government. And I, the said Chief Superintendent, do further specially caution all Her Majesty's subjects here present in Canton, owners of or charged with the management of Opium, the property of British subjects, that failing the surrender of the said Opium, into my hands at or before six o'clock this day, I, the said Chief Superintendent, hereby declare Her Majesty's government wholly free of all manner of responsibility or liability in respect of the said British owned Opium.

And it is specially to be understood that the proof of British property and value of all British Opium surrendered to me agreeably to this notice shall be determined upon principles and in a manner hereafter to be defined by Her Majesty's Government.

Given under my hand and seal of office at Canton in China this twenty seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and thirty nine at six of the clock in the morning.

(Signed) CHARLES ELLIOT.
Chief Superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China.

L. S.
EDWARD ELSLIE.

True Copy.
Sec. and Treasurer to the Superintendents.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China, and Hongkong Gazette, June 2.

NOTIFICATION.

With reference to the Notification of the 17th Inst., abolishing the Situation of Land Officer, &c., &c., it is hereby notified, that Mr. Edward Glascof Reynolds is appointed "Land and Road Inspector," from the 1st Proximo.

The annexed Extracts of Instructions issued to Mr. Reynolds, are published for general information.

By order
J. ROBT. MORRISON.

Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

Government House,
Hongkong, May 27th, 1842.

EXTRACT OF INSTRUCTIONS.

"As the existing prohibition against further Grants of Land is to continue in full force, pending the receipt of Commands from Her Majesty's Government, it will not even be necessary for you to bring any applications on that Subject to the notice of the Deputy Superintendent, who will be charged with the Civil Government of the Island, during the absence of His Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger Bart."

"You are to take the utmost care to prevent any encroachments on the unsappropriated lands in any part of this Island, or on the Roads, whether completed, or now in progress; and should anything of the kind come to your knowledge, you will, whatever may be the plea or pretence assigned, instantly stop the Work and report the circumstance to the Deputy Superintendent."

"Ground will probably, however, be required for the erection of Barracks, and other Military Buildings, on different parts of the Island, and regarding it you will receive directions from the Deputy Superintendent."

"Your chief duty, and that of the Establishment placed under you, will be to see that the Roads, Bridges, and Drains, are kept in perfect order, that the unfinished Contracts regarding them are strictly and well fulfilled, that the Public Watering Places and Jetties, and likewise the Government Market Place, are preserved from damage, and are kept clean and in a fit state for the uses for which they are designed, and that no Nuisances of any sort are permitted on the Roads or in the Streets. Should any such come under your observation, you are to report the same instantly to the Deputy Superintendent and the Chief Magistrate, who will take the necessary steps, through the Police, to abate them."

"You will register in your office all Sales and transfers of Land, in conformity with the Notification issued by the Land Officer on the 2nd, and published in the "Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette" of the 3th Instant."

(True Extract.) J. ROBT. MORRISON.
Acting Secretary and Treasurer.

Hongkong Shipping Intelligence.

May ARRIVED.

27, Faize Rahahny, trupt. T. Steward, 14th regt. N. I., Maulmein.
27, Urgent, trupt. I. Marshall, 9d regt. M.N.I. Sing.
27, Wm. Money, trupt. W. Bickford, do. do.
27, Duke of Bedford, trupt. I. Lay, do. do.
27, H.M. brig Childers, capt. Halstead, R.N. Maulmein
27, Fortescue, W. Hall, Macao.
28, Pantaloon, Porter, do.
29, Katharine St. Forbes, lno. Hobbs, Chusan.
30, H. M. Brig Serpent, capt. Neville, R. N. Sing.
30, Teaser, transport, W. Gibson, H. Ardy, do.
30, Lady Flora, do. N. Ford, do. do.
30, Dehance, do. R. W. Evatt, do. do.
30, City of London, do. I. Anbrow, do. do.
30, Warrior, do. W. Dailey, Bengal Vol. do.
30, Anna Watson, do. N. N. Sapers, Macao.
30, H. M. S. Dido, honble. capt. Keppel, R. N. do.
30, Privateer schooner, D'Longe, Macao. [Macao.
30, H. M. sch. Young Hebe, lieut. Cashman, R. N.
31, H. B. brig Harlequin, honble. capt. S. F. Hastings, Sing.
31, H. M. S. Thalia, capt. Charles Hope, do.
31, Tamerlane, Mackenzie, Bengal Vol. do.
31, John Fleming, I. Clark, do.
31, Anna, Bowrar, Macao.

May SAILED.

26, Wm. Hughes, Abbott East Coast, [Chusan.
27, H. C. Steamer Medusa, capt. Hewett, I. N.
28, H. M. S. Endymion, capt. Grey, R. N. Chusan.
28, H. M. Str. Vixen, capt. Boyce R. N. do.
28, Thame, Marquis Chusan } Transports 41st
28, Robaria, Elder, " } Regt. N. I. on 28, Percy, Hickmace, " } board.
28, Forth Heckford, " }
28, Maria, Lenedale, " } Bengal Volun
28, City of Palaces, Sheriff, " } teers and follow
28, Martha, Donaldson, " } ers of the 99th.
29, H. M. S. Hyacinth, Capt. Goldsmith R. N.
30, Brig Pantaloon, Porter, Macao. [England.
31, Nehr Privateer, D'Longe Whampoa, [Chusan.
31, H. M. Brig Childers, Capt. Halstead, Amoy, & Jann.
1, Mercury, H. Humphries Macao, (William Pedder).
Harbor Master,

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

May ARRIVED

31, (B.) Reparell, do, Bombay.
31, " Herald, Conlon, do.
31, " Ternate, Mann, Calcutta and Singapore.
June,
1, (B.) Zee, Miller, Singapore.
3, " Fourteen, " Singapore.
May, SAILED
28, (B.) Australasian Packet, Hill, Sydney.
June,

1, H. M. S. Hyacinth, Comr. Goldsmith, England.
3, (B.) Ardaseer, Macintyre, Bombay.
3, " Keutrel, Beauvais, Sing. and Madras.
The Pantaloon to be despatched for Singapore and Calcutta to morrow. Castle Huntly under despatch for Bombay.

The Masden from Macao and Amoy, arrived at Chusan 10th May.

The Chusan for London to be despatched in a day or two - Passengers Messrs Wilkinson Dent, and Laing, Capt. Whittingham.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England, - Ann Birdson, Anna Eliza, Devecot, Borussia, Gulara, Deven, Germin, Peruvian, Elisabeth, Raymond, Pink, Anna Maria.
From Bombay, - Drangon Bombay, Wm. Perry, Devonport.
From Calcutta, - Crest, Dido, Water Witch, Clown.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 4th March. SINGAPORE, 12th May.
UNITED STATES, Jan. 22. MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 20th April. AMOY, 28th May.
BOMBAY, 14th April. CHUSAN, 26th May.
JAVA, 2d April.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSLS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Atun,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arrow,	—	Geare,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Abbot'sreading	350	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Bengaler,	—	Bondle,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Christina,	—	Birkett,	—
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom & Co.
Chusan,	—	Laird,	Dent and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
*Corsair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co
*Castle Huntly,	—	Reddie,	Macvicar & Co.
Eleanora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Fortescue,	—	Baker,	H. Rustonjee.
Forteen,	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Georgiana,	—	—	—
Gratitude,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar & Co.
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	C. Pearson.
Herald,	—	Coulson,	Macvicar & Co.
John Horton,	—	cunningham,	Holliday Wise & Co.
John Christian,	400	whitcomb,	Dirom & Co.
Louisa,	—	Forganbe,	Dent and Co.
Lawrence,	—	Foster,	—
Lady Hayes,	—	Paterson,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Margaret,	125	Tomkins,	Turner & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Prima Donna,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Pantaloon,	—	Porter,	H. Pybus.
*Regular,	389	Budd,	Furner and Co.
Royal Saxon,	—	Crawford,	H. Rustonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Ruparell,	—	—	—
Roya Exchange,	155	Kers,	Jardine M. and Co.
Rosa,	—	Metcalf,	C. H. Hart.
San Quapp,	—	Morton,	Hugheson Brothers.
Ser Quapp,	—	Harvey,	Ferguson L. & Co.
Ternate,	—	Maun,	—
Vestal,	—	Voong,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl,	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durrant Jr.
William Hughes,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
Zoe,	—	Miller,	—
AMERICAN.
U. S. S. Constellation,	—	Commodore Kearsey.	—
U. S. S. Boston,	—	Commander Long.	—
*Cayuga,	—	Bissel,	W. A. Lawrence.
Forum,	—	Murdoch,	Russell and Co.
Lerant,	—	Faulk,	J. D. Sward & Co.
Ann MacKim,	—	Vanner,	W. A. Lawrence.
Cincinnati,	—	Wilson,	Wetmore & Co.
Grafton,	—	Gardner,	Holliday. Wise & Co.
Onida,	—	Swift,	G. Nye Jr.
*Hastress,	—	Lovett,	Olyphant & Co.

at Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOSELEY,
at the Canton Press Office, Po do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 37.] Macao, Saturday, 11th June, 1842.

[No. 349.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

JOHN SMITH has the pleasure to announce that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on Wednesday the 16th Instant, the three masted schooner "GOVERNOR DOWNEY," of 167 tons or thereabouts, with all her Masts, Rigging, Sails, Boats, Stores, &c. as she now lies at anchor in the Tyne.

Inventory, and other papers of the vessel may be seen on application.

At the same time will be put up for sale. The Dandy rigged cutter CAZELLE, of about 20 tons; with all her masts, sails, &c. &c. And the schooner FALCON, of about 50 tons, with all her sails, &c. &c. Further particulars will be published in hand bills hereafter.

Macao, 10th June, 1842

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On Tuesday the 21st Instant, JOHN SMITH will put up for sale to the highest bidder, at his Auction Room, 300 bags of SALT-PILE.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

W. ALLANSON.
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

NOTICE—Mr. DADABHOY RUSTOMJEE is admitted a Partner in our Firm from this day.

RUSTOMJEE COWASJEE & Co.

Calcutta, 1st March, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subdélégués des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr HENRY DUNMAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.

PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.

PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

GEORGE MARTIN.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

(Ed.) C. CARNIE.

ALEXANDER DYCE.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE—In hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witnesses our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.

SAMUEL BRIGGS.

R. THURBURN.

F. W. COLLARD.

R. THURBURN.

R. C. JENKINS.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCHELES DRYSDALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.

LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Marion, 6th Aug., 1841.

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Commissary General, S. E. Prov.

NOTICE—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godown, No. 46 Queens Road, Howan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double sea-walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DAVIS, or to

C. FEARON, — Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I Prussian Ship BOROMIA, Captain KUHN, 379 tons; apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 11th June, 1842.

FOR MANILA.

THE new Brig "RAMONCITO," Capt. R. G. GONZALES, has part of her Cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th June, 1842.

FOR WHAMPOA.

THE GRAFTON, having nearly a full Cargo engaged will proceed up, in a few days. For freight of Treasure, Piece Goods and Cotton. Apply to Capt. GARDENER, at Mr. Nye's, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 4th June, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MARGARIDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. Freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO.

or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Bark SEA QUEEN, will proceed to Hongkong on Monday the 30th instant to take such freight as may offer, and will be despatched from this for the above Ports on the 18th June.

FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.

Macao, 27th May, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 308 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "ABBOT'S READING" A I 350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

WETMORE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE new Brig "PANTALON," Capt. JOSTER, will be dispatched for the above ports tomorrow the 5th Inst. For freight or passage apply to HENRY FYBBS.

Macao, 4th May, 1842.

FOR LONDON, FROM MACAO AND HONGKONG.

THE fast sailing A I Barque "CNU-SAN," Capt. LAIRD, has part of her cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to Macao, 13th April, 1842.

DENT & Co.

LAST on the Frava Grande, or on the road back of the Port St. Francisco, leading to the hill. A bunch of small KEYS, attached to a steel ring. A reward of $10 will be given on delivery of the KEYS to the undersigned, or to Messrs Gibb Livingston & Co.

Macao, 9th June, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—At the Gooddowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house, the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French PIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass Tumblers, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Muslinatum SHIRTS in quart bottles, a 40 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most beautiful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842.

G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—On board the Hamburg Ship Francisco, in Macao Roads.

CLARET, St Julien and St Raphael,

HOCK,

COGNAC BRANDY,

CHAMPAGNE,

CHERRY CORDIAL,

GLASSWARE, &c.

Apply to Captain BERNDT on board.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—On board ship "LEV' BT" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BRASS, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior Bass PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, and flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE—MADRIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIR & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FIRE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE (fine) in 3 dozen cases, SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads.

BRANDY and GIN in do.

PALE ALE Bass's, do.

BEEF in tins, Pork in barrels.

CHALK, 120 tons.

OILMAN'S Stores late imports.

Apply to

DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 21st April, 1842.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON.

E. L. Co's DRAFTS on CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE—SHERRY in Butts and Hhds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle as "Sappho" and Allcock's fine PALE ALE in Hhds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 30th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEI CANDLES; apply to J. A. DR. SILVA.
at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases—MANILA SQUARE, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.

SELTZERWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 85, 64, and 60 feet long, also RUSSIA CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SHEETS; CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to
J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 19th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to
B. LEMOS.
Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE
CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprint of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar, ESOPUS, FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.
The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symons, price one dollar.

The charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages .. $ 5.
Letter paper size .. $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships .. $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines .. $ 1.
For 3 months .. $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.

For one year payable in advance, $ 12

For six months .. $ 7

For three .. $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

AFGHANISTAN.

Bombay Times Extra.

Times Office 9 P. M. 1st May.

We do not at present in laying before our readers the following reprint of the Government Gazette Extraordinary, containing, as it does, intelligence of a brilliant and decided victory over the enemy by the force at Jellalabad. The effects of this must be to draw off the insurgents from general Pollock, and to leave his advance comparatively uninterrupted. Just as Sir Robert Sale was on the eve of receiving relief, he has most fortunately been able to shew the Afghans how vain it was to attempt to measure swords with him on equal ground, even when he had no arm but his own to depend on. The victory thus won by the Jellalabad force worn out with six months' incessant privation and suffering, is worth a dozen similar victories achieved by the aid of a reinforcement.

Our joy at this event, otherwise unalloyed, is clouded by the loss of the gallant colonel Dennee, who fell in leading the advance.

The official account of the forcing of the Kyber Pass is not less gratifying, though less new to us, than the narrative of general Sale's success.

The casualties attending general Pollock's advance are absolutely insignificant, scarcely exceeding those attending on the Hykulay repulse. He has still difficulties of no small magnitude to encounter, but in one or two marches more, these, we trust, will be surmounted, with as much success, and as little loss, as those attending his advance up to Ali Musjid.

SECRET DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, the 29th April, 1842.

The hon'ble the governor in council has the highest gratification in publishing for general information, the following copies of two despatches, to the address of the secretary to the government of India, from major general Pollock, C. B. commanding the troops west of the Indus, dated the 6th and 7th instant, detailing the particulars of his successful advance up the Khyber Pass; together with copy of a despatch from major general Sir R. Sale, K. C. B. commanding at Jellalabad, dated the 7th instant, reporting the particulars of a signal victory, which was on that morning gained by the troops under his command, of the force of Mahomed Akbar Khan.

The governor in council directs, that a royal salute be fired at noon this day, from the garrison of Bombay in honor of these events.

By order of the hon'ble the governor in council.
J. P. WILLOUGHBY.
Secretary to Government.

FROM MAJOR GENERAL POLLOCK, C. B.

Commanding Troops West of the Indus.

TO THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT.

Political Department, Bombay.

Sir,—I have the honor to forward copy of a despatch to the supreme government, detailing the operations of this force yesterday.

I have the honor to be &c.

(Signed) G. POLLOCK, Major General.
Comdg. Troops West of the Indus.

Camp Ali Musjid, 6th April, 1842.

Camp Sulla Chunce, near Ali Musjid April 6th. 1842.

Sir.—1. It is with feelings of much gratification I have the honor to report, for the information of the right honorable the governor general in council, the following detail of operations undertaken and carried into effect against the Afreedees.

2. Yesterday morning at half past three, the troops were under arms, the camp struck, and according to arrangements previously made, the treasure, ammunition and baggage placed on the road leading from Jumrood towards the entrance of the Khyber Pass. The enemy had for some days appeared in great numbers at the mouth of the Pass, which they had fortified with a strong breastwork of stones and bushes. The hills on the right and left were rocky and precipitous, presenting great natural obstacles to the ascent of troops. To gain the summit of these heights, defended as they were by a numerous body of the enemy, was an undertaking of considerable difficulty.

3. The column destined to accomplish this important object, moved off simultaneously with the main column intended to assault the entrance, but were compelled to make a considerable detour to the right and left, to enable them to commence the ascent.

4. The right column* under the command of lieutenant. Taylor, her majesty's 9th foot, and major Anderson, 64th regiment native infantry.

5. The left column* under the command of lieutenant. Moseley and major Huish, commenced the ascent, led by captain Ferris's regiment of Jezailchees. Both columns after considerable opposition, which they overcame in the most gallant style, succeeded in routing the enemy and gaining possession of the crest of the hills on either side. While the flanking columns were in progress on the heights, I ordered captain Alexander, in command of the Artillery, to place the guns in position and to throw Shrapnell among the enemy when opportunity offered, which assisted much in their discomfiture. As lieutenant colonel Taylor, from the position he had met with, and the extremely difficult nature of the ground, was some time in reaching the summit of the hill on the right,—I detached a party under the command of brigadier Wild to assault it in front; it was however so extremely steep near the top, that notwithstanding the undaunted gallantry of the officers and men, they were unable to gain a footing on the summit, and I regret to say, the enemy were enabled to throw stones with fatal effect upon some of the leading grenadiers of the 9th foot. Finding the heights in our possession, I now advanced the main column to the mouth of the Pass, and commenced destroying the barrier which the enemy had evacuated on perceiving their position was turned; a portion of the right and left columns being left to keep the heights under the command of lieutenant. Moseley, and major Anderson, respectively. Major Huish and lieutenant colonel Taylor, continued their advance to crown the hills in front and on each side, which were covered with the enemy, who appeared determined to contest every inch of ground; but nothing could resist the gallantry of our troops, who carried every thing before them. A position of considerable strength above the bridge now remained to be carried and again the Jezailchees were conspicuous in forcing the enemy to relinquish their strongholds. Crowding parties having taken possession of their heights, all opposition on the part of the enemy may be said to have ceased, as no large body of them has since come in sight. The nature of the arrangements made for the protection of the baggage will be best understood when I state, that

* 4 Cos. H. M. 9th Foot; 4 do. 26th N. I.; 4 do. 64th N. I.

† 4 Cos. H. M. 9th Foot; 4 do. 26th N. I.; 4 do. 64th N. I.; 400 Jezailchees.

‡ Gns. H. M. 9th Foot; 6th Company of the 63d N. I.

not a single baggage animal has fallen into the hands of the enemy.

6. It now remains for me to perform the pleasing duty, of stating how much I feel indebted to the officers and men comprising the force under my command, for their zeal, devotion and unflinching valour, in performance of the very arduous duty which they have so ably executed.

7. From major general McCaskill, K. H. commanding the infantry division, and who was on this occasion commanding the rear guard, I have received every assistance, as likewise from brigadier Wild,—also lieutenant. colonel Taylor, K. H. my warmest acknowledgments are due for the spirit, coolness and judgment with which he discharged the duties entrusted to him. Where officers and men, European and native, have all so gallantly performed their duty, it is difficult to select the names of particular individuals, but I cannot omit the names of those who so admirably led the troops to storm the heights, viz: lieutenant. colonel. Moseley, 64th N. I.; major Huish, 26th N. I.; major Anderson 64th N. I.; and captain Ferris, commanding the Jezailchees, whose conduct excited the delight and admiration of all who beheld them; indeed I consider much of the success of the day to be attributed to their gallantry, skill and perseverance in this most difficult description of warfare. I have also to express my satisfaction with the manner with which the artillery was served by captain. Alexander commanding; the precision with which Shrapnell was thrown caused considerable loss to the enemy. To captain. Ponsonby, my assistant adjutant general, captain Codrington, assistant quarter-master-general, captain Macadam, deputy judge advocate general, and to lieutenant. Pollock, A. D. C., I am much indebted for communicating my orders at different times during the day.

8. I cannot conclude this despatch without requesting that you will bring to the particular notice of the governor general in council, the very great assistance I have received from captain Mackeson and Lawrence, Captain Mackeson's knowledge of the localities was invaluable to me, by enabling him to point out those heights which required to be crowned. Both these officers came on to the ground which I now occupy. Captain Lawrence returned to Peshawar yesterday, and captain Mackeson proceeds with the force.—Captain Sir Richmond/Shakespeare volunteered his services to accompany lieutenant colonel Taylor as his A. D. C. and took command of the men lately composing the regiment of Ali Musjid; his exertions, throughout the day were most conspicuous and unceasing.

9. I must here observe, that from the character of the operation, and the very great numbers of the enemy, estimated at about 10,000 I found the force under my command numerically deficient, and in consequence the troops suffered severely from excessive fatigue.

10. There were some of the enemy's horse in the vicinity of Ali Musjid, but I regret they did not wait for brigadier White, and his brigade, to make an example of them.

I have &c.

(Signed) G. POLLOCK, maj. genl.

Comp. troops, West of Indus.

P. S.—I herewith forward reports from officers commanding detached parties, but have not yet received the return of casualties which shall be sent to-morrow. I am happy to say, our loss has been much below what could possibly have been expected.

True copy. (Signed) G. PONSONBY, Capt.,
Assist. adjt. genl. troops in Afghanistan.

From Major General POLLOCK, C. B.,

To T. H. MADDOCK, Esq.,

Secretary to the govt. of India.

Dated, 7th April, 1842.

Sir,—In continuation of my despatch of the 6th inst., I have now the honor to enclose a return of casualties which took place on the 5th and 6th; those of the latter date occurred in taking possession of Ali Musjid.—I am happy to say, the amount of our loss is trifling, considering the very great opposition we experienced from the enemy.

In my last communication, I inadvertently omitted to mention the name of lieutenant. John Becher, acting field engineer, and have to request you will bring to the notice of the right hon'ble the governor general in council the very essential services rendered by that officer in clearing the pass of the impediments constructed by the enemy, which he did with a degree of celerity, notwithstanding their strength and difficulty of removal, that elicited my warmest satisfaction.

I have &c.

(Signed) G. POLLOCK, Comdg. W. of Indus.

Camp Ghurree, Lolla Beg, 7th April, 1842.

Return of killed, wounded, and missing, of the troops under the command of major general Pollock, C. B. on the 5th April, in forcing the Khyber Pass.

Killed.

1 European commissioned officer; 1 colour sergeant; and 12 Sepoys and privates;—Total 14.

Wounded.

1 Staff; 2 European commissioned officers; 1 file major; 2 J. M. dars; 10 Havildars; 2 Naiks; 1 Drummer; and 85 Sepoys and privates;—Total 104

Missing.

1 Bugler; and 16 Sepoys and privates; Total 17.—
Total killed, wounded, and missing, 135.

(Signed) G. PONSONBY, Captain,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Camp Gharres. Lalla Beg 7th April, 1842.

Name of Officers Killed.

Lieutenant Cumming, her majesty's 9th foot.

Name of Officers Wounded.

Staff—Brigadier Wild, Slightly.

Captain Ogle, her majesty's 9th foot, Slightly.

Lieutenant Mulcaister, 64th N. I., Severely.

From major general sir R. SALE, K. C. B.

To captain PONSONBY, assistant adjutant general.

Dated Jelalabad, April 7th, 1842.

Sir,—Information was on the evening of the 5th instant brought into this place, in the most positive and circumstantial terms from spies in the enemy's camp to the effect, that the force under major general Pollock, C. B. had met with a reverse in the Khyber and retraced their steps towards Peshawar, and about 10 P. M. on the 6th, a feu-de-jolie and salute of artillery was fired by Mahomed Akbar, which was said to be in honor of the event. It was on the same day, and through similar channels announced to me, that the Affghans were sending reinforcements to aid in defending the frontier passes. Although I could not wholly depend upon these statements; which were improbable in themselves, and accompanied by counter-reports of another revolution at Cabool, which was assigned by some as the cause of the rejoicing at the defeat of the Affghans in Khyber, and by one account, of the intended and even actual retreat of the sirdar to Lushman; I came, on a full consideration of the various circumstances and rumours, to the resolution of anticipating the last mentioned event, by a general attack on the Affghan Camp, in the hopes of relieving the place from blockade and facilitating general Pollock's advance. I accordingly gave directions to form 3 columns of infantry, the centre consisting of the 13th light infantry, 500 rank and file, under colonel Dennis, C. B. The left, of the 35th native infantry, 500 rank and file, under lieutenant colonel Mouleith, C. B.; and the right, of a company of the 13th light infantry, another of the 35th native infantry, and the detachment of Sappers and Miners under lieutenant Orr, (the severity of captain Broadfoot's wound still rendering him non-effective); the whole, 360 strong, commanded by captain Havelock, her majesty's 13th light. I. These were to be supported by the fire of the guns of No. 6 Light Field battery under captain Abbott, to which captain (ackhouse, s. s. artillery, was also attached; and by the whole of my small cavalry force under capt. Oldfield and lieutenant Moyne. The troops issued from the Cabool and Peshawar Gate at day light this morning. So far from the sirdar having made dispositions to avoid the encounter, his whole force, (not falling short in all of 6,000 men.) was formed in order of battle, for the defence of his camp; the right resting on a fort, its left on the Cabool river, and even the ruin'd works within 300 yards of the place were filled with Ghilzie marksmen, recently required for stout resistance. The attack was led by the skirmishers and column under captain Havelock, which drove the enemy in the most satisfactory manner from the extreme left of his advanced line of works, which it pierced at once, and proceeded to advance into the plain, whilst the central column directed its efforts against a square fort, the defence of which was obstinately maintained. With the deprecate regret, I have to mention that whilst leading his regiment to the assault, colonel Dennis, C. B. of the 13th light infantry, received a shot through the body, which shortly after proved fatal. The rear of this work having been gained by passing to its left, I gave orders for a combined attack on the enemy's camp. It was in every way brilliant and successful. The artillery advanced at the gallop, and directed a heavy fire on Affghan centre, whilst two of the columns of infantry penetrated his line at the same point, and the third drove his left back from its support on the river, into the stream of which some of his horse and foot were forced.

The Affghans made repeated attempts to check our advance, by a smart fire of musquetry, and throwing forward heavy bodies of horse, which twice closely threatened the troops under captain Havelock, and by opening against us 3 guns from a battery screened by a garden wall, and said to have been served under the personal superintendence of the Sirdar; but in a short time, they were dislodged from every point of their position, their cannon taken, and their camp involved in a general conflagration. The battle was over, and the enemy in full retreat in the direction of Lushman about 7 A. M. We have much occasion to praise of two cavalry standards, recaptured four guns lost by the Cabool and G. Musquetry forces, the restoration of which to our government is received by the force with much honest exultation, and destroyed the whole of the enemy's tents. In short, the defeat of Mahomed Akbar, by the force with which he boasted of blockading, has been in the open field complete and signal. The fall of an officer so distinguished as colonel Dennis, will be felt as a public calamity. Lamenting it in every way, I must share with his country, his regiment, and his friends, in the consolation afforded by the reflection, that he was killed, most gallantly performing his duties. I have to express my entire satisfaction with the conduct on this occasion of lieutenant colonel Moyne, C. B. commanding one of the infantry columns under my own eye; of captain Wilkinson, on whom the charge of the other devolved on the death of his lieutenant colonel; of capt. Oldfield and lieutenant Moyne, who led the cavalry; and of capt. Abbott and Backhouse, and lieutenant Davis, artillery. The able and judicious manner in which Captain Havelock moved the force under his command, which acted on a line so distant as to render the manoeuvres independent of my immediate commendation.

My acknowledgments are also especially due to capt. Wade, my brigade major, whose exertions on this day were, as they have ever been, most meritorious.

To major Fraser of the light cavalry, who acted as my Aide de Camp, and to captain Mainwaring, commissariat officer with the force, who was present in, and active in the field; captain Macgregor, political agent, who generously offered his services with No. 6 Light field battery, and was most useful in serving the guns.

I enclose returns of killed and wounded, and ordnance captured.

Lieutenant and adjutant Wood, her majesty's 13th light infantry, made a dash at one of the enemy, and in cutting him down, his charger was so seriously injured, as to have been since destroyed. Captain Havelock reports in the most favourable manner the gallant conduct of lieutenant Cox, B. M. 13th light infantry, who was the first to seize the enemy's guns after the party which captured them.

I have the honor to be, &c.

(Signed) R. SALE, Major general.

True copies.

(Signed) J. P. WILLOUGHBY, Secy. to govt.

We have received letters by boat from Karrachee of the 23rd April, which give most gratifying accounts of an affair of colonel Wymer, of the 38th Bengal N. I. with the Affghans, three marches westward from Candahar. He had been despatched to meet general England, supposed to be on his way from Quetta when attacked by the Affghan horsemen. These were repulsed by him with a loss it is said of 300 men, including five of their chiefs. Our casualties are said to be extremely trifling. This intelligence reached Karrachee on the 24th by a coasted from Quetta.

We lament to find that cholera continues to rage at Karrachee with unabated violence. The whole of the 2nd were brought into barracks on the 21st, as the medical men were of opinion that their continuance in tents was injurious. The regiment had buried 93 men since the 6th, besides many women and children.

LORD ELLENBOROUGH.

We understand that Lord Ellenborough, previous to his leaving the Presidency, made much enquiry about a site for a wet Dock near Calcutta. The old place between Tolly's Nullah and Kidderpore yard was pointed out as the only spot fit for the purpose. His Lordship seemed resolved to carry his views into operation on his return to the Presidency.—Bengal Harkara April 15

(From the Englishman, April, 20.)

There are private letters from England, which mention that the Commander in chief had sent in his resignation; but if this be true he must have done it, we suspect, without any official communication with Government—an unlikely circumstance. Still the report is not wholly to be discredited to the extent at least, that he may have so expressed himself in private letters as to leave the inference that he was dissatisfied with his position—and our own letters give some color to the report, by stating that certainly Lord Fitzroy Somerset is to have the Indian Commander-in-chiefship; if he chooses to accept of it; which, however, it is said, his family do not wish him to do, as they are averse to his abasing himself from England.

A letter from a friend in London, received by the mail yesterday, says:—

'Your letters and papers, and the letters from India received by people all over the country, have created the greatest consternation. The general opinion is that all in Cabul have fallen sacrifices to the vengeance of the Affghans. The Mail is looked for with intense anxiety. The express has been sent in three or four days. There is a talk of sending out a Commander-in-Chief to replace Sir Jasper Nicolson, and Sir W. M. Nicholson will certainly not be allowed to hold the Government of Bombay after the proof he has given of incapacity. Indeed, another man is already sought of as a probable successor. Never mind what the papers rumour; the paragraph about troops in the Monthly Times is fact. Orders went yesterday from the House Guards to the 10th and 74th foot. The Court are opposed to any increase of Native troops. It is probable however that before the departure of the next mail they will send to a different tune.—The foreign ambassadors have been asked what, supposing us to wish to send troops to India, via Egypt, their instructions are. The answer is 'we must refer to our Court.'—Commercial matters are looking gloomy, and we expect bad accounts by the next three mails. They have been trying to make Small and and Co. partners with Bord and Co.; the opinion of eminent counsel has been taken, and they are now endeavoring to the contrary.—Grindlay, poor fellow, is no longer here, nor has he been for some time. He continues at Milan in a sad state of health. His mind is affected, and it is thought by his friends and medical advisers that he never can resume business.'

Not received.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, of 18th May.

SIAM.—The only arrival from this quarter for some time past, we believe, is the H. S. Hamilton, D. Brown, the 30th April, and although no news of any consequence has reached us, we are indebted to a friend for the following particulars relative to the late expedition against the Cockin-Chinese. This warlike and intended-to-be formidable movement, it appears, did not answer, and was expected to return without effecting any of the objects intended. We have, however, not heard what, if any thing, had actually taken place after the force had reached its destination. It would seem, that the return of the King of Burmah to his Capital has been a source of much gratification to His Siamese Majesty, whose sympathies, however, towards his British Ally, have been awakened by a report that had reached his royal tympanum, that the Golden-footed King in conjunction with the Nepalese would attempt to recover possession of the Transamerin Provinces, in which case His Majesty had declared that it need only be signified to him, to command his assistance in support of the former, whom he preferred to the latter as his Neighbour!! Commercial matters it would appear continue as dull as usual; Sugar had declined to about 8 cents—the crops falling short.—The usual number of the China Junk had, it seems, arrived, and business with them was very brisk.

We have received during the week the Jews Chronicle to the 4th instant, from which we give the following Anglo List of Shipping:—

- April 4. British ship John Bull, Snipe, from China, 22d March, for London.
- 6. British barque Thomas Hunt, Appleby, from Singapore, 21d March, for London.
- 9. British brig Griffin, Girdner, from Boston, 20th December, for China.
- 10. British ship Heleena, Spent, from Manila, 14th March, for Swatow passenger:—Mr. G. Harrison.
- 20. British barque Karavara, Corrhill, from Singapore, 17th March, for Liverpool.
- 20. British brig Clyton, Tilly, from Singapore, 3d April, for London.
- 21. British ship Bengal, Boodle, from England, 29th December, for China.
- 23. Amer. ship Lamar, Blackler, from Batavia, for Boston passenger:—Mr. G. L. Richards and
- 24. British barque Mormel, Jellard, from Siam, for Bombay.
- 24. British brig Alouana, Vaux, from China, for Bombay passenger:—Lt. Denny.
- 27. Amer. brig Cynthia, J. Simons, from China, 22d March, for Salem.
- 29. British ship Hamby Castle, Baxter, from China, 28th March, for Bombay passenger:—Mr. R. and Mrs. Lyda and family.
- 29. British brig William Bird, McLean, from Singapore, 9th April, for M. written.
- 29. M. B. M. Transport ship Thomas Coates, G. Wake, Esq. from Plymouth, 1st January, for China.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 11th June, 1842.

It is with much pleasure we publish from a Sem-Weekly Times Extra without date, but we believe of 1st May, the official account of the successes of British arms in Affghanistan. Accounts later by two days have since been received from General Pollock's camp, according to which the Khyber pass had been traversed without hardly any further molestation from the enemy, so that there can be no doubt that the junction with the brave division of General Sale will soon after have been effected. General Sale has set a noble example of heroism, even under the most discouraging circumstances.

We have kindly been favored with a Nedra Speculator extraordinary, of 7th May, of which the following are the contents. Rumours of the death of Shah Soojah had reached Calcutta on the 26th April; their confirmation will probably give a new aspect to the war in that country, and although the Shah has fallen by the hands of the enemies of England, his death is a just retribution for the treachery of which he is so strongly and probably justly suspected.

MADRAS—SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1842.
 Since our issue of this morning, we have been kindly favored with the following extract of a letter from Meerut dated 2nd ultimo, which although short, is so important as to merit immediate publication.

"Circumstantial details of Shah Soojah's murder have just been received. Brigadier England had fallen back on Quetta without further loss."

"Retribution is now fast falling on the murderers of our countrymen, and soon may we hope to hear of Cabool being in possession of the British."

FALL OF CHAPOO.

Since last week we reported the fall of Chapoo, we have been enabled to glean the particulars of the action from letters kindly shewn us by friends, of which the following is a short outline.

The force under Sir Hugh Gough embarked at Chusan on the 7th May, on board the transports, and on the 11th, accompanied by Vice Admiral Sir William Parker in the Cornwallis, with the Blonde, Medeo, Columbine, Algerine and four steamers, proceeded towards Chapoo, where they all arrived safe on the afternoon of the 17th. On the following morning the troops (in all 1,300 men, comprising part of H. M. 16th, 26th, 49th and 53th Regiments, and details of the Royal and Madras Artillery, Sappers and Miners) were disembarked, all without any opposition from the Chinese, on a sandy beach about 2 miles to the East of the city of Chapoo, which appeared a strong place, well protected on the sea side by a line of batteries, and where a force of about 9,000 men was collected, leaving the range of heights commanding the town, and the Bay where the British troops landed unprotected. While the British force was ascending, and forming on the hills, the ships of war opened upon the fortifications on shore, and soon silenced them, when they were taken possession of by the Brigade of 700 seamen, who landed under cover of the heavy fire from the ships, and drove the Chinese before them towards the town. In the meanwhile Sir Hugh Gough, at the head of the 19th and 49th, supported by Col. Knowles of the Royal Artillery, had moved forward along the crest of the hills, and Col. Schoedde, with the 26th and 53th, part of the Royal Artillery under Lieut. Spencer and the Madras Artillery was advancing in column over the low grounds, with the view of turning the enemy's position. They made the detour of the heights, and ascending a little eminence above the town, saw the whole Chinese army defiling regularly through the streets in full retreat. Their movements were somewhat accelerated by a few shells from Capt. Spencer's howitzer, and Major Anstruther of the Madras Artillery followed Col. Schoedde's ascending party, with some light field pieces, which were got right over the walls, and did considerable execution among the flying enemy, who suffered much loss from the momentarily increasing volleys from the Infantry. Unfortunately, whilst the British troops thus pursued the enemy, an event happened which from the loss of life occasioned by it cast a gloom over the success of the day: 300 Mantchoo Tartars had taken up a position in a building in the interior of the Tartar City, resolved to defend it to the last; they allowed the greater part of our force to pass by without notice, and unnoticed by them, but opened fire upon the rear of the Royal Irish and Seamen brigade. An officer on the spot, thinking the circumstances of little moment, faced about with 20 men of the 19th and charged the entrance of the building, but finding a warmer reception than they expected, and two or three of their number being shot down, the party retired. Col. Tomlinson, commanding the Royal Irish observing this, advanced with a fresh party, and entering the building were one and all killed or wounded. Col. Mountain, Adjutant General, and Capt. Peare with another company again attempted it, but with no better success, and the gallant Colonel receiving 3 shot wounds, and his companion, Lieut. Joddrell and Murray, being severely hurt, as also a great many men, was compelled to retire. By this time Col. Knowles with the shells and rockets had come up, when the house was very soon in flames, and the brave Tartars obliged to seek for safety in flight. All that had been spared by the rockets and shells were shot or bayoneted, and only about 20 out of the 300 were taken prisoners. Besides Col. Tomlinson, who was a fine and most popular officer, it was expected that the army would lose Capt. Campbell of the 53th who had received a ball in the head.

A curious and melancholy circumstance is related, which proves the dread with which the Chinese look upon the invaders, and that the character of the latter must have been misrepresented to them in the blackest colors. On entering the dwellings of the Tartar soldiers, a dreadful sight met the beholders: a great number of women, dreading all sorts of horrors from the conqueror, had after first killing their children, hanged themselves! It is not unlikely that the Chinese will accuse the English of this butchery, but from all accounts we have seen the conduct of the troops was throughout remarkable for steadiness and good behaviour. The loss on our side is reported to be 9 killed and 50 wounded.

The whole force is reported to be in the best health and spirits, and the weather was so cool that up to the 24th May they all wore woollen trowsers. It was to re-embark on the 27th, and proceed to the Yangtze-kiang. The country near Chapoo is represented as eminently beautiful and fruitful, as far as the eye could reach it was under cultivation, and covered with the finest possible crop of wheat.

When the British force arrived off Chapoo, a communication was sent to them from the Chinese, to the effect that if they would desist from an attack on the city, the prisoners the Chinese had kidnapped at Ningpo, Chusan, etc. would be given up. The offer could, of course, not be listened to; but it is gratifying in so far as conveying information that those men have not been murdered, as was generally supposed. A letter was at same time received from one of the prisoners, stating that they were at Hang chow-foo and well treated by the Chinese. It is very possible that the Chinese, recollecting that last year Chusan was not evacuated until the release of the prisoners of the shipwrecked Kite, imagine that by possessing prisoners they may make terms with the enemy, and this may account for the activity with which they have availed of every opportunity to seize stragglers. We hear that the reward paid for such seizures is 100$ if alive, and 50$ if dead, and it is therefore only in case of resistance, that the Chinese kill their victims.

We have given what details we could of the recent capture of Chapoo, of which event when we published our last paper only the fact was known with any certainty, whilst we mentioned as rumours which required confirmation, some circumstances said to have attended it. One of these was the sacking of the town—this we are glad to say has not been confirmed by the letters we have seen—in fact, only the government buildings, stores, etc. will have been destroyed, as will be seen from the official report of General Sir Hugh Gough published below.

We draw the attention of our readers to an application for subscriptions in favor of the wives and children of the officers and men killed or prisoners in the late rebellion in Afghanistan, and of others equally sufferers and not entitled to pay or pension from government, and hope that this call upon the sympathies of their countrymen will be cheerfully and generously responded to.

Extract from a letter dated Hongkong 6th June.
 We have no news here, except it be that our bands of thieves are renewing their hostilities. Every night now is signalized by some scene of robbery, and the thieves seem to be fond of proving to the public that the thin and hollow walls are just the thing they want. The godowns of Captain Pybus and Mr. Townsend have been entered; and the store of Messrs Wilson & Co. was cleared of its contents last night.—&c. &c.

The activity of the Canton authorities to prepare for defence still continues, and we hear that lately a large fort considerably below Whampoa, but on a parallel branch of the river has been constructed. Immense quantities of guns have been cast, and there is a large foundry of cannon established at Shampei, close to the foreign factories, which is at full work. This foundry it is said, is private property, but of course kept in activity by the orders from government. The guns it turns out are said to be of good workmanship, foreign guns serving as models. The Chinese, it is said, have also contrived to possess themselves of foreign made shells for Paix han guns.

We have received the Strait's Messenger of the 21st, and extra of 23d May, but they contain only two days later intelligence from Afghanistan than we have via Bombay. The Singapore papers have for some time been filled with accounts of murders, robberies and piracies committed at that settlement, which are a sad proof of the inefficiency of the Police. Chinese in bands of 50 to 60 men attack and rob houses in the night.

We give a list of the distribution of H. M. naval force, such as it is to be for the present—by the last advices the Herald had not left Amoy, nor had the Cambrian arrived there; H. M. S. Druid will be informed, leave for Bombay on Monday next. Most of H. M. ships and transports lately arrived, it will be seen from the Hongkong shipping list, have proceeded to the northward; the remainder with H. E. Sir Henry Pottinger in the steamer Queen will, we are told, leave Hongkong to-morrow.

The ships expected to join the expedition, not yet arrived, are the Flindell, 74, Hezard, 16, Ring-door, 18, Volterrine, 16, Minden, Hospitalship, steamers H. C. Semiramis, Abdur, Mormon, Prosperine; H. M. Argent, Driver, Crowler, Greyer.

It is a somewhat singular thing that ever since the arrival of H. E. Sir Henry Pottinger at Hongkong no grants of land have been made, except to members of the land committee. These have built a bazar upon the land so granted, and this bazar, the property of private individuals, the land and road inspector is ordered to take especial care of. Why private property of one description is deemed more worthy of protection than another, it is difficult to understand. The members of the land committee will perhaps enlighten us on that subject, as any information on a thing that looks so much like a job cannot but be interesting to the public.

We have during the week had numerous arrivals of merchant ships, chiefly from Bombay, laden with Cotton. It is computed they cannot have brought less than 50,000 bales, and nearly the whole of them are now on their way to Whampoa, and all this property, not much short in value of two millions of dollars will have to be trusted to the Chinese. Really, merchants run great risks in these times; still, what else is to be done? To Hongkong purchasers will as yet not come—the produce must be realized—this can only be done in Canton. We think it probable that with the late successes in the north, the Canton authorities will be loath again to embroil themselves, so as to create fresh hostilities; yet their continual preparations make us, we must confess, somewhat doubtful of their pacific intentions, and we would recommend every one going to Canton to be upon his guard. It must be remembered that the British authorities in China have warned British subjects, that if they place themselves or their property within reach of the Chinese at Canton, it must be on their own responsibility.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, of 2nd June.

POLICE.

(Before the lieutenant governor and the chief magistrate).
 On Thursday last, A-ang, an old Chinaman and eight others charged with piracy.

Daniel Caldwell gave evidence that he is master of the Thistle, and when getting under weigh, Akoo came on board and informed him his salt junk with a cargo worth about 400 dollars had been captured by pirates in the vicinity of Hongkong. He offered me 50 dollars to recover it for him. On nearing the island of Pang-chow a salt junk under sail was pointed out to me as his. On nearing her, four pirate boats of about 70 or 80 oars

Some Chinese had fancied that the bazar was to be called, after one of the land committee, "Malcolm's bazar" and got-boarish with that title made; which, being detected by the Secretary of Legation, the offending boards were destroyed, and new ones issued, bearing "Canton Bazar."

each attacked and fired 9 shots at me. In return I fired 5 shots when they sheered off. I boarded the salt junk and took the prisoners, who offered no resistance. I found three of the original crew confined with hands tied, under the hatchway. Ailing, on returning to my berth, came on board; he was recognized as the hirer of the pirates, and endeavored to recover the junk again by intimidation.

Ako, the owner of the salt junk in question, entirely corroborated the foregoing, as also other witnesses.

The prisoners in their defence, allege they are no pirates, and had nothing to do with the four pirate boats which attacked the Thistle. They were hired by Ailing to repair the boat which he had bought.

Ailing (being an old man) was sentenced to 21 months imprisonment in irons with hard labour; the other 6 prisoners to corporal punishment of 100 lashes each; and to be imprisoned in irons with hard labour for eighteen months. The salt junk was given up to its owner, and the guns and swivel (and on board handed over to the harbour master's care).

EXTRACT FROM GENERAL ORDERS.

Major General Barrell has much pleasure in expressing a sincere approbation of the soldier like and healthy appearance of the 41st Regt. M. N. I., and begs to convey to Lieut. Col. Halcman and the Corps his best wishes for their health, and that every success and honor may attend them on the Service on which they are to be employed.

Present	Lieuts. Hare,
Lieut. Col. Halcman,	Emerson,
Major J. Campbell,	Est. Triet,
Captains Jogaad,	Holmes,
" Hal,	Curtis,
" Rockfort,	Smith,
" Sir C. Burdett, Bart.
Lieut. Grant	Dr. Barrell.
" Hales,	Asst. Surg. Morrock,
" Cotton,	Hilliers,
" Money,	Lieut and Intr. Hay,
" McVicar,	35th Regt. doing duty.

With reference to the annexed, the undersigned will be glad to receive and remit to the "Kurnaul Committee" such subscriptions in aid of the desired object as may be forwarded to him.

JAS. RAMSAY, Dpy. Asst. Comy. Genl.
Hongkong 15th May 1842.

Head Quarters, Camp Basseekusha 12th March 1842.
There are few cases in which the Commander in Chief sanctions the circulation of Papers, for charitable Subscriptions without reluctance, feeling that individuals may make donations who would not spontaneously do so, or may be induced to give, to their inconvenience.

On the present occasion this feeling does not exist. The inferring of our fellow Soldiers on the retreat from Cahool and the distresses of their widows and fatherless children, will meet with the sympathy of all; and the misery of those who had no claim upon the Government for pay or pensions, and many of the widows will readily receive relief from those who can afford it.

I am therefore desirous by His Excellency to circulate this paper, and to add, that the donations will be for the relief of such of our countrywomen as have either had husbands killed in the late disasters in Afghanistan; or whose husbands being yet alive are in the hands of the enemy; or for their children, also for the relief of all other persons followers of the Camp, who have no claim on the Government for pay or pension, to be left to the discretion of a Committee.

The General Officer Commanding the Scinde Division will be requested to form a Committee at Kurnaul, to inquire into the cases of all applicants, and to distribute the funds; and branch Committees will be formed at Peshawar, Ferozepore and Ludianah, to carry the object of the Funds into effect.

The Subscribers at Putehgarh and Delhi, and all other places, will be invited to cooperate with the Kurnaul Committee, and transmit the Funds subscribed, for the purpose of being distributed by that Committee.

S. JOHN LUARD, Lt. Col. Military Secretary.
True Copy, JAS. RAMSAY.

P. S. The Subscription List in India is headed by the Commander in Chief (1000 Rs.) and the total amt Subscribed by last advices a about 20,000 Rs.

J. R.

Told, Extra, 4th June.

CIRCULAR.

TO HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S SUBJECTS IN CHINA.

Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, &c. &c., has much satisfaction in promulgating, for general information, the annexed extracts of official Despatches, under dates the 23rd and 21st of May, which have this day reached him from their Excellencies the Naval and Military Commanders in Chief, announcing the capture of the Port and City of Chappoo.

Whilst Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary must feel, in common with all Her Majesty's Subjects, great thankfulness and pride at this most important success, he participates most warmly in the expressions of regret which have been recorded by their Excellencies the Naval and Military Commanders in Chief of Her Majesty's combined forces, at the losses which our gallant countrymen have sustained in killed and wounded, as well as at the amount of suffering which has fallen on the Chinese soldiers and inhabitants, in spite of every effort made to induce the former to surrender, and, as well as the latter, to trust to our clemency and kind treatment of them.

The whole of the prisoners made, have been released and sent back to the Chinese High Officers, who had subsequently made overtures for accommodation, but which it is impossible to pronounce to be sincere. Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, however, indulges the strong hope, that the irresistible power of Her Majesty's Arms will, at no distant period, compel the Government of China to come to terms, and thereby put a stop to a war, which it is his anxious duty and wish to see terminated on an honorable and lasting basis.

God save the Queen!

HENRY POTTINGER.

Dated at Government House,
Hongkong, June, 1842.

Dated "Cornwallis" at Chappoo 23d May, 1842.

Commander Kellett and Collinson, who have been indefatigable in surveying every part we have had to navigate, succeeded during the night in thoroughly sounding between the anchorage of the ships and the shore, which enabled the Cornwallis, Blonde, and Modeste, while the troops were landing, to take up excellent positions against the Sea Batteries, consisting of two works mounting 7 and 5 guns, about one third of the way up a steep hill, at the Eastern extremity of the suburb, and crowned with a Joss House, occupied by a large body of men; and three other masked batteries mounting 30 guns, in front of the suburbs; making a total of 42 guns of different calibre. These all were thronged with Chinese soldiers, who also lined their defences on the heights, to a considerable extent, with matchlock men and numerous jingalls.

Against these Field works the Benoitrie was anchored, for the purpose of dispersing them with shells as our Troops advanced; and the inhabitants of the suburbs and city were duly warned to retire out of the line of our fire.

By the exertions of the Nemesis, Phlegethon, and Queen, steamers, and the boats of the covering vessels Starling, Columbine, Benetick, and Algerine, together with those of the transports, conducted by Lieut. Somerville, the troops were all put on shore in admirable order, under the able direction of Commander Charles Richards of the Cornwallis, before nine o'clock, when the General, with his accustomed energy, immediately pushed forward at their head; the Ships, by a preconcerted signal, opening their fire at the same time on the Batteries. A few shot however put the men stationed in them, and at the Joss House on the summit of the hill opposite to us, to a precipitate flight, and not a moment was lost in landing the Seamen and Marines of the Squadron, under Captain Bourchier of the Blonde and the officers named in the accompanying list, who got possession of the Batteries before the mines which were prepared in them could be sprung, and having succeeded in cutting off several of the Chinese Troops that were endeavoring to reach the Suburbs, joined our Land Forces on their approach to the City.

(Signed) WILLIAM PARKER.

Vice Admiral
G. A. MALCOLM.
Secretary of Legation.

Dated Head Quarters, Chappoo, May 21st 1842.
The fleet arrived at an anchorage, thirteen miles from this, on the 14th instant. On the 16th His Excellency, Sir Wm. Parker and myself reconnoitred the defences of Chappoo; when we made our dispositions for its attack. On the 17th the fleet came to anchor about four miles to the East of the City; and the troops were ordered to prepare to land at daylight next morning. By 8 o'clock, on the 18th every man was on shore without being opposed. By ten o'clock the whole range of heights and fortified encampments, forming the principal military defences of Chappoo, were in our possession, and by 12 I was on the walls of the city,—having escaladed the eastern angle, during the confusion and panic occasioned by the previous attacks; and having cut off the retreat of a large portion of those who defended the heights, which fortunately were the enemy's best troops, composed of Mantchoo Tartars. The Chinese had about 8000 regulars, 1700 of whom were Tartars. Their loss must have been very great, as we have buried from 1200 to 1500 men.—We have made but few prisoners; and those are principally wounded. From 30 to 40 guns have fallen into our hands; all of which I am in the act of destroying, except the brass. Vast quantities of jingalls, with some thousands of matchlocks, and innumerable bows and arrows, have also fallen into our hands, as have also a foundry, gunpowder manufactory, together with several arsenals,—which shall all be destroyed.

I regret to add, that this has not been effected without a greater loss than I anticipated. One officer, one sergeant, and 7 men killed; seven officers, one sergeant, and 42 men wounded, of the military arm; and about 5 or 6 of the marines and seamen. In the list of killed, I feel deep regret in naming Lieut. Colonel Tomlinson, an officer of high promise. Amongst the wounded are Lieut. Colonel Mountain, Dpy. Adj. Genl. a very superior staff officer, who has received three rather severe wounds; and Capt. Campbell, 55th, a most zealous officer.

(Signed) H. GOUGH.

Comd. Land Forces Eastern Expedition.

True Extract, G. A. MALCOLM,
Secretary of Legation.

GENERAL ORDERS.

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B., commanding Expeditionary Land Force, dated Head Quarters, Chappoo City, 19th May, 1842.

The Lieutenant General has again to congratulate his brave comrades in arms on another very brilliant achievement executed with their usual gallantry by the Chinese Expeditionary Force.

Sir Hugh Gough's best thanks are due to all ranks, and he again has to request Officers in command of Corps and Detachments to convey to their respective Officers and Soldiers his highest sense of approbation.

The Lieutenant General commends cannot deny himself the melancholy gratification of recording the deep feelings of regret he has experienced at the loss of one of our brightest ornaments, Lieut. Colonel Tomlinson, 18th Royal Irish, who fell at the head of his Corps, nobly doing his duty. His honorable remains will be committed to the deep to-morrow, in accordance with the express wisher of his brother Officers.

The Lieutenant General is happy to announce that Lieutenant Colonel Mountain, C. B. D.puty Adjutant General whose zealous exertions have been so frequently recorded, in doing well, as also the other wounded Officers and Men.

(Signed) J. B. GOUGH, Major,
Deputy Quarter Master Genl., Acting for Dpy. Adj. General, Expeditionary Force.

True Copy, G. A. MALCOLM, Sec. of Legation.

HONGKONG SHIPPING.

HARBOR MASTER'S OFFICE.

ARRIVED

3rd. Kestrel, from Chusan 1st June.
Sea Queen, from Macao.
H. M. Ship North Star, from Singapore Capt. Sir E. Home.
"H. M. Troop Ship Belleisle, Capt. Kingcome, with Lord Saltoun and Staff, the 90th Regt., and detachment of Royal Artillery.
Trio, from Calcutta.
Mary Imrie, from Chusan.
4th H. M. Steamer Queen, from Chappoo, Chusan and Amoy.
Prussie, from London.
Hindley, from Calcutta 30th Regt. M. N. I.
Burhamptoner. — do. Bengal Volunteers.
Rohmany, 2nd Regt., Madras M. I.
William Turner 6th Regt. Madras M. I.
John Wickhams 39th Regt. M. N. I.
H. M. Troop Ship Sapphire, Capt. Cole, Detache, of 18th 49th and Royal Arty.
H. M. T. S. Rastomake, with stores from Trincomalee.

SUPPLEMENT.

4. H. M. T. S. Apollo with part of the 49th. 53th capt. C. Frederick. m. Engd. & Sing.
5. Cherokee. McKellar. Stores. Singapore.
5. Flowers of Lipie. Annard. Camp followers 98th Singapore. [direct.
5. Thomas Coutts. Wade. Naval Stores. England
5. Asia. Davison. Part 6th regt. m. n. i. Singapore.
5. Amelia Thomson. Dawson. Gun Lascars &c. do.
5. Gertrude. Stead. Part 6th regt. m. n. i. do.
5. Surat Merchant. Hudson. Camp followers do.
5. Runnymede. Sepoys & camp do.
5. Currajee Cowasjee. Campbell. Part 14th regt. m. n. i. Singapore.

5. Lyander. Currie. Gun Lascars & followers do.
5. Wm. Wilson. Hawkins. 39th regt. m. n. i. do.
5. Kingsstone. Ricketty. Gun Lascars & foll. do.
5. Vallekai Bahar. Hutchison. 14th regt. m. n. i. do.
5. Victoria. Shilstone. do. do. do.
5. Pekin. Laing. do. do. do.
5. Walmer Castle. Campbell. do. do. do.
7. Kappa Schooner. Adalla. Batavia.

JUNE SAILED.

1. Kestrel. Beauvais. Macao.
3. Anna Watson. Sayers. Amoy and Chusan.
A. Faise Rabahny. trapt. Stewart. 14th regt. m. n. i. Chusan.
5. Urgent Marshall. 2nd regt. m. n. i. do.
5. Wm. Money. Bickford. do.
5. Duke of Bedford Lay. do.
5. H. M. Brig Serpent. capt. Neville. do.
5. Teaser. trapt. Gibson. Home Artillery. do.
5. Lady Flora. Ford. do.
5. Defiance. Ewart. do.
5. City of London. Antram. do.
A. Warrior. Dailey. Bengal Volunteers. do.
5. Tamerlane. Hurrie. do.
5. H. M. S. North Star. 36. capt. Sir E. Home. do.
5. H. M. S. Dido. capt. Capel. do.
5. Amazon. McFarlane. Macao.
5. H. M. T. S. Belleisle. capt. Kingcome. Chusan.
5. H. M. T. S. Rattlesnake. do.
5. H. M. T. S. Apollo. capt. Frederick. do.
5. H. C. B. Hooghly. capt. Ross. Macao.

WILLIAM PEDDER.
Harbor Master.

NOTIFICATION.

The House built for Mr. Parkinson, Superintendent of the Roads, having reverted to Government in consequence of the abolition of his appointment, it will be sold by Public Auction at the Victoria Tavern on the evening of the 16th instant at half past five o'clock, with a lot of ground attached thereto, not exceeding three Acres.

It is to be understood that the House alone is to be sold, and that the ground will hereafter come under any Regulations or orders that Her Majesty's Government may be pleased to lay down for similar lots. Terms Payment in three days after the Sale.

By order, CHAS. E. STEWART.
Asst. Secy and Treasurer.
Govt. House, Hongkong, 3rd June, 1843.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

At CHUSAN, CHINHA, &c.

H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards. Senior Commanding Officer.
Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-admiral sir W. Parker, &c. B. commander in chief; capt. T. Bouchier, of B.

Thalia, 44, capt. Hope
Endymion, 44, the honble F. W. Grey.
Calliope, 28, A. L. Kuper.
North Star, 26, Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald, 26, J. Nias. c. B.
Dido, 20, the honble H. Keppell.
Poican, 18, Napier.
Moderate, 18, comr. Watson.
Harlequin, 18, the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine, 18, Morshead.
Serpent, 16, Nevill.
Childers, 16, Balant.
Olio, 16, E. Troubridge.
Algerine, 10, lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist, 10, Cherwood.

SCRVEYING SHIPS.

Starling, 6, comr. Kellert.
Lady Bentinck, 2, Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

Belleisle, capt. Kingcome.
Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire, Cole.
Jupiter, mr. comr. R. Fulton.
Rattlesnake.
Alligator.

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden.
Sebastia, comr. Ormsby.
Anckland, Ethersey, I. N.
Tennasserim, Wall, I. N.
Nemesis, lieut. W. T. Hall, R. N.
Pinto, Tindor, R. N.
Ariadne, comr. Roberts, J. N.
Medusa, Hewitt, I. N.
Phlegathon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.

AT AMOY

Cambrian, 36, capt. Chada, c. B. senior commanding officer.
Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleion, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

Blenheim, 74, capt. Sir T. Herbert, c. B. senior comr. officer.
Druid, 44, R. Smith, c. B.
Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasce.
Cruizer, 16, Perce.
Young Hebe, 4, Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly, mr. comr. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

JUNE. ARRIVED

2. (B.) Fourteen. Baddeley. Singapore.
2. Cherokee. McKellar. do & Batavia.
5. Intrinsic. Davidson. Singapore & Bombay
4. Queen Victoria. Black. do. do.
4. Taken. Chalmers. do. do.
4. William Pirrie. Macdonald. Sing. do.
4. Mary Imrie. Boyd. Chusan.
5. (A) Robert Fulton. McMichael. Manil.
5. (B) China. Robertson. Singapore & Bombay.
5. Bombay. Farley. do. do.
5. Lowie Family. Ayres. do. do.
5. Crest. Oliver. do and Calcutta.
5. Devonport. Broadfoot. Bombay.
5. Carnatic. Cunningham. Sing. & Bombay.
5. Niagara. Champion. do. and Madras.
5. Cleopatra. Early. do. do.
5. Felix Viena. Silva. do.
5. Nerva. Melville. do. and Sydney
5. Francis Spaight. Winn. do. and Bombay.
5. Hindostan. Bowen. do. do.
5. Berusia. Kuhr. Manila.
7. (Sp) Singular. Manila.
9. (R) British Sovereign. Cow. Bombay.
9. Ambia. Potter. Calcutta and Singapore
10. (Hamb.) Francis. Berndt. Singapore.

PASSENGER PER

Franciscus, Mr. A. Sauer.

JUNE. SAILED

8. (A) Cayuga. Riesel. New York
8. (B) Pantolon. Porter. Sing. and Calcutta.
8. Christiana. Birkett. Bombay.
8. (Sp) Consuelo. Clanco. Manila.
11. (B) Castle Huntly. Reddie. do.
11. Chusan. Laird LONDON.

PASSENGER PER

Chusan, Mr. Wilkinson. Dent, Mr. Laing and Capt Whittingham.
Under DISPATCH—For Sydney, via Manila Lawrence: for Liverpool, John Horton.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Ann Birdon, Anna Eliza, Dureval, Calcutta, Devon, Gemini, Peruvian, Wladislaw, Pink, Anna
Marie.
From Bombay.—Drougan, Charlotte, England, Bucphalus, Jamsetjee Serjeebahy, Island Queen, Annamya, Earl
Rutcarra, Cornwallis, Agneder,
Helen, Charles Forbes, Salem,
Familiart, Sir Herbert Compton, Ana, Edinburgh, Diana, Ellen,
Corea.
From Calcutta.—Ordo, Water Witch, Clown, Red Rover, Sulph.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND 4th March. SINGAPORE, 30th May.
UNITED STATES, JAN. 22. MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 9th May. AMOY, 28th May.
BOMBAY, 1st May. CHUSAN, 28th May.
JAVA, 2d April.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Aras,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Amelia,	—	Potter,	W. H. Horton.
Abbot's Reading	350	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Bengalee,	—	Boddle,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Bombay,	1280	Farley,	Jardine M. & Co.
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	—
Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom & Co.
Columbine,	—	Majur,	H. Pybus.
Corair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Carnatic,	—	Cunningham,	Dent and Co.
China,	524	Robertson,	Russell & Co.
Crest,	—	Oliver,	Wetmore & Co.
Cleopatra,	377	Barley,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Cherokee,	278	McKellar,	—
Devonport,	—	Broadfoot,	Turner and Co.
Elanora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Falcon,	—	Baker,	H. Rustomjee.
Fortescue,	259	Hall,	Jardine M. & Co.
Forteen,	294	Baddeley,	—
Francis Spaight	—	Winn,	Turner and Co.
Georgiana,	—	—	—
Gratitude,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar & Co.
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	C. Fernon.
Herald,	—	Conison,	Macvicar & Co.
Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Gribble Hughes & Co.
Intrinsic,	—	Davidson,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
John Horton,	—	Cunningham,	Holliday Wise & Co.
John Christian,	400	Whitcomb,	Dirom & Co.
Louisa,	—	Fergusson,	Dent and Co.
Lawrence,	—	Foster,	—
Lowie Family	—	Ayres,	—
Lady Hayes,	—	Paterson,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Marquett,	185	Pomkins,	Turner & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Mary Imrie,	314	Boyd,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Niagara,	390	Champion,	—
Nerva,	—	Melville,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Queen-Victoria	715	Black,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Regular,	—	—	Turner and Co.
Royal Saxon,	—	Crawford,	H. Rustomjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Royal Exchange	155	Rees,	Jardine M. and Co.
Ron,	—	Metcalfe,	E. H. Hart.
Suise,	—	Morton,	Hutchinson Brothers.
S. a Queen,	—	Harvey,	Fergusson L. & Co.
Tramate,	—	—	—
Token,	579	Chalmers,	Russell and Co.
Vental,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Duran Jr.
Wm. Hughes,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonna,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
Zoe,	—	Milner,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston, Commander Long.
Forum, — Morlock, Russell and Co.
Levant, — Faulk, J. D. Sward & Co.
Ann MacKim, — Vassier, W. A. Lawrence.
Cincinnati, — Wilson, Wetmore & Co.
Grafton, — Gardner, I. M. Bull.
Onesim, — Smith, G. Nye Jr.
Huntres, — Lovett, Olympian & Co.
Robert Fulton, — McMichael, Wetmore & Co.

PRUSSIAN

Bornsin, 379, Kuhr, Holliday Wise & Co.
HAMBRO
Franciscus, — Berndt, Wetmore & Co.

at WHIMBOR.

BIRTH.—At Macao on the 10th June, the LADY of CAPT. HENRY GRIBBLE, H. C. S. of a daughter.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLAN,
at the Canton Press Office, Pedro Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 33.] Macao, Saturday, 18th June, 1842.

[No. 350.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On Tuesday the 21st Instant, JOHN SMITH will put up for sale to the highest bidder, at his Auction Room, 300 bags of SALT-PETRE.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. DUTRONQUOY also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wines, &c. &c. &c., at the shortest notice.
London Hotel Queen's Road,
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

WM. ALLANSON.
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subcargueurs des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne paieront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNMAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Partnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

GEORGE MARTIN.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

(Sd.) C. CARNIE
ALEXANDER DYCE.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witnesses our hands this 1st day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE or BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

MR. ADOLPHUS SCHALES DAYADALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.
LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug. 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to
C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship "INTRINSIC,"
537 Tons, N. M. DAVIDSON Commander, now at anchor in the Macao Roads, and can commence loading in three days. Apply to

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PEARIE, 553 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 12th June, 1842.

FOR LIVERPOOL.

THE JOHN HORTON, Capt. CUNNINGHAM, will sail in a few days. For passage only (having good accommodations). Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR MANILA.

THE new Brig "RAMONCITO," Capt. R. G. GONZALEZ, has part of her Cargo engaged, and will meet with quick despatch. For freight apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th June, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Bark SEA QUEEN, will proceed to Hongkong on Monday the 30th instant to take such freight as may offer, and will be despatched from this for the above Ports on the 18th June.

FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.

Macao, 27th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "ABBOT'S READING" A I
350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

WETMORE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MARGARIDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO.

or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I Prussian Ship BOROMIA,
Captain KUHN, 379 tons; apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 11th June, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 306
Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.
Macao, 30th May, 1842.

UNT on the Fraya Grande, or on the road back of the Fort St. Francisco leading to the hill. A bunch of small Keys, attached to a steel ring. A reward of $10 will be given on delivery of the Keys to the undersigned, or to Messrs Gibb Livingston & Co.
Macao, 5th June, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—1,000 piculs CHILIAN PIG COPPER on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt. Benjamin, now lying in the Roads; apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. RITCHIE.

Macao, 17th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodown of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—

Most Splendid French PIRA GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table brass Lamps, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Fayence Porcelain Dinner SERVICES, Cut Glass Tumblers, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Manipulatum Shur in quart bottles, a 48 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—On board the Hamburg Ship Frederic, in Macao Roads.

CLARET, St Julien and St Joseph,

HOCK,

COGNAC BRANDY,

CHAMPAGNE,

CHERRY CORDIAL,

GLASSWARE, &c.

Apply to Captain BERNDT on board.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "LUV'RY" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BRAD, of good quality at low prices. Apply on board to CAPT. PAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, 2000 favored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & FINE WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 30th May, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 QUEENS ROAD, AMERICAN FIRE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (dne) in 2 dozen cases. SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads. BRANDY and GENEVA do.

PALE ALE Bass's, do.

BEER in tierces, FINE in barrels.

COALS, 120 tons.

OILMAN'S Store late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hbds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sapho" and Alsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hbds. ex "John O'Garra" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADRINA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEI CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to
J. A. DE SILVA.
at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA BRAND, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SELTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 65, 64, and 60 feet long, also Russia CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SHEETS, CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to
J. V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to
B. LEMOS.
Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE
CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lastest reprintment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one dollar, ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars. The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12

For six Months..... $ 7

For three $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

SYDNEY.

From the Sydney Gazette, 16th April.

We have, from time to time, had occasion to make a few brief remarks upon the very great improvement which has taken place in our commercial affairs, within the last few weeks. So far as our mercantile readers, in Sydney, are concerned, it may be supererogatory in us to expatiate upon the present state of trade. With our country readers, however, it is different; they are equally, though indirectly, interested in the prosperity of our commercial community, and many of them have to depend solely on the press for information, on a subject which so much affects their welfare. Such being the case, we purpose giving a short sketch of the present state of trade in Sydney, and hazarding a few conjectures as to the future prosperity, or depression of our markets.

It is a fact which will bear no disputing, that since the beginning of the present year, most articles of import have advanced from 25 to 50 per cent., and that sales are now making at rates which would pay the shipper handsomely, were it not that from the length of time his goods have been in the country, there is a heavy expense incurred for storage, besides the interest on money thus locked up, for, perhaps, one or two years. Various reasons may be assigned for this rapid improvement; but apart from the almost inevitable recovery of a young and vigorous trade, from the temporary depression to which commerce is ever subject, we may look upon the wool clip, as the principal means of restoring prosperity to the commerce of the Colony,—and, consequently, to the Colony itself. The sale of wool, or the advances obtained on its consignment, has put a very large sum of money in circulation—old debts have been paid—new purchases have been made—the dealers have cleared off their stock, and the merchants, in furnishing them with a fresh supply, are happily enabled to do so, on more favourable terms for the shippers, than has been the wont in this market for two years past. There are still, however, some commodities which are very heavy in the market; we may mention, Spirits, and Tea. The first of these is an article of considerable export, and we must not therefore look upon the 600,000 gallons at present in bond, as a supply for New South Wales alone, as a very large portion of it will find its way to New Zealand, and the neighbouring Colonies. Holders are already raising their prices, and although sales are limited, they exhibit considerable firmness, and as this is an article which is always improving with age, and as from the fact of a considerable quantity having been re-shipped to England, we cannot look for any addition to our stock for some time, while it is daily diminishing in quantity. We are of opinion, that before the end of the present year, there will be a rise in all kinds of imported spirits. Those who are unacquainted with the habits of our Settlers, will think 30,000 to 35,000 chests of tea, a large supply for a population of 130,000 souls,—but others who have visited our rural districts, and know that tea, in almost every house or hovel, is not only in daily use, but that it forms a part of every meal, will not consider one chest for each four individuals, to be a very large supply. There is no other country in the world, where the consumption of tea is so great, in proportion to the inhabitants, as in this Colony. To the weary traveller, or bushman, Tea is the cup which invigorates the exhausted body, and raises the drooping spirits,—and at the family board of our Settlers, as we have already mentioned, Tea is ever present, whether the meal be in the morning, at noon, or in the evening. Metals, or rather, iron, is another article with which we have been overstocked. This is accounted for by the circumstance of much of it having been sent out as ballast for emigrant ships, for which it is well adapted. Such is not the case now, however, as emigration is stopped for a time, and during the past week, bar iron has sold at a price which would about clear the shipper, supposing it to have been shipped at the present low rate of iron in England. These three commodities, viz. spirits, tea, and iron, are, with wine, the worst stock in the market, but we have no doubt of their all selling at paying prices, before many months pass over.

We have thus made a hasty review of the present state of the market, and will now take a glance at the future. The ruinous account sales, which have gone home for some time back, the bankruptcy of some of our most respectable firms, and the gloomy accounts contained in our public prints, will assuredly deter those who have been in the habit of consigning goods to this market, from continuing to do so. The unfortunate affair of the Loan Company, whose Scrip has been remitted to a large extent, as a return for consignments, will also alarm cautious men, and we need not be astonished if they think, that, with low prices, and bad remittances, this trade is not worth prosecuting. The consequence of this will be, that our imports for the present year, will fall far short of the previous one, and with an addition to our population, of nearly twenty per cent, and a diminution in supplies, which we cannot even guess at with any certainty of approximating truth, almost every article of import will be scarce, and goods will sell at prices which have been unknown for years. The lucky few who have continued their shipments, will be at all events, in part, repaid for former losses; better times, and satisfactory accounts of sales, will induce the timid to try fresh shipments,—commerce will flourish for a period of years, until over trading, insane speculations, and reckless extravagance, cause another eruption, such as that from which we are now happily recovering. This is ever the case in a commercial country, but there is no obstacle in the way of a discerning and judicious Merchant's success, if he enters into trade in Sydney, more than in any other part of the Globe. A commercial life is ever one of vicissitude, and the shock which we have recently received, is not caused by any thing peculiar in our transactions, or made of doing business. We conclude with one satisfactory remark, which is, that with all our distress, though merchants have been failing, and farmers selling their stock for a mere trifle, few, or none, of our respectable shop keepers, have become insolvent, and, we believe, that there is no place where credit is given, that fewer bad debts are made, than in Sydney. Our dealers, generally, are a most respectable body of men, and many of them possessed of great wealth; such being the case, a cautious merchant may, to a great extent, avoid losses, by alone selling to those who are responsible. If a higher price tempts him to sell to a doubtful mark, he is a premium for the risk,—and if he is a loser, he can only blame himself for selling in opposition to his own judgment.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, 26th May.

We learn that since Saturday last all the Kling—men of every trade and profession at Singapore struck work—and even the petty shopkeepers amongst them closed their Boutiques, refusing to engage in buying or selling with the European portion of the community—in short there was a strong feeling of dissatisfaction manifested by this class of the population, which finding vent in the way above described, caused a temporary inconvenience especially among the merchants, from their being deprived of the services of their boatmen and boats. The cause it appears of this state of matters was, that one of their annual festival processions (to which they seem to have attached some importance), was on Friday night prevented from taking place by the Police Magistrate, they being allowed to celebrate the principal annual festival only of their creed. We were on more than one occasion aware of a similar veto being put upon their public processions on former occasions, without its being attended with any such demonstration of discontent as on this first time, and therefore suspect that some unusual cause must have operated, tho' what it is we have not been able to discover. The reason of the prohibition is a good one, namely, to prevent any accidents occurring in the crowded streets of the Town during the progress of all the noise and display usually accompanying Native processions, or any rows taking place between rival parties; but we regret to notice the mode which these people have adopted to exhibit the unpleasant feelings to which this check on their proceedings may have given rise. Instead of representing the peculiar nature of the ceremony now sought to be celebrated, and their grievance in being refused its observance, to the proper Authorities of the Place, they have so plainly shewn a degree of opposition and ill will, which far from being of use to them in the way they anticipate, will most probably not only curtail all future indulgences of the kind, but also drive those who have hitherto depended upon their services and assistance—for instance of the boatmen especially—to the Chinese labourers whose active and industrious habits will very soon enable them to supersede their Kling brethren. We hear that in some cases recourse was actually had to the Chinese in forwarding business between the shipping and the shore and that this plan has already had the effect of opening the eyes of the refractory Klings.

We had written thus far when the favor of our Mercantile Correspondent came to hand which we with pleasure publish.

We certainly do think that any individual Kling dissuading those of his brethren who are in employ or under any engagements from attending to their employment or fulfilling their obligations, ought to be punished—and if we are not mistaken there is more than one way of doing so.

From the Sing. Free Press, 26th May.

The Honble W. Erskine has been suspended from his office until the pleasure of the Court of Directors is known, owing to his publishing the Extract from Sir W. Macnaghten's letter to him reflecting on the troops lately employed in Cabool, which appeared in the Friend of India some weeks ago.

We make the following Extracts:—

"We hear that very bad accounts continue to be received from the Bundelkund quarter. The country is in a most turbulent state. It is apprehended too, that the Overland despatches for the Governor-General have been intercepted. This will be a serious loss, for it is thought that Lord Ellenborough was waiting for the arrival of the March Mail to determine his final measures with regard to Affghanistan."

"It was supposed when Sir Thomas Cochrane's appointment was announced that he was to supersede Sir William Parker in the China Seas. On reference to the Gazette notifying the appointment we find that Sir Thomas is to be second in command in the East Indies."

"Can any one inform us, whether it is intended by the Government to grant letters of Marque for China? We have heard that such is the intention, but wish to be correctly informed upon the subject before we make such observations on the circumstance as at present occur to us."

AFGHANISTAN.

CAUBUL AND PESHAWAR.—After our matter was arranged and almost in the press, the Loodianah and Simla daks arrived, bringing us from our really kind and most indefatigable correspondents full accounts of the "doing" in Camp from the 5th to the 12th instant, and we have displaced all we could, to make room for matter of so much interest. The Simla letter, dated 20th April, mentions that news had been received of General Pollock's arrival at Jellalabad, but the date is not given, and also that an express had arrived which gives out that there is not the least doubt of the murder of Shah Soojah by the Ghasees as he was returning from a mosque where he had been praying; after this the Bala Hisar was attacked, ransacked and plundered and the Zenana became the scene of every atrocity that these savages could commit. It is now supposed that there will be no delay in pushing on at once to Cabul; the Queen's 31st and the 6th N. L., and the whole of that Brigade had arrived at Peshawur, and marched for Jellalabad, and Colonel Bolton having received orders to push on will lose no time in reaching that place. The murder of Shah Soojah appears to have wrought a complete change in the ideas of our Great Men and instead of a withdrawal to Peshawur nothing but a speedy advance is talked of. A wing of the 33d and light company of the 6th N. L. remain at Ali Musjid; they have a couple of guns and it will be difficult for the Afreedis to do any thing in that quarter. We have really no time for comment, and we must beg our readers and correspondents to excuse any inaccuracies there may in to days paper for we are pressed in every way. Should some of our dawk subscribers not receive their papers as early as usual the delay is attributable to us, as we could not let the paper go out without the news we now present them with.—Delhi Gazette April 23.

Camp Loll Poorah, near Dukka, and opposite to Loll Poorah, 11th April.—This morning about 4 a. m. three Squadrons of the 3d Dragoons, 3 Regiments of 3d Irregular Cavalry, 15 Companies of Foot, (European and Native) and 2 guns, accompanied Captain Mackeson with Torabaz Khan, for the purpose of reinstating the worthy Afghan and our ally in possession of his property at Lalpoora, which is on the left bank of the Cabul river, and exactly opposite to our encampment. Our Troops had to make a long and circuitous march before they found a place at all fordable, for the river is deep and the stream rapid; at length, (in the afternoon) they crossed the river with difficulty, and one of the Europeans belonging to her Majesty's 9th Foot was drowned, and another brought back to camp who had been extricated from the water just in time to save his life.

The inhabitants, alarmed at our approach, were seen carrying away their goods and chattels in all direction towards the hills. They have, however, been informed and assured by a letter from our General, that it is not our intention to do them injury, and that we only require of them to receive and honor their Chief Terabaz Khan, whom we have brought back to his country in safety. It is thought, that tomorrow the people will return to their abodes—Perhaps it may be as well to inform you, that Terabaz Khan is a brother of Sadut Khan, who owns Dhukka, and whose daughter is married to Ukbar Khan, of course this alliance by marriage incited Sadut Khan to acts of treachery against us, but his brother continued our friend, and he was the person, who protected Captains Ponsonby and Ferris, &c. in their retreat from Peshawur, and sent his nephew with many followers, to show our party the way over the mountains, and to protect them on their way to Peshawur. This Terabaz is likewise the same man, who assisted General Sale with supplies until he found his life in jeopardy, and to remain longer at Lalpoora would be dangerous, for Akbar Khan had written to his father-in-law, deprecating in the strongest terms, the coolness with which he looked upon the assistance which his brother was affording, to the British, giving him to understand, and very clearly too, that unless it was put a stop to, that he, Akbar, would make a dour upon Dhukka and Lalpoora, put to death the brothers, and take possession of their property. He further invited Sadut Khan to murder his brother, Terabaz Khan, by telling him, that his near connexion by marriage to his daughter, his brothers countenancing assistance to Kafir, the customs of his country, the tenets of his Mussulman faith, and being a disciple of the prophet Mahomed, all demanded that he should sacrifice his brother, if he continued to favor the Kafirs. This letter together with frequent demonstrations sent by messengers to Sadut, at length had the effect of placing the two brothers in a state of warfare; at which juncture, information was given to Terabaz, that Akbar Khan was coming down with an army upon him, and he fled to Peshawur to our protection. He was kindly received, and, I trust, the Government of British India will for ever protect him, for such acts of friendly alliance and good faith are rarely to be met with in the Afghan character.

The fort of Chukka was destroyed on the 10th instant, by the Jeraichees, they set fire to it, so that the broken bare walls are all that is left to look upon. Every thing is going on well, and good news from Jellalabad arrives daily. The Circular of our General to the troops will show you, that Akbar Khan, managed to muster a larger force than was anticipated—viz. 6,000, for it was thought he had only 1,200 followers, horse and foot. He had a great many Cavalry, which the 13th Queen's charged and beat off at the point of the bayonet, in most gallant style. The battle was no sooner over, than the villagers brought in lots of supplies, and all the Chiefs in the neighbouring country have sent in letters of friendly submission: poor Colonel Deenie, you will be grieved to hear was killed in the action. This is the only drawback; it is a sad and serious loss, he was a valiant man, and one of the bravest of the brave.

Shah Soojah has been murdered by a nephew, at the instigation, it is said, of Shah Zeman, who the rightful heir to the throne of Cabool. The chiefs are daily coming in to offer allegiance, and all are anxious for Shah Zeman to be their King.

Camp opposite Lampoora, 12th April, 1842.

The force which crossed the river yesterday is now opposite to us; we can perceive the dragoons surrounding the Fort, and the sepoys are in the town.

The people appear to be returning to their homes, provisions are coming in; and we are likely to be pretty well supplied. Good beef has been killed to-day, it is quite a treat to see it, but greater to taste and eat it. On the march from Lundee Khana to this place, we did not see a single Khyberri on the hills; annoyances, I fancy, is about over. We have left the Khyberries, and are now amongst the Afghans. Our first day's loss, on entering and forcing the Khyber pass, was about 160 killed wounded, and missing—viz. 14 killed, 17 missing, (probably run away) and about 130 wounded.

It is said that a Dawk for Peshawur leaves at 4 p. m. to-day, it will no doubt be lucky, for every body has letters to their friends, ready written, and only awaiting for the sending away of a camp packet. One of our Assistant or Acting Commissariat officers had a narrow escape from the enemy. He was riding, on horseback, between this and our last encampment, Lundee Khana, accompanied by a Shuter Seward and his Syce, who were on a Company's camel, the 9 men were killed by the Khyberries and the camel taken away, but the officer is alive, and may be said to owe his life to the speed of his horse. I have no time for more to-day, but shall try and continue to send you a stave now and then as we move along the road.—Thd.

We have been favored by a friend on the frontier, with the following extract from a private letter from Peshawur, and we hope that while the delay and difficulty that at present operate against the regular despatch of letters from Jullalabad continue to prevail, our well-wishers and valued friends on the hither side of the Khyber will not fail to favour us with pretty constant notices, in brief, of what they learn of doings on ahead:—

"PESHAWUR, APRIL 21.—"Letters from Pollock's camp, up to the 18th instant, were yesterday received at Peshawur. From these we gather that the army reached Jullalabad on the 16th, and that the gallant fellows whom it was their gratifying and honorable, not to say enviable, office to relieve, were all in health, so rude as to tend to the belief that attia, (and but 'adh' ver attia per diem), was after all the best pabulum that man can feed on.

"As Pollock's force came within sight and hearing of the garrison, they were greeted by the latter, who were thronging on the walls of the fortress, and with long, loud and enthusiastic peals of hearty English welcome—of huzzas that sprung from mingled joy and pride, making the 'wilkin' ring again. Then came the volleys where 'the cannons to the heavens' sounded welcome from the brave to the brave!—Words are weak at best, how weak mine, to express the intensity of men's feelings on an occasion, such as this. I have heard, and well can I believe that many an eye was 'dim with unshed tears' that morning; and little do I envy, eye or honour, the man who could entirely retain his self possession; and his calmness at such a time. It is true that among the rescuing and the rescued parties, there were brothers; and their feelings must indeed have been of the intensest. But at such a moment all were brothers, and the hand was grasped and shaken by an utter stranger with a kindness quite incomprehensible perhaps to the cold Englishman under ordinary circumstances.

"The only news of interest that has as yet reached us from that quarter may be summed up in a few words.

"A report prevailed at Jullalabad on the 18th, and a day or two before that, to the effect that our most bitter and influential enemy in that quarter, Mookesdeen Moogredes, had been assassinated. He was the head of a popular religious faction vehemently opposed to our interests. A rumour was likewise general, that Mookhammad Ukbar had died of his wounds.

"There is no longer room for doubt as to the instructions of General Pollock in regard to return hitherward or otherwise—these are unquestionably to advance either to Cabool or to some spot northward of Jullalabad, favourable as summer quarters to the troops. He has written to desire that the tents of the Europeans be forwarded with Colonel Bolton's brigade, and has not only sent for his own baggage that was left at Peshawur, but has authorized the officers generally belonging to his force, to arrange (as far as they can) for getting up their tents by the same opportunity.

"The 35th and 53d with the Jussalibees, and 2 guns and a squadron of native cavalry, were to start on the 19th and 20th instant, for Alee Musajed, to meet Bolton's brigade. They were appointed to take back all the camels of the advanced force that could be spared for the purpose of assisting commissariat stores from Alee Musajed (where a large supply has been collected) to Jullalabad, at which latter point there would naturally be a difficulty as yet in subsisting the troops from the resources of that quarter.

"It remains but to say that Bolton's brigade (in excellent fighting condition, moral and physical) were at Peshawur on the morning of the 21st. They were to march on or about the 23d. The pass as far as Alee Musajed is open to all but individuals or very small parties. The garrison of that place, consisting of the new regiment, of irregulars, under Capt. Thomas—(consisting, I believe, of about 500 men), and one company of the 1st N. L. and Lieutenant Pinkett, are to go on with Bolton's brigade, making over charge of the fort to two regiments of Sikhs under Colonel Baidar Singh.

"They called Terees, (consisting of about 50 or 60 miserable huts with grass roofs) from whence they have been bothered with more visitors than were allowed or welcome. They lost, I hear, only two men on this affair, but achieved several of the 'enemy'."

(From the Englishman, April 23.)

NOTIFICATION.—Secret Department—Benares—21st April.—The Governor-General feels assured that every subject of the British Government will pursue with the deepest interest and satisfaction, the report he now communicates of the entire defeat of the Afghan Troops under Mahomed Akbar Khan, by the Garrison of Jellalabad.

That illustrious Garrison, which by its constancy in enduring privation, and by its valor in action has already obtained for itself the sympathy and respect of every true Soldier, has now, rallying forth from its walls, under the command of its gallant leader, Major General Sir Robert Sale, thoroughly beaten in open field an enemy of more than three times its numbers, taken the Standards of their boasted Cavalry, destroyed their Camp, and re-captured 9 guns, which, under circumstances which can never again occur, had during the last winter fallen into their hands.

The Governor-General cordially congratulates the army upon the return of victory to its ranks. He is convinced that there, as in all former times, it will be found, while, as at Jellalabad the European and Native Troops mutually supporting each other, and evincing equal discipline and valor, are led into action by Officers in whom they justly confide.

The Governor-General directs the substance of this Notification and of Major General Sir Robert Sale's report be carefully made known to all the Troops, and that a salute of guns be fired at every principal station of the army.

By order of the Right Hon'ble the Governor-General of India.

T. H. MADDOCK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

We have the pleasure to give our readers an extract from the first private letter we have had from General Pollock's force, since it got to the Jullalabad side of the Pass. The letter is dated "Dakka Loll Poorah, April 9th," and gives some very gratifying details of the conduct of our men, and proofs of how excellently the General's plan of attack was adapted to the circumstances. It abundantly proves, too, that the Harikari's apprehended "massacre of two hundred prisoners" did not take place, but nevertheless the General and his officers will feel frattered by the part they were made to play in the exhibition. We thought it would puzzle honest Jack to catch an Afreedi in the Khyber Pass,—but let that pass! In addition to what the letter now extracted from tells us, a friend writes:—'Having brought only one month's supply with us of commissariat rations, we are, as you may suppose, on a very scant allowance, and there is some reason for grumbling; but nevertheless we are all in capital spirits, though we cannot fight long on empty bellies. Nothing could have been better than the conduct of the 26th N. I., it excited the warmest praise from every one; their loss was about thirty, the 9th Foot, forty three.'—Our friends are no doubt aware by this time that they are not to come back yet a while, but we have no doubt of their being well laurelled by the time they do return:—

'With regard to the taking of the pass itself, that you must have heard by the express channel long before private letters could reach; but with regard to the details they were exactly as laid down in the plan I sent you, with the very slight alteration of Captain Ferris' men being all on the left hill instead of being divided between the right and left. The plan laid down by General Pollock answered admirably, and Ali Musjed was taken possession of the first day in gallant style, the whole brunt of the action falling on the 26th N. I. and H. M. 9th Foot, who lost upwards of 80 men killed and wounded between them and one officer, Lieut. Commins of the killed, and Lieut. Mulcaster of the 64th, who was with the reserve, wounded. Capt. Ogle of the 9th also received an ugly fall, and many others a few partial scratches. The fighting was confined almost entirely to the right-hill, and the entrance to the Pass. Col. Taylor's division consisting of 2 companies of the 9th foot, and 4 of the 26th, did the thing in gallant style and swept the whole face of the hill and then descending into the Pass proceeded to crown the hills on the right hand side all the way to Ali Musjed. The rear of his division, however, in covering the retreat, under Captains Gahan of the 26th and Berton of the 9th, suffered severely, having had some 15 or 16 killed and wounded.

'At the mouth of the Pass the Grenadiers of the 9th under Capt. Ogle, gallantly charged the breast work, carried it, but we regret to say with considerable loss, 9 or 10 of his company having been knocked over. On the left hill, there was not we believe a shot fired, much to the surprise of every one, as considerable resistance was expected there. We have now got cleared of the Pass without losing a bullockload nor had we any resistance after the first day. The effect appears to have been a death blow to the pride of all the natives of this part of the world, and nothing can equal the consternation it has spread among them; they have fled in every direction and cannot even be tempted to take away a stray camel; a thing at which they were remarkably expert before. As we go along, all their green crops are cut down, and villages blown up to punish them for their perjury, for to the last day almost it was believed the Pass was bought, and part of the money was known to have been paid to the scoundrels.* What our destination is to be after relieving Sale at Jallalabad no one knows, but it is generally believed we will return. If the information however, which has reached Camp to-day, and is generally believed that Shah Shoojah has been murdered be true, there is no saying what difference it may make. You will no doubt be sorry to hear that Brigadier Denham has been killed in an action which Sale had with Akbar Khan, on the 4th? 60 men were killed and wounded besides; he however re-captured four of the Cabool guns and gave the enemy a most infernal thrashing. We are restoring Loosah Bas Khan, the Lalpoora man to his throne, but were obliged to throw a few shells into his Garrie before we could prevail on them to give it up to its rightful owner—he was the man who saved Capt. Harrington's party last October. The loss of the Khyberies is supposed to be some 500; they would not give us an opportunity of putting it to them stronger.

'The Pass is now occupied by our worthy friends the Seiks, who have promised to keep it open until we return, but I doubt much whether we can trust them; they are without exception the most insolent, cowardly brutes in India. The heat is now getting intense, the Brigades are out from morning till night, getting the baggage and Artillery along; some have not even seen their own baggage since we left; others consider themselves lucky in being able to get a change of raiment. What have not the Head Quarter People to answer for exposing such a force to the climate at such a time of the year, if the force now close to Jallalabad had been sent up with General Pollock, when first he came, Wild's failure never would have taken place; the Pass might have been easily bought; and if we were to return we might have been now nearly back again in the Provinces without the loss of a life in all probability; what it is to have a moodie at the helm. Those who were looking up from the plains at the storming of the heights, declared that the ascent of the right height, under Colonel Taylor, was one of the most determined and magnificent sights they ever witnessed. The hill was attacked at three different points—one party under Colonel Taylor, another under Capt. Gahan of the 26th, and a third under Major Anderson—and carried in about an hour. Brigdier Wild, who commanded the advance division in the Pass, was, I am sorry to say, wounded by one of our own shells.'—164.

The Bombay Times of the 27th ultimo, is more than usually destitute of news. The following are the only items of interest:—

"DEATH OF LIEUT. LEIGHT, 'ST LIGHT CAVALRY.

(LANCERS).—We have given in our last a short notice of the circumstances under which Sir Alexander Burnes met his death,—and we now have particulars of the fall of another Cabool sufferer—Lieut. LeGeyt, of the 1st Bombay Light Cavalry. A chuprassee, who had accompanied the force from Cabool, lately reached Bareilly. He knew Mr LeGeyt most perfectly; and states that he saw his dead body lying by the way side between Texeen and Juggulluk. He appeared to have been shot. A Rescinder of Anderson's Horse, who was at the time this occurred with the chuprassee, states, that near Khoord Cabool the whole of the cavalry, except some 60 or 70 of Anderson's Horse, who remained with Mr LeGeyt, deserted. He was one of the few officers at this time with the men that spoke Hindoostanee well; and he on once occasion appeared to have almost the entire command of the troops around him. He laboured incessantly,—and at times it would have seemed not wholly without success, to keep the men together, and under command. This was a hopeless task, however, when at length utter disorganisation reigned supreme.

It appears, from the letter of an up-country correspondent, that the last engagement at Candahar was between a party under Col. Wymer (sent out to assist the advance of General England) as previously arranged, and a body of the enemy:—

"I told you some days ago that Pollock reached Jullalabad on the 16th; this is confirmed to-day, as letters have been received of that date stating, that Pollock marched in on that day, Sale's troops lining the walls to receive him, with colours unfurled and bands playing. The country around is quite quiet, as nearly all the people have fled to the hills. Shah Shoojah, it is said, was true to our cause to the last. Sir W. McNaughten's watch was found in Mahomed Ukhbar's tent.

The affair near Candahar took place at Deh-Hadji, two marches from the former place. Col. Wymer was sent out by Nott to assist England; but the latter was beaten at Hickulzyre, somewhere below the Kojuck—so Wymer's party was not of much use."

SENDS.—Letters from Sukkur of the 10th inst. intimate, that Major Reid had that morning marched with the Head Quarters of the 12th N. I. and a Squadron of the 3rd Cavalry, in charge of the large convoy of 2000 camels with stores and provisions for Quetta; the remainder of the 12th were to follow in a few days with 600 or 800 additional camels expected from Joudpora. Some mountain guns and howitzers were desired by General England, but none could be supplied from Sukkur. The three Ludus steamers were about to proceed to Tatta to bring up H. M.'s 2nd Regt. to Sukkur; and the 19 Bengal N. I. were expected to arrive in a few days from Ferozepore. One Wing was looked for by water, the other was on its march. The Quetta Brig will probably reach its destination about the 7th May; and is about the last movement of any magnitude we should expect through Cutchee for the season. The Desert will be hot as an oven in a week or two.—Bombay Times, April 23.

(From the Calcutta Star, April 23.)

We mentioned the other day that Bundelcund was in a disturbed state and gave a few particulars of what was then going on. Referring to the following contents of a letter dated 17th instant, it will be seen that the evil is not an insignificant one. On the 18th Mr. Fraser, the Commissioner was expected at Saugor, and it was understood that on the Saturday previous to that date, a Dak runner was murdered with six miles of the place, and a village not very distant was plundered, burnt, and had many of its inhabitants killed:—

'The bad policy of the late Lord Wm. Bentinck in reducing the troops and defences of British India and of Earl Auckland in not increasing the army with its duties, is becoming more apparent every day. Here we are at the Head Quarters of a Division and in the midst of a country the inhabitants of which are any thing but favourably inclined towards our Government, with soldiers barely sufficient to protect their own lines while bands of armed robbers and disaffected have been at work the last fortnight, not very far from cantonments, plundering and burning towns and villages, and murdering British subjects. They have even carried their audacity so far as to threaten the cantonment, fort, and town of Saugor. One day the news spread far and wide that they had actually entered the town—the immediate presence of the commanding officer Col. Blackall, and his ordering down a strong party of sepoy to remain at the cutwallie only restoring a partial confidence. The alarm and dread was very general among all classes, as it was well known 500 men was the utmost that could be collected for the defence of a position embracing to Town, Fort, &c. of 12 or 13 miles in extent. Half the Artillery a couple of squadrons of Irregular Cavalry, and 6 companies of Infantry, under the command of Captain Day or O'Hara, I know not exactly which, have been out since the 10th; but owing to the hilly nature of the country and the want of a sufficient number of cavalry they have been able to effect little beyond keeping the more numerous party in check. It is said two other large bodies are unchecked and ready for mischief. The artillery and one company of Infantry have been ordered to return to cantonment, the fort, overlooks the town, the magazine is within the former, with arms, and ammunition sufficient to equip eight or ten thousand men, and would you believe it there is not a Bastion or spot in a fit state, from want of flooring and Breastwork, to mount a 6 pounder gun! The magazine people when ordered the other day to mount two nine pounders for the protection of the Kutta—the principal entrance to the Town—were obliged to put them on the roofs of the Artificers working rooms, which are very likely to come down by the run after half a dozen rounds, should there be occasion for firing them. Embrasures had also to be made by breaking a portion of the wall: however, since the mounting of the Cannon the confidence of the Town's people has increased. Very little expense would put the Fort in a defensible state. Iron and Brass 12 Pounders would answer capitally—with half a dozen of them mounted on the works there could be little cause to fear any attempts that could be made for its capture unless by a regular army—just now, the case is very different, a Jemadar's party a warrant or Non Commissioned Officer, and a party of Magazine Workmen for the Guns, are all that are left for its protection. A few hundred desperate men would I fear turn the odds against us—indeed the Saugor division has not half the number of Troops that are really necessary—our neighbours the Bundelais are noted for being turbulent and disaffected, and they are not by any means to be despised as soldier—of late years nearly all Bundelcund has been in a disturbed state. It is rumoured that the agent requires a force there at this present time, where is it to come from? I was near forgetting to say that there is a state prisoner in the Artillery Congee house connected somehow with the Insurgents. He is strictly watched and guarded. I fear to write anything but what I have heard from good authority or have seen, lest it might be wrong.'

THE INDIAN PRESS.

(Eastern Star, April, 17.)

There have been some remarks made in the public papers on the subject of Lord Ellenborough and the Press of Calcutta, the Delhi Gazette having related an anecdote of an Editor having waited on his Lordship to request that intelligence might be supplied officially as heretofore. It was worthy all praise in Lord Auckland that he directed this to be done, from the commencement of the disturbances in Afghanistan. The public was naturally most anxious for news, and it was much better that the press should supply authentic matter than be left to comment on rumours, unintentionally perhaps aggravating the general alarm. It appears that the Editor in question was of the Englishman, and he acted very properly in making the application. His Lordship was not quite certain about granting the request—he would consider of it. He did so, and has had the good sense to accede to it. 'His public rumour' that Lord Ellenborough entertained, for two months experience may have possibly modified his opinion) a very low estimate of the Press in India. There are two reasons for thinking that he looks upon it a little more favourably. He has not 'cut off the supplies,' and he has not started a Government Paper, which it is understood he contemplated doing. The Hurkar observes 'Lord Ellenborough may be hostile to the liberty of the Press, but we scarcely think that his hostility will ever be manifested in any thing more covert than words.' I don't think it is very material whether he be hostile or not, for his bringing any legislative power to oppose it is quite out of the question. The liberty of the Press is at least as secure as the Monarchy of England.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To COMMANDER KRAVSKY.

Commander.—They tell me down here that after their fellows in Canton agreed to pay you just what you said, you went and settled with 'em for what took call "a liberal estimate of actual losses." If this is true I wonder at it, for I think it just the greenest thing that ever I see. Why Commander, don't your know them Hong merchants roles in gold? I spose its what they call deftness in you, or else you have got some of them old kind of notions about honour and didn't like to squander 'em.

SEE SUPPLEMENT.

* The Hurkar's noble patriots!—Ed.

the thing was left to you to settle. When you first came here, I remember a chap put a piece in the newspaper saying your ship was "frated" with public virtue and perhaps you are going to make it out so.

Any how, I can tell you there is chape here would clap 20,000 Dollars. rite top o' what you ask and think nothin of it neither.

Perhaps you want know why I tak any trouble about this and I don't know as its any use to be meely mouthed and keep being round the bush; the long, and short of it is I have got a clame too, and I don't like to see my chance all fristered away. Now I didnt actively lose anything, but I was passively afraid all the time, I shude, and I don't see why them trecherrous Chinese (for the trecherry is what I luke at) should be allowed to cause me inconvenience and make me omeasy without paying for it—do you?

When you rede this argument, which I put in Mr. Moller's paper to save bote hire, perhaps you will be paddlin round, and changing your mind,—now if you do so, joust put a votis in this paper about presenting clumes, and I'll be down on you in a minuit—you've heered I make no doubt, that them Chinese giv a chop promising to protect us all, and tho everybody knod they cuddnt, and that it want gude for nothin—still, you see its excellent to clame with as anythin.

I'll tell you my name if I find I am likely to get anything by it.

Your humble servant and friend,

Q.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

This week has been one to newspaper writers, of most distressing quiet. It is true that by the Syph and the H. C. Steamer Prosperine we have received Calcutta papers to the 9th May, but beyond the gratifying intelligence that General Pollock had reached Jullalabad, they contain not much of interest. We have made copious extracts from these papers. In Canton everything remains quiet by the last advices, and trade was being carried on as usual. Arrivals from the East Coast no longer mention the threatening aspect of the Chinese flotilla intended to destroy the fleet of Opium vessels at Namoa; these seem to present too formidable a front to the not over confident Chinese; and it is now supposed that the latter will not attempt anything, unless they can meet with one solitary and ill-armed vessel. The Prosperine it was hoped would not have left Calcutta before the arrival of the April mail—but that has not yet reached.

We publish a letter with which we have been favored by "Q." although we confess our inability of clearly understanding its gist, not having been able to learn what claims have been, through Commodore Kearny, settled at Canton. We have thought proper to leave out the postscript which accompanied Q's letter.

We have since been informed, on good authority, that the claims for losses by American citizens were presented to Commodore Kearny; but being of too vague a nature, were by him referred to a Committee, which latter has not come to a decision, although the Chinese are said to be willing to pay all just claims that may be presented to them through the Commodore. The two American ships, we hear, are about leaving for the northward.

Per Lord Amherst from Sydney 29th April, we have received papers to the 26th, from one of which we have made an extract.

We are sorry to learn that the Cholera continues to commit great ravages in Calcutta; one of its much regretted victims is Mrs. Charlotte Page, wife of Capt. J. Page, who, when her husband had command of the Sullana, was cast away on the coast of Borneo, where with great fortitude she suffered an imprisonment of about 8 months, during which she gave birth to a daughter. On a subsequent visit to Macao, this lady, whose health seemed not at all to have suffered by her severe privations in Borneo, acquired by her amiable qualities the friendship of all who had the good fortune of her acquaintance.

H. M. Plenipotentiary left Hongkong in the Queen Steamer on Monday last, and all the Transports and ships of war destined for the north are likewise on their way up, and many must by this time have reached Chusan, the wind during the last fortnight, with little change having blown fresh from the southward. It is generally believed that Nanking will be the first object of attack; the possession of which city will render easy the command over the great canal, which not many miles below it enters the Yangtze-kiang. The possession of this great viaduct which carries the productions from the whole empire to Peking, for the supply of its immense population, cannot fail, we should think, to make a great impression on the imperial government, which must soon find itself inconvenienced in a great degree by the non receipt of taxes from a great number of the provinces; these taxes being partly paid in grain for the maintenance of the population of the capital; the greatest part of which must be altogether dependent on the Court for subsistence. Travellers inform us that the number of vessels employed in carrying rice and other grain upon this canal to the northward is immense, and we may therefore hope that the interruption of such necessary traffic will cause such dissatisfaction in the immediate neighbourhood of the court, and even at court, that the government may become sincerely desirous to negotiate and to accede to the demands of England. By the time of our writing this, Nanking may possibly be already in possession of the British forces, and this great measure may already have begun to work. Though we hope much good from the command of the great canal, we must yet confess that the Chinese seem as yet determined to oppose the English to the last, and that our anticipations of speedy submission may after all not be realized; for until now the course of action of the Chinese throughout the whole of the war has been so very much the reverse of what was expected of them, that our hopes in this respect may also again be disappointed. It cannot be denied that the Chinese have displayed resources very superior to what we gave them credit for; and in a country so little known to Europeans as China, there may be means of comparatively easy communication between the southern and northern provinces, besides the canal in which case the great advantages calculated to arise from its being closed against all navigation would be but partially reaped. The first destination of the present expedition being apparently the Yang-tse-kiang, it is thought by many that it will not move upon the Capital at all this year, but be occupied in securing many of the important cities in the neighbourhood, and on the banks of the Yang-tse-kiang. Whatever may be the movements of the Commanders of the expedition, we hope not only that they will be crowned with military success, which can hardly fail them, but that they may be so contrived as to convince the Peking government clearly that it is in vain to contend against the British power, and that it may be brought to accept the terms which England offers for reconciliation, and that before the end of the year the war may be at an end.

H. M. S. Druid, Capt. Henry Smith &c. sailed for Singapore this morning and her gallant commander takes with him the best wishes for his prosperity from the foreign community, for the zeal with which he has watched over their safety and interests at a period when both were in considerable danger. Capt. Smith arrived in the Volsge in August 1839, a few days after all British subjects had been obliged to leave here, owing to the hostile threats and demonstrations of the Chinese against Macao, if the English were any longer suffered to remain within its walls, and at a time when there was no other British man of war on this station. The Volsge then proceeded to Hongkong. About the middle of October H. M. S. Hyacinth, Capt. Warren, arrived. On the 31st November, the two ships of war, being then at the Bogue, a Chinese fleet of warjunks moved down upon them, and disregarding repeated warnings not to come too near, they evidently intended an attack, when Capt. Smith ordered to open fire upon them, which was done so effectually that in less than an hour's time the whole fleet was disabled, and would have been totally destroyed, but for the intercession of Captain Elliot in favor of the Chinese. Soon after this the British shipping, at Capt. Smith's recommendation, removed for greater safety from Hongkong to Tong-koo. On the 4th of February, Capt. Smith ordered the Hyacinth to enter the inner harbour of Macao for the protection of British subjects who had been again threatened by the Chinese in violent edicts, and had sent some troops to Macao. This measure had the best effect, for although, owing to the remonstrances of the Portuguese government, the Hyacinth remained only one day in the inner harbour, the Chinese soldiers were prevailed on to leave Macao, and for a while foreigners remained unmolested. In the end of February 1840, Capt. Smith did good service, by ordering his boats to tow a number of fire-vessels that the Chinese had sent against the fleet, out of the way, and they accordingly did little or no damage. On the 25th of March arrived H. M. S. Druid, Lord John Churchill, who then was senior officer on the station had the command again devolved on Capt. Smith, on the lamented death of that nobleman on the 3rd of June. When on the 23rd and 24th the first expedition sailed to the northward, Capt. Smith was left senior officer of this station, having under his command the Druid, Hyacinth, Larne, and Louisa Cutter. On the 30th June the river of Canton was declared blockaded by Sir Gordon Bremer. On the 19th August, in consequence of the Chinese threatening an attack on the British in Macao, Capt. Smith directed the Hyacinth, Larne, and Steamer Enterprise with a detachment of Bengal Volunteers on board, to move into Fisherman's bay, abreast of the Barrier fort near Macao where there was a Chinese encampment, the boats of the Druid being sent there also filled with marines and seamen. The ships soon silenced the battery, the volunteers and marines and seamen were landed; the encampment and batteries destroyed, and a good many Chinese killed; and the men embarked again the same evening. This decisive behaviour of Capt. Smith had the best effect, for from that moment the molestations of the Chinese towards foreigners at Macao ceased, and have not been resumed. On the 30th November Admiral Elliot returned from the north, and of course assumed command of the station, which by his departure devolved on Commodore Sir Gordon Bremer. On the 30th November the British merchants at Macao addressed Capt. Smith and Capt. Warren, expressing their thanks to these officers for the defence of their persons and property, and presenting to them services of plate of the value of 600£ to the former, and of 400£ to the latter. On the 8th of January the Druid did good service in battering the fort of Ty-cock-tow, and again on the 23rd Feby. assisted in taking the Bogue forts and destroying the fortifications on the Canton river. On the 21st August the Druid proceeded with the second expedition to the northward, was active at the taking of Amoy, and remained stationed there. Capt. Smith being senior commanding officer, until lately, when the Admiral ordered the ship to India, whither she would have proceeded some time since, but was detained by the senior officer commanding at this station, Sir Thomas Herbert, K. C. B. At Amoy, during Captain Smith's command, matters have gone on very well, his experience having given him great insight into the Chinese character, so as to have become very popular among them—This the Chinese gave a proof of when the Druid left Hongkong, when a number of boats surrounded the vessel, firing an immense quantity of crackers, a demonstration of respect and good will peculiar to the Chinese, and we believe at the same time intended to draw down protection from the gods upon the person in whose honor they are let off.

We find the following in the Temps of 2nd February, a Paris paper, which we do not remember to have met with in any of the English papers brought by the March overland mail, and yet is important enough.

"The most recent accounts from the United States are of great importance, but so much for their immediate interest as for the light they throw on the situation present and future of the great American federation.

"A petition praying the dissolution of the Union has been presented in Congress by Ex President John Quincy Adams. This caused violent bursts of reprobation, but not unanimous. His expulsion as a traitor was at first demanded, but in consideration of his former dignity and great age the house of representatives was content with a solemn censure.

"If on the one hand the censure has not been unanimous; on the other it has hardly been sincere. The idea of a dissolution of the federal union will soon take root in most minds. It is the slave question which fosters or creates it. The southern states complain of the abolitionist pretensions of the north, and the northern states are no less bitter in their recriminations against the slaveholders. It is impossible that such a state of things can long continue to exist without a revolution."

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
AT CHUAN, CHINHA, &c.
H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer
 „ Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Ad- miral sir W. Parker, K. C. B.,
commander in chief; capt. T.
Bourchier, C. B.
 „ Thalia, 44, capt Hope
 „ Eudymion, 44, „ the honble F. W. Grey.
 „ Calliope, 28, „ A. L. Kuper,
 „ North Star, 28, „ Sir J. E. Hoind, Bart.
 „ Herald, 28, „ J. Nias, C. B.
 „ Dido, 30, „ the hon'ble H. Keppell.
 „ Pelican, 18, „ Napier.
 „ Modeste, 18, comr. Watson.
 „ Harlequin, 18, „ the honble F. Hastings.
 „ Columbine, 16, „ Morshead.
 „ Serpent, 16, „ Nevill.
 „ Childers, 16, „ Halsted.
 „ Chio, 16, „ E. Troubridge.
 „ Algerine, 10, Lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.
 „ Royalist, 10, „ Chetwood.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

„ Starling, 6, comr. Kellett.
 „ Lady Rentineke, „ Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

„ Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.
 „ Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
 „ Sapphire, „ Cole.
 „ Jupiter, mr. comr. R. Fulton.
 „ Rattlesnake,
 „ Alligator.

STAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,
 „ Sesostris, comr. Ormaby,
 „ Auckland, „ Etherney, I. N.
 „ Tennasserim, Wall, I. N.
 „ Neuesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
 „ Pluto, Tudor, R. N.
 „ Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
 „ Medusa, „ Hewett, I. N.
 „ Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.

AT AMOY.

„ Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, C. B. senior com- manding officer.
 „ Pyrites, 18, comr. Findal, (absent.)
 „ Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

„ Blenheim, 74, capt. Sir T. Herbert K. O. B.
senior comr. officer.
 „ Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasae.
 „ Cruizer, 16, „ Pearce.
 „ Young Hebe, 4, Wood.
H. C. St. Houghly, mr. comr. Rose,
 „ Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

June. ARRIVED
 13. (B.) Sylph, Gog, Calcutta and Singapore.
 15. „ Harmony, Smith, Bombay.
 15. (A.) Helena, Benjamin, Callao.
 16. (B.) Anna Eliza, Bucher, Sing. Cape & England.
 16. „ Lord Amherst, Hopkins, Sydney.
 16. H. C. St. Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N., Cal.

PASSENGERS Per
 (Omitted last week) British Sovereign, Mr. G. S.
 Gough; Francisco, Mr. Scheel; Sylph, Mr. John Middleton.

June. SAILED
 14. (B.) Margaret, Tomkins, Manila.
 14. „ Lawrence, Foster, Sydney.
 15. „ Eleanora, Jackson, London [Bombay].
 17. H. M. S. Druid, Capt. H. Smith, C. B. Sing. and

UNDER DESPATCH

For Liverpool, — John Horton.
 For Bombay, — Harlequin.
 For Sing. & Cal. — Sea Queen.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England, — Ann Byrdon, Dureco, Calmare, Devon, Gemini, Peruvian, Elina-beth, Pink, Anna Maria.
 From Bombay, — Drangan, Charlotte, England, But- phalus, Jametjee Jerjeebhoy,
Island Queen, Anonyma, Earl
Balcarras, Cornwallis, Agueder,

Helan, Charles Forbes, Salem,
Fantasia, Sir Herbert Compton, Asia, Edinburgh, Diana, Ellen,
Corea.

From Calcutta, — Dido, Water Witch, Clown, Red Rover, Sylph.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th March. SINGAPORE, 30th May.
 UNITED STATES, JAN. 22. MANILA.
 CALCUTTA, 12th May. AMOY, 28th May.
 BOMBAY, 1st May. CHUAN, 26th May.
 JAVA, 20th May.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arun,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Amelia,	—	Potter,	W. H. Harton,
*Abbot's Reading	350	Crawford,	Wetmore & Co.
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Bengalee,	—	Bondle,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Bombay,	1280	Furley,	Jardine M. & Co.
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	—
*Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner & Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom & Co.
Columbine,	—	Majur,	H. Pybus.
Corsair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
*Carnatic,	—	Cunningham,	Dent and Co.
China,	524	Robertson,	Russell & Co.
*Cbat,	—	Oliver,	Wetmore & Co.
Cleopatra,	377	Earley,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Devonport,	—	Broadfoot,	Turner and Co.
Eleanora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Fortescue,	259	Hall,	Jardine M. & Co.
Forteen,	204	Buddieley,	—
*Francis Spaight	—	Winn,	Turner and Co.
Georgiana,	—	—	—
Gratitude,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar & Co.
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	G. Nye Jr.
Herald,	—	Coulson,	Macvicar & Co.
Harmony,	530	Smith,	—
Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Gribble Hughes & Co.
Intrinsic,	—	Davidson,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
John Horton,	—	Cunningham,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*John Christian,	400	Whitcomb,	Dirom & Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgan [he	Dent and Co.
Lovjee Family	—	Avra,	—
Lord Amherst,	—	Hupkins,	—
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Mary Imrie,	314	Boyd,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Niagara,	390	Champion	—
Nerva,	—	Meirille,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Queen Victoria	715	Black,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
*Regular,	389	Budd,	Turner and Co.
Royal Saxon,	—	Crawford,	H. Rustonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	Hosheadon Brothers.
Sylph,	—	Guy,	H. Rustonjee.
Sea Queen,	—	Harvey,	Ferguson L. & Co.
Ternate,	—	Mann,	—
Token,	579	Chalmers,	Russell and Co.
*Vestal,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	—
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gittler,	J. A. Durran Jr.
Wm. Hughes,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
*Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonna,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
*Zoe,	—	Miller,	Macvicar & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, | Commodore Kearney.
 U. S. S. Boston, | Commander Long.
 Forum, — | Marlock, Russell and Co.
 Helena, — | Benjamin, —
 Levant, — | Faulk, J. D. Sward & Co.
 *Ann MacKim, — | Vaamer, W. A. Lawrence.
 *Cincinnati, — | Wilson, Wetmore & Co.
 Grafton, — | Gardener, I. M. Bull.
 Oneida, — | Sult, G. Nye Jr.
 *Huntress, — | Lovett, Olyphant & Co.
 Robert Fulton, — | McMichael, Meredith.

PRUSSIAN

Borussia, | 379 | Kuhl, | Holliday Wise & Co.

HAMBURG.

Francisco, | Beradt, | Wetmore & Co.

• at Whampoa.

To be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION at the Naval Store at Hongkong on Monday 27th Instant, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, a quantity of unserviceable Victualling Stores consisting of old Casks, Staves, Iron Hoops, Bread Bags &c., per order of the Senior Naval Officer, and may be viewed during working hours until the day of Sale on application to the Store Keeper.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquoy also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wine, &c. &c. at the shortest notice.
London Hotel Queen's Road,
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

Wm. ALLANSON,
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subdégues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ou pareront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.
Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNNAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 33d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.
Singapore, 20th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. in this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.
Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CAMPBELL at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

GEORGE MARTIN.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
(Sd.) C. CARNIE.
ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—In hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witnesses our hands this 1st day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
W. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
H. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STRAITS INSURANCE OFFICE at BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
W. W. DALE.
Macao, 22nd June, 1842.

M. R. ADOLPHUS SCHEAL'S DRYADALE was admitted a partner in our firm on the 1st July, 1841.

LINDSAY & Co.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug. 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

In the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 45 Queens Road, Howan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 20th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDISE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FIVE BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Barque "KATHERINE STEWART FORBES," Capt. HOOD, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship "INTRINSIC," 537 Tons, N. M. DAVIDSON Commander, now at anchor in the Macao Roads, and can commence loading in three days. Apply to

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM FERRIS, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR LIVERPOOL.

THE JOHN HORTON, Capt. CUNNINGHAM, will sail in a few days. For passage only (having good accommodations. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Bark "Assent's Reading" A I 330 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to WEIMORE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MANGARDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO.
or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I Premium Ship BONOMIA, Captain KUNA, 379 tons; apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 11th June, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 200 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

A GENTLEMAN whose business does not fully occupy the day, is anxious to employ his leisure hours in Book-keeping, Mercantile accounts, or correspondence in which he deems himself by long experience proficient; address S. J. C. care of Messrs D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 21st June, 1842.

LONT on the Frays Grande, or on the road back of the Port St. Francisco leading to the hill. A bunch of small Keys, attached to a steel ring. A reward of $10 will be given on delivery of the Keys to the undersigned, or to Messrs GUN Livingston & Co. Macao, 2nd June, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—By the undersigned ex "Devonport." Foster's port and SHERRY, Fine JAMAICA RUM in bottle. Pale and Dark BRANDY.

CHERRY BRANDY and French LIQUEURS. (See &c. Canister preserved FISH, MEAT, FOWL, SOUPS, &c. Bottled MUSTARD, PICKLES, SAUCES, &c. &c. &c.

S. J. COOK.

at D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22d June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—1,600 pieces CHILIAN PIG COPPER on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt. Benjamin, now lying in the Roads; apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. KITCHIE.

Macao, 17th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Godowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French FINE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Fayence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Malaga Port in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most famous articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—On board the Hamburg Ship FRANCESCA, in Macao Roads.

CLABET, St. Julien and St. Etienne,

HUCE,

COGNAC BRANDY,

CHAMPAGNE,

CHERRY COGNAC,

GLASGOW, &c.

Apply to Captain BERNDT on board.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "LEVANT" in the Roads, American, Navy, and Pilot BREAD, of good quality at low price. Apply on board to

CAPT. FAULK.

Macao, 14th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARK PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLABET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SULTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHRATTING COPPER, NAILS, and a few Spars for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE (See) in 3 dozen cases. SHERRY, (Pale) in Hogsheads. BRANDY and GIN &c. PALE ALE BARK's, &c. BEER in tierces, PORK in barrels. COALS, 120 tons.

Oil and Sarsaparilla late Imports.

Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 23d April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 45 QUEEN'S ROAD, AMERICAN PINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 11th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

Base on LONDON.

E. I. CO.'S DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hbds. PORT and SHERRY in bottles, "Sappho" and "Albion" fine PALE ALE in Hbds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular."

Apply to J. A. TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEER and PORT; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADEIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEIN CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to J. A. De SILVA.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—4 CUBARS LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4a superior. COGNAC BRANDY.

SELTZERWATER and HOCK.

HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.

RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to J. A. BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1842.

FOR SALE.—FOUR good SPARS of 71, 85, 64, and 60 feet long; 1/2 lb Russian CORDAGE, FELT LEAD in SPANNING CHAINS and ANCHORS of large sizes. Apply to V. JORGE.

Macao, 10th September, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood. Apply at Gam-bon's to B. LEMOS.

Macko, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of MISS KEAOU LWAN WANG.

A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.

ELPH'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONOR MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SHAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz:

JOE PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.

Politics and Folds pages, " " $ 5.

Letter paper size, " " $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships, " " " " $ 5.

Not exceeding 7 lines, " " " " $ 1.

for 3 months, " " " " $ 6.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.

For one year payable in advance, " " " " $ 12.

For six months, " " " " $ 7.

For three, " " " " $ 4.

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

Latest Europe News.

(From the London Mail, April, 6.)

COURT AND FASHION.

Her Majesty, Prince Albert and suite, returned to Buckingham Palace from Brighton on the 8th, and left town on 22d March for Windsor, where the court will continue during the Easter holidays.

The Princess Royal has been restored to her wonted health by the sea air at Brighton.

Congratulatory addresses on the birth of a Prince from the city of London, and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, were presented to the Queen on the 13th March. Her Majesty received the addresses upon the throne.

We learn, upon undoubted authority, that his Royal Highness Prince Albert will be the new Lord Roderick of the Stannaries. The Marquis of Hertford, who was last in possession of that office, and by whose demise the vacancy is created, had the dignity and emoluments conferred upon him by his Majesty King George the Fourth.

The Prime Minister has now four garters at his disposal, caused by the deaths of the Earl of Westmoreland, the Duke of Cleveland, the Marquis of Hertford, and the Duke of Norfolk. So many vacancies at the same time are scarcely upon record.

The Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry has had another severe attack of illness. His lordship was in great danger for some time, and still remains extremely unwell.

The Earl and Countess of Egin intend to embark on board one of the West India mail packet steamers, at Southampton for the seat of his lordship's government at Jamaica. Broom Hall, the family seat in Fifehire, will be closed during his lordship's absence abroad.

The Western Times says the Lord Rolle, who is in his 93rd year, lies at the point of death.

There is a very current rumour of alliance between the Marquis of Waterford and the daughter of Lord Stuart de Rothesay. Under the mild and gentle influence of a lovely and accomplished woman, his Lordship is said to have become an altered man; so much so, that he has even abandoned the darling project of his heart—namely, the slaying of Mr Muniz, the honourable member for Birmingham, who may therefore lay aside his pistols, and go in peace.

THE LATE MARQUIS OF HERTFORD'S WILL.—Many exaggerated statements have been made as to the late Lord Hertford's will. The following particulars will be found more nearly correct than anything that has yet appeared.—To his widow is left 3,000 l. per annum and 20,000 l. The present Lord is left all the landed estates, and residuary legate, which is equivalent to 100,000 l. The late Sir R. Strachan's three daughters are the most prominent objects of his lordship's bounty, viz: to Charlotte, Countess Zichy, he has left 86,000 l. to Matilda, Countess Berthold, 80,000 l.; and to Louisa, Princess Antimo Kuffo, 40,000 l.; and to each successively, a life-interest in the villa in Regent's park. To Lady Strachan, a life annuity of 700 l. and 10,000 l. To a Mrs. Spencer, the person called in other statements, "Lady Strachan's maid," a life annuity of 1,000 l. and 5,000 l. To his lordship's numerous servants several sums estimated at from 16,000 to 20,000 l. To his executors 5,000 l. each; to Sir H. Seymour, 8,000 l. to Lord G. Seymour, 5,000 l. to Captain Meynell 4,000 l. to Mr Crocker, 21,000 l. and his wine, which is not reckoned at more than 500 l.; to Mr De Hursey 3,500 l.; to Mr. Rather, 2,000 l.

PRECIS OF MISCELLANEOUS EVENTS.

March 11.—A hurricane of unexampled violence visited the metropolis on the night of the 9th and morning of the 10th. Dr Twiss, Fellow of University College, has been elected Professor of Political economy at Oxford.

March 12.—The cause of the failure of the Messrs Wigney, bankers of Brighton, is attributed to the connexion of Mr L. N. Wigney with a shaw and a merino manufactory at Glasgow, carried on under the name of Cochran and Co., and conducted by a Mr Young, who married one of Mr Wigney's sisters. In this concern, in which a capital of some 80,000 l. is said to have been invested, great losses have been sustained during the last five years; and, in point of fact, the funds of the bank have constantly and continually been drained away during that period to sustain this ruinous speculation. The trial of Robert Goldsborough for the wilful murder in July 1830, of one William Huntly, at Crowthorne, in Yorkshire, which excited considerable interests, has ended in the acquittal of the accused.

March 16.—Sir W. Molesworth of Pencarrow, Bart., has been appointed High Sheriff of Cornwall. The complete destitution of the family of Theodore Hook may be judged of from the fact that his personal property has been sworn under the value of 100 l. The will and codicils are very short, the whole being on a single sheet of letter-paper, and dated far as back as 1828.

March 17.—THE EARTHQUAKE.—The scene witnessed in the neighbourhoods of St. Giles and Seven Dials during the whole yesterday was most singular. Many of the Irish residents in those localities have left for the shores of the Emerald Isle, but by far the larger number have been compelled to remain where they are, and to anticipate the fearful event which was to engulf them in the bowels of the earth. The frantic cries, the incessant appeals for deliverance, the invocations to the Virgins and Saints for mediation, the heart-rending supplications for assistance, heard on every side during the day, sufficiently evidenced the power with which this popular delusion had seized the minds of those superstitious people. Towards the close of the day a large number of them determined not to remain in London during the night, and with what few things they possessed took their departure for what they considered more favoured spots. Some violent contests arose between the believers and the sceptics—contests, which in not a few cases were productive of serious results. The poor Irish however are not the only persons who have been credulous in this matter; many persons from whom better things might have been expected were amongst the number who left London to avoid the threatened catastrophe. To the Gravesend steam-boat companies the "earthquake" proved a source of immense gain; and the same may be said with regard to the various railways. To those who had not the means of taking trips to Gravesend or by railway, other places which were supposed to be exempted from the influence of the "rude commotion" about to take place were resorted to. From an early hour in the morning, the (humble) classes from the east end of the metropolis sought refuge in the fields beyond the precincts of Stepney. On the north, Hampstead and Highgate were favoured with a visit from large bodies of the respectable inhabitants of St Giles's, and Primrose hill also was selected as a fit spot for viewing the demolition of the levitation city. The darkness of the day and the thickness of the atmosphere, however, prevented it being seen.

March 30th.—The equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington which is to stand over the triumphal arch, opposite Apsley House, is being cast—Thomas Foster Esq of Adversstone house, near Alnwick, a gentleman of considerable landed property, committed suicide last week by hanging himself on a tree in a plantation on his estate at Ratchwood.

March 31.—On Saturday night last, at about a quarter to 12 o'clock, a dreadful fire happened in the town of Manchester, which, in the course of an hour and a half, terminated in the total destruction of the amphitheatre belonging to the celebrated equestrian, Mr Batty, situated in Great Bridgewater-street, and considerable damage to several premises that adjoined the building.—The Logan Rock, after being kept for several years by means of chains and props from falling off the rock on which it stands, is once, more brought back to its former position. It appears that it had been gradually wearing away the part on which it stood until it had become a foot distant from its own basis. By the ingenious adaptation of four screws, however, invented by James Tregartha and J. Hutchens, of the village of Treener, they succeeded in forcing back the rock to its original place, and it may now be moved with greater facility than before, and equal safety.

CHINA OPIUM.

March 17.—Mr. Lindsay brought under attention the claims of the merchants who, on the faith of Captain Elliot's assurance, had surrendered the opium prohibited by the Government of China. He thought that the honour of the country was pledged for compensation to them to the extent of the sum received from the ransom of Canton after deduction of the captors' allowance.

Sir G. Stanston seconded the motion, and pointed out the serious loss sustained by these merchants, most of them Indian merchants, and some of whom had committed suicide, driven to desperation. He contended that the Government was bound in honour and good faith to make compensation.

Sir G. Larpent took a similar view, and hoped that no circumstances of financial difficulty, would prevent Government from doing justice to the sufferers.

Sir C. Napier spoke in excuse of Capt. Elliot's conduct, and argued, that as he was in confinement, his undertaking was invalid, and ought not to have been acted upon by the Opium dealers.

Mr. Goulburn denied that the public faith was pledged, Capt. Elliot had been persuaded by the urgency of the merchants, his fellow captives, to give the assurance now relied on. But the late Minister, by refusing payment of the bills drawn on that assurance, had evinced that they did not consider it absolutely binding on the Government of this country. Lord Palmerston had, indeed, stated to the house, in enumerating the objects of the war, that one of them was eventual compensation to the merchants; but there was no lien on any particular sum which might be obtained during the progress of hostilities. The claim to that compensation would not arise till the termination of the war, and the successful issue of that war would be mainly dependent on its vigorous prosecution; in which view it was necessary to apply this fund to the purposes of the contest itself. The compensation could come only out of the fund which might be ultimately recovered, not as the ransom of a particular town, but generally from the Chinese Government, as the final settlement between that empire and this. And when the season for the claim should arrive, he believed that it would be found that the demands of the merchants had been inflated very far indeed beyond the amounts which in equity they were entitled to expect.

Lord Palmerston, though he considered the claimants as having no specific lien upon this particular money, and indeed no claim for any precise and liquidated sum, yet thought that, in point of expediency, the Government would do well to concede the present request.

Mr. M. Phillips and Mr. Jardine pleaded for the claimants, as did also Mr. J. A. Smith, who protested against the principle understood by him to be contemplated by Mr. Goulburn; that out of any fund which might be recovered from the Chinese Government, the costs of the expedition were to be defrayed in priority to the losses of the merchants.

Mr. C. W. Wynn admitted that, in strictness of law, the demand was not enforceable at this moment, but contended that there was some equity for an early advance.

Sir R. Peel said, that the argument now advanced in favour of these claims would go the full length of making it incumbent on the British Government to pay the whole, and take their chance of repaying themselves by the proceeds of the war. The late Ministry, the employers of Captain Elliot, had, by refusing payment of his bills, proved their own opinion that the British Government was not under an obligation to pay them. And, indeed, Capt. Elliot when he issued the assurance, was avowedly and notoriously under duress. If justice required, that this indemnity should be given at once and without inquiry, let the money now recovered be voted by the British Parliament for that purpose. But if the ultimate settlement with China was the fund from which the claims must be defrayed, and if inquiry must properly precede distribution, then the sum thus obtained in the progress of the war was most fully applied to the immediate prosecution of it.

Lord J. Russell considered that there was here some ground of equity, because the sum in question was one of the fruits of the war. But he suggested to Mr. Lindsay, that perhaps he would do more for his object by leaving the matter in the hands of the Government than by pressing this motion to a division.

Mr. Lindsay would win by any way. If fair hopes were held out by the Treasury to those in whose behalf he was pleading.

Sir R. Peel declined to give any assurance that might possibly mislead; and Mr. Lindsay, therefore, persevered to a division; upon which his motion was defeated by a majority, of 87 against 37.

OBITUARY.

SUICIDE OF THE EARL OF MUNSTER.—We regret extremely to announce the melancholy death of Lord Munster, who terminated his existence on the 20th March., by shooting himself through the head. For some short time previous his Lordship had betrayed a slight depression of spirits, which became painfully aggravated on the receipt of recent news from India, since which time he had exhibited great agitation and depression, and was especially excited respecting the fate of the ladies reported to be captured at Cabool. On the 17th, however, he attended in the House of Peers, but on the morning of the 20th he became so much worse that he was seen by Dr. Chambers and Mr. Hamilton, who at once declared he was going mad, but did not feel it necessary to place him in restraint, as he had not committed "any obvious overt act of insanity." At about 11 o'clock his lordship retired to his dressing-room, and what subsequently transpired may be collected from the evidence of R. D. Smith, footman to the deceased, who said: "Last night, about half past eleven o'clock, I was undressing, when I heard very indistinctly the report of a pistol. The library-bell rang immediately afterwards, and his lordship came out, and called out 'Robert, Robert!' and I said, 'I am coming.' Then his lordship called out twice, 'Miller, Miller! I have shot my hand.' His lordship came into the pantry, immediately afterwards desiring me to go and fetch Mr. Hamilton, the surgeon, adding, 'I have met with an accident, and shot my hand.' He then said, 'Robert show me a light,' and I followed his lordship up stairs to the library with a candle in my hand, and found him at the library table near where a pistol was placed. He was in his dressing-gown, and he then told me again to go immediately for Mr. Hamilton. His right hand was completely covered with blood. I immediately ran down stairs to tell Mr. Miller, his lordship's valet, that he had shot himself and just as I got to the bottom, I heard another report, I, Miller, and the under butler, ran up into the library, and there we found his lordship lying as he is now, on his right side, with his face shattered to pieces. I saw a pistol lying on the floor near his right hand. His lordship died immediately afterwards. I have not the least doubt at all but that death was caused by an act of his own hand. When after the first report I took the candle into the library, his lordship said, 'I have done a pretty thing for myself by playing with pistols.' Mr. Hamilton: In consequence of having been sent for, about half-past eleven on Sunday night, I attended immediately, and found his lordship dead. I inspected the body, and found the roof of the mouth severely shattered, and the bone of all the back and upper part of head extensively fractured, which appeared to me to be the effect of a gun shot wound. There is a wound in the right hand in the external part of which a ball has lodged and is there now. I think the last shot was fired with his left hand, as his lordship's right hand was very much crippled. The last ball fired appeared to have passed behind his lordship's eyes, and I think the missile of the pistol must have been introduced, pointing upwards, into deceased's mouth.

The late earl was a privy councillor, governor, captain, constable, and lieutenant of Windsor Castle, colonel in the 1st Tower Hamlets Militia, and a commissioner of the Royal Military College and Royal Military Asylum, and Knight Grand Cross of the order of Frederick of Wurtemberg, President of the Asiatic Society, and Fellow of the Royal Society.

Lieut. Gen. Sharpnel expired a few days since at Southampton. This gallant officer, shortly after the siege of Gibraltar, invented the case shot, a destructive engine of war used by the Royal Artillery.

Among other deaths we find those announced of Mr. Howard, of Corby Castle; Archdeacon Singleton; Mr. G. Clark, the eminent sculptor; and the Rev. Cesar Otway, well known for his published works in Ireland.

EAST-INDIA INTELLIGENCE.

Our latest advices from India are, China 13th Dec. Madras 23rd Jany. Calcutta 23rd Jany. Bombay 1st Feby.

The Telegraphic despatch announcing the assassination of Sir W. H. Macnaghten reached London, by extraordinary express from Paris, at 2 A. M., on 8th March. The letters and papers from India via Marseilles were delivered in London on the 8th and those via Falmouth on 15th March.

At a Court of Directors held on the 30th of March, Sir George Arthur, Bart. K. C. H., was appointed Governor of the Presidency of Bombay.

We believe that nothing has yet been positively determined upon respecting the future Governor of Madras. There is some reason to think that neither Sir R. Jenkins nor the Right Hon. Henry Ellis will be the successful candidate.

Sir Richard Jenkins and William Sprot Boyd Esq. the political Commissioner at Baroda, were mentioned to succeed the lamented Sir W. Macnaghten, Bart.

W. J. Eastwick, Esq., of the Bombay service, has announced himself a candidate for the East India Direction.

A Court is to be held at the India House on 13th April for the election of Directors of Messrs William Astell, William Butterworth Bayley, Russell, Ellice, Archibald Galloway, Sir Richard Jenkins, and John Masterman, in the room of Messrs Sir W. Young, Sir J. Bryant, W. S. Clarke, H. Alexander, J. Shepherd, and F. Warden.

COMMERCIAL.

We regret extremely to announce the failure of the long-established and highly respectable firm of Forman and Haddow. Their liabilities are estimated at 100,000.

The eminent firms of Aaramana, Morgan, & Co., and of D. E. and A. Aaramana of Bristol, have determined on calling their creditors together. An excessive outlay of capital, beyond the means of the parties, more particularly in machinery and ship-building, is said to have been the immediate cause of the stoppage. At their own request an examination into the state of their affairs has been going on for some days past, which is said to report very favourably of the final issue.

CHINA OPIUM.—Much interest is felt among a large class of merchants and traders in the city in the motion in the House of Commons by Mr. Lindsay, on the subject of compensation to the holders of opium delivered up in 1839 to be destroyed by the Chinese, on the assurance of Captain Elliot, in the name of the British Government, that they would be indemnified against all loss thereby sustained. Coupling this case with the matter of the repudiated Exchange-bills, to which it bears some sort of analogy, people really begin here to apprehend that it is intended to establish some principle (or non-principle!) of responsibility, where the Government is concerned, wholly different from that which attaches to individuals, who are usually bound by, and suffer for, the acts of their servants, and to leave the sufferers to the ruin that awaits them, without that remedy in an appeal to law or equity which between man and man is always available. Nothing can be more immoral, to leave legal justice for a moment out of consideration, than the adoption of such a rule, for in proportion to the mere power of resisting just claims which the Government possesses in such cases as these, should be the disposition to do what is right, and to make compensation spontaneously. The consequences of a successful resistance in the two descriptions of claims referred to must have the effect hereafter of rendering all employment of Government responsibility a mockery, and may have important political consequences far beyond the saving produced by such successful resistance; and this should have weight, though none is allowed to honour and justice. A British agent must become in all cases of the kind a mere cipher, or rather a man to be shunned as leading on innocent and confiding persons to their ruin.—Times.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

Reports say that Her Majesty has it in contemplation to raise to the Peerage, among other distinguished Admirals, Sir R. Stopford, Sir G. Cockburn, and Sir E. Coldington.

The Pindilope, 30—Captain J. T. Nicholas, with the flag of Sir T. Cochrane, sailed from Portsmouth on 15th March. She is a splendid frigate, and has an excellent ship's company, who were only eight or nine days from the time she left the dock in rigging her out from stem to stern. She has a powerful armament of 50 long guns, carrying 32lbs. shot, and 10 long 68's, mounting altogether 23 guns. Her bows are peculiarly built, so that she can fire a battery of six guns right ahead.

The Walverine, 16, Com. Johnson, which sailed for China, was obliged to put into Plymouth, from whence she took her final departure on 8th March.

The Driver, steamer, Com. Harmer, left Plymouth on 18th March for China, touching at Madeira and the Cape.

The following vessels are expected to sail immediately for India and China: The Agincourt, 72, Com. H. W. Bruce; the Ringdove, 16, Com. Sir W. Deniel; the Grosvenor, steam-frigate, Com. Buckle; and Geyser steam-frigate, Com. Carpenter. The Collingwood, 80, Satellite, 16, Albatross, 16, and Philomel, 10, are ordered for commission.

Two large American frigates are hastening their equipment, it is understood for the East Indies.

ROYAL MARINE ARTILLERY.—A detachment has left Portsmouth, to be embarked in the Cyclops for service in China, and another in the Grosvenor steam-frigate for the same destination. Reo, Lieut. Adams, under has proceeded there with another detachment on board the Driver.—Wesley and Lieut. Parke joined head qrs. from leave—Sec. Lieut. Schomberg, Barnard, and De Courcy are studying for examination and appointment to this corps.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

Sir G. Arthur, the newly appointed Governor of Bombay, will proceed to India by the Overland Mail of next month.

It is said that Lieut. Gen. Sir Benjamin D'Urban will go to India as Commander in Chief.

There is a report that the Marquis of Tweeddale will either succeed to the Government of Madras or the retirement of Lord Elphinstone, or take command of the troops intended for Afghanistan. The latter can scarcely be correct, as his lordship is a junior officer to both Sir T. McMahon, and Sir C. J. Napier.

Considering that the present aspect of public affairs would justify such a step, Her Majesty's government have again strongly urged an extensive augmentation of the India army, which has been broken by a letter from the Duke of Wellington, stating his own opinions on the subject. This matter was fully discussed at a recent meeting of the Court of Directors, when it was determined to forward a dispatch to the Governor General ordering the addition of a company or troop to every regiment in the service, which will give a Lieutenant to each corps. The patronage for this augmentation will be taken up in June, that recently taken up being merely in anticipation of losses sustained in Afghanistan.

The following vessels have been taken up for the conveyance of troops to India:—The Nile, Thames, Lowry, Tydon, Glenclyde, Helena, Thomson, York, Brooke, Brutish, Orbit, Ida, Elizabeth, Charles Kerr, Glencolly, Royal Consort, and Lady Froeham.

The Precursor steamer is daily expected in London. We are happy to find that there is no foundation for the report, that this splendid vessel was driven on shore during the late hurricane in Scotland.

We have great pleasure in announcing that the Lords of the Admiralty have promoted Mr. Waghorn to the rank of Lieutenant in Her Majesty's Navy. The Chronicle remarks: "The persevering exertions of Mr. Waghorn to open the communication between England and India, via Egypt, are certainly entitled to some more substantial reward than the praise, which all parties must award to him, of untiring zeal and great enterprise in carrying out his important undertaking. We are glad to see his claims recognised by those who may be regarded as his first debtors—the British Government—whose example should, in common justice, be followed by the East India Company and the mercantile community."

CANTON RANSOM MONEY.

From the Monthly Times, 4th April.

THE CHINESE PUZZLE.

The "Papers relating to the moneys received from the Chinese authorities in the city of Canton, under an agreement entered into with her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, on the 17th May 1841," just presented by the Queen's command to Parliament, will be found elsewhere; and very curious papers they are, provoking alternately, laughter and indignation, and, so far as Captain Elliott is concerned, unmitigated contempt.

The Treasury seems to have been somewhat astonished at the receipt by her Majesty's Plenipotentiary of the moneys and securities to the amount of six millions of dollars, and altogether at all in what character to look on the unexpected millions about to be poured into its empty chest. "My lords," of the Treasury were therefore, on November 2, compelled to write to the Foreign-office, most anxiously, to say, "that it would be satisfactory if some information could be furnished by Lord Aberdeen as to the grounds on which the money in question was demanded and paid." The inquiry puzzled Lord Aberdeen quite as much as their lordships, Capt. Elliott's despatches to the Foreign office were quite silent as to wherefore he had demanded and received the cash.

"There is," writes Lord Canning, "only one expression in these despatches which has any bearing whatever on the point." In that this dullest of plenipotentiaries coolly felicitated the Foreign-office on the indemnity being "rather more than double the charges and duties the Chinese had received from the trade of the season;" in other words, the Canton Hung had taken advantage of hostilities to squeeze three millions of dollars out of British merchants, and when the city was at his disposal, Capt. Elliot returned the compliment by charging the authorities there six millions of dollars for its safety. It is characteristic of the man that the theme of his despatches appears to have always been—tea; his sympathy for the slender provoking beverage is a perfect mania. He extracts six millions of dollars, and, instead of telling the Foreign office why or wherefore he had sacked the silver, he harps upon "the quantity of tea which had been just shipped from Canton." He treats with the Chinese about everything but peace; he writes home about everything but that which is most needful. So pitiable and disgraceful an exhibition was never before made by any human leg. Whatever may have been Lord Palmerston's instructions, they must have been bettered in their execution; the Plenipotentiary seems to have "foiled it to the top of his bent." It is a perfect mercy to the nation that he is now safe in England; here let us keep the lame nation; he is far too rare a specimen of humanity to part with again.

Very fortunately for the Foreign-office the late gallant and lamented Sir Humphrey Senhouse, to whose debilitated frame the disgraceful sale of Canton brought premature death, had been quite as much puzzled about the dollars on the "heights above Canton," the day after the signature of the agreement under which they were told down, as the Treasury and the Foreign-office were six months afterwards, and had actually asked the Plenipotentiary—who sold Canton without saying a single word to the commanders of the forces at whose mercy it was—the very question thus put by the Treasury. The correspondence which ensued between Sir Humphrey and Capt. Elliot had been sent home to the Admiralty, and by that board was transmitted to Lord Aberdeen, who thus evidently found out the real nature of the payment obtained from the Chinese.

Captain Senhouse's letter of May 21 to Capt. Elliot—forced from him "to maintain the national honour and the credit of the British flag"—will be perused with feelings of regret for the loss of so brave and intelligent an officer, and of indignation at the degradation he must have felt in writing this inquiry. Sir Humphrey could not understand the precious agreement entered into on the previous day; he justly regarded it as "a settlement for a general peace;" and regarding the entire arrangement as "a very poor compensation for all the insults and injuries received," he sought to be informed what it really amounted to. The just tone of this letter shows the Plenipotentiary to the quick, and he retorted that "he was unable to see the necessity for it;" but had no hesitation in declaring that the "late arrangement" had reference only to the relief of the city and province from pressure, which "pressure," he added, was "in forgetfulness of her Majesty's gracious purposes, and in defiance of the temper and feeling of the British nation upon all such subjects." Why, who, in the name of all that is reasonable, directed the application of this "pressure" but the very man who sold its withdrawal for six millions of dollars!

The conclusion came to by the Treasury (Dec. 4, 1841) is "that the sum of 6,000,000 of dollars was paid by the Chinese authorities in Canton, and was received by Capt. Elliot as the price of the relief of that city from the pressure which was about to be applied to it by the forces of her Majesty;" so that the sale of Canton so strenuously denied by the Whig Journals, is recognized by the Treasury. The sum is then a droith of the Crown, and by 1 and 2 Vict. cap. 2, all droiths of the Crown, which shall not have been applied in the payment of any charge thereupon, or in granting remuneration to officers, become a part of the Consolidated Fund, and can only be disposed of by the legislature. The amount remitted in bills and specie to England is 9,338,810 dollars and a portion of this sum has to be applied, by the Queen's direction to remunerate the force engaged in the recent operations in China. The balance is, we presume, at the disposal of Parliament.

Captain Elliot, it will be seen, does not come personally scot-free out of his remittance to India and England of the proceeds of his sale of Canton. He has so mismanaged even this part of the transaction as to have rendered himself personally responsible to Messrs Dent & Co., to the amount of £60,000. The Plenipotentiary touched nothing that he has not botched in some way or other.

The present state of the case may be stated in the words of a letter of the 10th of December last, in which Lord Canning conveyed to Capt. Elliot the opinion of the Lords of the Treasury on the subject:—

"I am now to inform you that upon a review of the circumstances stated in your despatches, the Lords of the Treasury have come to the conclusion, that the sum of 6,000,000 dollars, which the Chinese authorities engaged on the 27th of May to pay, was received by you as the price of the relief of the city of Canton from the pressure which was about to be applied to it by her Majesty's forces. This being the case, the money so obtained from the Chinese is a droith of the crown, and, as such, comes within the provisions of the 1st and 2d Victoria, cap. 2, which provides that all droiths of the crown which shall not have been applied in payment of any charge thereupon, or in granting remuneration to officers or others taking the same, shall be carried to, and from a part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom; and neither the Lords of the Treasury nor any other authority can apply that money to other purposes, without the special authority of Parliament. The Lords of the Treasury are, therefore, unable to sanction the payments which you have made to Messrs Dent and Co., as reported in your despatch of the 26th of June; those payments have been made by you without any authority, out of a fund which could not legally be applied to that purpose, and the propriety of sanctioning them under the peculiar circumstances of the case will be for the future consideration and decision of Parliament. The same observation will apply to all other payments made out of the money obtained from the Chinese, under the arrangement of the 27th of May, which are not within the exception contained in the Act of 1st and 2nd Victoria, cap. 2. At the same time, however, that the Lords of the Treasury have apprized Lord Aberdeen of their view of this question, their Lordships have stated that they give full credit to you for the motives which induced you to make those payments; and their Lordships are satisfied that, being yourself convinced of the justice of the claims, you did not advert to the specific appropriation by Parliament, to other objects, of the funds out of which the payment was made; but their Lordships are, nevertheless, unable to relieve you from the responsibility which you have incurred.

PORTUGAL.

The ascension of the Queen took place on the 14th March, when her Majesty gave birth to an infant prince. Commercial affairs, we are sorry to say, partake of the prevalent gloom. A reduction in the salaries of the public employes has been one of the first steps, in entering into office, of the minister of Finance. The opening of the Cortes, which was arranged should take place on the 10th of June next, has, by virtue of the Queen's decree, been postponed till the 10th of the month following.

The Duke of Terceira has formed an administration, of which Costa Cabral is Minister of the Interior.

RUSSIA.

The Times reaffirms all that it before stated respecting the habit and manners of certain members of the Imperial family, and the projected departure of the consort of the Crown Prince from St. Petersburg for Munich.

A military revolt recently took place at St. Petersburg. The Emperor, it is said, hastened to proceed in person to the barracks of the regiment which had mutinied, and had nearly succeeded in bringing the men back to a sense of their duty; represented to them, in impressive terms, the criminality of their proceedings, when an officer stepped forward to seize him. His Majesty killed the rebel and withdrew seeing that there were no hopes of prevailing by milder means on the misled soldiery. The barracks were immediately attacked, a great part of the rebels fell with arms in their hands, and the rest were sent to Siberia the same day.

Intelligence has been received to the effect that the Circassians had taken advantage of the mildness of the winter to make inroads on the Russian territory beyond the Kuban and Caucasus.

AMERICA.

We have accounts from America to the 15th of March, Mr. Charles Dickens, his lady having recovered, was on a visit to Philadelphia. Lord Morpeth had proceeded to the South.

Mr. S. Jaudon, held to bail by the Recorder of Philadelphia, has been released on Habeas Corpus. Mr. Clay, has resigned his seat as senator for Kentucky, and would be succeeded by Mr. Crittenden.

With respect to the Crete affair, the Senators appeared to be perfectly satisfied with the instructions given by Mr. Webster to Mr. Everett, the United States' Minister, in London, and the arguments with which the demand for redress is supported. Mr. Webster's letter, which places this unpleasant subject in no new light, concludes thus:—"In all your communications with Her Majesty's Government, you will seek to impress it with the full conviction of the dangerous importance to the peace of the two countries of occurrences of this kind, and the delicate nature of the questions to which they give rise."

The House of Representatives had received from the President a special message. It related to the financial embarrassment of the country. It set forth the condition of the Treasury; the impossibility of meeting the demands on it; the pressing wants of the navy, army, &c. and suggested the necessity, as the Exchequer Bill would not pass, and as the Government would have no means of anticipating the revenue or postponing debts, of speedy provision being made by law for the extension and increase of the loan, or for authority to issue Treasury notes to the extent of the emergency. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his statement of the means of the Treasury on the 1st of March, accompanying the message, estimates the total expenditure for the current 3 months at 9,847,040,00 dollars, and the deficiency of estimated means at 3,384,687,47 dollars. After a brief debate the consideration of the subject was postponed.

A second message was at the same time received from the President, who had also sent a copy of it to the Senate. It relates to the international relations of the United States with Great Britain, and stated the fact of the arrest of Hogan, in the state of New York, on the charge of aiding in burning the Carroll. The President suggested to Congress the adoption of some suitable legislative provision "for the removal, at their commencement, and at the option of the party, of all such cases as might arise in State courts involving national questions, or questions touching the faithful observance and discharge of the international obligations of the United States, from such State tribunals to the Federal Judiciary.

The only remarkable proceeding in the House of Representatives has been the refusal of members appointed by the committee on foreign relations to act, in consequence of Mr. John Quincy Adams being its chairman. The committee, owing to the resignation of its members, has been temporarily broken up. The opposition members of the Ohio Legislature, that is to say, the late Van Buren men, have passed resolutions in the Senate (ayes 19, noes 17), and in the House (ayes 32, noes 29), pronouncing Mr. Adams deserved the merited censure of his countrymen, and the indignant disapprobation of the House. It was a midnight session before these resolutions were got through, and after hot and indignant resistance on the part of the Whigs. Per Contra in Rochester, N. Y., the people, without distinction of party, have had a meeting approving his course, and in Brooklyn a similar meeting is talked of.

CANADA.

The new Gov. Gen. of Canada appears to be well received, from an impression that prevails that he will discourage and smother down political asperities. The Canadian Parliament was not expected to meet until April. The river below Niagara Falls blocked up entirely with the down-coming rocks of ice, and the water, at the last dates, had risen fifty feet above the usual level.

MARKETS.

From the Sing. Free Press Extra, of 11th June.

We have been favored with the loan of a London Price Current of the 1st April, from which we have extracted the following:

TEA.—The intelligence received on the 10th ult. by the Indian Overland Mail, by which it seemed not improbable that hostilities might again be renewed at Canton, gave for a few days increased firmness to the Tea market, and East India Company's Congou, previously quoted in 11½d a lb, is 11½d, money, was sold at 2s for immediate payment, and at 2s 0½d with two months' prompt. Little however was then done in free-trade imports; the dealers being deterred from extending their operations by the announcement of public sales to be held in the two succeeding weeks comprising the large quantity of 82,000 packages. At the first series, on the 15th and 16th March, prices generally were rather lower, the reduction being to the greater extent in green descriptions. and at the second, brought forward at the commencement of last week, these kinds, of which the proportion offered was unusually heavy (18,000 packages out of 34,000) experienced a further decline, whilst black Teas maintained the previous value: the latest price being for Canton Bohea is 6½d a lb; fair common Congou is 10½d a lb; 1st 11½d; middling 11½d a lb, good is 11½d a lb; 2nd 11½d, fine 2s 3d a lb; Pekoe flavored 2s 5d; very ordinary to fine scented Pouchong is 2s 1d a lb; good Pouchong 2s 2d a lb; Caper, in chests, is 1½d a lb, in boxes, is 10½d a lb; good to fine scented Orange Pekoe 2s 1½d a lb; very ordinary to ordinary Twankay is 9d a lb; common is 9½d a lb; 2nd 9½d, good is 10½d a lb; 1st 10½d, fine 2s 1½d a lb; common Hyson Skin is 9½d a lb; 2nd 9½d, good and fine is 10d a lb; common Hyson 2s 3½d a lb; 2nd 6d, fair to good 2s 6d a lb; 1st 6d, good and fine 2s 6d a lb; middling to fine 1s 10d a lb; 2nd 5d a lb; good to fine Gunpowder 3s 4d a lb; Canton kind 2d 4d. Yesterday a public sale of 4,000 packages went off without material alteration, excepting in common to good Congou, prices of which were in some instances 4d a lb lower, and we now quote a decline since 2d ult. of ½d a lb in common to good Congou, 1d in Pouchong, 3d in Orange Pekoe, 4d a lb in common to good Twankay, and 1d a lb in fine, 4d a lb in Hyson Skin, 3d a lb in common to good Hyson, 1d a lb in Young Hyson, and 4d a lb in Imperial and Gunpowder. At these reduced rates there has been a fair demand, the quantity realised in the sales now referred to amounting to about 30,000 packages. East India Company's Congou is quoted at 1s 11d money.

The imports to London during the first 3 months of 1842 (exclusive of some recent arrivals not yet brought to account) has been 6,600,000 lbs against 4,000,000 lbs, in the same period of 1841: the deliveries have amounted to 8,500,000 lbs, against 8,680,000 lbs, and the present stock comprises 27,900,000 lbs, (£1,450,000 black, 6,450,000 green, agst 33,500,000 at 1st April 1841, of which 25,250,000 were black and 8,250,000 green. No alteration is proposed in the duty on Tea.

CAMIA LIGNEA.—There has been a good demand for Camia Lignea in the early part of last month, and 150 chests then offered found buyers at a gradual advance of 3s a 4s on the quotations of 2d ult., coarse having brought 83s a 83d, middling 89s a 89s 6d, good 90s a 91s. Little has since been done, but the market continues steady.

China-root. £ 2 4s a 31 per cwt.

Calanga Root. £ 5 a 6, 10 per cwt.

Ranharb common round, 4s a 7s per lb.

Dutch trioleum, 3s a 8s 6d per lb.

Silk, Tantee, 1½s a 2s per lb.

INDIA.

MURDER OF SHAH SHUJAH.

(From the Englishman, May 9.)

We have been favoured with the following translation of a Persian letter sent from an authentic source. There can be no doubt now of the murder of the Shah; for the circumstantial nature of the communication would of itself establish the fact were there no other corroborative evidence to rely upon. The letter will, we are sure, be perused with the greatest interest by all classes of readers:—

The following news is from Cabul, 7th April. Nawab Zuman Khan and Zubar Khan (the Dost's brother), Osman Khan, and Ameen Olla Khan having agreed in a plan among themselves, went to the King, and having taken the Holy Word (the Koran) with them, satisfied the King by the agreement of both word and oath, inasmuch that he consented to go with an Army consisting of a general levy towards Jellalabad; for which end it was settled that the King himself, having sent his tents out of Cabul and made a march to Seen Sing should there muster and review his whole Army, and then march on Jellalabad; but before this happened, the King, in strict and absolute privacy, of his own authority appointed the son of Ameer Gollah Khan commander of his Army. The Barakzye Sirdars, being much disgusted with the King's thus admitting the son of Ameer Gollah Khan to his confidence took, it much to heart; they then proposed to the King that they should assemble 25,000 soldiers at Cabul, while the King went out to review his Army and march on Jellalabad; the King, accordingly, took forth his tents and went down to Seen Sing; and the Barakzye Sirdars and the rest with their force also went forth for the purpose of being present at the muster of the Army by the King as agreed; so it was that on the first day the King quartered his Army at the place aforesaid, and at night returned to the Bala Hissar, leaving Prince Fozay June at Seen Sing; and the same night the King sent letters for the men of Koh-i-Banal about Jellalabad, and to Khyber, and the neighbourhood of Peshawar addressed to the Shahzaddak.

(N.B.—This sentence is very confusingly written, but a subsequent passage shows that Shahzaddak Mahomed Kanur and other of the royal house were the parties ad dressed.) In the morning the King, having made his preparations, and having put on his dress of ceremony, took his seat in his travelling chair of state (khasak) and went forth out of Cabul by the gate towards Shah Shubeh to make his march to Seen Sing; but on the road near Shah Shakerd, Shoojah-nod-dowlah, the son of Nuwah Zeman Khan, had placed in ambush 50 Janissaries. When the King's retinue reached the spot these Janissaries rose and fired on him; two balls struck him one in the brain, and one in the breast; five of the King's hearers were shot down by the volley; 7 of the soldiers that formed the King's escort were also struck, and fell; the King died almost immediately. Shoojah-nod-dowlah coming up with a body of horse stood over the King's corpse. Whatever property in jewels was about the corpse—the crown, the girdle, and so on, the sword and dagger, was plundered by them. When Shahzade Fozay Jung heard of the catastrophe, he made his way back to the Bala Hissar; the body of horse with Shoojah-nod-dowlah pursued the Prince at a smart pace, hoping to lay hands on him, but the Prince, by presence of mind and resolution, made his way to the Bala Hissar; but, finding the gates there guarded and the troopers close behind him, he fled back to the city and hid himself in the Fort of Muhmood Khan Beryat Zeman Khan and the other chiefs said to Muhmood Khan Beryat, 'the King was our enemy, and we slew him; now give us over the Prince as we are agreed to make him King; to which Muhmood Khan answered, 'you Barakzye Sirdars, in swearing a solemn oath to the King, and afterwards killing him, have committed a heinous crime; We of the tribes (Ooloes) of Cabul were against the deed: Zeman Khan replied, 'my son killed the King without my wish or consent.' Muhmood Khan at night took Fozay Jung out of his own Fort, and lodged him with his women in the Bala Hissar, when Ameen Gollah Khan being in the Bala Hissar, with near 2,000 soldiers there assembled, he placed Fozay Jung on the throne, and declared him his King, writing letters to the Ooloes, his dependants, telling them to assemble about the Bala Hissar and throw in supplies, while he himself prepared for action—guarding the gates with Artillery. Khan Sherim Kiano, and Muhmood Khan, and the Khozooliah faction form one faction, while the Barakzye Sirdars and the Nowabs, and the men of the Cabul tribes, and the Kohistanes from the other.

The news writer goes on to say, that preparations for hostilities are being made, women, and children being sent towards Bamacan, Balkh, and Bokhara, and the property of merchants removed to places of safety. Some persons were declaring of the claims of Hyder, son of Shah Zuman, as the real heir to the throne. Reports were rife about the advance of the British troops 'slaying every one in their way,' and a march on Lughman to release the prisoners. The only other item of importance is the report of Kasid sent by the King with letters for Zudah Mahmood Kasim, who states that Akbar Khan seized and imprisoned him, and destroyed his letters, releasing him only when he fled to Lughman. The King therefore was marching against him, and for the relief of Jellalabad. The chief, being unable to attack the Bala Hissar with success, devised this truly Afghan scheme to inveigle the Shah from his stronghold and murder him.

From the India Gazette.

DEATH OF SIR ALEX. BURNES.—Subjoined will be found a most interesting narrative, the only trustworthy one very probably we shall ever have of the murder of Sir Alex. Burnes, furnished by a native servant who witnessed in person the matter he professes to describe. It had every appearance of truthfulness; and for our own part we have no hesitation in attaching to it the fullest credence. It is melancholy to think that Sir Alexander and his brother perished from treachery such as this; and that they might have been saved had they retired in time to the cantonments, and not pressed it too strictly to be their duty to remain where they were:—

"As you must be deeply concerned to learn any details of the events which led to the death of the lamented Sir Alex. Burnes and his brother at Cabool, I do myself the honor to forward you the deposition of Bawh Shuh, lately a Chuprassee in Sir Alexander's service, who was an eye witness of the events which terminated so fatally; he was a faithful servant, and his statement may, I conceive, be fully relied on."

Deposition of Bawh Shuh.

'Sir Alexander Burnes was duly informed by his Afghan servant the day previous to his murder, that there was a stir in the city, and that, if he remained in it, his life would be in danger; they told him he had better go to the cantonments; this he declined doing, giving as reason, that the Afghans never received any injury from him, but on the contrary, he had done much for them, and that he was quite sure they would never injure him.

"On the day of the murder as early as 3 o'clock in the morning, a crowd (Wahlee Mahomed) came to me, I was on duty outside; he said, go and inform your master immediately, that there is a tumult in the city, and that the men there are removing their goods and valuables from the shops. I knew what my master had said on this subject the day before, so did not like awakening him, but put on my chupras and went into the chowk; here I met the Waseer Nuzmat Dowlah going towards my master's house; I immediately turned with him, and on our arrival, awoke him, when my master dressed quickly, and went to the Waseer and talked with him sometime; the Waseer endeavored to induce him to go immediately into cantonments, assuring him it was not safe to remain in the city; he however persisted in remaining, saying, if I go, the Afghans will say I was afraid, and run away—the however sent a note to Sir W. MacNaghten by Wahlee Mahomed. A Choodar came from the king to call the Waseer, who asked and obtained permission to go; at the door the Waseer said to Sir Alexander Burnes, why you are already that some of Ameeroola Khan's people have collected to attack you; if you will allow me, I shall disperse them; he (Sir A. Burnes) said, no, the King has sent for you, go to him without delay. The Waseer accordingly mounted his horse, and went away. The House gates were then closed, and were in a little while surrounded by Ameer Gollah Khan and his people.—Hyder Khan, the late Kotwal of the city, whom Sir Alexander Burnes had turned out of the office, brought fast from the humam on the opposite side of the street, and set fire to the gates. The Waseer shortly returned from the Bala Hissar with one of the king's paltans; on seeing the gates on fire, and the immense crowd about, he took it apparently for granted that Sir A. Burnes had either escaped, or been destroyed, and withdrew the Regiment. At this time the whole mob of the city was collected and the house in flames. The Jemidar of chuprassee told Sir A. Burnes, that there was a report of a Regiment having come to assist him; he was going up to the house to look, and he got half way when he met an Afghan, who said he had been looking about, and that there was not the least sign of a Regiment; my master then turned back, and remarked there was no chance of assistance coming either from cantonments or the king. A Cashmeree, a Cashmeree, came forward and said, if your brother and chuprassee cease firing on the mob, I swear by the Koran that I will take you safe through the kirkee of the garden to the chandool, the fort of the Kuzulbees; the firing ceased, and Sir A. Burnes agreed to accompany him, and for sake of disguise put on a chokla and loongee. The moment he came out of the door a few paces with the Cashmeree, this wretch called out, this is Sikander Burnes! He was rushed on by hundreds and out to pieces with their knives. His brother, Captain Barnes, went out with him, and was killed dead before Sir Alexander. Captain Broadfoot was shot sometime before in the house, and expired in half an hour.

There was a guard of one Havildar, one Naik and 12 Sepahis; they were all killed early in the affair; all the Hindoostances except myself were killed; his Sirdar Bearer, who is now with me, escaped, as he was at home; I got away by having an Afghan dress; all the Afghan servants deserted; I got into cantonments after being hid two days in a shop. Sir Alexander forbid the Sepoys and others firing on the people until they set fire to the gates."—Ibid.

India Gazette, 16th May.

Authentic intelligence reached the Governor-General, on the 30th ultimo, of the arrival of General Pollock at Jellalabad on the 16th. His Lordship has issued the following order (for which we are indebted to an Allahabad correspondent) upon this gratifying occasion. It will be read by all with the utmost pleasure, the high tribute paid to the Jellalabad garrison, and the honors conferred upon them, were seldom better deserved:—

GENERAL ORDER BY THE RIGHT HONORABLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA.
Political Department, Head-Quarters, Allahabad, 30th April, 1842.

The Governor-General has received a report from Major General Pollock, C. B., dated the 16th instant, announcing his arrival at Jellalabad.

The Major General has thus carried into effect the orders of the Government in a manner which entitled him to the highest approbation.

Receiving the command of the army at Peshawar under circumstances of peculiar difficulty, he has, in the midst of new and unforeseen embarrassments and disappointments, preserved a firm mind, and justly relying upon his own judgment he has at last, with equal discretion and decision, accomplished the object he was directed to effect.

The Governor-General requests Major General Pollock to accept his acknowledgments of the good service he has thus rendered to the Government of India, and begs he will communicate to the gallant officers and troops under his command the entire satisfaction with which their conduct has been regarded on this occasion.

The Governor-General has already in communicating the despatch from Major General Sir Robert Sale, K. C. B., dated the 7th instant, expressed his high sense of the services of that officer and of the garrison of Jellalabad, terminating on that day by a decisive victory, which would have left nothing to desire had Colonel Dennis survived to enjoy it.

The garrison of Jellalabad having on that day achieved its safety by its own prowess, and being now reunited to the army by the movements of the force under the command of Major General Pollock, C. B., it remains only for the Governor-General to testify his opinion of the just claims of that garrison to the gratitude of the Government and of their country.

The Governor-General is pleased to direct that the second company of the sixth battalion of Artillery shall bear upon its appointments, and the fifth regiment of Light Cavalry upon its standards, and appointments, and the thirty-fifth regiment of Infantry upon its colors and appointments, a mural crown superscribed "Jellalabad," as a memorial of the fortitude, perseverance and enterprise evinced by those several corps during the blockade of Jellalabad.

The Governor-General is likewise pleased, in conformity with the recommendation of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, to direct that "in order to give additional and lasting honors to the 35th native Infantry, whilst it benefits the service generally, that corps shall hereafter be made a light Infantry regiment, the duties of which it is already so well acquainted with and has performed with so much zeal and spirit."

The Governor-General is further pleased to direct, that a silver medal be made for every officer, non-commissioned officer, and private, European and native, who belonged to the Garrison of Jellalabad on the seventh of April, 1842, such medals to be all similar, and to bear on one side a mural crown superscribed "Jellalabad," and on the other side the words, "April 7th 1842."

The Government of India will present such medal to every officer, non-commissioned officer, and private, European and native, belonging to their service, and will request the home authorities to lay before her Majesty their most humble prayer that her Majesty will be graciously pleased to permit the Major General, Commissioned officers, and privates in her Majesty's service, who formed part of the Garrison of Jellalabad, to receive and wear a medal similar to that which will be so presented to their brothers in arms.

The Governor-General, taking into consideration the many great privations to which the troops composing the garrison of Jellalabad were exposed during the blockade of that place, and the noble fortitude with which all such privations were borne, as well as the various losses the troops sustained, is pleased to direct that a donation of six months' batta be made to all the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, European and native, who composed the garrison of Jellalabad on the 7th of April 1842.

The Governor-General will request his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of the army to give instructions in due time that the several corps composing the garrison of Jellalabad may, on their return to India, be received at all the stations on their route to their cantonments, by all the troops at such stations, in review order with presented arms.

By order of the Right Honorable the Governor-General of India.

(Signed) T. H. MADDOCK.

Secy. of the Govt. of India with the Govr. Genl.

Thursday's Friend of India contains the following. It is unfortunately but too confirmatory of the melancholy account given by us some time ago. There is something cheering, however, in the latter portion of it, which represents that supplies are coming in rapidly at Jullalabad:

"As our paper was going to press, we received a letter from Jellalabad, dated the 23d April, which stated that a Khashee had come into camp the previous day who had been in the employment of Lieut. Col. Palmer at Ghuzni. The substance of his report was that after the garrison had capitulated and the chiefs had sworn on the Koran to observe the terms of surrender, the unfortunate British force was attacked under the walls of the town, by an overpowering force of Ghazies and mercilessly slaughtered. Colonel Palmer, however, and some of the officers were taken prisoners. Among those made prisoners, the Khashee distinctly mentioned the name of Lieut. Williams.

"Provisions were coming in, in sufficient quantities to justify the hope of being able to provision Jellalabad, which was the great point to be decided. Futeh Jung was in truth ruling at Cabul, and was both munificent and popular, but the several parties kept the place in a state of agitation, and the wealthier inhabitants were flying."

We gather from our letters received on Friday, that the Brigade under Colonel Bolton H. M. 31st had reached Jumrood from Peshawar, on the morning of the 25th, and expected to arrive at Alee Musjeed on the following morning. They were taking with them as large a quantity of grain as they had carriage to transport, and Captain Lawrence, the officiating Political Agent had (not without some difficulty) obtained the loan of two thousand maunds of grain from Rajah Goolab Sing. All our camels were in wretched condition.

There were not more altogether than 900 camels loads of grain and other provisions at Alee Musjeed, though that Fort had been made a depot for Commissariat Stores (as well as for ammunition) ever since its re-occupation by our troops.

The quantity of grain and other articles of subsistence, daily consumed by Pollock's force, being as we understand about 500 maunds, we begin reluctantly to entertain apprehensions on the score of his ability to retain his position at Jellalabad unless the productions of that country be speedily opened to him. This most devoutly do we therefore wish that they soon may be! One of our correspondents adds "the gallant and able general has himself no hesitation in saying, that the force at present at his disposal is wholly inadequate to the renewal of military operations in Afghanistan, so that, having "succoured Sale" as the phrase runs, there would be no great harm done, perhaps—inasmuch as there is no retreat before an enemy involved in such retrogression—if he should have to return to pass the hot season in the neighbourhood of Peshawar, though I confess I should be better pleased to learn that there had been (as I hope there will be) no occasion for so doing. I hope in short that grain will soon be abundant, as a consequence of restored confidence and friendly intercourse with the natives of Jullalabad, and that our troops there will summer on that side the Khybur Pass."

Letters of the 27th ult., have been received from Bolton's party, at Ali Musjid; they were awaiting Brig. Monteith's arrival which was expected immediately. No opposition had been experienced; indeed, not an enemy had been seen. We have no certain information relative to the prisoners, but it is said, that they have been separated into small parties, under charge of different chiefs. Supplies were coming into Jullalabad in greater quantity, but the General still keeps the force on half rations as he wishes to collect a store. Letters of 28th from Peshawar mention the arrival there of Capt. Fraser, Foughusband, Pattison and Williams of the 13th, the Sergeant Major of the 37th and a pensioner.

The force has been on half rations for some days, this is bad for a beginning, and the natives do not know what to make of it. A number of poor wretches have come in, minus toes and fingers; they are deplorable objects not having had a good meal for months. Several Officers and the Sergeant Major of the 37th N. I. went with the Brigade, to try and get to the provinces. It is supposed they will go on a float or raft from Dhaka to Peshawar; the Cabul river is very full and rapid since the snow has commenced to melt. The sun is becoming very hot, and the inhabitants of the country assert that in May it is impossible to live in tents in this place. The Company have lost many camels from starvation and the force is very badly off for carriage; the Bewarees are determined not to go on further, and resolution may prevent the army moving on; backwards they will go if well paid; it was expressly stipulated that the hired camels were not to be forced beyond Jellalabad; all this shows how inefficient the Commissariat Department is; sickness is on the increase, several Officers are suffering. A Bunya who went to get supplies from some of our faithful allies came back minus what; he was lucky to come back with his head; such a set of blood thirsty wretches do not exist on the earth I think; the Koran is taken up and sworn upon with as little scruple as their dinner is eaten. The officers and men of Sale's Force are much better supplied with wearing apparel than we are, owing to the arrangements made for leaving every thing behind. The prisoners are now at or near Cabul, and in the hands of that villain Achar Khan, but as his power is fast declining they will no doubt fall into the hands of some other chief, from whom they be ransomed; supplies are being gradually procured by the Commissariat, but in no quantity to fill the gullets; the fords are not passable, and men on inflated mus-sacks cannot make many passages across in a day. Achar Khan's death was reported but not confirmed; there is no doubt of Shah Soorjah being no more.—Delhi Gazette, May 4.

Bombay Courier 17th May.

JELLALABAD.—Letters have been received at this station from Jellalabad, bearing date the 23d ultimo. Much uncertainty prevailed as to the immediate movement of the Force, the lateness of the season, scarcity of supplies and the unsettled state of affairs to the South-West of Cabool, all rendering an immediate advance unlikely. A strong party, under command of Colonel Monteith, had been despatched to accompany Colonel Bolton's Brigade through the Pass, a step which could only have been taken under a contemplated move upon Cabool; but orders from the Governor-General were daily expected which would decide the question.

Jellalabad is described as very hot, and the situation of the Troops, though elate from victory, rather uncomfortable from insufficient supplies and the trifling quantity of personal baggage they had brought with them. General Pollock's Force were encamped on the plain outside the Town. The pleasant excitement produced by the meeting of the two bodies had not subsided, though the means of supporting it, as supplied by wine and good dinners were wanting, and General Sale's accident—he had broken a rib by a fall from his horse the day he defeated Akbar Khan—threw a further damp over the social tone of the Camp. The death of Akbar Khan continued to be believed, as well as of Azem Olla Khan, his Cousin (mistaken in our last as his brother Mehrab Khan). The former, it was known, was carried off in a litter being unable to mount a horse, when defeated by Sale, and it was a source of general regret that so much time had been lost in investing the small Fort in front of his Camp, on that day. But for this ill-timed detention, Akbar Khan must have been seized and the life of the gallant Dennis preserved, two events which would have rendered our position in Afghanistan so much more favourable. The death of Akbar will lead to nearly all that his capture could, but Colonel Dennis's loss is irreparable, and if we consider the juncture at which if took place, one we cannot reconcile ourselves to.

The report that Akbar Khan had taken his prisoners with him, is we are glad to be able to say on good authority, unfounded. On his flight he made them over to the charge of a Chief upon whom he could rely, and who was afterwards killed or murdered. The Chief, into whose power they then fell is, it is said, disposed to treat for their ransom. There is, therefore, a cheering prospect of their being eventually restored to us, which, we confess, we despaired of, as long as they were a within the clutch of Akbar Khan, whose avarice, been as it might have been, would have been a weak passion compared to what he must have felt from his wounds, defeat and the total ruin of his cause. This relates only to the Prisoners at Lughman and the neighbouring Forts: those at Cabool have probably equal chances of safety if a careful negotiation be set on foot. They are, we understand, more numerous than is supposed; numbers of Sepoys and Camp followers having found their way back from the fatal march to Khoord Cabool. Of these, it is said, several were sold to the Ousbegs, a report which we had some time ago, and which is so far confirmed by this revival of it. The expense of supporting any number of this class lends strength to the report.

Some light is beginning to break on the conduct of the Native Troops in the disastrous march from Cabool, and though it compromises to some extent their fidelity, yet it must be recollected that they should not be put to a trial—which few Troops so situated would have come out untarnished. On the march the desertions were numerous, but confined chiefly to the mercenaries engaged for Shah Soojah. The Envoy's mounted escort deserted to a man, as did all Alexander's Rissalah and a large number of Anderson's Horse. Of the 5th Regular Cavalry, several deserted, induced thereto by the Native Doctor of the Regiment, whose loyalty gave way amid the sufferings he was exposed to. A number of those deserters are, it is said, in the service of Akbar Khan and other Chiefs, from whom, however, the first shadow of defeat will detach them. From this and other circumstances, the loss on the march from Cabool, must have been considerably over rated, and it will, we trust eventually, turn out to be a third less than at first imagined.

A communication from a sententious correspondent, who does not mince matters, will supply some additional items of news from this quarter.

We publish the following List of Junks that have arrived from China this season showing also their tonnage number &c. which has been kindly handed to us by the authorities!

We have refrained from giving also the quantity of Tea usually reported (most incorrectly,) by the above statement, which is more likely to mislead than otherwise. We can however state that according to the general belief, this year has witnessed one of the largest importations of that staple produce, namely from 110,000 to 120,000 chests and sau to Camphor upwards of 3,000 piculs have been also imported. Thus over the last year the former article exhibits an increase of about one half and the latter about two thirds. The total present average value of the tea may be stated at about 700,000 Dollars, and of the Camphor at about 100,000 dollars. It is also worthy of remark that in pursuing the comparison further, the number and tonnage of the junks this season shows also an augmentation over the previous one of about at tenth part, and in respect to the population there appears to have been a corresponding increased influx by about the same proportion! We beg to refer our readers to the Free Press of the 26th April 1841, for the particulars there given of these matters last year.

JUNKS FROM CHINA.

(From the 1st January to the 10th May, 1842.)

No of Junks	FROM WHENCE	TONS	PASSENGERS
8	Kong Hoy	794	802
2	Macao	375	460
8	Seanghay	1812	87
10	Kong Moon	815	845
6	Swathow	1187	800
14	Chouglim	3100	1850
7	Chopoh	785	170
2	Chim Ho	775	..
9	Sing Seng	250	150
12	Chuan Chew	1898	128
8	Amoy	1107	1040
2	Chunah	93	60
2	Chowan	312	9
1	Teo Chew	226	100
1	Canton	250	16
2	Keang Mahy	875	..
1	Ho Ha Chu	100	100
86		14580	6154

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir,—Averse as I am, and so I think must every impartial person be, to criticise the proceedings of H. M. Plenipotentiary at this early stage of his career, still I think his late breach of Faith, both with the Chinese and English too glaring to admit of excuse. I refer to the abandonment of the Ports of Chusan and Tinghai—declared by the Plenipotentiary in his Public Notification, dated Ningpo 14th Dec. 1841 to be under the protection of the British forces, and inviting the natives to resume their customary occupations and trades under the assurance of kind treatment, and safeguard from the punishment of their own Mandarin. Again in his Circular, Hongkong 26th February, 1842, we find him inviting British merchants to take their produce to these places, where every facility will be afforded them in landing their goods, and in the improbable event of Her Majesty's Forces being withdrawn from the Island in question—, a sufficient period will be allowed for all merchants and others to remove their Goods as well as to adjust their accounts."

Now Sir, I wish to ask any man, what faith the Chinese can place in a British Functionary, after this; the probability is, that many poor fellows supplying our ships and Troops with provender, are now paying the penalty of their rashness; for this it has proved. Our situation in this country, was surely sufficiently difficult prior to this most fatal error, and one of as great importance as ever was committed by the much abused Elliot.

Supposing any Englishman to have landed property at Chusan—(an event not at all improbable)—the certain consequence would have been the plunder of the whole, and who pray would have been answerable for this? why the unfortunate merchant, to be sure, guilty of the gross imprudence of trusting the Word of H. B. M. Representative, Minister Extraordinary, and Chief Superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China.

Before our relations with this Nation can be placed on an honorable and advantageous footing, this vacillating mode of proceeding must be abandoned, the Chinese despise us, and well they may, forsooth! A glance at our line of conduct from June 1839 to this day, may very satisfactorily account for this. Would not the English nation equally condemn a power, who carried on its negotiations with us in a similar strain? Neither war, nor peace. There has been a singular fatality attending our expeditions to this Land. God forefend if the spell be not off us yet. Mark my words Mr. Editor, and a worse prophecy might be uttered, until we wage war with these people, and when I say war, I do not mean bloodshed and slaughter to the North, and brotherly Love to the south," but a War with the nation, and not with a Province,—no good will come of it. What has become of British prowess, and statesmanship, if we are to be tricked and cheated by these people with impunity. I am certain a retrospect of our proceedings will evince woeful mismanagement; more than any clever diplomacy on the part of the Chinese, a people possessing all the darker spots of Asiatic character with but few of its redeeming qualities.

Our Forces are now all assembled at the Seat of War, and a gallant band it is; Englishmen have a right to expect something will be accomplished this season, our brave men will do their duty; let our Plenipo do his, and something may yet be done. No negotiating thro' Commissioners—we have had quite enough of that.

I have to apologise for trespassing upon you at this length, at a time when you may have much more interesting matter, but trusting you will deem this worthy of a place in your valuable Journal, believe me, Your's obedy.

Macao, 24th June.

P.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 25th June, 1842.

By the Red Rover from Calcutta, 26th May, and the Sir Herbert Compton from Bombay, 18th May, we have received papers from the former to the 16th and latter to the 17th May, as likewise the overland mail to 6th April, which arrived in Bombay on the 13th May. From the Overland Mail and the Monthly Times we have made copious extracts. The latter paper, which with its supplement contains no less than 128 pages of closely printed matter, is full of interesting intelligence, and we shall avail of its contents more fully hereafter. The most important feature of the news received is Sir Robert Peel's proposal of an income tax of 7d in the £, a measure, in the minister's opinion, rendered necessary by the deficiency in the revenue, and enabling him to propose reductions in the duty on many articles, of which a list will be found in a preceding column.* Mr. Lindsay brought forward a motion for an address to the Queen to take into favorable consideration the claims of the holders of Opium scrip, and that the Canton ransom money be applied to their payment—his motion was however lost by a majority of 87 to 37. There seems to be therefore no hope for the Opium claimants until the present differences between England and China shall have been arranged, when, no doubt, the Chinese will be made to indemnify the holders of Capt. Elliot's opium scrip. To a question of an hon. member, whether Hongkong was to be retained as a British possession, Sir Robert Peel answered, that he could, whilst the war was proceeding, not be expected to answer such a question. We have elsewhere copied from the monthly Times some official correspondences relating to the application of the Canton ransom money, from which it will be seen that Government disapprove of Capt. Elliot having applied part of it to the payment of his protested bills held by Messrs Dent & Co., and that he is held personally responsible for these amounts as well as for other sums applied for other purposes. Capt. Elliot had not, by the last advices, left England for Texas. From continental Europe the intelligence is of not much interest. French papers mention that it is intended to reduce the naval armament of France; they likewise exult over the Cabool disasters, which had produced the greatest sensation in England. The difference between the Courts of Spain and France, on account of M. de Salvandy's refusing to deliver his credentials into other than the Queen's hands has been arranged, by France instead of a family Ambassador, sending a minister extraordinary who may deliver his credentials into the hands of the Regent. The French frigate Belle Poule was to be ready for Sea in the beginning of May; the Prince de Joinville is to circumnavigate the globe in her. It is said the King of Hanover intended abdicating in favor of his son.

Our accounts from Jellalabad are to the 22d April; and we have copied from the Indian papers several interesting items of intelligence. Provisions in the camp were very scarce; and the force reduced to half rations; but supplies from Peshawar were shortly expected to arrive.

Naval promotions and appointments:—S. B. L. Crofton of the Wellsey, to be Lieut; Lieut. W. E. A. Gordon, to the Vindictus; F. B. Seymour, to the Thalia.

We learn that the claims handed by American citizens to Commodore Kearney for losses sustained during the attack of the British force on Canton amounted to about 7800 $; that these were demanded by the Commodore, and that the Chinese paid 10,000 $ instead, the surplus being, we believe, intended for the parents or nearest relatives of the boy Sherry, who was killed during the attack on the Morrison's boat, besides which the Hongmerchants have sent about 2000 $ worth in tea and other articles to the same parties. After this money was paid, we understand, the claimants altered their minds, and asked a greater sum. Commodore Kearney refused to make another application, and the money remains in the hands of the U. S. Consul, to be by him paid to the parties interested, on application for it, and on their giving a discharge in full for all claims against the Chinese authorities arising from losses sustained on the occasion in question.

We copy below from the Friend of China an account of many robberies lately committed at Hongkong, the importance of which that paper seems anxious to extenuate, as not having been so great in amount as several robberies committed in Macao. It is perfectly true that many robberies have been committed there, and there is little doubt that in two at least, and those the most considerable, the house servants were implicated; but our cotemporary exaggerates considerably when stating that almost every foreign resident in Macao has lately been robbed; we have heard of five or six instances only. That the thieves in Macao have been more successful than those at Hongkong we fear is less owing to the inglorious of the latter, than to the amount of currency existing in the treasuries of the respective places.

* For want of room we can only copy it in our next.

We find in O Portuguez na China of Thursday last the following: "H. E. the Governor of this City has resigned, and the Loyal Senate and authorities have accepted his resignation, and determined that for the present the government should be composed of the Jus de Direito, the Vigario, Capitular, and the Commandant of the Prize Regent Battalion,

"People of Macao, what is to become of us and of this City, who under present circumstances lose a governor who has so well protected us against so many misfortunes that might have befallen us, our property, and our city?"

We doubt not that all wellwishers to Macao will regret the resignation of M. de Silveira Pinto, who has under very difficult circumstances, during the last three years preserved the quiet of Macao undisturbed, and to whose management it is undoubtedly, in great part due that British subjects have been able to reside in Macao during the last two years without farther disturbance from the Chinese.

From the same paper we learn that a battalion of European Infantry had been embarked at Goa on board the corvette Infanta Regente, with destination for Macao, here to reinforce the garrison; but that immediately after embarkation they refused to proceed, took possession of the ships boats, and returned on shore, where great confusion ensued. The governor M. Lopes de Lima resigned in consequence, appointing another governor ad interim, and left Goa for Bombay in the Infanta Regente.

We have had very heavy falls of rain since last Saturday, and regret to learn that they have done considerable injury to several buildings, to the bridges, and roads, in Hongkong. One house had its foundations sapped by the rains and tumbled down, killing two Chinese, and severely wounding another.

Hongqua has sent warning to foreign merchants in Canton to be careful whence they procure their water for domestic purposes, there being reason to believe that the wells whence their servants are in the habit of procuring it have been poisoned; also to be careful as to whence they procure their food, as attempts at poisoning provisions have been made, in consequence of which several Chinese have died. It is said the soldiery now in Canton, chiefly from Honan and Hoo-pih are the perpetrators of this diabolical mischief, and that several vendors of poisoned sweetmeats have lately been caught and punished by the authorities. Some thrashings they got during some disorders that happened in Canton immediately before the attack of the British, are said to have incited them to seeking revenge in this infamous manner.

H. M. S. Vindictive, Capt. Nicholas, bearing the pennant of Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, arrived at Hongkong on the 19th, after an amazingly short voyage, she having left Torbay on the 21st March. Particulars of the passage we copy from the Canton Register Extra of 23rd June. Sir Thomas Cochrane has hoisted his flag on board the Blenheim, and will for the present, we hear, remain at Hongkong.

"The Vindictive left Torbay on the 21st of March, arrived at Madeira in four days and a half, and at Porto Praya, St. Jago, in ten days from England, where she remained nearly two days and a half, watering. She crossed the line on the night of the 8th of April, passed the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope in lat. 33° 30' early on the morning of the 3d of May, and passed without half gun-shot of the S. E. end of the island of Amsterdam on the 14th of June, being just eleven days only from the meridian of the Cape, a distance nearly three thousand miles!

"After leaving Amsterdam she unfortunately met a gale of wind from the N. N. E. which delayed her several days, and took her within 400 miles of the coast of New Holland, and she could with ease have reached Swan river within sixty days from England, the gale having been directly fair for it.

"She arrived off Jarnhead on the 30th of May, just 70 days from England. In the Straits of Sunda she was unfortunately becalmed six days, and did not arrive at Anjer until the 5th of June, where she remained one day, watering, and anchored in Hongkong bay on Sunday morning the 19th of June, being her sixtieth day from Torbay, upwards of three of which she was at anchor: thus having completed the voyage in less than 87 days under sail.

"The Vindictive was originally a 74, but was never at sea as such, having been altered to a frigate on the plan of Mr. Blake, the present master shipwright of Portsmouth dockyard, about nine years ago; and strange to tell, for reasons which remain to be explained, she was never commissioned until the end of last year; soon, Captain Nicolas, at his urgent request, was removed to her from the Belleisle, 74, which he had before commanded in the mediterranean fleet and on the coast of Ireland.

"Rear-Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, whose flag she has brought out, Captain Nicolas, and indeed, every officer in the ship, are enthusiastic in her praise, and they all unanimously agree in stating that she has every good quality, and not one fault! She frequently ran 296 miles in the 24 hours, and once or twice it is said, above 300 miles. She is a beautiful ship, and amongst her other matchless qualities is that of being enabled to fire six long sixty-eight pounders right ahead, and six right astern on a line with her keel; and the shot from her bow guns will cross each of other at the distance of 100 yards from the ship."

We have much pleasure in publishing the following, received from Capt. Hutcheson.

To the Secretary of the Humane Society Macao. Sir,—As I understand it is the wish of the Society to ascertain the number of lives saved in the China seas, I have much pleasure in having to inform you that on the 30th of May at 1 P. M. in 9° 40' North and 110° 23' East. I picked up 12 men and 1 Boy off the wreck of a Cochon-Chinese Junk which had lost both mast and rudder and was leaking considerably. Had we not providentially arrived to their rescue they must have perished in a few hours, as it came on to blow immediately afterwards.

I have the honor to remain,

Sir, your most obedient servant.

G. HUTCHESON.

Command. H. C. Transport Maliliek Behar. Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, 16th June.

We are informed that the learned author the "Systema Phonicum Scripturae Sinaicae" has safely arrived in his native country, and has urged on the attention of the French and English Governments, his proposals to publish a translation of the Grand Dictionary of the Emperor Kang-hi. A perfect copy of the best edition of which work, we believe he had presented to him by a much respected resident. Monsieur Gallery proposes to stereotype two editions one English and the other French. We hope he will obtain the assistance so gigantic and praiseworthy an undertaking so well merits. He has already commenced his labours, with the view to the ultimate accomplishment of his grand design. The estimated cost of this work cannot be less than 100,000 dollars, and will take at least ten years time to complete it, on the proposed plan. Monsieur Gallery has selected a location on our Island and hopes a few months only will elapse before he and his Printers and Assistants are domiciled and at work in our town.

ROBBERIES.—On Friday night, the 3rd inst one of the China houses of Mr. Almark was broken into. One of the thieves was captured, as he entered the perforated wall. His three companions escaped. The prisoner was sentenced, we are told, by the Chief magistrate to receive sixty lashes, or rather strokes of the bamboo; for that is the mode of inflicting "old punishments" among the Chinese, and which we have adopted. The same night the Gulown of Messrs Townsend and Co. were forcibly entered, and robbed of property amounting to between three and four hundred dollars in value. An unsuccessful attempt was also made on the premises of Messrs D. Wilson and Co. of Calcutta. The thieves however managed to enter the next night by means of a ladder placed at the first floor window; they abstracted property of about $200 value. Some cases which contained property, were found at the waterside, and it is presumed the robbers were of the same gang, which the week before came from Kowloon and attempted to force the Godown of Mr. Fykes. We are informed on that occasion they were completely armed à la Chinoise. Some of the carpenters employed on the buildings near, although aware of their intentions, did not give the alarm; alleging they dared not, for fear of the robbers, who would, they said, have then attacked them. We are glad to say that we know no instance, as at Macao, of outrages on the person as well as the property of foreign residents. We have been assured that our Kowloon visitors are no strangers at Macao; some of our friends affirm they are of the same gang, which not long since, robbed the domiciles of almost every foreign resident there, and but a few weeks ago, forced open the treasury of an eminent firm, and undisturbed and undetected, carried away an amount in specie; which it is averred, will far exceed the aggregate amount of all the losses by robbery which have occurred in Hongkong since it has been a British possession.

NOTICE.

WANTS A SITUATION as Clerk in a mercantile establishment, a young man lately arrived, who is well acquainted with mercantile business, and understands book keeping. For Particulars apply at the Canton Press Office.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

June. ARRIVED

18. (A.) Lawell, Lough, Peirce, Manila.
18. (Sp.) Isabella II, do.
19. (B.) Menden, Dare, Chusan.
19. H. M. S. Vindictive, Capt. Nicholas, bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, from England 21st March.
19. H. M. S. Hazard, Capt. Bell, Sing. P. nang.
20. (B.) Linnæi, Philip, Chusan.
20. Isabella Robertson, Kelly, Sing. & Cal.
22. Hop, Barrett, do.
23. Arctura, Christian, Java.
22. Red Rover, Wright, Calcutta.
22. Sir H. Compton, Bolton, Bombay.
23. Isabella, Harden, Bombay.
23. Wm. Gillies, Clark, do.
23. Charles Forbes, Wilks, do.
23. Charlotte, Liebscheyager, do.
23. Queen Victoria, Conner, do.
33. Hero of Malown, Jackson, Madras.

PASSENGERS Per

Isabella Robertson, Mrs. Rom, Mr. A. S. Drysdale, Capt. Hudson.

June. SAILED

15. (B.) Jane, Leone, Manila.
19. Sea Queen, Harvey Sing. and Calcutta.
19. (Sp.) Romancito, Gonzales, Manila.
19. Singular, do.
24. (B.) Harlequin, do, Bombay.
25. Regular, Budd, London.

ARRIVALS IN ENGLAND.

From China—31st March, Blackely and Fallwa, 1st April City of Derry. From Manila—1st April, Edina.

DEPARTURES.

For Manila—15th March, Querride. For China—20th March, Judith Allen, 25th do. Anna Maria, 25th do. Raymond, 25th do. H. M. S. Waterline, 25th do. H. M. S. Steamer Driver, 21st do. H. M. S. Vindictive, 19th do. H. M. S. Minden, 26th do. Copeland, 25th do. Chebar, 26th do. Caroline, 26th do. Mary Ann Edie, 26th Claudine.

UNDER DISPATCH

For Liverpool,—John Horton.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Ann Birdan, Dovecot, Guinere, Devon, Gemini, Peruvian, Elizabeth, Pink, Anna Maria, Judith Allen, Anna Maria, Raymond, Copeland, Chebar, Caroline, Mary Ann Edie, Claudine.

From Bombay,—Drongan, Charlotte, England, Bucphalus, Jamsetjee, Serjeebahy, Island Queen, Anonymous, Earl Bulcarras, Cornwallis, Agnedre, Helen, Salem, Venditair, Asia, Edinburgh, Diana, Elen, Corca.

From Calcutta,—Dido, Water Witch, Cleon.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 6th April.	SINGAPORE, 18th June
UNITED STATES, March 15.	MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 26th May.	AMST. 29th May.
BOMBAY, 18th May.	CHUSAN, 5th June.
JAVA, 4th June.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLAR, at the Canton Press Office, Pa do Monte.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquoy also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wines, &c. &c. at the shortest notice.

London Hotel Queen's Road,
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

Wm. ALLANSON,
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrecommandés des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNMAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.

PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.

PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

(Signed) GEORGE MARTIN.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

(Sd.) C. CARNIE.

ALEXANDER DYCE.

By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.

Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIDGE, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIDGE, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed)

W. E. ACRAMAN.

SAMUEL BRIGGS.

R. THURBURN.

F. W. COLLARD.

R. THURBURN.

R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIRON & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Marion, 6th Aug., 1841

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double sea-walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Barque "KATHERINE STEWART FORBES," Capt. HOBBS, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship "INTRINSIC," 537 Tons, N. M. DAVIDSON Commander, now at anchor in the Macao Roads, and can commence loading in three days. Apply to

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIRRIE, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. BULL, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 14th June, 1842.

FOR LIVERPOOL.

THE JOHN HORTON, Capt. CUNNINGHAM, will sail in a few days. For passage only (having good accommodations). Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Barque "ABBOT'S READING" A I 350 Tons, Capt. CRAWFORD, now at Whampoa. Apply to

WETMORE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MARGARIDA, Aquino Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO,

or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 208 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 30th May, 1842.

WANTS A SITUATION as Clerk in a mercantile establishment, a young man lately arrived, who is well acquainted with mercantile business, and understands book keeping. For Particulars apply at the Canton Press Office.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt.; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

LOST on the Praya Grande, or on the road back of the Fort St. Francisco leading to the hill. A bunch of small KEYS, attached to a steel ring. A reward of $10 will be given on delivery of the KEYS to the undersigned, or to Messrs Gibbs Livingston & Co. Macao, 9th June, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "HELENA" in the Typa. American Pilot BREAD, in barrels. do. Navy, do. in air tight Hbds. Navy superior BUTTER in barrels each containing 8 stone Jam of 10 lb packed in salt; apply on board. Macao, 2nd July 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADRINA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKEY, CHAMPAGNE CIDER, SWAIN'S PANACIA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, SPERMARILLI CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLA ROBERTSON" laying in the Typa. Cases of Basson BARR, Le Ross CLARET, OILMAN'S STORES, SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles, Provision RICE, TABLE RICE, GRAIN, CORN ROPE.—Apply on board. 1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DAUNDERR, Pale Burton ALE in Hums per "Anna Bliza." apply to

DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases. CHAMPAGNE Ales 3 do. do. CLARET 3 do. do. SHERRY, PALE in Hbds. SALTZER WATER new. OILMAN'S STORES late imports. BEEF in tins; Pork in barrels. COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodowns of the undersigned, Gambos Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit. A few very neat new Faience Porcelain Dinner SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Mouthpiece SHUV in quart bottle, a 43 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842.

G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—On board the Hamburg Ship-Francoise, in Macao Roads. CLARET, St Julien and St Estephe, HOCK, COGNAC BRANDY, CHAMPAGNE, CHERRY CORDIAL, GLANWARK, &c.

Apply to Captain BERNDT on board.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & FINE WINE, SALTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

A. A. De MELLO.

Macao, 30th May, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. CORN ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

THE CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE.—1,600 picul CHILIAN PIG COPPER on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt. Benjamin, now lying in the Roads; apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. RITCHIE.

Macao, 17th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADREIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KIRKS & Co., apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADREIRA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEAN CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to J. A. DE SILVA. at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Garbo's to B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SULTZBERG and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hhds. PORT and SHERRY in bottle as "Sappho" and Allcock's fine PALE ALE in Hhds. as "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Miss KHAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. Esor's Fables in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
" " for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.

For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had, at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

A LIST OF ARTICLES (THE PRODUCE OF THE EAST INDIES) ON WHICH A MODIFICATION OF THE PRESENT DUTY IS PROPOSED. BY HER MAJESTY'S MINISTERS.

ARTICLES.	Present Rates of Duty	Proposed New Rates of Duty			ARTICLES.	Present Rates of Duty	Proposed New Rates of Duty
		From Foreign Countries	Produce of & from British Possessions.				From Foreign Countries	Produce of & from British Possessions.
Gum. cwt.	£ 1 0	£ 1 0	£ 0 3		Drugs, Dyes, &c. (continued)	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
Spices, Cassia Ligna	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 1		Gum, Arabic cwt.	0 6 0	0 3 0	0 1 6 from British Possessions ..	0 0 6				Shellac	0 6 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
other places	0 1 0				Lac Dye	0 6 0	0 0 1	0 0 1
Cinnamon		0 0 6	0 0 3		Copal	0 6 0	0 0 0	0 3 0
from British Possessions ..	0 0 6				Anini	0 6 0	0 0 0	0 3 0
other places	0 1 0				Kino	0 6 0	0 3 0	0 1 0
Cloves	0 0 6	0 0 6	0 0 3		Indigo	0 0 4	0 0 4	0 0 2
Ginger, Preserved		0 0 6	0 0 1		British Possessions ..	0 0 3 from British Possessions ..	0 0 1				Stick Lac cwt.	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
other places	0 0 6				Rhubarb	0 1 0	0 0 3	0 0 1
Ginger		0 10 0	0 5 0		Saltpetre	0 0 6	0 0 6	0 0 3 from British Possessions ..	0 11 0				Senna lb	0 0 6	0 0 1	0 0 0
other places	2 13 0				Terra Japonica .. cwt.	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Mace	0 2 6	0 2 6	0 1 3		Turmeric	0 10 0	0 1 0	0 0 1
Nutmegs		0 3 6	0 1 9		Vermilion lb	0 0 6	0 0 3	0 0 1
from British Possessions ..	0 2 6				SILK—Manufactures of Silk, or of Silk other places	0 3 6				mixed with any other material, the produce of, and imported from Brit. Possessions, for every £100 of value ..	20 0 0	10 p cent.
Wild, in the Shell	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6		COFFEE	0 1 3	0 0 8	0 0 4
Pimento	0 0 3	0 0 2	0 0 1		The produce of, and imported from, any British Possessions in America, the British Possessions within the limits of the E. I. Co.'s Charter, Sierra Leone, or Mauritius .. lb	0 0 6
Pepper, of all sorts	0 0 6	0 0 6	0 0 3		Imported from any British Possessions within the limits of the E. I. Co.'s Charter, not being the produce thereof .. lb	0 0 9
Sassa, Lanced and Flax ..	0 1 0	cwt 10 0	0 0 6		Imported from any other place within those limits .. lb	0 1 0
Mustard	0 0 0	0 2 6	0 1 3		CANES, Bamboo 1000	0 5 0	0 0 6	0 0 3
Rape	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6		Kattans, not ground	0 5 0	0 5 0	0 3 6
Wood, Ebony, B. F. Ton.	0 3 0		FEATHERS, Ostrich, dressed .. lb	1 10 0	0 10 0	0 5 0
Otherwise	6 10 0	0 10 0	0 2 6		undressed	0 1 0	0 0 3	0 0 1
Sapan Wood	0 1 0	ton 0 5 0	0 3 6		Paddy Bird	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Cocoa-NUT OIL cwt.	0 1 3	0 1 3	0 0 7		JAPANESE OF LACQUERED WARE, 100 value	20 0 0	15 p cent.	7 p cent.
Drugs, Dyes, &c.					SHELLS, Mother-of-Pearl ..	5 0 0	5 0 0	2 10 0
Aloes	0 0 8	0 0 2	0 0 1		TESTS, Elephants' cwt.	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6 of and from British Poss.	0 0 2				Sea-Cow, Sea-Horse, or Sea-Mon	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Borax cwt.	0 4 0	0 2 0	0 1 0
Refined	0 10 0	0 5 0	0 2 6
Utical	0 4 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Camphor	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Refined	2 0 0	0 2 0	0 1 0
Cardamoms	0 1 0	0 0 2	0 0 1
Caoutchouc cwt.	0 1 0	0 1 0	0 0 6
Castor	0 0 6	cwt 2 0	0 1 0
China Root	0 0 3	5 0 3	0 0 1
Cocaine Indules	0 2 6	cwt 0 5 0	0 3 6

As the proposed New Rates of Duties specified above will differ materially between Foreign and British Produce, it will be essentially necessary that all Goods shipped in future should be accompanied by CERTIFICATES, stating that they are of British Growth.

CAPTAIN ELLIOTS OFFICIAL ACCOUNT OF THE CHINESE QUESTION.

(FROM A PARLIAMENTARY PAPER ISSUED ON THE 14TH OF MARCH.)

CHINA.—CAPT. C. ELLIOT, &c.—This is a return to an address of the House of Commons, dated March 7, 1842, for "Copies of any communications which may have been received from Capt. Elliot, explaining or having any bearing upon the transactions with the Chinese authorities, which are referred to in Viscount Canning's letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, of Nov. 3, 1841, but which had not been received at the date of that letter."

We subjoin the following extract of a letter from Capt. Elliot to the Earl of Aberdeen, dated 55, Cadogan-place, January 25, 1842:—

"I must give some account of the circumstances out of which the second movement upon Canton, in May, 1841, arose. The trade of the season was now fairly off, the transactions referred to in Viscount Canning's letter of the 3rd of November, 1841, are the demand and the receipt from the Chinese authorities of the sum of 6,000,000 dollars, under certain articles entered into by these authorities on the 27th of May, 1841.

and I was rid, therefore, of one great anxiety and of the chief motive of remaining at Canton; and, as the spring advanced, it became of importance to set forward northward without further delay, and in order to begin operations before the intense heat should set in. The reinforcements had not arrived, but, nevertheless, on the 18th of May, every arrangement had been completed for an immediate departure up the coast. But though the trade of the season had been sent home, there were still, of course, lives and property and interests of great magnitude to be left behind us at Canton; and during the two months of truce which had elapsed, secret preparations had been made by the Imperial Commissioners in violation of the terms of it, and which threatened danger to these interests and this life and property, if we should leave them without a force adequate for their protection: The obvious purpose of these preparations was, to detain us to the southward till the favourable monsoon for proceeding up the coast had passed away. Thus it became necessary to destroy these preparations. They were of a somewhat formidable nature. Heavy masses of troops had been daily pouring into the city from the other provinces, and the lines of defence between the Dutch and French 'Folies' had been strongly armed and fortified. At length, one of the batteries which we had carried and dismantled in the operations of March (in the Shamden or western suburb) was re-armed, contrary to express understanding, that no re-arming should take place in any of the works we had allowed them to re-occupy. As soon as I had authentically ascertained this fact, I demanded the immediate disappearance of that and every kind of warlike preparation, and declared that I must hold a contrary course to be a violation of the truce. The Chinese authorities evaded these demands, and at once placed us in a situation to strike a heavy and swift blow on the spot, and dismember ourselves of all this preparation before we went northwards. The measure was otherwise very agreeable to my own sense of the public convenience; for I had reason to know that there was a large mass of treasure collected in the Imperial treasury for the purpose of carrying on the war; and it was also desirable to avail ourselves of so suitable an occasion for withdrawing the vessels of war from the river, for operations to the north, as the result of a successful stroke would afford. It had been necessary to keep eight or nine sail constantly in the river (from Whampoa and in the channel upwards) to secure the objects of the convention of March. The definite political purposes in view at the moment were to break up the large contingent force from the other provinces assembled at Canton, to destroy the formidable aggressive preparation of the last two months, and to tame the spirit, and cripple the resources, of the Government, by dismissing the Imperial Commissioners, and leaving a contribution on the Treasury, in part satisfaction of the heavy demands on her Majesty's Government. With these purposes, and after previous concert with the military and naval authorities, I moved them, on the 17th of May, to lose no time in directing the whole force upon Canton, and I repaired there myself the same day, so with proceedings, collect information, and take care that the safety of the merchants remaining there should not be hazarded by too long continuance in the factories. By the 21st of May, the main body of the force had arrived within ten miles of Canton, and having ground to believe, from private and trustworthy sources of information, that the moment of outbreak was at hand, I warned the remaining merchants to depart, and embarked myself on the evening of that day. At eleven p. m. (21st) the enemy opened their attack, with a very steadily-directed attempt to fire the ships of war lying in the immediate neighbourhood of the factories, under cover of a creditable cannonade from the works recently re-armed, and others along shore, which had been well marked, the whole supported by a powerful flotilla, ready to act according to circumstances. But the military operations have been so amply reported that I may spare any further details on those subjects than may be necessary for the narrative purpose of this paper. A flotilla of upwards of 100 sail of armed and fire ships was destroyed; a line of works mounting more than sixty pieces of artillery was carried; and a small British force moved through ground presenting great natural difficulties in the face of a numerous enemy, wrested from the enemy, in the space of eight hours, a line of steep and fortified heights, protected by a well-sustained fire from the city walls, routed a heavy mass of troops posted on the immediate left of their own lines, remaining masters of positions that commanded the northern gates and the whole city of Canton. In this situation, of affairs I was enabled to conclude a convention with the local authorities, by which the Imperial commissioners were subjected to the disgrace of forced departure from the city; the troops from the other provinces were constrained to evacuate, in the sight of our own force, without banners displayed (a sign of humiliation in China); 8,000,000 dollars were received from the Imperial treasury in diminution of the just claims of her Majesty's Government; a further sum of more than £80,000 has been paid in compensation of the losses occasioned by the destruction of the factories, and certain previous violence committed by the Government of Canton; and we were left in a situation forthwith to withdraw the whole armament from the dangerous effect of the river service upon the health of the force for movement to the northward. This is the statement of what was achieved by the brief campaign of less than ten days."

From the London Times, 18th March.

ADDRESS TO THE CROWN.—COMPENSATION FOR OPIUM SEIZED BY THE CHINESE.

MR. LINDSAY rose, in pursuance of notice, to move—"That the house will, upon Thursday, the 7th day of April next, resolve itself into a committee, to consider of the following address to Her Majesty—that is to say, 'That a humble address be presented to Her Majesty, praying that Her Majesty will be graciously pleased to take into consideration the circumstances under which the British merchants and others, subjects of the British Crown, did on the 27th day of March, 1839, upon the requisition of Captain Elliot, superintendent of British trade in Canton, surrender to the said Captain Elliot, for the service of Her Majesty's Government, 20,283 chests of opium, on the assurance of the said Captain Elliot that he, on behalf of Her Majesty's Government, held himself responsible in the fullest and most unreserved manner for the same, and further that compensation for the injury sustained by Her Majesty's subjects was the first of the demands made by Her Majesty upon the Government of China (to enforce which an expedition was sent out), and that a sum of money having now been received from the Government of China, Her Majesty will be graciously pleased to advance to such British merchants and others, on account of their respective losses, to the extent of the sum received from the Chinese Government, after deducting the amount awarded by Her Majesty to the captors, and to assure Her Majesty that this house will make good the same.'"

The hon. member said he had to request the indulgence of the house while he endeavoured to state the case which had been intrusted to him as clearly, and succinctly as it was in his power. The circumstances which had given rise to the case were well known to the house. It would be in the recollection of hon. gentlemen that a large quantity of opium, the property of British merchants, had been delivered to the superintendent of the British trade in China. It was not necessary that at the present time he should enter into the merits or demerits of the trade in opium. It was sufficient for his present argument, in the first place, to prove that the legality of the trade in opium was clearly recognized and sanctioned by the British Government. To prove this he would read, if the house would allow him, a very short extract from the report of the committee of the House of Commons which sat in 1833, in which it was clearly acknowledged that the opium trade was a trade proper to be conducted. After having had all the anomalies of the trade explained to them they came to the conclusion, on the complete information before them, "That in the present state of the revenue of India it does not appear desirable to abandon so important a source of revenue as the opium trade, the duty on opium being one which falls principally on the foreign consumer, and which appears on the whole less liable to objection than any other which can be proposed." Another portion of the report was as follows:—"That it would be imprudent to rely on the opium monopoly as a permanent source of revenue, and that the time might probably not be very far distant when it might be desirable to substitute an export duty, and thus, by the increased production under a system of freedom, to endeavour to obtain some compensation of the loss of the monopoly profit." These words were of some importance to the present case, because it was clear that the crisis which arrived in China was chiefly the consequence of the increased production of British opium which was occasioned by the sanction given to the trade by such authorities as that to which he had referred. His object in making his present address to the house was twofold—first, to endeavour to prove that the honour and character of the country were involved in the full redemption of certain pledges given by Capt. Elliot, on the guarantee of which the British merchants in China surrendered a vast quantity of opium; and, secondly, to endeavour to convince the house that it was desirable, on all grounds of justice and expediency, that those pledges should be redeemed. It was important to show that British subjects trading to China conceived Captain Elliot to be possessed of full authority, which they were bound to obey; and in order to do this he should next proceed to read the words of the act of Parliament and order in Council granting this authority.—"By act 3 and 4 of William IV., his late Majesty was empowered, by commission or warrant under his sign manual, to appoint not exceeding three of His Majesty's subjects to be superintendents of the trade of British subjects to and from China, for the purpose of protecting and promoting such trade; and by any such order or orders, commission or commissions, as to His Majesty in Council should appear expedient and salutary, to give to the superintendents, or any of them, powers and authorities over and in respect of the trade and commerce of His Majesty's subjects within any part of the said dominions; and to make and issue directions and regulations touching the said trade and commerce, and for the government of His Majesty's subjects within the said dominions; and to impose penalties, forfeitures, or imprisonments, for the breach of any such directions and regulations, to be enforced in such manner as in the said order or orders should be specified." He would allow that the act of Parliament was, perhaps, not very satisfactory, as it would presently appear that all that had been done by the order in Council was to invest Captain Elliot with the powers held by the supercargo of the East India Company. In pursuance of this act of Parliament, an order was made by his late Majesty in Council, on the 9th of December, 1833, by which it was ordered "that all the powers and authorities which, on the 21st day of April, 1834, should by law be vested in the supercargoes of the East India Company, over and in respect of the trade and commerce of His Majesty's subjects at the port of Canton, should be, and the same were thereby, vested in the superintendents for the time being appointed under and by virtue of the said act of Parliament." The authority of the East India Company's supercargo enabled them to deport from the country British subjects misconducting themselves, to take away licenses from ships, and to exercise general control over the trade of the company to China. So great was the impulse given by the East India Company to the opium trade, with the view of increasing the revenue derived from it, that it at length extended over the whole coast of China, and established itself without the port of Canton, thereby greatly endangering the regular and legal trade. As a proof of the authority exercised by Captain Elliot, he would read to the house the following order issued on the 18th of December, 1838, to which due obedience was paid:—"December 18, 1838.—I, Charles Elliot, chief superintendent of the trade of British subjects in China, moved by urgent considerations of all Her Majesty's subjects engaged in the trade of Canton, do hereby formally give notice and require, that all British-owned schooners, cutters, and otherwise rigged small craft, either habitually or occasionally engaged in the illicit opium traffic within the Bocca Tigris, should proceed forth of the same within the space of three days from the date of these presents, and not return within the Bocca Tigris, being engaged in the said illicit opium traffic." The British subjects to whom these vessels belonged obeyed the order of the superintendent, and retired out of the river. He need not enter into the particulars of the crisis produced at Canton by the arrival of commissioner Lin. Captain Elliot was not in Canton at the moment when the first arbitrary measures were taken, but hearing that the lives of British subjects were in danger, he, with that frank courage and gallantry which distinguished his character,—for so be (Mr. Lindsay) must admit, however much he might differ from the gallant officer on some points,—immediately repaired to that city. They had heard a high authority in that house, who was borne out by the great name of the Duke of Wellington, declare that Capt. Elliot was perfectly justified in acting thus. On arriving at Canton, he found that a great crisis had occurred; all the British subjects were in prison, and Capt. Elliot immediately said, on the moment of his arrival, that he would take on himself the whole charge and responsibility of the measure to be taken. He would now read the public notice of Captain Elliot, on which the whole case rested, and the question for the house to decide would be, whether the country was or was not responsible for what Captain Elliot did on that occasion. The notice was addressed to British subjects in Canton and was dated March 27, 1839.—"I, Charles Elliot, chief superintendent of the trade of British subjects in China, presently forcibly detained in Canton by the provincial Government, together with all the merchants of my own and the other foreign nations settled here, without supplies of food, deprived of our servants, and cut off from all intercourse with our respective countries (notwithstanding my own official demand to be set at liberty, so that I might act without restraint), have now received the commands of the high commissioner, issued directly to me under the seal of the hon. officers, to deliver into his hands all the opium held by the people of my country. Now I, the said chief superintendent, that constrained by paramount motives affecting the safety of the lives and liberty of all the foreigners here present in Canton, and by other very weighty causes, do hereby, in the name and on the behalf of Her Britannic Majesty's Government, enjoin and require all Her Majesty's subjects now present in Canton, forthwith to make a surrender to me, for the service of her said Majesty's Government, to be delivered over to the Government of China, of all the opium belonging to them, or British opium under their respective control; and to hold the British ships and vessels engaged in the trade of opium subject to my immediate direction, as I do forward to me without delay a sealed list of all the British owned opium in their respective possession. And I, the said chief superintendent, do now, in the most full and unreserved manner, hold myself responsible for, and on the behalf of Her Britannic Majesty's Government, to all and each of Her Majesty's subjects surrendering the said British owned opium into my hands, to be delivered over to the Chinese Government. And I, the said chief superintendent, do further specially caution all Her Majesty's subjects here present in Canton, owners of or charged with the management of opium, the property of British subjects, that, failing the surrender of the said opium into my hands at or before 6 o'clock this day, I, the said chief superintendent, hereby declare Her Majesty's Government wholly free of all manner of responsibility or liability in respect of the said British owned opium. And it is specially to be understood, that proof of British property and value of all British opium surrendered to me agreeably to this notice shall be determined upon principles and in a manner hereafter to be defined by Her Majesty's Government. Given under my hand and seal of office at Canton, in China, this 27th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1839, at 6 of the clock in the morning.—CHARLES ELLIOT, chief superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China." It would be seen, from what he had read, that Captain Elliot enjoined British subjects in China to deliver up their property for the service of the Government of Great Britain. He (Mr. Lindsay) would at once grant that the Chinese Government would have been justified in seizing all the opium on the coast of China if they had been able to do so. But they had not done so; they had not dared to attempt it. The opium surrendered to Captain Elliot was entirely out of the power of the Chinese, and a large portion of it had already been ordered away from China, and was sailing down the Chinese coast to Singapore. At the urgent request of the superintendent it was brought back again, in order to be delivered to him. He would not maintain that the country was responsible for any acts which might be done by a foreign Minister in a distant country, because some of those acts might be so injudicious and erroneous, that the country would be quite justified in repudiating them, especially if they involved anything derogatory to the character of the country. But when any acts were done by a foreign Minister for the purpose of forwarding a series of great political events, and when the Government of the country approved generally of their scope and tenor, it was impossible, with any regard to the honour of the country, to repudiate a certain portion of them. Did the late Government then disapprove of the scope and tenor of Captain Elliot's proceedings? Far from it. They approved them most highly, say, more, the Duke of Wellington, in the other house, expressed his general approbation of them. The home Government immediately raised him to the dignity of Peer of the realm, and empowered him to carry on negotiations of the highest consequence with the empire of China. With regard to the sums of money that had been obtained by Her Majesty's Government from the Chinese authorities, he would read an extract from the letter of Captain Elliot to Lord Aberdeen, printed in return to an order of the House of commons:—The definite political purposes in view at the moment were to break up the large contingent force from the other provinces assembled at Canton, to destroy the formidable aggressive preparations of the last two months, and to tame the spirit and cripple the resources of the Government, by disarming the imperial commissioners, and levying a contribution on the treasury in part satisfaction of the heavy demands of Her Majesty's Government.... In this situation of affairs, I was enabled to conclude a convention with the local authorities, by which the imperial commissioners were subjected to the disgrace of forced departure from the city; the troops from the other provinces were constrained to evacuate in the sight of our own force without banners displayed (a sign of humiliation in China); 6,000,000 dollars were recovered from the Imperial Treasury in diminution of the just claims of Her Majesty's Government; a further sum of more than 80,000,000 has been paid in compensation of the losses occasioned by the destruction of the factories, and certain previous violence committed by the Government of Canton; and we were left in a situation forthwith to withdraw the whole armament from the dangerous effects of the river service upon the health of the force for movement to the northward. This fact ought to be taken in connexion with the statement of the noble lord, the late leader of the House of commons (Lord J. Russell), relative to the object of the Chinese expedition. The noble lord was asked, what was the object of these preparations? The answer was, that "In the first place they were to obtain reparation for the insults and injuries offered to Her Majesty's superintendent and Her Majesty's subjects by the Chinese Government; and in the second place, they were to obtain for the merchants, trading with China indemnification for the loss of their property incurred by threats of violence offered by persons under the direction of the Chinese Government." With reference to the compensation granted to persons who had sustained loss in consequence of the measures of the Chinese, he would take this opportunity of directing the attention of Government to the claim of Joseph Coolidge, an American citizen, which, from the singularity of the circumstances attending it, and the exorbitant amount of it, had excited much curiosity. It was as follows:—

Office Furniture	1640
House Furniture	4370
Wardrobe	1800
Comprodor's and servants effects	1300
Books	400
Cow and dog	350
Some item not remembered by us	300
	10,360
Add 100 per cent for inconvenience	10,360
Loss of office books	5000
Loss of private books	1000
Repairs of the Factory	2000
Cash taken from the treasury about	5100

Making a sum total of....$33,710.44

He (Mr Lindsay) should be glad to know on what the claims of this gentleman, the amount of which, it appeared from the return of the compensation money, was immediately paid over to him, consisted? This person had obtained 100 per cent. upon the value of his cow and dog, and the article not remembered by him. Chinese subjects were deprived of their property; while the outrageous claim of this American citizen was paid in full. He (Mr Lindsay) had now concluded the first branch of his argument. He now wished to make a few remarks on the question of the political expediency of granting compensation to these parties; and with this view, he would read a few extracts from the report of the select committee appointed to investigate the grievances complained of in the petition of merchants interested in the China trade, presented on the 24th of March, 1840. He believed that the first object of the appointment of a committee to inquire into these embarrassing and difficult points was, that they might give a clear and definite opinion on the merits or demerits of the claims. The committee collected together a vast deal of information, but they expressed no opinion, and he could not but think that there must have been a feeling in their minds that it would be a difficult matter to give an opinion militating against the claims. Out of the 20,283 chests of opium surrendered to the Chinese, five sixths or four-fifths belonged to native merchants of India; and he would read a letter, written by a native merchant, and which was produced in the evidence of Mr Malcolmson. The letter was as follows:—"The poor natives are not to be blamed for having traded in opium, but the East India Company, who have in every way fostered the trade, and are now drawing an immense revenue from the same. You will be surprised when we tell you, that notwithstanding all that has occurred, you

This is a mistake; the items were all enumerated in the memorandum given by Mr. Coolidge to Capt. Elliot; but the above enumeration was taken from the Canton Press; we gave it from memory, and the item was not remembered by us. Ed. C. P.

today's Government gazette contained the usual annual proclamation for the granting of passes for the Malwa, O. tun, and we learn from Calcutta that the Supreme Government intend to bring forward 15,000 chests of Patna and 7,500 chests of Benares opium, now ready in their godowns, and that none of the opium agencies are to be discontinued. We enclose for your perusal an extract on this subject:—"The Indian Government have taken no steps whatever to check the sale or growth of the drug, but continue to draw immense profits from a trade that they pretend to call contraband. It is honourable, is it dignified, for a Government to foster a trade that is contraband, and by which their subjects will ultimately be ruined? If the Home Government wish, there will be no difficulty in putting an entire stop to the trade, and thereby relieve the poor natives, who easily fall into so seducing, but at the same time most dangerous trade. Does it not appear ridiculous that on the one hand Captain Elliot delivers up 20,000 chests, while on the other the Indian Government are bringing forward for sale upwards of 40,000 chests more?" Another letter, dated Bombay, January 29, 1840, written by another native merchant, stated, "If your good nation does not come forward, and openly give some assurance for the opium indemnity, you may depend that many respectable men will put an end to their lives. We have already seen two instances, and many more will occur in the interior, as men of high spirit and ancient family cannot bear the disgrace of appealing to the insolvent law. We are ourselves confident that the Government will ultimately redeem the pledge of their own officer, but what will be the use when the mischief is done?" Nevertheless, a long time had now elapsed, and yet no relief had been afforded to these parties. It was stated in another letter from a native Bombay merchant, a man whose character and conduct stood so high that he had been judged fit to receive the honour of knighthood, and was the first native that obtained that distinction:—"The question now rests between the two Governments of England and China, and it is for the former to determine what course to pursue for the recovery of the property surrendered by Her Majesty's representative, whose pledge, we should consider, must be binding, as else all faith in the Government will be at an end. Our property has been peacefully surrendered for the service of our Sovereign, on the unreserved full pledge of Her Majesty's superintendent that the full value should be repaid to us, and, in our opinion, it now only remains to hasten forward the settlement of these unconcated claims." The letter concluded in the following terms:—"Had the British Parliament disallowed the continuance to the company of the opium monopoly, and branded its name as contraband and immoral, then the question would have been materially altered, and every man would have traded on his own risk; but, by the course pursued, a pledge was given, which must be fulfilled, and which we and all others are entitled to reckon upon without a shadow of a doubt. We rest upon the honour and integrity of the British Government." He put it then to the house, would not the refusal of compensation shake the confidence of every native of India in the "honour and integrity of the British Government?" (Hear.) He implored the house to consider on what was based the power by which this country ruled over the countless millions of India. It was the power of public opinion, and the confidence entertained by the natives that this country was prepared to act with perfect faith and honesty. (Hear.) What was it that had kept the native troops of India faithful in times of difficulty? It was the confidence reposed in the promises made by the Government of this country, whatever party might be in office. What induced the natives of India to come to our courts of justice, and feel a willingness to submit their cases to be judged by natives of a distant country comparatively ignorant of the usages of their country? What was it, but a feeling of confidence, that by doing so they would always obtain justice? (Hear, hear.) They all had recently to deplore the occurrence of a great disaster in India; but he apprehended that two such disasters would not be so fatal to the supremacy of England in that empire as any one act which should shake the confidence of its natives in the "honour and integrity" of the British nation. (Cheers.) There was not a district in India where many of the natives would not be reduced to poverty, unless the pledge given by Capt. Elliot were fully and honourably redeemed; and the present was not a time for inflicting a blow on the character of this country. (Hear.) He must confess that he had not met with much encouragement on his application on this subject from the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and he now begged to appeal from the Chancellor of the Exchequer to the hon. member for the University of Cambridge, in his character of a liberal and high-minded statesman. He entreated the right hon. gentleman to look, in that capacity, at the question in all its bearings on the honour and character of this country, rather than to consider it as a mere money question. He begged also to appeal to the noble lord who had lately presided over the foreign affairs of this country. He had great pleasure, not only in bearing his humble testimony to the noble lord's urbanity in all official intercourse, which was a valuable quality in a Minister, but in acknowledging the value of one of his last official acts—the sending to China of that distinguished officer, Sir H. Pottinger, who, he believed, was admirably fitted to bring affairs to a settlement on a proper and honourable basis. (Hear, hear.) The house, however, concluded by proposing the motion of which he had given notice.

EUROPE.

From the Monthly Times, 4th April.

Arrangements are in progress by which, at no distant period, the communication between this country and India, will take place every fortnight. We know that great activity prevails on the part of the Peninsular and Oriental Company to accomplish this undertaking, and that they are quite alive to the urgent necessity of such increased frequency of communication. The Freemason will in all probability become the property of the Peninsular and Oriental Company, and will materially assist the changes in hand.

Who is to be the new Commander-in-Chief in India? There is no doubt on the subject, provided two difficulties can be overcome. Sir Thomas MacMahon and Sir Hugh Gough, are both senior to Sir Henry Hardinge, and therefore, notwithstanding the anxiety that exists to appoint Sir Henry Hardinge, unless local rank can be conferred, India will lose Sir Henry's valuable services. This question is just now a puzzle at the Horse Guards.

At a Meeting of the creditors of Acraman, Morgan and Co. at Bristol, on the 4th, it was unanimously resolved to give the partners time, to complete their existing contracts, to the 31st December, and to wind up the concern under the inspection of five gentlemen named.

The Naval and Military Gazette says, "Sir Benjamin D'Urban goes to India as Commander-in-Chief." We think this a premature notification. It is in contemplation to send a distinguished officer to command the whole force west of the India, and this officer may be Sir Benjamin D'Urban; but the appointment, for certain reasons, will not be made for some days to come.

The Gazette de l'Alger of the 15th ult., publishes a letter from Algiers, of the 10th, announcing that General Bugeaud had concluded a treaty of peace with all the chiefs of the Regency, to each of whom he had promised to pay a sum of 50,000fr.; and the Constitutionnel says that Ab-del-Kader is now wandering about, accompanied only by his brother and some slaves. The Emir, from his loss of power, and from his being abandoned by those whom he had brought up, has become exceedingly suspicious and distrustful. His former kalifs, Mustapha Ben Thiemy and the Kaid of Mascara, no longer come near him, and he often goes ten leagues without his attendants knowing anything of the matter.

DECIMAL WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The report of the Scientific Commission, composed of Professor Airey, Sir John Herschel, Mr. Lubbock, and other persons distinguished in science, appointed to inquire into the present standard weights and measures, proposes, among others, three important points:—1st A system of decimal computation to be adopted in all weights, measures, and monies; 2nd, The total abolition of true weight and substitution of avoirdupois; and 3rd, Correction of the local standards of the kingdom, which are at present highly imperfect, and the revision of the laws relating to their examination by inspectors, and the preservation of proper model standards.

Messrs. Colnaghi and Puckle have just published a very beautiful lithographed print of "The Conference between Sir James Gordon Bremer and the Chinese Admiral Chang." It forms a singularly striking picture—the group of British officers at one end of the "hall of conference" (the cabin of Her Majesty's ship Wellington), and the Chinese functionaries at the other. Seated at the table are Sir Harry Darrell (to whose pencil we are indebted for the drawing of this print), Brigadier Burrell and Sir G. Bremer, and in the background the Captain, and the handsome figure of the military secretary, Lord Jocelyn. What a commentary upon Chinese diplomacy is furnished by the stately and wily looks of the commissioners and mandarins at the other end of the table! If ever the pandora's box could be read in the face of man, there is it stamped in most legible characters. The sombre figure of the interpreter, the Rev. Charles Gutzlaff, between the uniforms of our officers and that picturesque costumes of the Chinese, has a very good effect. It is altogether an admirable print of a very interesting scene.

A report has just been presented to the King of the French by the Minister of Marine, which shows that our neighbours are animated by a very different spirit. It is proposed to do away with all the French steamers of war between 150 and 220 horse power, or rather to substitute larger vessels for them, reserving the present small-class steamers for the packet service. The whole steam-navy of France is therefore to consist of five steam-frigates of 540 horse power, 15 steam-frigates of 450 horse power, 25 steam-corvettes of from 320 to 220 horse power, and 30 steam-boats of inferior size—in all 70 steam-vessels, of which 40 will be complete ships of war. This very considerable force, however, exists at present only on paper. The establishments of Indret, and the French arsenals, are still unable to equip steam vessels of the largest size with anything like the promptitude of our dock-yards or great private steam-shipbuilders. Of the number proposed in the report of Admiral Duperre, 23 have yet to be commenced, mounting in all 8,930 horse power; and supposing the contracts to be taken up at 3,600 francs, or £ 144 for every horse power, the construction of these vessels will require no less than 29,952,000*fr.* or £ 1,900,000 sterling; the completion of seven other vessels which are begun will require about £ 180,000 sterling more; so that it is proposed to vote not much less than a million and a half sterling for the increase of the steam-navy of France, at the rate of about £ 140,000 a year for ten years.

In addition to the numerous steam-frigates at present in commission there are 19 new ones now building at the various dock-yards:—The Centaure, Beletrab, Thunderbolt, (recently launched), and the Scurge, at Portsmouth; Bulldog, Rocket and Virago, at Chatham; the Cormorant, Rattle, and Ruby, at Sheerness; the Infernal, Gladiator, Sampson, and Sphinx, at Woolwich; the Infestade, Janus, Spitfire, Sydenham & Pulvere, at Pembroke. The Thunderbolt is now completely rigged, and will sail shortly for Glasgow, to be fitted with her engines.

PURCHASES, &c.—The committee appointed to inquire into the allowances, &c., of this class of officers in her Majesty's navy, have made their report to the Admiralty. It has been approved, and will very shortly appear in print. The following are some of the recommendations:—The first 50 to be allowed the option of retiring from the active list on a half pay of 8*s.* 6*d.* a day hereafter, this retired list is only to consist of 30 and, as vacancies occur the senior to have the offer of being placed on it. The half pay of the others to be increased 1*s.* a day. Thus, the first 100, to have 7*s.*; the next 200, 6*s.*; and the remainder 5*s.* a day, half pay. To be allowed to draw imprest bills on the Paymaster General as follows:—Pursers in all rates down to the fourth, inclusive, 5*s.* a man a year for the full complement of the ship; rates below fourth rates, 4*s.* a man a year. These bills to be discharged against the balance bills due at the end of the pursers' time: this is a great boon as it will save them borrowing money from their agents while the accounts are in office. Goals to be issued from the dockyard, and charged to pursers at the contract price; weights, measures, and fighting lanterns, to be issued as ship stores. Pursers to have a cabin with daylight in 1st, 2nd, and 3rd rates, to be on the lower and middle deck, and to have an office adjoining. An extra clerk allowed to the ship, Pursers allowed to be a second class petty officer. Pursers allowed boy to assist clerk. In future to be styled Naval Paymasters. The tenths and per centage on tobacco and spirits to be continued.—Naval and Military Gazette.

QUALIFICATION OF SHIPMASTERS AND MATES IN THE MERCHANT SERVICE.—Captain Fitzroy M. P., Mr. William Baird, M. P., Mr. Gill, M. P., Mr. Alexander Johnston, M. P., Mr. George Dunan, M. P., Mr. John Dennistoun, M. P., with Mr. Wardlaw, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of Glasgow; Mr. A. McDowell, of Glasgow; Mr. R. Henderson, of Mining Lane; Mr. John Fleming of Clairmont; Mr. Knox and Mr. Deans, had a conference with the President and Vice President of the Board of Trade, on the 10th ult., on the subject of a proposed legislative measure to establish boards in various parts of the country, for ascertaining, by examination, the qualifications of masters and mates in the marine merchants service.

SALE OF NAVAL COMMISSIONS.—The following is the plan for the purchase of naval commissions; as propounded by the Hon. Captain Ross, in his speech on the Naval Estimates. We must ask the gallant capt. why commanders should pay the same sum for a post commission when they have been three years at sea as if they had only completed one year's sea service? and what security be gives to widows, that they should receive their pensions on the death of an improvident husband? The plan, although it may contain the nucleus of a future arrangement, is faulty as regards the valuable hard-working officer, who has no money, inasmuch as he must always invariably serve 26 years before he can command a rated ship—namely, six years as midshipman, four as mate, eight as lieutenant, and eight as commander—he is then 40 years of age; and where, we would ask Capt. Ross, are his young admirals to come from? Still, however, he has started an idea which may be improved on, and then work well, but we are sure he is too much a lady's man to forget the widows. The Government to apply a sum of money annually, as a fund for purchasing out officers, to which will be added the following sources:—Every commander promoted before he has served three years in sea-going ships as commander, if under 4 years standing on the list, to pay 1,200*l.*; if under 3 ditto, 800*l.*; if under 2 ditto, 550*l.*; if under 1 ditto, 350*l.*; if under 8 ditto, 200*l.*; above 8 years to pay nothing. Every lieutenant promoted before he has served three years in a sea-going ship as a lieutenant, if under 5 years standing in that rank, to pay 800*l.*; if under 4 ditto, 450*l.*; if under 3 ditto, 250*l.*; if under 2 ditto, 150*l.*; above 2 years, to pay nothing. Every mate promoted before he has completed one year in a sea-going ship as mate, to pay 300*l.*; under 2 years, 400*l.*; under 4 years, 100*l.*; above 4 years, to pay nothing. These regulations not to affect officers promoted for distinguished services. Officers having been promoted by purchase not to claim any ulterior benefit. Officers who have sold out to retain their rank. Captains, commanders, and Lieutenants, who have served more than eighteen years in any one rank, or whose total length of service exceeds 40 years, to be allowed to retire on a certain allowance to be fixed by Government.

THE LATE CAPTAIN SKYRING, R. N.—It will be recollected that the late scientific and much-respected officer, Commander Skyring, of her Majesty's surveying ship Etna, fell a sacrifice to the savage cruelty of the natives, on the coast of Africa, in December, 1833, when in the act of taking his observations on shore. It gives us great pleasure to state that the Earl of Haddington, as First Lord of the Admiralty, has bestowed on Mrs. Skyring, the situation of housekeeper at Somerset House, which will enable the afflicted widow to support and bring forward her young family.

MISCELLANEOUS OBITUARY.

THE DUKE OF NORFOLK.—We have to record the death of his grace the Duke of Norfolk, who expired on the 16th ult. at his late residence in St. James's-square. The noble Duke had been unwell for some time past, but for the last few days he was considered better, and as late as the 12th was walking in the Park. On the 15th he was taken unwell, he shortly afterwards, however, recovered, but at two o'clock on the 16th his grace was seized with a fit of apoplexy, which terminated fatally. The late Bernard Edward Howard, Duke of Norfolk, Earl of Arundel, Surrey, and Norfolk, and Baron Fitzalan, Clun, Oswaldestry, and Maltravers, in the Peerage of England, was eldest son of Mr. Henry Howard, of Glossop, Derbyshire, and Juliana, second daughter of Sir Wm. Molyneux, Bart. He was born 21st of November, 1765, and was consequently in his 77th year. The noble Duke was Hereditary Marshall of England, Knight of the Garter, F.R.S. &c. &c. is succeeded by his only son, Henry Charles, Earl of Surrey, born the 12th of August, 1791, and married, 27th of Dec., 1814 Lady Charlotte Leveson Gower, eldest daughter of the late Duke of Sutherland.

LADY GEORGE HILL.—The Marquis of Downshire and Lord and Lady Marcus Hill have received the mournful intelligence of the death of this estimable lady, which took place on the 14th ult. at his lordship's seat in Ireland, after an illness of only three days. Her ladyship was confined on the 13th of a daughter. Her ladyship leaves a youthful family of four children, two sons and two daughters. The deceased lady was youngest daughter of Mr. Edward Knight, and married Lord George Hill, youngest son of the late Marquis of Downshire, Oct. 21, 1834. The Marquis and Marchioness of Downshire, Earl and Countess of Hillsborough, Lord Sandys, Lord and Lady Marcus Hill, &c., are placed in mourning by the death of her ladyship.

LADY LELAND.—Her ladyship, who was relict of the late Major General Sir George Leland, K. C. B., died at her residence in Portman-street, on the 2nd ult., having survived Sir George only six weeks. She was daughter of T. Wright Vaughan, Esq., Moulsey, Surrey, and was married to the late Sir George Leland in 1798.

LORD TOWNHAM.—Henry Francis Roper Curzon, 14th Lord Pezimham, died on the 7th ult., of apoplexy, in Curzon-street, in the 74th year of his age. His Lordship is succeeded by his eldest son, the Hon. Henry Roper Curzon.

KIRKMAN FINLAY, Esq.—We regret to announce that Mr. Kirkman Finlay expired on the 4th ult. at his residence, Toward Castle, Argyleshire. Mr. Finlay, during a long life, has been frequently before the public, in various capacities, and of course his public principles and conduct have been variously regarded by different persons. As an authority on commercial questions no man held a higher position in Parliament than Mr. Finlay, and his services in helping to break up the East India monopoly will long be gratefully remembered by many of his fellow citizens.

SIR WILLIAM BEATTY, M. D.—We regret to announce that Sir William Beatty, M. D., F.R.S. late physician to her Majesty's fleet and Greenwich Hospital, died at an early hour on the 23rd ult., at his residence in York-street, Portman-square. He had served his country long and faithfully in all climes, and had the melancholy duty of being officially present at the death of his distinguished commander, the hero of Trafalgar. It may justly be said of Sir William Beatty that his whole professional life seemed to accord with the sentiment expressed in Nelson's last and ever-memorable signal to the fleet.

LORD NELSON'S SISTER.—Mrs. Catherine Metcham, relict of the late George Metcham, Esq., of Ashford Lodge, in the county of Sussex, daughter of the late Rev. Edward Nelson, rector of Burnham Thorpe, in the county of Norfolk, and only surviving sister of the late Admiral Lord Viscount Nelson, Esq., died on the 23rd ult., at her residence in Holland-street, Kensington, in the 78th year of her age.

THE HON. MRS. FRANCES ERKINE.—This venerable lady, who was relict of the late Hon. Major Erskine, brother to the late John Francis Erskine, Earl of Mar, died at Edinburgh on the 17th ult.

THE EARL OF MACCLESFIELD.—This nobleman expired on the 20th ult., at his town residence in Conduit street. His lordship had for some months past been confined to his bed. The deceased, George Parker, was Earl of Macclesfield, county Chester, Viscount Parker, of Ewelin, county Oxford, and Baron Parker, of Macclesfield. In the peerage of Great Britain, and eldest son of Thomas, third Earl of Macclesfield, by Mary, eldest daughter of the late Sir William Heathcote, Bart. He was born the 16th February, 1755, and had, consequently attained the great age of eighty-seven years. The deceased, who succeeded to the title 9th February, 1795, married, 25th May, 1786, Mary Frances, second daughter and co-heir of the late Rev. Thomas Drake, D. D., and by her ladyship, who died in 1822, the noble earl had issue, Lady Maria born 23d January, 1791 (the Countess of Haddington), and the Hon. George, who died when an infant. The late earl, in 1768, represented Minehead in the House of Commons. He was Comptroller of the King's (George III.) Household from 1791 to 1797, and from being appointed a Privy Councillor in 1791 on being selected, by his Majesty to fill that situation in the royal household, was the eldest member of the Privy Council, with the exception of Viscount St. John, who was appointed the same year. He was Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the county of Oxford, High Steward of Henley, a Doctor of Civil Law, and a Fellow of the Royal Society. The noble earl is succeeded in the family honours and estates by his only brother the Hon. Thomas Parker.

London Times, 2nd March.

CONFISCATED OPIUM.

Mr. Lindsay said he understood that instructions had been sent out to the Government of India to ascertain the value of the opium which had been surrendered to Capt. Elliot. The right hon. member had referred to those instructions on Thursday last, and perhaps he would now state their purport. He wished also to know whether a full opportunity would be given to the parties interested to press their claims for compensation.

Sir R. Peel said the instruction on the subject of the value of opium, to which he had referred on Thursday were given in December last, and he had not the slightest objection to read the purport of them for the information of his hon. friend. The Lords of the Treasury (continued the right hon. baronet, reading from a paper in his hand) directed that the Supreme Government of India should be instructed to cause a full and searching inquiry to be instituted at the earliest possible period into the actual value which each description of opium confiscated by the Chinese authorities in the months of March and April, 1839, bore in the market at the time when the confiscation took place; and that the result of this inquiry, with copies of the evidence and other documents connected with the subject, should be communicated to my lords, together with any remarks which the Governor-General in Council might think proper to make in elucidation of the subject. He had no doubt whatever that the Governor-General would direct the inquiry to be made in the fullest and most satisfactory manner. With respect to the other part of the hon. gentleman's inquiry, he was unable to return any satisfactory answer. The Governor-General would remit to this country not merely the report which might be made, but the evidence taken on the subject.

accounted for. Time, and time alone, will prove whether Hongkong is to be a place possessing a thriving trade or a receptacle for all the scoundrels of the immediate neighbourhood. I certainly myself incline to the former opinion.—Believe me,

Yours truly,
BOB SHORT.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

With the exception of a Strait's Messenger of 14th July, we have received during the week nothing later than we were previously in possession of.

We have therefore no Europe or Indian News, but have copied entire Mr. Lindsay's speech on the Opium question, and that gentleman's enquiry of Sir Robert Peel as to the means taken by Government to ascertain the value of the Opium surrendered to the Chinese, to which Sir Robert replied that directions had been forwarded to India in December last to the Governor General, that the necessary information may be obtained. We have not, however, as yet, heard that any official enquiries on the subject have been made here, and without such, we imagine, the truth cannot be arrived at; for even supposing that the indemnity is hereafter to be paid according to invoice cost, it is only in China that this can be satisfactorily known.

From the north we have had no arrival during the week, although the new Expedition must all have arrived sometime since; nor do we learn that there are any reports among the Chinese, come overland, as to the movements of the British Force.

We understand that a report has reached here of a vessel having been cast away on the Island of Hainan—we have not heard further particulars.

The licentiousness of the crews of the Opium-vessels at Whampoa has become a matter of very serious consideration. Not many days since a Manila man, belonging to one of them, went ashore and helped himself from a garden, to some lychees; the owner thereupon remonstrated with him, whereupon the Manila man drew his knife, and killed the Chinese on the spot. When this outrage became known at Canton, the Hongmerchants convened a meeting, on the 3rd, of all foreign merchants at Canton, and desired the British merchants to address the Admiral, in order that the Opium-vessels might be removed out of the river. Under present circumstances, of course, no such step can be taken by the British merchants, nor is it likely the Admiral would listen to their representations, were they to make them; at the same time it is most deplorable that crimes of the deepest dye should thus be allowed to go unpunished. We believe that for the present this affair has been hushed up, by the payment of a considerable sum to the friends of the murdered man, by the agents of the vessel and the Hongmerchants.

We think it ridiculous that any secrecy as to who are the Editors of the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, should still be supposed to exist. The Revd. J. L. Shuck told us (the Editor of the Canton Press) that he and Mr. White, late Alderman of London, were the joint editors; if any can have had any doubt on the subject, this information, we suppose, will remove it.

We translated last week from O Portuguez na China a few lines the purport of which was that the Governor of Macao had resigned, and that the government of the City had been assumed by the Judge, the vigario apostolical, and the commandant of the Principe Regente battalion. On Friday week last a portion of that battalion formed in Senate square, and supported by, we believe, a great number of citizens, it was demanded that the important trust of the government of the city could not be transferred without the deliberations of a general assembly, which was accordingly convened for the day following. This assembly was attended by all the authorities and great number of citizens, and a deputation was sent to the (then) late Governor, asking his attendance. On the Governor's arrival, the government was again pressed upon him with such earnestness that he at last accepted it, and we perceive from some proclamations contained in O Portuguez na China that H. E. continues as before at the head of the government here. The Commandant of the Battalion of the Prince Regent meanwhile has been deposed, and the officer next in seniority put in command.

We perceive that our Cotemporary of Hongkong, gives to that settlement the designation of "future capital of Anglo China," and we might be content that he should continue in his delusions respecting the future destinies of that new settlement, were it not that exaggerations such as these, put forth by a local press, may be the cause of much mischief in misleading the public. It is well known that up to the present moment no assurance has been given by the British Government, that Hongkong is to be retained; on the contrary, it is shrewdly suspected that, should its retention prove an obstacle to the conclusion of a favorable commercial treaty, it will again be relinquished. We firmly believe that the object England wishes to attain by this war, is not territorial aggrandizement, although the circumstances of the war, and the continued obstinacy of the court at Peking, may possibly lead to a temporary occupation of one or more of the Provinces; but this only as a means of forcing the Chinese to comply with the demands of the English government. We believe the latter contemplates nothing more than satisfaction for insults, reparation for the losses its subjects have sustained, probably payment of the expenses of the expedition, and a treaty by which British interests, political as well as commercial, are secured, with the necessary guarantees for its due observation. England can have no wish still more to increase its already overgrown Empire in the East, and it is doing an injury to its Government to impute to it schemes of ambition which most probably it never entertained. Therefore, talking of an Anglo-China that is to be, is calculated to do mischief, and we would recommend to our cotemporary to be careful of not injuring other by far more important interests, in his endeavors to puff Hongkong into greater importance than it deserves. Besides, allowing for a moment the possibility that any part of the Globe was at no distant time to be called Anglo China, as having fallen under British sway; is it likely that a town on a small island, without any resources in itself, could ever become the capital of a vast country? We might as well suppose London on the Isle of Man or one of the Orkney Islands, or Paris on the Isle d'Oleron; all which places are as to internal resources far superior to the Island of Hongkong, which has nothing but its port to recommend it. As to the future fortune of Hongkong we are still of the opinion we expressed on the 18th May last year, which we now take the liberty to reprint.

"We by no means under-value Hongkong—we think its possession and colonization to be of very considerable importance; its situation at the mouth of a noble river, for centuries the highway of the foreign commerce of the empire, and its splendid harbour, are advantages not to be slighted; but they are advantages which will become available only, in their full extent, if the English by their present armament gain nothing but the possession of the island. Should, however, this warfare ultimately lead, and this we think not unlikely, to giving the Chinese a proper estimate of their own overvalued importance, and of the relative power of foreign nations, their treatment of them will likewise become more rational, and foreigners may then safely dwell among them, without fearing for their liberty or property. If such should be the result of the war, then the possession of Hongkong will be of little more value than as an hostage for the good faith of the Chinese; for the trade will continue to flow in its old accustomed channels, and not seek out a location where a population is still to be formed, and hitherto only inhabited by a few fishermen, smugglers and banditti. We have therefore shown we think that only in case of the Expedition to China falling to a great extent in the objects it has in view, Hongkong is likely to become a place of great commercial importance; people therefore, contemplating to lay out their money in building at Hongkong, will do well to consider, first, whether the measures

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir.—I was considerably more amused than edified in perusing the production of an Old Bird in your Cotemporary's last number, had not the writer intimated his pretension to seniority by his signature. I should certainly have guessed it as the composition of a very testy old fellow desirous of venting his spleen upon something or other, and for this purpose had pitched upon the unfortunate Friend of Hongkong.

Altho' my ideas regarding this settlement are not so sanguine of the Friend's appear to be, still I think he has advanced much more in favor than the Old Bird has stated against the place. The First, Second, Third and Fourth paragraph of the Old Bird's Letter, need no comment; they are no doubt all very witty in their way, but will not I fancy be deemed anything very conclusive against what the Friend advances.

I certainly cannot perceive that the Friend so strongly urges people to move their valuable persons and chattels to the Colony, as our "Old Bird" strives to make out, still less that the importance of any individual's movement was so great as he seems inclined to attribute to his going. I imagine, whether he takes his "flight" or remains, is a matter that will not create much sensation. The Friend as I read the letter merely expresses an opinion, and the "Bird" I suppose can do no more.

'An old Bird' is singularly happy in the utterance of undeniable facts. "British Merchants, like most other persons, know very well what they are about"; so it would appear, for we find the majority of this community have either warehouses, built, or in course of erection at Hongkong, while several have also dwelling houses in progress, and it is to be presumed, "as they know so very well what they are about" that these Godowns and Residences are not put up merely to "game on."

I rather imagine our "old Bird" is apt to trust to reports; with all due deference, I would advise him to go, look, and judge for himself. He twits the "advocate of no bad a cause," (for which alone he thinks he might have spared the "Friend," the inflection of his wit) with being biased in his judgment by "going on those double matted godowns &c., which look so attractive in your advertising columns." I trust his information is a little more extended, than he seems disposed to allow other folks.

I regret to see the 'Bird' display so inveterate a dislike or even horror, at the idea of taking up a residence at Hongkong, as I am inclined to think four or five months will see merchants over there, and then, what will become of the poor "old Bird" he must either resemble the "last rose of Summer left blooming alone," or do dreadful violence to his feelings for, supposing him to be engaged in mercantile affairs, he will find it rather inconvenient, if not utterly impracticable, to conduct his business, "solus"; however, to conclude, I think both the "Friend to Hongkong," and "an old Bird" prejudiced in their respective opinions, the former in too exalted an idea of its merits, and the latter in a narrow minded and petty spirit of jealousy not to be of the Plenipotentiary are likely to be supported by the government at home; and secondly, whether there is reason to suppose that on being entrusted to other and more capable hands, the armament Great Britain has sent out to China is likely fully to attain its objects—if so we would recommend not to venture too much on Hongkong. Should however Her Majesty's present Plenipotentiary continue to direct the movements of the armament, then we would say—build at Hongkong, by all means!"

We have elsewhere copied from Messrs Forbes & Co.'s circular, an extract from the New Tariff proposed by Sir Robert Peel giving a list of such articles of East India Produce on which a modification of the present duty is proposed. It will be seen therefrom that articles from China are very little benefited by it; the only ones on which the duty has been reduced, being Rhubarb, Ferriellin, Cassia and Lacquer Ware. On Cassia the duty was hitherto 1s per lb from foreign countries, and 6d imported from British possessions. It is now 3d from foreign countries, and 1d, on the produce of and from British possessions. The whole duty on Cassia in 1840 amounted to only 19,000. On Bamboo Canes the duty has been raised from 5d to 8d per 1000. We are not astonished that so long as China shall be at war with England, the latter will not receive her produce on more favorable terms than hitherto; it is for this reason we suppose that T.S.A. which now pays a duty on an average of at least 150 per Cent upon the cost-price, remains as heavily-taxed as before, whilst the duty on Coffee, British Plantation, is to be reduced from 6d. to 4d. per lb, and on foreign from 1s. 3d. to 8d. We hope that after peace between the two countries shall have been restored, the heavy duty on this article will be reduced in the same proportion as that on Coffee.

We give insertion to a letter we have been favored with under the signature of BOB SMOOT, in answer to another from AN OLD BIP that appeared in last Tuesday's Register, regarding the merits and demerits of Hongkong. We have on several occasions fully explained our sentiments on the subject, and regret that so many statements tending to exaggerate the present importance and success of Hongkong should have been put forward, as they only tend to mislead the public. The letters and accounts from Hongkong we have lately seen are all to the effect that no commercial business, or at least next to none, is transacted there. The sales of Opium which were pretty considerable sometime since, have almost totally ceased, owing to the brisk trade now carried on in the drug at Whampoa, and the change of the monsoon will show whether junkmen from the northward will take their cargoes there or not. We heard sometime since that it was the intention of several British merchants to remove their establishments thither from Macao, but we believe the execution of such intention has for the present been deferred. We cannot close these remarks more appropriately than by quoting extracts from letters written from Hongkong by a party whose position enables him to be intimately acquainted with all that regards commercial transactions at Hongkong; they are as follows:

"All trade since the sale of the prizes, has been and is daily decreasing; the Chinese are now as poor as rats, the dollars they had being laid out to erect houses, and the same may be said of the few European residents here; they are all sellers, none buyers, without the articles are almost given to them, and then you cannot imagine the difficulty of getting the money." Hongkong, June 30th

"Every thing is very quiet here, but no appearance of any trade carried on whatever. The late heavy rains have made sad havoc on the roads and bridges." Ibid, 30th June,

With reference to the extraordinarily quick passage of H. M. S. Vindictive of which we gave an account in our last, it would appear from the log of the Panama (American) Capt. Benjamin that a considerable portion of the same passage was accomplished in even less time by that vessel. The Vindictive from 8th April, the day she crossed line, to 30th May, was 52 days before she made Java-head; the Panama in 1836, on her passage from New York to China, crossed the line on the 9th of August, made Java-head on the morning of the 23rd September, and arrived at Anjer at 7 p. m. on the same day, having been only 45 days from the line to Anjer; whilst the Vindictive, having been detained six days by calms between Java-head and Anjer, was altogether 58 days going the same distance. Had she not experienced this delay and that occasioned by the gale after leaving Amsterdam, it is probable that she would have accomplished the passage from England to China in the incredibly short time of 80 days, instead of 90 in which he has done it.

We have, before going to press, been anxiously waiting for advices from Canton, in the hope of giving some interesting mercantile information to our readers; but up to a late hour last night, no later accounts than four days old had been received, and we are therefore disappointed in our expectations; this may have been caused by a stoppage of the boats between this and Canton.

The following we copy from last month's Register:

THE SCHOOL.

OF THE MORRISON EDUCATION SOCIETY.

Examination.

On Wednesday, the 22nd inst., a public examination of the school was held at the residence of the Revd. J. R. Brown, its tutor; and being the first opportunity of the kind that has been afforded to the friends of the society, to observe the progress of the boys under its patronage, it was an occasion of much interest, and deserves a more extended notice than we can now give it. We cannot however suffer the impression which the scene made upon our minds to pass, without a brief statement of the exercises, since they afforded unequivocal evidence of the utility of the local society under whose auspices that school is conducted.

The examination opened at half past 12 o'clock, when the pupils, sixteen in number, entered the room, neatly attired, and with cheerful faces, indicating that they were pleased with the prospective trial of their attainments in English learning.

Mr. Brown commenced by giving a brief account of the school, and mentioning the periods of time that the boys had been at school, the changes and interruptions which the political troubles in China had produced, and said that the examination had been proposed for the purpose of showing the patrons of the society, to what they were lending their support, when they made donations to the Morrison Education Society, while it might at the same time operate as a stimulus to the pupils, who like their fellowmen are encouraged by the recognition of their own merits when conscious of their themselves. He alluded to the fact that, according to the plan of the society, half of the time is devoted in school to the study of the native language, so as to combine Chinese and English learning, and therefore, in forming an estimate of the boy's progress, it was but just to recollect that the younger class of 10, who had been in the school 7 months, had studied English but 3 months and a half, and the elder class, who had spent about 2 years and a half at school, had really studied English but a year and a quarter.

The smaller boys were then examined in reading English, spelling and translating colloquial sentences from English into Chinese, and vice versa. Considering the short period during which they had been attached to the school, their examination was very creditable to them, even their occasional blunders in pronunciation showing that they were conscious of them and partly that they were attributable to an evident effort to avoid them.

The elder class were then brought forward, and kept upon the floor for about two hours, through a variety of exercises. They were first called upon to read in the English new Testament, and we observed that to avoid every appearance of set lessons, previously prepared for the occasion, Mr. Brown directed one of the boys to open his book at random, and read what first met his eye. He did so and read with much fluency and accuracy of pronunciation.

The rest followed in order, and in the course of two or three, there was no foreign accept all.

They then took the Chinese new Testament and read and translated the same into English. The sense was always given, though not always in idiomatic English, which it is difficult for one to do, without great care and previous practice, the constructions of the two languages being often opposite to each other. When they afterwards took up a secular reading book, they read and translated with ease into the native colloquial dialect. They then analysed each sentence, numbering the propositions in each, and pointing out the several parts of these propositions, as the subject, verb, attributive &c. This exercise exhibited an uncommon insight into this essential part of the study of language.

They were next examined in geography in which Mr. Brown remarked; they had this year received very little instruction. This exercise was short, but sufficiently long to show that they were pretty well versed in topography. It was evident that they felt embarrassed by the novelty of their position before strangers.

They then took up mental arithmetic and showed by the readiness of some of their answers to the questions propounded at random, that they had acquired a good insight into this branch of study, and particularly when met by fractional numbers.

They next passed to Algebra, first mental and then written. They were tried in simple equations, containing one and two unknown quantities, which they solved readily and accurately, repeating the successive steps in the operations, without the aid of slate or black board.

The same exercise was continued upon the black board, and with the same success. This part of the examination which might have been carried much further, even to equations with four unknown quantities, and in some cases to quadratic equations, was cut short by the lateness of the hour, there being no wish to protract it tediously, and for the same reason the examination in English history was omitted.

Lastly, two of the boys who had made great proficiency in Algebra than the rest, and had taken up Geometry, about a month before, to fill up their vacant time,—proceeded, one to perform a problem, and the other to demonstrate the theorem that "the angles at the base of an isosceles triangle are equal." They had gone about half way through the first book of Playfair's Euclid, demonstrating the propositions both geometrically and algebraically.

While the examination was in progress some very well executed letters of the 7 older boys, addressed to the reverend doctor Bridgman, acting pres. of the M. E. Soc., were handed round for perusal.

They had been written at Mr. Bridgman's request, on the previous Monday afternoon, on the question proposed by him, "what is the difference between English and Chinese education." The theme was propounded, and the letters were the result, written and corrected by themselves. They were of course unequal in merit but all deserving of praise. There were sentiments expressed in some of them which indicated close observation mature reflection, and purity of motive, which none could notice but to admire. Finally, it is believed that all who were present to see the examination were highly gratified, and that more would have been, had they been there. We were convinced, that the Morrison Education Society, under all its discouragements has thus far pursued its way steadily, unostentatiously, and successfully, and that it deserves the liberal patronage and best wishes of all the friends of humanity.

NOTICE—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of JAMES MATHERSON, ALEXANDER MATHERSON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART. JARDINE MATHERSON & Co. China, 1st July, 1842.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD, AT CHUAN, CHINAS, &c.

H. M. S. Corwallis, 75, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer

" Bionde, 42, bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, C. B.

" Thetis, 44, capt. Hope.

" Endymion, 44, " the Honble F. W. Grey.

" Calliope, 39, " A. L. Kuper.

" North Star, 26, " Sir J. R. Home, Bart.

" Herald, 36, " J. Nis, C. B.

" Dido, 30, " the Honble H. Kappell.

" Pollux, 19, " Napier.

Modeste,	18,	comr. Watson.
Harlequin,	18,	the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine,	16,	Moreshed.
Serpent,	16,	Nevill.
Childers,	16,	Halsted.
Clio,	16,	E. Troubridge.
Algerine,	10, lt. comr.	W. H. Maitland.
Royalist,	10,	Chetwood.

SURVEYING SHIPS,

Starling,	6,	comr. Kellett.
Lady Benning,	6,	Collinson.

TUGBOATS,

Belleisle,	capt. Kingcomb.
Apollo,	comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire,	.. Cole.
Jupiter,	mr. comr. R. Fulton.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STAMERS,

H. C. Queen,	mr. comr.	W. Warden.
Spartia,	comr.	Ormsby.
Auckland,	..	Ethersey, I. N.
Tenasserim,	..	Wall, I. N.
Nemesis,	lieut.	W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,	..	Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne,	comr.	Roberts, I. N.
Medusa,	..	Hewett, I. N.
Phlegethon,	lieut.	McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr.	Hough, a. n.
M. M. Vixen,	comr.	H. Bayes.
AT AMOY.
Cambrion,	36, capt.	Chads, c. n. senior com- manding officer.
Pylades,	18, comr.	Tindal, (absent.)
Chamelson,	10, lieut.	Hunter.
AT HONGKONG.
Blenheim,	74, Bearing the flag of Rear Ad- miral, sir T. Cochrane, c. n.,	capt. sir T. Herbert, a. c. n.
Vindictive,	50, capt.	Nicholas, c. c.
Nimrod,	18, comr.	Glasse.
Cruiser,	16, ..	Pearse.
Hazard,	16, ..	Bell.
Young Hebe,	4, ..	Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly,	mr. comr.	Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED
June,
30, (B.)	Larkins, Hibbert, Bombay.
29, ..	Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Carnegy, Bombay.
30, ..	Ellen, Brewer, Bombay.
SAILED
June,
28, (A.)	Hunter, Lovett, New York.
26, (B.)	Poppy, Cole, Singapore and Calcutta.
26, ..	Regular, Budd, London.
28, (Frus.)	Berruista, Kahr, Manila.
28, (B.)	Abbott Reading, Crawford, London.
27, ..	Herald, Parker, Chusan.
July,
1, (B.)	John Horton, Cunningham, Liverpool.
2, ..	Mavis Jemrie, Boyd, London.
2, ..	Harlequin, Oliver, Bombay.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—
Ann Birden,	Dovecot, Guinart.
Deven,	Gentini, Peruvian, Ellina-
both,	Pink, Anna Maria, Judith
Allen,	Raymond, Copeland, Chebar,
Caroline,	Mary Ann Edie, Claudine,
From Bombay,—
Drengen,	Charlotte, England, Buco-
phalus,	Island Queen, Anonyma.
Earl Balcarross,	Cornwallis, Agnor-
der,	Helen, Salem, Vansittart,
Asia,	Edinburgh, Diana, Corea.
From Calcutta,—
Dido,	Water Witch, Clown.
LATEST DATES,
ENGLAND,	6th April.
URGENT DATES,	March 13.
CALCUTTA,	26th May.
BOMBAY,	18th May.
JAVA,	4th June.
SINGAPORE,	15th June.
MANILA,	10th June.
AMOY,	28th May.
CHUSAN,	5th June.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	COMPANIES.
Aras,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arethusa,	—	Christians,	C. Fearon.
Amelia,	—	Potter,	W. H. Harton,
Anna Elise,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Bengalee,	—	Roadie,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Bombay,	1280	Farley,	Jardine M. & Co.
Br. Sovereign,	483	Cow,	..
Canton,	607	Crouch,	Turner and Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Carnatic,	—	Cunningham,	Dent and Co.
China,	524	Robertson,	Russell and Co.
Crest,	—	Oliver,	Wetmore & Co.
Cleopatra,	377	Earley,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Charles Forbes,	980	Wills, Iger,	..
Charlotte,	—	Liebschwa,	..
Devonport,	—	Broadfoot,	Turner and Co.
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
Eleonora,	—	Jackson,	Lindsay & Co.
Fortescue,	259	Hall,	Jardine M. & Co.
Forteen,	294	Buddley,	..
Francis Spaight,	—	Winn,	Turner and Co.
Georgiana,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar and Co.
Gratitude,	—	Jackson,	Dirom and Co.
Hero of Malown,	—	Barrett,	C. Fearon.
Hope,	378	Woodbury,	G. Nye jr.
Hygeia,	—	Coulson,	Macvicar & Co.
Herald,	530	Smith,	..
Harmony,	708	Rowen,	Dent and Co.
Hindustan,	—	Davidson,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
Intrinsic,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Harden,	Dent and Co.
Isabella,	—	Carney,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Jama Jeejeebhoy,	600	whitcom,	Dirom and Co.
John Christian,	400	Forgan,	Dent and Co.
Louisa,	—	Ayre,	..
Lowjee Family,	—	Hopkins,	..
Lord Amherst,	—	Hibbert,	Jardine M. & Co.
Larkina,	—	Byworth,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Hart,	C. B. Hart.
Manly,	—	W. Scott,	John Smith.
Mercury,	—	Dare,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Masden,	390	Champion	Macvicar & Co.
Niagara,	—	Melville,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Nerva,	208	Kell,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Prima Donna,	716	Black,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Queen Victoria,	—	Connor,	H. Rustonjee.
Queen Victoria,	—	Crawford,	H. Pybus.
Royal Saxon,	—	Boyd,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Rigby,	C. H. Hart.
Ruparell,	—	Metcalf,	Hughendon Brothers.
Rosa,	—	Morton,	H. Rustonjee.
Snipe,	—	Guy,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Sylph,	—	Bolton,	Fergusson L. & Co.
Sir H. Compton	579	Chaimers,	Russell and Co.
Ternate,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Token,	—	Smith,	..
Vestal,	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Wanderer,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
Wild Irish Girl	—	Clark,	..
Wm. Hughes,	562	McDonna,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
Wm. Gillies,	—	—	—
Wm. Pirrie,	—	—	—

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
Forum,	Murdock, Russell and Co.
Helena,	Benjamin,
Levant,	Faulk,
Ann Mackim,	Varnes,
Cincinnati,	Wilson,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Onaida,	Swift,
Robert Fulton,	McMichael,
Lowell,	Peirce,

HAMBURG.

Francisco,	Baradi,	Wetmore & Co.
at Whampoa,

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 41.]

Macao, Saturday, 9th July, 1842.

[No. 353.]

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Ma. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th Ultimo, and Ma. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MRS. MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. DUTRONQUOY also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wines, &c. &c. at the shortest notice.

London Hotel Queen's Road,
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

Wm. ALLANSON,
A. MOSS.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.
Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of the late Mr. HENRY DUNMAN in our firms here, in Manila, Batavia, and Glasgow, ceased from the 23d day of September last.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co
Singapore, 29th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Copartnership existing between WILLIAM RICHARD PATERSON, CHARLES CARNIE, GEORGE MARTIN and ALEXANDER DYCE, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the Firm of PATERSON & Co., and in Glasgow under that of PATERSON, MARTIN & Co. is this day dissolved, the Contract having expired; and the affairs of the Firm will be wound up and all claims settled by the above partners.

(Signed) PATERSON & Co.
PATERSON, MARTIN & Co.
Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

WITH reference to the above Advertisement, the undersigned Partners of the late Firm of PATERSON & Co. having assumed JOHN CAMPBELL as a Partner, will carry on Business as before, here, Batavia, and Manila, under the style and firm of DYCE, MARTIN & Co., and in Glasgow under that of MARTIN, DYCE & Co., Mr. MARTIN having the management there, Mr. CARNIE at Singapore, Mr. DYCE at Manila, and Mr. CAMPBELL at Batavia.

(Signed) GEORGE MARTIN,
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
C. CARNIE,
ALEXANDER DYCE.
By his Attorney, C. CARNIE.
Singapore, 30th April, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay,
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

In the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 29th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUOS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWESS FAMILY, captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HAKO OF MALOW", 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. Pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA", of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship "INTRINSEK", 337 Tons, N. M. Davidson Commander, now at anchor in the Macao Roads, and can commence loading in three days. Apply to

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIRIE, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

THE A I Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 208 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA DIRECT.

THE Portuguese Barque MANGARIDA, AQUINO Master, will leave for the above Port early in June next. For freight or passage apply to

J. T. DE AQUINO,
or M. J. DE AQUINO.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

WANTS A SITUATION as Clerk in a mercantile establishment, a young man lately arrived, who is well acquainted with mercantile business, and understands book keeping. For Particulars apply at the Canton Press Office

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

LOST on the Prava Grande, or on the road back of the Fort St. Francisco leading to the hill. A bunch of small KEYS, attached to a steel ring. A reward of $10 will be given on delivery of the KEYS to the undersigned, or to Messrs Gibb Livingston & Co.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

HOSICERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton SOCKS and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "HELENA" in the Typa. American Pilot Bread, in barrels.
do. Navy, do. in air tight Hds.
Very superior BUTTER in barrels each containing 8 stone Jars of 10 lb packed in salt; apply on board.
Macao, 2nd July 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 30 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAINS PANACEA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermaceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "MARCELLA ROBERTSON" lying in the Typa.
Cases of BAKED BEER,
La Rose CLARET,
OILMAN'S STORES,
SHERRY, in Wood and Buttes,
Provision RICE,
TABLE RICE,
GRAIN,
Coir Rope.—Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hds per "Anna Eliza," apply to

Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hds.
SULTZER WATER dew.
OILMAN'S STORES into imports.
BEEF in tins; Pork in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Godowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—
Most Splendid French PIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table dressed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Payance Porcelain Dinner SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Manipulation SHIR in quart bottles, a 48 per bottle

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G GONZAGA.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARK, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by
C. V. GILLESPIE.
Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' Pale Ale, bottled in Calcutta, French Claret, and Savored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANNAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the Hamburg Ship Frederica, in Macao Roads. CLARET, St Julien and St Estephé, HOCK, COGNAC BRANDY, CHAMPAGNE, CHERRY CORDIAL, GLASSWARE, &c.

Apply to Captain BERNDT on board.

Macao, 16th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—1,000 pieces CHILIAN PIG COPPER on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt Benjamin, now lying in the Roadway, apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. RITCHIE.

Macao, 17th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter-casks, from the well known house of KEIRA & Co.; apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 4th March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BEEF and PORK; BISCUIT and BREAD for Ship's use; old and costly WINES; PORT, SHERRY and MADRINA; BRANDY, vintage of 1807; SPERMACEAN CANDLES; FLOUR; apply to J. A. DE SILVA, at Mr. NYE'S.

Macao, 26th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gam-bon's to B. LEMOS.

Macao, 11th August, 1841.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4a superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SELTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANNAS. Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 22nd October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hbds, PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hbds, ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular." TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG, A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar, Esop's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c, price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
" " for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.

For one year payable in advance $ 12

For six Months $ 7

For three $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the London Times.

ISLAND OF CHUSAN.

As any account of the place fixed upon for the landing of the English expedition against China must be curious at this time, the following extracts from letters, forming part of the Ayeyouh MSS. in the British Museum, are given. It appears that an English factory formerly existed there:—

PART OF TWO LETTERS FROM MR. JAMES CUNNINGHAM, F. R. S. AND PHYSICIAN TO THE FACTORY AT CHUSAN, IN CHINA.

"(Sine Die)

"Sir,—My last to you was from the island of Borneo, in which I gave you an account of our arrival there the 17th of July, where we stayed but two days, the season of the year being so far past, and thence made the best of our way through the Straits of Banca with favourable winds and weather till we came on the coast of China, the 13th of August; then we had variable winds, which carried us abreast of Emu the 19th following. At which time the north-east winds setting in fresh put us in great fears of losing our passage, whereupon we were forced to turn it up against wind and current all the way, the weather so favouring us that we were never but by our topsails, else we should have lost more ground in one day than we could have gained in eight. The last of August we came to one anchor under the Crocodile Islands both so shelter us from the bad weather (which is generally expected on this coast at new and full moon, and has been fatal to a great many ships), and also to look for fresh water, which was now grown scarce with us, not having recruited since we came from the Cape of Good Hope. There are three small islands lying in the latitude of 26 degrees, about six leagues from the river of Hocksoon, on two whereof we found very good fresh water, with a convenient watering place on the south-west side of the innermost of the three; and by the assistance of a few Chinese fishermen we procured some fresh provisions from the main-land, because we did not reckon it safe to adventure ourselves thither, lest we should have been brought into trouble by the Government there. While we lay here on the 6th of September we had a sudden short shift of the monsoon to S. W., the fury whereof Captain Monk has felt by losing of his mainmast in coming upon the coast of China at the same time, which made him bear away for Macau, as we have been informed since by an express from him. The 8th of September we put to sea again, turning to windward night and day without all the islands, which are very numerous along this coast, to which we were altogether strangers beyond Emu, and the hydrographic thereof is hitherto so imperfect that there was no trusting to our drafts, which made our navigation somewhat more dangerous; however, on the 1st of October we got into the latitude of 30 degrees, where we came to one anchor near the land, until we found the way by boat to Chusan, about 12 leagues within the islands, from whence we had a pilot who carried us safely thither on the 11th of October. Upon this island the Chinese have granted us a settlement and liberty of trade, but not to Ning-po, which is six or eight hours sail to the westward, all the way amongst the islands; this being the largest is eight or nine leagues in length from east to west, and four or five leagues in breadth, about three leagues from that point of the main land called Cape Linmu by the Portuguese, but Kbi-tu by the Chinese. At the west end of this island is the harbour, very safe and convenient, where the ships ride within call of the factory, which is built close to the shore on a low plain valley, with near 200 houses all about it for the benefit of trade, inhabited by men whose jealousy has not as yet permitted them to let their wives dwell here, for the town where they are in three quarters of a mile (further from the shore, environ'd with a fine stone wall about three miles in circumference, mounted with 24 square bastions placed at irregular distances, besides four great gates, on which are planted a few old iron guns seldom or never used. The houses within are very meanly built. Here the Chumpeen, or governor of the island, lives, and between 3,000 and 4,000 beggarly inhabitants, most part soldiers and fishermen; for the trade of this place being newly granted has not as yet brought any considerable merchants hither. The island in general abounds with all sorts of provisions, such as cows, buffaloes, goats, deer, hogs wild and tame, geese, ducks and hens, rice, wheat, calavances, coleworts, turneps, potatoes, carrots, beets, and spinach. But for merchandize there's none but what comes from Ning-po, Hang-chuen, Nankin, and the inland towns, some of which I hope to see when I have acquired a little of the Chinese language. Here also the tea grows in great plenty on the tops of the hills, but is not in that esteem with what grows on more mountainous islands. Although this island is pretty well stored with people, yet it's far from what it was in F. Martin's time when he describes Chusan; and this puts me in mind that the superstitious pilgrimages thereto mentioned by him must be mean'd of the island Po-to, which lya nine leagues from hence, and three miles to the eastward of this island, whither, they say, the Emperor designs in the month of May next (being his birthday and the 40th year of his age) to come for to worship in an ancient pagoda there famous for sanctities, having sent one of his bonzes already thither to get all things in order, which if we live to see may be the subject of another epistle."

"Chusan, Nov. 23, 1701.

"Sir,—I formerly told you that the Emperor designed to have come to the island of Peu-to (a place of great devotion) to worship, in the month of May last, being the 40th year of his age—I should have said of his reign; but, all things being prepar'd there for his reception, he was dissuaded from his purpose by some of his mandarines, who made him believe that the terrible thunder there was very dangerous.

"This Po-to is a small island, about five leagues round, at the east end of this island, famous for the superstitious pilgrimages made thither for the space of 1,100 years: its inhabited only by bonzes to the number of 3,000, all of the sect call'd Sioshang, or unmarried bonzes, who live a Pythagorean life; and there they have built above 400 pagodes, two whereof are considerable for their greatness and finery, being lately cover'd with green and yellow tiles brought from the Emperor's Palace at Nankin, and inwardly adorned with stately idols, finely carved and gilded, the chief whereof is the idol Quon-eur. To these two great parades belong two chief priests, who govern all the rest. They have several ways and avenues cut through the island, some whereof are paved with flagstones, and over shaded with trees planted on each side: their dwellings are the best I have yet seen in these parts. All which are maintained by charitable donations, and the junks which goe from Ning-po and this place to Japan touch there both going and coming to make their offerings for their good success."

"There's another island called Kin-tong, five leagues hence in the way to Ning-po, whither, they say, doe retire a great many mandarines to live a quiet life, after they have given over their employments; on that island also are said to be silver mines, but prohibited to be opened. The rest of the circumjacent islands are either desert or meanly inhabited by a few fishing people, but all of them stored with abundance of deer. For it is not long since this island of Chusan began to be peopled: its trade, in Martin's days, about 50 years ago, it was very populous for the space of three or four years, at which time the fury of the Tartarian conquest was so great that they left it desolate, not sowing so much as the mulberry trees (for then they made a great deal of raw silk here), and in this condition it continued till about 18 years ago, that the walls of the fort or town which now is were built by the Governor of Zing-hai for a garrison to expell some pirate who had taken shelter here. About 14 years ago the island beginning to be peopled, there was a Chumpeen or General sent to govern it for three years, to whom succeeded the late Chumpeen (who procured the opening of this port to strangers), whose government continued till April last, being translated to be Chumpeen of Tie-n-king-Wee, near to Feking; and was succeeded by the present Chumpeen, who is sonne to the Chunkoon of Emu."

"They have no art or manufactures here but making of lackered ware, a particular account whereof I cannot as yet send you. They begin to breed up worms for the production of raw silk; and they make some tea, but chiefly for their own use."

"The chief employments here are fishing and agriculture."

"In fishing they use several sorts of nets and lines as we do; but, because they have large banks of mud in some places, the fisherman, to goe more nile thereon, has contrived a small frame about three or four foot 'long, not much larger than a hen trough, elevated a little at each end, in which he rests on one knee, leaning his arms on a cross stick rais'd so high as his breast, and putting out the other foot often upon the mud, he pushes forwards his frame thereon, and so carry himself along in it."

"As to their agriculture, all their fields (where anything is planted), whether high or low are made into such plots as may retain the water on them when they please. They plough up their ground with one buffalo or one cow. Where they are to sow rice, they prepare the field very well by clearing it of all manner of weeds, moistening to a pulp and smoothing it with a frame drawn across, on which they sow the rice very thick, and cover it only with water for two or three inches high, and when it has grown six or eight inches long, they pull it up by the roots, and transplant it by tufts in a straight line to fields over down with water; and where a field subject to weeds, when the water dries, they prevent their growth by overturning the mud with their hands in the interstices where the rice is planted. When they sow wheat, barley, pulse, and other grains, they grub up some superficial earth, grass, and roots and with some straw they burn altogether; this earth being sifted fine, they mix with the seed, which they sow in holes made in a straight line, and so grows up in tufts, as the rice does—the field being divided into beds, and so harrowed over, both before and after the seed is sown. This makes them somewhat resemble gardens. Altho they weatrate their field where they sow rice only by letting water on them; yet for other grains, where the ground requires it they make much use of dung, human excrement, ashes, &c. In watering their fields here they use the same instrument mention'd by Martine in the preface to his atlas, being all of wood, and the contrivance the same with that of a chain pump."

"Their method in making salt is this—All the shores here being made instead of sand, in the summer season they pare off the superficial earth, which has been overflown with the salt-water, and lay it up in heaps for use; when they are to use it they dry it in the sun, rubbing it small; then digging a pit, they cover the bottom thereof with straw, at which, through the side of the pit, they pass a hollow cane that leads into a jar which stands below the level of the pit's bottom; they fill the pit almost full with the forssaid earth, and pour salt-water thereon till it be covered two or three inches with water, which drains through into the forssaid jar, and is afterwards ber'd into salt.

"Had I not found the printed newspapers last year take notice of a singular root brought from China by F. Fontaney, I should not have told you that I have seen one since I came here—Hu-chu u (which I taken to be the same), whereby they ascribe wonderfull properties of prolonging life, renewing old age, and turning gray hairs to black by drinking its infusion for some time, in so much that they say it is to be had in value from 10 taels to 1,000 and 2,000 taels a single root; for the larger it is the greater is its value and efficacy, which is too much money here to try the experiment. You have it mentioned in Clay's Medicina Sinica, No. 84, under the name of Ho-zen-n, according to the Portuguese spelling. It's likewise painted in the 27th fable of these plants Mr. Petiver had of me. If you'll have the story of its discovery, which I will not warrant for gospel, it ran thus.—Upon a time, a certain person going a simpling among the mountains fell by accident into such a steep valley that he could by no means get out of it again, whereupon, looking about for something to sustain his life in this melancholic condition, he esp'd this root, of which he made trial, and found by eating thereof that it served both for provision and clothing by keeping his body in such a temperature that the injuries of the weather had no influence upon him during his stay there, which was some hundreds of years, till at last an earthquake happened in that place, whereby the mountains were rent, and he found a passage out to his home, from whence he had been so long absent. But the many alterations that came to pass there in such a space of time would not permit them to give credit to his story, till consulting the annals of their familie, which gave an account of one of them lost at that time, this confirmed the truth of his relation. And so much for this."

AFFGHANISTAN.

(From the Friend of India, May 12.)

The past week has brought us no intelligence of any new and striking event in the Afghanistan campaign; but it has furnished much interesting detail respecting the brilliant transactions announced in the two preceding weeks. It has also afforded some indications of the course which Government is likely to pursue relative to this country.

General Pollock reached Jellalabad on the 16th of April. The meeting between the besieged and the relieving force was, as might have been expected, of the most enthusiastic character. Rarely has it fallen to the lot of our troops in India to meet in such extraordinary circumstances, and the swelling emotions with which they greeted each other may be more easily imagined than described. The troops however presented relatively a far different appearance from what might have been expected. Those under General Pollock, jaded with the fatigues of a ten days' march over mountain and ravine, amidst many privations and difficulties, without regular meals or rest, with the skin peeled off their faces by the scorching rays of the sun, appeared as though they were the party to be relieved. On the other hand, the garrison, refreshed by the plentiful supply of sheep which their own valour had won, and ten days' repose from their vigils and labours, presented the contrast of robust and buxom appearance. The meeting of that day, the 16th April will form a memorable era in the recollection of all those who were privileged to partake of it, which no subsequent events will obliterate.

The victory of the 7th of April, the mastering of the hitherto impregnable Khyber,—without doubt one of the greatest military exploits ever achieved in India,—and the appearance of such an imposing force, has swayed the chiefs into submission, and the most friendly disposition is shewn by those who held us in scorn not a fortnight before. Provisions were pouring in from all quarters, and the Commissariat officers were busy in laying in stores. But there is one melancholy drawback from the joy of this success. The prisoners have been suddenly removed from Lughman to Tescen, where, it is said, they were refused admission; and they have been marched on towards Cabul. The officers can rough this mountain journey; but it is deplorable to think of the sufferings to which the ladies must be exposed, one of whom had scarcely recovered from her confinement; and another, the daughter of Sale, was shortly expecting to become a mother. Exasperated as their keepers must be by our recent victories, we can scarcely hope that the "Good Samaritans" will show much compassion for them; and we tremble, lest they should sink under the hardships of their treatment. In these circumstances we turn for relief to the hope that the same gracious Providence which has preserved their lives in the midst of such unexampled dangers, will watch over them in the new scenes of difficulty into which they may be cast, and eventually restore them to the society of their relatives and friends.

The death of Shah Soojah appears now to be placed beyond doubt. He was murdered by the son of Zeman Khan, who inveigled him from the Bala Hissar, and lay in wait for him with fifty Afghan riflemen, under whose fire he fell, pierced with many wounds. His body is said to have been treated with every indignity, and thrown into a ditch after it had been mangled. Of his guilty participation in the last out-break no additional evidence has been obtained; on the contrary, circumstances favourable to an idea of his innocence have come to light. We must therefore wait the disclosures which can only be expected when we are again masters of Cabul, before the question is decided.

The future course of our policy seems to be clearly indicated by the measures which General Pollock has pursued since his junction with General Sale. There will be no premature retrograde movement. Two regiments and a detachment of Cavalry are to return to Lallpore, to aid the advance of Col. Bolton's Brigade, with its large stores of ammunition. If it had been intended not to advance beyond Jellalabad, the whole force would have moved backward after the object, as Lord Ellenborough's notification denominates it—that is, the first object, had been accomplished. If it ever was intended to terminate the campaign at Jellalabad, the progress of events has ordered it otherwise. The death of Shah Soojah; the defeat and flight of Akbar Khan, and the removal of the unfortunate captives to Cabul, render it as imperative on us to march thither, as our triumphs have rendered it easy. The troops will therefore rest, partly at Jellalabad, partly at Gundamak, ready to move on to Cabul as soon as circumstances are mature. Whatever may be the ulterior determination of Government, it is impossible to stop short of Cabul without losing the benefit of all the advantages which we have gained. We may consider the march on Cabul therefore as certain; however uncertain at present may be the course we pursue, when the British standard again waves over the Bala Hissar. Lord Ellenborough will go where public duty and national honour lead him, that is, to the Capital. Perhaps he has not altogether made up his mind as to the course which he intends to pursue after our troops are again in possession of Cabul. Perhaps he waits for the invaluable and unerring counsel of the Duke of Wellington. The Duke's despatch, which we would give not a little to see, were it only to know what the Nestor of the age would counsel in such an emergency—will probably reach Lord Ellenborough by next Saturday; we mean, the Duke's letter, written in the beginning of April, after the worst was known in England. That letter will doubtless be decisive of the policy this government—rather we should say Lord Ellenborough—will pursue. If the Duke says, continue to occupy Afghanistan, we shall occupy it. If he says retire, we shall retire. We consider ourselves as paying only a just compliment to Lord Ellenborough by supposing that he will cheerfully follow the leadings of the Duke's mind, and shape his Afghan policy according to the advice he may receive from England.

When we have thus restored our supremacy in Afghanistan, and regained our reputation in Asia, the final settlement of the country in such a manner as most effectually to restore tranquillity to it, and to obtain security for our own frontiers, will be our next, and our final care. We ventured last week a hint at the restoration of Dost Mahomed, as the most obvious means by which this object could be secured. We are happy to find that the same proposal has been simultaneously mooted in the Agra Akbar. Our contemporary indeed goes so far as to allege that negotiations having this tendency have been already opened with him. Such may or may not have been the case but to this result it appears likely we shall be at length conducted. Experience has taught us that the Saddozies have not that hold on the attachment of the people which would ensure peace and order. If on retiring from the country we elevate any of this branch to the throne, we can have no security for his continuance on it. And after our connection with Afghanistan has ceased, what are we to do with the Dost, and what with his pension of three lakhs of Rupees a year? The aspect of affairs has been entirely changed within the last six months; and the restoration of the Barukzye family, of our own free will and accord, would probably enable us to retire from the country without any compromise of our dignity. If it be said that the hostility of the Dost, who can neither be expected to forget nor forgive, may embarrass our affairs on the frontier of the Indus, it may be affirmed on the other hand that we may have more to apprehend from the weakness and perfidy of the other family. Reasoning from present appearances, there does not appear to be any other measures within our reach by which we may withdraw from Afghanistan, so early, so safely, and so satisfactorily, whether in regard to our own reputation, or the welfare of the country, as by replacing the Dost upon the throne through our own spontaneous agency.

SINGAPORE.

The following particulars of the loss of the British ship Richard Wake from Sydney to Batavia are taken from the Java Courant of the 28th ult. The Captain, his mates and crew, we are glad to find, reached Batavia in safety and have since we learn reached Singapore.

"On the 8th inst. the British ship Richard Wake, Capt. Robert Michelson, on her voyage from Sydney 16th April, bound for Batavia, in Longitude 121° 31' East Greenwich and Lat. 6° 31' South, struck on a Coral Reef, not laid down in Hurlburg's Charts."

"The Captain and Crew, consisting of 3 mates and 4 sailors were obliged to leave the vessel and succeeded in reaching the roads of Batavia in safety."

On the 27th ultimo, the British ship Mr Robert Peel, Captain Somers, passed Anjer, from London the 29th January bound to Hongkong.—Sing. Free Press, 16th June.

VISIT OF THE CHINESE ADMIRAL TO THE CONSTELLATION FRIGATE.

(From the Chinese Repository for June.)

Before this time the Constellation had changed her berth, and was now at anchor off the east end of Dan's island, where one of the branches of Junk river unites with the Whampoa reach. The distance from Canton being fully 12 miles, it was thought a more convenient anchorage might be found higher up the river, and a boat was sent to ascertain the practicability of this. The boat proceeded up Junk river, taking the soundings, and at length was under the guns of one of the new forts, that which is nearly opposite to Howqua's folly, which fired upon her. This, as some of the guns were shot, might have proved a very "unpleasant visit." The demand for explanation was promptly answered by the governor, and in a manner that afforded full satisfaction to the commodore; and, without its being demanded, the officer in command at the fort was degraded.

Previously to this occurrence, Admiral Wu had signified his wish to visit the commodore. In the meantime, the Boston, commander Long, having returned from a short cruise to Manila, came up and joined the Constellation. About noon May 9th, the day fixed upon for the admiral's visit, two messengers arrived to announce his approach. But it was past 3 o'clock before his barge was in sight. As he neared the ships, they were in readiness to do the honors due to his rank and station; and the waving the yards and firing of the salute, in most admirable style, were to him a sight equally novel and animating. He was received by the commodore in the quarter-deck, and conducted to the cabin. The admiral, a native of Fukien, was appointed to this station shortly after the battle of the Boye, where his predecessor fell in the storming of one of the forts. Kwan bore a good reputation among his own countrymen; but in his appearance and whole bearing as a warrior, Wu is decidedly his superior. He is now 44 years of age, tall, well formed, has a high aquiline nose, a keen eye, and moved across the deck with an easy, but firm and manly step. He had hardly been seated in the cabin, before he begged that the men might be put at their ease—he supposing that they were then, as when he came on board, standing upon the yards. As his own request he was shown round the ship, and was afforded an opportunity of seeing the men at their quarters. The marines particularly attracted his attention; and for several minutes, while going through their evolutions, he stood like a statue fixed in perfect amazement. While the men were still at their guns, and without the admiral's knowledge, orders were given to repel boarders on the starboard quarter, where he chanced to be standing. Instantly, about a hundred or more men, with swords and pikes and fixed bayonets, rushed up from the gun-deck, and took their proper stations. For the moment the admiral found it impossible entirely to conceal his feelings, though the tinge of his face was crowded up to the highest pitch he could command. He had been forewarned of treachery by some of the wise men at the provincial city. But his fears were banished, by the men the next moment moving to the other quarter. Still more ludicrous scenes occurred at Canton. The admiral had scarcely left the city for the ship, before the senior hong merchants were called on to give security for his safe return. And the report of thirteen guns—instead of the Chinese plover three—for the salute, was such positive proof of treachery, that nothing but the admiral's safe return in person could allay the alarm of the provincial authorities.

It was nearly sunset when the admiral left the ships, evidently much pleased and well satisfied with his reception, and the attentions shown him on board the foreign men of war. On Monday the 18th, two other officers, one the second in command to the admiral, visited the commodore. These men were from northern provinces, and though they had been a year or more at Canton, had never before been on board a foreign vessel. They said they had supposed, from all reports, that the foreign men-of-war were strong, but till then they never believed them so strong as they now found them to be. They seemed astonished when told, that many of the English ships were far superior to the Constellation.

WHAMPOA OPIUM TRADE.

From the Canton Register, 6th July.

To the Editor of the Canton Register.

Dear Sir,—Allow me to make your columns the medium of communicating to all parties having any interest in the opium shipping at Whampoa, the present unsatisfactory position in which the foreign trade and community of Canton are placed in respect thereunto. From the nature of the opium trade, competition must destroy all unanimity amongst the commanders of the different vessels, and it remains, therefore, for the owners to take up the matter, more especially as they will be consulting their own interest in so doing.

The opium trade at Whampoa, at the present moment, places our government in a situation which has hitherto been strongly repudiated. I mean that of not only tacitly countenancing it, but actually, in effect, protecting the smuggling of it; or, at all events, preventing the Canton authorities from disturbing the smugglers, although collected in such numbers, within so short a distance from the provincial city. No fleet that the Chinese can send afloat would be a match for them, manned and armed as the opium vessels at Whampoa are, especially as the commanders thereof consider that the war justifies them in resisting the authorities. Should fire-rafts be sent upon them, the legal trading ships must suffer alike. The only resource, therefore, that remains for the Chinese, is to open upon them from batteries on the shore; but if these be erected, immediate hostilities are to be commenced on our part. For the same reason the Chinese are not permitted to rebuild the Bogue forts; and thus they have no control whatever on their river from its mouth to within 4 or 5 miles from Canton. It is not to be wondered at, then, if the Chinese look upon this war, as exclusively an opium war, especially when it is remembered that we have no communication nor understanding with the authorities of this province, who really must be at a loss to know how far they durst go in putting a stop to the smuggling trade at Whampoa, without bringing down upon themselves the force of our arms. This is evident from the fact of their never yet having attempted to annoy the opium vessels in the reach, and they will doubtless leave them in quietness whilst the present anomalous state of things exists, provided they (the opium vessels) confine themselves to their trade, and not turn pirates and murderers.

Without making any invidious remarks, every one must know what sort of a community is likely to be formed by a body of seafaring men pursuing an illegal trade at the mouth of their own river; their success in trading depending upon sharp competition one with the other, and their security being in their united might. Many young men seem to join the ships as officers out of romantic notions; who, coming up to Canton in the uniform of naval officers, are proud of their occupation as their dress, do not always behave themselves very discreetly, and are not at all capable of keeping in order the refuse crews that opium vessels are obliged to put up with.

But to the point. I have it as an undoubted fact, (the circumstances having been witnessed by several gentlemen now in Canton), that a boat belonging to an opium vessel was lying at the company's steps, manned by Malays, with an European officer in charge. A chest of tea was brought down, which the mandarins coolies, there stationed for the purpose, resisted being put into the boat. A slight scuffle ensued, the officer helped to carry off the chest, whilst one of the Malays drew his knife upon the Chinaman and kept them at bay. The mandarin would have repressed his indignation at the actual crime of smuggling, and perhaps have released from his rigid line of duty without compromising his dignity; and might even have caused his coolies to carry the chest into the boat, all for the moderate charge of one dollar (Spanish); but no such opportunity was allowed him of showing his benevolence. The matter passed off, and the boat went away, but had a blow been struck, or a stone thrown, blood would certainly have been spilt, and then fancy the situation of foreigners residing here! Had the quantity been larger, the mandarin boat would certainly have been sent in pursuit, and the boat detained.

You may think that these concluding inferences are overstrained; but when you have concluded this paragraph you may alter your mind. A week or two back some Malays from an opium ship went on shore, I believe upon Dane's island. Two of them, after robbing a Chinaman's orchard, commenced upon the poultry. The Chinaman, in endeavouring to get his property back, received a knife in his right side, entering at the back and penetrating completely through. He died a day or two after. Mind, I may be a little wrong in the details, but think not. The rest may be inferred. The matter was represented to the mandarins; the hong merchants were called to account, who hushed the matter up for $3,000 (or taels) taken out of the consou fund. The hong merchants convened a meeting of all the foreigners on the 25th, with the view of making some arrangement for their own protection, which ended merely with the request that the legal ships should lay separate from the opium fleet.

The next case that I have heard of is in my opinion more reprehensible than either of the other two. A number of captains, both in the opium and free trade, went on shore on Dane's island, and without meeting with either insult or molestation, but merely out of wantonness, they carried the image out of a joss house, and precipitating it down a steep hill broke it to pieces. It would be superfluous to enlarge upon this; but imagine the same party committing a similar atrocity with an image or an emblem from a Hindoo temple in Bengal. Would troops be called out to prevent the infuriated villagers from annihilating them? But imagine a party of foreigners doing such a thing in England? What name have we in our vocabulary that would reach them? I cannot see that I have strained a point in drawing these analogies.

These, Mr. Editor, are the facts of the case. I shall not presume to dictate to those whose eyes this is intended to meet what steps should be taken to cause an amelioration, further than stating my conviction that it is in their power to put a stop to such a state of things, which they will be consulting their own interests by exercising.

I am your obedient servant,
Canton, 29th June, 1842. EXPEDIT.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent "Bob Short" is very angry with "Old Bird," though he acknowledges having derived amusement from his letter, and even bestows the high praise of well upon certain portions of it. Amusement, however, will not satisfy, wit evidently discomposes him; he will not be contented unless "edified" also—now really I think him in this very ungrateful. Perhaps, however, I may be mistaken in the profession of my admonisher. As, under a short signature, he writes rather a long letter, under a familiar name, a grave character may be concealed. Is it the Reverend Robert Short who, so anxious for edification, does me the honor to criticize my harmless production?—I hope not—I can speak freely to "Bob"—I would not willingly be disrespectful.

In the first place then, "Bob" calls me testy; and accuses the poor "Old Bird" of attaching more importance to his fittings than they deserve. Now does not "Bob" himself, in thus stepping in between two parties, with neither of whom he agrees, assume somewhat of an important air? Does he not peal with something of the tone of a "Bob Major"? In the like manner, may not his accusation of spleen be retorted.—Is "Bob" himself the best tempered man in the world? He does not write in a very good humoured style; he talks much about universal philanthropy; he seems to be in a state of universal disgust. For Hongkong he has no great predilection; he grumbles out a sort of prophetic panegyric of what it may be; of his "unfortunate friend" (your own phrase, Bob) he is evidently ashamed; but on the unlucky "Old Bird" the whole vials of his wrath are poured. He fairly pecks me to death! As I read his letter I felt for my feathers, and found myself nearly ready for the spit. I beg pardon—I write for a grave man—I forgot myself—I must not joke.—He is really too hard upon me. Four of my unfortunate paragraphs are dispatched with a dash of his pen; and on the fifth he swoops with cruel severity. Here he evidently thinks himself unanswerable. He rests his whole case upon one point. He agrees that "British merchants, like most other persons know what they are about"; and then, with a triumphant flourish of the hand, he points to Hongkong warehouses and Hongkong residences in reply. If I do not address one ignorant of such matters, will "Bob" tell the public what return these warehouses have yielded for the Capital expended, and when he himself intends to take up his residence in Hongkong? On the latter point he favors us with a prophecy; but as the times of inspiration are past, and he does not state his grounds for the opinion "that in four or five months"—(that is in November or December next)—the British community will be resident in Hongkong, it is difficult to form an estimate of how much this opinion may be worth.

Besides "Bob" is not a very discerning man; he neither argues logically nor fairly. His want of discernment is shown in his not being able to perceive that his "Friend's" letter did very strongly urge the propriety of British merchants moving themselves over to Hongkong; and that, on the principle of patronizing a place as a British settlement, which in itself could advance little in the shape of merit. His discernment is here at fault; and in logic and in charity he fails, when he attributes to a man, of whom he knows nothing, a "narrow-minded and petty spirit of jealousy, not to be accounted for."—Not to be accounted for; and therefore not, but on very good grounds, to be attributed.

We hear a great deal, in certain quarters, of jealousy, hostility and what not. All this is downright nonsense. It is as foolish to suppose a fruitless objectless opposition to Hongkong, as to propose a delusive patronage of it. It is a matter of very little importance, probably, what the "Friend," "Bob" or the "Bird" think of Hongkong; but it is a matter of very considerable importance that the public be not imposed upon. From the first occupation of the settlement to the present time but especially in the time of the late Superintendent, that there has been a continual attempt to puff off its advantages, and give it an undue importance in the eyes of people at a distance, he is a very bold man who ventures to deny. Against this systematic, and mischievous quackery, not against the place itself, or those whose interests may be bound up with it, is directed whatever there may be of spleenetic from the pen of OLD BIRD.

Macao, 6th July, 1842.

Having maintained the serious in my letter, I hope "Bob" will allow me one little joke in postscript.—In the matter of Hongkong, as in all other matters, there will be found a great many "old birds," who "won't be caught with chaff."

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

Although the arrivals during the week have supplied us with intelligence from Bombay and Singapore of a later date than we were before in possession of, they add nothing of any importance. We have received no papers by the Earl Balaclava from Bombay; but Singapore papers to 23d June. Per Probus from New York we have received papers to 15th of March, but they seem to contain no news of much interest, except that the general government continued in great financial difficulty, and that the credit of the different states had not improved, as we gather from the quotation of state-stocks.

We have no direct news from the north of China, although a report comes from Canton is to the effect that Nanking has been taken by the English with great loss to the Chinese, who are stated to have had between 10 to 12,000 killed. We know not what credit this report may deserve, and give it merely as we heard it; but the circumstance of such great numbers of Chinese having been killed, we certainly do not believe, as we do not think that they would ever stand against any enemy sufficient time to suffer such slaughter. If such important movements have been made by the British force, we suppose one of the many Steamers attending it will soon arrive with despatches.

We copy the following from the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette as a specimen of commercial speculation of which the data on which it is founded are altogether erroneous. Sugar in China is not so cheap that it could possibly be sent to England at a profit—on the contrary. China does not produce sufficient for her own use, and consequently imports large quantities from Formosa, Siam and Cochinchina, while the southern provinces find a near and willing market for their sugar in the north. Until within a few years, it is true, the exportation to Bombay of soft Sugar and that of Sugar Candy to India generally was considerable, but the exportation to the former has of late fallen off very much, owing, we believe, to the continually increasing price, and Bombay is now to a great extent supplied from Siam direct, whilst Sugar candy has not been permitted to be imported into Bengal, since that country imports her sugars into England on equal terms with the West Indies. The remittance of Sugar to Bombay was a profitable employment of the ships, who having brought Cotton from Bombay, had to return empty, without they took it, and could afford doing it at very cheap rate. But the taking of Chinese soft Sugar to England could never answer, on account of its high price here, which has hitherto averaged between 8½ to 8 per picul; and that of Sugar Candy, about 10½, and would therefore cost, the former, (including freight, insurance, commission etc.) about 4½d. per pound in England instead of the 2d. our Coteremporary states, and the latter not 4d. but about 6d per lb.; prices considerably higher than are now paid for colonial Sugar for home consumption, and nearly double of what similar sugars fetch in bond. The scheme therefore of making China a sugar-exporting country is not likely soon to come to pass, and the sanguine expectations of our coteremporary to secure justice to China by equalising the sugar-duties at home are doomed to be crushed in the bud. The following paragraph of the Friend of China has caused the above remarks:

"We understand that the beautifully refined and highly saccharine Sugars of Chin-chew could be regularly deliverable in London at or under 4d per pound. The article is, we are told, fully equal for domestic purposes to lump Sugar which is retailed in England at 10d to 1s per lb. The duty on it which, as before said, is in effect prohibitory, it amounts to more than 1s 3d per lb!!! The Raw Sugars of China which would be importable into England, at about 3d per lb would have to pay a duty of 5d per lb! As it is quite certain that there will be an early revision of the Sugar duties (from the avowed dissatisfaction of Brazil, and other foreign and domestic causes we have not time to specify), we would urge on our Merchants to take early measures to secure Justice to China as respects this very important article which should become one of our Staples, for we see no reason why the crude and refined Sugars of China and neighbouring countries should not be brought to Hongkong and thence reshipped to England and other countries."

We publish below a translation with which we have been kindly favored, of a paper that was stuck up in many parts of the streets of Macao, cautioning the people against poison, with which it is supposed the Hoonan soldiers have attempted to kill people in and near Canton. We mentioned a fortnight since that Howqua had warned foreigners in Canton against the same danger, and it is said that several people there have died of poison. The set of poisoning people without amohject, or committing indiscriminate murder to revenge an insult or injury the Hoonan soldiers are said to have suffered upwards of a year since, when in garrison at Canton, appears almost too diabolical for human beings to commit, and we confess to be somewhat sceptical of the existence of the crime, particularly when it is recollected how often the suspicion of poison has been entertained by the vulgar against the most innocent people. In 1820 (we think) an epidemic disease made great havoc among the people of Manila, who imputed the mortality to the water having been poisoned by the few foreigners living there, upon whom they rose, killing several. During the Cholera in Russia, in Poland, and in Spain, the populace thought that the surgeons and physicians were poisoning them, and several of them lost their lives in the commotions caused by this insatiation, for no suspicions could have been more groundless. It is common enough for the ignorant, to impute the effects of any unknown disease operating powerfully upon the human frame and terminating fatally, to poison, and we should therefore be inclined to think that the Hoonan soldiers have been unjustly accused.

"We hear it currently reported, that in the provincial city, and all the towns, villages, and country places, round about, people from Hoonan are making attempts to poison the wells, and are stealthily impregnating with deleterious substances, pulse, flesh, vegetables, fruit, and other articles of food, thus causing the death of many persons, who ignorantly partake, in the short space of a few days. But those who discover in time, that they have eaten of articles, thus impregnated, may be cured by a timely internal application of the following prescription—"

"Several plantains, a few heads of garlic, old man's rice, orange peel, bruised together, and mixed with sugar, the whole to be drunk in a quantity of the juice of the fruit called Sam Neen, or Carambola.

"This will neutralize the deleterious substances, and the serious consequences of partaking of poisoned articles of food, may be avoided."

And this placard, not ending, with the usual reference to such a shop or establishment, No. so, in such a street, where the above remedy may be had, leads one to suppose it is not a hoax.

The two American ships of war Constitution and Boston, are we learn about leaving for the Sandwich Islands and West Coast of America. We believe they will leave Macao roads this day for Hongkong, whence they will proceed to the northern coasts of China before going eastward.

On Monday afternoon Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, C. B. K. H., arrived here from Hongkong, accompanied by Sir Thomas Herbert, K. C. B., and will we believe again leave this in a few days.

We have copied from the Register the letter signed "Expedi" giving some account of the disorders committed by Commanders and crews of opium, and perhaps, other vessels at Whampoa. It is much to be desired that something were done to repress these disorders, as they may seriously affect the well being of the legal trade, which, just now, so many vessels from Bombay having arrived with Cotton cargoes, is of very great importance. Yet, we do not see what remedy can be devised in the present anomalous position of affairs at Canton. All below Whampoa Sir Henry Pottinger considers an inimical country, and the Chinese are interdicted from there exercising their own jurisdiction, whilst above Whampoa they are treated as friends; and are allowed to erect fortifications and defences of all kinds, whilst the British trade furnishes them the means of prolonging the struggle. We are quite certain that if Canton were, while hostilities lasted, closed against all foreign trade, the TRA which the home government seem to be so much afraid of not getting, would find its way out, either by Hongkong or Macao, in sufficient quantities, whilst the government and hong merchants would to a very considerable degree at least be deprived of the great duties they now levy. Whether British manufactures, be taken in return in equal quantities may be doubtful, but during a state of war, where great interests are involved, some must suffer for a while.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China. 30th June.

Horse Stealing—A correspondent writes us that the following occurrence took place on the 4th inst at the house now occupied by Mr. Parkinson, which is situated at the head of the Wang-in-chung Valley. Five Horses were turned out there, but some men who came by the Tytan Road, very coolly about eight o'clock in the evening caught three of the horses, tied them by the four legs, turned them up à la Swine, slung them on Bamboos, shouldered and carried them off towards Chek-chu. The whole affair was witnessed by a gang of masons passing but, who, fearful of being beaten, gave no alarm."

* It is well for the sake of "the correspondents" credit for veracity, that it was quite dark, when this robbery is said to have been committed, and he cannot therefore be supposed to have seen the horses slung on bamboos; but his and our coteremporary's credulity is amusing as believing impossibilities.—ED. C. P.

The late heavy rains, which were wholly unexpected so late in the season* have, we are sorry to say, done much injury to our lines of communication. Roads and Bridges have both suffered, and in some instances been carried away by the torrents from the hills. Several of the newly erected sea walls have sustained partial injury by the land waters. In a few instances we find damage has been done to some of the new buildings. We regret to hear that a China house fell in, two of the inmates of which were killed on the spot, and four or five others severely wounded. They were told to remove, before the accident happened, and were humanely offered but refused quarters from one of our Residents. We have no doubt unless otherwise compelled, the Chinese will build in the same way, on the same spot and be annually liable to the same disaster. Instead of profiting by experience they affect to call it chance pigen and ejaculate maakes. We cannot but think, that for the native population, it is quite necessary that some general provisions as respects buildings and tenements should be made. We hold they are essentially necessary for their welfare of course interfering as little as possible with private property, and no farther than the strict necessity of the case justifies.

HONGKONG SHIPPING.

ARRIVED.
23. (B.) Shah Allam , (Transport) E. Evans	Comdr Calcutta, Part 39th Regt. M. N. I.
24. " Harold , (Trapt)	G. Parker Calcutta Govt.
SAILED.
23. (B.) Isis , (Transport) G. Graham	" Chusan.
24. H. M. S. Harold Capt. C. Bell	M. N. I.
26. (B.) Harold , G. Parker	Chusan.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUSAN, CHINNAS, &c.

H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Com-manding Officer
Blonde,	42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.
Thalia,	44, capt. Hope.
Endymion,	44, the honble F. W. Grey.
Calliope,	28, " A. L. Kuper.
North Star,	26, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald,	26, " J. Nias, C. B.
Dido,	30, " the honble H. Keppell.
Pelican,	18, " Napier.
Modeste,	18, comr. Watson.
Harlequin,	18, " the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine,	16, " Morshed.
Children,	16, " Halsted.
Clio,	16, " E. Tronbridge.
Algerine,	10, comr. W. H. Maidland.
Royalist,	10, " Chetwood.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

Starling,	8, comr. Kellett.
Lady Bentinck,	" Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

Belleville,	capt. Kingcomb.
Apollo,	comr. C. Frederick.
Rappah,	" Cole.
Jupiter,	comr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STEARERS.

H. C. Queen,	comr. W. Warder,
Seacoe,	comr. Ormsby.
Auckland,	" Ethersey, I. N.
Tennessee,	" Wall, I. N.
Nemesis,	lieut. W. H. Hall, E. N.
Pluto,	" Tudor, E. N.
Ariadne,	comr. Roberts, I. N.
Medusa,	" Hewett, I. N.
Phlegethon,	lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr. Hough, M. N.
M. M. Vixen,	comr. H. Bayes.

* Why unexpected? The heaviest rains during the year, in these parts, generally fall in June.—ED. C. P.

At Amoy.
 " Cambrian, 36, capt. Chade, c. s. senior commanding officer.
 " Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
 " Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.
 At Hongkong
 " Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. s.
 capt. sir T. Herbert, R. C. M.
 " Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, c. o.
 " Nimrod, 18, comr. Glassey.
 " Cruiser, 16, " Pearse.
 " Hazard, 16, " Bell.
 " Serpent, 16, " Nevill.
 " Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.
 H. C. St. Hooghly, mr. comr. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED
 July.
 3. (A) Panther, —, Manila.
 7. " Congress, Hay, Sandwich Islands.
 7. " Probus, Sumner, New York.
 7. (B) Winchester, Macdonald, Singapore.
 7. " Earl Balcaras, Baker, Bombay & Sing.
 7. " England, Tisard, Bombay. [Manila.
 7. (Du.) Prince Frederick, de Kok, Batavia Sing. &
 7. (B.) S Horrocks, —, Singapore.

PASSENGERS Per
 Winchester, Messrs Leffler, Almeida, and Geo.
 Napier.

SAILED
 July.
 7. (A) Oneida, Swift, Singapore
 8. (B) Masden, Dare, do.
 8. " Bengalee, Boadie, London.
 9. (Sp.) Isabel II, —, Manila.

UNDER DESPATCH
 For Bombay.—Sir Herbert Campton, Token.
 For Calcutta.—Hellas, Red Rover.
 The Akbar from China arrived in Singapore on the 22nd June, after a passage on only 19 days.
 The Horatio passed Anjer on the 15th June, 29 days from China.

VESSELS EXPECTED
 From England.—Ann Birdson, Dovecot, Guluare, Devon, Gemini, Peruvian, Elisabeth, Pink, Anna Maria, Judith
 Allen, Raymond, Copeland, Chebar,
 Caroline, Mary Ann Edie, Claudine.
 From Bombay.—Drongan, Bucephalus, Island
 Quern, Anonyma, Cornwallis,
 Agneder, Helen, Salem, Fansillart,
 Asia, Edinburgh, Diana, Coroa,
 Lord Eldon, Grecian, Lady Clarke.
 From Calcutta.—Dido, Water Witch, Clown, Hugh Walker, Intrepid, Clown, Mermaid, Victory, Cowasjee Family,
 Framjee Cowasjee, Mor.
 From Singapore.—Hongkong, Camdien, Horsey,
 Sarah Betsford, Guess.

LATEST DATES,
 ENGLAND, 6th April. SINGAPORE, 24th June.
 UNITED STATES, March 15. MANILA, 24th June.
 CALOUTTA, 24th May. AMOY, 28th May.
 BOMBAY, 26th May. CHUAN, 5th June.
 JAVA, 4th June.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arus,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arctham,	—	Christians	C. Fearon.
Amelia,	—	Potter,	W. H. Harton,
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Bombay,	1280	Burley,	Jardine M. & Co.
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	"
Canton,	507	Crouch,	Turner and Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corsair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Carnatic,	—	cuungham	Dent and Co.
China,	524	Robertson	Russell and Co.
Crest,	—	Oliver,	Wetmore & Co.

*Cleopatra,	372	Earley,	Jardine Matheson & Co
*Charles Forbes	990	Willa, [ger	"
Charlotte,	—	Liebschwa	"
*Devonport,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
England,	—	Tisard,	Lindsay and Co.
Earl Balcaras,	1250	Baker,	"
*Fortescue,	259	Hall,	Jardine M. & Co.
Forteen,	294	Saddeley,	"
*Francis Spaight	—	Wino,	Turner and Co.
Gazelle,	241	—	"
Gratitude,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar and Co.
*Hero of Malown	—	Jackson,	Dirom and Co.
Hope,	—	Barrett,	C. Fearon.
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	G. Nye jr.
*Herald,	—	Conison,	Macvicar & Co.
Harmony,	530	Smith,	"
*Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Intrinsic,	—	Davidson,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co
Ira. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
*J. Jeejeebhoy,	600	Carnegy,	Jardine Matheson & Co
*John Christian,	400	whitycom,	Dirom and Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgan [be	Dent and Co.
*Lowjee Family	—	Ayres,	"
Lord Amherst,	—	Hopkins,	"
*Larkins,	—	Hibbert,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
*Niagara,	380	Champion	Jardine Matheson & Co
Nerva,	—	Melville,	Macvicar & Co.
Prima Donna,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Queen Victoria	716	Black,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Queen Victoria	—	Connor,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Red Rover,	—	Wright,	"
Royal Saxon,	—	Crawford,	H. Rustomjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardosjee.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Sylph,	—	Guy,	H. Rustomjee
Sir H. Compton	—	Bolton,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Ternate,	—	Mann,	Fergusson L. & Co.
Token,	579	Chalmers,	Russell and Co.
Vestal,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Winchester,	—	macdonald	"
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	"
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durrant jr.
Wm. Hughes,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	"
*Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonnal	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
Forum,	Murdock, Russell and Co.
Helena,	Benjamin,
Levant,	Faulk,
*Anna MacKim,	Vanner,
Congress,	Hay,
*Cincinnati,	Wilson,
Probus,	Sumner,
Grafton,	Gardner,
Robert Fulton,	McMichael
Lowell,	Peirce,
Panther,	—
	Holliday Wise & Co.

HAMBURG.

Francisco, | Berndt, | Wetmore & Co.

DUTCH.

Prince Frederick | de Kok, | Reynvaan & Co.

* at Whampoa.

DIED.—Captain CAMPBELL of H. M. 55th Regiment, at Chapoo, May 27, 1842, of wounds in the head received at the capture of that city, after lingering nine days.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,
 at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 42.] Macao, Saturday, 16th July, 1842.

[No. 354.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

JOHN SMITH has the pleasure to announce, that he will sell in his AUCTION ROOM, to the highest bidder, on THURSDAY the 21st Inst., an assortment of Millinery; a few Framed Engravings; one 6-light Hanging Lamp, with shades and Burners; patent Bracket Lamps; Breakfast, Dinner and Dessert Services, of handsome patterns; Dressing Glasses; Glass-ware; a small portion of Plate and Plated-ware; one new and very handsomely finished Office Desk, one London made reading or Music Stand; three small Chairs, one with spring seat, and covered with morocco; porcelain and metal Mantel Pieces; four beautiful artificial Flower Vases; Bengal Table Cloths and Napkins; Gin, Brandy, Sherry, Lisbon Wine and Beer; Bottled Fruit, Lucifer Matches; Spermaceti Candles; Negrohead Tobacco; Elastic Braces; Double and single Shot Belts; Chintze; Pump Leather; Coir and Hemp Rope; a small quantity of Bombay and Madras Cotton; and a variety of Sundries.

also
American Beef and Pork; and a few hogheads of Bass' Beer.

Macao, 15th July, 1842

NOTICE.—The Firm of GAIBBLE, HUGHES & Co., is this day dissolved, by the retirement of Captain HENRY GIBBLE therefrom.

The business will be continued by Mr. W. H. HUGHES, who will also arrange any outstanding accounts.
Macao, 11th July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th Ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE, and WILLIAM STEWART.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—MR. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.
DENT & Co.
Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—MR. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquoy also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies stores, Wines, &c. &c. &c., at the shortest notice.
London Hotel Queen's Road,
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

WM. ALLANSON.
Macao, 1st May, 1842 A. MOSS.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.
A VIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et subalternes des Navires Francais venant en Chine sont prevenus que leurs navires ne paveront l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les memes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Americains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.
Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.
Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of Bombay, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
W. W. DALE.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.
STORAGE at HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DAVIS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ON SALE.

 THE British Brig GUEST, of 134 Tons new measurement, A. I. at Lloyds, has lately undergone a thorough repair in England, and is coppered with 22 oz. copper; she sails fast, is well found in stores and well adapted for the trade in China. For further Particulars apply to
W. ALLANSON & Co.
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

 THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to J. CONKLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co. —Macao.
FOR LONDON.

 THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to
DENT & Co.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

 THE LOWRIE FAMILY, captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to
DENT & Co.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

 THE Teak Built Ship "H. O. OF MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to F. PRO. DIROM & Co.
W. W. DALE.
Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

 THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to
D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

 THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIRIE, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

FOR CHARTER.

 THE A. I. Bark, PRIMA DONNA, 208 Tons. Apply to Capt. KELL on board at Hongkong, or to
HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.
Macao, 20th May, 1842.

WANTS A SITUATION as Clerk in a mercantile establishment, a young man lately arrived, who is well acquainted with mercantile business, and understands book keeping. For Particulars apply at the Canton Press Office.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARKS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by
C. V. GILLESPIE.
Hongkong, 31st March, 1842.

HOSCCERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton SOCKS and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MEXICO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hhds per "Anna Kliza." apply to DALLAS and Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, HORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monopagnola WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAINS PANACHE, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermaceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to
JOHN D. SWORD & Co.
Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLA ROBERTSON" lying in the Type.

Cases of BASSER BEER,
LA ROSE CLARET,
OILMAN'S STORES,
SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles,
PROVISION RICE,
TABLE RICE,
GRAIN,
COIR ROPE.—Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "HELENA" in the Type, American Pilot BREAD, in barrels.
do. Navy, do. in air tight Hhds.
Very superior BUTTER in barrels each containing a stone Jar of 10 lb packed in salt; apply on board.
Macao, 2nd July 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hhds.
SULTZER WATER new.
OILMAN'S STORES late imports.
BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Godowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.
An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed Lamps, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new FAVENCE PORCELAIN DINNER SERVICES, Cast Glass Tumbler, Wine and Beer Glasses.
The best Muslinatum SHIRT in quart bottles, s. 60 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BASS' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavoured pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SULTZER WATER, GIR, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARKS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to
A. A. DE MELLO.
Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE.—1,600 piculs CHILIAN PIG COPPER on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt. Benjamin, now lying in the Roads; apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. RITCHIE.

Macao, 17th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADRID WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KIRK & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hbds., PORT and SWEET in bottles ex "Sappho" and Attopp's fine PALE ALE in Hbds. ex "John O'Grady" & "Regular." TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SELTZERWATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—BRANDY in Wood; Apply at Gamboa's to B. LEMOS.
Macao, 11th August, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest recollections of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG, A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one dollar. Esop's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars. The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

MR. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, ATTACHED for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
" " for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the Monthly Times, 4th April.

THE EARTHQUAKE PANIC.

An absurd impression gained ground among a very large class of the more superstitious that a supposed prophecy, involving the destruction of London, was about to be fulfilled.

The scene witnessed in the neighbourhoods of St. Giles's and Seven Dials during the whole of the 18th ult. was perhaps the most singular that has presented itself for many years. Many of the Irish had left, but by far the larger number had been compelled to remain. The frantic cries, the incessant appeals to heaven for deliverance, heard on every side during the day, sufficiently evidenced the power with which this popular delusion had seized the minds of those superstitious people. Towards the close of the day a large number of them determined not to remain in London during the night, and, with what few things they possessed, took their departure for what they considered more favoured spots. The poor Irish, however, are not the only persons who have been credulous in this matter; many persons from whom better things might have been expected were amongst the number who left London to avoid the threatened catastrophe. To the Gravesend steam-boat companies the "earthquake" proved a source of immense gain; and the same may be said with regard to the various railways. Long before the hour appointed for the starting of steam-boats from London-bridge wharf, Hungerford market, and other places, the shore was thronged by crowds of decently dressed people of both sexes, and, in many instances, whole families were to be seen with an amount of civilities and drinkables which would have led one to suppose that they were going a six week's voyage. About eleven o'clock the Planet came alongside London bridge wharf, and the rush to get on board of her was tremendous, and in a few minutes there was scarcely standing room on board. The trains on the various railways were, throughout the whole of the 15th and 16th, unusually busy in conveying passengers without the prescribed limits of the metropolitan disaster. To those who had not the means of taking trips to Gravesend, or by railway, other places which were supposed to be exempted from the influence of the "rude commotion" about to take place, were resorted to. From an early hour in the morning the humbler classes from the east end of the metropolis sought refuge in the fields beyond the purlieus of Stepney. On the north, Hampstead and Highgate were favoured with a visit from large bodies; and Primrose Hill also was selected as a famous spot for viewing the demolition of the levitation city. The darkness of the day and the thickness of the atmosphere, however, prevented it being seen. Brighton has reaped some advantages from the much-dreaded earthquake, as numbers of families of the middle and upper classes have recently arrived to avoid its consequences. In the course of the night of the 9th, nearly twenty carriages arrived, a circumstance that has not occurred since the opening of the London and Brighton railway.

OFFICIAL POSTPONEMENT OF THE EARTHQUAKE.—Messrs. Blaby and Ellis, the ushers of the Thames Police Court, received a letter bearing the seal of the Police Commissioners, and enclosing a printed notice decorated with the Royal arms, which they handed to Mr. Broderick, the Magistrate, who laughed heartily at the joke. The letter was to the following effect:—"Communications of Police-office, Great Scotland-yard, March 8, 1842. Gentlemen,—I am directed by the Commissioners to request that it may be as serviceable as possible to the subjects of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen. By order, G. Ellerby, clerk. To Messrs Blaby and Ellis." The notice, which was printed in large type, was as follows:—"Important news to the public.—The Earthquake, which was to have taken place on the 17th of this month, is put off till the 25th. By authority."—The credulity of the Irish on this subject is extraordinary, and it is a fact that many of them visited Thames-street and St. Paul's Churchyard on Sunday, to ascertain how much of the Custom House and the Cathedral had disappeared, and the writer heard an Irishman on Sunday morning, near St. Paul's, saying, "Faith now, the great big Church don't look so high as it did some time ago." It is a fact that an Irish cow-whipper came to the Thames Police Office, and gravely inquired if the earthquake was put off, and he was assured by the ushers it was—that the rainy weather had stopped it.

The following are among the facetiae to which this " portentous event " has given rise:—The Lord Mayor, to be on a level with the scientific world, and to prevent confusion, made admirable arrangements for the sinking of the City. The Stock Exchange was to disappear first, on account of the distance it would have to go to a place which must be nameless; and a corresponding fall was to occur in the funds. The Mansion House and the Bank, with the streets adjacent, were then to go down; together with the Tower, the Mint, and the Minories. A large pump was next to find the bottom of its own well, Guildhall to tumble into the Corporation wine-cellar, and so on from St. Botolph's to Temple Bar. The first shock, says the Charterist, which will be felt, will occur at eight o'clock in the morning. This, however, will not be the earthquake, but only Mr. Pattison, Ex M. P., tumbling out of bed. People will willingly accept the earthquake in lieu of another such occurrence. Several stockbrokers seated themselves upon some Spanish bonds, feeling assured they could not go down lower than they were. Mr. Ferrand consoled himself with the aphorism that nought was never in danger.

NATIVE STATES.

AFGHANISTAN.—Our prospects in Afghanistan seem to brighten as we advance towards Cabul with a cautious but steady pace. On Tuesday morning we received a letter from Jellalabad of the 27th April, which announced the unexpected arrival of Captain Colin Mackenzie in the Camp, on his parole for two days. Our contemporaries have also received letters from the camp, and laid the contents before their readers. From these sources we have compiled the following brief narrative of events.

The object of Captain Mackenzie's journey was to announce the death of General Elphinstone, and to treat on the part of Mahomed Akbar Khan, and Mahomed Khan Shah Ghilzie, for the restoration of our prisoners. The General's death, which took place on the 23rd instant, was occasioned by the fatigue of his compulsory removal from Budebad to the fort in the Eastern Ghilzie mountains, southward of Teesee, but at an elevation on the very margin of the snow. The exertion proved too much for his exhausted frame. He expired almost without a struggle. His mind had for some days been brought into a frame of resignation by the consolations of religion.

Captain Mackenzie, one of the most high-minded and gallant of our officers, has by his testimony rolled back from the General's name a part of the reproach which had been cast upon it. He distinctly avers that though imperfectly recovered from all of sickness such as few constitutions could have withstood, he always conspicuously exposed his person to the fire of the enemy at Cabul, and his chivalrous bearing never belied the fame of a distinguished line of ancestry. The wisdom of his military measures can be only decided when enquiry has withdrawn the cloud of mystery which hangs over the defence of the ill-fated cantonment.

The charge of pusillanimity which has been brought against him for his desertion of the army in the passes, is now declared to be totally without foundation. He was decoyed into the tent of Akbar Khan, who promised to induce the Ghilzie to refrain from further attacks on the remnant of his troops. When he saw that the negotiation was illusory, he indignantly remanded to be led back to perish with his men. But Akbar Khan knew his game too well, and he was detained, as had been from the first devised, as a hostage for the return of Dost Mahomed to power. Capt. Mackenzie's narrative places this act of treachery on the part of Akbar Khan in the clearest point of view. It corroborates that which had before been stated on this head by an intelligent non-commissioned officer, who was allowed to come to Jellalabad to treat for the ransom of other prisoners. Major Pottinger was indeed deceived for a short time, and led to believe that the conduct of Akbar Khan had been less criminal. But this delusion was short-lived, and when he ascertained the truth, he himself avowed it in these remarkable words: "I believe, he did all he could destroy our poor fellows." This corroborates also the cautious but authentic testimony of Dr. Brydon, according to whom this son of the Dost is chargeable with having trepanned our officers and their families into his power, and at the same time ruthlessly pursuing his plan of destroying the soldiers.

A day or two before his decease, General Elphinstone signed a document which, according to some, is a narrative of the transactions of this eventful period; and, according to our information, will settle some points of no small importance to the character of several officers on the disastrous retreat. Akbar Khan had promised to send the General's remains to be interred within the walls of Jellalabad; but they had not arrived on the 27th of April, four days after his death, and our military authorities there had long ceased to trust him for any thing which was not wrung from him in open field.

The prisoners are stated in the Delhi Gazette Extra to be in two separate forts, and to be well treated. Men, women, and children. Four accouchements had taken place, and four more were expected shortly. One lady, Mrs. Waller, was obliged to move, being allowed a litter, the day after her confinement. Of the success of the negotiations for their restoration there was no very sanguine hope, since both these men aim at the present restoration of Dost Mahomed. There was not much apprehension regarding their future treatment, as the Sirdars well understood their value. Mahomed Akbar is stated to have gone from the field of battle to Cabul, where he found himself unpopular, and returned to the fort. He has scarcely a hundred followers with him, and there is nothing to be dreaded from his resources or his influence; though he has too firm a hold on us through the possession of those whom we would give any thing to ransom—except the Dost himself.

Touching the actual participation of Akbar Khan in the murder of the Envoy, the Delhi Gazette states that the testimony of Captain Mackenzie regarding the murder of Sir W. Macnaghten by the hand of Mahomed Akbar, is most conclusive. "He saw the ruffian perpetrate the murder;" our advices state that a letter, bearing his seal, from him to the Chiefs of Karas, which had been intercepted, fully developed his plan of treachery in attempting to seize, and then murdering the Envoy. He quotes the Koran in justification of the act. In his writing case, now in the possession of the officer who commanded the right column on the 7th of April, was found a long letter from that worthy, Yar Mahomed Khan, with whom he seems to be on intimate terms.

We are happy to find that Col. Montech had already effected a junction with the advancing brigade under Col. Bolton, which was likely thus to reach Jellalabad earlier than General Pollock had calculated on. Supplies were also coming in rapidly; and there was little doubt that a sufficient quantity would be obtained to enable the troops to move onward with confidence. The advance towards the more healthy eminence at Guadamk, would probably be made as soon as Col. Bolton's detachment had joined the main body. Of the ulterior movements of the troops, nothing could be definitely known; it would necessarily be governed by circumstances; but there can be little doubt that our triumphant return has produced an effect, which, combined with the proverbial absence of all mutual confidence among the Afghans, will abundantly facilitate our future movements, and may be considered almost as compensating for the want of a siege train. One thing, however, may be fairly deduced from recent events and present appearances; that our troops will positively advance upon Cabul, however soon we may, after that, be resolved to return.—Friend of India, May 9.

AFGHANISTAN.

From India Gazette, of 20th to 30th May.

We have a letter from Jullahabad, dated the 5th inst. from which we make the following extracts:—
"Mackenzie has returned hither from Tezeen, but our negotiations for the release of our unfortunate friends, the captives, are not, I lament to say, proceeding as we could desire.

"We are to march to Gundamak as soon—though that will not be soon—as carriage sufficient to the transport of grain for two months' consumption can be collected.

"This same carriage, however, is still as scarce as ever. A kafilah of three hundred and seventy camels, laden with grain, has been reported to have arrived 'within hail' of Dhakha, and intelligence has been received of the departure for Dhakha, and eventually for this place or Gundamak, of 88 camels with tents and baggage of different descriptions. Of these there are 70 carrying tents for the 9th Foot, and 10 conveying the baggage and pairs of 80 sepoy (wounded and sick men reported convalescent) of the different Regiments of Native Infantry; and the residuary eight are bringing grain for the use of the party.

"There have been several sufferers from robbery. General MacCaskill has lost a chest of wine and a tent or part of a tent, and the camels on which these were laden. These, however, are mere trifles.

"The 6th, 64th, &c. are to move back to this place (at a moment's notice,) as soon as certain Sikh troops that have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to relieve our party at Dhakha, shall have reached that post.

"More, when there is anything to say worth saying.

Another letter, of the 9th instant, from Peshawar, says:—

"I hasten to give you a few morceaux of news that have just now reached me, in a letter from a brother officer at Dhakha.

"Report says, that Mahomed Ukkar has sought for an interview with Pollock, and that this was denied him. I do not myself believe either part of the story; however, let it pass! A force is at Zootee, near Gundamak, but the state of Pollock's supplies prevents his pushing on to attack it, anxious as he is, and as we all are, to try conclusions with the enemy, whoever or wherever he may be. Supplies continue to be procured, but not in quantities much more than commensurate with what is daily consumed—both at Jullahabad and here (at Dhakha).

"There is a talk of Pollock's sending a force to Lughman, to see what effect that will have upon the chiefs. By the same token these gentry (as I have gathered from good authorities) have tendered their allegiance to Ukkar Khan, and on this fact rests one cause of my scepticism as to the truth of the report, that Ukkar has sought an interview with Pollock. By the way that same Ukkar's interviews are memorable events, let who will have murdered poor Macnaghten. The road through the Jugdihuk Pass is reported to be almost impenetrable, in consequence of the fearful stench of the dead bodies lying "in number numberless" upon the road. And how follow two or three more rumours, that, like those which have gone before (and like those of which, truth to say, the staple of our conversations is made up) must, if taken only for as much as they are worth, be estimated somewhat cheaply. It is reported that Good Mahomed has come in; and great fears are entertained for the safety of the Shah's family. Rather mal-apropos of which! All the women supposed to be pregnant to European officers or Europeans, have had, it is said, their bowels ripped open; and lastly it is said—mind you it is said—that the officers taken with the Ghuznee garrison are treated most brutally. What will be the end of that long array of follies and calamities of which the "First Great Cause" (so far as human Agency extends) was Lord Auckland's commencement of the Afghan campaign, and his restoration of Shah Shooja.

HOW TO PROCURE AMMUNITION.

By the way, talking of ammunition, how do you suppose these fine fellows of Jullahabad managed to replenish their magazines, when they were running short in bullets? For my soul, the best thing in the world. They dressed up a figure in an old full dressed coat and cocked hat, belonging to that gallant old Kioey Sale, and managed with pulleys, ropes, or something, to make it bow its head and raise its right arm.—Well, Sir! This "lay figure" they placed one morning early "bolt upright, and ready to fight" on a parapet just above a window, which Sale did caw and then look out of, and behind which in a high wall, and as the day cleared, there the enemy beheld it. Didn't they fire at it? Oh no, not in the least—certainly not—and perhaps it didn't make them any graceful bows at all? By Jove but it did

"We are not quite sure that this is the date in which our correspondent has written. It is probably the 8th, for other letters of the 5th and 6th, make no mention of Captain Mackenzie's return, though! and the better the fire became the cooler and more courteous, and more self-possessed became the effigy.

"At last they seemed to think Sale was the very devil incarnate;—and, doubtless, they would have "smelt a rat," had his representative been left there for any great length of time together. However this was not done, and knowing, as they did, how little the real Simon Pure is wont to heed their bullets, there is nothing very extraordinary in their having continued to believe (especially as the figure was so well got up that at forty yards it was impossible to tell that it was not a living one) that it was at Sale himself that they were firing every morning, for an hour or so together, without knocking him into the next world, nay without even making him get out of that."

"Not the least remarkable particular is, that only one ball (out of the hundreds that were picked out of the wall behind it every night)—only one ball hit the figure during the several successive occasions upon which it "stood fire." This is a fact, I assure you.

The following is extracted from letter of a Mysnail correspondent, writing on the subject of the rumoured withdrawal from Peshawar, which seems to be gaining ground:—

"It is generally credited here, (in the upper provinces,) that orders have been sent both to Pollock and to Nott, to withdraw from Afghanistan; the latter being directed to retire by the Bolan pass; of a verity, that won't be quite so easy: the want of carriage will alone prove a formidable difficulty, and his first rearward march will bring a regular hornet's nest about him, the Afghans being apparently ignorant of the old proverb, 'Build a bridge of gold, for a retreating enemy.' His rear will be beset nearly the whole way, and by the time he reaches the pass his withdrawal will not, I suspect, wear a very dignified appearance.

"But Pollock has only seven marches to make to reach the plains of Peshawar, and moreover, he has not an enemy near, save the Momunds and Afreedis; of course our unfortunate ally, Tora Baz Khan, will have to accompany our troops and yield Lailpore to his rival. It is one of the unfortunate circumstances attendant upon our Afghan campaign, that we are frequently obliged to leave in the lurch people who have really been true and faithful to us. Now Tora Baz Khan has been a good servant to us and frequently been most useful; Sandut Khan is a more popular and more powerful chief, so our friend's life won't be worth much purchase if he remains, when we have left the country.

"The evacuation of Afghanistan is perhaps, under recent circumstances the wisest course that Government could take; not but that Cabul might be easily re-taken if Pollock had but carriage sufficient, and grain, and if he had siege guns (but they are not absolutely indispensable though certainly desirable to prevent any risk of failure); but the re-capture is not the only thing to be considered; the after consequences, the ulterior proceedings, are what we should look to principally; 'Facilis descensus avari, and revocare, &c.' It's easy enough to get into a fix, but not so easy to get out of it again; I consider an army at Cabul as regularly pounded.

"But before we show our backs to the rude Afghans, I sincerely trust some arrangements will be made for the delivery of the captives, some of whom deserve our warmest sympathies. The one ditto is, that Pollock has full powers to negotiate ransoms, or exchange; and that he may promise to surrender any prisoners of ours except Dost Mahomed Khan. I am sorry the poor Amer is to be retained, but hope it will only be for a time; perhaps Government do not wish to appear belittled into giving him up."—India Gazette 30th May.

We hear, that Her Majesty, Donna MARIA, Queen of Portugal, has been pleased to confer the honor of Knight hood on Jose d' Almeida Esq., of the firm of Jose d' Almeida and Sons, Merchants of Singapore, for the liberal assistance afforded by him to Her Majesty's Ships of war at Singapore.

Private letters, by the present mail, confirm upon good authority, the report, given in the Overland paper, that Sir George Murray is likely to succeed Lord Hill at the Horse Guards. Sir H. Hardinge, in this case, will succeed Sir George Murray. But for this the Indian command would have been pressed on Sir H. Hardinge.

CAPTURE OF HYKULZIE.—We are happy to inform our readers that Major General England has succeeded in his second attack on Hykulzie. The enemy's entrenchments and stockades on the hill were stormed with great facility, in consequence of a well directed fire from the artillery under Capt. Leslie, having compelled the enemy to desert their outworks while the columns of infantry was ascending the hill. The enemy did not show much disposition to close with the British troops, so that the former had not above fifty killed. The loss on our side was very trifling: Lieutenant Ashburner having been severely, and seven or eight of inferior rank, slightly wounded.

The sacred standard, to which the Mahomedans attach such importance in their combats with Christians, was captured. The village of Hykulzie was plundered and burnt immediately after the battle. The following is a letter from our correspondent in General England's force, Camp Right Bank of Lora River, 22th April, 1842.

"We have taken Hykulzie this time, and we cannot understand how the General allowed himself to be so drubbed on such ground this day, last month—you might drive a buggy up the hill and the ditch is but two feet. We got as many and particular orders heard about the taking the hill as if it had been a town. The only fault in his plan was that he did not let the three columns ascend together. If he had allowed us to have done so, we could have outflanked them and killed many; as it is, fifty is the very utmost of their killed. We have only seven or eight slightly wounded amongst our men. Poor Ashburner has some awful wounds. We do not expect any opposition in the Kojuck. Four miles of our march this morning was through cornfields, which extended to the right and left for miles and miles as far the eye could reach. Leslie's guns did good execution at Hykulzie and made the enemy quit the stockades before the columns could get up. The company of the 8th captured the green flag which we accept as a good omen to the flank battalion. The village of Hykulzie was sacked and burnt as belonging to Mahomed Sudey.

I have heard and still hear a great deal of the bravery of the Afghans; they did not show it in Lord Keane's march through their country, nor has Nott found that they would stand in fair fight. Treachery they excel in, and last month they took clever and decided advantage of our general's sending them up 160 men to be butchered. It was said in the first camp, but I know not how truly, that our people, when attacking Hykulzie last month, had got into the breastworks and driven the Afghans out, when these latter were recalled to the charge by one of their chiefs who saw that the handful of men, by whom they were scattered, were not supported from below by any fresh advance. Had they the bravery attributed to them by their partisans in camp, they would have taken advantage of our position after the last affair. They were not two miles off and collected in force whilst we had only 400 men to protect a place that in the morning the General had not thought 2,500 too many to be sent against.

If we meet with any opposition in the Kojuck, I will write you again. —Bombay Courier, May 30.

Letters of the 21st instant mention, that the Governor General's express had reached Allahabad on that morning. The Governor General is said to be most assiduous in his attention to business—working hard, all day, in doors and out-of-doors. Some inconvenience has arisen from the extent of his office establishment, as it has been found by no means easy to house so many of them. Several of the underlings are compelled, for want of other accommodation, to board, day and night, in their office. A fine portable Columbian Press, with all the necessary paraphernalia, has arrived, and is to accompany his Lordship in all his movements. It is the one ditto, that the Governor General will start for Cawnpore in October next. The Cavalry escort (part of the 6th) left Allahabad, on the morning of the 21st instant, to return to Benares. Cards had been issued for a grand entertainment on the Queen's birth-day and preparations were making for a display of fire works; speaking of which, our correspondent adds, that his Lordship had been making great exertions to accelerate the despatch of the rockets, intended for Afghanistan, having himself been to the Post Master on the subject. They are, by this time, near the frontier. One of our letters adds, "Brigadier England has at last thoroughly beaten his enemy, and forced the path in gallant style, the Bombay Jacks behaving well, notwithstanding the double entertained of them."—India Gazette, May 30.

The following particulars, from the Circular to Bankers, of the failure of the great West of England house of Acraman and Co., will be read with interest by some of our readers:

"The papers say that 'Messrs. Acraman, Morgan, and Co. and D. E., and A. Acraman of Bristol, have determined on calling their creditors together.' This has been the most enterprising firm in the west of England; their subscribed capital was £2,500,000; they paid at one time £2,400 to their tenants, shipwrights, and ship-carpenters, in weekly wages. We are credibly informed, that their entire capital is whole, reckoning the value of their effects at prime cost. They have also reduced their liabilities to the comparatively small sum of about £250,000, and yet they are constrained 'to call their creditors together.' It is a reflection on our authorities to allow such a firm to stop at a time like this; and such a sequel would not be suffered by the Government of Belgium, Holland, or Prussia. The negotiation for a loan from the Bank of England must have failed, although a gentleman from Bristol called at our office since Friday last to inform us, that Messrs. Acraman had obtained assistance from that corporation."

NEPAUL.—We are informed, on the best authority, that a very large force of Chinese, supported by Nepalese are in full march on Ladak. It is the case what becomes of the highway that the Sikhs and Nepalese were inclined to join against us? This information following so closely upon the hints lately published by Croce's in our columns, induces us to ask if Lord Ellenborough will suffer the possessions of our really useful and hitherto faithful Punjab Ally to be wratted from him, because, from having devoted so large a portion of his army to our service, the Maha Raja has no sufficient force ready to meet the invaders? but we are certain, from what we have seen of his measures, that His Lordship will deal out such a remonstrance to the Nepal Durbar, as shall speedily bring them to their senses. What has the Resident at the Court of Katmandoo been about that these proceedings could not be checked ere they presented so formidable an aspect? He has hitherto always held the character of a most active and intelligent officer, but in this case there appears always presuming, as we have very good right to do, that the news is perfectly correct) to have been a deficiency in alertness in procuring good information, for we cannot suppose that, with the knowledge of such intrigues, he would not have advised his Government of the steps necessary to be taken; We hope for further particulars on this very serious business which has suddenly come to light and until we receive them will not dilate upon a matter which in our present circumstance is unpleasant enough.—Dakhi Gazette, 14th May.

NATIVE STATES.

LOCKNOW.—We were yesterday favoured with three letters announcing the demise of the King of Oude. The following are extracts:—

Locknow 11th May.—At 8 A.M. this morning, an express arrived from the Resident intimating the death of His Majesty the King of Oude, and the 12th and 78th regts. N. I. with the greater portion of the Artillery Detachment marched (having been forewarned) at a moment's notice to the palace of the Bara Dhurrie in the City, there was not the slightest disturbance of any kind—the troops were drawn up in the garden opposite the palace. At about 7 o'clock, all the Chiefs having assembled, there was a rush made to the top of a very steep set of steps, and the baras sahib and General sahib descended from their spheres to escort to his proper elevation the great constellation of the day, Suraiya Jah (the grandeur of Pleiades): my stars what a sight! he was placed in a jewelled and bejewelled chair and carried at the imminent danger of breaking his Royal neck up these said steps; he really looked very uncomfortable; imagine a huge mass of his appetites (not apparent air) coming heels foremost up stairs! he positively should be some contrivance, more-fitting royal dignity; besides only fancy the falling Pleiades and no notice to 'stand from under;' moreover there appeared in the royal countenance considerable apprehension and some danger of apoplexy. I was more satisfied of this when upon his arriving safely at the top he sought permission to pause and say his prayers; whether from inability to proceed further without taking a pull at his wind, or to return thanks for his joyful deliverance, I had no means of ascertaining; some people imagined he was praying for the soul of his Father or for a prosperous reign. But had they been as well acquainted with human nature as I am, they would have been persuaded he was returning thanks for all mercies, especially the last which landed him safely at the top of those stairs. After this pause of about three minutes, there was a mysterious disappearance behind a curtain at the back of the stage, throne I mean, which, being a mason myself, I am not at liberty to explain. Presently the party emerged in what appeared to me a very ill arranged manner as it was not easy to tell on which side the throne we should first behold them; however round they came to the left in the midst of the crush, and after some difficulty the great man was planted at the foot of the throne and solemnly enrobed in the government of Royalty, after which with the assistance of the two great functionaries he was handed up his last step in life when his turban was taken off in a most refreshing manner, and a great heavy mass of diamonds with a little feather at top popped on his Royal Noh, whereupon in the name of the Governor General he was proclaimed King of Oude; at this moment the troops commenced firing the feu de joie when his Majesty dropped into his form a mass of splendor, leaving nothing visible of himself but his Royal phib. In this position he remained receiving the Nuzurs and I could tell the man's character by the down turn of his eye as he appeared to me to take much more notice of the gift than the giver. This went on for about an hour when a tray of beads and bits of silver was placed at the foot of the throne, and taken up by the minister who aided them at the crowd with speech signifying—Here's at you in the name of the King, I am now only throwing dust in your eyes but if you are not loyal I'll pitch into you like bricks—this was the interpretation given by a friend.

After this the fun was over, His Majesty descended from the throne, the troops returned to cantonments and I sat down to spin you this yarn.—Calcutta Star, May 24.

JELLALABAD.

(From the Englishman, June 4.)

Our latest letters from Jellalabad are dated the 15th of May. We give an extract from one. It contains nothing new:—

Extract from a letter, date 16th May.—Since our arrival here we have remained encamped in glorious inactivity. Nothing to do, and I fear little prospect of our being employed for some time. The negotiations for the liberation of the Prisoners, I believe, are still going on, but the demands are most exorbitant. The Prisoners are well treated, and their friends from our camp have sent them various supplies which they have been allowed to receive. Mackenzie has been twice sent in to on his parole, with terms for Akbar Khan, but Mackenzie had to return, which he did, of course, much to the astonishment of our Afghan friends, who could not believe or understand so nice a sense of honor. They set it down to a deficiency of intellect. He must (say they) be an ass. They are themselves such treacherous scoundrels that we wonder not that they should suspect others. A poor fellow of the 31st, was murdered the night before last and hacked to pieces in a shocking manner. Three or four camp followers have also been murdered at different times close to the camp, but this is the first European who has thus fared. The 31st vow vengeance. It is impossible to say by whom these murders are committed, but there is no doubt, we are surrounded by scoundrels who prowled about during the night, either for murder or theft. The weather for the last ten days has been abominable, incessantly blowing clouds of dust, and which continue through the whole night as well as day. The dwellers in the fort are comparatively well off for they can manna to exclude the dust while we are overwhelmed.

THE STORM AT CALCUTTA.

(From the Englishman, June 4.)

CALCUTTA was yesterday visited by one of the severest gales within the memory of Mr Blaquiere—whom we take to be about the oldest inhabitant. It began to blow from the North in the middle of the night but unaccompanied by rain. Towards morning it increased in force, veering a little to the North East, and the rain began to fall. By noon the storm had reached its height. The rain which came down heavily was tossed about by the force of the wind in such a manner as at times to resemble antagonist volumes of smoke. In the afternoon the wind moderated—and the rain degenerated to a Scotch mist which has been irreverently said to have the faculty of wetting an Englishman to the skin. At about 3 P.M., the storm was renewed from the South West, and blew with unparalleled vehemence the whole night.

Of the entire results of the storm we shall not be able to speak until our various reporters have emerged from their hiding places and skirled the country round. As far as our own observation has gone the damage, within the town has been seriously extensive. Look where you will, trees may be seen torn up by the roots, lamp posts thrown down, verandas unroofed, houses stripped of their plaster, windows smashed and in some cases forced in by the jillmils, small buildings totally destroyed, entire rows of iron railings and other enclosures prostrated, carriages turned over, &c. Tank-square is nearly a desert. Garden Reach has suffered essentially; the trees, says one of our contemporaries, are lying across the road obstructing the passage of vehicles.

I proceeded to the Banks of the river from the mint to Cooly Bazaar and found innumerable boats and ships ashore, and fuel of each other. There could not be less than forty vessels in the latter condition. I boarded one, the David Malcolm, which in her turn had been run a-board by the Prison of Greenock, across whose stern lay the American ship Chilo!

The banks of the river and the river itself, were covered with the debris of boats cargoes, broken boats, masts, yards, spare casks &c. and I am sorry to say that several lives have been lost. The ridiculous state of security in which some of the ships continued (on the 3d of June mark you!) may be judged of when I mention that some had their moon masts up (a clear proof of lunacy) and many others had royal yards across!—this in a month when the greatest precautions are necessary.

The following is an enumeration of the vessels ashore:—

Off the Rice Golaha near the mint one brig and 5 ships—one of the latter high and dry and on her beam ends.

Between Colvin and Jackson's Ghaut 7 vessels ashore 5 of which jammed together.

Off Chandpoul Ghaut 2 ships.
Off the Fort 2 ships 3 brigs and 3 schooners, the Governor General's Yacht and the Satellite Steamer athwart of a barque off the Company's Store, at Coolie Bazaar Prince Albert.

From Hastings's Bridge Dock, one river Steamer and 3 flats ashore the whole small craft gone on shore and greater part total wrecks.

(From the Englishman, June 6.)

We are grieved to find from the various reports that have reached us, that destruction of life and property has been fearfully extensive. On shore, scarcely a building has been left uninjured, scarcely a garden has escaped conversion into a wilderness. In every direction branches of trees lie scattered over the ground, and in many of the streets in Chowringhee, and along the garden Reach road, entire trunks have been prostrated, carrying with them the walls and railings which formed the enclosures. The most exposed places of course suffered the most. The Maidan and Esplanade row for example, are a succession of wrecks, from the fine old peepal tree at the southern extremity of the plot of ground known as 'the cocked hat,' (which has been torn up by the roots) to the house formerly occupied by Mr. Stacy, where the roof of a verandah has been wrenched off and the railing in front of the house uprooted.

In the house lately occupied by Dr. Strong, a window, still, sashes, and jill mills, has been forced out. Aubrey's sign board is laid upon its back. Every thatched roof, every purdah, every sun shade, in every house that had them, has been torn, split, and scattered. The sentry box at the westgate of Government house is recumbent;—six or seven panes of glass, at Groser's, have been smashed in. Mrs. Carbery's large board has got over the wall. Further on a northerly direction, D. Wilson's sun shade and lamps have been cast down—and the plaster of most of the houses facing the north and south west has been stripped off in many places. An upper verandah in the Englishman's Office has been forced in on the western side. Tank-square is a wilderness. In Park Street, trees without number have been rent asunder, and torn up by the roots. Two windows in the theatre, and two in Major Burton's house, have been blown in—the long railing in front of the house formerly occupied by Mr. Shakespeare has been cast down bodily. Free School street, Jaun Bazaar, and all the small streets running out of them in westerly and southerly directions, present innumerable debris of native houses which have fallen in. But we could fill a page with the enumeration of disasters on shore.

We mentioned on Saturday on the authority of reporters, the state of matters on the river in the immediate neighbourhood of Calcutta. Since then we have learnt that the losses and injuries far exceed our worst anticipations. A reporter—whose statement appears in the Weekly Englishman—says:—

Of two or three ships which have sustained material injury, we are enabled to speak with accuracy. The Senator and Potamoc were closely locked. The Senator has lost her foretop mast, bowsprit, jib boom, mizenchannels and cut water, and she was then aground. The Potamoc's losses are more severe. She has lost her mizen-mast, fore-mast, bowsprit, main-top-mast and windlass, and her leeward side cut down three streaks between her main and mizen mast. The figure head of the Renown is gone. The Selma and another vessel, (whose name we did not see) have sustained some damage. At present, it is impossible to say what the amount of damage is that has been done to the different ships.

Another friend informs us that the Lord William Bentinck and Gunduck, iron steamers, have sunk—ditto the Diana hulk; the Bhagurantee accommodation flat, and Sorma flat; while the Jettingshee flat has been severely damaged and totally dismasted. The Lady Clifford is ashore—the Resolution, Coringa Peckel and another are locked together, &c. all damaged. The Eastern Star says:—

At Consipore, five ships are said to have sunk, the mast of two being above water; one an Arab. Of two others there are no traces whatever, and the remaining one is an American, name unknown.

The damage at the Botanical Garden is frightful—this once beautiful spot presents a wide field of destruction. The ruin, if not complete, is represented as embracing the whole range of the gardens. At Cosipore, the premises of Messrs Haworth and Hardman have experienced great injury. One large pukka Galah stored with rice was blown down, and they have also lost boats laden with sugar, and others which were lying close to the shore, have been either broken up or have foundered. We understand that the cries of those on board the vessels which drove to and beyond Cosipore, were distinctly audible at about 3 o'clock A. M. the time when they were getting ahead of that spot.

News arrived in town on Saturday evening of the Lord Western having gone ashore off Mud Point, with a detachment of Troops on board which were returning from Arracan.

The Government with their usual zeal manned the ship Amherst with European seamen, and sent her down yesterday, (we believe in tow of a steamer) to bring up the men who had been landed and exposed to the pitiless pelting of the storm ever since their getting aground.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, 30th June.

BATAVIA.—By the arrival of the Swedish brig Carolina, from Batavia, we are put in possession of our files of the Java Courant to the 15th, from which we give the following Anger Shipping Report:—

- May 30. Amer ship Sumatra, Silver, from Batavia, for Boston; passenger Capt. Almy.
- " 31. British ship Euphrates, Wilson, from China 1st May, for London; passenger Mr. S. Simpson.
- June 2. British schooner Emancipation, Winter, from Sing. 12th May, for Port Phillip.
- " 2. Bremen ship George Washington, Bieswig, from Sing. 24th April, for Bremen.
- " 4. H. M. S. Vindictive, Sir T. Cochrane, from England, for China.
- " 4. Brit. brig Countess of Minto, Wishart, from Singapore 10th May, for London.
- " 5. Brit. ship Flora Kerr, Cliff, from Sydney 20th April, for Batavia.
- " 8. Amer. brig Sarah Pierce, from Manila 27th April, for Boston.
- " 7. Brit. ship Lascar, Mackie, from Manila 6th May, for Cork.
- " 7. British ship Charlotte, Hallett, from Manila 6th May, for Boston.
- " 9. Brit. ship John Renwick, Morgan, from China, for London.
- " 11. British ship Hydra, Green, from Timor 1st June, for Batavia.
- " 11. British ship Merry Love, from Newberry Port 25th Jan., for New Holland.

Our commercial advices from Calcutta reach to the 28th May by which we learn that the 4th Opium sale of the season took place on the 23d of that month.

The following is the result.

	Chest	Highest	Lowest	Ave.
Patna	1,855	860	826	840 121.
Benares	900	810	800	803 22.

The Water Witch has on board about 500; the Victoria 300; the Clown 180 chests; and the remainder of the Opium will probably be shipped in the John Bright, Mormon, Bengal Packet, Cowjee family, Prince Cowjee, and Weraff which are bound for the Straits and China.

The Calcutta Market is represented as holding out very little encouragement for the Shipment of Straits produce.

Freights to England £2 10 a 2 per ton.

Dirto to China Dns. 2½ per bale of cotton.

Exchange on England 2s 1½d

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 16th July, 1842.

The Water Witch from Calcutta arrived on the 8th inst., and brings dates to the 6th June. We are sorry to learn from the papers that on the 3d of that month a hurricane did immense damage to Calcutta and its environs, as also to the shipping of every description on the river. We have copied from the Englishman particulars of the disasters; but they were at that date (6th June) but partially known, and it is much to be feared that many more losses will have to be recorded. The bad weather seems to have extended far out into the Bay, for the Ariel bound for Madras was unable to make that place, and bore up for Calcutta. The Water Witch met her on the 9th June at the Sandheads, but only communicated with her by signals.

It will be seen from our copious extracts from the Bengal papers that on the 15th of May the army still continued at Jellalabad, and owing to the want of conveyance and of fieldpieces, it was not known when a forward move could be made, if indeed this was intended, it being now rumoured that the force was to return to Peshawar without having first chastised Caubul. Provisions had however become plentiful. Capt. Mackenzie, one of Akbar Khan's prisoners, had twice been to General Pollock's camp to treat for the release of the prisoners, but as yet without success. The prisoners have been removed into some distant mountain fort for greater security, and General Elphinstone, whose health had been declining for some time, died in consequence of the fatigue of the removal. His remains were sent into the English Camp, and were interred with the customary military honors.

H. M. S. Waterloo, Capt. Johnson, from the Cape 21st May, and Singapore 2d July, arrived at Hongkong on Wednesday last. We have by her received Singapore papers, but they contain no news later than those received per Water Witch, with the exception of the disagreeable intelligence that the Wanderer, Owen, from this bound for Halifax went ashore on the night of the 8th May in Table Bay, off the Lighthouse, and in an extract from a letter quoted in the Free Press it is said "it appears pretty certain she will be a wreck—they are now discharging her—she is grinding away on the rocks." We learn that neither the vessel nor cargo are insured here.

On Sunday the 10th of this month the Constitution of Portugal of 1838 was proclaimed in Macao, on which occasion there was a review of the garrison in front of the barracks. The several forts fired a royal salute, and the garrison feu de joie with small arms. On that night and the two following, all public buildings and most private houses were illuminated.

On Monday last the French Sloop of war, Favorite, Capt. Page, arrived here from Pondichery and Singapore, and leaves again, we understand, this day for the northward. Col. de Jaucigny, Mr. Challaie and Mr. Chonsky go passengers in her. After a visit to the north this vessel will return, we believe, to these waters as a permanent station in future.

The American ships of war Constellation and Boston have not yet left, nor will they for the present, we hear, proceed to the Sandwich Islands and West-coast of America, but remain some months longer in the Chinese waters. They are about leaving for the north.

It will be seen from our extracts that the 4th Opium sale went off at considerably higher prices than have been paid for some time past, Patna averaging 840, 12 and Benares 803, 22 Rupees per Chest.

By the Barque Peruvian, Capt. Pitkethly, the welcome news of the loss of the Copeland from Liverpool has been received. She struck on the Stroni Rock in the Straits of Sundra, and was so much damaged, that to save her from sinking, she was towed ashore on the island of Thwart the Way. The Peruvian was fortunately in company, and rendered them every assistance in their power. The Copeland's letters and a few boxes of Treasure were transhipped to her. The date of this misfortune is, we believe, the 26th June.

Anxiously as we and everybody else is looking out for news from the north, we have again been disappointed this week, and nothing whatever is known of the movements of the British forces after the capture of Chapoo. Had any great enterprise been crowned with success, we suppose one of the many steamers would have been despatched to convey the news, by way of Hongkong or Macao, to the Indian and British Governments. Long before this time Sir Henry Pottinger, and in fact every vessel of the new Expedition must have reached the neighbourhood of the Yang-tze-kiang, nor can it be supposed that many days would there have been spent in inactivity. We have heard nothing further of the Chinese report of the taking of Nanking. Hangchowfoo, the Chinese say, was ransomed from the English for one Million of Dollars, and on the same authority two English ships are said to have been lost in the Yangtsiekiang. We give these rumours as we hear them, without thinking them worthy of much credit. By vessels from the Coast we learn that H. M. S. Cambrion, Capt. Chada, had arrived at her station at Amoy, and that the Harald had left to join the fleet to the northward.

PIRATE NEAR HONGKONG.—On Sunday the 3d instant the Paradox schooner, having on board Mr. Challaie, french vice-consul, and Messrs Chonsky and Froget, left Hongkong for Macao, when just after clearing the harbour, and still in sight of the shipping, they descried a Chinese fast boat in possession of a large pirate boat. The passengers in the fast boat, some of whom were Portuguese inhabitants of Macao, attracted by their cries the attention of the party in the schooner, which immediately made for them, and on coming near, the pirates mistaking the schooner no doubt for a well armed and manned government vessel (although in fact, besides her passengers, she was manned by a crew of 3 or 4 lascars only) took the alarm before they had accomplished their object of plundering the fast boat, and being close under the land of Hongkong all jumped over board, and escaped by swimming. When the schooner came up to the now abandoned pirate boat, she was found to be like a large fishing boat—her crew having consisted of about 60 men, armed with two large guns, besides having on board a great quantity of powder, matchlocks, spears and other arms. Mr. Challaie ordered the two guns to be thrown over board, then took the pirate in tow and returned with her to Hongkong, when he gave notice of what had occurred to the authorities, and while on his way to them, captured one of the pirates that had just made his escape from the boat, and delivered him to the officer commanding at West point barrack, from whence a party of men was despatched in pursuit of the other thieves, but without result. The pirate vessel was recognised as one that had only the same morning left her anchorage in Hongkong harbour, and one that had on account of her numerous crew attracted the suspicions of several people. Much credit is due to Mr. Challaie for the prompt manner in which he went to the relief of the fast boat whose inmates, had the pirate had his will, might possibly, besides their property, have lost their lives also; and we regret that so signal a service in behalf of humanity, should not even have obtained for him a mere expression of thanks from the Hongkong authorities.

H. M. S. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUSAN, CHEENAN, &c.

- H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.
- " Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.
- " Thetis, 44, capt. Hope.
- " Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Orey.
- " Calliope, 28, " A. L. Kuper.
- " North Star, 24, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
- " Herald, 26, " J. Nias, C. B.
- " Dido, 20, " the honble H. Kappell.
- " Pelican, 18, " Napier.
- " Modeste, 18, comr. Watson.
- " Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.
- " Columbine, 16, " Morshed.
- " Childers, 16, " Haisted.
- " Clio, 16, " E. Troubridge.
- " Algerine, 10, Lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.
- " Royalist, 10, " Cheswood.

SERVING SHIPS.

- " Starling, 6, comr. Kellett.
- " Lady Bentinck, 3, Collinson.

SUPPLEMENT.

TACORSHIPS.

Belaisle, capt. Kingcomb.
Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire, " Cola.
Jupiter, mr. comg. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comg. W. Warden,
" Sesostris, comr. Ormsby,
" Auckland, " Etherley, I. N.
" Tenasserim, " Wall, I. N.
" Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
" Pluto, " Tudor, R. N.
" Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
" Medusa, " Hewett, I. N.
" Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
" Prosperpine, comr. Hough, R. N.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.

AT AMOY.

" Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, c. a senior commanding officer.
" Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
" Chamelison, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

" Blenheim, 74, bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. a. capt. sir T. Herbert, & c. a.
" Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, c. a.
" Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasse.
" Wolverine, 16, capt. Johnson.
" Cruiser, 16, comr. Pearce.
" Hazard, 16, " Bell.
" Serpent, 16, " Nevill.
" Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly, mr. comg. Rose,

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

July. ARRIVED

8. (B.) Water Witch, Reynell, Calcutta & Sing.
9. " Adantic, Barlow, Bombay.
9. " Raymond, Mackay, London.
9. " Semiramis, Cairne, Singapore.
10. (A.) Nantasket, Rogers, Bombay. [& Sing.
11. (F.) Corv. Favorite, 24, Capt. Page, Pondichery
12. (B.) Peruvian, Pitkethly, Liverpool.
13. " Gulnare, Willoughby, do.
13. " Guess, McKellar, Singapore.
13. " Hugh Walker, Shanks, do. [& Sing.
13. H. M. S. Wolverine, 16, Capt. Johnson, Cape

July. SAILED

11. (B.) Francis Spaight, Winn, London.
12. " Token, Chalmers, Bombay.
12. " Crest, Oliver, London.
13. " Rob Roy, Boyd, Singapore & Calcutta.
13. (Hamb.) Francisca, Berndt, Singapore.
13. (B.) John Christian, Whitcombe, Liverpool.
16. " Jama Sejerthoy, Carnegie, Bombay.
16. (Fr.) Corv. Favorite, Capt. Page, North of China.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.—Hellas, in a few days.
For Bombay.—Sr Herbert Campton, to-morrow.
Herald, on the 20th.
For Sing. & Cal.—Water Witch, on the 18th.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Dovecot, Devon, Gemini, Elina,
both, Pink, Anna Maria, Judith,
Allen, Chebar, Caroline, Mary Ann,
Edie, Claudine,
From Bombay.—Dronagan, Bucephalus, Island,
Queen, Anonymous, Cornwallis,
Agnes, Helen, Salem, Fansittart,
Asia, Edinburgh, Dianna, Corea,
Lord Eldon, Grobian, Lady Clarke.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Intrepid, Clown, Mormaid, Victory, Cowajee, family, Kranjee, Cowajee, Mer, Coringa, Packet, Bengol, Packet.
From Singapore.—Hongkong, Camden, Sarah, Bets-
ford.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 6th April. SINGAPORE, 2d July.
UNITED STATES, March 16. MANILA, 24th June.
CALCUTTA, 6th June. AMOY, 15th June.
BOMBAY, 26th May. CEBUAN, 5th June.
JAVA, 18th June.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arun ,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arethusa ,	—	Christians	C. Fearon
Ametin ,	—	Potter,	W. H. Harton,
Anna Eliza ,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic ,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
* Bombay ,	1280	Furley,	"
Br. Sovereign ,	423	Cow,	"
* Canton ,	507	Crouch,	Turner and Co.
Caledonia ,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine ,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corsair ,	—	Martin,	D & M. Rustonjee & Co.
* Carnatic ,	—	Cunningham,	Dent and Co.
* China ,	624	Robertson,	Russell and Co.
* Cleopatra ,	377	Earley,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
* Charles Forbes ,	990	Wills, [ger	"
Charlotte ,	—	Liebschwa	"
* Deronport ,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
Ellen ,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
England ,	—	Tizard,	Lindsay and Co.
East Balcarras ,	1488	Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
* Fortescue ,	259	Hall,	"
Forteen ,	204	Biddleley,	"
Guess ,	131	McKellar,	W. Allanson & Co.
Gazelle ,	241	—	Turner and Co.
Gratitude ,	—	Harvey,	Macvicar and Co.
Gulnare ,	—	Willoughby	Dirom and Co.
* Hero of Malown	—	Jackson,	"
Hope ,	—	Barrett,	C. Fearon.
* Hygeia ,	378	Woodbury	G. Nye jr.
* Herald ,	—	Coulson,	Macvicar & Co.
Harmony ,	530	Smith,	"
Hugh Walker ,	—	Shanks,	"
* Hindustan ,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Intrinsic ,	—	Davidson,	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
Isa. Robertson ,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella ,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Louisa ,	—	Forgan [be	Dent and Co.
* Lowjee Family	—	Ayres,	"
Lord Amherst ,	—	Hopkins,	"
* Larkins ,	—	Hibbert,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mahamoodie ,	—	Byworth,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Manly ,	—	Start,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury ,	—	—	W. Scott.
* Niazara ,	390	Champion	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Neiva ,	—	Melville,	Macvicar & Co.
Peravian ,	314	Pitkethly	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.
Prima Donna ,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
* Queen Victor a	713	Black,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
* Queen Victoria	—	Connor,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Raymond ,	—	Mackay,	"
Royal Saxon ,	442	Crawford,	Jamieson How & Co.
Ruparell ,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Furdonjee.
Rosa ,	—	Metcalf,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe ,	—	Morton,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Sylph ,	—	Guy,	H. Rustonjee
Semiramis ,	363	Cairne,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Ternate ,	—	Mann,	Ferguson L. & Co.
Vestal ,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Winchester ,	—	Macdonald	"
Water Witch ,	—	Royall,	Dent and Co.
* Wild Irish Girl	—	G. Ilet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Wm. Hughes ,	—	Abbot,	Macvicar & Co.
Wm. Gillies ,	—	Clark,	"
* Wm. Pirrie ,	552	McDonnai	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston, Commander Long.
Form, — Murdock, Russell and Co.
Helen, — Benjamin, "
Nantasket, — Rogers, "
Lerant, — Faulk, J. D' Sword & Co.
Ann MacKinn, — Vassmer, W. A. Lawrence.
Congress, — Hay, "
Cincinnati, — Wilson, Wetmore & Co.
Probus, — Sumner, "
Grafton, — Gardner, I. M. Bull.
Robert Fulton, — McMichael, Morris Meredith.
Lowell, — Peirce, W. P. Pierce.
Panther, — Martin, J. M. Bull.

DUTCH.

Prince Frederick | J. de Koh, | Reynvaan & Co.

" at Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,

at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 43.]

Macao, Saturday, 23rd July, 1842.

[No. 355.]

PUBLIC NOTICE.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given that Tenders will be received for the supply of about 14,000 Spanish Dollars for the use of Her Majesty's Ships at Hongkong, in Exchange for Bills to be drawn upon Her Majesty's Accountant General at 3 days sight, approved by Rear Admiral Sir THOMAS COCHRANE, K. C. B.

No Tender will be received for a less sum than 100 pounds sterling.

Apply to Mr. R. M. Whichelo, Purser of H. M. Ship Blenheim at Hongkong.
Hongkong, 19th July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Firm of GRIBBLE, HUGHES & Co., is this day dissolved, by the retirement of Captain HENRY GRIBBLE therefrom.

The business will be continued by Mr. W. H. HUGHES, who will also arrange any outstanding accounts.
Macao, 11th July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th Ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of JAMES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquoy also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wines, &c. &c. at the shortest notice.
London Hotel Queen's Road, }
Hongkong, 8th June, 1842. }

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

W. M. ALLANSON.
A. MOSS

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subcargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the co-partnership heretofore carried on by us, the undersigned, as Merchants under the firm of BRIGGS, THURBURN, ACRAMAN & Co. in London and at Liverpool, under the firm of ACRAMAN, BRIGGS, THURBURN & Co. was dissolved by mutual consent on the 31st day of December, 1840, so far as regards the undersigned, WILLIAM EDWARD ACRAMAN, who retired therefrom. As witness our hands this first day of December, 1841.

(Signed) W. E. ACRAMAN.
SAMUEL BRIGGS.
R. THURBURN.
F. W. COLLARD.
R. THURBURN.
R. C. JENKINS.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of Bombay, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.
Dep. Commissary's Office,
Macao, 6th Aug., 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 45 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy, &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUOS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.
or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 13th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE A. I. British Bark PRIMA DONNA, (222 Tons) Captain JOHN KELL, having nearly a full cargo engaged will sail on or about the 5th August from Macao Roads. For freight or passage apply on board or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 22nd July, 1842.

FOR WHAMPOA.

THE Ship LEVANT, Capt. FAULX, will proceed to Whampoa on or about the 31st inst., and will take freight; apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 23rd July, 1842.

FOR CHUSAN.

(Calling at Amoy, if sufficient freight offer for that place.)

THE British brig FORTESCUE, (305 tons N. M.) Captain HALL, now at Hongkong, where she will receive part of her goods, and afterwards enter Macao Roads to take on board the remainder. For freight apply to

WM. THOS. KINSLEY.—at Hongkong, or to HOLLIDAY, WISE & Co.

Macao, 19th July.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao 21st July, 1842.

ON SALE.

THE British brig GUNAT, of 134 Tons new measurement, A. I. at LLOYDS, has lately undergone a thorough repair in England, and is covered with 22 oz. copper; she sails fast, in well found in stores and well adapted for the trade in China. For further Particulars apply to

W. ALLANSON & Co.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA", Capt J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to

J. COOLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co.—Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. Ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWISE FAMILY, Captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HARO OF MALOWN", 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. PRO. DIROM & Co.
W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA", of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to
D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM FRASER, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONALD, Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Whampoa, each from 32 to 40 pwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

EUROPE HOPE.

FOR SALE.—from 1 to 2 inch, on moderate terms. JOHN SMITH.
Apply to
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARK, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by
C. V. GILLESPIE
Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.
A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton Stockings of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton Socks and Stockings of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MARINE SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Pale Barted ALE in Hhds per "Anna Elias." Apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS & Co.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKY, CHAMPAGNE CIDER, SWAINS PANACHA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, SPERMATIC CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to
JOHN D. SWORD & Co.
Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLA ROBERTSON" lying in the Type.
Cases of Basses BEER,
La Rose CLARET,
OILMAN'S STORES,
SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles,
Provision RICE,
TABLE RICE,
GRAIN,
COIR ROPE.—Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "HELENA" in the Type, American Pilot BRAD, in barrels.
do. Navy, do. in air tight Hhds.
Very superior BUTTER in barrels each containing 8 stone Jars of 10 lb packed in salt; apply on board.
Macao, 2nd July 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE "do" 3 do. do.
CLARET "do" 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hhds.
SWEET WATER new.
OILMAN'S STORES late imports.
BEER in tierces; POKE in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—At the Goodwines of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Canton House; the following articles, viz.—
Most Splendid French Pink Glasses of half an inch thickness, in gilt frames and chased work, from 30 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed Lamps, with Spout Shade and Chimney plates to fit.
A few very old new Venetian Porcelain Dinner Plates, Cut Glass Tumblers, Wine and Beer Glasses.
The best Champagne Sherry in quest bottles, a $2 per bottle.

And a choice lot of Scotch Whisky of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June 1843. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—An invited of superior B&B Pale Ale, bottled in California, French Claret, fine French and French Brandy in one dozen cases, London distilled Saffron, Pottery, and Port Wine, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black Paints, Paint Oil Turpentine, English and Russian Canvas, Twine, Manila and English Cordage, Sheathing Copper, Nails, and a few Bricks for lower and Top Masts. Apply to A. A. De MELLO.

Macao, 20th May, 1843.
FOR SALE—1,000 pieces CHILIAN Pig Copper on board the American ship "HELENA," Capt Benjamin, now lying in the Roads; apply to RUSSELL & Co. or to A. A. RITCHIE.

Macao, 24th June, 1843.
FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of Rents & Co.; apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.
FOR SALE—SHERRY in Butts and Hhds. Port and Serrano in bottles. "Sappho" and Allison's fine Port. Ask of Mr. John O'Garra or "Regal." TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1843.
FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS. Bills on London.
Bills on Calcutta; accepted. Apply to RUSSELL & Co.

EUROPE.

THE CANTON RANSOM-MONEY.
Paper relating to the Ransom received from the Chinese authorities in the City of Canton, under arrangements entered into with Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, on the 27th of May, 1843.

No. 1.

Viscount Canning to the Secretary of the Treasury.
Foreign Office, October 28, 1841.

Sir,—I am directed by the Earl of Aberdeen to transmit to you, for the information of the Lord Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, a copy of a despatch from Captain Elliot, Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in China, dated June 9, communicating particulars regarding the amount of payments in money and securities received by him from the Government of Canton, under an engagement entered into by the Chinese authorities, on the 27th of May.

I have, &c.

(Signed) CANNING.

Inclosure in No. 1.

Captain Elliot to Viscount Palmerston.

Macao, June 2, 1841.
My Lord,—I have now the honour to acquit your Lordship that I have received from the Government at Canton, as follows:

Principally paid in Sycee silver, and which we find, from the marks on the various packages, to be the produce of the Hind-tai, gabel, customs, and other duties; now lying deposited on board of several of Her Majesty's ships.

The Securities as follows:—
Messrs Dent & Co. in favour of Hongkong..... 120,000
Messrs Dent & Co., promissory notes to Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary, at six months bearing interest at 5 per cent..... 542,000

Promissory notes in favour of Hongkong by Messrs Turner & Co. and Mr. G. Nye..... 50,713,20
Bonds from Houqua, at six weeks, bearing interest at 6 per cent. per annum..... 579,000

Spanish Drs. 4,300,000
Spanish Drs. 1,000,713,20
Cash in hand 6,000,000,20

I also received the sum of 17,750 taels, equal to Sp. Drs. 25,000, being in satisfaction of the loan occasioned by the destruction of the Spanish brig "Bilbao;" the Spanish Commissioner, Senor Halcon, having expressed his readiness to receive that sum, it was accepted.

I am only enabled, my Lord by this very hurried occasion to state to your Lordship briefly, that I was content to receive securities for Sp. Drs. 1,000,713,20 with a view to the relief of the Hong merchants from immediate pressure, at great inconvenience to the whole trade; for I found that the Authorities had cast upon them more than a million of the payments, upon the pretext of duties and charges due to the Government.

I have taken a bond from the Kwang-chow-foo upon the behalf of the Government, for the satisfaction of all losses occasioned by the destruction of the Factories; and the cohorts have rendered themselves responsible for the pureness of the silver, in addition to my own personal declaration to the Government, (which will be repeated, in writing, as soon as I have leisure,) that it will be held responsible for any deficiency arising either from inferiority of standard, or short weight.

So far as we have been able to judge yet, there is no room for representation upon the subject.

I have, &c.

(Signed) CHARLES ELLIOT,
Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary.

No. 2.

The Secretary to the Treasury to Viscount Canning.

Treasury Chambers, Nov. 2, 1841.

My Lord,—Having submitted to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, your Lordship's letter of the 28th ultimo, inclosing a despatch from Captain Elliot, Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in China, in which he reports the payments in money and securities received from the Chinese Government, I have it in command from the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to request you will state to the Earl of Aberdeen, that it would be satisfactory to my Lords, if some information could be furnished by Lord Aberdeen as to the grounds on which the money in question was demanded, and paid either by the Chinese Government, or the Authorities in Canton. I am, &c.

(Signed) C. E. TREVELYAN.

No. 3.

Viscount Canning to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Foreign Office, Nov. 3, 1841.

Extract.—I have laid before the Earl of Aberdeen your letter of yesterday, stating that it would be satisfactory to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury if some information could be furnished to them by your Lordship as to the grounds on which the money and securities referred to, in Captain Elliot's despatch of the 9th of June, of which despatch a copy was transmitted to the Treasury, on the 28th ultimo, were demanded from, and paid either by the Chinese Government, or by the Chinese Authorities in Canton.

I am to state to you in reply, for the information of their Lordships, that Captain Elliot's despatches to the Secretary of State contain no explanation whatever of the grounds on which this payment was demanded, or received by him from the Chinese Authorities; and there is only one expression in those despatches which has any bearing whatever on that point. Captain Elliot, in allusion to the quantity of tea which had just been shipped from Canton, says, "The indemnity just recovered from the Chinese is, perhaps, rather more than double the charges and duties they had received from the trade of the season."

On the other hand, copies of a correspondence between Sir Humphrey Senhouse and Captain Elliot have been communicated to this office by the Admiralty, from which it appears, that Sir Humphrey Senhouse having doubts as to the real nature of the payment obtained from the Chinese, wrote to Capt. Elliot on the subject; and that Capt. Elliot in his answer declared, that the arrangement had reference only to the relief of the city and province of Canton from pressure. I inclose copies of this correspondence and a copy of the Articles of Agreement concluded by Capt. Elliot with the Chinese Authorities on the 27th of May.

INCLOSURE 1 IN No. 3.

Captain Senhouse to Captain Elliot.

Heights above Canton, May 28, 1841.
Sir,—I have the honour to acknowledge your Excellency's joint letter of the 27th May to Sir Hugh Gough and myself, transmitting the arrangement your Excellency has concluded with the officers of the Chinese Government and also a copy of the full authority given to the Kwang-chow-foo to act for the Chinese Commissioners.

In perusing very attentively the document, your Excellency has been pleased to transmit, I cannot avoid considering that the terms of the arrangement must appear to an unprejudiced person, ignorant of local circumstances, more as a settlement for a general peace rather than conditions proposed, discussed, and agreed to for the sole purpose of delivering the city of Canton from the penalties of actual occupation. In the authority given to the Kwang-chow-foo by the Commissioners, they clearly state that the English Plenipotentiary being willing to observe a truce and make arrangements for peace, they, therefore, appoint the Kwang-chow-foo to conduct the details of the specific arrangement and settlement. Now, it was not the British Minister who applied for a truce, for it was the Chinese officer who came with a flag of truce to the walls, declared to Sir Hugh Gough and myself that they were not willing to fight any more, and therefore wished to see the British chiefs.

The articles themselves make no mention of the money being paid as a ransom for the town, nor is any mention made of these conditions being confined to the Province of Kwangtung.

On the contrary, it is well known that the Chinese Authorities extended your Excellency's former declaration, that the English wanted nothing but trade on the old footing, to the further settlement of a definitive peace, although, in your Excellency's own understanding, the arrangement was limited to Canton; and the Commissioner Kwang in his private letter said, that you have stated that your nation wanted nothing but trade on the old footing, and invited you to commence negotiations for a definitive peace.

The sum to be given up, being similar to the sum offered to be given for opium and the introduction of the affair of the "Bilbao," unite in inducing to an unprejudiced and uninformed person, that the arrangement is more intended for a general pacification, which would appear a very poor compensation for all the insults and injuries we have received, than an acknowledgment of the vanquished to the conqueror in the hour of victory. I therefore beg for the information of my Commanders-in-Chief and their Lordships of the Admiralty, to know whether the arrangement is decidedly a ransom for the city of Canton, to save it from the consequences of legal warfare; leaving out entirely the question of remuneration, compensation, and security for the future, so long mooted, or for other purposes.

I ask it to maintain the national honour and the credit of the British flag, that the success of the British arms in laying the city of Canton at the feet of the Queen's forces, may not be hereafter questioned, without certain exultation.

(Signed) H. L. SENHOUSE,
Captain, Senior Officer.

INCLOSURE 2 IN No. 3.

Captain Elliot to Captain Senhouse.

"London," off Canton, June 2, 1841.
Sir,—Whilst I am unable to perceive the necessity for your communication of the 28th ultimo, upon the ground that the late arrangement at Canton can by any possibility or in any quarter be constructed into a general settlement of the questions at issue, between the two Governments, I certainly can have no hesitation in officially declaring that it has reference only to the relief of this city and province from pressure which would not continue to be applied, causing ruin and distress upon a vast unoffending population, at incalculable inconvenience to our own well understood interests, in forgetfulness of Her Majesty's gracious purposes, and in defiance of the temper and feeling of the British nation upon all such subjects.

I should observe that the settlement of the money-claim for the destruction of the Spanish brig "Bilbao," has been insisted upon with a view to the convenience of the Spanish Commissioner, which I felt it incumbent upon me to consult. I am, &c.

(Signed) CHARLES ELLIOT.

Viscount Canning to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Foreign Office, Nov. 12, 1841.

Extract.—With reference to my letter of the 28th of October, respecting the money paid by the Chinese Authorities at Canton, under the arrangement of the 27th of May last, I am directed by the Earl of Aberdeen to transmit to you, to be laid before the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, copies of two despatches from Captain Elliot, late Superintendent of British Trade in China, one stating the arrangements made by him for the remittance to India and to this country of the money obtained from the Chinese, the other inclosing copies of a correspondence with Messrs Dent and Co. by which it would appear that Captain Elliot has allowed that firm to deduct from the money for which they have made themselves answerable on behalf of certain Chinese parties, who were called upon to pay a portion of the 5,000,000 dollars specified in the arrangement of the 27th of May, the sum of 63,255,180.40, being amount of the bills on the British Treasury given in March, 1839; by Captain Elliot to Messrs Dent & Co., in payment for opium purchased of them, in order to make up the quantity which he had engaged at that time to surrender to the Chinese Authorities; but which bills were refused in this country, as appears from the Minutes of the Board of Treasury of the 3d of December, 1839, of which a copy was communicated to this office, on the 24th of that month.

ENCLOSURE 1 IN No. 4.

Captain Elliot to Viscount Palmerston.

Macao July 6, 1841.
Extracts.—The Inclosure No. 1 is a despatch to the Governor-General of India, containing a brief statement of my reasons for remitting the bullion in question to Calcutta; a course which I trust will meet the approbation of Her Majesty's Government.

The inclosures Nos. 2 and 3 are a correspondence with the firms of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co. and Dent and Co., respecting the remittance of the balance left here.

Your Lordship is aware that my duties will soon carry me to the north-eastern coast; and upon that and other considerations, I have formed the opinion that the detail business connected with the management and remittance of the balance left here, will be most advantageously committed to these gentlemen acting of course, under the general control of our own officers.—Herald Hulkers, May 31.—Straits Messenger, 5th July.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 23d July, 1842.

The H. C. Steamer Merrim from England and last from Singapore, has during the week arrived at Hongkong, and brought us Singapore papers of the 5th and 7th July. Accounts from Singapore of the 5th state that H. M. Steamer Dryden had arrived there, and that she would proceed to China after a delay of a few days, so that probably while we are writing, she has arrived at Hongkong. The Maymott, although hourly expected, has not yet been received.

H. M. S. Nimrod, Cruiser, and Volunteer, and Steamers Merrim & Hongkong have proceeded up the Canton river. Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane left Hongkong in the Merrim steamer on Wednesday last to join the squadron, whose object, it is supposed, is no other than to reconnoitre. We regret to learn that much sickness prevails at Hongkong, and that the European garrison are the principal sufferers, as well as the European wives and children of the soldiers lately arrived.

The French Corvette Favorit, Capt. Pagé, left Hongkong for the north of China on Wednesday last. The American ships of war Constitution and Boston are now at Hongkong.

Letters from Canton dated 20th July mention that intelligence has there been received of the fleet being at anchor at Kong-soo in the Yangtsiang (probably the Kaou-tchou of the French maps) on the 4th of July. Kaou-tchou is some distance above the great Canal and the City of Ching kiang-soo, and no great distance below Nanking, and from that position we suppose the entrance of the Canal both southern & northern to be under the control of the British forces, & Nanking at their mercy. Elepho has sent to Canton for two Hong merchants and two linguists to go to Soo-chow, and the Canton authorities have consequently ordered Samqua & Howqua's fifth and only surviving son on this errand; with what specific object was not known; the two Hong merchants were to have left Canton yesterday. It was originally intended to have sent Howqua himself, but his great age has at last exempted him from this duty; it is supposed by the Chekiang authorities that the Hong merchants being accustomed to deal with the barbarians, will be of use to them in their negotiations with the English, although the merchants are aware that on a former occasion Sir Henry Pottinger refused to see them. We suppose they must have obeyed these orders very reluctantly, for independently of the great expense and probably squeeze to which this journey will expose them, for Hong merchants in the north are rare as asses, and the reputation of their wealth will have preceded them, their liberty will be in some danger should they be employed in negotiations, and these terminate differently from what the Chinese authorities expect: in which case banishment to Eki may very likely be the end of their mission. It is said that their being sent is with reference to settling the terms for the ransom of Nanking. This is however, we suppose, mere conjecture. According to Chinese reports the large city of Shanghai has been taken by the British force, which is said to have from thence penetrated into the country as far as Soo chow, and taken that town also. Shanghai is one of the most important seaport towns in the empire: whose trade is said to employ an immense number of junks. We have no arrivals whatever from the north to confirm these reports.

A new Imperial edict against the use of Opium is said to have appeared, and in and near Canton the people engaged in that traffic have lately again been exposed to persecution. The trade at Canton is described as extremely unsatisfactory. Cotton, of which the arrivals have been so very great of late, is at present unsaleable, and Woollen cannot be disposed of owing to the troubles in the north. There are a great number of Bombay ships now at Whampoa.

THE WEATHER.—During the past week we have had several days of great heat, the thermometer rising to 95°; and the barometer continuing to fall, serious apprehensions of a Typhoon coming on were entertained. Our barometer, which ranges about 15 hundredths lower than most of the others here, fell on Wednesday last to 29.32; whilst last year on the 26th July it stood at 29.40°. Only a few hours before the Typhoon began. In the evening of last Wednesday the weather looked very threatening, black clouds appearing in the northwest with a good deal of lightning; and all the ship in the Roads and Typhoon got everything snug to ride out the expected gale. The night however past over without bad weather; and on the next morning all signs of a Typhoon had disappeared, and the barometer risen again to 29.53°. The wind, which during the three hottest days had blown fresh from the westward, has since gone round to the east; and we have yesterday occasional squalls of wind and rain. It is somewhat singular that the depression of the barometer, and indications of bad weather were much less at Hongkong, and we therefore suppose it not unlikely that a Typhoon has really passed our neighbourhood to the westward, and was the cause of the signs we have described.

We regret much to have to record the death of Capt. Turner of the English Schooner, who met his untimely fate on Thursday night near Chuenpoo on his passage to Whampoa, by being knocked overboard by the boom. Immediately on this accident being learnt, a boat was lowered, and the schooner brought to, which latter however could not be effected till after she had lost almost a considerable distance, having been going at the rate of 9 knots; the boat returned to the schooner after several hours of ineffectual search, and up to this time the body has not been found. Capt. Turner was much respected by his employers and acquaintance.

Friday night 9 p. m.—A friend just now informs us that H. W. Steamer Dryden, from Singapore 15th July, arrived at Hongkong at 6 o'clock in the evening of Thursday last, but although the Columbine at the request of the Post Office authorities at Hongkong waited until 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and waited her departure, waiting for the letters, until half past nine, no letters were sent on board although gone to signify her being ready for sailing, were fired, and we know not whether she brings any news or not.

Just after writing the above, we received intelligence that the fine ship Vanderbilt, with a full cargo of Cotton and Opium, bound for China, was burned at Bombay, when on the point of starting. The latest date from Calcutta is the 17th of June per Chen, arrived at Singapore, but owing to aforesaid circumstances we have no further news.

SUGAR.

IS CHINA LIKELY TO EXPORT IT TO ENGLAND?

We copy the following from the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette as a specimen of commercial speculation of which the data, on which it is founded are altogether erroneous. Sugar in China is not so cheap that it could possibly be sent to England at a profit—on the contrary—China does not produce sufficient for her own use, and consequently imports large quantities from Persia, Siam and Cochinchina, while the southern provinces had a near and willing market for their sugar in the north. Until within a few years, it is true, the exportation to Bombay of soft Sugar and that of Sugar Candy to India generally was considerable, but the exportation to the former has of late fallen off very much, owing, we believe, to the continually increasing price, and Bombay is now to a great extent supplied from Siam direct, whilst Sugar candy has not been permitted to be imported into Bengal, since that country imports her sugar into England on equal terms with the West Indies. The remittance of Sugar to Bombay was a profitable employment of the ships, which having brought Cotton from Bombay, had to return empty, without they took it, and could afford doing it at very cheap rate. But the taking of Chinese soft Sugar to England could never answer, on account of its high price here, which has hitherto averaged between 6s to 8s per picul, and that of Sugar Candy, about 10s, and would therefore cost, the former, (including freight, insurance, commission etc.) about 44s. per pound in England instead of the 3d, our contemporary states, and the latter not 4d. but about 6d per lb.; prices considerably higher than are now paid for colonial Sugar for home consumption, and nearly double of what similar sugars fetch in bond. The scheme therefore of making China a sugar-exporting country is not likely soon to come to pass, and the sanguine expectation of our contemporary to secure justice to China by equalizing the sugar duties at home are doomed to be crushed in the bud. The following paragraph of the Friend of China has caused the above remarks:

"We understand that the beautifully refined and highly saccharine Sugars of Chin-chow could be regularly deliverable in London at or under 4d per pound. The article in we are told, fully equal for domestic purposes to lump Sugar which is retailed in England at 10d to 1s per lb. The duty on it which, as before said, is in effect prohibitory, it amounts to more than 1s 3d per lb!!! The Raw Sugars of China which would be importable into England at about 2s per lb would have to pay a duty of 6d per lb. As it is quite evident that there will be an early revision of the Sugar duties (from the various dissent action of Brazil, and other foreign and domestic causes, we have not time to specify), we would urge our Chinese to take early measures to secure justice to China, as respects this very important article which should become one of our Staples, for we are no reason why the crude and refined Sugars of China and neighbouring countries should not be brought to Hongkong and thence re-shipped to England and other countries." Canton Press, 9th July.

Macao, 26th July, 1842.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE FRIEND OF CHINA.

In to days Press there is a very amusing article, in which an extract from your paper which is delivered by the aptest Editor thereof to the "a specimen of commercial speculation of which the data on which it is founded are altogether erroneous." Can you survive after such a remark? How far he was justified in saying this you will soon see. But I must premise, till the learned Editor's remarks of this day appeared, I really thought Friend of China was part and parcel of China. It however seems I was wrong, for who dare deny that the Friend which I now peruse is as unrivalled in geographical knowledge as he is in commercial information?

China cannot as he of the Press makes out be a Sugar exporting country—because forsooth it imports largely, admirable logic! Why during 1839, England was our consumer, it is said one fifth of all the sugar produced in the whole world, yet managed to export Raw and Refined Sugar to the amount £1,500,000 sterling! Does not England import Sugar? Then the Gazette Average price in Bond of Muscovado Sugar has during the last Seven years been taken all together above 40s. 6d. The Press yet makes out that the Soft Sugar of China cannot be imported into London under 4d per lb. or 42s per cwt. I confess I think your statement of 3d per lb. too low, certainly at 3d it could be regularly delivered in Bond including all expenses. It is highly probable if no impediments, or duties on export were imposed, it might be laid down at less. The Press says the cost of Chinese soft sugar averages 6s to 8 dollars per picul. The Macao and Canton Price Current of the 5th July quotes it 4 to 7 dollars a picul that is 14s to 3d per lb. here. Add for freight, insurance, Commissions and loss of weight (and it is quite ample) 1d per lb. so that at present high rates the Press statement is quite erroneous. If I tell you that Sugars have been bought within the last six months in China considerably under 3 dollars a picul this is a fact I know; you will then admit the Press ought to get some friend to verify its interested mercantile statements, before it prints them; and especially when its Editor presumes to dogmatize thereon.

As a commercial man I thank you for your exertions to obtain Justice for China. You are quite right in urging the equalization of the Sugar duties, despite what the Press says, China is and will continue to be, a Sugar exporting country. The refined Sugars of China if properly laid down would have (during late years) paid to have sent to London for re-exportation to the British Sugar Colonies!!! What think you of that fact Mr. Editor. I say nothing of the Consumption of English refined sugar in the Continent of Europe, which might be successfully competed with, indeed superseded in many instances by the Chinese article.

I might go on, but I fear you will not find room for my letter; if I should go more into detail—therefore, do not remark, but I hope you will on the silly discrepancy not on the self satisfied, conceited tone of the remarks in question, which after all is perhaps your affair, rather than mine.

I remain yours &c. &c.

THE

S. H.

We have inserted the letter of S. H. and (with all respect to our esteemed correspondent) we would say, however valuable may be the commercial information of his communications unless he permits us to extract and apply the same ad verbum we shall in future, should he adopt a similar tone, be compelled to refuse them admission into our Columns. The subject under discussion being of some interest we have inserted his present communication, but we hope he will, in all future contributions, avoid a tone of animadversion which, whether justified or not, we will never consent to adopt or imitate. S. H. truly says the remarks of our Macao contemporary are more our affair than his, thinking so, we wished he would have confined himself to a mere statement of facts and they would have been sufficiently interesting without spicing them by attributing improper motives and indulging in personalities as he has done. This is all very facile to the writer but it is not a gross insult to the reader who looks for other and better fare than such garbage as Editorial equibolism—more Friend of China, July 14.

In the present dearth of news we have reprinted above the remarks of our Hongkong contemporary, our rejoinder, and a letter from S. H. which appeared in the last Friend of China. The discussion is of some interest, and we hope to be able to shew from facts the absurdity of the arguments and fallacy of the facts brought forward by S. H. We have no object but that of placing the matter in the right point of view, nor any interest to make it appear that China cannot be a sugar exporting country except it be to afford to our readers such information as we have been at some pains to collect. First then, S. H. says, that the importation of sugar into China, is no reason why it should not also be exported, for the same is done in England; here it will at once be seen that the circumstances of the two countries and the surrounding markets are altogether different. England exports foreign sugars to markets higher than her own, and the superior enterprise of her merchants collects sugar from all parts of the world in exchange for her manufactures; a prohibitory duty prevents their consumption in England, and the continent is in consequence partly supplied by her. In China however the case is widely different. Most of the countries in her neighbourhood are sugar-growing countries, whilst only the southern provinces in China produce it, though probably not in sufficient quantities to supply the whole demand for northern China, which, judging from its great population, must be considerable. It will also be found that the value of the soil, from the wants of a dense population is considerably greater than in the surrounding country; and to arrive at this estimate it is only necessary to compare the price of rice in China with that of Siam, Manila and Java; although in the latter country the great demand for exportation has in the last four or five years kept the price at a higher rate than it used to be. The natural consequence is that China obtains part of the sugar she consumes from markets cheaper than her own, and for this purpose resorts to Siam and CoochinChina, and now and then a junk laden with sugar goes from Manila to Shanghai or Nanking. It follows therefore that, British merchants, the prices of sugar in Manila, CoochinChina, Siam, and Java being lower than in China, and those countries all open to British trade, will go there to buy their sugar, and not to China where it is so much dearer. We are assured by a gentleman who has given much attention to the subject, that during the whole course of his mercantile experience he has never known sugar in China sufficiently low priced to answer for shipment to Europe.

When a fortnight since we stated that the price of soft sugar exported from China averaged 6½ to 6s, we made that statement upon having consulted documents which we believe to be nearly correct, but to convince S. H., who by the bye, seems not to have condescended to obtain information before he assailed the correctness of our statements and motives, we shall now quote from several publications the quantity of sugar exported from China and its value.

The exports were in 1834, soft sugar, piculs	17,705 @ 8.25	$ 146,066 ½	*
1835, do. do.	31,870 @ 5.6	$ 191,220
1836, do. do.	33,933 @ 5.42	$ 184,177 ½	†
1837, do. do.	79,272 @ 5.4	$ 428,672
1838, do. do.	21,542 @ 7.5	$ 161,565	‡
piculs 184,322		$ 1,271,230

giving an average price of about 6s 90 for those five years. It may here however be observed that the price given for 1836 is probably lower than it ought to have been, that statement having been made in the Superintendent's office and abounding in errors. The quotations in the price currents for that year will be found much higher. We are not therefore far wrong in assuming for our calculation the price of 5 T. per picul, and at that price sugar shipped to England will cost 4½ 7d per cwt. or 4,45d per pound, so that we were not wrong when we stated its cost at 4½d.

100 Piculs white China Sugar @ 5 T.	$ 697.36
Insurance @ 800 @ 2½	20.
Commission 5 per cent	34.87
	$ 752.22

Freight 6 Tons @ 5 £	30.
Charges in England 8 per cent on £227 ..	18.19.3.
	£ 937-4.

Loss of weight @ 5 per cent, will make 100 Piculs equal to 113 cwt. costing in England 42s per cwt. or 4,30d per lb.

* See Mr. Matheson's pamphlet. "The present position and prospects of the British trade in China."

† Statement of the China trade by the British Superintendents of trade.

‡ Chamber of Commerce.

At that price it is evident that it could not be sold in England; for supposing it to fetch the same price as the finest Java, it would not bring above 26s., and it is very doubtful whether it would be equally appreciated. This sugar was shipped to Bombay at very little charge to the shippers, and was, if we may be permitted the expression, in a manner a fancy article, for which the Arabs and Persians were content to pay a higher price.

We now arrive at the assertion of S. H. that he knows Sugar to have been sold within the last six months, in China, at 3s per Picul. We are aware of the fact, which however when explained, which S. H. has not the candour to do, proves nothing either for or against the argument. The Sugar so sold was prize-sugar taken in junks to the northward, and sold by the prize master to the Captain of a ship, who might have resold it here or at Hongkong at a much higher price for Chinese consumption. We are aware that sometime since a quantity of Sugar was offered for sale here and sold at about 4s. This was at a time, or just after, when junks were being seized at Hongkong, and when Chinese property afloat was by them considered very insecure. Those who have seen the muster of that sugar inform us that it was good white soft sugar, and that the price at which it was sold was lower than the usual market value, and that some peculiar circumstances probably caused the Chinese owner to sell at a sacrifice; and that that sugar would probably be worth 20s. in the London market. Allowing even, which is not probable, that similar sugar may continually be bought, the following calculation will show that at that price it costs much dearer than its estimated value in London.

100 Piculs soft China Sugar @ 4s	$ 400.
Insurance on £ 450, at 2½	11.25
Shipping Charges	10.
Commission 5 per cent	20.
	$ 441.25
	5s £ 110.5
Freight 6 Tons @ 5 £	30.
Charges in England 8 per cent on £ 153 ..	12.3.2
	£ 152.8.2

Loss of weight estimated at 5 per cent will make 100 Piculs equal to 113 cwt. costing in England 27s or near 3d per lb.

The sugar which we understand to be in the market here, and which may be had at 4s is of low quality, not unlike that from Manila, which we find quoted at 15 to 19s. per Cwt. and which on account of the greater loss in weight would stand in dearer than the above calculation shews. We have also heard that not long since some sugar was brought away from the westcoast of China, which in quality was not unlike the Tsal Sugar from Manila, but that its price was 5s per Picul of 133½ lbs., whilst Tsal Sugar may be bought at 2½s the picul of 140 lbs and is worth 14 @ 15s per cwt in London.

What S. H. means by stating that the average value for the last seven years of Muscovadoes in bond has been upwards of 40s we do not pretend to be able to discover; the muscovadoes he refers to must have been colonial sugar, and therefore intended for home consumption. Their value artificially raised by a protecting duty has no reference whatever to foreign sugars, for as such only we presume Chinese sugar could be considered in England. Foreign sugar in bond we find quoted at 15 to 25s in a late price current, and between those values that of China sugar would range. We are aware that several years back British plantation sugar rose to a very high price from a failure in the West India Crops, but that could not and did not affect bonded sugar in England, which could be admitted only for English consumption at a duty (63s per cwt) which in fact is prohibitory. What claims China has upon England to have her produce admitted upon the same terms as that from her own colonies we are at a loss to discover, and the cry of "seeing justice done to China" set up by the Hongkong Friend of China and echoed by S. H. appears to us ridiculous in the extreme, nor even if allowed, as shewn above, could China draw any advantage from it.

We have, we hope, in the foregoing remarks convinced our readers that sugar is not likely ever to be come an article of export from China to Europe, and in taking leave of the argument, we shall briefly observe on the remarks of our Hongkong contemporary on S. H.'s letter, that it may be often necessary to correct statements or combat opinions which be or others of our contemporaries may have made or expressed; but that in doing so it does not necessarily follow that by the heat of argument we should be betrayed into unmannerly expressions or offensive personalities, nor does he, we hope, too much distrust his temper, and avoid discussion of any sort, from an apprehension of imitating the Editors of the Batavia Independent and Gazette.

H. M. Ship VINDICTIVE, at Hongkong, Friday, 8th July, 1842.

To the Editor of the Friend of China and Hong Kong Gazette.
Sir,—Having just seen in your paper of yesterday, a statement relative to an affray with two Pirate Vessels having taken place on Sunday, the 3d instant, "in sight of the fleet," thereby evidently meaning to throw censures on the officers in command of Her Majesty's Ships at this anchorage for not aiding the Paradox schooner in the capture of these Pirates, and which censure your leading remark confirms.

In the absence of Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, who is at Macao, I find it my duty as the Senior Officer at this port, to give a direct contradiction to the statement that has been made, as to the affray having taken place in sight of her Majesty's ships; indeed, the account given of it in your paper must at once, as you will, I am sure, admit, Sir, prove that this statement is so far incorrect, for it is represented that it was only when the Paradox rounded or was rounding the point near Green Island, that the two pirate boats were seen close in shore; hence, it must be manifest that these boats could not have been observed from any of Her Majesty's Ships at this anchorage, the LAND being between the ships and them. In truth it was not until I saw your paper that I knew anything of the transaction, nor do I think that Sir Thomas Cochrane was aware of it when he left this place, on Monday last, the 4th instant. Of this, I am positive, Sir, that had the attack you describe been seen from either of Her Majesty's Ships on Sunday last, the Rear Admiral would have hastened to have sent the boats of the squadron to have aided in the capture of the Pirate Vessels, for I well know it is his earnest desire, as it must be mine, and that of every officer on the station, to put down piracy in every form, and above all, to protect the lives and properties of the subjects of Her Majesty whenever and wherever they may be put to hazard.

I am, Sir,
Your very humble Servant,
J. TOUP NICHOLAS.
Capt. and senior officer at Hongkong.

July. ARRIVED
14. (B.) Hersey, Easterly, Singapore.
15. " Anna Maria, West, London.
16. " Chebar, Harrison, Liverpool.
16. (Sp.) Gilgas, Salado, Manila.
18. H. C. Steamer Merman, Capt. Powell, Sing.
20. (B.) Helen, Hicks, Bombay.
20. " Shepherd, Bowditch, Batavia.
22. " Federick Huth, Toby do.

July. SAILED
15. (B.) Gratlunde, Harvey, ———.
15. " Niagara, Champion, ———.
20. " Galle, ———, Manila. [of China.
20. (Fr.) Cort. Favaria, Capt. Page, Northcoast
22. (B.) Carnatir, Cunningham, London.
22. " Nautaskee, Rogers, Manila.

UNDER DESPATCH
For Calcutta.—Water Witch, Hellas.
For Bombay.—Sir H. Compton, & Herald this day.

The Chebar spoke the Judith Allen off the Cape, also the Gemini in the Straits of Sunda. Captain Toby of the Federick Huth reports, to us that the Reliance left Baravia on the same day he left (3d July) and that the Cacique and Andromache would leave for China in 3 or 4 days.

VESSELS EXPECTED
From England.—Dovecot, Devon, Gemini, Ellenbeith, Pink, Judith Allen, Caroline, Mary Ann Edie, Claudine, ———.

From Bombay.—Drogen, Bucphalus, Island Queen, Anonyme, Cornwallis, Agneser, Salam, Fanditars, Asia, Edinburgh, Diana, Ceren, Lord Eldon, Grocian, Lady Clarke.

From Calcutta.—Dido, Claun, Intrepid, Mermaid, Victory, Cowajee Family, Franchise, Cowanjer, Mor, Coringa Packet, Brugal Packet.

From Singapore.—Hongkong, Candian, Sarah Bedford.

LATEST DATES,
ENGLAND, 6th April. SINGAPORE, 10th July.
UNITED STATES, March 18. MANILA, 24th June.
CALCUTTA, 6th June. AMOY, 15th June.
BOMBAY, 26th May. CHEWAN, 3th June.
JULY 3d July

DEATH.—On the night of Thursday the 14th instant, on his passage to Wharpos, CAPTAIN JOSEPH LINCOLN TURNER, Schooner Anglois, deeply regretted by all who knew him.

Printed and published by EDWARD HOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

NOTICE—Is hereby given that Tenders will be received for the supply of about 14,000 Spanish Dollars for the use of Her Majesty's Ships at Hongkong, in Exchange for Bills to be drawn upon Her Majesty's Accountant General at 3 days sight, approved by Rear Admiral Sir THOMAS COCHRANE, K. C. B.

No Tender will be received for a less sum than 100 pounds sterling.

Apply to Mr. R. M. Whichelo, Partner of H. M. Ship Blenheim at Hongkong.

Hongkong, 19th July, 1842.

NOTICE—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorised to receive and give acquittances for the same.

JAMES P. STURGIS.

Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 23d July, 1842.

NOTICE—The Firm of GRIBBLE, HUGHES & Co., is this day dissolved, by the retirement of Captain HENRY GRIBBLE therefrom.

The business will be continued by Mr. W. H. HUGHES, who will also arrange any outstanding accounts.

Macao, 11th July, 1842.

NOTICE—The interest and responsibility of MA. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ARTHUR JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.

China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE—MR. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE—MR. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquoy also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies store, Wines, &c. &c. &c., at the shortest notice.

London Hotel Queen's Road,

Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

NOTICE—The subscribers have established themselves, as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

W. H. ALLANSON.

A. MOSS

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et Dufrégues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne pareront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Marion, 6th Aug., 1841.

Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Forde.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUNS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.

In the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the convenience of Piers, Buys &c., situated at a distance above high water mark with double sea-walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 3000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq., —Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE, —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT, OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing Spanish Schooner "GITANA," 280 Tons burthen, built at Pangasinan in the year 1840, of the best materials, new coppered only in February this year, and just been rigged with first rate cordage—she is now lying in the Inner Harbour of Macao. For further particulars apply to her owner either on board or on shore.

J. SALADO.

Macao, 30th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE A. I. British Bark PRIMA DONNA, (222 Tons) Captain JOHN KELL, having nearly a full cargo engaged will sail on or about the 5th August from Macao Roads. For freight or passage apply on board or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 22nd July, 1842.

FOR WHAMPOA.

THE Ship LEVANT, Capt. FAULX, will proceed to Whampoa on or about the 31st inst., and will take freight; apply to

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

Macao, 23rd July, 1842.

FOR CHUSAN.

(Calling at Amoy, if sufficient freight offer for that place)

THE British brig PORTESACUR, (305 tons N. M.) Captain HALL now at Hongkong, where she will receive part of her goods, and afterwards enter Macao Roads to take on board the remainder. For freight apply to

WM. THOS. KINSLEY, —at Hongkong.

or to HOLLIDAY, WISE and Co.

Macao, 19th July.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao 21st July, 1842.

ON SALE.

THE British brig GURST, of 134 Tons new measurement, A. J. at LLOYDS, has lately undergone a thorough repair in England, and is coppered, with 23 on copper; she sails fast, is well found in stores and well adapted for the trade in China. For further Particulars apply to

W. ALLANSON & Co.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt J. CORNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to J. COLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton.

JARDINE MATHESON & Co., —Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Lowest Family, Captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Trank Built Ship "HARO or MALOW," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to P. Fro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM FISHER, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

WANTED—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 33 to 46 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

Just arrived from London.

ENAMELLED Boots and enamelled Dress Pumps, Ladies enamelled SLIPPERS, STOUT and LIGHT Walking SHOES, 1 Ladies Case fitted with BRUSHES, COLLARS, PERFORMERS, &c., LAVENDER WATER and Extract of MILESFLEUR, PENKNIVES, RAZORS and Razor STUOPS, Princes Mixture SHUOP, a COVING MACHINE complete, RACING SADDLES and BRIDLES complete, Pinsted Race SPURS, 2 suits of prime Horse CLOTHES with Hood &c. complete, 1 handsome French GUITAR, Boy's and Girl's riding HATS, Ladies silk BONNETS trimmed & Children's do. do. French & German MARINO black, Fancy Silk BOLLS, white LAMBS of superior quality Genuine, SOAPS, &c. &c.—For sale by B. dos REMEDIOS Praya Manduco the fourth house passed 1/2. Froda's Dinnery.

Macao, 29th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—Several brick HOUSES, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

EUKUKE KURE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, at moderate terms, Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN PINE SPARS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton Socks and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MARINO BRAVES and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—GAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hhds per "Anna Klina," apply to

DALLAS and Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—On board the "ABELLA ROBINSON" lying in the Tyne. Cases of BASSER BEER, La ROSE CLASST, OILMAN'S SPOONS, SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles, Provision RICE, TABLE RICE, GRAIN, COIN ROPE.—Apply on board.

1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Buckets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKEY, Champagne Cider, SWAINS PANACRA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA; Spermaceti CANDLES; Yellow SOAP, CHURCH TOWACLO.—Apply to Messrs. S. & J. 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—On board Ship "HELENA" in the Type, American Pilot BRAD, in barrels.
do. Navy, do. in air tight Hhds.
Very superior BUTTER in barrels each containing 8 stone Jars of 19 lb packed in salt; apply on board.
Macao, 2nd July 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
 CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.
 CLARET 3 do. do.
 SHERRY, FINE in Hhds.
 Seltzer Water new.
 OILMANE STORES late imports.
 BEER in tierces; PORK in barrels.
 COALS 100 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
 Memo, 27th June, 1843.

FOR SALE.—At the Gooddowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—
Most Splendid French PIRN GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 20 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chinaware pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Payence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Muslinham SNUFF in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BRASS PAINTS, ALU, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, Sweetened pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER WATER, RHEIN, white and Black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manilla and Cordage, and English COGNAC, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few BRASS for lower Muzco. Apply to Muzco, 30th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KRIMS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Botts and Mbds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allsopp's fine PAL ALE in Mbds. ex "John O'Garra" & "Regular."
TURNER & Co.

MACAO, 20th JANUARY, 1942.
FOR SALE.—AMERICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.
MANILA SIGARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SELTZERWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
 Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE
CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Mrs. KRAOU LWAN WANG.
A Sinner's Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.
ESOP'S 'FABLES' in Chinese, with a free and a literal
translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The NEW SEE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS.
price one dollar.

MR. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF
THE KITT, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as

JOB PRINTING.

Bill of Lading and Exchange, p. 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size 11 1/2" x 17 1/2" 15 1/2" x 23 1/2" 17 1/2" x 25 1/2"

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

Of ships	$ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines	$ 1.

Exceeding 2 lines 10 cents per line additional:

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press,
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12

For six Months.....	7
For three	4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

1

CALCUTTA.

THE CABOOL MASSACRE.

From the Englishman, May 26.

Mention has been made in some of the public papers of the Narrative of the Sergeant Major of the 37th N. I., which was described at the same time as the most interesting and complete account of the disastrous march from Cabul that has yet been prepared. This document has fallen into our possession, and as it certainly is much more detailed and circumstantial than the hasty narrative supplied by Dr. Brydon immediately after his arrival at Jellalabad, we entreat ourselves fortunate in being able to lay it before our readers entire:—

NARRATIVE OF SERJEANT MAJOR LIEUTANT, 37TH REGIMENT N. I. FROM THE 6TH TO THE 13TH JANUARY, 1842.

Thursday, 5th Jan.—Orders were issued by Major General Elphinstone, that the troops in garrison at Cabul would be prepared to march towards Jellalabad in the morning, in the following order: 1st Bue' at 5, and 2d at 6 o'clock a. m. regiments left in front, the 44th Foot, Shah's Sappers, 5th Cavalry and the mountain train guns to form the Advance Guard under Brigadier Anquetil. The main column under the command of Brigadier Shelton, to be composed of the 5th N. I. and 57th N. I., in charge of the Magazine and Treasure, 2 guns Horse Artillery, Anderson's Horse and 6th Regt. Shah's Force. The Rear Guard under command of Lieut.-Col. Chambers to be formed by the 54th N. I., 4 guns Horse Artillery, and the remainder of the Cavalry, Regimental Magazine, and baggage to follow in the rear of corps respectively. A road having been cut through the rampart near the rear, and the Ditch filled in, the Advance Guard moved off from cantonments about 8 a. m., to lay down a temporary bridge across the Cabul river, the one built by capt. Stuart having been destroyed by the enemy. The bridge now formed to enable the Infantry to cross dryshod, was constructed with the platforms of ammunition waggons, and the doors of the barracks taken down, and a quantity of baggage across the river. A sudden stop was put to any more passing out of cantonments by order of the General; this was caused by a note having been received from Akbar Khan, stating he was not prepared to accompany us, but that the on Friday morning after prayers he would be ready with his escort. I cannot vouch for the truth of this further than that I heard several officers say so. I also heard that Akbar Khan had urged that it was an unlucky day, and that if we started we must take our chance, for he could not and would not be responsible for the consequence. Accordingly General Elphinstone ordered the baggage back, and also the Advance, when, as Lieut. Hawkes told me, several officers strongly opposed this, and remonstrated with the General, who, when he saw so many opposed to the measure wrote to Akbar Khan (as the same officer told me) telling him he would do nothing now but go on, but would wait for him (Akbar Khan's) arrival on the plain on the other side of the Logar River. Accordingly after two or three hours delay, (during which time the baggage had all crowded up about the gateway) orders were given to move on, but such was the press, it was next to impossible to move. It was sunset, when the 37th crossed the hill into Soud Sunk—at that time the Rear Guard moved off I cannot say, but I heard Lieut. Hawkes say that much of the baggage was yet in cantonment, when the enemy broke in over the ramparts from all points, and that the troops left behind to prevent this, were ordered not to fire, but get together as quickly as possible and leave the garrison. Thousands of Afghans were in waiting to pounce upon the baggage, and as it was getting late their patience seemed exhausted and they fell upon all they could lay hands on. The snow was about 6 to 10 inches deep, and we were from 6 o'clock in the morning until 10 or 11 that night (6th) before we reached the opposite side of the Logar River where we were to halt for the night. I cannot say at what time the Rear Guard came in. I can safely aver, that not one out of ~~twenty~~ that left cantonments reached the Logar River. Hundreds of camp followers perished this night, being frose to death, and numbers both of sepoy and followers were unable to proceed with the column next morning towards Boodak and were abandoned, there being no kind of conveyance to be had.

7th January.—We started for Boodkak and had not proceeded far when a sharp fire was opened on us, and the road from Chibul was covered with Afghans following hard after us; from time to time different portions of the baggage was left behind to give us a start, but in short time they overtook us again like hungry wolves; our parties were thrown out nor was the Rear Guard strengthened; consequently we had to abandon the mountain guns. Lieut. Green being severely wounded and his regiment killed. We reached the Boodkak and took up the best position we could, H. M. 44th being detached to drive the enemy from the hill, which they did and maintained their post till night when they were recalled.

Arriving early at Boodkak the camp was regularly formed, regiments forming a kind of square facing outwards, and all the cattle and what baggage was left placed inside. We remained very quiet during the night; but as soon as the day broke (8th) the enemy opened a fire on us. H. M.'s 44th took up a position commanding the mouth of the Pass, and 2 guns Horse Artillery were also detached to the Rear with the 37th, which took up position to the rear and left of the Camp to prevent the enemy from coming down upon the baggage as it was being loaded—keeping this position some time. Akbar Khan sent into Camp saying he wished to speak to captain Lawrence. I saw two or three officers go to where Akbar Khan was, and one rode back to halt the column and baggage until Akbar Khan went to front to clear the pass. H. M.'s 44th with 37th M. I., and two guns horse artillery were ordered to form the Rear Guard under Col. Chambers, and after a great deal of delay the column commenced moving off: we were no sooner in motion than the enemy opened a terrible fire upon us, and the party Akbar Khan left to protect us were in the rear and very busy, plundering every thing they could lay their hands on, and murdering in every direction. The 44th were told not to fire upon if people in the rear, as they were our Friends. The men forbore as long as they could, but when so many of their comrades were falling around them, they could bear no more but opened fire on all sides. By this time we began to enter the Pass, and then a fire from the enemy's guns opened on both flanks which did much damage; the hills were covered with the enemy, though scarcely a man was to be seen; their firing caused fire firing from our squares, and an incessant fire was also kept up on our rear. By this time we reached that part of the Pass where the barrier had been thrown across the Pass. It was tremendous, as the baggage, camp followers, and soldiers all got intermixed, and of course great slaughter ensued; from thence to the end of the Pass, no order or regularity amongst the troops was maintained; hundreds must have fallen on this march. The 2 guns Horse Artillery (after every man had been cut down at his post) fell into the hands of the enemy. After getting through the Pass the Cavalry and Horse Artillery were formed up at the mouth of it, whilst the Infantry passed on, and formed up in column of three. When some order had been restored, the Infantry were directed to move on, whilst the Horse Artillery and Cavalry with some portion of 44th Foot maintained a position at the mouth of the Pass. Some firing took place on both sides, but as I left the spot with my regiment, I can say nothing more of what passed there. At this time we were drawing near sunset, and began to grow heavily

We proceeded about two miles from the Pass, and halted for the night; the Horse Artillery and Cavalry coming up shortly after we had encamped. We could see the enemy's fires on the hills around us the whole night, but they did not molest us at all. At day light next morning (9) we prepared to march towards Tazeen, some straggling shots were fired by the enemy as soon as they saw us in motion—the Advance Guard (H. M.'s 44th Foot) moved off and a portion of the baggage and camp followers, and 37th N. I. had taken up the position in column, waiting the orders to march when Captain Skinner rode up and said we were not to march this day, orders having been sent on a head to recall the Advance Guard and baggage. We therefore returned to our ground, and it was in returning through the other portion of the old camp, that I witnessed the shocking effects of the cold and snow upon all the natives. They lay about in the snow in scores, dead and dying, and it was truly heartrending to witness the supplicating signs of the poor nepoya who were unable in any other way to ask aid and assistance. We halted at this place (Khoord Cabul) on the 9th and after midday I saw all the ladies leaving camp and moving to a large party of horsemen said to be Akbar Khan's and drawn up about 1,000 yds from us, and they occasionally sent a shot among us as I heard Capt. Skinner tell Lieut. Carlow our reason for not moving on was that about 800 of the enemy had assembled at the Pass at Tazeen determined to oppose our march, and that it was necessary Akbar Khan should proceed there and settle affairs. Next morning the 18th, we started from Khoord Cabul. As soon as we were in motion the enemy who were on all sides opening about as opened a fire. I forgot to mention that Major Griffiths when he saw so few men of his Corps at Khoord Cabul, on the 9th ordered me to go and see the roll of the companies called in succession, and let him know how many men had left. Accordingly I did so, and the return was 23 havildars, 17 naicks and 207 sepoy; out of this, next morning, one hundred men were all I could muster fit for duty. Having had nothing to eat and nothing to lay down on or cover themselves with since leaving Cabul, scores were unable to proceed, their feet being like three burnt pieces of wood, and their hands so dreadfully raw and cracked, they could not hold much less use a musket. We started as I said before under a sharp fire from the enemy, the 44th Foot with two guns and some of the Cavalry forming the Advance Guard, and the 87th next followed, who had the treasure (13,000 Rs.) in charge the morning. How the other Regiments followed I cannot positively say; but I believe the 5th N. I. followed the 32nd N. I., the 54th N. I. and the Shah's 6th forming the Rear Guard. We proceeded in good order, until we reached the Corner where the ascent being leading towards Cabul, Jabbah Khan, where a terrible fire was opened on us, and followers got so crowded up with the column that all regularity and order was lost. I saw several of the followers bayoneted and shot, but nothing would keep them out of the columns, and from this point commenced the slaughter that finished the Native Regiments, for both horse and footmen rushed in amongst the crowd and cut down sepoy and followers without any opposition; some contented themselves with stripping and driving the men back to Cabul. The Advance had in the mean time pushed on until it reached Kubbah Jubbah, at which place I joined it: they were endeavouring, under the General and Brigadier Shelton to form-up, to check the advance of the enemy, and after balking about an hour during which time not a shot was fired by us. Numbers of horse and foot had passed us during the night pushing on right and left towards the pass at Taseen. We moved on from Kubbah Jubbah to where the descent commences leading to Taseen without much interruption, but as soon, or even before, we reached the bottom a very fire was opened upon us from the heights on both sides. A number of men fell here; we got into the valley of Taseen about 4 p. m. and were much rejoiced to have once more got out of the snow. We were to have halted here, but several of the officers urged the General to push on. We started again about 8 o'clock leaving behind us our only remaining gun, a 12-pounder howitzer taking care first to spike it. From this place what remained from Captain Nichol's troop of the Artillery acted as Cavalry. From Taseen to Seah Baha we had not a shot fired at us, but from Seah Baha we maintained a running fight until we reached Jagdulluck, entering it from the upper end where we had some very hard fighting, thrashing the enemy from several hills. We took up our quarters for the night in an old fort; the enemy keeping up fire from the heights all round us which took fatal effect. We were all very much exhausted with hunger and fatigue when we reached Jagdulluck, being on foot from the time we left Khoord Cabul, (8 o'clock on the 10th until 2 or 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 11th) General Elphinstone had three bullets killed here, and fairly divided amongst all ranks of Europeans. Towards evening some negotiations were being carried on as some Afghans came into the camp. 12th we halted much to the regret of every one, as the enemy were firing on all sides and doing much damage both to men and horses. The 44th made some very gallant charges and drove the enemy from their positions several times—though the men were ravenous from hunger, so much so, that, as the horses were killed, officers and men strip the flesh off their bones, and in many instances eat it raw. From this place General Elphinstone, Brigadier Shelton and Captain Johnson were taken away from us as hostages, and about 7 o'clock in the evening word was passed quietly amongst the Europeans that we were to march immediately, and our situation was somewhat explained to us, the officers exhorting us to hang together, as this was our only chance, for we should have to fight our way to Jellalabad. We started from Jagdulluck about 7 or 8 p. m. of the 12th, leaving behind us all our wounded, as no means could be found to bring them on. It was heart-rendering to hear the poor fellows calling on their comrades not to leave them there to be cut to pieces by the enemy. Brigadier Anquetil led and commanded the column, and we had no sooner moved off than the enemy were on the alert, some making their way to the rear, while others pressed on the Pass ahead of us. Little or no damage was done by the enemy's fire till we reached the Barrier throws across the road at the foot of the ascent from Jagdulluck; here all was confusion. Horse and foot, camp followers, and every one had got into a heap, no one could move for a time; such an awful press I never was in, numbers were trodden to death, and the enemy in the rear were slaughtering away at their pleasure. The cries and screams of the poor fellows were terrible. Great numbers must have fallen at this Barrier which was so strong and intricate that it resisted the utmost efforts of the men to pull it asunder. More than half of the 44th lost their muskets in endeavouring to cross it. It was built of Holly trees and bushes. After crossing the Barrier and reaching the top of the Pass, the men halted and formed up in Section and detached one Company as a Rear Guard, the enemy all this time keeping up a sharp fire on us. We proceeded in this order for some time; when the men in the rear kept constantly calling to those in front to halt; whilst the officers were urging the expediency of pushing on and losing no time saying if we reach Gundamak by daylight we shall be safe. This continued for some time, some of the men halting and others pushing on as requested, until the cries from the Rear became more loud and frequent for the men to halt in front. The men in front then said, "The Officers seem to care but for themselves, let them push on if they like, we will halt until our comrades in the Rear come up. From this point some of the Officers went on, as all regularly seemed at our end and every man seemed determined to act for himself. This continued until morning, when not more than 40 men of the 44th Foot could have been left and half of those without arms. The men were fagged and footsore and said they would proceed to further; we were then close to Gundamak. Myself and 4 more still kept on, and as I knew the road, had hopes that by hiding ourselves during the day, we could make our way to Jellalabad by night. We went on till we reached a cave into which we crept hungry and faint. What occurred to the small party I left behind I cannot say, but one of my fellow prisoners, who was taken with Major Griffiths, told me that after I left them they took up a position on a hill for a last struggle, the enemy being in numbers about them: firing had continued on both sides for some time when a signal was made for the enemy to come up the hill, and Major Griffiths was trying what could be done with the Chief Golan Jan, whom some of his men begged to strip the Europeans and take from them their arms, which the remainder seeing they opened a fire on them, which was the signal for a general slaughter. This is the account I heard—all this occurred on the morning of the 13th, myself and the other four men were during the day discovered and in the evening we were removed from the cave to a fort some distance from it where we remained four days, when we were taken to the fort in which Major Griffiths and four other prisoners were confined—where I remained till my removal to this place which reached on the 31st January.

(Signed) JOHN H. LISSANT,
Sergt. Maj. 37th Regt. N. I.

Jellalabad, Feb. 1842.

DESTRUCTION OF THE "VANITTART" BY FIRE.—By accounts brought by the Prindors from Bombay we regret to learn that the Vanittart was unfortunately destroyed by fire early in the morning of the 3d ultimo. She had on board upwards of 8,000 bales of Cotton and a large quantity of Malwa Opium, forming a very valuable cargo. Both hull and cargo are we believe covered by Insurance. The following extract of a letter on the subject has been kindly handed to us by a friend.

"I desire to announce the entire destruction of the Vanittart by fire, last night, while at anchor on the middle ground, or outer anchorage, previously to starting this day for China. The cause is not known but must have originated with the Cotton in the hold, as after the smoke was first observed issuing from the hatchways about 2 A. M. the flames burst out immediately with unquenchable fury, as hardly to give time, for the commander and crews to effect their escape, the last way they could, without clothes, or effects. Many of the Lascars saved themselves on planks and pieces of timber, and were picked up after being hours in the water. The chief mate had an attack of cholera, two hours before, after having been for some time a sufferer from fever and was saved with difficulty.

Only the European carpenter and another are as yet ascertained to have perished."

CANTON PRESS. Macao, 30th July, 1842.

Our only arrival from the westward with later news than we were before in possession of, during the week has been H. M. Driver which we had just time to announce last week. We have by her received Singapore papers to 14th July and made some extracts. By the Champion from Chusan, as will be seen below accounts of the taking of Woo-sung and Shanghai have been received; we have further learnt that nearly the whole of the force, and H. M. Plenipotentiary had reached the Yang-tse-kiang, and may therefore soon look forward to hear of some important movements.

CAPTURE OF WOOSUNG AND SHANGHAI.—The news of the capture of these places was received here on Monday last, and we publish below H. M. Plenipotentiary's Circular to the British community on the subject. We have moreover been favored with the following extract from a letter dated Woosung 24th June, which will be found to supply many additional items of intelligence.

"The attack upon Woosung was made upon the 18th; I will endeavour to give you a short description. In the first place then, Woosung is upon a river branching from the more noble stream of the Yang-tse-kiang itself. Upon the West bank is a continual line of mud and sand fortification, nearly two miles in extent; the upper extreme resting upon the small town of Woosung, and divided by a navigable creek from another battery, admirably situated to flank the first. On the opposite side of the river, and abreast, was an unfinished defence with a very few guns and sort of citadel place for extremity, in the event of outworks being forced, but which I need scarcely tell you, they never intended to make use of. There were six four-wheeled junks too, with brass guns, a faint imitation of our own devil ships, but which were abandoned upon the first alarm. The Blonde had the honor of leading in, followed by Cornwallis, Modeste, Columbine, and Chlo, the little Algerine finding her own way, and Medusa upon the flag-ship's bow like a pilot-fish. The wind being foul, I had forgotten to tell you, each ship was lashed to a steamer, and a more novel and pleasing (or exciting, which you like) sight I never witnessed. The channel had been most completely buoyed the preceding night by the surveying officers, up to the very walls, and every ship got into position without an accident. The forts commenced the action, the very first shot killing poor Hewett of the Blonde, taking off both legs of another man. The ships hammered away for two hours, the beautiful precision of the Cornwallis fire leaving nothing but a heap of rubbish in the space abreast. The other ships did well, but of course the very weight of her repeated broadsides made her work more striking. The landing parties from each ship then took possession with but very little resistance, wherein some few of them were wounded, from the eagerness of every one to be first. I should have told you, that as the landing of the troops was not practicable till the batteries were silenced, the steamers were to have returned for them; but the Chinese had retreated long before they landed, for I certainly think, of the two, they would sooner encounter the tender mercies of the seamen than of the soldiers. It was therefore entirely a naval engagement, but the army, besides being too liberal to be jealous, can well afford to occasionally yield the palm from the many brilliant honors they have won, and the field yet before them. The ships suffered something aloft—Cornwallis must lose her mainmast, Columbine her mainmast badly wounded, and all ships more or less hulled. The Modeste had two shrouds cut through—seven shots in the hull, two only penetrating right through—five on board wounded, and as nearly as I can ascertain the whole return is two killed, besides 30 or 35 wounded. 179 guns was the whole number taken, 46 of them copper. Two days after Columbine, Modeste and Chlo proceeded 10 miles farther up the river to another fortified position, intending to await the arrival of the Admiral with Blonde and Northstar; but having reason to think the forts were deserted, Capt. Watson landed the small arm men, and took quiet possession of two of the most perfect and scientific batteries in China, together mounting 35 guns, 17 of them copper. It appeared that the Chinese had evacuated upon our approach, after the most wilful destruction, to prevent anything they were obliged to abandon being of use to ourselves. The Admiral was apprised of this, and came on with North-Star and Iron Steamers, when each taking a ship in tow, we proceeded up to the city of Shanghai, without more opposition than the barking of a 37 gun battery, in the last reach, which, when we had approached to within 3 1/2 miles left off all their guns, and then "whistled"; however, we found 17 more copper guns amongst the others. Several warjunks were destroyed too. The troops marched that morning from Woosung, and we found them in quiet possession of the city, but all valuable property had been removed, and people of any consideration fled, so ransom was out of the question, and accordingly, on the 23d we returned to Woosung. The city of Shanghai is I believe larger than even Ningpo; very flourishing, and the river covered with junks. The country is exceedingly rich and beautiful—ground rank with fatness—wheat in abundance—every species of culture more nearly approaching our own. We believe Nanking to be the next campaign."

"Extracts of a Chinese proclamation in the name of the inhabitants of 36 villages, and stuck on the walls of Tinghsa, the 28th May, 1842.

"There arrived yesterday (27th May) a ship of war belonging to the French nation, which the English had desired to aid them against us, from which we may conclude that the English force is much diminished, and no longer able to oppose us.

"The French are a simple, diligent, and faithful people; we had no sooner told them that the Eng-him cold Opium, and thus spread their poison all over the country, than they changed their minds with respect to them, and told us that they would not aid them because their cause was unjust. These French whom the English had invited to their succor and aid, have refused their assistance, and now look upon them as enemies. We must not therefore injure any Frenchman nor any French ships. Should any one act contrary to this order he will receive the punishment due to him who unjustly ill-treats an innocent person. Now, should the English still remain here, it will be necessary to fix a day for a general attack on them, at sea with our ships, and on land with our troops. Thus encompassed on all sides they cannot escape us, and their extermination is certain.

On board the French Frigate l'Erigone, Chusan Roads, the 21st June, 1842.

"The undersigned, Post Captain, Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, commanding the French Frigate l'Erigone, having been informed that in a Proclamation equally absurd and ridiculous, placarded upon the walls of Ningpo on the 18th June last, the French name has been made use of, to induce into error the inhabitants of the Celestial Empire, by making them believe that the French are inclined to take an active part in their favor in their quarrel with the English:

"He therefore declares plainly, as much for the sake of truth as for the sake of those men themselves that are thus misled by chimerical hopes—that the mission of the Erigone is altogether pacific; that it has no other object than the protection of French interests; the observation of the great events now preparing, and their just appreciation.

"France, friendly with England, and at peace with her as well as with China, with which latter she has never had any but friendly relations, does not take any part in the war between the two empires, except to conciliate them, if possible; but this is a part belonging solely to the King of the French and matters have gone too far to indulge in any thought of it.

As regards the Commander of the Erigone, he repeats as a duty to his personal character and to the good faith of his government, every insinuation which might tend to a belief in any participation whatever, contrary to the rules of a strict neutrality; he confines himself to wishing that an arrangement, alike honorable to both warring nations, may soon put an end to the calamities which the war spreads over these fine realms; and that the Emperor, appreciating more correctly the friendship and power of the European nations, may at length consent to become part of the great family of nations.

(Signed) CECILLE.

A boat of the Cherub when on her way from Whampoa to Canton by the back passage by which ships boats are not at present permitted to go, was followed by 8 mandarin boats, who took possession of her and her crew, with the exception of one man who jumped overboard, and took the boat and the Captain of the Cherub who was in her with the crew to Canton where they were delivered to the authorities, and the vessel's consignee informed of the circumstance. On going to the Consolhouse, he found the Captain and crew in the midst of a number of Chinese officers, and on explanation they were immediately liberated, and the things that had been taken out of the boat, restored, with the exception, we believe, of the Captain's watch, which has likewise been promised should be returned. We are happy to say that the man who jumped overboard reached the land and has also been taken to Canton and there liberated.

We have copied from the last Canton Register an Imperial Manifesto, which, although it still breathes defiance, is remarkable for the admission, on the part of the Emperor, that the British forces have already caused to the Empire great calamities, and the tone of contempt with which his Majesty used to speak of all Barbarians hitherto, is considerably modified. We are glad to find that the Peking government begins to feel its weakness, and to avow it, as a due appreciation of the strength of the contending parties, alone will ever compel the Chinese to treat with a foreign nation on equal terms. It is somewhat singular that the Emperor speaks of Capt. Elliot as if he were still in command of the Expedition, and charges him with being the author of last year's hostilities.

We are told that a petition signed by most of the foreign residents has been presented to the Canton authorities praying that permission be given for their wives to reside for the future in Canton, and it is thought that a favorable answer may be expected. Although it is highly desirable that the absurd regulation which restricted the residence of foreign ladies to Macao, should be rescinded, yet it appears to us, that the present is perhaps not the fittest time to address the authorities on the subject, partly because, let the issue of the present war be whatever it may, the manner of intercourse between Chinese and foreigners will henceforward be very different from what it has been heretofore, and partly because, if the sought-for permission were granted, it is not likely that any ladies under the present circumstances would choose to reside at Canton. Besides we do not think it prudent for British subjects, some of whom, we are told, have signed the petition, to address the local authorities of Canton at the present time on any subject not immediately connected with matters of trade.

THE WEATHER.—During the latter days of the past week apprehensions of a gale were again entertained, the barometer falling on the 28th even lower than it had been on the 20th last week, and although it still continues much depressed (Friday night) we have not experienced any bad weather—thermometer, yesterday was 92°, with wind from N. West, and West. On the 21st last week we understand the Cacique, since arrived, experienced a very severe gale to the westward, in the gulph of Siam.

H. M. St. Driver, and H. C. St. Memon have, we understand, during the week left Hongkong for the northward.

All accounts from Canton agree in representing the authorities there as most anxious to sufficiently conciliate foreigners, that the trade may continue. Greater facilities than ever are given for the transaction of business, particularly in the shipment of goods, and it is said the Hongmerchants contemplate a reduction of 2 Taels per Picul of the export-charges in Tea, in order to prevent smuggling, which is fast on the increase, encouraged by the temptation to avoid the present high charges. We also hear that many of the Factories are being repaired and there is little doubt that the trade of the approaching season will be carried on at Canton, where again a good many British merchants will become, at least temporary, residents. The rains have caused the river to rise very considerably—respondentia, walk has been flooded to beyond the entrances of the hong almost daily, and the whole country immediately surrounding Canton is said to be under water. The Hongmerchants Sangqua and Howqua's son have begun their reluctant travels to Chekiang, accompanied by two linguists. It is said that the substitution of his son for himself has cost Howqua a large sum of money.

REPORTS.—Although they deserve probably little credit, we may state, that a report from Nanking says that there has been fighting for two days near that city, at the end of which a truce had been agreed to. Another report says that a number of steamers and several ships of war have appeared on the coast of Pechelie to destroy the fortifications there. According to Sir Henry Pottinger's Circular it was however the intention to move the force up the Yangtsekiang.

By a vessel from Nanking, after the short passage of only two days, we learn that a very violent gale had occurred there, but we have not heard whether it did any damage. The French Corvette Favorite had arrived there on her way to the north.

We obtain from a good source the information that the number of Chinese troops collected for the defence of the Woosung or Shanghai river amounted to 50,000 men. On the same authority it is stated that the General in chief of the Chinese army there, believing or feigning to believe himself betrayed by two mandarins, killed one with his sword, and then, from the ramparts, threw himself into the water, and fled. It is not known whither. Before the English took peaceable possession of Shanghai, the people themselves had from hatred towards the mandarins, destroyed all their tribunals.

It is reported that major Malcolm, 3d dragoons, and Secretary of legation, and Mr. Woosnam, Surgeon to the mission, have been appointed prize-agents.—Canton Register.

CANTON MARKET.

IMPORTS.—COTTONS are in fair demand although at low prices. A sale of 20 000 pieces Longcloths at 2 60 is reported. The consumption of this article seems of late to have considerably increased, no doubt owing to the low prices. Stock much reduced.

COTTON YARN.—little or none in first hands, and may be quoted No 18 a 24, 8 26, No 24 a 32, 27 a 28 8, and No 30 a 40, 8 30.

WOOLLENS.—The stock in Canton is much reduced, but the quantities stored outside the port must be very considerable, the cash-payment required for the heavy duty preventing holders from importing them. Longella may be quoted a 7 8 well assorted, and 95 cents a dollar for SPANISH STRIPES.

IRON.—8 2. 80 a 3 8 for best Nail Rod.

LEAD.—Nominal at 6 8.

TIN PLATES.—For a small quantity would fetch 9 8.

COTTON.—The market opened about the 20th of last month a 8 4 a 8 7 T. for the best quality of which in proportion the supply is moderate, and advanced to T. 8 8 a 8 9, at which latter price very few sales have been made. After the Cotton dealers had supplied themselves at these prices, the demand ceased, and prices nominally went a little lower. At present the lower qualities are unsaleable, and considerably lower prices are spoken of.

EXPORTS.—TEA.—Since the 1st October exports have amounted to 31 Millions lbs and 4 Millions more it is expected will be carried away by the ships now loading. There are about 4 Millions more of Tea fit for the English market remaining of which a part may be shipped in the next two months, and the whole of the exports will amount to 36 a 38 Millions.

We quote the following prices

Couros , very common to fair	T. 21. 5. a 25
Twanay , common to good	21. 5. a 26.
Hysen	31. a 42.
Young Hyuen , Cargo	39.—
fair to good	31 a 40
Imperial and Gunpowder	38. a 40

RAW SILK.—Of a stock of 950 Bales only 250 are good, the remainder being cargo-silk. For the fine 450 a 486 8 are asked, and 455 a 460 8 for cargo.

EXCHANGE.—On London is scarce a 4s 8 1/2 a 4s 9d. and there are few of American and other bills in the market. On India the rate of Company's bills has declined to 222 Rs. per 100 8.

TONGA.—Abundant and freight difficult to be obtained at Whampoa at 5 8 and outside 8 4 10.

CIRCULAR TO H. B. M.'S SUBJECTS IN CHINA.

The gratifying duty of announcing further high important successes of H. M. combined forces, again devolves of H. M. Plenipotentiary in China.

After the necessary delay in destroying the batteries, magazines, foundries, barracks, and other public buildings, as well as ordnance, arm, and ammunition, captured at Chapon, the troops were disembarked and the expedition finally quitted that port on the 23d of May and arrived on the 29th off the Ragged islands, where it remained until the 13th of June, on which day it crossed the Bar, which had been previously surveyed and buoyed off, into Yangtsze-keang river, to the point where the river is joined by the Woosung.

At this point the Chinese authorities had erected immense lines of works, to defend the entrances of both rivers, and seem to have been so confident of their ability to repel us, that they permitted a very close reconnaissance to be made in two of the small steamers by their excellencies the Naval and Military commanders in chief on the 14th inst.; and even cheered and encouraged the boats which were sent in the same night to lay down buoys to guide the ships of war to their allotted positions of attack.

At daylight on the morning of the 16th the squadron weighed anchor, and proceeded to take up their respective stations, which was scarcely done when the batteries opened, and the rannoade on both sides was extremely heavy and unceasing for about two hours; that of the Chinese then began to slacken, and the cannon and mortars were landed at once, under the fire from the ships, and drove the enemy out of the batteries before the troops could be disembarked and formed for advancing. Two hundred and fifty three guns (42 of them brass) were taken to the batteries, most of them of heavy calibre, and upwards of eleven feet long. The whole were mounted on pivot carriages of new and efficient construction, and it was likewise observed that they were fitted with bamboo sights.

The casualties in the Naval arm of the expedition amounted to two killed and twenty five wounded, and the land forces had not a man touched. It appears almost miraculous that the casualties should not have been much greater, considering how well the Chinese served their guns. The "Blonde" frigate had 16 shot in her hull, the "Scopas" steamer 11 and all the ships engaged more or less. The loss on the part of the enemy is supposed to have been about 80 killed, and a proportionate number wounded.

On the 17th of June some of the lighter vessels of the squadron advanced up the Woonung river and found a battery deserted, mounting 55 guns, of which 17 were brass.

On the 18th two more batteries close to the city of Shanghai, opened their guns on the advanced division of the light squadron, but on receiving a couple of broadsides, the Chinese fled and the batteries, which contained 48 guns (17 of them brass) were instantly occupied and the troops took possession of the city, where the public buildings were destroyed and the extensive government granaries given to the people.

His excellency the admiral proceeded up the river Woonung with two of the small iron steamers on the 19th inst., about 50 miles beyond the city of Shanghai, and in this reconnaissance two additional fieldworks, each mounting four heavy guns, were taken and destroyed; bringing the total of ordnance captured in these operations up to the astonishing number of 364 of which 76 are of brass, and chiefly large handsome guns; many of the brass guns have got devices showing that they have been cast lately, several of them have Chinese characters signifying "the tamer and subduer of the barbarians" and one is dignified by the title of the "barbarian."

The Chinese high officers and troops are supposed to have fled in the direction of the cities of Soochow, Hangchow, and Nanking. The same high authorities have made another indirect attempt to treat, and have also given a satisfactory proof of their anxiety to conciliate by the release of 16 of H. M.'s subjects (Europeans and natives of India) who had been kidnapped; but as the overtures were not grounded on the only basis on which they can be listened to, they were met by an intimation to that effect.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

Dated on board the steam frigate "Queen," in the Yangtsze-kiang river (off Woonung) the 24th day of June, one thousand eight hundred and forty two.

(Signed) HENRY POTTINGER,
H. M. Plenipotentiary.

From the Canton Register, 26th July.

TRANSLATIONS.

PROCLAMATION FROM THE EMPEROR RELATIVE TO THE MANAGEMENT OF THE AFFAIRS OF THE BARBARIANS.—Dated 4th moon, 27th day.—June 25th, 1842.

In the 4th moon, on the 27th day, the imperial edict was received.

I, the emperor, on account of opinion flowing like poison into China, bringing down calamities on the people, have, in former years, sent down, in edicts, my express orders, directing it to be strictly prohibited in every province. Again and a third time have I, with the most assiduous heedfulness, given clear and explicit orders and warnings; and because Canton was the place where the outside barbarians traded, I gave especial orders to Lin Tsi-hen to proceed thither, examine into and manage the business. The barbarians of each nation eagerly and sincerely obeyed the restraints, and bound themselves by promises; it was only the English rebellious barbarian, Elliot, on account of the destruction of the opium dirt, made a pretence to cause disturbance. Lin, on account of his bad management, was immediately degraded and banished to the frontier. Yet the said rebel, in the 6th month of the 20th year of Taoukwang, ratlike sneaked into the waters of the province of Chekeang, and stealthily took possession of the city of Tinghsa, and then proceeded to the office of Teenting, announcing the presentation of a petition. I, the emperor, consider China and outside nations with one heart and mind, and esteem it of importance to cherish and treat with mildness men from afar, and not contemplating that his (Elliot's) first thoughts were of rebellion, and to tell and explain his grievances his last, without any consideration of (his country's) trade being rejected and cut off, I again commanded Ke-shen to proceed to Canton and verily to examine into and manage the facts. Further, the general Elops, the commissioner in the province of Chekeang, seized the barbarian officer Gontikhsa (Anstruther) and many others, and by great favour saved them from death; and when Tinghsa was evacuated (by the English), sent them back to their country.

But the said barbarian, crafty and deceitful, turning and turning, still begging with unmitigated appetite and clearly understanding the pacific intentions and language of Ke-shen, who did not prepare proper means of defence, at length summoned troops and first attacked successively the forts at Shakra & Tshoo (Chungpa & Tykshoo); killed my great officers, and troubled my blackhaired race on the coast; and the causes of disturbances and war have been occasioned by the selfish selling of opium by the rebellious foreigners; further, he openly begged for favours and secretly used deceptive schemes; turning his back upon truth and making wiles all my favours; at such conduct both gods and men were indignant; and I, the emperor, ordered my officers to lead forth my troops: these are the real circumstances of the case.

When the rebel-quelling general, Fik, arrived at Canton, the rebellious foreigners, ratlike entered the inner waters, spying about the provincial city! and the reason that the great officers then assembled their troops, was occasioned by the avaricious and greedy desire for profit of the said rebel; who meditating trade, earnestly begged that the debts owing by the hongmerchants to the said foreigners should be paid! I, the emperor, treat all with perfect sincerity, and have never cherished ill feelings in my bosom: thus if he (Elliot) really obtained profit, he said there should be peace and that he would not go to other places, and cause disturbance: on this account I considered the bestowal of this favour (the $ 5,000,000) as a very little matter, and certainly did not grudge it; doltish fool of a hateful race! how can he attempt to equal or rival me (the emperor of the heavenly dynasty)! but, my anxious thoughts and care being for my people in the maritime provinces, could not but comply with the force of circumstances. Who could have imagined that the rebellious foreigner cherished such an evil heart in his bosom? deceiving heaven and opposing reason!

The province of Canton was left in quiet, but the provinces of Fuhkeen and Chekeang were again agitated like the ocean waves; Tinghsa was again furtively watched, and the city again invaded and kept; and my minister (Yehsen) died in defence of his country; and my officers threw away their lives, and numbers of my people were slaughtered: Elliot's crimes, it is difficult to number. I especially ordered the awe-inspiring general, Fik-king and others to lead on their troops, attack and exterminate (the English). Some time ago the robbers retired from Ningpo, and then laid Cheapoo in ruins.

When the said foreigner was in the province of Canton, after his schemes were satiated, he went to Chekeang, where he plundered the province for the subsistence of his army: such is his cruel, barbarous disposition; but the measure of his iniquities is full, and no larger respite will be granted by heaven. When the heavens above look down on his deeds the barbarians will surely be exterminated! What crimes have my people committed, that they should be afflicted with such cruel calamities?

On self examination, my mind (origi. five vietroa) is filled with anxiety and distress; and my every thought is that the poisonous sprout (Elliot) is not yet cut off, and that I cannot rescue my subjects: with painful feelings I severely blame myself and hate myself for being unequal to my duties. For me repose by day or night is difficult. Ye generals, leaders, governors, lieut.-governors, the civil and military officers at Peking and in the provinces, all ye ministers should regard the state of my mind, and hasten to save the people, and not have a thought of repose, but attend to the present emergency and direct yourselves of selfishness and deceptive conduct, to cause your name not to sink in after time.

As to officers and men always talking of the strength of their ships and their destructive gunnery, the murderous fire of which it is hard to bear; why immediately they see the robbers, they are frightened and fly like the wind in disorder; and then the thieves entered the river without your knowledge; and soon then you became aware of your danger, and the troops rushed forward with armour, and entering into battle did not retreat, and they were also aided by the bold villagers.

But the power of lord and guest (the emperor and captain Elliot) is by no means equal; and the difference in the numbers of the people of our country is great; but on account of (the richness of) my country, he has availed himself of an opportunity (of making war); but what difficulty will there be in conquering him.

As such are the barbarous dispositions of the rebellious barbarians, the spirits of my troops are not equal to them.

The connection of the native traitors with the rebellious barbarians, has been caused by the poverty of the ignorant people; or it has sprung from their distressing difficulties: and on account of profit, thus have they been deceived, and induced to connect themselves willingly with robbers, that they might procure sufficient food for their families; and thus through their avidity the robbers have attacked and plundered several places, and when the robbers came they were sent in advance, and then they were the first exposed to slaughter; and when the robbers retired, they were placed in the rear, and were subject to seizure by the troops, and forthwith executed. Yet the people have the dispositions of men, and should know how to repent and return to their allegiance.

I, the emperor, am your heavenly appointed lord; if you will only regard that which is before your eyes, you will rest in repose, and not be troubled with great affairs hereafter.

But had I been careless of the broad-sowing poison, and not have prohibited it, I should firstly have been ungrateful to my imperial father, from whom I received the important favour of the government of the empire; and secondly, I should have proved myself incapable of preserving the lives of my people: thus, how was it possible for me not to exert my utmost strength in prohibiting it?

Now, although the traitors and barbarians are causing trouble, and on account of avaricious desires of profit are daily committing murder and robbery, all ye leaders, ministers, soldiers &c., as you have received my gracious favours, you should manifest heavenly principles and a good heart, and clearly explain the laws, and excite the valiant; and those who strive to be first, on them rewards shall be forthwith conferred; but for those who retreat, instantly execute them without mercy; if these orders are obeyed, what attack will they not be equal to? and what place will they not be able to hold?

The officers who have managed badly before (Lin, Ke-shen &c.), each have been dismissed; yet if they atone for their crimes and establish meritorious deeds hereafter, they may be excused; but if they again lose the opportunity, and ruin my people, and connive with the foreigners, then shall they be treated according to the severest course of law, and I shall be unable to show any further indulgence.

Amongst the multitude of my people there are many valiant men of talent; excite them to a righteous zeal, to preserve themselves and their country; and the officers and troops to recover the lost cities: to guard important passes from the entrance of the robbers; to burn the barbarian ships, and seize the leaders of the robbers; or to lay hold of and act by the principles of right reason, and announce to all the foreigners, that they cause the English to know, that if they repent, and are able in length of time to establish meritorious deeds, they shall become the recipients of inexhaustible and the greatest favours!

The first affair is, to prohibit opium; that I may compassionate the people's lives; in opposing the enemy, the wish is to preserve the people's lives; I, the emperor, have night and morning anxious thoughts, and cannot but attend to the most trifling concerns; all ye ministers should agree together in the measures of managing business, and excite the troops to battle, devising measures, exciting the people to join the ranks, without disorder or hurry; if the civil and military officers act thus, we can exclude the barbarian worthless sprouts, sweeping them into the depths of the wide ocean, and give to the people of the empire to enjoy the blessings of peace and tranquillity.

This is special as concerning the management of the affairs relating to the barbarians from first to last: for my first thought is to exclude calamities from the people.

An special edict. Let it be made known far and near.—Respect this—4th moon, 27th day (June 8).—By J. SLADE, Ed. C. R.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
IN THE YANG-TSE-KIANG, CHUSAN, CHINWAN, &c.
H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards. Senior Commanding Officer

" Blonde, 48, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, K. C. B.

" Thais, 44, capt. Hope.

" Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Grey.

" Calliope, 26, " A. L. Kuper,

" North Star, 26, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.

" Herald, 26, " J. Nias, C. B.

" Dido, 20, " the honble H. Koppell.

" Pelican, 18, " Napier.

" Modeste, 18, comr. Watson.

" Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.

" Columbine, 14, " Morshed.

" Childers, 16, " Halsted.

" Clio, 16, " E. Troubridge.

" Algerine, 19, comr. W. H. Maitland.

" Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.

SUPPLEMENT

SURVEYING SHIPS.

Starling. 6, comr. Kellett.
Lady Bentinck, .. Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

Belleisle, capt. Kincomb.
Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire, .. Cole.
Jupiter, mr. comg. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comg. W. Warden,
Scottria, comr. Ormsby.
Auckland, .. Ethersey, I. N.
Tenasserim, .. Wall, I. N.
Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto, .. Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
Medusa, .. Hewett, I. N.
Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine, comr. Hough, a. n.
Memnon, .. Powell.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
Driver, .. Farmer.

AT AMOY.

H. M. S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, c. m. senior commanding officer.
Pyliades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. m.
capt. sir T. Herbert, x c. r.
Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, c. o.
Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasse.
Wolverine, 16, capt. Johnson.
Cruiser, 16, comr. Pearce.
Hazard, 16, .. Bell.
Serpent, 16, .. Nevill.
Young Hebe, 4, .. Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly, mr. comg. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

July, ARRIVED

21. H. C. St. Driver, Capt. Farmer. Singapore.
21. (B.) Champion, .. Chusan.
22. Agneda, .. Bombay & Singapore.
24. Andromache, Butchard. Batavia.
25. Gemini, Mardon. Liverpool.
25. Cacque, Mow, Batavia. 20th July.

July, SAILED

20. (B.) Genelle, Ogg. Manila.
22. (A.) Nantasket, Rogers, do.
23. (B.) Herald, Coulson, Bombay.
24. Sir H. Compton, Boulton, Bombay.
25. Bellas, Strachan, Singapore and Calcutta.
27. Water Witch Reynell do. do.
27. Canton, Crouch, Halifax.
20. (Du.) Prince Frederick, de Kok, Manila.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England, — Dovecot, Devon, Elizabeth, Pink,
Judith Allen, Caroline, Mary Ann
Edie, Claudine,
From Bombay, — Drogan, Bucophalus, Island
Queen, Anonyma, Cornwallis,
Salem, Faustilar, Asia, Edinburgh,
Diana, Corea, Lord Eldon, Grecian, Lady Clarke.
From Calcutta, — Dido, Clown, Intrepid, Mermad, Victory, Cowasjee Family, Framjee Cowasjee, Mor, Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet.
From Singapore, — Hongkong, Camden, Sarah Bel-ford.

LATEST DATES,

IRELAND, 8th April. SINGAPORE, 15th July.
UNITED STATES, March 18. MANILA, 24th June.
CALCUTTA, 9th June. AMOY, ..
BOMBAY, 26th May. CHUAN, 8th July.
JAVA, 10th July.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arno,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arethusa,	—	Christians,	C. Fearon
Amelia,	—	Potter,	W. H. Harton,
Agneda,	—	—	D & M. Rustonjee & Co
Andromache,	—	Butchard,	Turner & Co.
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria,	—	West,	"
Bombay,	128	Furley,	"
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	"
Champion,	454	—	A. A. de Melton.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pebus.
Corair,	—	Martin,	D & M. Rustonjee & Co
China,	524	Robertson	Russell and Co.
Cacque,	—	Mow,	C. Fearon
Chebar,	—	Harrison,	Lindsay and Co.
Cleopatra,	377	Farley,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Charles Forbes,	99	Wills, Iger	"
Charlotte,	—	Liebschwa	"
Devonport,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
England,	—	—	Lindsay and Co.
Earl Balcarras,	1488	Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Fred. Huth,	—	Toby,	Turner and Co.
Fr. Spaight,	—	Winn,	"
Fortescue,	259	Hall,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Forteen,	294	Baddeley,	"
Gemini,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Guesse,	131	McKellar,	W. Atkinson & Co.
Gulnare,	—	wilonghy	Dirom and Co.
Hero of Malown	—	Jackson,	"
Hersey,	—	Easterly,	"
Hope,	—	Barrett,	C. Fearon.
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	G. Nye jr.
Harmony,	530	Smith,	Macvicar & Co.
Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Helen,	—	Hickes,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Percira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgan	Dent and Co.
Lowjee Family	—	Arves,	"
Lord Amberst,	—	Hopkins,	"
Larkins,	—	Hibbert,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. B. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Nerva,	—	Melville,	Macvicar & Co.
Peravian,	304	Pithkethly	W. & T. Gemmell & Co
Prima Donna,	208	Kell,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Queen Victoria	715	Black,	D & M. Rustonjee & Co
Queen Victoria	—	Connor,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Raymond,	—	Mackay,	"
Royal Saxon,	442	Crawford,	Jamieson How & Co.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Furdonjee,
Ross,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Saipa,	—	Morton,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Semiramis,	365	Cairns,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Shepherd,	—	Bowdich,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Ternate,	—	Mann,	Fergusson L. & Co.
Vestal,	276	Young,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Winchester,	—	Macdonald	"
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonnal	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
Forum,	Murdock, Russell and Co.
Helena,	Benjamin,
Levant,	Fault,
Ann MacKim,	Vasner,
Congress,	Hay,
Cincinnati,	Wilson,
Probas,	Sumner,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Robert Fulton,	McMichael,
Lowell,	Peirce,
Panther,	Martin,
	J. M. Bull.

• at Whampoa.

DIED.—At Macao, on the 23d Inst., Capt.

ANDREW PATERSON, of the Barque Lady Hayes.

At Gowreporo factory, opposite Chinsurah, on the 4th of May, WILLIAM PERRYNOUS, esq. aged 30 years.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Pado Monto.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 45.] Macao, Saturday, 6th August, 1842.

[No. 357.]

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr THOMAS FOX and Mr JAMES SIMON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th April 1841, and Mr ARTHUR JOHN EMBERTON was admitted a Partner from the same date.

FOX RAWSON & Co.

China, 8th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorized to receive and give acquittances for the same.

JAMES P. STURGIS.

Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 22d July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART. JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. DUTRONQUOY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. DUTRONQUOY also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies stores, Wines, &c. &c. &c., at the shortest notice.

London Hotel Queen's Road, Hongkong, 6th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The subscribers have established themselves as a House of Agency in China under the firm of W. ALLANSON & Co.

WM. ALLANSON.

Macao, 1st May, 1842.

A. MOSS

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subcargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne pourront y venir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais d'Amérique.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIRM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Marsden, 6th Aug., 1841.

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Parca.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DOUGLAS, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Loft or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buoy &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 20th April, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq. —Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Ship "JOHN BRIGHTMAN," Capt. VIAL, will be despatched for the above ports about the 25th instant. For freight or passage apply to

W. H. HARTON.

Macao, 5th August, 1842.

FOR SALE OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMONCITO" barthen 200 Tons, Captain RAMON G. GONZALES. For particulars apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark PANDORA (298 Tons), Capt. COTHAY. Apply to

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT, OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing Spanish Schooner "GITANA," 250 Tons barthen, built at Pangasinang in the year 1840, of the best materials, new coppered only in February this year, and just been rigged with first rate cordage—she is now lying in the Inner Harbour of Macao. For further particulars apply to her owner either on board or on shore.

J. SALADO.

Macao, 30th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE A. I. British Bark PRIMA DONNA, (322 Tons) Captain JOHN KELL, having nearly a full cargo engaged will sail on or about the 5th August from Macao Roads. For freight or passage apply on board or to

Macao, 22nd July, 1842.

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

FOR CHUSAN.

THE British brig FORTREX, (303 tons N. M.) Captain HALL, now at Hongkong, where she will receive part of her goods, and afterwards enter Macao Roads to take on board the remainder. For freight apply to

Macao, 19th July.

WM. THUS. KINSLEY, —at Hongkong.

or to HOLLIDAY, WISE and Co.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

Macao 21st July, 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

ON SALE.

THE British brig GUEST, of 134 Tons new measurement, A. I. at LLOYDS, has lately undergone a thorough repair in England, and is coppered with 22 oz copper; she sails fast, to well found in stores and well adapted for the trade in China. For further Particulars apply to

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

W. ALLANSON & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

J. CONLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton,

JARDINE MATHESON & Co. —Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Lowest Family, Captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Hano or MALOWN," 482 Tons barthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. PRO. DIRM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons barthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIERCE, 553 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL, Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to

Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANTONS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

Just received ex "ANNA MARIA" and other LATE ARRIVALS; and for sale at the Store of the undersigned, first N. E. house Praya Grande.

STATIONARY, &c.—Laid and worn No. 1, Letter, Foolscap, and Copying Paper; Swan and Hambro Quills; a variety of Steel Pens; patent India Rubber; Blotting, with and without lock and Key; Wallets, with clasps; plain and colored Visiting Cards; Portable Desk; Wafers; Bills of Exchange, loose and bound; Office Taps; steel Letter Holders; "answer" "answer" "Private," and plain; Bird Duplex Inkstand; medium, royal, imperial, atlas, and double elephant Drawing Paper; Red and Black Lead Pencils; Copying, and red and black Writing Ink; Playing Cards, &c.

SUNDRIES.—Solar Hanging Lamps; Signal Lanterns, with wick guards; Chamber Candlesticks; spare Stirrups and other shades; Lamp cottons; Chimneys; Pint and quart Decanters; cut Wine, claret Glasses; Tumblers; Mackings; damask Table cloth; Run-back Towels; Napkins; Breakfast, and Dinner services; Club's and Hiram's patent Detector Desk, Drawer, cupboard, and Pad Locks; Tumbler Padlocks, from 2 to 6 inch; Indian Rubber Braces and Garters; Meris cotton and woolen half Hose; women's do. Stockings; silk and kid Gloves, of sizes and colors; gentlemen's white and colored cotton Gloves; Shoe Ribband; patent Portable Water closet; Lucifer Matches; Bath Bricks; Ladies' side saddle, with quilted seat and safe, Riding summer saddles; Bridles, Girths, Martingales, and Whips; 4, 6, 8, and 12 tone Musical Boxes; shot; shot Brils; Table covers; Counterpanes; Blankets; Table cutlery; Irish Linen; fine white shirtings, &c.

OUTMAN'S STORES, &c.—Pickles; Sauces; Vinegars; French Olives; Capers; Mustard; Herring Paste; Pate au Diable; Potted mutton; Ham; Bacon; Pine, Berkley, and Dutch cheese; Jam; Jelly; Marmalade; Bottled Fruits;—Syrops.

PERFUMERY.—Essence of Rose; Jasmine; Marcella; Bouquet; Nereida; Extract of Flowers; Sweetbriar; Rose-dallas; Geranium; citronella rose; Verbena; Lavender Water; Naples and Brown Windsor soap; cold cream; Bears Grease; Tooth Powder; sponge; Violet Hair Powder; Powder Puffs and Boxes; Marrow, otto of Rose, and Roseda Pounder; Balsam of roses; Essence of Tyre; Macassar and Prince's Mucosa oil; Milk of roses; superior Eau de cologne.

Refined Liquorics; Essence of Peppermint. WINE and LIQUORS.—Superior Brandy, in one and three dozen cases; Gin; Jamaica Rum; old Brown and Pale Sherry, in pinta and quart; Port; English and French claret; Champagne; Madeira, Lisbon Wine; Hock; Buccella; Sauvage; Malmoey Madeira; and, Beer and Porter.

MEDICINES.—A small and well selected invoice, with scales and weights, mortars, and pestles, lint, &c., and may be had retail or whole sale. Apply to

JOHN SMITH,

Macao, 5th August, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's. SHERRY in bottle and HOPS, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 5 do. do. CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

Just arrived from London.

ENAMELLED BOOTS and enamel Dress Pumps, Ladies enamel SLIPPERS, STOUT and LIGHT WALKING SHOES, 1 Ladies CASE SHOD with BRUSHES, COLLIER, PERFUMERY, &c., LAVENDER WATER and Extract of MILLEPAIN, PENKNIVES, RAZORS and RAZOR STROPS, Princes Mixture SHUFE, a COPYING MACHINE complete, RACING SADDLES and BRIDLES complete, Plated Race SPURS, 2 suits of prime HORSE CLOTHING with Hood &c. complete, 1 handsome French GUITAR, Boy's and Girl's riding HATS, Ladies silk BONNETS trimmed & Children's do. do. French & German MERINO black, Fancy Silk Stock, white LAMBS of superior quality GLOVES, SOAPS, &c. &c.—For sale by B. dos REINDEIOS Praya Manduco the fourth house passed Dr. Freitas's Dispensary.

Macao, 29th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira & apply to their owner
ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARE, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by
C. V. GILLESPIE.
Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton Socks and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to
JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hds for "Anna Elisa," apply to DALLAS and Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLA ROBERTSON" lying in the Tyne.
Cases of Havana BEER,
La Rose CLARET,
OLDMAN'S STOUT,
SHERRY in Wood and Bottles,
Provision RICE,
TABLE RICE,
GRAIN,
COGNAC ROPE.—Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKY, Champagne COGNAC, SWAINA PANACHE, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermociti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CARVING TOBACCO.—Apply to
JOHN D. SWORD & Co.
Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 3 do. 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hds.
SALTZER WATER new.
OLDMAN'S STOUT in imports.
BEER in casks; PALE in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodwins of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Canton house; the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French FINE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.
An assortment of new Pattern Table browned LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Fayence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES,
The best Multiplication SHUT in quart bottle, at $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fascial articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 2nd June, 1842.

G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SALTZER water, Gin, white and black PRINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manilla and English CORDAGE, SMITHING COPPER, Macao, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to MACAO, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogheads and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIR & Co., apply to
DENT & Co.
Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Butts and Hds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Allsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular." Apply to
TURNER & Co.
Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. CO'S DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
MACAO, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4th superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SALTZER WATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. ESCO'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DESTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITH, &c., price 50 cents.

THE LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Per do Monte at 30 cents each

MAY OVERLAND MAIL.

Latest Europe Intelligence.

From the Calcutta Englishman Extra, June 11.

The Overland Mail with news to the 6th May arrived this day a little before noon. We lay before our readers the most prominent items of intelligence.

Lord John Russell's amendment on Sir Robert Peel's proposed Income Tax was defeated on the 13th of April by a majority of 108. These were 398 for bringing up the report of the Committee of Ways and Means, and 292 for Lord J. R.'s resolutions.

The Princiar Steamer had reached London, and was in the East India Docks.

The Regiments intended for India have been thus distributed:

The 10th Regt. foot and 29th Regt. for Bengal,—the 46th and 78th Highlanders to Madras.

Mr. William Cotton has been appointed Governor and William James Benjamin Heath Deputy Governor of the Bank of England.

Lieut. Phukett has been placed at the bottom of the list of Lieutenants in the 25th Regt.

The promotions have taken place in all the regiments ordered to India to complete their war strength.

The only promotions, &c. that have taken place in Queen's Regiments under this Presidency are—62nd Capt. J. M. Napier from the 68th to be Capt. vice Rawatone.

3d Dragoons—Cornet Roche to be Lieutenant.

3d foot—Ensign Flood to be Lieut., vice Anson appointed to 9th Light Dragoons.

50th foot—Paymaster Dodd to be Paymaster, vice Baitley.

Sir G. Larpent has retired from the representation of Nottingham.

Amongst the deaths reported are Lady Campbell, the wife of Sir Robert Campbell, an East India Director, Dr. F. Kelly, Lord W. Montagu, Lady Sidmouth, Dr. Saurin, Lord Bishop of Dromore—Sir Duncan Campbell Gent. Sir W. Hignston—Lieut. Durkin, W. N. Mr. Theatson, the Sculptor—Earl of Shannon—Earl of Ludlow—Ellar the Harlequin—Sir Charles Bell and Lady Gordon Cumming—Capt. E. A. T. D'Bynneart, 46th Regiment; Sir J. Briggs, Bart; Sir H. D. Mearns, Bart; Lieut. Col. T. H. Elliot; Sir D. Campbell, Bart; Sir John Meade, K. H.; Rear Admiral F. H. Goffin; Marianne Jane, wife of the Rev. S. H. Snapp, relict of the late Bishop James of Calcutta; Capt. H. Ash, 30th Regt. Bombay N. I.—General Scott, Lord H. Russell, the Duchess Dowager of Richmond.

COURT AND FASHION.

His Royal Highness Prince Albert has been gazetted Lord Warden of the Stannaries, and chief Steward of the Duchy in Cornwall and Devon. It is said that the salary and emoluments hitherto attached to the office have been abolished by his Royal Highness's desire.

At an investiture held on the 11th, the Duke of Beaufort, the Duke of Buckingham, and the Duke of Cleveland, were elected Knights of the Garter. The Duke of Marlborough has been appointed lord-lieut. and custos rotularum of Oxfordshire in the room of the late Earl of Macclesfield.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir H. Douglas, Adm. Sir J. Talbot, and Adm. Sir H. Digby, have been appointed Knights Grand Cross of the Bath; and Lieut.-Gen. Sir J. Wilson, Major-Gen. Sir J. G. Woodford, vice Adm. Sir J. C. White, Rear Adm. Sir C. Richard son, Rear Adm. Sir A. Farguhar, Knights Commanders of the Bath. At this investiture the Queen conferred the honour of knighthood upon Sir J. C. White and Sir C. Richardson, with the sword of the Duke of Wellington, and now with the sword of state.

The Queen has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, granting the dignity of a Baronet of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland unto the Right Hon John Pirie, of Camberwell, in the county of Surrey, Lord Major of the city of London, and the heir male of his body lawfully begotten.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE

Sir E. Wilmot will probably be appointed governor of the Mauritius.

Sir H. Gough and Sir B. D'Urban have both been mentioned for the appointment of Commander in chief of India.

Lieutenant-General Sir W. Nicholay K. C. B. formerly governor of the Mauritius, expired on the 3d.

Mr W. Heckett, in a letter to Mr J. Wilkinson and Son, states that he has had an interview with Mr Gladstone, and that he has reason to believe the duty on Indigo will be reduced to 2s per cwt on foreign, and 1s per cwt on colonial.

We understand that Her Majesty's Government have informed the Governor-General of India, that the entire disposable force of this country will be placed at his Lordship's service, in order to carry into effect any measure he may deem essential to the maintenance of our empire in the East.

The Duke of Wellington's letter suggesting the policy to be pursued in the present crisis of affairs in India was forwarded, we believe, by the last Mail. It is understood to be a very able document; indeed, none persons of competent authority, to whose person it was submitted, so the length of saying that it will be found conducive more to the establishment of his Grace's high political reputation than any act of his public life.

The following presentations took place at her Majesty's Levee on the 4th.—Sir E. Ryan, Sir R. Cornyn, Dr A. R. Jackson, Dr B. Bunt, Capt. C. Elliot, Consul-General in Texas; Lieut. Waghorn, R. N.; Captain H. Harris, E. I. C. N. Capt. Waters, Madras Cavalry; Capt. Ashmore, Capt. Lockhart, 17th Regt; Lieut. H. Creed, Bombay Artillery; Capt. P. Barris, Bengal Army; Lieut-Gen. Sir J. Wilson; Major-Gen. Canfield; Lieut. T. H. Saley, A. Prescott, G. Jenkins, A. Robertson, Clarke, and G. Cook; Col. A. Bland; Captain Frobisher and Tecker, Bengal Army.

The Egyptian Oriental Transit Company has been formed, and steamers, camels, carriages, &c., will be immediately collected for the conveyance of passengers from Alexandria to Suez, in conjunction with Messrs Hill and Co.

EAST INDIA INTELLIGENCE.

At a Court of Directors held at the India House on the 15th April, the most noble the Marquis of Tweeddale, K. T., was appointed Governor of the Presidency of Port St George. The thanks of the Court were voted unanimously to Mr. George Lyall, M. P. Chairman, and Major General, Sir James Law Leithington, G. C. B., Deputy Chairman, for their great application and attention to the affairs of the East India Company during the past year. A ballot was then taken for the election of in directors in the room of Mr. Henry Alexander, Major-General Sir Jeremiah Bryant, C. B.; Mr. Wm. Stanley Clarke, Mr. John Shepherd, Mr. Francis Warden, and Sir William Young, Bart, who got out by rotation. At 6 o'clock the glasses were closed and delivered to the scrutineers, who reported that the election had fallen on Mr. William Astell, M. P., Mr. William Butterworth Bayley, Mr. Russell Eilice, Major General Archibald Galloway, Sir Richard Jenkins, G. C. B. and Mr. John Masterman, M. P.

The Marquis of Tweeddale, family and suite, will leave England for his new government at Madras about the middle of July.

On the 37th April a Court of Directors was held at the East India House, when the Most Noble the Marquis of Tweeddale, K. T. and C. B. was sworn in as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Madras, and Sir G. George Arthur, Bart, as Governor of the Presidency of Bombay. The Marquis and Sir George afterwards dined with the Directors at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, when they were honoured with the company of Her Majesty's Minister and many other distinguished personages.

ELECTIONS.

Mr. Hume has been returned for the Montrose Borough. In case the petition against the return for Southampton should fail, Mr. Milmay has announced himself a candidate in the county of Lord Elgin.

A new writ has been issued for Brighton, in the room of Mr. Wigney, retired.

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

We are informed that the authorities at the Horse Guards have experienced some difficulty in their intention of making the 6th and 7th Dragoon Guards 'Light Dragoons,' for the purpose of taking their tour of duty in India, it being found that the men having enlisted to serve as 'Dragoon Guards,' they cannot be made to serve as 'Light Dragoons,' and that although the 3d and 4th Dragoons, were made Light some few years since for a similar purpose, such an arrangement is not correctly applicable to Dragoon 'Guards.'

Major General Christopher Hamilton, C. B., succeeds to the staff of the South-western district of Ireland, vacant by the removal of Maj.-Gen. the Hon K. Murray to the Western district of England, on the demise of Lord Munster.

The Gazette of 22d of April announces the restoration to the Army of Capt Reynolds, late of the 11th Hussars. The gallant officer was appointed to a troop in the 9th Light Dragoons, now embarking for India, but has not yet sailed.

FOREIGN SUMMARY.

From the Monthly Times, May 6.

There is a gloom hanging over some of our most important foreign relations which renders that branch of politics a matter of some anxiety to those whose duty it is to point out the appearances in the political horizon, and to predict what their results may bring about within the next twelve months. Without professing to feel any particular alarm upon the subject, or to entertain any other apprehensions than those which would naturally be generated by the prospect of so great a calamity to the human race as a European war would be certain on entail, we cannot dissent ourselves of the impression that there is a very large portion of the French nation imbued at this moment with an intense desire to have, what is good English vernacular would be styled, "a slap at us," and it gives us more regret than we can well express to see, that, whilst the wise, well-trying and sagacious spirits who in the persons of Louis Philippe, Marshal Soult and M. Goltz, curb and repress the symptoms of this hostility as much as they can, they nevertheless are to a certain degree overawed and influenced by the restless spirit of democracy, which, headed by M. Thiers, the "war minister of France," as he has more than once designated himself, compels them to sacrifice their views of what is essential for the welfare of their country, and to consent to make warlike provision whilst Europe is apparently in a state of profound peace. One of our London contemporaries, in noticing the late proceedings in the French Chamber of Deputies, with respect to the demand for warlike supplies, states, with amusing naivete, that "M. Thiers proposed a vote of money for the purpose of keeping up a fleet of 20 sail of the line, with the view of driving the English from the Mediterranean!" Verily the tribulations of political warfare are sometimes astounding. It is, however, a fact, not without significance, that the French Government has actually organised its plan for a transatlantic packet service, and that steam frigates, the Gomer, is stated to be on the point of sailing as one the first of new competitors to the English company.

The death of Mr. Hübner, the French Minister of Finance, has not been productive of any change in Marshal Soult's Cabinet; the vacancy was offered to Mr. Pavy, who declined it, probably because he is lying in wait for Mr. Thiers's accession to office; Mr. Lacaze Laplagne, on being applied to by the President of the Council, acceded to his wish, and took the seals of office at once.

The Quintuple treaty for the suppression of the slave trade, which has been signed and ratified by four of the Powers concerned, still remains incomplete, owing to the refusal of France to acknowledge the act of her own Envoy. The matter will probably remain in suspense until the Chambers are closed, and by the time they are summoned again the whole affair will be forgotten.

In Spain very slow progress towards settling the political and financial condition of the country has been made. A new bone of contention has offered itself with respect to the choice of a matrimonial alliance for the young Queen DONNA ISABELLA. The proposal to marry her to a son of Don CARLOS fell to the ground in consequence of the jealousy of the party in power at Madrid, who fear that the accession to the throne in any capacity of a son of the excommunicated prince would be attended with disastrous results to themselves. The reigning monarch in France has, as usual, endeavoured to turn the occasion into a source of national aggrandisement, by insisting, through the medium of Mr. Pageot, a special Envoy sent out for this purpose that Donna Isabella shall marry none but a prince of the house of Bourbon: new endeavour to revive the prestige of the ancient regime was, of course, laughed to scorn, and a match, it has been said, has been found for her precocious Majesty in the person of a prince of the Royal and Roman Catholic House of Bavaria.

The Infant Francisco de Paula, after a stay of some days at Madrid, has found the place too hot to hold him and at the date of last advices, his Royal Highness was about to proceed to Aranjuez or Seville.

In Portugal there has, mirabile dictu, been no political change during the last month. The attention of the political and commercial men there, being directed towards the treaty now under consideration between that Government and ours, with respect to the future Tariff and the footing upon which the slave-trade is hereafter to be placed. Portugal has not yet joined in any treaty for the suppression of this traffic, although her official and ancient dependency, the Brazilian Government, has consented to do so; and the conditions upon which that matter and the future commercial relations between the Emperor of the Brazil and this country are hereafter to stand, are according to a late statement of Sir R. Peel, intimately connected with each other; so that, in proportion as slavery is repressed in that Kingdom, so much more freely will her produce be suffered to enter into consumption in Great Britain.

We cannot say that we approve of the policy which in order to attain a doubtful good, will go far to sacrifice some of the most important of our own Colonial interests in the East, as well as in the West Indies.

From other parts of Europe the accounts are of a tranquil and satisfactory nature. The Court of Nassau, the ex-king of Holland, is pronounced out of danger from his late attack.

The preliminaries of the marriage between the Duke of Bordeaux and the Emperor of Russia's second daughter are said to be concluded.

Nothing more has transpired with respect to the alleged insurrection of the solitary at St Petersburg. The peaceable state of Poland and Lithuania may be argued from the asserted fact that the armies there are to be reduced to a very considerable extent.

From Austria, and the other German Confederated Powers, there are no advices of importance beyond the paragraphs which we have selected from the Journals, and which will be found in our columns: Turkey and Greece have made an amicable settlement of their squabbles, though there will always be a cause for quarrel between two people so essentially different; whose frontiers touch each other.

Switzerland is tranquil, and seemingly absorbed by the desire to render her commerce and manufactures staples for the supply of surrounding states. The Zoll Verein will, however, very much impede her progress at the northern side of her frontier, but Italy offers an outlet of which she will probably avail herself.

The transatlantic intelligence which has reached us since the 6th ultimo, is of a more satisfactory character than we had reason to anticipate. The arrival of Lord Ashburton had been preceded, and the objects of his mission, partially explained, by a conciliatory speech from Mr. Clay, in the senate, is the course of which he observed, that he "regretted to see the assaults made by the partisan press on the distinguished individual who had been sent to us with the olive branch of peace. Nothing was so unmanly or so indecent as those attacks. He had the good fortune, when in England, to know Lord Ashburton; and he bore the highest character in his own country both for wisdom and integrity. The statement that he was still connected with the banking house which he had established was a mistake; he had not been connected with that house for twenty years. However the hospitalities of the land might be violated by a licentious press, he hoped that the American people would greet the arrival of this gentleman as a messenger of peace. There is no danger of any rupture with Great Britain, if proper ability is employed in the management of the controversy."

The financial affairs of the Union are in a deplorable state of confusion, the Treasury being without funds and the Legislature having refused to grant the necessary power to the President to curtail his office security to any person willing to lend money on bond to the Government. Nor are the commercial banks solvent to the extent of the claims upon them. Nevertheless, the big words of national honour, unsifted deeds, and the usual messages, are bandied to and fro increasingly by the independent gentlemen of the press in Boston, New York, Washington, and other capital cities and it is to them that Mr. Clay addressed the pithy remarks which we have quoted above.

The affair of the Creole has apparently died a natural death; an unexpected result after Lord Aberdeen's statement of the intentions of the British Government with respect to this matter.

The news from Texas is important, in so far as it shows that Mexico is determined if not warned off by some adequate power, upon annexing that territory to her other provinces. The free—or rather the free booting—ciders, yelped Yankees, are the instigators in this intrusion, which has excited the attention of several members of the House of Commons.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Money is very plentiful—rate of interest 3 per Cent. The East India Company has altered the rate of exchange to 2½ the Rupee's notwithstanding this, 250,000, has been transmitted to India by this mail.

It is expected that the Company and private individuals will now commence to ship Balliol to India.

Bank of England, April 7, 1842.

Resolved.—That the rate of interest on bills of exchange and notes discounted at the Bank of England be 4 per cent from this day.

This measure may not be attended with any increased demand for accommodation at the Bank, but it is calculated of course to make money cheaper, as the discount brokers will lower their rate for the best bills, so as to maintain their competition with the great corporations.

The Times has published the plan which Gen. Sir G. Cockburn suggested to Sir R. Peel in August last, for retrieving the finances of the country. In consists, briefly, in the Government's withdrawing from public and private banking establishments the power to issue paper money, and itself issuing instead 30,000,000, in notes of 5l. to 3,000l., which would place alike amount of revenue at the disposal of Government; or if that sum were not found sufficient for the circulation to the country, then 20,000,000l. more might be issued.

Rw SILK.—The importations of China silks have been limited, so prices remain much as heretofore.

CHINA.		s.	d.	q.
Tweed, 9-12 mos, 3d and inferior ..	16	6	18	0
Ditto, 1st and 2nd ..	20	0	22	6
Yuen-fu, 6-8 mos, 3d and inferior ..	19	0	17	0
Ditto, 1st and 2nd ..	20	0	20	0
Canton, 3d and inferior ..	9	0	12	0
Ditto, 1st and 2nd ..	13	0	14	0
Chip Cues, 2nd and inferior ..	6	0	11	0
Ditto, 1st and 2nd ..	14	0	17	0

Tea—Prices have given way for black and green descriptions, large parcels having been pressed upon the Market. Company's Congou 1s 9d to 1s 10d per lb. At public sales, which commenced on 29th April, and terminated on 3d May, the attendance of the trade was small, and the demand throughout limited, the trade taking only ample for their immediate wants. Of the total quantity offered, amounting to 20,000 packages or 1,200,000 lbs, we must proportion only of 9,100 pkgs or 600,000 lbs, have been actually sold; a large proportion of which consisted of Pouchong. Prices compared with those of last sale are 1 to 3d lower for good 1d for common, 4d for low Congou, 3d to 4d for Pouchong, 3d to 4d for Twankay, 1d for Hyson and Young Hyson, and 1d to 2d per lb, lower for Imperial and Gunpowder; the finest kind of Twankay however brought full rates. Stock of all kinds of 1st May, 28440,000 lbs.

Spices—Cassia Lignea has been much inquired for, and stiffer rates offered; but private contract buyers have been compelled to pay 9½ to 9¾ for middling sorts. Ginger has sustained the previous value. Nutmegs have met with little attention. Cloves are difficult of sale. At auction 5,341 bags Pease Black Pepper were nearly all taken in at 3d for good bold half berry.

Canes—Bamboo and common rattans in fair demand; Melacca wares; Partridge lower.

Camphor, good 20½ to 21½; discoloured 18½ to 19½ 10s.

China Rhubarb, Dutch trimmed 7s to 7½ 1d; 2nd pile 6s to 6½ 1d; 3rd pile 4s 6d to 5s 1d.

China Soy 6s to 6s 6d per gallon.

COMMERCIAL POSTSCRIPT.—Sun Mar.

Tea.—The letters by the Overland Mail 1st April were delivered yesterday morning, but they have produced no alteration in the value of Tea at present, speculations having nearly ceased, and we must await the sales of 10th before the effect can be known. There appears generally less confidence in present prices than before. In other articles nothing worthy of notice has occurred.

ARRIVED IN ENGLAND.

From China—April 22; Eliza Stewart, John Thomas

kinson, 23, Popham, 21, Agnes, 20, John O'Connell, Coramandel, May 2, Greyhound, General Kyd, Stark, and Mauritius.
From Manila—April 23. Penance, 27, Mistral.
SAILED.

For China.—April 6. H. M. Str. Grouser 4, Charleston, Litherland, 22, H. M. S. Lightning, Chandler; Louisa Jackson, and Dumfries; 20, Belvoir, and Matilda. Loading at London, May 2.—Geo. Wallis, & storeship Equatorial, and Asia.

June Overland Mail.

(From the Atlas for India, of 4th June.)

DOMESTIC SUMMARY OF THE MONTH.

The by-gone month has been redolent with news of all descriptions, and seldom in four weeks have occurred events so interesting, yet from causes so opposite. We have arranged each week's intelligence, in distinct positions, under the date which terminated the week so that a reference to the occurrences of each seven days will be facilitated for the reader, and thus we present four distinct weekly papers, with all their most important news extracted and condensed. To those so remote from the scene where the events took place, a ready comprehension of dates must be a great desideratum, and this we have endeavoured to accomplish in our present number.

The two most startling events after the departure of the last mail was the awful accident on the Versailles Railroad, and the fire at Hamburg, the most destructive conflagration that has accidentally occurred since the burning of London in 1666. By that fire 7,30,000, worth of property was consumed, and the total loss by the recent catastrophe is estimated at 7,900,000. The value of money is now so changed by the quantity in circulation, or these two devastating fires would bear comparison. From these melancholy events abroad we turn to the brighter picture at home, of the fancy dress-ball given by her Majesty, one of the most magnificent fêtes even amongst courtly chronicles of revelling. The description of this pageant will be found in our columns; and as it served for discussion for weeks previous to its taking place, it furnished matter to occupy the entire columns of some of our gossiping contemporaries after its occurrence.

The account of the meeting of the East India Company on the subject of the tariff, will be found interesting to all commercial readers; and, indeed, this question involves so much the welfare of our Indian trade, that the discussion of the topic must be important even to those who are not directly connected with commercial pursuits.

The trial of Daniel God, who, as we have stated in our last monthly number, committed the most atrocious murder of modern times, is the concluding topic of the week, and it happens fortunately that it is the sequel to the week's news, for a joyful event would be darkened by the near contact, and the relation of other crimes would seem palliated by the contrast.

The excitement this trial has occasioned is paramount to all other topics; and if the sensation arose solely from horror at the atrocity of the deed, we would willingly laud the public feeling; but unfortunately a diseased craving to enter into the minutiae of the crime, to hear the details of the mutilation of the victim, are the cause of all the eager inquiries relating to the event, and a portion of the less respectable press in London and in the provinces have unwisely and criminally been the panderers to this morbid and disgusting appetite.

We commence the next week under more auspicious circumstances, and we draw the attention of our readers to an appeal in behalf of the sufferers on the retreat from Cabul.

The news from abroad will be found important, and the subscription for the Hamburgers advances rapidly. The letter from an English resident relating the event, gives a good description of the whole particulars.

The birth day of her Majesty, with the dinners and fêtes to celebrate the event, is the principal court occurrence, while state banquets, dinners, reviews, ringing of bells, and illuminations, bespeak the day as one of general rejoicing.

We pass from the minor details of news to the events of the week ending May 28th, a most important to the pleasure-loving classes, for the ball at the Queen's Theatre, and Epsom races are the most prominent events. The sporting was not so good as generally characterises the first race of the year, and the setting at "Tattersall's" is stated to have been exceedingly unsatisfactory to both winners and losers, for, in many cases, the latter have declared their incapacity to pay.

The execution of Good, and the burning of the Indian, are the two saddest occurrences in the week, devoted to amusement, and, alas! too many, considered witnessing the dying struggles of the wretched culprit a gratifying commencement to the week's recreation. What can be so demoralising, what can so completely tend to blunt, nay, to enervate, the best sensibilities of the mind, as an exhibition of the death agonies of the malefactor—seeing his last earthly throes of anguish on the verge of a mysterious eternity? And yet females will attend these revolting sights, and seats for the exhibition of blood are bartered for and sold.

The ball at the Italian Opera House was entirely for the benefit of the Spitalfields weavers, and the willingness with which her Majesty at all times aids charitable undertakings, both by her presence and her purse, is one of the many kind traits in her disposition which makes the event we have yet to mention, so generally regretted as having occurred, but accompanied with such universal gratulations, that the sequel was not fatal as it might have been, not only to the person of royalty, but to the whole nation. Under the head of "Latest Intelligence" will be found an account of a dastardly attempt to assassinate the Queen. The news of the event flew through the metropolis, like an electric shock. The Houses of Parliament closed, and people were seen standing in groups execrating the miscreant, but fervently congratulating themselves on the failure of the murderer's design. On the following day the Queen drove out in an open carriage, as usual; but would not permit any of her ladies in waiting to accompany her. We need hardly say gratulations pour in at the Palace from all parts of the nation; and the public, while expressing their joy at the happy escape, have but one tongue and one heart.

The portions of our columns entitled "Summary of Reviews," we have carefully arranged and condensed, that there may appear no work of interest published here, but what may have a reflex on a smaller scale in India.

POLITICAL SUMMARY OF THE MONTH.

In reviewing the events which have transpired in the political world since our last publication, the principal fact that presents itself is the omnipotence of Sir Robert Peel—carrying safely through both Houses of Parliament, and passing into law, his corn bill, in despite of the opposition of the Whigs, and the dissatisfaction of a large body of his own friends, and, notwithstanding the defection of eighty-six Conservative, under the leadership of Mr. Miles, commanding, on a vital point in his tariff, a majority of two hundred and sixty seven. On last Tuesday evening the Income Tax Bill was read a third time and passed in the House of Commons, the numbers being—For the third reading 265; against it, 140; majority in favour of the third reading, 106. The bill may, therefore, now be regarded as passed; and although it has been strongly condemned by the leading writers of all parties, it has met no serious opposition from the country. Sir Robert Peel's speech in introducing the tariff has extorted from the Liberals in Parliament, and amongst them Mr. Hume, tributes of approbation; and although it has the effect of rousing the hostility of the Morning Post, and some of the ultra Tory supporters, it will certainly enhance his popularity with the people, without, we apprehend after all, alienating from him the agricultural interests, who must see that concession was absolutely necessary, and would dread beyond all things a junction between Lord John Russell and the premier—which some anticipate before October.

The proceedings of the last month have tended materially to damage the character of the House of Commons in the estimation of all classes. It is now universally admitted that the grossest bribery and corruption prevailed generally at the last elections. Committees have detected bribery in the cases of Ipswich, Southampton, Sudbury, Newcastle-under-Lyne, and Lyme Regis and Mr. Roebuck has obtained a committee of privilege to investigate charges of bribery against Sir J. C. Hobhouse, Lord Chelsea, Mr. Russell, Captain Plumridge, Mr. H. Elphinstone, and Captain Baresford. Nobody, however, believes that those honourable members were worse than their neighbours, or that the unlucky boroughs that have been detected were more corrupt than other places, where contests took place. Lord Bringham has introduced a bill with a view to correct the evils of the present system; and Lord John Russell has given notice of his intention to bring in a bill upon the subject, but no measure has yet been brought into Parliament calculated to prevent bribery, or check it to any considerable degree, and the practice will, in all probability, continue to prevail while contending parties have great interests at stake upon the result of the elections, until a healthier moral feeling shall have grown up among our population.

Attempts have been made by Mr. Sharman Crawford to press upon the attention of the house the subject of fur her reforms in Parliament and a new metropolitan association, comprising seven or eight members of the House of Commons, has been formed for the purpose of promoting universal suffrage, &c., but it is evident that neither the House nor the people are at present disposed to encourage farther organic changes. There are many practical evils which require redress, and there is room for many beneficial practical measures of reform, and these now find more favour with the bulk of the population than mere theories and speculations. The condition of the working classes continues to be a source of augmenting anxiety. Tens of thousands are suffering the sharpest distress from want of employment; and, notwithstanding extensive emigration to Canada and the United States this season, the number of unemployed seems rather to increase than to diminish.

To afford some temporary relief to the distressed artisans the Queen has, at the advice of her Privy Council, addressed a letter to the Archbishops of Canterbury and York commanding them to direct the bishops to cause collections to be made in the parish churches for the relief of the manufacturing districts. Sir James Graham has introduced the government poor Law into the House of Commons—it differs however, in no material point from the existing measure. A great sensation has been created by the publication of the commission appointed to inquire into the condition of the mines. It is found that women, almost in a state of nudity, are employed in the severest toils in coal-pits in the West of Scotland, West Yorkshire, Derbyshire, and parts of Lancashire, working, in the presence of men, perfectly naked. It is also shown that children of every tender age are worked rigorously, and that numberless casualties occur in the coal mines that are never known to the dwellers in the upper regions.

In consequence of an article in the Atlas of the 14th ult., with reference to the expedition to Afghanistan—in which it was proved—1. That the parliamentary papers on the subject are partial and mutilated—2. That Sir Alexander Burnes was opposed to the policy of the expedition—and 3. That Dost Mahomed was favourably disposed towards England till Lord Auckland made him an enemy—Mr. D'Israeli, on Tuesday night, brought the subject before the House of Commons. Sir J. C. Hobhouse admitted that the papers were mere selections and did not deny that Burnes disapproved of the whole proceedings. Mr. Baillie, the member for Inverness, has given notice that he will move for the production of all the suppressed letters on the 23d inst.; and, though we fear that his motion will be opposed by the government and defeated, it is evident that the whole truth must shortly come out.

AWFUL CONFLAGRATION AT HAMBURG.

We record with much concern a fearful disaster by fire that has befallen the ancient Hanseatic city of Hamburg, so long at the head of the commercial towns of Germany. The fire broke out on the morning of Thursday week at two o'clock, and continued to rage with unabated fury till Saturday afternoon, it commenced at a cigar shop. The part of the town in which the fire originated, the Stein Thierie, formed the most ancient part of the city, and consisted chiefly of narrow, crooked streets, but contained, nevertheless, the dwelling-houses and warehouses of many of the most eminent merchants of the place. As the conflagration extended, however, it reached the more modern quarter of the town, and some of the streets that have been involved in destruction, such as the Neuen-wall, the Grosse Beichen, and the Neue Berg-strasse, would have been deemed ornaments to the most magnificent capital of Europe. The Jungfernstieg, as a public walk in the very heart of a large city, was probably unique in its kind. It consisted of a row of stately mansions running along the southern side of a blue sheet of water, from which they were divided by a broad carriage way, and a beautiful avenue of trees. The Neue Berg strasse was a new street, that was laid out about five years ago, and formed a handsome continuation of the Jungfernstieg to St. Peter's church, a venerable structure erected in the thirteenth century. The peal of bells in the steeple of St. Peter's had long been an object of just pride to the citizens, though surpassed by the bells of Antwerp, and by those of several others of the Netherlands churches. The other two churches that have been destroyed, St. Nicholas and St. Jacob's, were likewise buildings of great antiquity.

The following are stated to be the principal streets that have been destroyed:—Stein Strasse, Rodingsmarkt, Deichstrasse, Honfenmarkt, Goertzwe, Cremon (back of one end), Grosse Buhrstah, Muhlenbrücke, Bohnenstrasse, Monkedammwiete, Alte wallstrasse, Grosse Johannisstrasse, Kleine Johannisstrasse, Neue Wall, Voglers Wall, Grosse Bleichen, Jungfernstieg, Berg, Neue Berg strasse, Knochenhauerstrasse, Königstrasse, Grässkeller.

Among the public buildings entirely destroyed are the following:—Three of the five principal churches, namely: St. Peter's, St. Nicholas, and St. Jacob's, the Old Exchange, the Bank, the Borse Halle, the Senate House, the City post office, the four principal prisons or Houses of Correction, the waterworks of Mr. Smith, and nearly all the principal hotels and coffee-houses.

The intelligence of the fire produced the deepest sensation in London, and it continues to be a topic of conversation in all mercantile circles in the City. The damage has been estimated as high as 3,000,000l. to 4,000,000l. sterling; but this, it is to be hoped, is an exaggerated estimate. It was at one time supposed that the treasure in the Bank of Hamburg was destroyed; but the gold and silver bars were kept in fireproof vaults underneath the building, and a public notice has been issued, announcing that they are perfectly safe. A subscription has been set on foot in the city for the relief of the sufferers. The Lord Mayor has subscribed 105l.; the firm of Rothschild and Sons, 200l.; Messrs. Baring Brothers, C. J. Hambro and Son, H. Sillem, Fred' Huth and C. and J. A. Droop, each 100l.

FRANCE.

The relations between France and Great Britain become daily more unsatisfactory, and it is obvious that it will require the utmost sagacity and caution on the part of our government to avoid a collision with the French nation. In addition to the faithless conduct of the French government and opposition leaders, in refusing to ratify a treaty with this country for the suppression of the slave trade—although M. Guizot declared that France was pledged and morally bound to ratify the treaty—a vote was passed, as an amendment to the proposition of the minister, in the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday last, to the effect that the French navy should be placed upon a war establishment, with eight ships of war and ten frigates in the roads. This will involve an additional expenditure of three millions of francs; but the proceeding was justified, on the ground that the disputes between England and America would probably lead to a rupture, in which France would be bound to interfere. But French hostility to this country is not confined to these proceedings and the insolent rivalry of the Paris press. Sir Robert Peel stated in the House of Commons on Tuesday night, in answer to a question from Mr. Labouchere, that the French government have intimated their intention of raising, by an ordinance, the duty on the importation of linens and linen yarns. The effect of such a step will be the exclusion of a large amount of British goods from the French markets, and the destruction of a trade which has grown up since 1836—the value of which is indicated by the return of the linen yarns exported from the United Kingdom to France, in the years from 1832 to 1840 inclusive.

SPAIN.

Accounts from Madrid, of the 9th May, announce changes in the cabinet which it was thought would lead to a dissolution of the Cortes, or the break up of the ministry. By a decree of the 25th, Señor Vall had been appointed Minister of Finances per interim, in place of Señor Sarra. Another decree of the 26th charges the Minister of War with the Marine Department, until the appointment of the successor to Señor Comba, whose resignation has been accepted.

APPALLING RAILWAY ACCIDENT AT VERSAILLES.

One of the most awful railroad accidents that ever occurred took place on Sunday last on the Versailles Railway, when fifty three persons were killed and about 40 wounded: the horrors of a break down and concussion being aggravated by a fire, communicated to the carriages from the engine, by which several persons of both sexes and various ages were burnt to ashes. On Sunday crowds of Parisians were attracted to Versailles, as the King's fête day of May 1. celebrated in the capital, was specially celebrated at St Germain's by illuminations, fireworks, &c. and at Versailles, and the accident took place at about half past five o'clock in the evening, when the train was returning from Versailles to Paris. Scarcely had the train quitted the Bellevue station, when the axle tree of the first locomotive, the Mathieu Murray, broke. The shock drove it off the rails, and it was instantly stopped. The 2d locomotive, which had all its power on, ran over the first, breaking it to pieces, and crushing the conductor and stokers. In the concussion it was also broken, and the fire and grease-boxes fell upon the ground. At the same moment, the three first waggons were dragged upon the locomotives, and were broken to pieces. Most of the persons in these waggons were enabled to escape by throwing themselves out of the windows; but about forty, who were too much injured to follow the example, were burned to death by the fire which had communicated itself to the waggons from the locomotives. The fourth waggon and those which followed did not share the same fate; but the passengers received severe wounds or contusions; and as soon as it was possible to ascertain the extent of the disaster, it was found that more than fifty persons were so severely injured that it was impossible to remove them on the instant. Paris was quite a scene of lamentation on Sunday night, and the accident has caused the greatest excitement in all parts of France. The French papers are filled with details of the lamentable occurrence; but, although their accounts are conflicting, we are happy to find that the first statements as to the loss of life were greatly overrated, and that the casualties do not exceed the numbers we have mentioned.

COMMERCIAL.

TEA—The amount of business lately transacted in the Tea market has been very limited. The continuous decline in prices for some months past, together with the numerous arrivals, and the quantity brought forward for sale, have naturally rendered the cautious of purchasing to any extent, and occasioned the greatest faleness in the market. This has now continued so long that the trade generally are unusually bare of stock; and we may therefore, as soon as the decline in prices is checked; and any rally of a permanent aspect takes place, look for an active resumption of business and improved rates.

The proportion both of the finest and of the lowest rather unsound, Congous in the sales of the month have been very large, particularly of the latter; the quantity of which has, undoubtedly, affected prices generally. Some of this class of Tea, which had previously in private market been selling at 1s 7d, sold at the public sale of the 27th May as low as 1s 4d; while on the same day also some of the finest class of Congou sold at 2s 2d to 2s 3d. The firmness of the merchants, in withdrawing fully four fifths of their teas at the sale which followed on the 30th.—raising those teas respectively at 1s 6d and 2s 3d to 2s 4d.—has given a better tone to the market, and caused confidence, the inquiry, however, being chiefly for good common and middling Congous.

Our sales in May have been the following:—On 10th and 11th May 11,500 pkgs. were offered, and 10,000 sold. At these sales Congous declined 3d, Twankays, 3d, Hysons, Young Hysons and Capers 1d to 2d.

On 27th 6,900 were offered, and 2,500 sold. Low unsound Congous fell 3d, fine Congous 2d, and Twankays 1d. A large quantity of Greens were withdrawn.

On 30th and 31st 38,000 were offered, and 7,000 sold. The greater bulk of this sale was withdrawn, the merchants not accepting the rates of the 27th, except for Twankays, of which some sold at 1s 6d.

The extent of the decline in prices since the 2d May, as shown by the result of these sales, may be stated at 1d to 1 1/2d on sound Congous, 2d to 3d on fine Congous, 1 1/2d to 2d on Twankay, and 4d to 6d on other sorts of Greens. The prices of fine Congous, and the various qualities of Imperial and Gunpowder, have never been quoted lower than at the present period. The stock in the kingdom is estimated at rather more than 40 millions.

Congou, good ord. unclean 1s 4d to 1s 5d; mixt leaf kinds 1s 7d to 1s 8d; blackish leaf 1s 9d to 1s 10d; do. strong Pekoe flavour 1s 11d to 2s 5d. Souchong, common 1s 2d to 1s 11d; good to fine 2s 4d to 3s 10d. Pouchong 1s to 2s 0 1/2d; Caper 1s 5d to 1s 8d. Orange Pekoe 2s 2d to 2s 5d; Black leaf Pekoe 1s 9d to 1s 11d; Flowery Pekoe 2s 9d to 5s; Twankay 1s 6d to 1s 11d; Hyson skin 1s to 2s; Hyson 1s 10d to 4s 6d; Young Hyson 11d to 3s 2d; Imperial 2s to 3s 8d; Gunpowder 1s 10d to 3s 0 1/2d.

CASIA LIGNEA.—About 500 boxes of late arrivals; broken, mouldy 80s to 75s; ordinary and middling 74s to 80s; good and fine 85s to 81s.

Manchester, June 1, 1842.

CASIA LIGNEA.—The largest parcel of Cassia received for many years was the recent arrival per Coromandel, and which has been sold at public sale at 64s 6d for ordinary to 18s 6d for good quality being a decline of 6s a 7 per cwt., and considering the extent of the parcel the reduction is not more than looked for, but the knowledge of this quantity coming had partially worked its effect previously. A small parcel offered since has been sold at a further reduction of 3s a 5s per cwt.

CASIA BUDS.—The simultaneous arrival of 200 a 300 boxes here and 200 boxes in Hamburg, has brought down the prices to 31s 5d 10s, at which reduction even sales are progressing very slow.

Bamboo, of good size, and Malacca Canes in good request. Common Rattans, Singapore sort, sell well.

ARRIVALS IN ENGLAND.

From China—May 8, Ellen; 7, Posthumous; 13, Gondollers; 17, Thos. King; 18, Alexander; 21, Thos. Sparks; 24, John Bartlett; 25, Elephantia; June 2, Foam.

SAILED.

For China—May 31, Lord Leather; 30, Adelaide; 3, John Bibby; 23, Zenobia; 9, H. M. S. Agincourt.

UNITED STATES.

The British and North American royal mail steamer "Caledonia" arrived at Liverpool on Sunday forenoon. She sailed from Boston on the afternoon of the 16, and Halifax on the evening of the 18th ult. The information contained in the papers received by this conveyance respecting the negotiations between Great Britain and the United States for the amicable settlement of differences is scanty. The general opinion, however, continued to be, that all would end well, and especially in relation to the north-western boundary.

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

The utmost consternation and horror was caused in London and the vicinity on the evening of Monday last, by the news that the life of her most gracious Majesty Queen Victoria had again been attempted by an assassin on Constitution-hill, near Buckingham Palace, on her return from her evening ride in a barouche and four, and the excitement was increased on the following day by the intelligence, communicated in Parliament, that another attempt had been made on her Majesty's sacred life on Sunday, at the same place and by the hand of the same assassin now in custody.

The account of the attempt upon the Queen's life was brought to the Goldenrope Hall by Mr. Alderman Copeland, when the livery had assembled at dinner. The national anthem had just been sung; it was immediately called for again, amid the warmest expressions of loyalty.

At the German Opera, at Covent Garden, "God save the Queen" was sung; and at the English Opera the Olympic, the New Brand, the Queen's, Burley, Victoria, and Sadler's Wells Theatres the national anthem was either played or sung, amid the rapturous cheers of the audience.

Having stated so much as to the effect produced by the rumour that the Queen had been fired at, it is now time to state some of the particulars as to the attempt on her Majesty's life.

About a quarter past six o'clock on Monday evening, her Majesty was returning from her accustomed airing in the Park, in an open barouche, accompanied by Prince Albert, and attended by Colonel Arbuthnot, the equerry in waiting, when just as the royal party were passing the spot on Constitution hill where Oxford made his murderous attempt during the year before last, a young man, whose name has since been found to be John Francis, stepped forward, presented a pistol at her Majesty, and discharged it, fortunately without effect. The assassin instantly thrust the weapon into his breast, and in a moment afterwards was grasped and secured from behind by a soldier the Fusilier Guards. He was at once conveyed, under the charge of Colonel Arbuthnot, to the Palace lodge. From thence he was taken to the police station in Gardiner's-lane, and was almost immediately afterwards brought to the Home office, where the Privy Council had assembled in great haste. Amongst the privy councillors present were his Royal Highness Prince Albert, the Duke of Wellington, Sir Robert Peel, the Earl of Ripon, Sir James Graham, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lord John Russell and other members of the late government, together with many of the noblemen who had been attending in their places in Parliament. The prisoner had been searched by the police soon after he was given into custody by Colonel Arbuthnot, the equerry in waiting. There were found upon his person a pocket book, without name or address, or any clue to the party's occupation, a bunch of keys, and a small pocket knife. There was no charge of any kind, nor any ball, or cartridge; nothing, in fact, from which any idea of reloading could be inferred. The pistol had been discharged; it was a small pocket-pistol, about seven inches in length, and appeared to have been recently loaded. His clothes were good, but not such as a gentleman would probably wear. When placed before the Privy Council, he kept a strict silence, declining to give his name or designation. The persons who were near the spot were severally examined; and identified the prisoner as the party who fired the pistol. He had in the hurry of the moment fired too soon to allow his pistol to have any effect, even if it had been much loaded and a rifle. It must have gone above the head of the small open carriage in which her Majesty usually rides in the parks. He was concealing the pistol in the breast of his waistcoat, when he was seized by one of the by-standers, a soldier of the Guards, who was looking on. He could only have had the one pistol; for only the one was found, and the prisoner was never out of sight of those by whom he was taken. After the witnesses were examined, the prisoner declining to say a word, he was remanded till next day, Tuesday. As soon as the Privy Council adjourned, the members repaired to the Palace to congratulate her Majesty on an escape not less happy for her than propitious for a faithful people to whom she has become more and more endeared. Thither also many of the nobility had already repaired to make their dutiful and loyal inquiries.

AFGHANISTAN.

A letter, from Dushka, dated the 23rd of May, says: "It is reported to-day, that Mohammud Ukkur, instead of being a prisoner, has married the daughter or sister of Futeh Jung. The guns in the Bala Hissar are now, of course, all in the possession of the enemy, and the release of the prisoners (too probably), further removed than ever, always provided that the report be not a fabrication. I do not believe it myself, but lean rather to the opinion, that Futeh Jung is still our friend, and still holding out in the Bala Hissar.

The above report, however, is coupled with another, to wit that Futeh Jung has declared himself King, and has appointed Zuman Shah and somebody else his wazir and wazir, respectively. Mohammud Akbar is his uncle—i. e. a. Sirdar—whom I presume may signify Commander-in-Chief. The recall of Bart's party (or rather Bait's, for Bait is the senior officer) was very sudden and doubtless justified the belief that it was an effect of some cause of more than common importance; yet we have received no elucidation of that point from Jullahabad, and if Ukkur Khan had been made a prisoner, we must have received this assurance of that event." They tell a story of the Khyburees. On one occasion, they seized—but certainly not from Pollock's army—a party of 17 camels. Of these it was determined that the Chief should receive a moiety, their sirdar a third and the rest one-sixth of the whole.

They could not satisfy themselves as to the mode of supplying each of the 'three estates' of King, Lord and Commons, with the fractional parts of their respective shares.

"A shrewd by-stander, who had no share or interest either in the allotment, offered to lend them a camel to admit of the chief receiving his share in whole numbers. He now received 9, as his half; the sirdar was given 6, as his share, and as there still remained 1-9th or two without his camel, the leader now took back his janwar, and allotted the residuary 9th to those whose right it was.

"P. S.—Mackenzie has given out publicly, and generally at Jullahabad, that he positively saw Ukkur Khan shoot MacNaghten."—India Gazette, 13th June.

We have much pleasure in stating, that we have heard from a source, from which we have been in the habit of receiving correct information, that the order for the suspension of the Honorable Mr. Erskine has been rescinded. We believe, this determination has been the result of a more careful enquiry into the causes which led Mr. Erskine to defend Sir William Macnaghten, against the numerous and unqualified reproaches cast upon him. Whatever, however, may be the immediate motive, we are pleased to find that Lord Ellenborough is superior to the littleness of persevering in an act of injustice to the individual, and a violation of the liberty of the press.

We have letters from Jullahabad, to the 26th ulto. but they do not contain any very interesting intelligence. The Quarter Master General had been ordered to mark out, on the following morning, ground for a new encampment at Charbagh; but the object of this move appears to be nothing more than the attainment of a healthier location. It is now said, that an impression prevails in camp, that orders have been received for the withdrawal of the force, but that Gen. Pollock was unwilling to execute them. Intelligence had been received, on the preceding day, from Causal. Akbar Khan, according to these accounts, had attacked the Bala Hissar, but been severely repulsed. Nothing more had been heard of the prisoners. There was a report in camp, that Capt. Thomas' Jessilchees had deserted from him, at Ali-Murjeed; but we think, that we may undertake to say, that this account is without foundation, as the corps was to have been at Dukha, before the 27th, and our letters of that date, make no mention of the desertion. At all events, we should have got the news from Dukha, sooner than from Jullahabad. Every one in camp is complaining of the heat, the dust the flies, the want of clothes, &c., and there were pretty audible grumbles relative to the deception, which had been practised upon the force, to reconcile them to the abandonment of their baggage. We regret very much, to add, that there was a good deal of sickness in camp, and that several officers were among the sufferers. The want of provisions and carriage is still decried upon as forcibly as ever.

We have letters of the 27th ultimo from Dukha; but they are almost totally destitute of news. The only item of any interest is a statement, to the effect that the brigade under Colonel Eckford was to start for Ali-Murjeed, in two days, to escort back to Dukha, the treasure, which Captain Lawrence was about to despatch from Peshawar, for the use of the army." We hope that these journeys to and from, the Khybur, will not be undertaken once too often. There is a good deal of elasticity in the character of the hill-tribes, and it appears to us by no means certain that the Afreedis, though they have discovered the futility of attempting to oppose such a force as Pollock marched through the pass, may not summon courage to attack a treasure-guard, should a favorable opportunity present itself. Revenge and cupidity might instigate them to such an undertaking, and it is not impossible that, success may crown their endeavors, when directed against a force of comparative insignificance. We shall be very glad when these pilgrimages, back wards and forwards, between Jullahabad and Peshawar are at an end. They may be prosecuted with safety to the last, but nothing ought to be trusted to a may be; we have already felt but too bitterly the effects of our overweening reliance on fortune.—17th June

The following is the substance of a letter from one of the principal Lady prisoners, dated 8th May:—

"Ladies MacNaghten and Sale, Madames Boyd, Sturt, Melville and Mainwaring, are in the hills above Tansen—a delicious climate, and they are allowed to walk about in a shrubbery at pleasure.

The water, in a pot filled at a stream about 100 yards below, became frozen ere it reached the house. A pet dog, of one of the Ladies, which has followed them throughout, was twice stolen and restored by the kindness of the Chiefs. Ukkur Khan is still in good odour with the prisoners."

We have to announce the death of General Marley—the father of the Bengal Army. He has expired at last, "full of years;" after serving nearly three quarters of a century, during more than thirty years of which he held the rank of a General Officer. He died, we believe, at Munnerampore, (near Ichapore), on Tuesday night, in the 89th year of his age, and was buried at Barrackpore on Wednesday, with the usual military honors.

Maulmeia Chronicle, to the 23th of May, have reached us. A report was rife, that King Tharrawaddie was dead, and that a civil war was to be apprehended, in consequence of a struggle for the throne, among his sons. Should this really occur, however much to be lamented on the score of humanity, it cannot but tend to our advantage, by driving the subjects of the Golden footed King to our provinces, to avoid the rapine and carnage that must ensue. But we sincerely hope, that the country may be spared the horrors of a civil war.

Another report in circulation was, that Tharrawaddie was endeavouring to persuade the King of Siam, to join a religious war against us. That the attempt has been made, we have little doubt; but that his Majesty of Siam will even join in a war against us, we do not think at all probable. He has too much to lose to venture upon the undertaking; and if he did, the troops in China, on their return from the Celestial Empire, could be employed to teach His Majesty such a lesson, as he would not in a hurry forget—but we have no fear of his embarking on the undertaking.

BOMRAY.

BURNING OF THE SHIP "CORNWALLIS."

About 9 o'clock last night the Ship Cornwallis anchored just beyond the Hastings, receiving ship, off the Castle, was discovered to be on fire. The fire spread so rapidly that by eleven she was one entire sheet of flame. By half past eleven the main and mizen masts fell overboard.

About ½ past 12 she swung round at her anchors at the high water turn of the tide. At ¼ past 1 the powder magazine blew up, tearing open the stern; the explosion was magnificent, filling the air with showers of sparks and volumes of flame and illuminated smoke.

At 5 the foremast, after having been for nearly 4 hours enveloped in flame as high as the topmast, still burnt on. A boat sent out on purpose, continued to fire round shot into her at a very short distance, but for some time without apparent effect. When we went to press she continued one mass of flame.

The Cornwallis was about 800 tons new measurement; she was teak built; and the oldest ship in Bombay—being nearly 50 years of age. She belonged to Khinchund Motchund; and was nearly full of cotton. Her crew had, early in the evening, been taken on board the h. c. receiving ship Hastings.

We trust that a very rigid enquiry into the cause of these fearful conflagrations will be instituted by the authorities. Two vessels just about to sail, both burnt within the week, does not look like accident; especially when it is considered that the Lascar crew having received six months' wages in advance, are liberated from their engagements, and ready for another voyage on fresh terms.—Bombay Times, June 11.

The wreck of the Cornwallis continues fast at her original moorings up to the present time (3 p. m.) the remaining stump of her foremast, which had blazed all night long, fell overboard at 6 a. m. The stern is now completely opened up; but the cargo appears to burn with the same violence as ever. The Centurion steamer is in attendance lest she should break loose and endanger the rest of the shipping. A gun boat placed at pistol shot distance is firing vigorously into her starboard quarter. No doubt appears to be entertained of the Fusilier and Cornwallis having both been purposely set on fire by the lascars. A very large reward is now understood about to be offered, with a view of obtaining evidence on this point.—Ibid.

WRECK OF THE "CORNWALLIS"

We understand that the wreck of the Cornwallis went down, a very short distance from the Apollo Bunder, on Sunday afternoon, about 2 or 3 o'clock. A number of boats were employed to tow her away, under the indefatigable exertions of Captain Oliver, the Superintendent, whose zeal was followed up by Captain Ross, and Commander Montrion. Being towed sternwards the stern post gave way, by the drag and pressure of the water, and the waves rushing in she instantly went down.

The Cornwallis is the second Cotton ship that has happened to take fire within these few days; last year it was all wrecks by stranding, now it is all wrecks by burning and coincidences of time and season much about the same. The vessels in the way of the wreck as she was towed off all slipped and went out of her way. Much credit is due to the Superintendent for his able and indefatigable exertions. We understand that he was absent almost, night and day, giving directions. We hope that his health will not suffer from his arduousness and toil.

The following is a note of the Insurances effected on the Cornwallis:

Ship Insured for.....	Rs. 1,25,000
Freight	" 21,000
Cotton	" 1,80,000
Sandal Wood.....	" 7,000

Rs. 3,46,000

U. S. Gazette, June 14.

CARGO OF THE VANSITART.

6146 bales	Cotton.
141 half do.	"
134 chests	Opium.
3 bundles	Elephant's Teeth.
562 do.	Fish Maws.
935 do.	Shark's Fins.
1 box	Cow Bezoar.

Singapore Free Press, 21st July.

GOVERNMENT ADVERTISEMENT.

The following copies of a Letter and Notification received from the Post Master General of Bombay are published for general information.

Wm SCOTT, Post Master.

Singapore Post Office, 18th July, 1842.

No. 788 of 1842.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT,

To THE POST MASTER.

At Singapore.

Sir,—I have the honor, in forwarding you the accompanying notification relative to Ship Postage chargeable on letters received at Bombay for transmission to Europe or elsewhere, to request that you will cause it to be generally notified that, for the future, whenever the postage is not paid the letters will invariably be detained, and after a season returned to the despatching Office.

2. As, however, it may be inconvenient to many parties to employ an Agent in Bombay to report their letters, I have been directed by the Government to authorize the Bombay Ship Postage as well as the outward Ship Postage, being levied at the office of despatch, instead of, as at present, two annas at the despatch and three at the Office of receipt. Whenever this course is adopted, and parties would do well to adopt it always, you should mark on the letters outward and inward Ship postage prepaid, and you will be so good as to give this office credit for the same realized under the latter head, and to furnish a quarterly account of the same.

3. The present communication does not of course affect the privilege of persons forming part of the China Expedition sending their letters free of Ship postage.

4. It is very desirable that it should be generally known, that letters brought in a Ship's bag, and not sent through a Post Office, will be detained for postage at Bombay. I have &c.

(Signed) W. ESCOMBE.

Actg. Post Master Genl.

True copy. Wm SCOTT, Post Master.

Bombay, Gen. Post Office, 18th May, 1842.

NOTIFICATION.

Notice is hereby given, that Letters arriving from Seaward for transmission to any place beyond the Territories of the East India Company, whether by Ships or Government Steamers, will be detained in Bombay until the Ship or Steamers Postage, or both, to which such Letters may be liable, shall be paid according to the rates laid down in the subjoined Table.

Table of Ship Postage to be levied on Letters received or sent by Sea.

Letters.	Newspapers, Pamphlets, and other printed papers packed in covers, open at each end.	Parcels not exceeding 300 Tolas weight.	Not exceeding 100 Tolas weight.	Annas	Two Annas being added for every additional 100 Tolas, up to 300 Tolas; beyond which no parcel will be received.
Inward.		Not exceeding 6 Tolas weight.	Annas		An Anna being added for every additional 100 Tolas weight.
Outward.		Not exceeding 3 Tolas weight.	Annas		An Anna being added for every additional 100 Tolas weight.

Table of Steamer Postage leviable upon Letters arriving from, or addressed to any other place than United Kingdom via the Red Sea or Persian Gulf—

	Rs.	An.
A letter not exceeding 1½ tola, is to be charged one rate Postage	0	8
Ditto above 1½ tola, and not exceeding 2½ tolas, two rates	1	0
Ditto above 2½ tolas, and not exceeding 5 tolas, four rates	2	8
Ditto above 5 tolas, and not exceeding 7½ tolas, six rates	3	0 and be on in proportion, two additional rates of Postage being charged for every additional weight of 2½ tolas, or for any fraction of that weight.

(Signed) W. ESCOMBE,
Acting Post Master General.
True copy (Signed) W. ESCOMBE,
Acting Post Master General.
Wm. SCOTT, Post Master.
Bombay, Gen. Post Office, March 14, 1842.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, 21st July.

CHINA CAMPHOR.

We referred in some of our former numbers to the increase of this article by the China Junks, and are now enabled to lay before our readers some particulars respecting it, which we think will prove interesting.

We believe that when the vessels now loading for England and the Continent shall have left, there will not be more than about 30 cases remaining in second hands, and the amount of the imports can therefore best be judged by the exports, the daily lists of imports and exports being no safe criterion to go by, as the Junk people generally state a smaller quantity than they actually bring.

Exports to England since 14th March amount us per annexed statement to Boxes.	Piculs.

Exports to the Continent, including a lot by Elizabeth now loading to.	750	441
Exports to Calcutta	709	341½
Madras	12	136
Bombay	38	285½

1,722 1,234½

taking the boxes at the general average weight of 1 cwt. not equal to which would bring the whole importation by the Junks to about 2,700 piculs.

1,488½

We annex particulars of the exports to England, which include 130 boxes and 54 piculs, shipped in January and February that were not imported by the Junks, also a comparative statement of stocks and imports at home during the last 7 years. We have reason to believe that no Camphor, with the exception of 200 piculs, that were sent to the United States, has gone direct from China, as we know that orders to buy have been sent here from that quarter. We cannot expect new supplies here before January next.

Exports of Camphor to England during 1842:—

	Per Month	Piculs.	Boxes.
January 23	Lady Houston	54½	120½
February 3	Marius	40	75
March 14	Donthorpe	75	150
April 1	Clifton	150	300
May 3	Westminster	91	182
June 3	Morborough	75	150
July 12	Isabella	10	20 not yet sailed	Alexander Johnstone	62	124
do.		495	970
495 piculs equal to boxes of 1 cwt			990

making a total export direct from this of 1,488 cwt. 1488

Comparative Statement of Stock &c. of Camphor in England during the years 1841 and 1842.

Stocks in England 1st Jan.	1403 boxes	120 boxes
Imports during	530	1488
Probable imports from Bombay and Calcutta		500

1943 2088

Imports of Camphor into England during

1835	392 Pkgs.	1839	981 Pkgs.
1836	1093 "	1840	2963 "
1837	990 "	1841	500 "
1838	378 "

* Not imported by the China Junks.

Art. VI. Narrative of sergeant Campbell's capture, and treatment from the Chinese while at Hang chau fu.

SERGEANT Campbell had been employed in the commissariat department at Chusan, since the 1st of February last; on the 24th of March he went to Ninghai to purchase some fowls; but after a fruitless search in the market, he was on the point of returning home, when a Chinese boy, whom he had employed for several months, told him if he went to the east gate, he would get plenty of them. He followed him; and on coming to the gate, the boy pointed to a house about a hundred yards farther on. The boy ran into the house, at the door of which, sergeant Campbell waited for his return; but after standing at the place for ten minutes, and getting tired, was retracing his steps, when at the corner of the building he was attacked by twenty or thirty Chinese. Four of them he knocked down with his stick, but the odds were too great; he was felled to the ground by a stone that struck him over the left eye. They then sprang on him, tied his hands and feet, and filled his mouth with clay. Immediately after he was put into a bag, and two men carried him on a bamboo. Walking at a good pace for two hours, they brought him to a row of houses, on the southern part of the island. Here he was taken out of the bag, only to lose his left eye, which one of his captors cut off with a pair of scissors, upon which they put him back into the bag, and travelled as before till 10 o'clock P. M., when the Chinese ate their supper. This done they took him up on their shoulders, and twenty minutes' walk brought them to a creek, where, through the sack, he could see several small junks. Into the hold of one of these he was lowered, and left three days and three nights, his clothes saturated with water, without a single morsel to eat, and supported entirely by some shamshoo and water which they gave him at long intervals.

On the fourth day after capture he was landed at a place, which he subsequently ascertained to be Chappa. There he was taken before the chief officer, who immediately ordered his hands and feet to be untied, and treated him very kindly, giving him an abundance to eat and drink. They kept him there but two hours, after which he was sent under the escort of a petty officer and twelve soldiers, to the canal, and embarked in a fast-boated tomek boat. This officer was most civil, and insisted on his eating in company with him.

The canal runs through a perfectly flat country, so they had no locks to get over; at times, whenever the bank of the canal would allow it, the boats were tracked, but for the greatest part of the way the boatmen were obliged to scull. They stopped only to take in whatever provision the party required, and moved on day and night till the evening of the 30th, when they reached Hangchau fu.

Here sergeant Campbell was placed in a sedan; carried through the suburbs, a distance of nearly three miles; skirting the walls of the city for the greater part of the way; and at last reached an audience about three quarters of a mile off, where he was lodged in a small very little larger than the size of a cot. In this prison two officers came to see him; they put to him, through an interpreter, several questions, as to the strength of the army, navy, and the chief officers; and at last asked him if he was not an officer. He says that he met with very good treatment, although kept in close confinement.

On the 25th of May, they were released, and he saw for the first time his fellow-sufferers. It seems that it was the intention of the officers to hand them over to the British officers at Chapu, and they were embarked in boats, but when they got to the latter place, the expedition had left. They stopped there till the 30th, and then retracing their steps, arrived at Hangchau fu on the 2d June.

They again left Hangchau fu on the morning of the 7th, carried in sedans, and passed through the Chinese camp, which appeared a most extensive one, tents being visible as far as the eye could see; mere curiosity brought an immense crowd of soldiers and others to look at the fankwei, but the Indians were those that amused the people most. As they formed a long line on either side of the procession, he observed that the soldiers had weapons of all kinds; matchlocks, spears, swords, ent-lases and bows and arrows, the latter of which they seemed to be very fond and very proud of; every tenth soldier had a matchlock. They reached the bank of a river (the Tientang), and crossed it at a place where it is two or three miles wide, but so shallow that the boatmen jumped into the water to propel the boats. They passed through a town about a mile long, and, resorting again to boats, moved down on a canal to Shanghai fu, where they arrived on the 10th. This city seemed to be as large as Hangchau fu; they did not enter it, but were under its walls for about three hours in the canal running round it.

Before getting to Yuyau they passed a very curious rock, the echo of which repeated, as distinctly as possible, every word that was spoken. They passed Yuyau on the 17th, reached Ningpo on the morning of the 12th, stopped there two hours, then proceeded down the river to Chihai, and the same evening were handed over to captain Napier of H. M. brig Pelican.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 6th Aug., 1842.

A great number of vessels have during the week arrived, principally from Bombay, and although a few papers with the May overland mail were brought on by the John Brightman from Calcutta, the bulk of that mail did not arrive here until the day before yesterday, and on the same day we received per Anonyma, from Bombay, 10th July, which had made the unprecedentedly short passage of only 25 days, the June overland mail, only just two months from London. We have from the papers (Monthly Atlas for India, Monthly Times, Bombay Times, Singapore Free Press of 21st July) made as many extracts as our limits and time would permit, but they are not as much as we could wish to give. The May mail will be found to contain little of interest—that of June, on the contrary, brings the painful intelligence of the conflagration of Hamburg, in which 61 streets, 1,992 houses, 1,716 dwelling floors, 498 cottages, 468 dwelling cellars, 3 churches, 8 synagogues and a number of public buildings were destroyed; and 21,526 inhabitants made roofless. Such a fire, since the great fire of London, has not been known in Europe, and we fear will prove to us, personally, from the sufferings and losses of friends and relations, a great misfortune, although as yet we possess no further particulars than are contained in the papers. The benevolence of England and other parts of Europe has we are thankful to see been active in mitigating the sufferings of the people of Hamburg. Another infamous attempt on the life of the Queen has been made, fortunately without success; and a railroad disaster near Paris has cost the lives of numbers of people, under the most shocking circumstances.

It will be seen that Sir Robert Peel in Parliament carries all before him. The French papers continue hostile to England. The probable result of Lord Ashburton's conciliatory mission to the United States can only be guessed at.

From India our accounts from Jellalabad by way of Bombay reach to the 12th June, when it was expected the army would soon begin its march to Peshawar; Akbar Khan had possessed himself of the Balla Hissar, and nothing certain was known, as to where the prisoners were at that time. From Candahar the Bombay papers contain accounts to the 9th June. A detachment of 1000 cavalry and 2000 infantry was about leaving that place for an inroad into the neighbouring country, to destroy the forts of the Afghans, and again to return to Candahar.

Another ship, the Adelaide had been burnt in Bombay, when on the eve of departure from Bombay, being the third within a few days. She had been set on fire a few days before, but it was then extinguished. There is little doubt that incendiaries are at work, and government have offered a reward of 5000 Rupees for the detection of the guilty, but hitherto without success.

The final Opium Sale of the season took place at Calcutta on the 27th June. The quantity offered was 2924 chests Patna and 1138 chests Benares which sold,

	Highest	Lowest	Average
Patna Rs.	895	865	881 2 2
Benares ..	845	834	839 15 7

The sale opened at 870 for Patna, the bidder taking one lot only at that figure; the second bid was 865, at which price 100 lots were taken off. Subsequent biddings were run up as high as 875, between which rate and 885 four-fifth of the quantity offered were disposed of.

The stock in the godowns this date consists of Patna new 3249 — old 20 — 4269
Benares .. 2548 — None — 2058

Total 6327 chests

As to China news we have none whatever to give to our readers this week; there have been no arrivals from the north, and everything remains quiet at Canton, although trade there is excessively dull, and imports particularly Cotton all but unsaleable. We have copied from the Register an item of Chinese news stating that the British force had arrived at the Peiho, and we agree with that paper in considering it deserving of little if any credit, as the date would hardly have allowed the force to reach the Peiho on the 11th July, if former reports are true that on the fourth it was near Nanking; our enquiries have not led us to believe that there has been received positive intelligence from the Yang-tse kiang later than the 26th June, and that we gave last week.

The following has been handed us for publication.

No. 974 of 1842

To, THE POST MASTER,

Macao,

Sir,—I have the honor to return, a Packet Bill, received via Calcutta, dispatched from your office, on the 18th April last containing 16 letters and 5 newspapers, out of which, there were 10 letters and 3 newspapers for England, a list of which is herewith enclosed, and to request that you will have the goodness, to collect from the senders, the ship, and inland Postage, entered against each name, and remit the amount to this Office by the first opportunity.

I take this opportunity, to forward you a copy of a notification, issued in this department, under date the 14th March 1842, and of informing you, that in future, all letters bearing postage, will be returned. You will therefore do well to advise the public, at Macao, and Canton, that their correspondence for England, whether sent by Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, should be transmitted under cover to Agents at those Presidencies.

I have the honor to be
 Sir,

Your most Obedt. Servant,
 W. SCOMBE,
 Acting Post Master General.

Bombay, Genl. Post Office.

28th June, 1842

DEDICATION OF THE PROTESTANT HOUSE OF WORSHIP IN CHINA.

The new edifice to be known in future by the name of "The Queen's Road Chapel, Hongkong," was formally dedicated to the worship of Almighty God on Lord's day last, the 17th instant, in the presence of an attentive and respectable congregation. The order of services were as follows:

1. Invocation, Rev. Mr. Shuck. 2. Reading of the 90th Psalm. Rev. Dr. Bridgman. 3. Hymn and Prayer. Rev. Mr. Dean. 4. Hymn. Rev. Dr. Bridgman. 5. Sermon, Subject, the Divine Revelation. Rev. Mr. Shuck. 6. Prayer, Delicatory, Rev. Dr. Bridgman. 7. Hymn and Doxology. Rev. Mr. Shuck. 8. Benediction. Rev. Dr. Bridgman.
Canton Register, 2d August.

Translations.

At 11 o'clock on the 20th day of the present month (July 21) there arrived in Canton a despatch from the privy council, dated at 8 o'clock on the 4th day of the 6th moon (July 11) stating that on the 2d day of the 6th moon (July 10) 50 sail of large English vessels of war and 19 steamers, besides numberless small craft with one and two masts, arrived off the mouth of the Trentin river, (the Peiho), and had taken possession of the stone and of the three newly built mud forts. The English had issued a proclamation, stating, that they had not come to strive with the central and flowery empire, but that they only wanted an audience of the great and supreme ruler, that they may clearly explain some important matters, and speech being allowed, all would then be well; now, early on the 4th day of the present moon (July 11) the emperor desired to commence his journey to Jehol. It has been always usual to proceed to Jehol in the middle of the 4th moon, in order to avoid the great heat; but at the present time, through the English barbarian's affairs, the emperor has not gone. At the time the English arrived off the mouth of the Trentin river, and took possession of the forts, they said their troops had been long on board the ships; and that they only wanted to borrow the forts for a little time, that they might repose for a while; but the military officers would not submit, and upwards of 100 Chinese soldiers were killed? &c.

By J. S. Ed. C. R.

Canton Register 2d August.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

July. ARRIVED

- 15. (B) Hongkong, Wteten, Singapore.
- 22. " Arrow, Geare, Chusan.
- 26 (Sp.) Maria, Rinz, Manila.
- 27. (B.) Hope, Cockbain, Chusan.
- 30. " James Ewing, Maitland, Singapore.
- 30. " Ellora, Turnbull, do.
- 31. " Edinburgh, Paterson, Bombay & do.
- 31. " Pandora, Cothay, do. do.
- 31. " Lord Eldon, Worsell, do. do.

August,

- 1. (B.) Bucephalus, Small, do. do.
- 1. " John Brightman, Wiatt, Calcutta & do.
- 1. " Orator, Terry, Bombay, and do.
- 1. (P.) Simplicia, Almeida, Bombay, and do.
- 1. (Sp.) Romancillo, Gonzalez, Manila.
- 2. (B.) Catherine, Brown, Madras and do.
- 2. " Tartar, Luce, Bombay and do.
- 2. " Syria, Strogan, do. do.
- 2. H. M. B. Wanderer Capt. Freemantle, do.
- 3. (A.) Charleston, Harlow, Liverpool.
- 4. (B.) Gracian, Watt, Bombay and do.
- 4. " Maria, Sproule, do. do.
- 4. " M. S. Elphinstone, do. do.
- 4. " Lady Clarke, Lawrence, do. do.
- 4. " Anonyma, Vaux, do. do.

July. SAILED

- 30. (B.) Amelia, Pottar, Singapore.
- 31. " Herald, Coubro, Bombay.

The American ship Henry Pratt passed Anjer on the 6th July.

The Hellas for Singapore and Calcutta having experienced bad weather in the China Sea, put back here on the 2d inst. leaky, and having sprung her mainmast.

VESSELS EXPECTED

- From England,—Direcot, Devon, Elizabeth, Pink, Judith Allen, Caroline, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudine, Charleston, Liberland, Claudius, Louis Jackson, Dumfries, Balfour, Matilda Geo. Wallis, Lord Lowther, Adelaide, John Bibby, Zenobia.
- From Bombay,—Drangon, Island Queen, Salem, Asia, Diana, Cora, Woodman, Hy Davidson, H. brides, Kirkman Finlay, Thelis, S. Lawrence, Wm Sharpley, Wm. Hyde, John Moor, Helena, Bombay Castle, Prince Regent.
- From Calcutta,—Dido, Clowen, Intrepid, Mermaid, Victory, Comanje Family, Framjer Comanje, Mar. Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet.
- From Singapore,—Candien, Sarah Bedford.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 4th June.	SINGAPORE, 24th July.
UNITED STATES, May 18.	MANILA,
CALCUTTA, 7th July.	AMOT.
BOMBAY, 10th July.	CHUSAN, 6th July.
JAVA, 10th July.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Pei do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 46.] Macao, Saturday, 13th August, 1842.

[No. 358.]

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late MR. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and MR. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. THOMAS FOX and Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our Establishment ceased on the 30th April 1841, and Mr. ARTHUR JOHN EMPSON was admitted a Partner from the same date.

FOX RAWSON & Co.

China, 5th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt. JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorized to receive and give acquittances for the same.

JAMES P. STURGIS.

Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 22d July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our firm now consists of J. MRS. MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART. JARDINE MATHESON & Co. China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—MR. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

Macao, 1st July, 1842. DENT & Co.

NOTICE.—MR. DUTRONQUEY of the London Hotel, Singapore, in opening an establishment under the same name at Hongkong begs respectfully to inform his friends and the Public that he will adopt here the same system which has already secured him the kind patronage of the public at Singapore.

Mr. Dutronquey also begs to inform the Public, Captains of Ships, and Passengers, that he supplies stores, Wines, &c. &c. &c., at the shortest notice. London Hotel, Queen's Road, Hongkong, 8th June, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subalternes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que les mêmes droits ne paieront à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay, Dep. Commissary's Office, F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col. Macao, 6th Aug. 1841. Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUKE, or to C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 45 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Buys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner, and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq., —Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE. —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine new clipper built Ship Horn, Capt. CRAWFORD, will sail for the above ports on the 25th inst., and is now ready to receive cargo. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR CHUSAN.

THE British Bark PORTSMOUTH, Capt. HALL, will sail in a few days. For freight or passage apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 12th August, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Ship "JOHN BRIGHTMAN," Capt. VIAL, will be despatched for the above ports about the 25th instant. For freight or passage apply to

W. H. HARTON.

Macao, 5th August, 1842.

FOR SALE, OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMONCITO" burthen 200 Tons, Capt. RAMON G. GONZALES. For particulars apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark PANDORA (298 Tons), Capt. COTHAY. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE A. I. British Bark PRIMA DONNA, (222 Tons) Captain JOHN KELL having nearly a full cargo engaged will sail on or about the 5th August from Macao Roads. For freight or passage apply on board or to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 22nd July, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CANA, Capt. ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao 21st July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt. J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to J. COULIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton, JARDINE MATHESON & Co. —Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWESS FAMILY, captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Trak Built Ship "Hase or MALOWN," 482 Tons burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. PRO. DIROM & Co. W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT, OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing Spanish Schooner "GITANA," 250 Tons burthen, built at Pangasinang in the year 1840, of the best materials, new covered only in February this year, and just been rigged with first rate cordage—she is now lying in the Inner Harbour of Macao. For further particulars apply to her owner either on board or on shore.

J. SALADO.

Macao, 30th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIERCE, 352 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL, Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 18th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, weighing each from 35 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

Just received ex "ANNA MARIA" and other LATE ARRIVALS: and for sale at the Store of the undersigned, first N. E. house, Praya Grande:

STATIONARY, &c.—Laid and worn Note, Letter, Foolscap, and Copying Paper; Swan and Hambro Quills; a variety of Steel Pens; patent India Rubber; Blotters, with and without lock and Key; Wallets, with clasps; plain and colored Visiting Cards; Portable Desks; Wafters; Bills of Exchange, loose and bound; Office Paper; steel Letter Holders; "answered" "unsent" "Private," and "plain; Bird Duplex Inkstands; medals, royal, imperial, atlas, and double elephant Drawing Paper; Red and Black Lead Pencils; Copying, and red and black Writing Ink; Playing Cards, &c.

SUNDRIES.—Solar Hanging Lamp; Signal Lantern, with wire guards; Chamber Candlesticks; spare Sinumbra and other shades; Lamp cottons; Chimneys; Pint and quart Decanters; cut Wine, claret Glasses; Tumbler; Blacking; damask Table cloth; Huckleback-Towels; Napkins; Breakfast, and Dinner services; Cast's and Brass's patent Detector Drob, Drawer, cupboard, and Pad Locks; Tumbler Padlocks, from 2 to 6 inch; India Rubber Braces and Garters; Mevis cotton and woolen half Hoses; women's do. Stockings; silk and hair Gloves, of sizes and colors; gentlemen's white and colored cotton Gloves; Shoe Ribbands; patent Portable Water closets; Lencerifer Matchbox; Bath Bricks; Ladies' side saddle, with quilted seat and safe, Riding summerboot saddle; Bridles, Girths, Martingales, and Whips; 4, 6, 8, and 12 tone Musical Boxes; shot; shot Belts; Table covers; Counterpanes; Blankets; Table cutlery; Irish Linen; fine white shirtings, &c.

OLIVIER'S STORES, &c.—Pickles; Sausages; Vinegar; French Olives; Capers; Mustard, Herring Paste; Pate au Diable; Potted mutton; Ham; Bacon; Pine, Berkley, and Dutch cheeses; Jam; Jellies; Marmalade; —Bottled Fruit;—Syrups;

PERFUMERY.—Essence of Rose; Jonquins; Marshmall; Bouquet; Rensday Extract of Flowers; Sweetbriery; Rose-delet; Geranium; citronella roses; Verbena; Lavender Water; Naples and Brown Windsor soap; cold creams; Burn Grease; Tooth Powder; sponge; Violet Hair Powder; Powder Puffs and Boxes; Marrow, otto of Rose, and Rozela Pounder; Balsam of roses; Essence of Tyre; Macassar and Prince's Russia oil; Milk of roses; superior Eau-de-cologne; Refined Liquorice; Essence of Peppermint.

WINE AND LIQUORS.—Superior Brandy, in one and

THE CANTON PRESS.

Three dozen cases; Gin; Jamaica Rum; old Brown and Pale berry, in pints and quarts; Port; English and French claret; Champagne; Madeira, Lisbon Wine; Hock; Boccia; Sancerre; Malmsay Madeira; and, Beer and Porter.

MEDICINES—A small and well selected invoice, with cases and weights, mortars, and pestles, list, &c., and may be had retail or whole sale. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 5th August, 1842.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.

Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—DEPT GORDON & Co's.

SHERRY in bottle and HDS.

PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each.

CLARET in do. 6 do. do.

CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.

Apply to LANDSAY & Co.

Just arrived from London.

ENAMELLED Boots and enameled Dress Pumps, Ladies enameled SLIPPERS, STOUT and LIGHT Walking SHOES, 1 Ladies Case fitted with BRUSHES, COLLARS, PERFORMERS, &c., LAVENDER WATER and Extract of MILEFLEUR, PENKNIVES, RAZORS and Razor Strops, Princess Mixture SNUFF, a COPYING MACHINE complete, RACING SADDLES and BRIDLES complete, Plated Race Spurs, 2 suits of prime HORSE CLOTHES with Hoods &c. complete, 1 handsome French GUITAR, Boy's and Girl's riding HATS, Ladies silk BONNETS trimmed & Children's do. do. French & German MERINO black, Fancy Silk Socks, white LINEN of superior quality Sewing, Soles, &c. &c.—For sale by B. dos REMEDIOS Frija Manduco the fourth house passed Dr. Freija's Dispensary.

Macao, 29th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUERA MENDES.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms.

Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE—At 46 Queens Road, AMERICAN FINE SPARK, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COGNAC, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton Socks and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UNDELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—SAUNDERS, Pale Barton ALE in Hubs per "Anna Elisa." apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE—On board the "Isabella Robertson" lying in the Type.

Cases of BEANS BEES,

La Rose CLARET,

OLMAN'S STONES,

SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles,

Provision RICE,

TABLE RICE,

GRAIN,

COIR ROPE.—Apply on board.

1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAIN'S PAPAWA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermaciti CANDLES, Yellow Soap, Chewung TOBACCO.—Apply to

Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE—At the Goodwins of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—

Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney piece to fit. A few very neat new Payette Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Manipulation SNOW in quart bottles, a $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—SHERRY in Bottles and Hubs, PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Alsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hubs ex "John O'Gann" & "Regular."

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 20th January, 1842.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.

CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.

CLARET 3 do. do.

SHERRY, PALE in Hubs.

SELTZER WATER new.

OLMAN'S STORES late imports.

BEEF in tins; Pork in barrels.

COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BARR' PALE

ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine

flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London

bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER

water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TUR-

PENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manilla

and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARE for lower and Top Masts. Apply to

Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads,

and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRA & Co.; apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE—CHALSAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.

MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior.

COGNAC BRANDY.

SELTZER WATER and HOCK.

HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.

RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.

Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, 28th October, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG.

A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.

ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal

translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS.

price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF

THE KYTE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING

at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING,

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.

Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.

Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.

for 3 months $ 6.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press,

For one year payable in advance $ 12

For six Months $ 7

For three $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

From the Monthly Times of 4th June.

The Frankfort Journal states that the Hanoverian artillery from Stade employed more than 30,000lbs.

weight of gunpowder in blowing up houses in Hamburg, to prevent the spreading of the fire.

The Leipzig Gazette states that the King of Denmark sent to the Senate of Hamburg 100,000 marks ($8,000 British); the Hanoverian States, 100,000 crowns; and the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg Schwerin, 30,000 marks.

The subscriptions in behalf of those who have suffered by the fire at Hamburg are progressing with great rapidity. The list at the bankers exhibit considerable sums, and the large firms are subscribing most handsomely. On the point of relieving the misfortune that has befallen this great commercial friend there is evidently but one feeling.

Her Majesty, ever alive to the calls of humanity and distress, has, with her usual sympathy and condescension, graciously presented for the relief of the sufferers from the fire at Hamburg, the sum of £200. His Royal Highness Prince Albert has also been pleased liberally to subscribe £100 for the same benevolent object. The persons deprived of homes are about 30,000. On the 13th, £10,000 subscribed by public companies, merchants, bankers, and others, in London, were sent over to relieve the pressing necessities of the sufferers.

The number of lives lost on this occasion it is very difficult to ascertain accurately, as many bodies are unquestionably buried and burnt underneath the ruins.

The real number can scarcely be named for some time yet.

A letter from Hamburg, of the 19th, says that the re-fection of the fire in the air was seen not only in the Baltic, but in the German ocean, at the distance of 100 miles, by the persons on board the ships that were coming to the Elbe. From Tuesday, the 8th instant, up to yesterday 400 ships have arrived here. How fortunate that they did not arrive with their rich cargoes a fortinight sooner! The furniture from the houses in the Jungferstieg, which had been carried into the street, took fire. It was found necessary to sink all the boats in the Alster to prevent the flames extending to them; they were nearly filled with household furniture, which is now swimming about in the basin of the Alster.—Dutch Papers, May 24th.

It appears now that the following is the rectified statement. Burnt down:—81 streets; 120 courts; 1,992 houses, and 1,716 dwelling floors (Eiages, Sahle); 498 cottages; 468 dwelling cellars; 21,526 inhabitants roof-less; 3 churches; 2 synagogues; 3 watermills, with 36 wheels; the spinmills and suchmills, with their churches (houses of correction); the detentions house; the senate house; the oil exchange—N. B. The new Exchange, only built last year, is saved, and after a few days' repairing, in use again; the Rimbeck house, containing court of commerce, court of common pleas, with offices; the custom-house offices, the stamp offices, the lottery saloon, the citizen guard officers, and other public offices; the Bank; a great many, and all of the largest hotels, and all the libraries. 3,786,300 square feet is the superficial extent of the burnt portion of the city.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The Baltimore papers contain an account of the explosion of a steam-vessel on the waters of the Chesapeake, by which forty persons have been killed and wounded.
The vessel was quite new. So many accidents of the nature occur in America, that it is quite evident that they are the result of sheer carelessness in the majority of cases.

The advices from the United States by the Great Western are more encouraging than we have been accustomed to for some time past. The presence of Lord Ashburton seems to have thrown oil at once upon the troubled waters; and the boundary question, as well as the right of search dispute, are said to be in a fair way to arrangement.

In the Court of General Sessions at Philadelphia,
Judge Barton delivered the opinion of the court, Judge Conrad concurring, in the matter charging Messrs Biddle, Cowperthwait, and Andrews, with a conspiracy to cheat, &c., discharging them for want of probable cause.
Judge Doran dissented from the opinion of the majority of the court.

Mr C. Dickens and his lady were at Cincinnati, on the 18th of April, on their way to Niagara.

RIGHT REV. DR. ENGLAND.—The American papers mention the death of this celebrated Roman Catholic prelate on the 11th of April, on the 65th year of his age.
He died of inflammation in the intestines; but notwithstanding the pain he suffered, he addressed for half an hour a large number of his flock assembled round his bed two days before his decease.

An article in the Leipzig Gazette states, "That General Count Paskewich, brother of the Prince of Warsaw, is to be charged with a mission to Persia and India."

ATTACK ON HER MAJESTY'S SHIP "PANTALON."
Letters from the coast of Africa to the 26th of March, state that the Pantolon, 10, Lieutenant Lapidge, in going out of the Gambia, got high and dry on a treacherous bank, and was obliged to raft her guns to get her off. During this operation one hundred and fifty armed natives in ten canoes pushed off to secure their prize, and on their opponents having showed hostile intentions, while the able seamen were engaged with the raft at some distance, and none but lads on board and two guns, these protected themselves until the sailors in the boats from the raft dashed in among them, and with Jack's usual bravery, hurled a lot of them in o the sea, and made twenty-three prisoners, who are now at the Gambia waiting a negotiation with their King. At the time the attack was made upon the brig, fourteen armed canoes were ready to push off, but as soon as they saw the fate of their companions they shrunk from a second attempt.

ASSAM COMPANY.—The annual meeting of the shareholders in this company was held at the London Tavern on the 13th ultimo, to receive a report from the Court of Directors, the election of directors, &c. The deputy chairman of the company presided. The Chairman commented upon various parts of the report, in explanation of portions of its contents. The quantity of land suitable for the cultivation of that plant contained in the company's grant was 25,774 poorahs (the poorah is equal to 52,900 square feet), and upon an average each would have 1,600 plants capable of yielding 400 lbs. of tea. In five years the plants arrived at full produce. It was estimated that, including the produce of 1845, there will have been made 850,000lbs. from the lands now in cultivation. This, at an average of 2s per lb., would realise £85,000, from which must be deducted the expenditure of the company. The annual value of the teas produced in 1845, from the land now in cultivation, would be £32,000, and the annual charge £23,100, leaving a balance of £8,900. The produce of teas in 1840 was 10,000 lbs.; in 1841, 30,000 lbs.; this year, the estimated produce will be 80,000 lbs.; in 1843, 160,000 lbs.; in 1844, 240,000 lbs.; and in 1845, 320,000 lbs. The Government of India had shown little disposition to extend the land belonging to the company, being fearful of monopoly. There had been tea districts discovered in Assam which, if cultivated, were sufficient to supply the whole world with tea. Very voluminous correspondence had just been received from Assam, and the searching question but confirmed the correctness of the estimated yearly produce, which, at the end of 1845, would very considerably exceed 850,000 lbs. of tea. As to the new tariff, the Directors expected a concession would have been made in favour of tea, especially as the duty on coffee was to be reduced, and as the directors were subjected to an export duty of 3s. per cent on the leaf at Calcutta. They were told, however, by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, that tea was a new export from India, and their request was not complied with. With respect to the Act of Incorporation, the directors would continue their exertions to obtain it. When the produce of the year 1841 shall have been realised, supposing the proceeds to correspond in relative amount to the returns from the crop of 1840, it will be proper to declare a dividend upon the stock of the company."

NEW FORTRESS GUNS.

Very considerable curiosity and interest have been recently excited amongst persons conversant with ordnance, by the arrival at the Royal Arsenal of two pieces of cannon of immense size and weight, which have been cast at the celebrated gun foundry of Messrs Walker, at Gospel Oak, in Staffordshire, and are intended, we have been informed, with others of similar dimensions, for the defence of Alexandria. Since their arrival these guns have been inspected and proved; and we understand, notwithstanding their cumbersome proportions, their accuracy, both externally and internally, have rarely been surpassed. The drawing for these guns was made by Mr. Monk, of the Royal Arsenal, and will, no doubt, add to his well deserved celebrity as a constructor of iron ordnance.

To gratify the curiosity which these enormous implements of war must necessarily create, we have endeavoured to obtain some particulars of the dimensions, &c., which we subjoin:—

Calibre.....	10 inches.
Length.....	12½ feet.
Largest diameter.....	39 inches.
Weight of gun.....	11 tons.
Ditto of shot.....	130 lbs.
Proof charge.....	45 lbs. of powder.
Service ditto.....	30 lbs.

In order to afford those of our readers who are unacquainted with ordnance some idea of the magnitude of these guns, it may be well to mention that guns generally in use in the British navy weigh from two to three tons, and throw a shot of 32 lbs.; others of a larger calibre have, of late years, been introduced, especially for the armament of steam ships; and some guns intended for this service have, we understand, been recently delivered from the same foundry, which weigh 114 cwt, and carry a shot of 88 lbs.

TROOPS FOR INDIA.—The following ships have sailed from Gravesend for Bengal, Bombay, Madras, and Calcutta, with troops for India:—The Awa, capt. Griffiths; Melish, capt. Fawcett; Mermaid, capt. Kyle; Rajahm, capt. Stewart; Berkshire, capt. Norris; Ingliu, capt. Isaacson; and the Margaret, capt. Joyce. These ships carry out nearly 1,600 troops. The two first divisions of the 9th Lancers disembarked on the 10th ultimo from the City of Canterbury, and are quartered in the town and surrounding neighbourhood, where they will remain until embarkation.

Our readers must have remarked the restoration of capt. Reynolds, formerly of Lord Cardigan's regiment, to the service, he having been gazetted to a troop of the 9th Lancers. As the almost immediate retirement of this officer has led to a general impression that the restoration was merely temporary, and in order to enable him to retire by the sale of his commission, we feel it due to Lord Hill to state that the restoration of captain Reynolds to the service was unaccompanied by any condition whatsoever. The retirement of that officer was therefore his own voluntary act, uninfluenced by the Horse Guards authorities. Under the circumstances of his case, the sale of the commission must have been at the regulation price only—£3,225.—Observer.

THE STEAM FRIGATE "AKBAR."—This vessel having undergone many alterations, may now be styled a complete and efficient vessel of war. She left the river on the 18th, and Falmouth on the 29th ult., bearing the pendant of Commodore Pepper, of the Indian navy, who will assume the command of all the Company's ships of war serving in China, under Admiral Sir W. Parker. The Akbar is a steam-frigate of the first class, armed with two eight inch guns, and four long 32 pounders, with a complement of 160 men; carrying five boats, on two of which are mounted brass 18lb. howitzers. The engines are of the collective power of 350 horses, manufactured by Napier of Glasgow, with four copper boilers of about seven tons each. She carries 500 tons of coal, which will enable her to steam twenty successive days. The officers' accommodations are very superior; and the apartments allotted to the Commodore are of such a magnificent description as would reconcile even a landman to a life at sea. The armoury is filled up with 100 percussion muskets, pistols, cutlasses, musketoons, &c. The liberality and taste displayed by the Court of Directors in fitting out the Akbar, is worthy the highest praise, especially the extensive and valuable library supplied for the use of the officers and crew; indeed, throughout this vessel, the greatest care has been observed to render her complete in every department, and reflects great credit on the parties concerned.

Benjamin Chimmio, Esq., secretary to Vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., and Richard M. Wichelo, Esq., purser of his Majesty's ship Blenheim, are appointed prize agents for the naval captures in China.

WAR-OFFICE, MAY 18.

98th Foot—Lieut. Daniel Rainier to be Capt., b. p. v. Gavin who ret.; Ens. Francis Peyton to be Lieut., b. p. v. Rainier; George Caldwell Dickens, Gent., to be Ens., b. p. v. Peyton; Gent. Cadet Thomas Robert McCoy, fr. Roy. Mil. Col., to be Ens., w. p. v. Dickens; sp. 21st Foot.

55th Foot—William John James Smith, Gent., to be Ens., w. p. v. Crowe, pr. 86th Foot; Edward John Thomas Montrose, Gent., to be Ens., F. S. Danbony to be Lieut., b. p. v. Wedderburn, ap. to 9th Lieut. Drago; Assist.-Surg. W. Arden, fr. Staff, to be Assist.-Surg., v. Sinclair, pr. to Staff-Surg. of Second Class, b. p. v. Danbony, pr.

26th—Capt. Whittingham to be A. D. C. to Lieut.-Gen. Sir H. Gough.

55th—Depôt-Assist.-Surg. Smith, M. D.; is under orders for embarkation. Gave 24 volunteers to the 10th Regt.

NAVAL OBITUARY.

DEATH OF REAR ADMIRAL SMOLLETT.—This gallant and venerable officer, one of the veteran heroes of the last war, died at Edinburgh on the 4th ult., at an advanced age. He was promoted to the rank of Post Captain in 1804, and obtained his rank as Rear Admiral, 10th January 1837. On the retired list, but was subsequently removed to the active list, taking rank next to Rear Admiral Skipsy, and his commission dated 1840. He succeeded to the estate on the death of his brother, Colonel Smollett, M. P., who was killed at the siege of Helder in 1799. The deceased married, 1800, Miss Royle, a sister of the present Lord President, by whom he leaves a family. He is succeeded by his son Alexander Smollett, Esq., present Member for the county of Dumfries.

ADMIRAL HALL.—We regret to announce the demise, on the 11th ult., at the residence of Dr. M'Caragher, at Chichester, of Admiral Hall, Vice Admiral of the Red, in the 77th year of his age.

BOMBAY.

From the Bombay Times, 29th June.

DESTRUCTION OF THE SHIP "ABELAIDE" BY FIRE.—We this day so'night gave an account of an attempt which had been made to destroy the ship ABELAIDE by fire, which had fortunately been detected in time and frustrated. The incendiaries have persevered however in their purposes, and their diabolical labours have now been crowned with success. Early on Monday morning the alarm of fire was given from this vessel, then at her anchors full of cargo, and ready to sail for Siam next tide. The utmost promptitude was manifested by all the authorities: the Superintendent of the L. N., and the Chief Magistrate of Police &c. were almost immediately at the spot to render any assistance in their power. The small fire-engine from the Hutings was not into operation, and for a time partially kept down the flames; but some alarm being entertained for the explosion of the powdermagazine, the stern port was opened to get out the powder; when the fire, invigorated by the admission of air, quickly gained uncontrollable ascendancy. The Captain was the only European belonging to the ship; and he, with the utmost promptitude and prudence, clapped sail upon her, and ran her ashore near the Apollo pier-head about 50 yards from the remains of the Cornwallis, which had been destroyed in a similar manner a fortnight before. This was the very best thing that could have been done under the circumstances; the tide was then ebbing, and so soon as low water approached, a large scuttie was made in the ship's side, and numerous shot fired into her by a gunboat close at hand. Of course nothing could be done to mitigate the fury of the flames till the tide rose again, when the ship filled through the scuttie holes, and by 2 o'clock P. M. nothing but her gunwales were visible—the fire having of course become completely extinguished. The alarm was given about 3 o'clock A. M., and she was run ashore a little after 5. The hull was insured, but not the cargo. This consisted of Cotton and Cotton-yarn, piece goods, &c.—a small portion of which is now being got out in a miserably damaged condition. By running the Abelaide ashore and a sinking her, not only were the ships in the harbour relieved of the alarm and annoyance they sustained in the case of the Peninsular and Cornwallis, of having a huge fire raft which might at any time break loose and drift up amongst them for several days in the immediate neighbourhood,—but more, of the vessel; as well as of the cargo, had a chance of being saved, than by any other means.

When the Peninsular was burnt, it was generally said amongst the natives that four other vessels were marked out for the incendiary; and of the five believed to have been destined by microdots to destruction, three have already perished; and notwithstanding that a reward of Rs. 5,000 has been offered for the detection of the culprits, no evidence sufficient to convict any individual has yet transpired. When the ramour ran, on the evening of the 10th, that a vessel was on fire, and before the smoke or flames became conspicuous, or any one suspected what the name of the ship was, believed to be in danger, a boat which had put off from a vessel far down the harbour was directed by a Kallianee on-board, that it was the Cornwallis which was on fire; the information proved correct! The circumstance was noticed to the authorities, but nothing came out of it,—though few things were more calculated to excite suspicion.

CANDAHAR.—We have letters from Candahar of the 2nd June. Kelat-i-Ghilzie had been dismantled; and the troops, with the guns and stores, were on their way back under convoy of Wymer's Brigade. This is very much as we expected, and is the first of our retrograde movements. It seems to be apprehended that, before our final retirement, we may be annoyed by many such attacks as that just repelled by us; yet the enemy would appear to have much more reason than we have to look with alarm or aversion to encounter.

The following particulars of the engagement of the 29th, are furnished by a Scinde correspondent:—

Letters dated 30th May from Candahar, mention, that on the 29th a Dooranee Army under Ukur Khan, mustering, Horse and Foot, some 6000, crossed the Ughandah, and came down close to Candahar. Their position was good and some of their points strong, but they had no reserves and were somewhat scattered. General Nott sent the 42d and 43d Regiments with 4 guns, under Col. Stacey, to reconnoitre, who were followed by H. M. 41st and Anderson's eight guns. At one o'clock the force was in action. The Dooraees crowned the rocks above the city, and on them our force marched,—the light companies as a storming party, supported by the 43d and the Artillery, who kept up a continual fire. From the position of the enemy, and the character of the ground, some loss followed, about 30 killed or wounded, and some seven or eight Europeans. Nothing could have been better done it seems; and Chamberlain of the 10th distinguished himself highly by getting up to the enemy, breaking their ranks with his men, and driving them from the Hills. Matters, however, did not end here; but after this the Hills on the opposite side were covered by large masses of the Dooraees; who, however, soon gave way, and in great disorder all fled, striving to gain the Behawullee pass. A horrible scene however ensued here. Thinking to entrap us, the Ghazees had barricaded the pass, and the Dooraees, Horse and Foot, unable to make way, rushed round the base of the Hills. Here chase was given by Chamberlain and the guns in splendid style; but unhappily he was here severely wounded by a dagger-thrust in the thigh. Mahomed Atta was at the head of a large number of the enemy, and fought desperately; he is now missing, and was reported killed. The Dooraees were driven completely down their position, and fled to their camp beyond the Ughandah. Here, on the 30th, they were followed by a fresh body of troops, under Col. Stacey, on whose appearance they broke up their camp, and fled to the Northern Hills; the enemy's loss is about 400 killed and wounded. This was a desperate struggle of Ukur Khan's and our conquest was too complete to leave him any hope of having another fight for his own interest.

Lieut. Chamberlain of the 16th, and Capt. Mainwaring of the 43rd, only are spoken of as wounded.

General Nott was delayed at Candahar, and has returned orders to destroy the Fort of Kelat-i-Ghilzie, which he seems to feel some reluctance at.

Major Outram arrived at Smake on the 7th of June, having felt little annoyance from the boats of Cutch.

Our Infantry and Guns, with the energy of their attack, seem to have astonished the Dooraees. The Parsooan house, under their brave leader Agha Mahomed, also did great execution, and were very instrumental in destroying the positions of, and following on, the enemy; much more would have been done at the Babawille pass, but for the winded condition of the horses."

We subjoin the following notice of the same subject, extracted from the Delhi Gazette Extraordinary of the 16th June:—

"The enemy thought to catch our General napping, so they assembled all the force they could from the surrounding country, to the number of perhaps 8000 horse and foot, and this morning boldly crossed the river, and advanced towards the city, apparently determined to do or die. The 42nd and 43rd Native Infantry, with four of Anderson's guns were sent out under Colonel Stacy, just to keep the enemy amused till the General had pulled on his boots, which being satisfactorily accomplished, the old Gentlemen rode out with H. M. 41st, 8 more of Anderson's guns and the few irregular horse, about 300, he had with him. On seeing what the enemy were about, he at once made up his mind what to do, ordered up the Light Bobs from the three Regiments to storm some strong heights which were occupied in force by the enemy's footmen, 600 (or 8,000) it is supposed. On went the storming party supported by the 43rd and the fire of our guns; we lost some 30 wounded, including six Europeans; but the enemy could not stand us; away they fled down the other side, but only to fall into the hands of that gallant young man Chamberlain of the Irregular horse, who dashed at the retreating footmen as they entered the plains. Thus was the principal part of the fight, which had commenced at 1 P.M.; some skirmishing subsequently occurred, in which Mahomed Atta barely escaped being captured. Had the 3rd Cavalry been with the General instead of with Wymer, the enemy would have left a few more widows.

"We have not received any direct account of the victory attributed to Colonel Wymer; and from the expression in the above letter respecting the Bombay 3d Cavalry, we are strongly inclined to believe the impression on our mind, expressed yesterday, is founded on good grounds."

From the Bombay Courier, 14th June.

ADDRESS TO JAMES MATHESON ESQUIRE.—At a very numerous and highly influential meeting of the friends and constituents of Mr. MATHESON, held yesterday evening at the House of Sir JAMES JESSEBHOY, within the Fort, the following most gratifying address was read to that gentleman by BOMANJEE HORMUSJEE. Most gratifying, because, whether we regard Mr. MATHESON's character in a commercial or philanthropic point of view, it equally merits our highest esteem and admiration. It is upon such characters as his, that our true commercial greatness is based;—the liberality and munificence of such men as he, first originated the proud epithet of "Merchant Princes" amongst whom he stands deservedly conspicuous.

All right thinking men will cordially concur with those who addressed Mr. Matheson, in wishing him speedy and complete restoration to health, and the enjoyment of every happiness on his return to his native land. It must be especially gratifying to Mr. Matheson, to receive the address under the roof of his old and valued friend, Sir James J. Born far apart, educated under different systems, professions totally dissimilar creeds of faith, still are they twin brothers in the benevolent affections of the heart.

The meeting having assembled Francis Cowasjee Esq. rose and spoke as follows:

Mr. MATHESON.—Your friends and constituents are sincerely concerned to hear of your intended departure for England, and they are anxious to express to you the grateful feelings they entertain for your acts of kindness and liberal consideration towards them and which they have embodied in the address which our friend Bomanjee Hormusjee will now read to you.

BOMANJEE HORMUSJEE Esquire proceeded to read the following address.

Dear Sir,—We cannot regard your return to England without feelings of the deepest interest and most lively regret, more particularly as we learn that an impaired state of health is the occasion of our losing so firm and steadfast a friend as you have shown yourself to be to the merchants of Bombay during times of unparalleled difficulty and danger. During a period of now nearly three years since when the regular Trade with China had been suspended, we are able, without fear of contradiction to assert that it has mainly been by your firmness, skill and unflinching perseverance, that either an Import or Export Trade has been carried on. After the surrender of the Opium in 1839 to Captain Elliot for the service of Her Britannic Majesty's Government, by which capital amounted to upwards of two millions sterling was suddenly withdrawn from India, the Merchants of Bombay were absolutely paralyzed, and consequences most fatal must have ensued, but for your noble intrepidity, when throwing aside all timid doubts, you generously came forward with advances, both for the purpose of affording immediate relief to your constituents in India, and for providing the means of carrying on the Trade in Ships under foreign flags, greatly at your own risk and responsibility altho' for the use and benefit of your constituents. When we ask ourselves what would have been our situation, had not your grasp of mind increased this plan, we cannot but freely admit the deep debt of gratitude we owe you. Our ships with their Cotton cargoes would have lain rotting in the outer waters and our whole prospects and fortunes as merchants would have been annihilated. It is natural therefore for us who have received so many and such vast benefits from your judgment and cool determination to endeavor to convey to you the high estimation in which we hold your character and the deep sense of gratitude we entertain for your many acts of kindness and unsolicited liberality. We further gladly avail ourselves of this opportunity to record, that in our dealings with you we have ever received the most liberal consideration, and that we have never yet made any reasonable request that has not been cheerfully met on your part.

Our best wishes will always attend you thro' life, and as means of keeping alive in your recollection the remembrance of those good wishes and the gratitude of your Bombay Friends, we have requested our much valued friends Messrs. Maguire Jardine and Co. to present to you on your arrival in England, a service of Plate of the value of £ which we beg of you to accept as an offering of our sincere respect.

On the conclusion of the above address Mr. MATHESON returned his thanks for the honor conferred upon him in the following words:—

My Dear Sirs.—The address which I have just had the gratification to receive from you is so kind and flattering, the offering accompanying it so magnificent and the honor it confers upon me so greatly beyond my humble deserts, that I am really overpowered and at a loss for words to express how deeply grateful I am. I can with truth assert that the services which your partiality so greatly over-values were nothing more than are due from a commercial agent to his constituents. That you should have thought them worthy of so proud, so numerated a distinction I can only attribute to the kindness and generosity of disposition characteristic of your country, a disposition ever ready to put the most favorable construction on the actions of those who are entrusted with your commercial interests and which long experience enables me to say renders it doubly pleasing to have the good fortune of being so employed. It gives the Agent an assurance that his exertions, even when unsuccessful as he sometimes must be, will, when his intentions are good, be ever regarded by you, with indulgence and favour in lieu of being cavilled at, (as is sometimes seen elsewhere) with attempts to make him responsible for results beyond his control. This liberal confidence it is, which tends more than any thing else to strengthen an agent's hands; and it was our firm's long experience of it, on your parts, which enabled us to act as we did on the occasion you refer to, of Capt. Elliot's Suspension of British trade in 1839. But I repeat the value of those services is greatly over rated by your too kind partiality. We were guided by the simple rule of doing for our Constituents as we should for ourselves; and as the emergency was of an extraordinary nature, it became necessary to meet it by remedial measures equally unusual in the conduct of which I but acted my part in common with the other members of our firm. The gratification which a testimonial from so numerous a body of merchants would under any circumstances have afforded is in this case greatly heightened when I contemplate the many excellencies of character displayed by those whom I have now the happiness to see around me. Your munificent charities, inextinguishable works for supplying the poor with the most essential of all wants water, in building places of worship, and Hospitals, as well as Schools and Colleges, for diffusing the knowledge and Science of the western world. Your liberal support, in fact of every Institution calculated to do good are known to all. But I recur with still greater admiration to the current of private and unknown charity which regularly emanates from every one of you, in an extent of which I am persuaded there is no conception in Europe and which is the more commendable as its only reward in this world is the approval of your own consciences and of the unseen Being who governs the Universe. It were an endless theme, however, were I to go on dilating on the many estimable qualities of the Native Merchants of Bombay, I shall only add the high gratification afforded to me, in common with all your European friends, by the circumstance of these virtues having at length attracted the notice of our most Gracious Sovereign, on the high honor recently conferred on a distinguished member of your body. We hail it as an important step towards more thoroughly amalgamating the interest of the Indian and British races, to the great benefit of both, and I trust it is but the prelude to a wider extension among you of similar and higher honors.

It only remains for me to express, however inadequately, my deep felt gratitude for the honor you have done me, and for your kind wishes on my behalf. Your splendid testimonial of regard, valuable as it is itself will be infinitely more so on account of the Honors. It shall be preserved with pride all my days and will be carefully cherished as an heirloom by those who may come after me. But be assured such memorial was required to keep you always in my grateful and cordial remembrance.

What fate may be in store for me is uncertain, but whether in China or in Britain or elsewhere, I hope you will one and all of you consider me as one of the most devoted of your friends, and that you will never hesitate to command my service whenever they can be in any way useful.

Accept best wishes for the utmost prosperity and happiness to one and all of you.

(The list of subscribers which for want of space we do not copy contains 80 names of native Bombay merchants and the sum subscribed amount to Rs. 15,459)

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 13th Aug. 1842.

We have had no news this week from any part of the world, later than we were in possession of at the time of our last issue; we have extracted from European and Indian papers—here there is nothing new whatever.

We understand private letters to have been received here from France stating that M. Sévère has been nominated French Consul General for China with a salary of 40,000 francs.

The Hongmerchants we understand say that accounts have been received from the northward, according to which the British force was anchored near Nanking, and that at the request of Elepro a truce of 30 days had been agreed to, to enable him to report to the Emperor and await his answer. The same account states that 20 of the English ships had sailed to the northward of Pootien in the gulph of Pecheloo.

The first part of this report is similar to what we heard about a fortnight since, and then mentioned as a rumour merely, and it is possible that what is now said is nothing more than a refranchimento of it; and we hope it may be thus, for we can hardly believe that H. M. Plenipotentiary would listen to any proposal for a truce until after Nanking was in possession of the British. It is, we believe, according to the modern practice of war, not usual for belligerents to remain inactive while negotiations for peace are being carried on—on the contrary, to hasten these to a favorable and speedy issue, the armies during that time, more perhaps than at any other, exert themselves to obtain some signal advantage over their respective adversaries, by which the final conclusion of peace may be as advantageous as possible to one or the other. We cannot therefore believe that the British force would again stop short of striking a great blow, such as the occupation of the city of Nanking, merely because Elepro the Imperial Commissioner had signified to Sir Henry Pottinger his desire of communicating with the Emperor; this would be a repetition of the manner in which the war was carried on under the orders of Capt. Elliot, and is likely to be no more successful. The object of the Chinese, who we believe to be no more willing now to make concessions than heretofore, is by delay and by apparent willingness to treat, to weaken the strength of their enemy, to whose enormous expenses every day of useless procrastination adds not a small item.

We confess we are very uneasy at this report, the correctness of which we heard that some Chinese, usually well informed, denied, and anxiously wait for authentic accounts from the force, which are now no later than of the 26th June, when it was about leaving the Wusung river to ascend the Yangtze-kiang.

From an extract from the Peking Gazette, we have copied from the Friend of China, it will be seen that the Emperor orders the Hoppo to enforce from the Hongmerchants the sums of money he has been in the habit of lending them. We, not any one else here, have ever heard of the Hoppo habitually or even occasionally lending money to the Hongmerchants, although they may now and then be slow in paying the imports and export duties. We therefore suppose that this imperial order must have reference to the 4 millions of dollars which the provincial government is understood to have paid of the Canton ransom money, and which at the time of payment they reported to the Emperor as an advance made to the Hongmerchants. If indeed this sum is redemanded from them they will have to make large profits on their trade to fill the gap.

The Emperor, to judge from an Extract from the Peking Gazette is very much enraged at the cowardly conduct of his officers and soldiers, and while he disgraces the former, he condemns to death all the latter that have fled or may still fly from before their enemies. The immense numbers of the guilty must necessarily render this threat of no effect, and may not therefore cause better conduct for the future. Indeed the Chinese are so badly armed and disciplined, that however great their numbers, they cannot stand against European troops, and the demonstration of any great degree of valour would only draw down upon them certain destruction. The Chinese moreover, if not the words, well know the truth of the axiom of Hudibras.

"That he who fights and runs away,
May live to fight another day."

We have once or twice had occasion to observe that the injudicious puffing of the new settlement of Hongkong, in which our contemporary the Friend of China is too much in the habit of indulging, was likely to mislead the public as to the real merits and present circumstances of that place, and we now find that we were but too well justified, as we are informed that people, allured by the bright pictures set before their eyes of the prosperity of Hongkong, have left their business elsewhere, to seek their fortune on that barren island, from which many will have to return woefully disappointed. It is very true that a large expenditure of the government drew towards Hongkong a great number of Chinese artisans and traders; roads were constructed, and houses and godowns built both on public and private account; the demands of a large fleet had to be supplied, and it was expected that the sanction of the British Government for the permanent occupation of the Island would not long be withheld. There was therefore at one time an appearance of prosperity, caused by this great expenditure; and this was very likely to mislead people who did not enquire into the causes of such success; now experience has taught us that the money hitherto expended has been without returns; there is no trade at Hongkong worth speaking of, and the uncertainty of its retention by the British government has made people more cautious, and no new buildings are now begun. Canton, being open to the foreign trade, it will continue to be centered there, and since the Expedition has sailed for the northward we understand that many of the shopkeepers have left Hongkong, and others are leaving daily. We assure our readers that we have no ill will to that settlement on the contrary, we wish it all reasonable success, but we think it to be our duty to the public, to state the real circumstances, that it may not be led away by too highly colored accounts. The readers of the Friend of China will have seen that paper recommend the rearing of the South American Camels, that Hongkong may supply China with Camels; the growth and manufacture of Sugar and Ginger there are recommended; extract of Sarsaparilla from Hongkong is to supplant that from Mexico in the London market; Manila Segars are to be manufactured on the Island; and last of all the place is to be made a centre for the whaling industry, in support of which last speculation, our contemporary informs us that he has heard from an old resident (?) that he has actually seen a sperm whale at no great distance from the island. These and other speculations, which may proceed from a too sanguine temper, although on the spot they may be harmless, from people being well informed of the circumstances and capabilities of the place, are calculated to do much mischief abroad to others who have not the same means of information, and who are therefore inclined to trust what is, apparently, in so serious manner put forward in a print which seems to have the sanction of the Hongkong Government.

The object of the petition which a fortnight since we stated to have been addressed to the Viceroy of Canton by American and British merchants, praying for the admission of foreigners' wives to Canton has met with a peremptory refusal, and a reprimand to the Hong merchants for having presented it.

London, 17th March, 1842.

WILLIAM LESLIE, Esq.

Secretary to the committee for the testimonial to Captain Smith and Warren, R. N.

SIR,—We have now to inform you that the instructions contained in your letter to us of the 30th December 1840, have been complied with, as far as regards Capt. Warren, to whom we had the gratification of presenting a handsome service of plate value four hundred guineas on the 10th Inst., as you will observe by the copy of our letter to him upon the occasion, which we annex. With the exception of the Centre piece, the different articles supplied by Messrs Rundell and Bridge, were chosen by Capt. Warren, and as tastes differ so much in these matters, we propose that Capt. Smith should have the same opportunity of selecting such things as he may fancy, a course which we hope your committee will approve. We beg to hand you the account which has been rendered to us by Messrs Rundell and Bridge, and Capt. West, of the Anna Maria, has undertaken the care of a tribute to your address, which contains a drawing of the Centre piece, which we think, it will be satisfactory to you to have.

We are sir,

Your very obedient servants,
W. JARDINE.
W. WALLACE.

London, 10th March, 1842.

Captain William Warren R. N. & C. B. & C. & C.

Dear Sir,—We some time since informed you that Mr. Robert Inglis and ourselves had been deputed by the British residents in China to purchase for, and present to you, a service of plate which they had voted in testimony of their esteem, and the grateful remembrance they preserved of your general attention to their interests, while commanding H. M. Ship Hyacinth in China waters, during the trying and eventful season of 1839-40.

We have now the pleasure of intimating to you that the plate in question is completed, and you will perhaps oblige us by saying to what address you wish it to be sent, and when it may suit your convenience to receive it, that we may direct Messrs Rundell and Bridge accordingly.

We feel much pleased that our friends in China have employed us in this matter, since it affords us the opportunity of adding our own good wishes to theirs, that you may be blessed with a long course of health and prosperity.

We regret to add that in consequence of his severe illness, Mr. Inglis has been unable to cooperate with us.

We remain,

Dear Sir, your very sincere friends,
(Signed) WILLIAM JARDINE
WILLIAM WALLACE.

*This Service of Plate was presented to Commander William Warren R. N.
of H. M. S. Hyacinth
by a numerous body of the British merchants in China
as a mark of their Esteem
and in testimony of their high sense of the zeal and ability displayed by him while employed upon the Station as the sole commander of Captain Henry Smith G. B.
during the eventful season of 1839-40.*

*This Service of Plate was presented to Captain Henry Smith R. N. C. B.
of H. M. S. Druid,
by a numerous body of the British merchants in China
as a mark of their Esteem
and in testimony of their high sense of the energy ability and judgment displayed by him in the performance of the arduous duties devolving upon him as Senior Officer
throughout a period of danger and peculiar difficulty during the eventful season 1839-40.*

From the Friend of China, Aug. 4

THE PROVINCIAL TREASURER OF CANTON.—The Hoppon, Comptroller of the Canton Customs represents to the Court that the Provincial Treasurer has been in the habit for several years of loaning out the public funds on interest to the Hong merchants, but that there is such tardiness in refunding that the arrears become matter of pressing importance. The Emperor in accordance with the Hoppon's suggestions, issues his stern commands, to the Governor and Lieut. Governor ordering them to have the necessary collection immediately made.

MILITARY REVIEW.—The Emperor has recently summoned to the Capital, three large divisions of the troops from Teentsin, and in person conducted a grand review of the whole. With the condition and various evolutions of the force, His Majesty expresses himself highly pleased, promotes the Officers and causes money to be distributed among the soldiers.

THE REVENUE.—The usual revenues derived from salt, lands, and merchandise, in the Province of Keangnan have this year proved greatly deficient, on reaching Peking. The Emperor orders the Governor of the Province forthwith to send up the lacking amount, and disgraces the Chief Collector of the taxes.

ARREST OF THE COMMANDER IN CHIEF IN CHE-KANG.—The Emperor is aroused to highest indignation, at the loss of the various positions in Che-keang and attributes all to the timidity and cowardice of the Commander-in-chief, Yu-poo-yun, who is represented as the first to flee from the scene of action. His Majesty, therefore, issues his stern commands for the immediate arrest of the said high officer, ordering him to be put in chains and brought to the Capital by an official escort, without delay. His Majesty also, in the same document, orders all the officers and troops, who fled before the barbarians, to be forthwith put to death. For the fulfilment of this latter command, it will surely be very difficult to find executioners, tens of thousands having fled before the British arms.

FALL OF CHAPPOO AND DISGRACE OF YIH KING AND COLLEAGUES.—On the 15th day of the 4th moon (24th May 1842) the imperial commands were received as follows: Yih King and colleagues have sent up a memorial regarding the insurrectionary proceedings of the rebellious barbarians and the loss of Chappoo.

The rebels having retired from Ningpoo, hastily collected their ships together, and set sail for Chappoo which they attacked and laid waste. These general officers, Yih King and others, had not previously arranged the proper business of preparation and defence, and consequently Chappoo was lost. Let therefore, Yih King, Wan wei, Tih a sun, and Law yun o, be delivered over to the board of punishment, that deliberations may be held for awarding them punishment of extremest rigor.—Respect this.

From the Canton Register, Aug. 9.

Peking Gazette, 4th moon, 17th day, (26th May)

The following imperial edict has been received.

Yihking and his colleagues have reported concerning the eminent danger of the provincial city of the province of Chekeang, (Hangchowfoo) and the city of Keahing; and on reading the report, my grief and indignation are extreme. According to the report Chappoo is already lost; and the barbarians are approaching the provincial capital; the domain of the city is very extensive; and the rebellious barbarians have built small vessels which enter everywhere among the shallows. The two best districts of Pinghoo and Hooshang, in the Foo department of Keahing, are in the most eminent danger. One thousand men have been sent from the provinces of Shense and Kansuh, and are ordered to maintain those places; when the troops arrive from the provinces of Honan and Kwangsi, they will be detained for the defence of those districts; and so forth.

This important and pressing despatch has been brought at the rate of 600 li a day. Now the mid general and his colleagues have consulted and determined that one of their number shall remain to keep Tsookwang, while all the rest of the troops should be sent to protect the other place. The said great minister and his colleagues must turn their thought—dismiss their fears—to ensure peace, and so tranquillize the people's minds; and they should sternly and strictly order the officers and soldiers to exert their utmost strength in defending the country. As to the adjutant general, Ahikokino, who has been wounded, how is he at present? Let a clear examination be made into these matters, and a duly prepared report sent up. Respect this.

On the 17th day of the 6th moon (July 24) a despatch arrived in Canton from the privy council, which when opened by the general, was found to contain the following imperial edict.

An individual has reported that the rebellious barbarians have usurped possession of the dependency of the been district of Kwangtung, (Heang-keang Hongkong) the "fragrant streams," and have built houses &c. with intention of retaining constant possession—why has not this affair been clearly looked into and taken care of?

An imperial edict of the 16th of the 5th moon (June 4th) confers various honours on some of the Hong merchants and others; we will translate it for our next number.

By J. S., Ed. C. R.

On Board the Moira,
Hongkong, 31st July, 1842.

Division Orders issued by Major General G. Burrell, c. m. Commanding at Hongkong.

No. 1.—In conformity to Instructions received from His Excellency, the Lieutenant General Commanding, Lieut. Col. Taylor will assume the command of the Forces in Hongkong, in place of Major General Burrell, removed by promotion, taking effect to-morrow, 1st August. All reports in future to be made to the Lieut. Colonel.

2.—In resigning the Command of the Troops, Major General Burrell begs to express to them his thanks for their general good conduct, he regrets that sickness to a considerable extent has prevailed during the last month, but most sincerely hopes those in Hospital will speedily recover. To all he wishes honour, health, and happiness, and strongly recommends them to avoid exposure to the sun, and a pernicious spirit called Shamsoo, which has already proved destructive to many.

(By order) Signed J. P. MITFORD,
Major of Brigade.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
IN THE YANG-YUKI-KANG, CHUSAN, CHINBAR, &c.
H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72. capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer

" Blonde, 42. Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, c. m.
" Thalia, 44. capt. Hope
" Endymion, 44. " the honble F. W. Grey.
" Calliope, 28. " A. L. Kuper,
" North Star, 26. " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
" Herald, 26. " J. Nias, c. m.
" Dido, 20. " the honble H. Keppell.
" Pelican, 18. " Napier.
" Modeste, 18. comr. Watson.
" Harlequin, 18. " the honble F. Hastings.
" Columbine, 16. " Morhead.
" Childers, 16. " Halsted.
" Clio, 16. " E. Troubridge.
" Wanderer, 16. " Freemantle.
" Algerine, 10. lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.
" Royalist, 10. " Chetwood.
" Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

Surveying ships,
" Starling, 6. comr. Kellett.
" Lady Bentinck, 6. Collinson.
TROOPSHIPS,
" Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.
" Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
" Sapphire, " Cole.
" Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
" Rattlesnake,
" Alligator,

STREAMERS.
H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,
" Sesostris, comr. Ormsby,
" Auckland, " Ethersey, I. N.
" Tenasserim, " Wall, I. N.
" Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
" Plato, " Tudor, R. N.
" Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
" Medusa, " Hewett, I. N.
" Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
" Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.
" Memnon, " Powell.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
" Driver, " Farmer.

AT AMOY.

H.M.S. Cambrian, 36. capt. Chads, c. m. senior commanding officer.
" Pylades, 18. comr. Lindal, (absent.)
" Chameleon, 10. lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

" Blenheim, 74. Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. m., capt. sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.
" Vindictive, 50. capt. Nicholas, c. o.
" Nimrod, 18. comr. Glasse.
" Wolverine, 16. capt. Johnson.
" Cruiser, 16. comr. Pearce.
" Hazard, 16. " Bell.
" Serpent, 16. " Nevill.
" Young Hebe, 4. " Wood.
H.C. St. Hooghly, mr. comr. Rime,

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED

July.
30 (B.) Hops, Crawford, Singapore.
August,
1, (B.) Judith Allan, Hayes, London.

9. " Dumfries, Thompson, do.
2. (Sp) Relampago, " Manila.
3. H.M. Hospital Ship Minden, capt. M. Quin, last (P.) Esperanza, Sena, Goa [from Singapore.
6. (B.) Diadem, Harland, Bally.
7. " Trinidad, Brown, Bombay and Singapore.
7. " Greenlaw, Morrice, Madras and do.
8. " Cadet, Curling, do. do.
8. " Helen Stewart, Brown, Colombo.
9. " Claudine, Norris, London.
9. " Mermaid, Gill, Calcutta and Singapore.
10. " Harriet Scott, Beynow, Bombay & do.
10. " Salem, Milford, do. do.
10. " Litherland, Freeman, Liverpool.
10. " Frances Burn, Edington, Colombo.

PASSENGERS Per

Mermaid, Mr. and Mrs. F. Langer and family; and five Italian priests

SAILED

July.
31. (B.) Hops, Barrett, Chusan.
31. " Westmoreland, Brigstock, do.
August.
3. H. M. B. Wanderer, Capt. Fremantle, do.
3. (B.) Caroline, Hughes, do.
7. " Bombay, Farley, London.
8. " Black Swan, Hart, Manila.
8. " Harmony, Smith, do.
8. (Sp.) Relampago, " do.
8. (B.) Prima Donna, Kell, Singapore.
9. " Queen, McKellar, Chusan.
9. " Fretal, Young, Bombay.
9. " Dumfries, Thompson, Chusan.
9. " Judith Allan, Hayes, do.
9. " Champion, " Sing. & Calcutta.
12. " Cleopatra, Earley, London.

UNDER DESPATCH

For London.—Welcome.
For Bombay.—Jamietjee Jeejeebhoy on the 20th.
For Ning & Cal.—Hop, on the 24th of this month.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Direct Devon, Elizabeth, Pluk, Mary Ann Edie, Claudine, Claudius, Louis Jackson, Bolivar, Matilda, Geo. Wallis, Lord Lowther, Adelaide, John Bibby, Zennia, Althea, Alan, Parrock Hall, Ada, Madras, Equestrian, Ureala, Bella Marina, John O'Gunn, Will of the Wisp, Liverpool.
From Bombay.—Dragon, Island Queen, Ania, Dianna, Corra, Woodman, Hy Davidson, Hebrides, Kirkman, Finlay, Thetis, St. Lawrence, Wm Sharples, Wm. Hyde, John Moor, Helena, Bombay Castle, Prince Regent.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Intrepid, Victory, Cowarjee Family, Framjee Cowarjee, Mor. Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet, Ariel, Wernaf, Madura, Mary Ann, Hero, Pleurus, Mary Ann, Hero, Pleurus.
From Singapore.—Camden, Sarah Bedford.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 4th June, SINGAPORE, 28th July.
UNITED STATES, May 18, MANILA,
CALCUTTA, 7th July, AMOY,
BOMBAY, 10th July, CHUSAN, 6th July.
JAVA, 10th July.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEES.
Arms,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arrow,	—	Genre,	—
Arcthusa,	—	Christians	C. Fearon.
Agnes,	—	—	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Andromache,	—	Butcher,	Turner & Co.
Anna Elisa,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatie,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria,	—	Went,	—
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	—
Brephalos,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
*Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corasir,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Calet,	—	Curling,	Macvicar and Co.
*China,	524	Robertson	Russell and Co.
Cacique,	—	Mow,	C. Fearon.
*Chebar,	—	Harrison,	Lindsay and Co.
Claudine,	—	Norris,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Catherine,	—	Brown,	—
*Charles Forbes,	980	Wills, [ger	—
Charlotte,	—	Richelieu	—
*Devonport,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.

Diadem,	—	Harlan,	—	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	—	Dent and Co.
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	—	Lindsay and Co.
*England,	—	Bookely,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Earl Balcarra,	1488	Baker,	—	—
Edinburgh,	—	Paterson,	—	—
Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	—	Macvicar and Co.
Fred. Huth,	—	Toby,	—	Turner and Co.
Fr. Spaight,	—	Winn,	—	—
*Fortescue,	259	Hall,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Forten,	294	Baddeley,	—	—
Gemini,	—	Mason,	—	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	—	—
Grecian,	—	Watt,	—	Lindsay and Co.
*Gulnare,	—	wilonghby	—	Dirom and Co.
*Hero of Malown	—	Jackson,	—	—
Hersey,	—	Easterly,	—	—
Hongkong,	—	Whetten,	—	—
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	—	G. Nye jr.
Hope,	—	Crawford,	—	Macvicar & Co.
Hope,	—	Cockbain,	—	—
Helen Stewart,	—	Brown,	—	—
*Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	—	Dent and Co.
Helen,	—	Hicks,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Harriet Scott,	—	Beynow,	—	—
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	—	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	—	Dent and Co.
James Ewing,	—	Maitland,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Joe. Brightman	—	Viall,	—	W. H. Harton,
Louisa,	—	Forgan	—	Dent and Co.
*Lowry Family	—	Avres,	—	—
Lord Amherst,	—	Hopkins,	—	—
*Larkins,	—	Hibbert,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Litherland,	—	Freeman,	—	—
Lady (Lanke,	—	Lawrence,	—	Turner and Co.
Lord Eldon,	—	Worsell,	—	Lindsay & Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	—	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Maia,	—	Sproule,	—	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
M.S. Elphinstone	—	—	—	Dent and Co.
Mermaid,	644	Gill,	—	A. A. de Mello.
Manly,	—	Hart,	—	C. H. Hart,
Mercury,	—	—	—	W. Scott.
Nerva,	—	Melville,	—	Macvicar & Co.
Orator,	—	Serry,	—	Jardine M. and Co.
Peruvian,	304	Pittkethly	—	W. & T. Gemmell & Co
Potenlate,	—	Ramsay,	—	—
Pandora,	298	Cuthay,	—	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Queen Victoria	715	Black,	—	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
*Queen Victoria	—	Connor,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Raymond,	—	Mackay,	—	—
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	—	A. & D. Fardonjee,
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	—	C. H. Hart.
Saipa,	—	Morton,	—	Hughesdon Brothers.
Semiramia,	365	Cairne,	—	Jamieson, How & Co.
Shepherd,	—	Bowditch,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Salem,	—	Milford,	—	—
Syria,	—	Strongan,	—	—
Tartar,	—	Luce,	—	—
Trinidad,	—	Brown,	—	—
Ternate,	—	Mann,	—	Fergusson L. & Co.
Winchester,	—	Macdonald	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	—	J. A. Darran jr.
Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	—	Macvicar & Co.
*Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonna	—	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
Form,	Murdoch, Russell and Co.
Helena,	Benjamin,
Levant,	Faulk,
*Ann MacKim,	Vasmer,
Congress,	Hay,
*Cincinnati,	Wilson,
Probus,	Somner,
Grafton,	Gardner,
Robert Fulton,	Mcnicheal
Lowell,	Peirce,
Panther,	Martin,
Charleston,	Harlow,

* At Whampoa.

DIED.—At HONGKONG, after about a week's illness, the Rev. THEODORE JOSEPH, procurator of the mission of the propaganda, and charged with the administration of the Catholic mission at Hongkong.

DEATH.—At St. Andrews, Fifeshire, N. B., on March 10 Capt. ROBERT WALLACE, late Commander of the Clipper Cowarjee Family, one of the oldest commanders out of the port of Calcutta.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 47.] Macao, Saturday, 20th August, 1842.

[No. 359.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

JOHN SMITH has much pleasure in bringing to the notice of the public, that he will put up to the hammer, and sell by Public Auction, on his premises, this day, Saturday, the 20th instant, precisely at 12 o'clock, two pleasure boats, arms and ammunition, and the following vessels, with all their masts, yards, rigging, sails, boats, &c. &c.—As they now lie at Anchor in the Tyne; viz:—

The Bark "TERNATE."

she has lately returned from Calcutta, where she was thoroughly repaired at great exp-ese, and is now in excellent order. This craft is particularly recommended to the notice of those who may require a vessel for despatch;

The Bark "MAHAMOODIE."

was built in Bombay, in 1833; is in remarkably good order; and, as she is so well known in China, it is presumed, no further description is required;

The Brig "WILLIAM."

is highly deserving the attention of any person in want of a good and fast sailing vessel for the opium trade.

The tonnage of the Burque "TERNATE," is 271 $\frac{1}{2}$, the "MAHAMOODIE," 236 $\frac{1}{2}$, and the Brig "WILLIAM," 173 $\frac{1}{2}$, tons or thereabouts.

At the same time will be sold, the fast sailing schooners

The "FORESTER," and the "WEASEL."

After which, in separate lots, will be put up for sale, The ARMS and AMMUNITION of the

"TERNATE"—2 long six pounders, with carriages, complete;—2 twelve pounder carronades complete, and a quantity of round shot and grape;—2 twelve pounder gunnades, complete, and a quantity of round shot and grape;—2 eighteen pounder do. complete, and do. do.;—36 muskets with bayonets;—21 pistols;—16 cutlasses;—9 boarding pikes;—2 powder horns;—2 magazines, with about 100 lbs. of powder cartridges.

"MAHAMOODIE"—2 twelve pounder carronades, with carriages complete;—2 twelve pounder do. do.;—2 twelve pounder medium guns, new, and complete;—2 six pounder medium do., with do. do.;—12 muskets;—12 pistols;—12 new and 5 old boarding pikes;—130 canisters for 12 pounders;—98 do. for 6 do.;—110 round musket cartridges;—90 do. pistol do.;—85 round for 12 pounders, in 2 lb. cartridges for service; 60 do. for 6 do. in 1 lb. do.

"WILLIAM"—2 twenty two pounder brass carronades, with carriages, complete;—2 eleven pounder brass do., with do., do.;—2 six pounder iron do., with do., do.;—13 muskets with bayonets;—11 carbines;—12 boarding pikes;—3 magazines, and 2 powder horns;—200 shot of sizes, round and grape.

Inventory of stores appertaining to the above vessels are printed in and circulation.

For conditions of the sale, see handbills. Macao, 19th August 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmein, and in that of BUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 14th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late MR. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and MR. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co., China, 8th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. THOMAS FOX and Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th April 1841, and Mr. ARTHUR JOHN EMPSON was admitted a Partner from the same date.

FOX RAWSON & Co.

China, 5th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm. Macao, 1st July, 1842. DENT & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt. JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorized to receive and give acquittances for the same.

JAMES P. STURGIS.

Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 22d July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART. JARDINE MATHESON & Co. China, 1st July, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subdégarnes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of HONGKONG, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Mation, 6th Aug. 1841. F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUNN, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns at Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Howan, at low rates, with the convenience of Piers, Buys &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double seawalls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine new clipper built Ship Hops, Capt. CRAWFORD, will sail for the above ports on the 25th inst., and is now ready to receive cargo. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR CHUSAN.

THE British Bark PORTACRE, Capt. HALL, will sail in a few days. For freight or passage apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 12th August, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Ship "JOHN BRIGHTMAN," Capt. VIALI, will be despatched for the above ports about the 25th instant. For freight or passage apply to

W. H. HARTON.

Macao, 5th August, 1842.

FOR SALE, OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMONCITO" burthen 200 Tons, Capt. RAMON G. GONZALEZ. For particulars apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark PANDORA (298 Tons), Capt. COTHART. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt. ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao 21st July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt. J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to

J. COOLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton.

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.—Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWRIE FAMILY, Captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Tark Built Ship "Helo of MALOW," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT, OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing Spanish Schooner "GITANA," 220 Tons burthen, built at Pangasinan in the year 1840, of the best materials, new coppered only in February this year, and just been rigged with first rate cordage—she is now lying in the Inner Harbour of Macao. For further particulars apply to her owner either on board or on shore.

J. SALADO.

Macao, 30th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have no early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM FRASER, 352 Tons, N. M. McDONALD, Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 10th June, 1842.

One of the most afflicting results of the accident is the case of Mr Brice, a merchant from Nantes. He has lost both his legs and both his arms, and remains a mere trunk with the head upon it. In the endeavours to draw him out of the fire, the hook of the pole which was used caught him by the mouth, which was dreadfully lacerated. Nevertheless, he has recovered his senses and his speech, and is able to give a relation of the horrors he has undergone. He was accompanied by the nephew of Mr Sicard, a merchant of the Rue Thibautode, and a traveller of the house, who had arrived only three days before from Nimès, both of whom were by his side, but perished in the flames.

Two stokers, at first stifled by the smoke, and then calcined by the fire, remained for a considerable time after they had expired standing at their post, grasping the tools they had been using. An old soldier, taken alive from the fire, with an arm broken, a deep wound in his side, and his head bleeding from a cut, refused all aid exclaiming, "Never mind me; I shall do well enough, I am in no pain, but go and save my son and my brother, who are in that wagon," pointing at the same time with his mutilated arm. A young woman snatched alive from the middle of the flames, cried out for her husband, describing his dress the colour of his coat, and adding that he wore the ribbon of the Legion of Honour. At the same time he lay burnt to death at her feet, and a humane bystander recognising him by her description, threw his handkerchief over the remains to save her from the horror of the sight. Mr Guillard, a distinguished pupil of the Polytechnic School, succeeded in getting through the window of the door of the carriage in which he was, and was able to run about fifty paces from the scene of the disaster, and then dropped down dead.

An eye-witness has communicated the following details:—"At half-past five I took my place in a first-class train for Paris. Just as we were on the point of starting, one of the stokers passed, and said with a laugh, 'We have three engines—there are no stoppages—we shall go on famously.' We did go on quickly, for in less than ten minutes we were half-way on the road. The train from Paris passed. I had but just turned round, when I felt a violent shock. Two others followed, then stopped. First there was a dead silence, then the most dreadful cries. Still I thought the danger passed, as nothing moved, but it was only after I had with much trouble succeeded in forcing my way out of the window that I found the dreadful position we were in. The engines, the coal carriage, and the four or five first wagons were in an immense heap of ruins, under which more than 100 passengers lay buried. Some succeeded in disengaging themselves from the ruins, and ran about in agony. But soon the spectacle became still more terrific; this heap became a furnace. The burning coal, excited by the violence of the wind, had spread itself to the mass of overturned carriages, in which the passengers were burning. I then saw a lady above the whole; she was caught by the middle between some fragments of wagons, which had carried her five yards above the ground. Her arms were free, and she threw them about in her agony, calling for assistance. We made a thousand efforts to reach her, but the burning furnace on all sides separated us from her, and not one drop of water to extinguish it. The flames reached her; when, seeing that there was no hope, she seemed to resign herself. I saw her raise her eyes to heaven, then cover them with her hands, and remain immovable, suffering herself to be burnt without uttering a single cry. Her dress and black scarf burnt slowly; her veil and straw bonnet were soon consumed. The unfortunate woman seemed about thirty."

ROLL CALL ABOVE.—When Marshall Soult was told successively of the deaths of Human, Heymes, Moncey, Clausel, Aguado, &c. he exclaimed, "On fait l'appel à haut!" It is roll-call above. And death has indeed been busy with the veterans of war, statesmanship, and letters.

The French papers state that the corvette Coguette, lying at Brest, was about to be put under orders for the China seas, and, it was believed, would go in company with the Selle Poise, commanded by Prince de Joinville, with despatches and presents from the French Court to the Emperor of China.

From the Bombay Times.

THE DISASTERS IN AFGHANISTAN.

OPIUMS PARALLEL.

Our dreadful disaster in Afghanistan resembles in different degrees two severe defeats (both which were subsequently avenged, if not repaired) sustained by the Romans in the very acme of their power. One was that of Quintilius Varus in Germany. "Hic" (Varus), says the historian, "postea Germanico exercitui prefectus, cum Indubitanis super iugis plus satis confidit, et a belli cogitatione se convertit, repente ab Arminio circumventus cum tribus legionibus obtruncatur." His death is lamented by Horace (l. i, car. 24); and the exclamation of Augustus, even in his dreams, will occur to the classical reader, "Vare, redde legiones." The bones of the slaughtered troops were found in a subsequent expedition of their countrymen, bleached by the rain and sunshine of forty years, as recorded by Tacitus.

But the other calamity so strongly resembles that which England has just sustained in all its circumstances, that we are induced to recommend it to general attention. It is the defeat of Crassus in Parthia. The events are similar, they spring from the same causes, and occurred in or near the very same spot; for the Parthian empire, if it deserve that name under Surenas, must have been nearly identical with Cabool. It is impossible to gather here afresh all the particulars as recorded in Dion Cassius, Appian, and Plutarch's Life of Crassus; we shall copy them from Hook's Roman History. The very index of the chapter in the work of this voluminous compiler might be literally adopted by the future historian of the British disaster. It is in these words:—"Crassus makes war upon the Parthians. The enterprize unjust; the war unfortunate."—Vol. 9. ch. vii.

The first news from abroad, after the inauguration of the Consul, was of the ill success of Crassus's hostile expedition into the Parthian territories—a war commenced without any order or explicit permission from the Senate, and to which the insatiable avarice of the Roman General was the sole motive. The Republic had, first by Sylla, and afterwards by Pompey, made leagues of peace and amity with the Parthians, and had never complained of any infraction of them; so that this people, having no reason to apprehend an invasion, had made no preparations against it. Crassus therefore, beginning his march soon after his arrival in the east, passed the Euphrates, over a bridge of boats, without opposition, overran a great part of Mesopotamia, and possessed himself of several towns, which, being most of them Grecian colonies, averse to the Parthian government, readily submitted to him.

"As soon as the season of the year permitted, Crassus, strengthened by a thousand Gallic horse, which his son Publius brought him from Caesar's army, drew all his forces together, in order to prosecute the war against the Parthians, who had now got ready a very great army for their defence. But, before they entered upon action, ambassadors were sent from Orodes, the Parthian King, to the Roman General, to ask for what reason he made war upon him. Crassus answered with haughtiness, that he would declare his reason when he should come to Seleucia. The King, on the return of his ambassadors, finding war to be unavoidable, divided his army into two parts, marched in person with one of them towards the borders of Armenia, and sent the other, under the command of Surenas, the most illustrious of all his nobles, and a most accomplished general, into Mesopotamia; who, immediately after his arrival there, re-took some of those places of which Crassus had possessed himself the year before. The garrisons that escaped to the Roman camp filled it with a terrible report of the number, power, and strength of the enemy, which cast a damp upon the whole army, and sank the courage not only of the common soldiers, but of the General officers.

"While Crassus was considering on this advice (some given him by Cassius), there came to him a crafty Arabian, who diverted him entirely from following it. He was the head of an Arabian tribe (such as the Greeks called Phylarchi, and the present Arabs, Shiwaks), and having formerly served under Pompey, was well known to many in the Roman army, and looked on as their friend; for which reason he had been made choice of and sent by Surenas to act this part. He is by different authors called by different names; but, whatever his name was, he effectually dissuaded Crassus from following the good advice given him by Cassius. He told the Roman General that the Parthians durst not stand before him; that he had nothing to do for the gaining an absolute victory over them but to march on; and he offered himself for a guide to conduct him the shortest way to the enemy. Crassus, deceived by the fair words, and fooled by the flattery, of this man, accepted of his offer, and so was led by him into the open plains of Mesopotamia; and although Cassius and others suspected the guide of treachery, and therefore pressed Crassus to follow him no longer, but to retreat to the mountains, where he might best be able to baffle the power of the Parthian horse, yet he still continued in his delusion, till at length the traitor, having brought him into a sandy desert, where the Parthians might have all the advantage in a battle, rode off to Surenas and acquainted him with what he had done, adding, that now was the time to attack the Romans, who were come to deliver themselves into his hands. Nor was it very long before Crassus perceived his error. While he was making forced marches, fearing nothing but that the enemy should escape him, his scout came back full speed to inform him that the Parthians were advancing in prodigious numbers, in good order, and with much confidence.

"In this extremity, young Crassus, who manifested throughout the engagement an heroic bravery, had recourse to his Gallic cavalry as his last resource, and so well managed as with these to force the Parthian pikemen to a close fight; but the match was very unequal."

They at length resolved to rejoin if possible the main body of the army. Carrying with them young Crassus, grievously wounded in many places, they made to a small sandy hill not far from them. The young General, declining to desert his troops and attempt a precipitate flight, to which some advised him, and being deprived by a wound of the use of his own hand, commanded his armour-bearer to run him through. Most of the nobles who had accompanied him killed themselves. The rest were all slain by the enemy, except about 500, who fell alive into their hands. The Parthians cut off the head of young Crassus, and, taking it with them, marched to attack the Proconsul.

"The Parthians, though apprized of Crassus's retreat, waited for day, according to their custom. Then entering the Roman camp, they massacred the sick and wounded, to the amount of about 4,000 men. Many of the Roman soldiers they likewise overtook and slaughtered in the plain; particularly four cohorts which had lost their way in the dark. Out of these, only 30 men escaped. It is said that the invincible courage with which they defended themselves struck their assailants with such admiration, that they voluntarily opened to them a free passage to Carræ.

"Surenas being told, as he approached that city, of a rumour which prevailed that Crassus and the principal men of the Romans had all made their escape, began to fear the loss of what he esteemed the chief fruit of his victory. To know the truth, he ordered one of his people who could speak Latin to go near the walls, and in his name invite Crassus and Cassius to a conference with him. This messenger was attended by some Arabians, who having formerly served in the Roman army, knew the persons of both. Cassius appeared upon the walls, and was told that Surenas consented to make peace with the Romans on the condition of their evacuating Mesopotamia. The proposal, as affairs then stood, appeared to the Roman Quæstor far from being disadvantageous; he promised, therefore, to report it to the General. The Parthian, having thus learnt what he wanted to know, laughed at the credulity of the Romans; and the next day, while he was preparing to attack the place, gave them to understand that, if they would obtain leave to retire in safety, they must deliver up to him Crassus and Cassius. No thought remained now but of running away in the dark; and it was necessary to keep this resolution concealed till the moment of execution. Crassus, once more fatally deceived, imparted the secret to a traitor, named Andromachus, and even took the same traitor for his guide. Andromachus sent advice to Surenas of what was intended; and, in order to complete the destruction of the Roman army, contrived to lead them, by ways so indirect, such windings and turnings, that they gained but little ground in a long march; and at length he brought them into a place full of ditches and enclosures. Many began now to suspect treachery, and would follow him no farther. Cassius, with 500 horse, returning to Carræ, provided himself there with some Arabian guides who faithfully conducted him and his followers into Syria."

"Surenas, perceiving the valor of his own soldiers to abate, apprehending that, if the Romans should spin out the battle till night, they might then gain the mountains and be safe for the future from his attacks, had again recourse to his wonted craft. He suffered some prisoners to escape, before whom the Parthians, discouraging with one another, had designedly said, that their King was far from intending an implacable war with the Romans, and would be glad to regain their friendship by treating Crassus with generosity. That this stratagem might more easily take effect, he ceased hostilities, and, attended by his principal officers, advanced in public use toward the P.P., having his bow unbent, and holding out his hand as a friend to Crassus, whom he invited to a treaty of accommodation. The King, he said, having much against his will, made the Romans sensible of his power, and of the bravery of his troops, is now disposed to give them proofs of his clemency and goodness, by suffering them to retire in safety. Crassus, who saw no reason for so sudden a change, was not deceived; his soldiers were, and notwithstanding all he could say to persuade them to have patience till night, when they might make a retreat to the mountains, they sedulously, and with threats compelled him to accept of Surenas's invitation.

"Certain heralds from Surenas, having accosted him with profound respect, desired him, in the Greek language, to send somebody before to see that the Parthian General and his retinue were without arms. Crassus answered, that if he had retained the least concern for his life, he would never have put himself into their hands. However, to learn what appearances things had, he sent forward two men, who were to bring him word. These were instantly seized by Surenas's order, who then, attended by his principal officers, came up to him, with an air of astonishment, said, 'How! what an indecent sight is this! a Roman General on foot, and we on horseback?' 'No error committed on either side,' answered Crassus, 'each follows the custom of his country.' 'From this moment,' said the Parthian, 'there is a league of amity between the King my master and the Roman people; but it must be put in writing; for you Romans are very apt to forget your engagements and covenants. Let us go, therefore, and finish the treaty on the banks of the Euphrates.' Crassus hereupon, ordered a horse to be brought him. 'There is no need,' said Surenas, 'the King makes you a present of one; and immediately a horse with rich trappings was led to him, and he was forcibly put into the saddle; some of Surenas's attendants, switching the horse to hasten him forward. The Romans now saw plainly that the purpose of the Parthian was to take Crassus alive. Octavius therefore seized the bridle of the horse and stooped him. Petronius and their other officers surrounded their General, putting themselves in a posture to defend him. A tumult and scuffle ensued. Octavius killed one of the Parthian ground and was himself killed by a stroke of a lance run into his back. Crassus himself fell dead quickly after; but whether he was despatched by the hand on an enemy or of a friend who would preserve him from the disgrace of becoming a prisoner, is uncertain.

"Sarena by fair words, notwithstanding the experience which the Romans had of his perfidy, decoyed many of those who had remained on the hill to surrender themselves prisoners. The most courageous waited for the night to attempt a retreat; but of these few escaped, the rest being intercepted by the Arabs, who scourged the country with that intent. In the several actions and disasters of this war the Romans are said to have lost 20,000 men killed, and 10,000 taken prisoners. It was one of the greatest blows that Rome had ever received from a foreign enemy, and for which she was ever after meditating revenge."

From the Bombay Times, 9th July.

DISSOLUTION OF THE SHAH SOOJAH'S ARMY.

We have reprinted entire, under our Bengal head, the proclamation of Lord Ellenborough dissolving the Contingent Force of the Shah Soojah;—that most costly and delusive of pageants, by which we endeavoured to cheat ourselves and the world into the belief that the exiled Sovereign of Afghanistan entered his country at the head of his own troops, and surrounded by his own subjects; troops which we enlisted, paid, and appointed; and which were no more his, save in name, than so many regiments of the Company's regular army. The folly of ever stalling this force into existence was well ridiculed by Colonel Dennie, in a way indeed never forgotten or forgiven him; destroying as it did, the efficiency of so much of the service as required to be drawn upon for officers to drill raw levies which could not be made available when the first campaign was at an end, to obtain the name of the Shah's Contingent!

CANDAHAR.—Letters have been received from Candahar to the 14th, and Quetta to the 16th, but they contain no news beyond the intimation that the 13th N. I., with the convoy, had reached Killa Abdoolah in safety, and without the slightest opposition. The detachment from Candahar had met them, as agreed upon, on the hither side of the Kojuck Pass, and taken charge of the camels and treasure meant for General Nott. Stores are rapidly collecting for the use of the Candahar force.

The following is an extract of our latest Candahar letter containing any news of note:—

"Candahar, June 9th, 1842.—This morning we marched out of the Town, and have joined Colonel Wymer's Force encamped under the walls. We leave this to-morrow morning; we are provisioned for eighteen days. The Force consists of Leslie's Troop Horse Artillery, Blood's 9 pr. battery (both making 9 Guns); Detachments Skinner's and Christie's Horse; the 16th and 9th Bengal N. I. 3rd Light Cavalry, and Light Battalion Bombay N. I. There must be about 1000 Cavalry and 2000 Infantry. There are also some Sappers and Miners. It is supposed we are to destroy a number of Forts belonging to the chiefs fighting against us, withdraw the garrison at Ghirisk, and then return. After that our stay at Candahar will, I believe, not be long, as I think there will not be any of this Force here on the 1st July.

"We all go in high spirits, anticipating that our excursion will be a very pleasant one. I am glad that General Nott has mixed up Bengal and Bombay Troops together.

JELLALABAD.—The subjoined letter contains intelligence only a single day later than that given in our last from General Pollock's camp; but in it will be found statements worthy of a careful perusal. It is no wonder that writers at a distance from the scene of action should disagree with each other in their opinions as to the measures about to be pursued by General Pollock, when those in camp are so widely at variance with each other as the writer whose communication we subjoin, and the correspondent of the Drift Gazette. We have the fullest reliance in the views of our own correspondent, and much respect at the same time for the honesty and general accuracy of that of our contemporary; though we think his ideas as to the possibility of an advance on Cabool inadmissible.

"Jellalabad, Sunday, June 12, 1842.

"Every one in Camp will have it that by the end of the present week the Force will be on the move—that is, part of it towards Peshawar; and that we will all have left this by to-day fortnight: it is even said that Pollock has received his instructions, but that he will not mention what they are for fear of its becoming generally known that we are to retreat: this however I do not believe; but I must say, I credit the report that we are to return, and as far as I can see, the sooner we are out of the country the better as Government, notwithstanding their grand notifications, either have not the means or cannot keep us supplied with what is requisite, viz. Carriage. The few Camels (some 350) last dispatched from Ferozepore have all disappeared some where near the Attock, and left the officer (Lieut. Trower) with the entrenching Tools he was escorting up, in that neighbourhood without the means of moving; this shows that if Camels were even procurable to the number required, no inducement will make the Surwans come to this country. It is now exactly a month since the General's letter asking for final instructions went off to Lord Ellenborough, and the reply might have been here two days ago. If we are to return at once I hope the order will arrive to-morrow or next day, as the moon will be favorable for marching at night in about 8 days' time, and it would be a great thing to be able to take advantage of it to get through the Khybur,—not that there is any chance of our being forced to fight our way back, as I believe there is not a living soul to be seen the whole way except our own detachments, who are already placed at Dhakha, Lundekhana, and Allee Masjid with abundance of supplies. It is now known to be quite true that the Barukzye party have got the upperhand at Cabool, and that Mahomed Ukhbar has succeeded in getting a footing in the Hala Hissar. Some 400 of Futch Jung's Hindoostanes are said to be still holding out in the upper part of it; they must however have given in long ere this, as the Gateways &c. are all in the possession of Sirdars friendly to Mahomed Ukhbar. The Prisoners have been taken to some place two marches beyond Cabool, but no certain information regarding them has, that I know of, been received for some time, and I am afraid that we have now less chance than ever of getting hold of them. Nothing I believe will induce the Chiefs to give them up as long as we are in the country, and it is only to be hoped that when they find we are fairly off, and money is all they can expect, that a round sum may be accepted for them, but I doubt if that will even succeed without the restoration of the Dost. We have now got a delightful change in the weather—no dust, and the temperature in our houses quite pleasant. The Sikh Force are encamped on the Peshawar side of Jellalabad about $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile from us: they have 4 Regiments of Infantry, 6 Guns, and some Cavalry, commanded by Colonel Golab Sing; we hear they have some more Regiments on the way up; and it is currently believed that Jellalabad is to be made over to them when we leave."

LETTER POSTAGE.

No. 988 of 1842.

To the Post Master, Macao.

Sir,—I have the honor to request you will have the goodness to recover from the editor of the Canton Register (rupees 12.9 a) twelve rupees and nine annas being ship postage due on 195 newspapers dispatched by him per "Eleanor," which sailed from your port on the 26th April last, and remit the amount to this office at your earliest convenience. The newspapers will be forwarded by the next overland mail to England.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

W. ESCOMBE,

Acting Post Master General.

Bombay, General Post Office,

29th June, 1842.

Government Agency Office,

Macao, 13th August, 1842.

Sir,—I have the honor to enclose you a letter, which I have received from the Acting Post Master General of Bombay, requesting I will recover from you the sum of (rupees 12.9 a) twelve rupees and nine annas, being the ship postage due on 195 newspapers.

I beg you will have the goodness either to pay the amount to the bearer, or remit it to this office at your earliest convenience.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your most obedient servant,

JOHN RICKETT,

Government Agent.

To the Editor of the Canton Register.

SUBSCRIBERS IN CHINA TO THE AFGHAN RELIEF FUND.

Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart	Rupces 500
Major George Alexander Malcolm, 3d drag.	200
Richard Woomam, esq.	100
Capt. J. Ramsay, Eng.	100
J. R. Morrison, e-q. Chinese Sec & Interpreter	200
A. R. Johnston, dpty. gov. of Hongkong.	200
W. Leslie, esq. (paid in Calcutta, 4th July)	200
D. L. Burn, esq.	100
Thomas D. Neave, esq.	25
Charles Board, esq.	20
Merwanjee Jejeebhoy, esq.	50
John Leathley, esq.	20
William Lane, esq.	10
John Smith, esq.	10
Nasserwanjee Dorabjee M. esq.	10
Manackjee Nanabhoj, esq.	10
C. Fearon, esq.	50
J. Holliday, esq.	25
W. Blenkin, esq.	25
John Middleton, esq.	25
Henry Pybus, esq.	25
J. F. Edger, esq.	25
John Slade, esq.	10

London Monthly Overland Mail Bombay Courier Extraordinary, May 6, 1842.

MAILS TO CHINA.—The uncertain conveyance of letters from the principal ports of India to China, induced the East India and China association in Feb. last—a time when the merchants connected with the Chinese trade were very uneasy respecting their property—to address a letter to the treasury, requesting that mails might be taken to China by her majesty's ships. They had frequently been in the habit of sending their letters by the merchants' ships direct to China, but these means had likewise proved uncertain, and therefore they sought the additional assistance of the navy. To its application, the association has just received the following answer, of which it is desirable the merchants at the ports of Glasgow and Liverpool should be aware that they may avail themselves of the opportunities offered:—

"Treasury Chambers, April 12th, 1842.

"Gentlemen,—In reply to your letter of the 15th of February last, requesting that mails may be sent to China by her majesty's ships, I am commanded by the lords commissioners of her majesty's treasury to acquaint you that my lords have requested the lords of admiralty to inform the postmaster-general when any such opportunities offer.

"I am, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

C. E. TREVELYAN.

"The East Indian and China Association Cowper's Court, Cornhill."

It should be observed that the long interval which has elapsed between the date of the application and the above reply has occasioned some surprise, as the matter was so very simple that there seemed scarcely a reason why an answer could not have been given at once.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 20th Aug. 1842.

The Harlequin from Calcutta arrived early in the week, with dates, it is said, to the 7th July; we have not however received by her any later papers than we had before been in possession of. We have had during the week no other arrivals of any interest from the western part of the world.

No accounts yet from the North! our latest being still of the 26th June from the Yangtzeeking or about seven weeks old. Something of importance must have been done in all this time, and we may hope that a steamboat will soon arrive with the intelligence. We can hardly credit the report which comes from Canton that a truce to last for 30 days has been agreed on to wait for the Emperor's reply to Kiepo's despatches, for that would be acting over again the farce of 1840 and 41. Yet, it cannot be denied that the conduct of this expedition is one of the most difficult, and that there may be good reasons for arresting for a while the military progress of the expedition. Hitherto the Chinese have opposed but passive resistance to the attacks of the English, and the towns taken from them and afterwards again abandoned, seem to have made no impression whatever. It is impossible to say how far they may carry this indifference—and it is at same time impracticable to garrison those towns that may be taken, and they of course as soon as the English leave them, revert again under Chinese rule. The empire is of such immense extent, and its different provinces apparently so independent of each other, that a blow dealt in one is hardly, if at all, felt in the other; and so indifferent seem the Chinese about their countrymen at a distance, that beyond a vague suspicion that their nation is very populous, and that the Emperor's dominions are without bounds, they care not to know. The knowledge of a Chinese rarely extends beyond the town or village he dwells in, so all beyond he is generally insensible. This indifference of the people towards each other, will enable the general government to prolong its passive resistance much longer than could reasonably have been supposed, for although those who actually have suffered from the attacks of the English, may murmur, and accuse the weakness of their government as the cause of their misfortune, their complaints, unseconded by the mass of the people are not likely much to influence the Emperor's councils. We should think that H. M. Plenipotentiary was fully aware of this disposition of the people, and the uselessness of taking their towns to be restored again, and that before resorting to more active and effectual warfare, he has once more tried what negotiation may effect. The force is in a favorable position, threatening the second city of the Empire, and commanding the mouths of the great canal, so as to be able effectually to block up that highroad of China, by which a great part of the revenue of the Empire is conveyed to the Capital. Should negotiation again fail, we suppose Nanking will immediately be taken possession of, although it seems to us this should have been the first step, and then the only way remaining of compelling the Emperor to a peace would be the occupation of a province by the army and of the English taking its civil government into their own hands. This would, we believe, very soon sufficiently rouse the jealousy of the Imperial government to render it anxious, on almost any terms, to get rid of the hateful strangers. The extent of the Empire, and its distance from England and India, whence on that account no very large invading armies can be sent, seem to render a contraction of the theatre of the war altogether necessary, and the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangnan are a field extensive enough for the operations of the landforce now there.

LATEST NEWS FROM THE NORTH.—After having written the above we hear of the arrival of the Amelia Thompson and Herald transports from Chusan, bringing dates, the latter it is said, to the 6th August. We have seen no letters later than the 29th July, at which time no authentic accounts from the expedition, later than the 26th June, had been received. There were however among the Chinese reports that Nanking had been taken by the English, and ransomed for an enormous sum; so large indeed was the sum reported by the Chinese, that on that account chiefly the writers of the letters we allude to, would not admit of its truth. It was at same time said that negotiations for peace had been entered into between H. M. Plenipotentiary and the Chinese Government. We leave to our readers to judge of the probability of the truth of such reports; they disagree considerably with those we have lately heard from Canton, and are almost too favorable to believe them to be true. From Chusan we hear that about 800 men of H. M. 49th and 56th Regiments were there left in garrison, but that British away had not been extended beyond the town and suburbs. Kidnapping was again the order of the day, and four or five private had been carried off by the Chinese. On one occasion a party of five Chinese were just about bagging a sheep, when they were discovered, and two of them taken, who, upon the fullest evidence, were convicted of the crime, and hung; an example which, if it had been resorted to at an earlier period, would have prevented the kidnapping of many on the island of Chusan and at Ningpo and elsewhere. We hear, that from the injudicious use of unripe fruit, sickness was not unfrequent at Chusan.

HONGKONG.—We regret to learn, that either the climate or too liberal potations of Samshoo are causing the deaths of many of the soldiers of whom no less than 47 were buried last month. Surely, if the use of Samshoo is so dangerous, effective means to prevent access to it might be adopted. We hope that as the Commander of the garrison no longer lives on board ship, the condition of the soldiers and their health will have the attentive consideration of the present authorities.

It is said that the two Hong merchants, Howqua's son and Samqua, have been ordered to return to Canton forthwith by the Emperor, as their presence could be of no use. In consequence messengers have been despatched to recall them from their journey to Nanking.

It is reported that the Lieut. Governor as well as some other officers of the Canton local Government have been degraded, continuing however in their offices, to afford them opportunity of retrieving their character. We have not heard what may be the cause of their punishment.

There is at present, we are told, only H. M. S. Blenheim in the port of Hongkong, the other ships having been ordered to anchorages in the neighbourhood.

There has been very bad weather in the Palawan passage as far north as Manila, and some vessels we are sorry to hear have been lost in consequence.

The Ann, Macapine, which left here with a cargo of tea for London on the 27th May, struck upon a coral reef (not laid down in the Chart) to the westward of the port of Samboangan in the Basilan Straits. (The Island of Santa Cruz bearing E. N. E. about 5 miles) on the evening of the 15th June, and remained on it till the next morning when she was got off, and carried into Samboangan, where it was found impossible to repair any injuries she might have received, and the Spanish governor refused her assistance to get to Manila, where it might be done. The Captain however fortunately obtained assistance from two British ships he met with, and, we are told, in their company made the best of his way to Soerabaya where she has safely arrived, and will be repaired. After striking, the vessel made 1 1/2 inches water per hour.

The following is extract from a letter from Manila from which it will be seen that intelligence had there been received of the loss of a vessel supposed to be the Christina, Birkett, which left here for Bombay on the 8th June, with a large quantity of Treasure. Other letters from Manila mention that only four lascars of all the crew were saved. The next arrival from Manila will no doubt bring full particulars.

Manila, 2d August, 1842.

"Information has been brought to Manila of the loss of an English vessel, which the Spaniards call the "Christina" on the Palawan Coast. The vessel was a total wreck and it is said the Captain, first Officer, and some Passengers were lost in trying to make the shore. A part of the Crew has been saved, and are on their way to Manila. There are some Lascars amongst them, which makes us conclude the vessel to have been the "Christina" from China to Bombay."

"There is also a report of another English vessel having been lost in the Straits of S. Bernardino, but this wants confirmation. We have had three weeks of a continued gale from South West, in which the Isabel Segunda has been driven on shore and it is feared irreparably damaged."

We have copied from the "Register" a list of subscribers in China to the Cautel relief fund.

We regret to see so scanty a list, but suppose it has not yet made its round everywhere, and that many desirous of contributing have not seen the subscription list. We would recommend to the parties charged with the collection that the list be more generally circulated.

We perceive that the Postmaster of Bombay has commissioned the Postmaster in China to recover from the Editor of the Canton Register the sum of Rs. 12.9, amount of postage incurred on 185 newspapers sent to Bombay to be forwarded overland. With the reasons, why our contemporary refuses to pay this sum, we have not at present anything to do, but as he supposes, that he has been singled out, no similar demand having been made on us, we may state that we do not forward the papers to our subscribers in England via Bombay, but always direct, with the exception of one only to the under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and that we presume to be privileged. It certainly were much to be wished that Newspapers should be free of the ship postage at least at Bombay, to ensure for them a speedy passage to England; under the present arrangement it is impossible to send them by that route, except the Post-office here, were, as is the case in Singapore and Hongkong empowered to receive pre-payment for such papers or letters, an arrangement which it is very desirable should be made.

On Tuesday and Wednesday last the guild of Carpenters in Macao, had a procession in honor of their tutelary deity called Loh-pan (which may be also translated "an old board"), and although we have witnessed many similar festivities in China, we never saw one that was so well got up in all its parts. Generally the vestments of those officiating on such occasions, such as banner-bearers and others, although dressed in silk and embroidery, the dresses are borrowed for the occasion, and having seen much service are rather the worse for wear; moreover, they are put upon the poorest ragamuffins that can be found, whose unclad dirty lower extremities make a sad contrast with the finery on their shoulders. In the procession we are speaking of, this was differently managed. The standard, and banner-bearers, men at arms etc., were all journeymen carpenters, each dressed in new party colored silk and embroidered crape; in clean stockings and handsome embroidered shoes, whilst the master carpenters attended the procession in dresses of ceremony with mandarin caps, and strutted their part of the performance to perfection. The banners and canopies were of the most splendid description, crapes and velvet embroidered with silk and gold, of very great size, and many of them displayed for the first time. After a long succession of these banners and canopies intersected by men at arms, bearing all sorts of Chinese weapons, fashioned however of less offending metal than iron, and by many bands of music, of which all the musicians were dressed in white robes of ceremony, followed several children and youths, splendidly dressed, on horseback; then came three platforms on each of which were a boy and a girl, to represent we believe geese, very beautifully dressed, and pretty looking; and the procession was concluded by an enormous dragon, perhaps 150 feet long, so contrived that the barbers who walked under it were covered by its ample folds, and the animal seemed in its serpentine movements to glide unaided through the streets, whilst its monstrous jaws high above the heads of the spectators, opening and shutting, seemed to threaten destruction to all beholders; and to avert its seeming rage, a warrior with a large mace in his hands, kept retreating before it, threatening to strike it. Whenever the procession passed any Chinese public office it was welcomed by the firing of guns and crackers, and the salute fired in its honor from the Chinese shipping in the inner harbour was almost deafening. But the Chinese seem to be fond of all sorts of noises that are discordant to the nicer European ear, and the whole native population had on this occasion come into the streets to see the sight, whilst everywhere the windows were filled with female spectators. We hope that this short sketch of this religious ceremony will not prove uninteresting to our readers, particularly those at a distance, as illustrative of the customs of this singular people.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

IN THE YANG-TSEI-KIANG, CHUAN, CHINNAI, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer" Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B.,
commander in chief; capt. T.
Bouchier, C. B.

" Thalia, 44, capt. Hope.

" Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Grey.

" Calliope, 28, " A. L. Kuper.

" North Star, 26, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.

" Herald, 26, " J. Nias, C. B.

" Dido, 20, " the honble H. Keppell.

" Pelican, 18, " Napier.

" Modeste, 18, comr. Watson.

" Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.

" Columbine, 16, " Morhead.

" Childers, 16, " Halsted.

" Cho, 16, " E. Troubridge.

" Wanderer, 16, " Freemantle.

" Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Maidland.

" Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.

" Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

" Starling, 6, comr. Kellott.

" Lady Bentinck, " Collinson.

TACOSHIERS.

Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.

Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.

Sapphire, " Cole.

Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

Rattlesnake, " "

Alligator, " "

STEAMERS.

M. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden.

" Sesostris, comr. Ormsby.

" Auckland, " Ethersey, I. N.

" Tenasserim, " Wall, I. N.

" Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.

" Pluto, " Tudor, R. N.

" Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.

" Medusa, " Hewett, I. N.

" Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.

" Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.

" Memnon, " Powell.

" M. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.

" Driver, " Farmer.

AT AMOY.

H.M.S. Cambrian, 38, capt. Chads, C. B. senior commanding officer.

" Pyllades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)

" Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

" Blethenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral sir T. Cochrane, C. B., capt. sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.

" Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, C. B.

" Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasse.

" Wolverine, 16, capt. Johnson.

" Cruiser, 16, comr. Peatze.

" Hazard, 16, " Bell.

" Serpent, 16, " Nevill.

" Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.

" H.C.S. Hooghly, mr. comr. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED

16, (Sp.) Consuelo, Blanco, Manila." (B.) Felicity, McDonald, Bombay.16, " Prince of Wales, Jones, Bombay.17, " Madara, Mylne, Calcutta and Singapore.17, (B.) Amelia Thomson, Chusan.17, " Herald, " do.

SAILED

15, (B.) Cleopatra, Farly, London.16, (A.) Cincinnati, Wilson, New York.17, " Robert Fulton, McMichael, Philadelphia.

UNDER DESPATCH

For London.—We'come.For Bombay.—Jamsetjee Jorjeebhoy.For Sing. & Cal.—Hope, on the 25th of this month.For Sing. & Bombay.—Queen Victoria, will be de-patched on the 25th.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Dovecot, Devon, Elizabeth, Pink,
Mary Ann, Edie, Claudine, Claudius,
Louisa, Jackson, Bolivar, Matilda,
Geo. Wallis, Lord Lowther, Adelaide, John Bibby, Zenobia, Athenaean, Parrock Hall, Asia, Madras,
Equestrian, Urania, Bella Marina,
John O'Gaunt, Will o' the Wisp,
Liverpool.From Bombay.—Drongen, Island Queen, Asia,
Diana, Corea, Woodman, Hy,
Davidson, Hebrides, Kirkman,
Finlay, Thetis, St. Lawrence,
Wm Sharples, Wm. Hyde, John,
Moor, Helena, Bombay Castle,
Prince Regent.From Calcutta.—Dido, Crown, Intrepid, Victory, Cowanjee Family, Frankie Cowanjee, Mor, Coringa Packet, Bengal
Packet, Ariel, Weraff, Mary Anne,
Hers, Pelorus.From Singapore.—Camden, Sarah Bedford.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th June. SINGAPORE, 2d August.

UNITED STATES, May 18. MANILA, 2d August.

CALCUTTA, 7th July. AMOY, "

BOMBAY, 10th July. CHUAN, 6th August.

JAVA, 10th July.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	T.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Arno,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arrow,	—	Gears,	—
Arethusa,	—	Christians,	C. Fearon.
Agueda,	—	Butchard,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Andromache,	—	Turner & Co.	—
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria,	—	West,	"
Br. Sovereign,	493	Cow,	"
Bucephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawsen,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corsair,	—	Martin,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Cadet,	—	Curling,	Jardine M. & Co.
China,	524	Robertson	Russell and Co.
Cacique,	—	Mow,	C. Fearon.
Chebar,	—	Harrison,	Lindsay and Co.
Claudine,	—	Norris,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Catherine,	—	Brown,	"
Charles Forbes,	900	Wills, [ger	"
Charlotte,	—	Liebschwa	"
Devonport,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
Ellora,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellen,	—	Turnbull,	"
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.

*England,	—	*Bookely,	—	Lindsay and Co.
Earl Balcarras,	1488	Baker,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh,	—	Paterson,	—	—
*Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	—	Macvicar and Co.
*Fred. Huth,	—	Toby,	—	Turner and Co.
Fr. Spaight,	—	Winn,	—	"
*Fortescue,	259	Hall,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Forteen,	294	Baddeler,	—	—
Felicity,	—	McDonald,	—	Dirom and Co.
*Gemini,	—	Mardon,	—	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	—	—
*Gulnare,	—	Watt,	—	Lindsay and Co.
*Hero of Malowa,	—	wilonghy,	—	Dirom and Co.
Hersey,	—	Jackson,	—	"
Hongkong,	—	Easterly,	—	—
*Hygeia,	378	Whetten,	—	G. Nye jr.
Hope,	—	Woodbury,	—	Macvicar & Co.
Hope,	—	Crawford,	—	—
*Helen Stewart,	—	Cockbain,	—	"
Hindostan,	708	Brown,	—	Dent and Co.
Helen,	—	Hickes,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Harriott Scott,	—	Beynow,	—	Pereira and Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	—	Dent and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	—	Jardine M. and Co.
*James Ewing,	—	Maitland,	—	W. H. Harton,
Jno. Brightman,	—	Viall,	—	Dent and Co.
Louisa,	—	Forgun,	—	—
*Lowjee Family,	—	Avres,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
*Larkins,	—	Hibbert,	—	Freeman,
Litherland,	—	Freeman,	—	Turner and Co.
*Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,	—	Lindsay & Co.
Lord Eldon,	—	Worsell,	—	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Mahamoodie,	—	Byworth,	—	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
Maia,	—	Sproule,	—	Dent and Co.
M.S. Elphinston	—	—	—	A. A. de Mello.
Mermald,	644	Gill,	—	C. H. Hart.
Manly,	—	Hart,	—	W. Scott.
Mercury,	—	—	—	Macvicar & Co.
Madara,	—	Milne,	—	Jardine M. and Co.
Nerva,	—	Melville,	—	W. & T. Gemmell & Co
Orator,	—	Serry,	—	—
Peruvian,	304	Pithkethly	—	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Pretulate,	—	Ramsay,	—	—
Pandora,	298	Cotbay,	—	—
Prince of Wales	—	Jones,	—	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
*Queen Victoria,	715	Black,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
*Queen Victoria	—	Connor,	—	A. & D. Furdoojee.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	—	C. H. Hart.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	—	Hugheson Brothers.
Snipe,	—	Morton,	—	Jamieson, How & Co.
Semiramis,	365	Cairne,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
Shepherd,	—	Bowdich,	—	—
Salem,	—	Milford,	—	—
Syria,	—	Stronnyan,	—	—
Tartar,	—	Luce,	—	—
Trinidad,	—	Brown,	—	—
Ternate,	—	Mann,	—	Ferguson L. & Co.
Winchester,	—	Macdonald,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	—	J. A. Durran jr.
*Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	—	Macvicar & Co.
*Wm. Pirrie,	552	McDonnal	—	W. & T. Gemmell & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long.
Forum,	Murdock, Russell and Co.
Helena,	Benjamin,
Levant,	Faulk,
*Ann MacKinn,	Vasner,
Congress,	Hay,
Probus,	Sumner,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Lowell,	Peirce,
Panther,	Martin,
Charleston,	Harlow,

* At Whampoa.

DIED.—At Macao on the 16th instant,
PERRONJEE COWASSEE SETHA, Esq., aged 53 years and much regretted by his numerous friends and relatives.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 48.] Macao, Saturday, 27th August, 1842.

[No. 360.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

At the old Shop Campo de San Francisco.

F. J. MARCAL,

WILL SELL

BY PUBLIC AUCTION,

On this day Saturday the 27th instant.

At 11 o'clock A. M.

A quantity of Europe Bremen Rupe of various sizes from 4 inch down to 1/4 inch; Europe Nails in kegs; Sperm Candles in boxes; Oil Cloths for covering Piano Fortes; Ditto Table covers; Silk Umbrellas; a quantity of Printed Quillings, Gentlemen's Dressing Coats; Ladies Boots and Shoes; Patent safety tin boxes with Padlocks and Keys; a few double and single barrelled Guns; some Soda and Sedlitz Powders; and various other articles.

TERMS—CASH. 7:2.

Macao, 23rd August, 1842.

ON TUESDAY THE 30th INSTANT.

JOHN SMITH will sell by Public Auction, on his premises, a quantity of Lacquered Ware and 85 whole chests of Young Hyson Tea, more or less damaged. Also, THE EFFECTS and WEARING APPAREL of the late Capt. TURNER, of the "Anglo." Particulars will be published in Handbills.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATRICKSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Manheim, and in that of BUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pianang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. THOMAS FOX and Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our Establishment ceased on the 30th April 1841, and Mr. ARTHUR JOHN EMPSON was admitted a Partner from the same date.

FOX RAWSON & Co.

China, 5th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt. JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorized to receive and give acquittances for the same.

JAMES F. STURGIS.

Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 22d July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of JAMES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

DENT & Co.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrégates des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FRASER, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Marion, 6th Aug. 1841.

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDISE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUVA, or to

C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 33rd February, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.

IN the Lofts or ground floor of the Granite Godowns Godowns, No. 46 Queens Road, Houwan, at low rates, with the conveniences of Piers, Boats &c.—situated at a distance above high water mark with double sea-walls rendering them quite safe during the typhoon season. Apply on the premises to

C. V. GILLESPIE.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 3000 Bales of Cotton.

For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq. —Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE. —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGNEDA" A. I. at Lloyd's, W. JEFFRAY commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma oak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bends, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine new clipper built Ship Hope, Capt. CRAWFORD, will sail for the above ports on the 28th inst., and is now ready to receive cargo. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Ship "JOHN BRIGHTMAN," Capt. VIAL, will be despatched for the above ports about the 25th instant. For freight or passage apply to

Macao, 5th August, 1842

W. H. HARTON.

FOR SALE, OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMONCITO" burthen 300 Tons, Capt. RAMON G. GONZALES. For particulars apply to

L. MARQUES.

Macao, 4th August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark PANDORA (298 Tons), Capt. COTHAY. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt. ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

Macao 21st July, 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to

J. COOLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton,

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.—Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWER FAMILY, captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to Macao, 9th July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Trak Bulk Ship "H. O. B. MALOW," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) F. PRO. DIROM & Co.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

W. W. DALE.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," of about 700 Tons burthen, Captain BLACK, having the greater part of her cargo engaged, will have an early despatch for the above port. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM FINNIS, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONNELL Commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. Bull, Canton or

Macao, 19th June, 1842.

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842

FOR SALE.—A Rifle and a few pairs double and four abrelled Pistols, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARABIC and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 26 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to

Macao, 25th July, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton Stockings of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton Socks and Stockings of ditto. Gentlemen's Calico shirts with Linen fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 24th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's. SHERRY in bottle and Hums, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARST in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to

LINDSAY & Co.

Just arrived from London.

ENAMELLED BOOTS and enameled Dress Pumps, Ladies enameled SLIPPERS, STOUT and LIGHT Walking SHOES, 1 Ladies Gait fitted with BRASS, CULINARY, PERFUMERY, &c., LAVENDER WATER and Extract of MILLEFLEUR, PEN-KNIVES, RAZORS and RASOR STONES, Princess Mixture SOAP, a COPYING MACHINE complete, RACING SADDLES and BRIDLES complete, Plated Rice SPOONS, 2 units of prime HORSE CLOTHES with Hood &c. complete, 1 handsome French GUITAR, Boy's and Girl's riding HATS, Ladies silk BONNETS trimmed & Children's de die French & German MERINO black, FANCY SILK SOLE, white LINEN of superior quality Candles, SOAPS, &c. &c. — For sale by B. de RENEDES Freyre-Muncho the fourth house passed Dr. Freitas's Dispensary.

Macao, 20th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de Mandado, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner.

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE. from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 15th July, 1842.

ON SALE.—At 46 QUEEN'S ROAD, AMERICAN FINE SPARKS, PROVISIONS, SHERRY WINE in Wood and Glass, BRANDY, do. do. COIR ROPE, CANVAS, PAINTS and other stores by C. V. GILLESPIE. Hongkong, 21st March, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, 1 Mile Burton ALE in Hhd. per "Anna Elisa," apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—On board the "Isabella Robertson" lying in the Tyne. Cases of Basses BEER, La Rose CLARET, OILMAN'S STOKES, SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles, Provision RICE, TABLE RICE, GRAIN, COIR ROPE.—Apply on board. 1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart-bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKEY, Champagne CIDER, SWAINS PANACEA, compound extract of SARSAPARILLA, Spermaceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodwins of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—Most Splendid French PINE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in. An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed Lamps, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit. A few very neat new Favourite Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Mississippi SHIP in quart bottles, a 4/3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY. Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases. CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do. CLARET 3 do. do. SHERRY, PALE in Hhd. Seltzer Water new. OILMAN'S STORES late imports. BEER in tierces; PORK in barrels. Cattle 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine Cuvée pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & FINE WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL, Turpentine, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few Spoons for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. De MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MADRID WINE in Pipes, Hogheads, and Quarter casks; from the well known house of KIRKS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATELAIN A ROSE, in 3 dozen cases. MANILA SUGAR, de superior. COGNAC BRANDY. Seltzerwater and Hock. HANDSOME PORK and BEER. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to JOAO BARRETO. Macao, 20th October, 1841.

FOR SALE.—SHERRY in Brits and Hbds., PORT and SHERRY in bottle ex "Sappho" and Alsopp's fine PALE ALE in Hbds. ex "John O'Gaunt" & "Regular." TURNER & Co. Macao, 20th January, 1842.

Overland Mail

OF 4TH JUNE.

MEETINGS.

MEETING OF THE EAST INDIA COMPANY ON THE SUBJECT OF THE TARIFF.

A special general court was held at the East India House on Wednesday, for the purpose of taking into consideration the proposed alterations in the English tariff, so far as they might affect the produce and manufactures of the East Indies, and also, for the purpose of petitioning both Houses of Parliament on the subject. Mr. J. L. Lushington took the chair.

Mr. M. Martin rose to address the court. In the debate in the House of Commons on Tuesday night, the whole tariff was discussed. In that debate notice had been taken of America, France, Russia, and Prussia; but not one word had been said about India. He considered the tariff as a great and enlightened change, one likely to prove a spring of renewed vigour to the commerce of the country, and it was therefore with great regret that he dissented, as far as India was concerned, from several items of that tariff. Russia was the first country that comes into competition with India; and yet Russia excludes nearly all our manufactures, while India admits them all at a nominal duty of 3 per cent. He explained the course and balance of trade between England and Russia for several years past; and, proceeding to particular articles, said that tallow imported from British India fetched as high a price as that of Russia. He saw no reason to suppose that the hope expressed by Sir Robert Peel of Russia and the United States: allowing their system to be realized since at the close of the present year a new tariff, on the same principles as the present, came into operation. Sweden and Norway acted on the same principle as Russia, and he contended that India ought not to be placed on the same footing as those countries. He went through the principal articles of Indian produce, particularly the newly rising product of sugar, and hoped the court would watch carefully the alterations in the duties on this article, so that India might not be deprived of the benefit of the commerce in this article. He thought the success of the motion of which Mr. Labouchere here had given notice, would be a check to the production of sugar in India. Wool had of late years become an increasing export from India; and, considering the large quantity imported by England, there was the greatest inducement to encourage the growth of Indian wool. The exportation of skins and hides and castor oil had also greatly increased. Linseed was also an indigenous product of India, and it was a remarkable fact, that cattle on the plains of Yorkshire were now fed on linseed grown in India. In 1834, it was not exported from India at all; but now a house in London had invested a large sum in the trade, the Indian tallow being equal in quality to the best imported from Russia. The importance of this branch of commerce was apparent, when it was remembered that England paid Russia two millions yearly in gold and silver for this article. During the last ten years there had been an increased importation of hemp from India; but the effect of the tariff would be to prevent any further increase. By lessening the duty on timber imported from the Baltic, great injury must in like manner be sustained by the task trade of India. With respect to the article of pepper, which was the product of India in an especial manner, the consumption at present of that article was about 1½ oz. to each individual; that if the overment could be induced to lessen the amount of duty on it, the consumption would be greatly increased—whilst there was only a duty of 15 per cent, on spices, which were used as articles of luxury, on pepper, which was a necessary of life, the duty was at an enormously high rate. It was now imported under the same restriction as the pepper of foreign countries. Tobacco was an article with which India was capable of supplying all Europe. The first tariff proposed a slight degree of justice in this article to India, by taking off a portion of the duty to the amount of 3d per pound, the duty on Indian tobacco having been reduced from 3s to 2s 9d per pound, and the duty on foreign-grown tobacco retained at 3s per pound. But that small protection was subsequently taken off, and the import of Indian tobacco was now as much restricted as that of foreign-grown. Rice was another article with respect to which India was not fairly treated; inasmuch as the relative duties imposed on it, and on the slave-grown rice of America enabled the latter to compete with us in our markets with Indian rice in such a manner as to injure that branch of Indian trade very much. He would next briefly advert to an article of consumption which had not been hitherto imported into this country from India—he meant wheat. There was at the present moment a large quantity of Indian wheat being landed at Liverpool from Calcutta. It was the first time that a cargo of wheat had been introduced into this country from India, and he felt convinced that if the trade in this article were encouraged by imposing only a nominal duty of 1s. per qr. upon it, it would be sufficiently large quantities imported to render England independent of a supply from foreign countries. It was of consequence for them to consider whether they should make a stand to have these articles restored to a more favourable position, and whether they should not request the government to do away with the second and third tariffs, as far as India was concerned, and have recourse again to the first tariff. He now came to the manufactures of India; this country had, for a long time, pursued towards the manufactures of India a most unjust course. Some concession had certainly been made in the articles of cotton and silk manufacture imported into England from India, they were to be reduced from 10 to 5 per cent, and sell from 30 to 5 per cent; but did England make any difference between the manufactures of India and the manufactures of France? None whatever; the manufactures of India and France were placed exactly on the same footing. Surely the government ought to have acted on a feeling of reciprocity, and have admitted these articles into England at the same rate of duty as that at which those of England were admitted into India, viz., 3 per cent. Nothing could restore India from the state of financial embarrassment under which she now laboured, but a more extensive system of commerce; and he trusted that Parliament would now render all the aid in its power towards the accomplishment of this object. He begged to conclude by moving the following resolution:—"That, in the opinion of this court, the territories under the government of the East India Company ought to be treated as integral portions of the British empire; and that as a revision of the English tariff is now taking place, this court, in fulfilment of its duty to their fellow-subjects in British India, do again petition both Houses of Parliament, praying for a complete reciprocity of trade between India and England, which, if fully and fairly established, will confer mutual and extensive benefits on both countries, and materially contribute to the security and permanence of the British power and influence in the Eastern hemisphere."

At the request of the Chairman a series of letters, addressed by the Board of Directors to the government, pressing the same points, were read. The Chairman hoped that, after hearing that correspondence, the court would think that the Court of Directors had not been inattentive to the interests of India in respect to the important matters brought under the consideration of the court by the hon. member, Mr. M. Martin.

Mr. Lyall said that he had an interview with the Earl of Ripon, upon whom he had strongly urged the claims of India to further advantages on the alteration of the tariff, and laid before him the letter from the Secretary of the Assam Company. But his lordship, having consulted Sir Robert Peel on the subject, said that no further alteration of the tariff could be made at present.

After a prolonged conversation, Mr. M. Martin withdrew his motion for a petition, and a resolution to the following effect was agreed to:—"That this court desires to record its entire concurrence in the representations, which, as appeared from the documents just read, had been made by the Board of Directors to her Majesty's government, respecting the duties on articles the produce of countries directly or indirectly under the government of the East India Company, and expresses its hope that the statements and correspondence will receive due consideration."

It was further resolved that the chairman be requested to communicate a copy of the resolution to the Board of Control and the Prime Minister.

Mr. Salomons gave notice that, on the next court day, he would move a resolution to the effect:—"That an application be made to the Board of Control for such papers and documents relating to the affairs of Afghanistan as may enable the court to decide on the propriety of appealing to her Majesty's government to relieve the treasury of India from the charges of the Afghan intervention, and that the expenses of that war be borne by the exchequer of the United Kingdom."

AN IRISH FREE AND HIS LADY.

The following extraordinary case came before the Prerogative Court, at Dublin, on Tuesday:—Sir Henry Meredith had appeared for the promovee, to ask an order ad interim alimony, pending the cause for a divorce, which had been instituted by his client Ellen Butler, otherwise Burke, commonly called Lady Galmoy, of Garrendenny Castle, in the Queen's county. The promovee's libel alleged that she was married to Garrett Butler, commonly called Lord Galmoy, on the 20th of December, 1846, by a clergyman of the Established Church, named the Reverend J. Maguire, at Callenwood, in the county of Dublin, which was consummated immediately afterwards; facts admitted by his lordship in his reply. The property of Lord Galmoy had been 1,000l. a year when this suit was instituted, certainly a small sum for a peer of the realm, but quite enough for the purposes of his ill-used lady. He alleged, however, that it is now only 400l. a year; but this was owing to his own acts, having lately settled 200l. a year on his mother, and disposed of further sums to discharge incumbrances. He has also a house and stock of the value of 1000l., and he (Sir Henry) did not think he was asking too much for his wife—a peeress—when he named 200l. a year. Dr. Radcliffe—Does he deny the marriage? Sir Henry Meredith—No, my Lord, he admits it; and that they lived together as man and wife for some time after. Dr. Radcliffe—What grounds does he offer for refusing the allowance asked for? Sir Henry—He says that having purchased her for the sum of 51, and having considered her, even at that amount, a dear bargain, he does not think her worth her support (Laughter.) It would be better to hear his own reply. Sir Henry then called upon the registrar to read the impugnant's first article, which admitted the marriage, and thus proceeded:—"Said promoment was first introduced to this respondent by her mother (one Mary Power), as and for and in the character of a prostitute, to whom this respondent gave the sum of 51, for said promoment, and also the sum of 91, to the said Power for the introduction, and said promoment did live with this respondent as a prostitute for some time after, and up to the time of the marriage." Mr. J. Radcliffe, for the impugnant, said that the lady herself did not claim to be a peeress in the title to this cause, nor did she require much money to keep her in the company to which she was accustomed. According to her own showing, she danced jigs with her own servants to the playing of a piper, and had no objection to drink whisky. (Laughter.) Sir H. Meredyth—But did not Lord Galmoy elevate her to the peerage? (Laughter.) Mr. J. Radcliffe—She does not pretend to be a peeress. She describes herself as "Ellen Burke, commonly called Lady Galmoy," and he was of opinion that the less alimony such a lady received the better for her own constitution. Dr. Radcliffe—What would you give her? You must give her something. Mr. J. Radcliffe—His income is only 400l. a year. I suppose a fifth part would be quite sufficient for her wants. They were only lately married, and lived but a short time together. Court—think the eighth part of his income, 50l., ought to satisfy the lady.

DESTRUCTION BY FIRE OF THE "GEORGIA" INDIAMAN.

On Saturday the intelligence of the loss by fire of the ship "Georgia" of Newcastle, an Indiaman, Captain Mitchell, bound to London, was received at Lloyd's, attended, we regret to say, with the loss of five lives. The ship was between eight hundred and nine hundred tons burden, was valued at 7,000l., being fitted up for the accommodation of passengers. She had a rich cargo on board, consisting of jewellery, merchandise, and other valuable property, which perished with the vessel; a loss in total of nearly 20,000l. The unfortunate event occurred on the morning of the 1st of last month, whilst of her passage to England from Calcutta, which place she left in the early part of February. From the accounts brought by the ship "Thomas Sparks," from China, it appears that, early on the morning mentioned, the "watch" on deck, when the vessel was in latitude 30° south and longitude 36° east, off Madagascar, having discovered a strong smell of burning about the ship aroused the commander, Captain Mitchell, and the rest of the crew. When the main hatches were taken off, the burning was found to proceed from the cargo, and orders were given to remove a portion of it, so as to get at the fire. The crew, however, had not proceeded far, before a volume of smoke burst upon them, and shortly afterwards became so intense, accompanied with excessive heat, that they were forced to desist. Captain Mitchell then had the hatches replaced, and blocked up every aperture in the ship, in the hope of stifling the fire. But this proved unavailing; for in about two hours the flames broke through the cabin windows, and from the hatchway over the fore-castle, to the dismay of all on board. Captain Mitchell, perceiving that the destruction of the vessel was now inevitable, directed the crew to prepare to leave the ship. At about eight o'clock the chief mate, with nine of the crew, left the burning vessel in the jolly boat; and they were directly followed by Captain Mitchell and the rest of the ship's crew, four in number, in the small boat. At this critical period a vessel was observed at a distance bearing towards the ill-fated ship, and the chief mate turned to make known this joyful intelligence to Captain Mitchell and the rest of the crew, when he was horror-struck on finding that the boat had foundered, and that none of them were to be seen. The ship "Thomas Sparks," came up alongside soon afterwards, and took the chief officer and the rest of the "Georgia's" crew on board, and they remained within a short distance of the burning ship until she went down. The "Georgia" and cargo are reported to be insured to the extent 91 25,000l.

THE ARMY.

The report that Mr. Johnson, of the 80th regiment, had been killed in a duel at Palermo, is contradicted on that officer's own authority. On Saturday a detachment of the Royal Sappers and Miners embarked on her Majesty's Royal Arsenal for Canada, to fill up the vacancies in the different companies on that station.

NEW REGULATIONS RESPECTING THE ARMY.

The formation of the recently organised two-battalion regiments has given rise to the following regulations, which have just been promulgated by Lord Hill's direction, for the information of the commanding officers of those corps, and of the army at large.—The establishment of the regiment is to be as follows, viz.—1 colonel,

1 lieutenant-colonel, 2 majors, 12 captains, 14 lieutenants, 10 ensigns, 1 paymaster, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 surgeon, 2 assistant-surgeons, 1 sergeant-major, 1 paymaster-sergeant, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 1 armourer-sergeant, 1 schoolmaster-sergeant, 1 hospital-sergeant, 1 orderly-room clerk, 12 colour-sergeants, 48 serjeants, 60 corporals, 1 drum-major, 24 drummers and fifers, 1,140 privates. The strength of the two battalions is to consist of 540 rank and file each, and that of the depot of 120 rank and file; making a total of 1,200 rank and file. The present depot is to be completed by volunteers, formed into six service companies of equal numbers, and to be denominated the "reserve battalion." The present service companies are to constitute the first battalion. Four non-commissioned officers of each class are to be appointed to every company in the first instance; the appointment of remaining twelve sergeants and twelve corporals is not to take place until the regiment has received the whole of its armamentation, and has been consolidated abroad. This arrangement will enable the commanding officer to make a more advantageous and impartial selection than could be effected while the two battalions remain separated. In considering this point, however, the recommendations of commanding officers in regard to the appointment of non-commissioned officers from the volunteers from other corps, are not to be lost sight of, but to take precedence of all other recommendations. No flank companies are to be attached to the reserve battalion. The band is to remain with the first battalion; the reserve battalion is not to have a band. The lieutenant-colonel is to be posted in the first battalion, and to be assisted by the junior major; but he (the lieutenant-colonel) is to have the general superintendence of the entire regiment, and to be responsible for its discipline and efficiency when both battalions are together. The senior major is to have the immediate command of the reserve battalion, with which the whole of the present depot staff will continue to serve, with the addition of an acting quartermaster. In the absence of the senior major, the second major is to assume the command of the reserve battalion. When both battalions are stationed in the same garrison, there is to be but one mess; but provision is to be made for the mess accommodation of each distinct battalion, in the event of its separation. With this view, the reserve battalion is to carry with it the whole of the present depot mess establishment. No additional expense is to be incurred by the officers of the reserve battalion on account of mess equipment. When the two battalions are separated, the mess plate and utensils are to be divided, according to the regulations of the present depot system. The depot is to consist of one captain, two lieutenants, one second lieutenant, six sergeants, six corporals, two drummers or bagpipers, and 114 privates. The whole of the records and attestations are to be left in charge of the officer in command of the depot; but copies of these documents are to be sent abroad, as has heretofore been the practice, with the service companies of regiments proceeding on foreign service.

NEWSPAPERS IN THE EASTERN SEAS.

BOMBAY TIME.—Wherever Englishmen congregated together in numbers, one of the first essentials to happiness seems to be a Newspaper. The multitude which reach us from the shores of New Holland surprise us not more by their abundance than by the excellency of their appearance, so far as printing and paper is concerned and the temperate, judicious and manly style in which the subjects of which they treat are discussed. Here, however, we have a large and hoary increasing population. The quarters which comprise us most as furnish a field for newspaper speculation, are the settlements in the Straits and China Seas. We have now four Journals in the Straits—the Free Press and Straits Messenger; both published at Singapore; the Penang Gazette and Malacca Register at the places designated by their titles respectively. At Macao we have the Canton Register and Canton Press and at Hongkong the Friend of China. How these six manage to subsist themselves, we know not; we can only say, that one and all of them are respectable, and more than one ably, written; and that they have the good taste and good sense to devote themselves to the affairs of the localities to which they belong, and thus become valuable vehicles of original information to friends at a distance. The Friend of China and Straits Messenger are both of them now and both of them very promising Journals. The former appears to be the medium of publication for official intelligence in place of the Hongkong Gazette, and thus enjoys the patronage of axes of authority. Its Editor is Mr. White, formerly Alderman of London, and very recently arrived in China. We thought that the Register and Press had already more than filled the field of Chinese Journalism. Of the Straits Messenger we know nothing further than from the paper itself, which comes in a very unquestionable form, with strong claims on public confidence. The Penang Gazette again is changed in every thing but name; it has got a new Editor, and apparently a new printer, and appears in more than double its former size. We are glad to welcome our new contemporaries, and hail them as additional ministers to the knowledge of mankind. We would not forget the merits of our former friends the Canton Press and Canton Register already mentioned, and the Singapore Free Press—to which we have so often been indebted. May they all find ample room and verge enough for prodigious exertion in the field of their respective labours!

• Ceased to be published in February last for want of an Editor, former one having retired.—Ed. S. M.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 27th Aug. 1842.

We have had during the week arrivals both from Calcutta and Singapore; from the former the Mer on the 23d, but her letters have by an accident proceeded in her to Hongkong, and with few exceptions not yet reached; we have been assured that this slow delivery was altogether against the wishes of her consignees; by the Island Queen, arrived on the 24th, we have received on the evening of the 24th Bombay papers to the 1st July, but they contain no intelligence of interest. We have also been kindly favored with the loan of a "Friend of India" of 14th and 21st July (our own papers being still on their travels) brought per Mer, but find in them very little of interest. News from Jellalah to the 17th June had been received, and it was now generally supposed that the army would at all events remain in Afghanistan until October; but whether a forward move upon Cabul was to be made, remained unknown. Meanwhile detachments had been despatched from Jellalah into the surrounding country, to destroy the enemy's strongholds, and had been successful in several instances, and likewise sent large quantities of provisions of all kinds into the camp. New intrigues between Persia and Shah Kamran at Herat are said to have been discovered, having for object the assisting the latter with a large body of men against the English. On Sir John McNeil at Teheran receiving this intelligence, he demanded explanation from the Persian minister for foreign affairs, but obtained only unsatisfactory or evasive answers.

Patna Opium was by the last advices from Calcutta quoted at 1010 Rupees per chest.

FALL OF NANKING.—Although no authentic accounts have yet been received from the seat of war, it is mentioned in letters from Canton of date of 24th August, that certain intelligence has there been received of Nanking having been taken by the British force on the 23d of July. The few particulars attending the capture of this important city, which have been kindly communicated to us, are, that on the taking a great many lives were lost, that the Viceroy and other great officers of state escaped in good time, opening for their flight one of the gates only of the city, while the others remained shut, and that the rush of the inhabitants to escape by flight was so great, that many hundreds were trampled to death. These are all the particulars that have as yet come to our knowledge. The fall of the second city of the empire seems to have made a great impression upon the apathetic Chinese at Canton, who seem to be much distressed at this, to them, unexpected blow; and to have created there a much greater sensation than any previous event of the war. This news has cast a gloom over the provincial city, whose business, for the time, was at a complete stand.

We hope that a statement, to convey this important intelligence, will be despatched from the seat of war, and that we may soon be enabled to publish a more authentic and detailed account. That this new success of the British arms, who are said also to have taken several towns on their way to Nanking, and to have taken and fortified the Golden Island, near the junction of the great canal with the Yangtze River, must cause a sensation much greater at Peking than at Canton, we have no doubt, particularly as combined with it is the blockade of the canal by which the supplies for the capital from the southern and central provinces were sent; and although it is said that Peking is always provisioned for about three years, we are inclined much to doubt this report, on account of the immense sum required for a sufficiency of provisions for so long a period to nourish at least two millions of her inhabitants. If any such stores exist, they are probably destined only for the support of the Imperial household and troops. But the most important question now is—what will, on receipt of this intelligence, be the line of conduct pursued by the government at Peking? Will they persevere in their silence?—continue obstinately bent on not making the first advances towards a settlement? Will the Emperor still launch his harmless thunders, and threats of extermination against the barbarians? or will he at length see the folly of his obstinacy which already has entailed such manifold evils upon the black-haired race, and threat- ening, if persevered in, to involve them in others and greater? We hope the latter may be the result of the occupation of Nanking, but confess that we consider this hope unsupported by probability—for hitherto the Court has not shown the slightest symptoms of a wish for accommodation. If it should persist in its contemptuous silence, the possession of Nanking will, we fear, not be of great use, and not hasten an ultimate settlement of differences between the two nations. The season is too late for the British force to move to the Peiho and take the capital of China, and unless the Emperor be driven from his capital, we fear his pride and vanity will not be sufficiently humbled to consent to treat the hitherto despised barbarians as equals. Should therefore, as we fear will turn out to be the case, no negotiations, sincere on the part of the Chinese, be entered into, con- sequent on the fall of Nanking, the only way to en- force a treaty of peace, although perhaps after the lapse of some years only, would be to occupy the whole of the province of Kiangnan; organise a British government, driving every mandarin out of the country, and keeping forcible possession of it, until the court of Peking was brought to its senses. That the possession of the richest and most central province of the Empire, by an enemy, would be a serious inconvenience and embarrass the government of Peking admits of no doubt, and may prove the only means of coercing it into a concession of de- mands made by Great Britain. But this may pos- sibly be a work of time, and may require still fur- ther accessions to the strength of the English army, which we believe, not counting marines or sailors, does in all not exceed 14000 bayonets, from which garrisons at Chinhsa, Tinghsa, Amoy, and Hongkong must be deducted; whilst the two pro- vinces of Kiangnan and Chekiang are equal in ex- tent to about one half of France, containing, it is said, more than double the number of inhabitants of that country. The task of organising a govern- ment in such extent of country, with comparatively so small a force, seems of the utmost difficulty, the more so as the Chinese have hitherto discovered the utmost reluctance to obey foreign rulers, as is ex- emplified by the little success experienced in the small island of Chusan, of which the English up to the present moment possess nothing beyond the walls of Tinghsa and their own cantonments.

By letters from the Yang tze kiang of 8th July, we learn that the British force left Wousoong on the 7th, on its way up towards Nanking. An eye- witness writes it was a splendid sight to see this enormous fleet, consisting in all of about 100 sail, without counting steamers, sail up that magnificent river. The Plover (late Bantick), Royalist and Starling, surveying vessels, which, accompanied by several steamers, had surveyed the river as far as Nanking, had returned only the day previous, and we believe reported the river navigable for the larg- est ships up to Nanking.

H. M. S. Druid and the Peggy, both from China, were seen off Singapore on the 6th of August by the Marquis of Hastings.

By vessels just come from the East coast, we learn that a junk with a large quantity of gunpowder on board, lately arrived at Chimmo from Singapore, and that several Captains of Opium vessels there, as soon as they became aware of the fact, informed Capt. Chads, in command of the naval station at Amoy, of it, who immediately despatched H. M. B. Serpent, on whose arrival the junk was seized, and with assistance of the boats from the English trading vessels, was towed on shore close to Chimmo, set on fire, and blown up. At the same time, we know not whether to protect the party towing the junk, or for what other cause, a fire was opened upon the town of Chimmo from the Serpent, by which sev- eral hundred Chinese are said to have lost their lives. This event has naturally for a time destroyed the trading station at Chimmo. At same time we are informed, that Capt. Chads has made known to the commanders of vessels trading on the coast, that saltpetre is to be considered as ammunition of war, and that any vessel found to have it on board for sale would be liable to seizure.

We are sorry to learn that sickness prevails to a great degree on the island of Kolongsoo, near Amoy, amongst the garrison, and that out of 400 of the 18th Royal Irish there are 117 sick, mostly with brain fever, we suppose brought on by the too li- beral use of that dangerous spirit, Samshoo.

Of the crew of the Ann, shipwrecked some months ago on Formosa, we hear that the lascars and other natives detained as prisoners by the Chinese at a place called (we believe) Tai wan, are allowed per- sonal liberty so far as to be able to walk about, whilst the white men are closely kept in prison. We wonder why nothing is done by the British authori- ties to reclaim these unfortunate men.

We see with much regret, and, we confess, with greater astonishment, that the Editor of the Singapo- re Free Press in his number of 4th August has per- mitted a communication, signed S. H., to be pub- lished in his paper, and were it not for the editorial praise he bestows thereon, we would fain hope that he allowed its insertion from inadvertence, ignorant of its very offensive and mischievous contents. The writer of that communication professes to give an account of society and manners in Manila, and not content with libelling the whole people in the gross- est manner, unblushingly tells us, that he thrust himself upon the kind and unsuspecting hospitality of a family in Manila; and then relates for the amusement (!) of his readers the offensive particulars of his host's personal ailments; the defective econo- my of his table; ridicules the obesity and mental inanity of the ladies, who he tells us after dinner retired to their siesta, with "sweaty haste," and favors the reader with other disgusting particulars of their persons, which for truth and decency's sake ought never to have been written, much less printed. The consequence of publishing such libels, will be, we fear, animosity between the people of Manila and the foreigners there, unless the latter disclaim any share in such sentiments, and we sincerely hope, since S. H. has left Manila, none other can be found there capable of the unpardonable indiscretion of that anonymous writer.

From the Canton Register, 23rd August.

TRANSLATION.

From the Canton Gazette.

On the 17th day of the 4th moon (May 26), the im- perial edict was received.

Yikking and his colleagues have reported on the dis- orderly conduct of the rebellious barbarians, and that the city of Chapoo is lost.

The rebellious barbarians, having retired from Ningpo, again collected their ships and suddenly advanced on Chapoo, attacked and destroyed the city. The said gen- eral had not been able, previously to prepare means of defence, and the consequence was, that Chapoo was lost. I order that Yikking, Wanwei, Tia Shuan, and Lew Yang, all to be delivered over to the board of civil offices, for severe and increased punishment. Respect this.

By an other edict dated the 21st of the 4th moon, (May 30) these three officers, as a mark of special favour, though degraded, are retained in office.

Under date 12th day, of the 5th moon (June 20) a million of taels is ordered to be sent to the province of Kwangsoo, on account of the momentous state of affairs in that province.

5th moon, 21st day, (June 29.)

The Manchow officers, Szechangto, and his suite, are ordered to proceed immediately to Tenstin, and there consult with Nahne-king-gu.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

IN THE YANG-TSEI-KIANG, CHUSAN, CHINNAI, &c. H. M. S. Cornwallis, 75, capt. Richards, Senior Com- manding Officer

" Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Ad- miral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.

" Thalia, 44, capt. Hope

" Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Grey.

" Calliope, 28, " A. L. Kuper,

" North Star, 28, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.

" Herald, 26, " J. Nias, C. B.

" Dido, 20, " the honble H. Keppell.

" Pelican, 18, " Napier.

" Modeste, 16, comr. Watson.

" Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.

" Columbine, 16, " Morhead.

" Childers, 16, " Halsted.

" Clio, 16, " E. Troubridge.

" Wanderer, 16, " Freemantle.

" Algerine, 10, Lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.

" Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.

" Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SPRAYING SHIPS.

" Starling, 6, comr. Kellist.

" Plover, 6, " Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

" Belisla, capt. Kingcomb.

" Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.

" Sapphire, " Cole.

" Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

" Rattlesnake, " "

" Alligator, " "

STAMERS.

H. C. Queen,	mr. comr.	W. Warden,
" Seostrie ,	comr.	Ormsby,
" Auckland ,	"	Etheracy, I. N.
" Tenasserim ,	"	Wall, I. N.
" Nemesis ,	lieut.	W. H. Hall, R. N.
" Pluto ,	"	Tudor, R. N.
" Ariadne ,	comr.	Roberts, I. N.
" Medusa ,	"	Hewitt, I. N.
" Phlegethon ,	lieut.	McClerverty, R. N.
" Proserpine ,	comr.	Hough, A. A.
" Memnon ,	"	Powell,
H. M. Vixen,	comr.	H. Bayes.
" Driver ,	"	Farmer.

AT AMOY

H. M. S. Cambrian ,	36, capt. Chads, C. B.	senior com- manding officer.
" Pylades ,	18, comr. Findal, (absent.)
" Chameleon ,	10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

" Blenheim ,	74, Bearing the flag of Rear Ad- miral, sir T. Cochrane, C. B., capt. sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.
" Vindictive ,	50, capt. Nicholas, C. C.
" Nimrod ,	18, comr. Glasse.
" Wolverine ,	16, capt. Johnson.
" Cruizer ,	16, comr. Pearse.
" Hazard ,	16, " Bell.
" Serpent ,	16, " Nevill.
" Young Hebe ,	4, " Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly ,	mr. comr. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

August.	ARRIVED
19, (B.)	Mary Ann , Edie, New Castle.
11, "	Intrepid , Stewart, Calcutta & Singapore.
18, "	Herald , Parker, Chusan.
16, "	Amelia Thompson , " , Chusan
20, "	Anna Watson , Bayes, " do.
30 (Sp.)	Rafaela , Patino, Manila.
22, (A.)	Delhi , Cole, Boston, 28th April.
23, (B.)	Comet , Clucas, Singapore.
23, "	Mor , Methuen, Calcutta & Singapore.
24, "	Island Queen , Balls, Bombay & Sing.
26, (P.)	Marquis of Hastings , Silva, Bombay & Sing.

August.	SAILED
21, (B.)	Fortescue , Hall, Chusan.
22, "	Herald , Parker, Manila.
23, (Sp.)	Relampago , Lopes, do.
24, (B.)	England , Bookely, Bombay.
24, "	Catharina , Brown, Manila.
24, "	Peruvia , Pithkethly, Liverpool.
27, "	Jams. Jessebhoy , Carnegie, Bombay.
27, "	Queen Victoria , Connor, do.
27, "	Parlequin , " , Sing & Calcutta.

UNDER IMMEDIATE DESPATCH
For Bombay.— Anonymous , Mur
For Manila.— Ramoncito on Monday the 29th.
For Calcutta.— John Brightman , Hope .

UNDER DESPATCH
For London.— Welcome .
For Sing. & Cal.— Hope , on the 25th of this month.
For Sing. & Bombay.— Queen Victoria , will be des- patched on the 29nd.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,— Dunoon , Drum , Elizabeth , Pink , Mary Ann , Edie , Claudia , Claudia , Louisa , Jackson , Bolivar , Matilda , Geo. Wallis , Lord Lowther , Ad- laide , John Bibby , Zennibia , Ash- man , Parrock Hall , Isle , Madras , Equestrian , Urania , Bills , Marina , John O'Gaunt , Will o' the Wisp , Liverpool .
From Bombay,— Drongan , Asia , Diana , Corea , Woodman , Hy Davidson , Hebrides , Kirkman , Finlay , Thelis , S. Law- rence , Wm. Sharples , Wm. Hyde , John Moor , Helena , Bombay , Cat- tle , Prince Regent .
From Calcutta,— Dido , Crown , Intrepid , Victory , Cowasjee Family , Framjee Cowas- jee , Coringa Packet , Bengal Packet , Ariel , Waruf , Mary Anne , Hera , Pelorus .
From Singapore,— Sarah Belford .

ENGLAND.	4th June.	SINGAPORE.	8th August.
UNITED STATES.	May 18.	MANILA.	2d August.
CALCUTTA.	23d July.	AMOY.	30th August.
BOMBAY.	16th July.	CHUSAN.	6th August.
JAVA.	10th July.

Printed and published by ROBERT MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 49.] Macao, Saturday, 3rd September, 1842.

[No. 361.]

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUDGON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.
Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATTERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to
CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Mautheln, and in that of ROCHANAW & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.
DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there: Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.
Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late MR. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKIN being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKIN & Co.
China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons who have claims on the Estate of the late Capt. JOSEPH L. TURNER, will please to present them to the subscriber for adjustment; and all persons who are indebted to the said Estate, are requested to make payment of said debts to the subscriber who is authorized to receive and give acquittances for the same.
JAMES P. STURGIS.
Consular Agent of the U. S. America.

Macao, 22d July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th Ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of JAMES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.
JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—I am undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.
p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.
A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—MR. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.
Macao, 1st July, 1842. DENT & Co.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subcargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.
C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.
Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,
Marion, 6th Aug., 1841 F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Commissary General, E. E. Force.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUVE, or to
C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq. —Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE. —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barge "AGNEDA" A. I. at Lloyd's, W. JAFFRAY commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma teak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bends, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to
D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.
Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine new clipper built Ship Horn, Capt. CRAWFORD, will sail for the above ports on the 25th inst., and is now ready to receive cargo. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Bark PANDORA (298 Tons), Capt. COTHAY. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt. ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to Macao 21st July, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "QUEEN VICTORIA," Capt. J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to

J. COOLIDGE & J. RYAN, —Canton,

JARDINE MATHESON & Co. —Macao,

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE LOWEY FAMILY, captain AYRES, will leave Whampoa on 1st Sept. and Macao or Hongkong in the first week of October. For freight apply to Macao, 9th July, 1842. DENT & Co.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HERO or MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. Pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Ship WILLIAM PIERCE, 552 Tons, N. M. McDONALD commander, now at Whampoa, and can commence loading without delay. Apply to Mr. J. M. BULL, Canton or

W. & T. GEMMELL & Co.

Macao, 15th June, 1842.

WANTED.—About 1,000 lbs. of assorted TYPES including Title Letters; a PRINTING PRESS, and other materials sufficient to fit-up a small PRINTING establishment. Apply to

MR. MARCOT.

Macao, 29th August, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 33 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A VALUABLE TIME PIECE: One 8-day TRAVELLING CLOCK, by James McCabe, No. 1739, jewelled in several holes, with enamelled almandine, strikes the hours, and shows the days of the week, and month, enclosed in a very handsome and neat gilt metal frame, and thick glass sides; attached in a morocco case, with glass front. The Watch keeps remarkably correct time. Price £350. Apply to Macao, 2d Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to Macao, 15th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARABACK and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to Macao, 26th August, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 35 to 37 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to Macao, 25th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality, Gentlemen's cotton SOCKS and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c. —Apply to
JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's. SHERRY in bottle and HINDS, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do. CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

Just arrived from London

E ENAMELLED Boots and enamelled Dress Pumps? Ladies enamelled SLIPPERS, STOUT and LIGHT Walking SHOS, 1 Ladies Gait fitted with BRUSHES, COLTARY, PERFUMERY, &c., LAVENDER WATER and Extract of MILETUB, PEN KNIVES, RAZORS and RAZOR STROPS, Princes Mixture SHUPT, a Copying Machine complete, RACING SADDLES and BRIDLES complete, Plated Race Spurs, 2 suits of prime HUNG CLOTHS with Hood &c complete, 1 handsome French GUITAR, Boy's and Girl's riding HATS, Ladies silk BONNETS trimmed & Children's do. do. French & German Machine black, Fancy Silk Socks, white LINEN of superior quality Genuine, SOAPS, &c. &c. —For sale by B. de RAMOSINO Praya Manduco the fourth house passed Dr. Freitas's Dispensary.
Macao, 29th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira apply to their owner
ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Fine Boston ALE in Maids per "Anna Klisa." apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLA ROBERTSON" lying in the Type. Cases of BASS BEER, LA ROSE CLARET, OILMAN'S STONES, SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles, Provision RICE, TABLE RICE, ORAIN, COIN ROPE. —Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, FINE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monach's WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAINS PANACEA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermaceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHRWING TOBACCO. —Apply to Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—A RIVER and a few pairs' double and four barreled Pistols, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—At the Godowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; and showing articles, viz:—
Most Splendid French FIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table browned Lamps, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Faience Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass Tumblers, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Manipulation SNOW in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 60s 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Bbls.
Seltzer Water new.
GILMAN'S STORED late imports.
BEER in tierces; Pork in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARK PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CHERRY, and Savored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, Seltzer water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANTAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MADIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheds, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of Lewis & Co.; apply to Macao, 20th April, 1842. DENT & Co.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.
MANILA SECARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SULTANWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEER.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
Apply to
Macao, 28th October, 1841. JOAO BARRETTO.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12
For six Months..... $ 7
For three „..... $ 3
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 39 cents each.

From the India Gazette, 15th July.

GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATIONS.

Fort William, Secret Department, 6th July, 1842.—No 934.—The honorable the president in council is pleased to direct the publication of the following copy of a notification by order of the right honorable the governor-general, together with copies of the despatches dated respectively the 21st and 29th May 1842, from major-general Nott, commanding Lower Afghanistan and Scinde, and enclosures mentioned therein.

Notification.—Secret Department, Allahabad, 27th June, 1842.—The right honorable the governor-general of India is pleased to direct the publication of the following despatches from major-general Nott, commanding Lower Afghanistan and Scinde.

By order of the right honorable the governor general.
T. H. MADDOCK,
Secy to the Government of India,
with the Governor-General.

From major-general W. NOTT,
Commanding Lower Afghanistan and Scinde,
To T. H. MADDOCK, Esq.

Secy to the Government of India,
with the Governor-General Head-Quarters.
Candahar, 31st May, 1842.

Sir,—I have the honor to forward to you a despatch from major-general England, No. 254, of the 29th ult., detailing an affair with the enemy in Fiesheu.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) W. NOTT, Major General,
Comdg. Lower Afghanistan and Scinde.
No. 244.

From major-general R. ENGLAND,
To the assistant adjutant-general, Candahar,
Head-Quarters, Scinde Field Force,
Camp at Lora River, 29th April, 1842.

Sir,—I have the honor to acquaint you for the information of the major-general commanding the troops in Bengal artillery.

3d light cavalry, 2000s horse
H.M. 41st regt li batts.
25th regiment N. I.

2. The three columns of attack were led by major Simmons, H. M. 41st regiment; captain Woodburn, 25th Bombay N. I., and major Cochran, H. M. 41st; the latter being accompanied by a wing of the 25th Bombay N. I., under captain Teasdale, commanding that corps.

3. The reserve was in the hands of major Browne, commanding H. M. 41st regiment.

4. Nothing could be more successful than the combinations, and the insurgents, after a short resistance, fled into the rugged mountains in their rear, leaving their standards, and being closely and gallantly pursued by the 3rd light cavalry under captain Delaman.

5. The practice of captain Leslie's horse artillery battery was, as usual, most effective, and the conduct of the troops excellent.

6. I beg to annex a list of the casualties which have occurred in this affair.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) R. ENGLAND, Major-General,
Commanding Scinde Field Force.

SCINDE FIELD FORCE.

Return of casualties in action with the enemy near Hykulzie this day.

Camp near Hykulzie, 29th April, 1842.

H. M. 41st regiment, 2 privates wounded; 3rd light cavalry, 1 lieutenant, 1 baidar, 3 privates and 7 horses wounded, 1 horse missing; light battalion, 2 privates wounded; general staff, 1 captain wounded.

Lieut. W. Ashburner, 3rd cavalry, severely wounded. Captain Deere, A. D. C., slightly wounded.

Remarks.—Rank and File.
Wounded { Severely..... 4
 { Slightly..... 4

(Signed) R. ENGLAND, Major-General,
Comdg. Scinde Field Force.
From major-general W. NOTT,
Commanding Lower Afghanistan and Scinde.

To T. H. MADDOCK, Esq.
Secretary to the Government of India,
with the Governor-General, Head-Quarters,
Candahar, 29th May, 1842

Sir,—Aktor Khan, chief of Zainidawar, having assembled three thousand men, crowded the Helmund and joined the rebel force under prince Sufiar Jung and Atta Mahomed, on the right bank of the Urghandab, taking advantage of the absence of brigadier Wymer, who had been detached into the Ghilzie province with a large portion of my force, and nearly the whole of my cavalry. The enemy under an impression that we had not a sufficient number of men to hold the city, and at the same time to attack them in the field, took possession of some steep rocky hills within a mile of the city walls. I instantly moved out with the troops noted in the accompanying field return, leaving major-general England, R. S. in command of the city. The Ghazees had about 1,000 in position, and 2,000 men guarding the Babawulleh pass and road leading to their camp. Our troops carried all their positions in gallant style and drove them in confusion and with great loss, across the Urghandab river.

I was ably assisted by Brigadier Stacy and every officer present.

Major Rawlinson, political agent, with his accustomed zeal was in the field and gallantly led a small body of Persian and Afghan Horse to the charge.

I enclose a list of killed and wounded.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) W. NOTT, Major-General,
Commanding Lower Afghanistan and Scinde.
No. 44.

From rear admiral Sir W. PARKER, K. C. B.,
Naval Commander in Chief, China.
To the right honorable the earl of AUCKLAND G. C. B.

Cornewallis, at Chusan, March 25, 1842.

My Lord,—I do myself the honor of transmitting the copies of three despatches which I have addressed to the secretary of the admiralty, reporting the late operations of the combined forces in this quarter; and I trust I may be allowed to offer my congratulations to your lordship on the success which has attended them.

I have, &c.
(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.
No. 42.

From Rear-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B.
To the Secretary of the Admiralty,
Cornewallis, at Chusan, 11th March, 1842.

Sir,—I have much satisfaction in transmitting, for the information of the Lord Commissioners of the Admiralty, copies of letters from captain Bouchier, C. B. commanding the squadron within the Yang Keang river, and commanders Comdr. Watson to Capt Bouchier, March 10. Comdr. Moorshead to Comdr. Watson, 10th March.

Watson and Moorshead; reporting the severe repulse of the Chinese in attacks made simultaneously on the positions of the combined forces at Chin-hae, and Ningpo, yesterday morning.

AT CHINHAR.
Blonde, Capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.
Hycinth, Comdr. G. Goldsmith.

AT NINGPO.
Moderate, Comdr. N. B. Watson.
Columbine, Comdr. W. H. A. Moorshead.

the honorable company's steam vessel Queen, completed their discomfiture afloat, by the entire destruction of numerous fire junks and boats prepared in the North West branch of the river.

Scotia, Acting Commander H. A. Ormsby.

Queen, Mr W. Warden Master, in Command.

The whole of this service was so well performed that I have great pleasure in bringing under their lordships' notice the conduct of captain Bouchier, commanders Goldsmith, Watson, Moorshead, and Ormsby and Mr. Warden of the Queen, together with every officer and man under their command on the occasion.

The Chinese have suffered most severely in their attacks on the positions of her majesty's land forces, by whom they were put to flight and pursued with such rapidity that not less than 500 were killed, while 3 men only were slightly wounded on the side of the combined forces.
(Sgd.) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.

Fort William, Secret Department.—the 6th July, 1842.—No. 934.—The following despatch from his excellency rear admiral Sir William Parker to the address of the secretary of the admiralty under date the 25th April last, is published by direction of the right honorable the governor general, for general information.

By order of the honorable the president in council,
G. A. BUSHBY,
Offg. Secy. to Govt. of India.

No. 43.
From rear admiral Sir W. PARKER, K. C. B.,
Naval Commander in Chief, China;
To the Secretary of the Admiralty, London.

Moderate, at Ningpo, 14th March, 1842.

Sir,—I request you will inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that his excellency lieutenant-general sir Hugh Gough, and myself, having received intimation that the Chinese were assembling a body of troops under an active Mandarin on the island of Taisan, (one of the Chusan group) and that several of them, disguised as peasants, had been actually landed at Chusan for the purpose of kidnapping any of our unarmed men who might straggle from their quarters; the general and myself deemed it advisable to visit with a strong detachment of troops and marines, in the hope of capturing or excelling them, and as we had also several important arrangements to make in our respective departments with a view to future operations, we returned to Chusan on the 4th instant.

Taisan, which is about 26 miles in circumference, lies about 6 miles to the northward of Chusan; but as little was known respecting this island, and very few of our people having ever landed on it, I despatched commander Collinson on the 6th instant with a boat of the Bentick, in the Nemesis, steam vessel, to circumnavigate it, and ascertain, as far as might be practicable, the best position for stationing the small vessels of the squadron round it, to intercept the Chinese soldiers if they attempted to escape by sea when our men should be disembarked.

By the enclosed extract from commander Collinson's report, your lordship will perceive that admiral's letter, 8th March, 1842, was going round the island, he was induced, on the morning of the 8th, to enter a creek in the South end of it, to examine its capability for disembarking troops; when he was opposed by a body of about 500 men, who opened a fire on him from the shore and also from several boats in the creek, and having directed Lieutenant Hall to land his men from the Nemesis, which was effected with his accustomed spirit and activity, the Chinese were gallantly charged by these officers at the head of their men, and immediately gave way with the loss of about 30 or 40 killed. Most of their boats (altogether 30 in number) as well as some houses which had been occupied by the troops, were then set on fire, and commander Collinson rejoined me at sunset at the Chusan anchorage.

As I was apprehensive that the whole of the Chinese force at Taisan might endeavour, after this check, to leave the island, I directed commander Collinson to return, as expeditiously as possible, in the Bentick, and resume a position off the creek, the Nemesis following, as soon as her coals were replenished, to assist in cutting off their retreat; but it appears that after his departure in the latter vessel on the 8th, the Chinese succeeded in extinguishing the flames which had been kindled in their boats, and the whole of the troops, to the amount of 500, effected their escape in them to Chapoo, at the Northern entrance of the Hong-chow-fu estuary.

Intelligence of the defeat of the Chinese in their attacks on our positions, at Ningpo and Chinhae, on the morning of the 10th instant, reached us by the Phlegathon at Chusan, in the course of the day. Sir Pelcom. Hugh Gough, therefore, returned early on the 11th to the Yangtze Keang river, from Clio. Chusan, and, after a fruitless examination of Taisan island on that day with the seamen and marines of the Cornwallis, and the sloops and brig named in the margin, I rejoined him yesterday at Ningpo.

Although we were disappointed in our hopes of cutting off the forces lately stationed at Taisan, I flatter myself our visit will have the effect of securing Chusan from any further attempt from that quarter at present. We did not find any arms on the island, but two government stations, which had been held by the Mandarins, were completely destroyed. I have, &c.

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral

No. 44.

From Rear Admiral Sir W. PARKER, K.C.B.

Naval commander in chief, China.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty.

Modeste at Ningpo, 19th March, 1842.

Sir,—My letter No. 42, of the 11th instant, will apprise your lordships of the complete discomfiture of the Chinese, on shore and afloat, in their attacks on our positions at Chinhae and Ningpo, on the 10th instant.

Retrograde movements in various directions were the immediate result; and feeling it of importance not to lose a moment in following up the advantage of these severe repulses, Sir Hugh Gough and myself determined to make a rapid movement on their encampment at Tsekoo, in the hope of bringing them to action, before they retired on Pickwan, about forty miles higher up the river, at which point, we had reason to believe they were concentrating their army.

In anticipation of this advance, capt. Richards, with three boats and the whole of the marines attached to the Cornwallis accompanied me in the Nemesis and Phlegathon to Ningpo, where we arrived (after our examination of the island of Taisan) on the afternoon of the 12th; and being joined by the small-arm men and marines of the squadron within the river, the whole amounting to 410 men, were placed

List of officers under the command of captain Bourchier, of the Blonde, assisted by capt. Richards of my flag ship, and the several officers specified in the subjoined list.

At 8 A.M. on the 15th, his excellency Sir Hugh Gough, and about 850 troops, in addition to the naval brigade, were embarked from Ningpo in the Nemesis, Phlegathon and Queen, steam vessels, making altogether a force of about 1200 men, with which we proceeded up the river, and before we reached the point of debarkation at a village four miles from Tsekoo, we had the satisfaction of seeing a large force of the Chinese, still in their encampments, on the hills to the north of the city.

The combined forces were all landed and in full march for Tsekoo by two o'clock, the Phlegathon having been previously despatched up the river with the armed barges of the Cornwallis and Blonde, to intercept and harass the retreat of the Chinese by water as much as possible.

As our reconnaissance of Tsekoo in December had made us familiar with the route, and no obstacles were offered to our advance, we reached the suburbs on the south side of it at half past 3; and on the troop ascending a small hill, two guns, and a few straggling shots from jingals and matchlocks, were opened on us from the ramparts, and also from a body of matchlock men on a height opposite us; but, on the advance of a detachment of the 18th regiment, and the discharge of a few rounds from two small field pieces by the Madras artillery, they disappeared, and about four o'clock the city walls were escaladed by the seamen and marines, and a party of aspers, without resistance.

Advancing along the ramparts this division rejoined the main body with the general, through the east gate, and proceeded outside the walls to the north-east angle of the city, from which point we had an excellent view of the Chinese forces opposed to us, consisting of five or six thousand men strongly posted in fortified encampments on the two high hills of Segoan in front, and on our left. The assault of the latter was assigned to the naval brigade; and that more immediately in front, to the 49th regiment.

As it was the General's wish that they should be attacked at nearly as possible at the same time, and the Naval Brigade being the most advanced in the line, it was necessary, while the 49th moved forward, to make a lodgment under some houses of our left, situated at a short distance from the foot of the hill which our men were to assail; and in passing to this point across paddy fields, they were unavoidably exposed to a galling fire from both the positions of the Chinese. On reaching it some musquetry was opened on them by part of the Royal Marines, and a few three-pounder rockets were discharged with excellent precision, by Lieutenant Fitzjames, and Mr Charles K. Jackson, mate of the Cornwallis, while the men were reforming.

The 49th regiment were soon observed approaching the hill on our right, when orders for the assault were immediately given, and the leading company of the marines under Lieutenants Elliot and Humbly of that corps, promptly and gallantly pushed forwards with a small band of seamen about 5 o'clock.

As they emerged from the building, the fire of the Chinese was very severe. Captains Bourchier and Richards, with admirable spirit, sprang to the head of their men, and having rapidly crossed a small intervening paddy field, led them up the hill, which was disputed from its base to the crest, and several instances of personal conflict occurred. The ascent was steep and difficult, but steadily and gallantly persevered in, under an unceasing fire, until the summit was attained, and our opponents flying in every direction.

Commander Watson, of the Modeste, who had been stationed in the rear of the storming party, succeeded by great efforts, in reaching a forward position with some of his men, before the hill was carried; and the main body of seamen and marines, as they advanced in support, perceiving its fate, pressed round the sides, and inflicted a severe loss on the fugitive soldiers, the pursuit being continued until sunset, when our advanced party was halted on a bridge about two miles beyond the city.

During these operations the hills on our right were simultaneously carried in admirable style by our gallant general and his brave troops; the rout of the Chinese at every point was thus complete, and I must not omit to notice the good services of the Phlegathon and the little party landed from her in a branch of the river.

Lieut. McCleverty to Rear on the flank of the Admiral Sir Wm. Parker No 2 fugitives, as reported in Lieutenant McCleverty's enclosed letter No 2, and she was closely followed to the judicious position by the Nemesis after the troops were disembarked.

From the best accounts we have been able to collect, the Chinese cannot have lost less than 800 to 1,000 men slain, independently of great numbers carried off wounded. Among the former were several mandarins, supposed to have held important positions in the army. Many prisoners also fell into our hands, and some interesting papers relative to the present position of their affairs; and from accounts previously received, and the amount of silver afterwards found on the bodies of the dead, there is no doubt that a considerable sum had been paid to them as an encouragement to resist her majesty's forces, and that the troops we encountered were composed of the elite of their army.

It is with pain I have to transmit a list of 3 killed and 15 wounded in the naval brigade; and amongst the latter many are severely hurt.

List of killed and wounded, No 3. I am not in possession of the casualties which have been sustained by the troops; but I hope none were killed, though several I fear, are severely wounded.

It is impossible for me to extol too highly the animating example set by captains Bourchier and Richards, commander Watson, and every officer and man who was fortunate enough

List of officers who were in advance on the assault of the hill. No. 4. to be in advance in the assault on the names are especially transmitted for their lord ship's information, and my best and cordial thanks are also justly due to the gallantry and exertions displayed by captain Unisack, and all the officers and men of the royal marines, and to every individual of her majesty's squadron, and the Indian, navy attached to naval brigade, whose conduct was as exemplary for steadiness in their quarters as in the field.

I have no less pleasure in noticing the gallantry of captain Whittingham. Aid-de camp to Sir Hugh Gough, who, having brought a message from his excellency at the moment of the assault, very handsomely ascended the hill, and remained with our people, until it was carried, as did Lieut. Barrow of the Madras artillery, (commissary of ordnance), who having mingled with them as a volunteer, was conspicuous for his intrepidity, and broke his sword in cutting down a Chinese soldier who opposed him. Mr. Hodgson mate of the Cornwallis, was also wounded in parrying the thrust of a spear, when bravely advancing amongst the foremost on the hill.

Our people were quartered during the night in the captured camps, and north part of the city, where a considerable quantity of arms and a large store of rice was on the following morning discovered and destroyed; and as a very strong fortified encampment was known to be formed off some mountains about six or seven miles to the north west of Tsekoo, comprising the post of the main road to Yu-yao and Pickwan, every exertion was made by Sir Hugh Gough and myself to get our wounded embarked, and attack it as expeditiously as possible.

At 1 P.M. on the 16th, the whole of the combined forces marched on it for that purpose; but on ascending the lofty heights, it was found entirely evacuated: nothing therefore remained, but to destroy the works, arms, and large quantities of provisions, which the Chinese had not time to remove; and when this was effectually accomplished, we returned to Tsekoo, and on the morning of the 17th re-embarked the whole force, and arrived at Ningpo at 5 P.M. We flatter ourselves that the success which has attended this movement will have a very beneficial effect on our future operations; and their lordships may be assured that no opportunity will be lost by the general and myself, in prosecuting, with our best energies, any measure which is likely to advance the object of her majesty's government, and bring our contest with the Chinese to a speedy and satisfactory termination.

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.

No. 1.

A list of Officers belonging to her Majesty's ships and vessels and those of the Indian Navy, employed on shore at Tsekoo, under the command of Captain Thomas Bourchier, C.B. of her Majesty's ship Blonde, between the 15th and 16th March, 1842.

Her Majesty's ship Blonde.—Captain Thomas Bourchier, C.B.; Lieut. Charles Starnes and S.B. Holling; messrs George Walker, mate, Alex. Anderson, do. J. F. C. Hamilton, do. and John O. Johnson, do.; 1st Lieut. C. C. Hawitt, royal marines, and 9d do. F. J. Polkinghorne, do.

Her Majesty's ship Cornwallis.—Captain Peter Richards; Lieut. James Fitzjames; messrs George H. Hodgson, mate, Nicholas Vanittart, do. Charles E. Jackson, do. Hugh H. Mouk, assistant surgeon, Henry D. P. Cunningham, secy's clerk, William Bowden, volunteer, 1st class, D'Arcy Prestori, do.

Royal Marine.—Capt James Unisack, commanding Francis S. Hamilton; 1st Lieut. George Elliot, W. S. L. Acherly, Henry Tompson, P. J. White, and A. J. B. Hamblin;

Her Majesty's sloop Modeste.—Commander B. B. Watson; Lieut. H. A. R. Pearce; messrs P. A. Halkett, mate; Henry A. Crofton, do.; and Henry S. Wilcott, assistant surgeon.

Her Majesty's sloop Columbine.—Lieut. Philip A. Helman; messrs William N. Miller, mate, John T. Vetch, assistant surgeon, and Robert Shedden, midshipman.

Her Majesty's sloop Sunbird.—Lieut. James Rennie; messrs Arthur Smith, midshipman, and Henry Broughton, do.

Flat Lieutenant.—Lieut. Charles E. Tonnant, senior Lieut. on the station.

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.

No. 2.

From Lieut. JAMES MCCLEVERTY, &c.

Commanding H. C. Steam Vessel Phlegathon.

To Rear Admiral Sir Wm. PARKER, K.C.B.

&c. &c. &c. March 6th, 1842.

Sir,—In pursuance of your orders of this day, to proceed in the vessel under my command, accompanied by the barges of H. M. ship Cornwallis and Blonde, and to get as near as possible on the flank of the Chinese army, assembled on the heights above Tsekoo, I directed my course up the river towards Yu-yao; but finding I was getting further from the enemy's camp, I turned into the breach that leads to the eastward. On getting up about two miles and turning a very sharp bend of the river, I suddenly came on five gun boats moored close to a large mandarin house, who immediately opened their fire on us, which we returned with grape and canister, and quickly driving their crews from them, I sent boats of this ship under the command of acting lieutenant Herbert Rives, Mr. Goodridge, 2nd, and Mr. Corverley, 3rd officers, the boats of her majesty's ships Cornwallis and Blonde, commanded by Nicholas Vanittart, and J. F. C. Hamilton mates, to destroy them; which service they effectually performed, and also the large mandarin house, which was a magazine of powder, arms and military stores, all of which they set fire to and blew up. The gun boats consisted of five large flat bottomed boats and armed with an eighteen-pounder carronade, mounted on ship carriage. They also discovered 14 boats fitted as a fire raft, which they destroyed. After performing this service we again proceeded from the camp, off which place we arrived within gunshot at 5 p.m. and immediately opened on them with shell and rockets, and shortly afterwards on their retreating close to the Phlegethon before the combined force. I accepted the services of the crews of the boats of the Cornwallis, Blonde and this ship, who gallantly volunteered to intercept them; they were commanded by the same officers as before, accompanied by doctor Playfair, surgeon, and Mr. Edmund Ommanney, purser of this ship, as volunteers. At 7 p.m. they returned, having pursued the enemy in various directions and destroying a number of them. In the execution of these duties I beg leave to express my satisfaction of the conduct of every person whom I had the honor to command, particularly of Mr. Vansittart and Mr. Hamilton with their boats' crews, for the prompt and gallant manner with which they volunteered to perform any service that I thought necessary.

I have, &c.

(Signed) JAMES McCLEVERTY,
Lieut. R. N. Commanding.

No. 4.

Names of the Officers who were with the advanced party in the assault of the encamped hill of Segoon near Tuckee, on the 15th March, 1842.

Captain T. Bouchier,	H M's S. Blonde.
P. Richards,	Cornwallis
Commander R. B. Watson,	Modest.
Lieut. Chas. E. Tennant (Flag Lt.),	Cornwallis
First Lieut. Geo. Elliot, R. N.,	Ditto.
A. J. B. Hamby do.	Ditto.
Mr. G. H. Hodgson, Mate,	Ditto.
Hy. D. P. Cunningham, (S.C.)	Ditto.
Wm. Bowden, Vol. 1st class,	Ditto.
Lieutenant Jas. Fitzjames and Mr. Charles Keats Jackson, Mate, of the Cornwallis , were ordered to cover the advance with rockets, and afterwards mounted the hill on the right before the enemy had quitted that part of it.

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.

(True Copies.)

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.

No. 5.

A return of killed and wounded belonging to her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in action with the enemy on shore at Tuckee, on the 15th March 1842.

Ships.	Names.	Rank of Station.	No.	Wounded.		Legs amputated.
				Nature of Wound.	Remarks.
Cornwallis .	George Elliot	1st Lieut. R. N.	1	Slightly.
	A. J. B. Hamby	1st do.	2	Severely.
	Geo. H. Hodgson.	Mate.	3	Slightly.
	C. Keats Jackson.	Seaman, Gunner	4	Do.	Dangerously.
	Philip Stead	Private, R. M.	5	Do.	Severely.
	Jno. Bloomfield	Do.	6	Do.	Do.
	Samuel Willcocks	Do.	7	Do.	Do.
	Jno. Hisset	Do.	8	Do.	Do.
	Wm. Pepperell	Do.	9	Do.	Do.
	Daniel Leary	Do.	10	Do.	Do.
Blonde .	Wm. Brand	Do.	11	Do.	Do.
	James Doel	Do.	12	Do.	Do.
	Wm. Thomas	Do.	13	Do.	Do.
	Joseph White	Do.	14	Do.	Do.
Hyacinth .	John Adams	Do.	15	Do.	Do.
		Do.	16	Do.	Do.
Total..				13

Ships.	Names.	Rank of Station.	No.	Killed.		Total.
				Nature of Wound.	Remarks.
Cornwallis .	Peter Ferguson.	Sergeant R. M.	1
			2
Blonde .	Robert Harvey.	Private R. M.	3
	Chas. Anderson.	A. B.	4
Hyacinth .			5
			6
Modeste .			7
			8
Columbine .			9
			10
Total..				3

(Signed) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.
(true copies) T. H. MADDOCK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India, with the Gov. Gen.
(true copies,) G. A. BUSHBY,
Offg. Secy. Govt. India.
By order of the honorable the president in council,
G. A. BUSHBY,
Offg. Secy. Govt. India.

(Copy.)

No. 77. "Cornwallis," at Chusan, 25th April, 1842.
TO THE SECRETARY OF THE ADMIRALTY.

Sir,—I request you will inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that an abortive attempt was made, by the Chinese to set fire to her majesty's ships and transport in the Harbor of Tinghae and the adjacent anchorage at Chusan, on the night of the 14th instant.

About 10 p.m., I received intimation from captain Dennis, the military magistrate of Tinghae, (which he had just obtained from his scouts) that Fire Rafts, formed of very large boats, prepared with powder and other combustible materials, well assorted for the purpose, were supposed to be on their way from "Sing-Kong," a small Harbor, about 3 leagues to the Northwest of this position.

An hour had scarcely elapsed when several Fire Rafts were discovered in flames on the opposite or eastern side of the Harbor, and drifting towards the Shipping, while others approached between the Islands of Maccaesfeld and Trumball on the south side, where the "Nemesis," Steam Vessel, had been for some days undergoing repair—others attempted to enter the anchorage occupied by the Ships of War to the Northward of Tea Island and some even to the southward of that Island, in which latter direction the "Jupiter" was moored.

The Boats of the Ships of War named "Cornwallis," in the margin and of the Transports in the Harbor, were all on the alert, and by the active exertions of the Officers and men of all ranks, the whole of the Fire Rafts, amounting to between 50 and 60, which were for the most part chained together in small numbers of from 3 to 5, were grappled with, and towed clear of the ships without difficulty, or doing the slightest injury.

"Cornwallis," "Hyacinth," "Starling," "Sealink," "Jupiter."

While this was passing, Lieut. Wise of the "Cornwallis," proceeded with a small division of Boats in search of the Steam Vessels. Fire Boats expected on the West side of "Sing Kong," and succeeded in discovering them to the number of thirty, anchored off a beach outside Bell Island, waiting for the turn of tide to advance on the Ships of War, these were also completely destroyed, and on the following morning, the "Nemesis" and "Phlegethon" were despatched to scour the adjacent Islands, and by the activity of Lieutenant Hall, thirteen more Boats with combustible materials, were destroyed, making a total of not less than a hundred.

Lieutenant McCleverty's exertions were equally praiseworthy, but nothing suspicious was met with in the direction he was sent.

I have had great reason to be pleased with the vigilance and zeal of the officers and men of all ranks in her majesty's ships and Company's steamers, as well as the agents, masters and crews of transports on this occasion, and I have much pleasure in bringing their meritorious conduct under the notice of the Lord Commissioners of the admiralty and Indian government.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

(Sd.) W. PARKER, Rear Admiral.
(true copy.)

(Sd.) G. A. MALCOLM,
Secretary of Legation.
(true copy.)

(Sd.) T. H. MADDOCK,
Secy. with the Gov. Genl.
(true copy.)

G. A. BUSHBY,
Offg. Secy to Govt. of India

AFFGHANISTAN.

From the Indian Gazette, 20th June.

We received by Friday's dawn another Candahar letter, but of no later date than those, which we have quoted from already. It gives the same intelligence, as we have already laid before the public—supplying the components of the force under Wymer, which had gone out on the 10th ultimo, in the Ghireek direction, with a strong hope of meeting the enemy. The 38th and 16th N. I. with some (Bombay) guns make up the detachment, and though not very strong in numbers they were quite confident of achieving another victory, if they had but the fortune to meet an enemy. There seems to be nothing said about a further advance—the impression was that Nott's force would return in September, and some reckon so confidently on this, that they have already begun to talk about their arrangements. Our correspondent comments upon the injustice, which has been done to the Candahar force; his remarks closely resemble those, which we offered yesterday, when commenting upon another letter. The neglect which Nott's division have experienced at the hands of the Governor-General, who has been so liberal of his laudations to Pollock's army, seems to have been acutely felt at Can-dahar. Lord Ellenborough, we are sure, will not pass over without honors and without rewards, the gallant conduct of the regiments in Western Afghanistan, who have been, during seven months, constantly engaged with the enemy, and always with distinguished success. Let them have their medals—let them have the six months' batta, granted to the Julialah garrison. They have well deserved it. Let the Government, too, express their sense of the gallantry and good conduct of the force, in a proper tone of cordiality. We expect to see something more in orders than "the Governor General is pleased to direct the publication" of the accompanying despatches from General Nott. That is not the way to speak of such achievements.

Our letters, received on Friday, from General Pollock's force, mention, that a serious collision had occurred at Ali-Musjid between the men of the detachment of the 6th N. I. and Lieut. Corsar's Irregulars. The energetic conduct of Lieut. C. had availed to quell the disturbance, but it had been found necessary to send for reinforcements of the Regulars from Dukka. We annex the following particulars of the affair:—

"Dhaka, June 26.—"I subjoin some extracts from the Detachment Orders for the last three days. These are interesting only with regard to the occurrence which caused them to be issued. This was as follows:—

"On the 23rd a very serious collision took place at Ali Musjeed, between the Afghan irregulars under Corsar of the 6th, and the five companies of the 6th under a Captain Agnew. Two expresses, one from the Captain, the other from the young Afghan commandant, reached Colonel Moseley at this place the day before yesterday.

"Of the cause and of the progress of this disagreement the accounts were somewhat differently given by these two officers; but of the ulterior facts, there is but one account and one opinion, that never mind how the row began, there were a good number of heads broken before it was ended. The Afghans had threatened to stuff every Hindu mother's son of them with beef up the throat; and the Hindus in return intimated their intention of sending to Peshawar for a herd of swine for the Moslem's very especial behoof. From words they went to blows, stones too were thrown, and many men on both sides were severely wounded. Some of the Afghans ran to the guns, one of which was loaded, and there appeared even from captain Agnew's representation, to be no doubt that nothing short of the degree of decision, temper, and energy, displayed by Lieut. Corsar, could have prevented his men from opening a fire upon the Regulars.

"Upon receipt of the two expresses under notice, Colonel Moseley issued the first of the orders which are enclosed; he at the same time, with praiseworthy despatch, sent off an express to captain Mackeson at Besh Boolak, enclosing both Agnew's and Corsar's letter, and detailing the arrangements he had made for the prevention of further disturbances at Ali Musjeed.

"Mackeson himself arrived here yesterday, he having started from Besh Boolak immediately on the receipt of Moseley's letter, and last night at ten, the 64th marched for Ali Musjeed. Mackeson, with his wonted zeal (which, like his frame, seems indefatigable) accompanied them, and he must thus have been four-and-twenty hours on horseback at a sitting—a mere trifle this, since, for half of that time he was basking in the sun of the delightful season! He sent to the General all the contents of Moseley's despatch, immediately after perusal of it, (at Besh Boolak,) and he remains to be seen what arrangements General Pollock will adopt with regard to Ali Musjeed. Some are of opinion that Thomas' Regt. of Jussalchees, who got on very well it seems, with the 6th, will be sent to take the place of Corsar's Irregulars. Others think that, the whole of the 64th will be made to remain there, and that Corsar's "Brigands" will be picketed at the foot of the hill of Ali Musjeed. Nothing in its way could be more admirable than the prompt, silent and orderly manner in which the 64th got under arms last night. Trench in the same camp with them, I positively did not know, (nor did the party of which I formed one,) that they were under arms until long after they had started,—when, on walking towards the tents of their officers to wish them good bye, and to enquire what detained them, I was told by a gentry that "they must have got two koo on their way by this time." Had it been any one of how many other corps that I could mention, the whole camp would have been disturbed by the noise of their preparation.

"No news from Besh Boolak, except that the destruction of the forts and the trees, is proceeding rapidly. Captain Lawrence reached Ali Musjeed yesterday, from Peshawar. The postages that passed hence this morning (twelve in number,) are from almost all the hitherto non-conformist tribes, the Zakar Khel, the Samur Khel, and others."

A mofussil letter, received on Saturday, gives the following, which although there are later dates from Jallalabad, is interesting, as affording a detailed account of—and a more cheering one—of the condition of General Pollock's force:—

"My latest letters from Jallalabad are of the 23rd ult. They do not appear to be, by any means, the miserable set of belings, that most of the newspaper writers make them out—the climate seems pleasant enough, nights delightfully cool, and days by no means so very hot."

The troops are healthy. Since Pollock's arrival, there have not been above twenty casualties from disease in the four corps of Europeans. The men of the 66th N. I. have dug about three feet down under their paiks, and built low mud walls round. The good effect of this is apparent in the small number of the sick list not 30. Carriage seems still very deficient, but they have about 2,800 camels and 2,000 bullocks; 300 more of the former have reached Peshawar, and 1,000 were shortly expected from Persia. Fruit, such as grapes, peaches &c., and vegetables, selling cheap in the bazaars of Julialabad.

"A forward movement is positively intended, but I fancy the time has not yet been fixed on; indeed this must depend on the arrival of more baggage cattle. The objects in view in despatching the Brigade under Montezuma, were, I am told, the collection of revenue still due (to whom?) to demand the money left behind by Teris, about 36,000 rupees, and the recovery of a gun abandoned at Pesh Bolak. I believe the bit of ordinance, has been found. The place was of course abandoned by its inhabitants, and 1,000 head of cattle and a large quantity of grain are said to have fallen into our hands."

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir,—I was much pleased to read in your paper of this day some very judicious remarks on an article in the Singapore Free Press of the 4th inst., communicated by an individual owning the initials S. H. Being more or less acquainted with all the foreign residents at that settlement, I believe, I can disclaim on their behalf any participation in the sentiments expressed by that anonymous writer whom I can only conceive to be some disappointed bird of passage, being unable to believe any of my friends there to be capable of publishing the libel above alluded to.

It was my intention to have accepted the challenge of the Editor of the S. F. P., and to have refuted in detail the calumnies he has given to the public, but, on reconsideration, it did not appear worth the trouble to enter the lists; and I will content myself with denying, through the medium of your paper, the justness of the observations as applicable to respectable society in Manila. No one, for instance, at all conversant with Spanish manners and customs will suppose that the young ladies are in the habit of tugging on the elbows or poking in the side, the gentlemen of their acquaintance; this may have happened to Mr. S. H., but if so, I can only say his acquaintances must have been of a very doubtful character.

Tastes and habits differ in different nations; the far famed puchero may not please every palate; and individuals may be met with who like to mix sugar in their beer; some again may not consider a silver fork as indispensable for the due enjoyment of dinner; but surely, these trifles are not fit subjects to be held up to public ridicule. Had S. H. exposed the faulty colonial policy of Spain, and shown how the best interests of the colony are sacrificed by a perseverance in the old fashioned exclusive system, now generally condemned by modern economists—had he shown the causes of commercial inactivity on an island equal in fertility and resources to any with which we are acquainted, he would have done well. Such are fair subjects for the animadversion of the traveller, but outraging hospitality by the exposure of domestic manners, and those put in an unfair point of view, can only engender a hostile feeling, which may tend to endanger the friendly intercourse at present existing between the Spaniards and foreigners in Manila, and which causes it to be at present considered as one of the most agreeable places of residence in the East.

Your's faithfully,
J. L.

Manila, August 27th, 1842.

P. S. By the way, can the traveller in question be the worthy who under the same initials wrote so invidious a letter on Nagar to the Friend of China July 14? the absurdity of which was so clearly shown in your paper of July 23. He may also have originated the suggestion to establish a manufactory of Cheroqua rivaling those of Manila—see Friend of China July 21.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 3rd Sept., 1842.

Except from the north, of which particulars below, and a Singapore paper of 11th August, we have had no later news than we were before in possession of; but we have, by the Cowespa Family, received files of Calcutta papers from which we have made some extracts about affairs in Afghanistan, and have also copied a number of Sir William Parker's despatches, which we doubt not, will be read with interest. In Canton, by the last advice, everything continued quiet, and the contradiction of the report of the capture of Nanking had arrived there. The two Hong merchants, young Howqua and Samqua, when, according to orders, from Peking, on their return to Canton, have again received orders, said to be "second thoughts" of the Imperial Government, to proceed to Soochow in Chekeang Province, and are now again on their way to the north. We fear that the up shot of this mission will be nothing but a squeeze to the Hong merchants, or possibly something worse.

IMPORTANT FROM THE NORTH.

It seems that the news we gave last week of the capture of Nanking, as come from Canton, was premature, and that the taking of that city will not have been accomplished so soon or so easily as the Chinese accounts led us to expect. The Louisa from Chusan 9th August arrived here two days since, and she brings the intelligence that a vessel from the expedition had just arrived, and the sum of the news she brought is contained in the following extract of a letter, which has been kindly given us, viz.

"Extract from Letter dated Chusan 9th August.
Colonel Stephens, } 49th Regt.
Lieut. Gebbin, }
Colonel Dever, (P) } Killed.
Capt. Collinson, } 18th Regt.
Major Unisacke, } Marines
179 men killed and wounded.
3 officers and 18 men of the Blonde killed. Boats taken and retaken thrice.

"The Artillery guns taken and recovered, 700 sick, numbers fell dead on landing by couplets soleil. 100,000 $ ransom paid for one piece. After Nanking, march to Hangchowfoo. The Modeste in the Grand Canal opposite the Porcelain Tower.

"Scamiries lost her rudder.—? Nemesis,—one transport on shore, not Expected to be got off."

Another letter mentions that Nanking up to the date of the last news from the expedition had not been taken, but that it was to be attacked on the 7th, so that every moment may now bring us the gratifying intelligence of its capture.

It is represented that there has been a great deal of fighting, which indeed must have been the case judging from the melancholy list of killed and wounded, among whom we regret to find the names of several highly distinguished officers. The Chinese must have displayed much greater courage than they have hitherto done; or may we not suppose that these casualties chiefly occurred from the English too much despising their enemy, and thus giving the latter opportunity of attacking small parties by overwhelming numbers? This probably was the case when the artillery and the boats of the Blonde were captured. Our information is however too void of particulars to account with certainty for the cause of these painful losses. The ardent rays of the sun in that flat and marshy country have also in too many instances proved fatal to the soldiers, sixteen of whom are said to have dropped down dead from a stroke of the sun.

Great as these losses are, yet we can see in these accounts nothing dispiriting. A soldier's life is one of danger, without which he never can grasp the palm of victory, and it could hardly be expected that the British armament would be suffered to approach the second city of the empire, along a river capable of defence, without any opposition, and it is perhaps surprising that the loss was not greater. During the attack on Canton, the defences of which seem by no means to have been equal to those on the approach to Nanking, there were indeed but a few disposable forces between the Bogue and the city, but the loss in killed and wounded was 127, out of a force of not above one fourth the strength of the present armament. We think it not unlikely that as to actual fighting, the most arduous part had been over come at the time our last advice, and that Nanking, with an extent of wall of about 17 miles incircuit, will prove a comparatively easy conquest, and that there the soldiers will find the repose which by fighting and frequent exposure to the sun's rays they have so well deserved. The great canal is blockaded, and it was said that H. M. S. Blonde was anchored close to Nanking. After the capture of that city, a part of the forces will move, it is said, on Hangchowfoo, we suppose it to be the intention of the Commander-in-chief to keep possession of the capitals of the two provinces of Chekeang and Kiangnan, which certainly seem to be the most important positions in central China, the occupation of which and of the canal cannot fail considerably to distress the Peking government, which we hope, although we scarcely expect it, may thereby be brought to its senses and agree to any terms rather than longer to suffer the presence of the strangers in the heart of this hitherto secluded empire. We are impatiently waiting for more detailed and authentic accounts from the seat of war, which we think cannot fail to reach every moment, the wind being now easterly, and a direct passage from Chusan may at this season of the year generally be accomplished in less even than a week.

From Amoy we have accounts to the 29th of last month, and we regret to learn that sickness prevailed among the garrison of Kolongoo to a frightful extent, although the crews of the ships were in perfect health. Of a garrison of 340 men of the Royal 14th, 176 were in Hospital, and most of the others likewise sickly, whilst only one of the officers remained in sufficient health to do duty. The disorder is said to be brain fever, and must be epidemic, since it has also attacked the officers, who, unlike the men, cannot be supposed to have brought it on by indulgence in Sam shoe. Up to our last advice not more than 18 however had died. It is intended to send a number of invalids to sea on a cruise in one of the transports, for the benefit of their health.

LIST OF THE CHRISTINA.—We stated a fortnight since that information of the loss of a vessel, supposed to be the Christina had been received; this has since been confirmed as will be seen from the following letter, we copy from the Canton Recorder.
Per "SINGULAR."

Manila, 11th August, 1842.

Messrs Turner & Co., Macao.

Dear Sirs,—The governor general has officially addressed me advising the total wreck of the British barque "Christina," capt. Birkett, and has desired me in the absence of any British consul to take such steps as are usual and may be expedient under such circumstances.

I therefore beg to transmit to you as agents for the ship in China, such information as I have been able to collect from testimony of William Morris, the second mate, and others belonging to the "Christina" who have arrived here.

They are as follow,—

Wm. Morris,	Second mate.
T. Rosario,	Steward.
Geo. Young,	Cook.
Jas. Swanson,
Hy Beetham,
Jos. Richardson,
Saml. Daw,	Four apprentices.

The serang, (india), and five larvae, in all 14 souls, which are all it is greatly to be feared who have escaped a watery grave.

The "Christina" left Macao on the 8th June bound for Bombay—On the 1st July at 10½ midnight she struck on the west London shoal as nearly as can be estimated about lat. 8° 30' N., long. 118° E. It was the second mate's watch and at the time she struck the captain was on deck. They abandoned and got 3 fathom's water starboard, and 4 3 fathoms larboard side. Clewed up all the sails with the exception of the fore-top-sail, and furled them, but all their efforts to get her off were ineffectual, as she broke almost immediately in midships, and about 10 feet of her keel came up on the larboard side. They all took immediately to the boats, and could not save the log book, or anything else. The captain took to the gig, and with him Mr. Richardson, C. Gillet, a sailor, and 15 larvae, and with them a sextant and some provisions. William Morris, the second mate, had the other boat, and with him the people named above. Both boats left the ship together. Morris's boat was obliged to pull some distance as the sea was breaking over the vessel, and the mast fell overboard almost immediately after they had quitted her. It was the last quarter of the moon, and they could see the captain's gig in the midst of the surf and heard them cry for assistance.

Morris approached as near as he could, but could not assist them in any way.

He rowed about till day break, but in the morning could see nothing of the captain's gig.

He tried to reach the vessel but found it impossible as the sea was breaking over her, and the fore-top mast had now gone overboard.

Wind S. W. The last time he saw the captain was as he was getting into the gig after all the crew were in the boats, and he believed that the captain and all with him in his boat must have perished. They then bore away for the Philippines, and landed on Mindoro on the 9th July.

This is Mr. Morris's statement, corroborated by the crew.

The 7 lascars and steward proceed to morrow in the "Hiram" to Singapore, and I have by that opportunity given the foregoing particulars to the owner of the "Christina," Mr. T. Ward, of London, and to Dadabhoj, of Bombay, to whom the "Christina" was consigned.

The mate and all the apprentices are still here. I propose to have this statement drawn up, and certified before two British merchants, and when that is done, I shall send you, Mr. Ward, and Dadabhoj, to each a copy; meantime,

I remain, dear sir,

Your's very faithfully,
ROBT. DIGGLES.
firm of STRACHAN & Co.

DESTRUCTION OF THE BRIG MAVIS BY LIGHTNING.—A most dreadful accident occurred to the Brig Mavis on the evening of Wednesday last, by which her commander, Capt. Jones, and many of her crew lost their lives. We have been kindly favored with the following particulars. The Mavis was on her way from the West Coast with about 90,000 $\text{$}$ in specie, but no cargo, and had brought the Grand Ladrone to bear East, when the severe squall which occurred on Wednesday night overtook her about 7 p. m. She was struck by lightning immediately abaft the mainmast, and instantly blew up, the electric fluid having passed through the magazine. The gunner, from whom this information is derived, was in the chains at the moment of this catastrophe, from whence he was thrown back into the vessel, her decks having been entirely torn up. On her going down, which she did immediately, he found himself in the water with about 15 lascars who had escaped, from having been out on the jib-boom at the time. One of the boats was luckily floating near them, and in her, comparatively uninjured, they reached the British Sovereign then standing to the Southward. The men reached here in the Chinese boat mentioned by Captain Cow of the British Sovereign in the following extract from his letter to Messrs Jardine, Matheson & Co., and a Chinese boat has since brought in four men who were found clinging to a spar. We do not remember ever before bearing of so sudden destruction of a vessel by lightning, and only by the proximity of land, and of another vessel being near, the survivors were saved to tell their disastrous tale.

Extract from a letter, from Captain Cow of the "British Sovereign" dated 1st September, Thursday morning.

Grand Ladrone bearing East.
Messrs JARDINE MATHESON & Co.

"Gentlemen,—I regret to acquaint you that the schooner "Mavis" was destroyed by lightning last evening. A boat with sixteen men made towards me, which I was fortunate enough to pick up. I immediately anchored, with the hopes of saving more of the crew, but without success. Four of the men are badly burnt. I have arranged with the bearer, that he is to be paid $\text{$}30$ for taking the men to Macao. I would have brought them in myself, but the wind being favorable for my proceeding, I have hired this fisherman.

The Gunner will give you all particulars of this most disastrous circumstance: the captain and mate must have been killed as they were aft."

From the Canton Register, 30th August.

TRANSLATIONS.

"Tou wan"—i. e. to pry and hear;—to find out by enquiry.—News.

1.—On the 6th day of the 6th moon (July 15) the barbarian ships entered Lengshan (wolf's hill); on the 14th day the foo district of Chikong was lost; and the name changed to Sinkingfoo (renovated and flouring); on the 9th upwards of ninety salt junks were burnt at Eching.

2.—On the 9th of the 6th moon (July 16) Naw, the governor of Kaungoo, retired from Woochih through Thuppa, to hold Kaunging (Nanking); on the 10th he sent his family back to the province of Kanukh. On the 11th, three barbarian ships arrived off the lower customhouse of Nanking, cruising about, and said they wanted, absolutely, possession of the city, on the 17th 18th or 19th day warning the inhabitants to evacuate it; if not, they would open their fire; early on the 19th two more barbarian ships arrived; and they then destroyed the lower customhouse, opening a tremendous cannonade; and the whole place was set on fire Naw, on that day, sent orders from his office about 2 p. m. to shut the gates of the city, but the inhabitants crowding together to escape from the city, the gates were blocked up, and an innumerable number were crushed to death.

3.—The family of a salt merchant, when removing from Chikong to Leaouchow, there to reside, numbering upwards of twenty persons, was attacked and one woman and her servant were seized and carried off by the devil's imps. Two red ships (unintelligible) plundered and carried off upwards of 30,000 taels of silver.

4.—The lady of Ching, the literary chancellor, on the 25th day of the 5th moon (July 6), returning to her home, when the family were off Kwachow, a barbarian ship fired a shot, and not a vestige of them was left.

5.—The respectable children of both sexes outside the city of Eching, have been entirely carried off by native banditti; and many rich houses in the city have been plundered: it is not known if the city is lost (if the English have possession of it.)

6.—The city of Woochee was lost on the 21st (July 28).

7.—On the 16th (July 23), the inhabitants of the heen district of King, were oppressed and insulted by the magistrate, and he was killed by the native banditti, who broke open the granaries, and opened the prisons.

7.—Naw, on the 29th (July 27) retired to protect Tapingfoo; it is also reported that Tapingfoo has been taken by the native banditti, who are creating much confusion.

By J. S., Ed. C. R.
Macao, August 27th, 1849.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China, 25th August.

We have seen a document signed by the "People of Heangshan Heen," and which has been submitted to the Canton Authorities regarding the dwellers at Hongkong. They state that Hongkong is the head quarters of a formidable conclave of Pirates, and who are continually making attacks, and committing depredations, upon vessels engaged in peaceable and lawful trade. Their booty they take to Hongkong; and their system is now so well organized that they sell licences to traders, by showing which to any pirate, enables them to pass unmolested. Those, however, who can produce no licence from the head pirates are always robbed and maltreated; and the petitioners declare that they can hope for no rest until these marauders are put down. Hongkong is situated in Sin an and Heangshan heen (district) joins Sin an on the south west. As the Hongkong Authorities have an efficient body of both foreign and native Police, we hope they will be able to ferret out this piratical depot if indeed it does really exist on the Island.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
IN THE YANG-TSEI-KIANG, CHUKAN, CHINHA, & C.
H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer

"Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.

"Thalia, 44, capt. Hope.

"Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Grey.

"Calliope, 98, " A. L. Kuper,

"North Star, 26, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.

"Herald, 26, " J. Nias, C. B.

"Dido, 90, " the hon'ble H. Keppell.

"Pelican, 18, " Napier.

"Modeste, 18, comr. Watson.

"Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.

"Columbine, 16, " Morhead.

"Childers, 16, " Halsted.

"Clio, 16, " E. Troubridge.

"Wanderer, 16, " Freemantle.

"Algerine, 10, lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.

"Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.

"Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

Starling, 6, comr. Kellett.

Plover, 6, " Collinson.

Bellicose, capt. Kingcomb.

Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.

Sapphire, " Cole.

Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

Rattlesnake,

Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,

"Socotria, comr. Ormsby,

"Auckland, " Ethersey, I. N.
"Tenasserim, " Wall, I. N.
"Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
"Pluto, " Tudor, R. N.
"Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
"Medusa, " Hewett, I. N.
"Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
"Proserpine, comr. Hough, E. N.
"Memnon, " Powell.
H.M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
"Driver, " Farmer.

At Amoy.

M.H.S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, C. B. senior commanding officer

"Pylades, 16, comr. Tindal, (absent.)

"Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

At Hongkong

"Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, C. B., capt. sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.

"Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, C. C.

"Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasse.

"Wolverine, 16, capt. Johnson.

"Cruizer, 16, comr. Pearce.

"Hazard, 16, " Bell.

"Serpent, 16, " Nevill.

"Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.

H.C. St. Hooghly, mr. comr. Rose.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

August, ARRIVED

25, (B.) Mary Anne, Bolton, Bombay and Sing.

25, " Bombay Castle, Baxter do. do.

28, " Cowasjee Family, Durham, Cal. and do.

29, " Weeraf, Hunt, do. do.

29, " Bolton, Robinson, Singapore.

29, " Emma Eugenia, Kettlewell, Batavia.

29, (Sp.) Singular, Aviles, Manila.

September,

1, (B.) Thetis, Cam, Bombay.

1, " David Clarke, Mills, Bombay.

1, (A.) Valparaiso, Lockwood, New York.

PASSENGERS Per

Cowasjee Family, Mr. Patrick Dudgeon.

Thetis, Doctor A. Anderson, Messrs W. F. Gray,

C. S. Compton, and F. Anderson,

Valparaiso, Mr. P. W. Snow, U. S. Consul, Mr.

and Mrs. Henry Sturgis and family, Messrs Thos.

H. Perkins and Joseph Moses.

Emma Eugenia, Mr. and Mrs. Tiedeman.

August, SAILED

27, (B.) James Ewing, Maitland, Clyde.

29, " Sovereign, Cow, Bombay.

29, (Sp.) Ramoncito Gonzales, Manila.

31, (A.) Helena, Benjamin, New York.

September,

2, (B.) Ternate, Mann, Bombay.

The Mor. (in lieu of the Anonymous) to be despatched on the 5th for Bombay; on same day for Singapore and Calcutta, Harriet Scott, Haps, and John Brightman.

The Brigand got on the rocks off the Type yesterday, and it is feared will not be got off without considerable damage.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Dovecot, Devon, Elizabeth, Pink,

Mary Ann, Edie, Claudio, Claudio,

Louisa Jackson, Belvoir, Matilda,

Geo. Wallis, Lord Louther, Ad- elaide, Zenobia, Athenian, Parrock

Hall, Asia, Madras, Equinirion,

Urula, Bella Marina, John O-

Gaunt, Will o' the Wisp, Liverpool.

From Bombay,—Dragon, Asia, Diana, Ceres,

Woodman, Fly Davidson, Hebrides,

Kirkman, Finlay, St. Lawrence,

Wm. Sharples, Wm. Hyde, John

Moor, Helena Prince, Regent.

From Calcutta,—Dido, Crown, Victory, Cowasjee

Family, Fransjeer Cowasjee, Coringa

Packet, Bengal Packet, Ariel, Mary

Anne, Horo, Pelorus.

From Singapore,—Sarah Bedford.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th June, SINGAPORE, 15th August.

UNITED STATES, May 18, MANILA, 11th August.

CALCUTTA, 23d July, AMOY, 28th August.

BOMBAY, 16th July, CHUKAN, 9th August.

JAVA, 16th August.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,

at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 50.] Macao, Saturday, 10th September, 1842.

[No. 369.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

EARLY this month JOHN SMITH will put up for sale, to the highest bidder, a small quantity of Preserves, Tasty Fruits, pickles, and concentrated white wine, Mergar, Pickles, assorted Sauces, Herring, and Anchovy Sauce, Salmon and Herring, in Jars, Cheeses, Capus Olives, Oil, Jams and Jellies, Broadly Sherries, and a variety of other articles. Particulars will be published hereafter in handbills.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

NOTICE.—In a few days will be exposed for sale, at the store of the undersigned:

a few HAND-MADE framed

ENGRAVINGS:—

RETURN from HAWKING, containing Portraits of Lord Francis Egerton and family after Edwin Landseer, JOHN KNOX, preaching before the Lords of the Congregation, in the Church of St. Andrew, Scotland, after WILKIE, MAID of SARAGOSSA, CREPUSCULATION, by MARTIN, DUKE of WELLINGTON, in his Robes as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, SHIPWRECK off ST. MICHAEL'S, Lewis' SPANISH SENTRY, BYRON'S DREAM, VENICE, GRACE DARLING and HER FATHER, rescuing the 9 survivors from the wreck of the "Forfarshire" steam packet, and the CURSAIR'S ISLE also, in sheets and cases,

MAPS and CHARTS:

War in China, Burman Empire, Canton River, Amoy, Chusan, China; World, Asia, New Zealand, Australia, India, Overland Route to India, Turkey to Barmah, Bible Maps, &c.

and in boxes and stands.

CELESTIAL and TERRESTRIAL GLOBES.

Apply to

Macao, 9th September, 1842

NOTICE.—The Interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DIOGLES, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUNNISON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

Macao, August 29, 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATTERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmein, and in that of RUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Peking, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MRS. MATHESON, ALEX. ANDREW MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.

China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DA MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.

Masters of vessels arriving at Macao with Government Stores for the use of the Commissariat department in China, are requested on their arrival to report themselves without delay to Mr. C. FEARON, from whom they will receive instructions as to the disposal of the Stores.

Hongkong Bay.

Dep. Commissary's Office,

Macao, 6th Aug., 1841

F. HAWKINS, Lieut. Col.

Deputy Comm. & Army General, E. E. Force.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godowns at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUNS, or to

C. FEARON, Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 3000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE, Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER.

THE Barque ELVIRA, Capt. WALKER 320 Tons, per Register, now lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGNEDA" A. I. at Lloyds, W. JEFFRAY Commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch. This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma teak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bands, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark PANDORA (398 Tons), Capt. COTRAY. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE Ship CHINA, Capt. ROBERTSON, has two thirds of her cargo ready, loading at Whampoa and has quick despatch. For freight or passage apply to

Macao 11th July, 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE A. I. Ship "GOSAN VICTORY," Capt. J. CONNOR, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. Apply to J. COOLIDGE & J. RYAN, Canton, JARDINE MATHESON & Co., Macao.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. Ship Hippopotamus, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 6th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Lowest Famely, Captain AVILES, will leave Whampoa on the 1st week of October. For freight apply to Macao, 9th July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT or CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HUNG" or MALOWN, 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) F. Pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Auctions, Weight, each from 35 to 40 cwt., applying same to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—JAYA ARRACK and COFFEY, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to Macao, 26th August, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BRAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to Macao, 26th July, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

MOSELY & Co. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton Socks and Stockings of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERRIE SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c.—Apply to

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co.'s SHERRY in bottle and HINDS, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Frays de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Pale Barlow ALE in Hides per "Anna Elisa." Apply to

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—On board the "Isabella Robertson" lying in the Tyne. Cases of BONES, LARD, OLIVE OIL, SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles, Provision RICE, TABLE RICE, GRAIN, COFFEE, &c. &c.—Apply on board.

1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADRERA WINE, Pale SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monmouth WINE, Champagne CIDER, BRANDY PANACHE, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermoceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHERRY TOBACCO. Apply to

Macao, 2nd July, 1842.

JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—A Rifle and a 6th pair double and four barrelled Pistols, from Sam Neck, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 25, 1842.

Mr. A. GRANDEE.

FOR SALE—At the Gooddowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—
Most Splendid French PIRN GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spire Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new FINEST PORCELAIN DINNER SERVICES, CUT GLASS TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Musilipatam SNUP in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hds.
SELTZER WATER new.
OILMAN'S STORES late imports.
BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CAPNET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KRIS & Co., apply to DENT & Co.
Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.
MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SELTZERWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEEF.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
Apply to JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.
The latest recantment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.
ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.
THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW, relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William SIMONS, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.
Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.
ADVERTISEMENTS.
Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 16 cents per line additional.

TERMS.
Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12.
For six Months $ 7.
For three $ 4.
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

BOMBAY.

From the Bombay Times, 25th June.

We have much pleasure in giving insertion to the following Report of a Meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, relative to the late Fires in the Harbour. In the recommendations offered by the Chamber we entirely concur, and hope that they may be taken, as they deserve, into the serious consideration of the Underwriters and Ship Owners.

Proceeding at a Special General Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, held on Friday the 24th June, 1842, for the purpose of considering and adopting Resolutions relative to the late Fires in the Harbour—C. B. SAINSBURY, Esq. in the Chair. The Circular convening the meeting having been read,

Mr. Skinner stated that the Members had been assembled to take into consideration the risk incurred to property situated, by the recent Fires in the Harbour, and to devise such means as might seem practicable and expedient to diminish such risk in future. The Committee had been unwilling in the first instance, to come forward with recommendations of this nature because it seemed more strictly the province of the Underwriters and Ship Owners, who were not only the parties most deeply interested, but those who alone had the power of carrying out any effectual and permanent improvement. But believing that although, in its collective capacity, the Chamber could not effect the desired change, yet its suggestions would receive attention, and moreover that the course now adopted would serve as a clear demonstration of the sentiments entertained by the Members, it had been determined to submit to a General Meeting, a series of resolutions on the subject. It would be observed that the Committee had included a vote of thanks to the Superintendent, J. N., the Master Attendant, and the Officers and Seamen of the Indian Navy, as well as to the Commanders and Officers of Merchant Ships who rendered assistance on the late occasions, for their exertions in subduing the flames, and preventing them from reaching other vessels. The Resolutions were then read, and on being put to the Meeting, were all carried. They were as follows:—

1. "That in order to prevent the temptation, presumed to exist, on the part of Lascars, to desert or otherwise endanger a ship on the eve of going to sea, it is highly expedient that the system of advancing wages for so long a period as at present obtains, be abandoned, and that a system analogous to that employed in England, of regular agreement with the men, be recommended for adoption, particularly as regards providing for their families, when absent, by means of monthly allowances."
2. "That it is highly advisable that at least one efficient officer belonging to each ship be required to be constantly on board during the vessel's stay in harbour, and that Owners or Commanders be recommended to enforce strict examination into the state of the hold previous to closing the hatches every evening."
3. "That the subjects embraced in the above resolutions are deserving the serious attention of Underwriters who have principally the power of correcting the evils of the existing system."
4. "That it is highly expedient that the regulation respecting the landing of Gunpowder from ships arriving in the harbour be strictly enforced under penalty."
5. "That it is advisable in the event of a fire occurring on board ship, that steps be taken to prevent the dispersion of the crew previous to their being examined individually as to the cause and origin of the fire."
6. "That with reference to the late fires in the harbour, the thanks of the Chamber are eminently due to Capt. Oliver, Supt. J. N.; Captain Ross, master attendant; and the several officers and seamen of the Indian Navy, and the Master attendant's department, assisting, for their unceasing exertions to set the fire under, and to prevent the flames from spreading among the numerous shipping."
7. "That thanks are also due to those Commanders and officers of Merchant Ships, who actively assisted on the same occasions."
8. "That a copy of the above resolutions be sent to Government, and their attention particularly directed to the 4th and 5th resolutions; and that they be published in the Newspapers."

Bombay Times, 16th July.

We have been obliquely involved with the following letter from Kandahar, which, besides its actual news it contains relative to the destruction of Kelat-i-Ghilzie and the withdrawal of the garrison which we were only able to surmise in our last, and the movements on Girishk, has some particulars of previous doings which connect the whole of the late events, from the 19th May to the 7th ultimo, and fully confirm by the silence of the writer, our impression respecting the supposed victory obtained by Colonel Wymer, of which not one word is said, proving that such an event never took place. We learn also with some astonishment that not less than four hundred of the Ghuzner garrison are still in existence though in a state of slavery, but we are not in the least surprised at the feeling of disgust described as so prevalent among the native troops at no effort being made to rescue them. Is the enlightened Government of British India to be taught common humanity by its native army?

Kandahar: 7th June, 1842.

"A dawk is about to leave for the provinces, so I hasten to give you an account of what we have been about, premising that we are all quite well here. We have only this morning returned from the fort of Kelat-i-Ghilzie, for which place we left Kandahar on the 15th May, with the 40th Queen's, the 2nd, 16th and 38th Bengal Native Infantry (they are in for every thing), Blood's 9 pounders, Leslie's Troop of Horse Artillery, nearly all the Bombay Cavalry, Baidano's and a part of Christie's Horse, the whole under command of Colonel Wymer. We were ordered off without loss of time, though only just returned from the Kojuck, in consequence of the reports that Kelat-i-Ghilzie was closely invested and required immediate relief. On arriving at Heer-andas on the 23rd we learnt that the Ghilzies, hearing of our advance, had determined to anticipate us and attacked the place on the day of the 21st. They were driven back with great loss. They placed about 60 scaling ladders round the walls, and a few of them succeeded in reaching the parapet, but were forthwith bayoneted; 106 bodies were buried under the fort walls, and subsequent information enables me to state that some 500 were killed on the spot or have since died of their wounds; and on our arrival we found every thing quiet, and not an enemy near the place. When we first started it was currently reported, that we were to proceed to Ghuznee with the view of co-operating with General Pollock, but on reaching Kelat working parties were employed all day, as long as we remained there in destroying the fortifications. This accomplished, the garrison joined our Camp, and we began to entertain surmises very different to our previous ones, though every thing as to our further movements was kept a profound secret, until the last instant when we commenced our retrograde movement.

The moment we left all the Ghilzies commenced sacrificing sheep in token of their joy at getting rid of us. We heard that during our absence Sufur Jung with about 6000 followers made an attempt (29th May) on our Cantonments, and that Nott went out with H. M. 41st, our 42d and 43d, some guns and the Cavalry that he had. The enemy took possession of the neighbouring hills which were stormed and carried by our people with but little loss on our side, but very great to the enemy. Young Mainwaring of the 42d was wounded but not badly, and Chamberlain, the pride of his Regiment, who commanded two Regiments of Christie's was wounded in the thigh, but slightly. He had a horse killed under him, and despatched six of the enemy with his own hand. He has the courage of a lion. The widow of Abram Khan Douranee, who was blown from a gun early last winter, boldly led on a body of horse in person! You can imagine how powerful must have been her desire to be revenged; she was not wounded I am happy to say. There is no means of ascertaining the actual number of killed, but it is said to have been 300. Sixty horses were found dead on the ground.

No sooner had we reached our ground this morning than an order was issued for the 10th and 38th Native Infantry, (Benial), the Bombay Light Infantry Battalion Blood's Leslies and I believe Cowper's Horse Artillery, with Christie's horse, to be prepared to march on the 10th; we go to Girishk to bring off that fine fellow Bulwant Singh and his band of 100 men, who have held the fort for nearly a year though frequently placed in danger by the attacks of the enemy. There are some few forts to be destroyed, and as we have orders for 15 days supply from the commissariat stores, and eighty rounds of ammunition per man, we expect to have a fight before we return. Major Clarkson with Macan's and Macdonnell's corps, Turner's horse Artillery and a couple of Regiments of Christie's started three or four days ago towards the Kujuck pass to bring up 3 or 4,000 camels from Queita for us. Salloo Khan, who has been induced to come over to us again and has behaved well in sending up 3 or 4 dawks, has been besieged at Killa Abdullah by Mahomed Zedig the chief of Pesteen, and Clarkson's move, it is hoped, will have the effect of relieving him. It is impossible to say what we are to do eventually, but a retreat seems determined on; if so I pray we may make a better one than our poor Comrades at Kabul did. Our rear guard will have hot work. There is a great feeling of disgust and disappointment here at our not going to Ghuznee to bring away the 400 Sepoys of the 27th who are in slavery there. Our Sepoys were most anxious to go on this expedition. A Sepoy of Christie's corps who was with Woorhun, escaped to Ghuznee, and thence to Kelat-i-Ghilzie, has given an account of all the proceedings."—Id.

NOTIFICATION.

SECRET DEPARTMENT, Alibabad 15th June, 1842.
The Right Honourable the Governor General of India is pleased to publish for general information, the following despatch dated 19th March, from Lieut General Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B., Commanding the Expeditionary Force in China.

By order of the Right Honourable the Gov. General.
T. H. MADDOCK.
Secy to the Govt. of India, with the Gov. Genl.
From Lieut Genl Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B.
Comd. Exped. Land Force China.
To the Right Hon. the Earl of Auckland, G. C. B.
&c. &c. &c.

My Lord, I have the gratification to inform your Lordship of the total discomfiture, and precipitate retreat of that portion of commissioner Yih-King's force, which had been sent forward to exterminate us, and I feel most thankful to say, with wonderfully small loss on our part.
My letter of the 11th will have informed your Lordship of the attacks on this city, and Chinshoo, on the night of the 9th and morning of the 10th. I deemed it right promptly to follow up these successful repulses, taking the attacking columns in detail, and understanding that General Yappovon was advancing from Fung-hwa with from 5 to 7,000 men, I moved out to meet him on the 13th, with 600 men of the 18th and 49th Regiments, and Madras Artillery, with 2 guns and 50 sappers, flanked by the Sesostris steamer, which moved up the river parallel with our route, having on board three companies of the 26th, and a small body of seamen and marines. Until I reached the village Liso, about 7 miles from hence, where I understood the enemy had been posted on the 12th, I could obtain no satisfactory information of his movements; but I had the mortification to find on my arrival, that the Chinese had retreated over the hills the preceding night, apparently moving on Shan Hing.

Having thus got rid of this column, although not in the way I could have wished, and being joined by Sir William Parker, who on his arrival from Ta Shan, with the zeal for which he is so eminent, at once followed me up the river with the two small steamers, bringing with him 250 marines and a party of seamen, I determined upon moving on Tekeer, where I was informed, that the Chinese were in considerable force under General Twan Yung, Yang and Coob. It was reported that they had two entrenched camps on the Segoon hills, about half a mile north of Tse Kee; that several guns had been placed on the walls, and at the gateways, and large stores of provisions laid up for the army in the city, and that 7 miles north east of these encampments, another force from 5 to 6,000 men, under Commissioner Wan, with the military chest, was posted in a fortified camp in the hills at the Changki pass.

Madras Artillery with 4 eight-pounder guns, 84
18th Royal Irish,	201
28th Camerounians,	156
94th Regiment,	305
Rifles, 39th N. I.,	54
Sappers,	68
	865

The necessary arrangements having been made with Rear Admiral Sir William Parker, the troops named in the margin were all embarked by 8 o'clock on the morning of the 15th, on board the steamers Queen, Nemesis, and Phlegon. Sir Wm. Parker placed at my disposal 350 seamen and marines, making up about 1,900 bayonets. At 12 o'clock this force was landed about 4 miles from Tekeer, from whence we had a perfect view of the enemy's encampments, and I immediately pushed forward on the city. I feel it right here to observe, that Sir William Parker accompanied me throughout the operations I am about to detail, and from his sound judgment and excellent arrangements, I received the most valuable assistance.

Upon our approaching Tekeer and occupying a hill which commands the southern face of the walls, and the south gate, the Chinese fired all the guns and ginsals they had for the defence of this gate, but with so little effect, and at so great a distance, that it led me to believe that they (most unaccountably) did not propose to defend the city, and I was confirmed in this conclusion by observing that the ramparts nearest as were unoccupied, while the Segoon hills, at the opposite side of the town, on which were their encampments, appeared crowded with troops. Lieutenant Colonel Montgomerie, having, with his usual promptitude, brought up his guns I determined at once to take the city by storm, pass through to the north gate, there reunite my force, and carry the enemy's encampments. I was led to this line of operation by the conclusion he is mentioned, that the Chinese did not mean to defend the city, as well as with a view to expedite the attack on the heights, as it would otherwise have been necessary (to provide for the possible case of the enemy's being in force within the walls) to make a detour out of range through the paddy fields, but my principal object was, to prevent the enemy from falling back on the city, when driven from the hills.

In furtherance of these views I directed the Naval brigade, with a party of sappers, covered by the guns and the Madras Rifles, if opposed, to escalade the walls in my front, assemble on the ramparts, and move along them to the north gate. The 49th I instructed to move on the south gate, blow it open, and join the Naval brigade on the ramparts. I had previously ordered the 18th to dislodge a body of the enemy that occupied a hill to the north east of the city, after which they were to move round the walls, out of ginsal range, and threaten the north gate. Should the Naval brigade and 49th meet with opposition, the 26th were placed in reserve, and were directed to move with, and protect the guns.

A few minutes placed the Naval brigade on the walls unopposed, and the whole promptly formed on the ramparts. The Royal Irish meanwhile dispersed the enemy in their fronts, and rapidly moved on the north gate. I accompanied the 49th, but finding that the bridge over the canal, close to the south gate, was destroyed, and that it would take some time to replace it, the corps passed along a canal under the walls, and I directed the Naval brigade to move parallel with it upon the ramparts. The whole force then soon arrived at the place of assembly, the north gate.

The city of Tekeer is surrounded on three sides with precipitous hills, and the north gate is on a low spur of one of these hills which terminates in an eminence with the walls. At the north western extremity of a range of high hills, being a branch of the mountains that skirt the coast, are the Segoon or Sigron hills, on which were the encampments; both were of considerable extent, and the natural difficulties of the position strengthened by abatis. These camps, which as well as the summits of the hills beyond them, were thickly occupied, were within long range of the walls, the intervening space being a track of paddy fields, with a few scattered houses. I at once perceived that the position was faulty, as the hills on our right commanded their left, while their left commanded their right, and I made my disposition accordingly. The 18th with a Rifle Company 38th Madras Native Infantry, were ordered to move up a ravine and occupy a hill to the left of the position. The Naval brigade was instructed to move under the walls, and occupy two rather large buildings in front of the right camp, making a lodgment under cover ready to rush forward, when the 18th should reach the summit and turn the enemy's left. With the 49th I proposed to attack at the same moment the largest encampment in my front, my great object being to make a simultaneous attack with the three columns, pushing the 18th down in rear, while the Naval brigade should cut off all communication with the city. So rapid were our movements that only one gun could be brought up, notwithstanding the praiseworthy exertions of Lieutenant Colonel Montgomerie, who dashed the guns into the canal and entered the city by a water gate. This gun was ably brought up and did good execution under the direction of Captain Moore of the Madras Artillery, who with his party merits great praise for their extraordinary exertions in dragging it through paddy fields and across canals.

The steepness of the mountain gorge, by which the Royal Irish and Rifles ascended, notwithstanding the enthusiasm of their advance, occupied more time in surmounting than I anticipated; and finding that the Naval brigade might probably suffer more by the delay than in an immediate attack, and that the enemy appeared to gain confidence by this delay, I ordered the advance to be suspended, when the 49th, with their accustomed spirit, rushed up the hill overcoming all opposition, and crowned its height within a few minutes, driving every thing before them. From this height it afforded me no small satisfaction to witness the spirited rush of the advance of the Marine brigade led by their gallant chief (I am persuaded Sir William Parker will excuse this expression of my admiration) who was ably supported by Captain Bouchier, commanding the Naval brigade; Captain Richards of H. M. S. Cornwallis and Captain Watson of H. M. S. Madock, commanding the seamen Battalion. The whole brigade soon reached the summit, carrying the enemy's works. At the moment when the Admiral had nearly gained the height, I perceived a large body of Chinese ascending the back of the hill which he was attacking, apparently ignorant of the conjoint attack, and I directed Major Gough, Deputy Quarter Master General, to push forward with the Grenadiers of the 49th, supported by a Battalion company to cut off their retreat. The carriage at the foot of this hill was extraordinary great; the 49th in rear, and the Naval brigade in front, almost annihilated this body, while the remainder of the 49th pressed the retiring enemy (I cannot say his columns) as the whole plain was covered with the dispersed and flying foe. The 18th and Rifles finding that they were too late to participate in the attack on the encampments, rapidly dashed into the plain and cut off the Chinese from their only safe retreat on the Changki pass killing numbers; and one company under Lieut. Bernard followed up the pursuit for a several miles towards Yauyas. The 26th camerounians, having left one company to protect the guns, pressed forward into the plain, and joined in the pursuit. It was 8 o'clock before the force re-assembled, when we occupied the enemy's encampment where the men found ample bedding and comforts.

Sir William Parker has brought to my notice, in addition to the captains of the Navy I have already named, the spirited conduct of Lieut. Charles E. Tennant (Flag Lieut.); Lieut. Geo. Elliot, (slightly wounded); Mr. Geo. H. Hodgson, mate, (also slightly wounded in a personal rencontre with a Chinese); Mr. Wm. Bowden, Volunteer 1st class, and Mr. Hy. D. C. Cunningham, Secretary's Clerk, all of H. M. S. Cornwallis; also of Lieut. Harriott, Royal Marines of H. M. S. Blonde. The Admiral also noticed (and it came under my own observation) the judicious and well directed fire of rockets by a party under Lieutenant James Fitzjames, and Mr. Charles Keats Jackson, mate, both of H. M. S. Ship Cornwallis. These officers accompanied Sir William Parker with the advance. Lieutenant A. J. B. Hambly of the Royal Marines was severely wounded at the head of his company in the advance to the hill.

I cannot too strongly express my entire approbation of the enthusiastic manner, in which the whole force maintained their character. Our loss, under divine protection, was wonderfully small; but the enemy's troops stood well and disputed the hills until in many instances our officers and men came into personal contact with them.

The conduct of the 49th came more under my personal observation, and I witnessed with great satisfaction the zealous exertions of Captain Reynolds (wounded); Lieut. and Adjutant Brown, Lieuts. Ramsey and Mitchell of the Grenadier Company; Lieut. Lane (whose left arm was amputated on the field); and Lieut. Montgomery (severely wounded in the thigh). I must also mention with much approbation the conduct of Heret Captain Balfour of the Madras Artillery. I almost feel it invidious to name these officers when I am conscious that every individual anxiously did his duty; but as their conduct comes under my own eye, I consider it a duty to express my sense of approval.

The exact strength of the enemy I can but estimate, as various accounts give it at from 7 to 10,000 men. I received it to have been about 8,000 men; they were the 6th of the Chinese army, including 500 of the Imperial body guard, remarkably fine men; the Kansuh troops from the frontiers of Turkistan, a strong and muscular race accustomed to border warfare, and recruited by the Chinese leviable; and the Shanse troops, for whose arrival Yih-King gave out that he had delayed his attack. Their loss must have been very great, not less than a thousand were killed upon the field or in the pursuit and drowned in the canals; a great proportion of Mandarins fell. These troops not having before met the British, a prebent, I presume, that we should give no quarter and although the Officers and men showed great forbearance, calling to the Chinese to surrender, very few prisoners were taken. We have, however, three Mandarins, two from Kansuh, and one a Lieutenant of the Imperial body guard.

Patigue parties from the several corps, together with the available native followers, were occupied in collecting guns, ginsals, and watchlocks, left in camp or thrown away during the fight, until 12 o'clock on the 16th, when I set fire to the encampments, and to the several houses that the Chinese had occupied as arsenals. At daylight in the morning I had sent into the town to open the grain magazines to the populace, which eagerly flocked to them, and upon visiting there next morning, I found they had been completely emptied. From these and other causes I could not commence my march before half past twelve o'clock, when the column moved for the Changki pass, which I determined to carry, in order to destroy this, as I understood, formidable position, and capture the treasure chest. After a rapid march of three hours we reached the base of the hills, under this pass. The position appeared remarkably strong, indeed almost impracticable from the front, as the hills are lofty and exceedingly steep, and the summits of the ridges were entrenched strongly. But here again as at Segoon, I perceived that the position could be turned, and I at once directed the Royal Irish to ascend the hills on the left of the position, while I moved with the 26th Camerounians, and 49th, supported by the Naval brigade, and occupied a wooded spur which led up direct to the left of the encampment. On reaching the summit of this spur, I found that the enemy had retreated, taking with him his guns, and I regret to say, his treasure; but a considerable quantity of good bread was discovered, also some ammunition. We halted for a couple of hours, and as there was not sufficient cover for all the troops, the works were set fire to, together with the magazine and a large Joss house where the Mandarins resided. The column returned to Tekeer, which we did not reach until nine o'clock that night; all the villages in the neighbourhood of our route were apparently deserted by the inhabitants; but I am happy to say, in no one instance was a house entered on our line of march, along which no trace was left betokening a movement of troops through a hostile country. Indeed, with the exception of a very few killed in houses where the Chinese troops sought refuge the preceding day, I did not see and the slain one individual that was not habituated as a soldier, which, as the peasants were in many instances intermingled with the fugitives, goes far to show the forbearance and discrimination of our men even in the heat of pursuit.

On the 17th I returned with the whole force to Ning-po with the exception of two companies of the 26th, which I sent under Captain Strange, accompanied by engineers, direct to Chinchen, with a view to ascertain the fact of a canal communication between that place and Tekeer, and to clear the country of any straggling parties of the enemy. This duty was satisfactorily performed, and the detachment rejoined me here on the 19th.

Permit me now to bring to your Lordship's favorable notice the several Officers commanding corps who were most zealous in executing and even in anticipating my wishes, viz., Captain Bouchier, commanding the Naval brigade; Lieut. Colonel Morris, commanding 49th Regt.; Lieut. Col. Pratt, commanding 26th Regt.; Major Tomlinson, commanding 18th Regt.; Captain Watson, R. N., commanding the seamen captain Unack, commanding Royal Marines; and Captain Simpson, commanding Rifles 36th Madras Native Infantry.

For a Lieut. Col. Montgomerie, commanding the Artillery, and Captain Pears, commanding Engineer, I received the most zealous support.

I am greatly indebted to Lieut. Col. Mountain, Deputy Adjutant General, and Major Gough, Deputy Quarter Master General, for their valuable assistance; and I feel much obliged to Lieut. Col. Hawkins, Deputy Commissary General, and Major Moore, Deputy, Judge Advocate General, who accompanied me and acted as my personal staff. Captain Whittingham my Aid-de-Camp having been sent to convey my wishes to Sir William san and Kolongsoo are to be held until the money payments, and the arrangements for opening the ports be completed.

In promulgating this highly satisfactory intelligence, Her M. Plenipotentiary, &c. &c. purposely refrains from any detailed expression of his own sentiments, as to the surpassing skill, energy, devotion, and valour, which have distinguished the various grades from the highest to the lowest, of all arms of H. M. combined forces during the contest, that has led to these momentous results. The claims which have been thus established, will be doubtless acknowledged by the highest authorities. In the mean time, H. M. Plenipotentiary congratulates H. M. subjects in China on the occasion of a peace, which he trusts and believes will in due time be equally beneficial to the subjects and interests of both England and China.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

Dated on board the Steam Frigate Queen, in the Yangtze-kiang River off Nanking, this 29th day of August, 1842.

(True Copy) H. MALCOLM,
Secretary of Legation.

On Sunday last arrived from Boston the Schooner Zephyr, built there expressly for the East Coast trade. She made the passage in 109 days, and is said to sail very fast. She is a beautiful fore and aft Schooner, measuring 140 tons. We copy what we find regarding her in one of the Boston papers she brought out.

"THE ZEPHYR. A beautiful clipper built schooner, belonging, we believe to Mr. Forbes of this city, has just been launched at East Boston—which, by the way, is becoming a famous place for ship building—bearing this name. She is of faultless model, and will probably outstrip any of our Kermecan Cutters. To those who like to look upon anything that is beautiful, she is a gratifying sight. She is the best ideal of Cooper's Water Witch, or Ingraham's Dancing Feather. We have seen her; she now lies in the strait off Lewis' wharf."

We notice the arrival in Singapore from Trincomalee of H. M. troopship Alligator, on the 21st of last month.

We are sorry to learn that orders have lately been issued for again detaining all junks in the outer waters on the coast of China. H. M. S. Nimrod about the end of last week entered the Broadway, and there seized three junks which were however again released on Commander Glasse ascertaining that they had no gunpowder or other warlike stores on board. This order for the detention and searching of junks has been occasioned, we suppose, by one having been detected with gunpowder near Namoa, on the seizure of which vessel we gave an account a fortnight since, and it has since been said that five junks were expected to arrive from Singapore with warlike stores, and for these we believe the Nimrod lay in wait, without however having been successful. The Cruiser is at the Bogue for the same purpose. We regret that H. M. ships again interfere with Chinese trading vessels, for, although they may suffer but a momentary detention and be real loss from it, yet, not understanding the why or wherefore they are detained, they may fear for their safety, and not venture in future beyond their port, and thus obstruct the trade of Hongkong, Macao, and Canton, which it seems to be the desire of the British authorities to continue undisturbed. Besides the difficulty of detecting vessels that have military stores on board, the season for junks to arrive from the southward is by this time very nearly passed, and the junks now met with, will mostly prove to be merely coasting vessels.

IMPORTANT TO MARINERS.

We have been favored with the following letter from Captain Laird of the Chusan to Messrs Dent & Co., which as will be seen, contains much interesting information to Captains of vessels navigating in those seas. The Chusan left here on her voyage home on the 12th June.

Messrs DENT & Co.

Barque Chusan. 10th August, 1842

Gentlemen,

As we will anchor in Batavia to-morrow to fill up our water and get some supplies, I beg to inform you of the arrival of the Chusan thus far on our passage in 60 days. We had very light winds from S. E. after we left Macao, and it was 13 days before we got to the entrance of the Mindoro Sea; we had then calms for three days; on the 29th June a light breeze sprang up from the S. W., and am sorry to say that, that night at 9. 30 p. m. we grounded on a reef going about 3 knots, in lat. 11° 31' N. and lon. 121° 30' E., not mentioned in Horsburgh or laid down in his charts: got the long-boat, and ran the stream cable and anchor out in 44 fathoms, brought the stream cable to the windlass, and our stoutest warp for a spring to the capitan, and am happy to say, succeeded in getting her off by 3 o'clock, after striking very heavily for about 3 hours, but has made no more water in consequence of getting above. Had very light winds till we got down to the Macassar Straits, when we got becalmed again for 5 or 6 days; got a breeze from the S. W. that took us down to the entrance of Macassar Straits, and here it blew for 10 or 12 days from the Southward, that we could gain nothing. We stood over to eastward to try to work to windward in smooth water. In standing over on the 25th July, at mid night, saw a vessel to leeward throw a rocket and blue light tacked at once, found afterwards that she was on shore, but saw her off next day. We ourselves struck on another coral reef on the afternoon of the 24th, and knocked off a part of our false keel; finding we could make nothing of her between the reef and a shoal, we gave them a wide berth until the breeze moderated on the 29th; was then under single reefed topsails, with main-top gallant sail for 20 days previous. After this we got very easily down Macassar Straits, and have had a good run from there till now, and am happy to say that she makes not the slightest drop more water than usual. The Cattle Hunt was in company in the Sooloo sea, also an American ship, and we have only lost sight of her this day. The vessel we saw on shore was the Cyren, whaler, Capt. Spratly; she was aground on the reef for 26 hours; he boarded us in the Straits, and gave us the following account of the different reefs and shoals not laid down in the charts, or if so, not correctly.

I shall begin at the entrance of the Mindoro sea, where Capt. Spratly says, there is a small reef or rock 9 miles to the westward of the Apo Shoal, with only 9 feet water on it, very dangerous; then of the reef we were on he says the native name is "Panakatan." Three small low islands with a very extensive reef all round, from longitude 121, 30 till very near the Islands of Caranaga or Buffalo, with a passage between them, and also between them and Simirara, and the same reef that the Francis Charlotte and Canden were wrecked on in 1839, to the S. E. of them is another low woody island, in about Lat. 11. 40. and Long. 121. 40. mentioned in Horsburgh's directory, but not laid down in his charts;—a coral bank to the northward of the Dry Sandy Island; with only 4, or 5 fathoms on it, dangerous for large ships;—in Lat. 10. 5. and Long. 121. 47, an extensive reef, which she calls the "Golondira," where she and many other vessels have struck, and right in the track of vessels. Next is one which the Barque Ann got on, which I presume you have heard of before; it lies to the South West of Santa Cruz Island; also one off the same island also west, in Macassar Straits, with 10 or 12 miles between them and the Island. Capt. Spratly was one of the whalers that assisted in getting the Ann off the rock; he says the Australasian Pocket had a very narrow escape, having gone over the same reef but at high water, and anchored inside of it. The Sooloo Islands, Capt. Spratly says, are very imperfectly laid down in the charts. The next are the Maratus or St. John's Islands in the Celebes sea, where the reef off it is upwards of 30 miles farther to the Eastward, than laid down in any chart, and on this we saw Capt. Spratly's ship aground on the 24th ult.; his lat. 1. 34 and lon. 123. 8; while on the reef the water was shoal North and South as far as he could see from the masthead; but could not see Maratus; the tide, while he was on the reef, rose in the morning 7 or 8 feet and only two or three in the evening tide; he was on the reef the day after full moon, and it was high water at 4 a. m.; to the South of this are the two Maring Islands, bearing S. E. and N. W. from each other in latitude 1° 40' and long. 119° 15', with a reef all round; also a very extensive reef 4 miles South of them, where we struck.—The Bemese Islands lat. 1° 55', long. 118° 46', with reefs and breakers, all round them, and a shoal between them and point Rannoongan.—On the Celebes side there is a reef off Cape Doude about 10 miles to the N. E., and one off Cape Temool to the Westward 5 or 6 miles. Capt. Spratly mentioned a number of others, but not in the track of vessels going to or coming from China, and that in the many whaling voyages he has made in those seas, he has been aground on nearly all these reefs and shoals, and never knew such a continuance of southerly winds as we experienced before we entered Macassar Straits.

We came to anchor in Batavia roads on the 11th, and will get away on the morning of the 13th.

I am, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,
JAMES LAIRD.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China, 1st September.

Among the troops stationed at Chekchu, on the other side of the island, much sickness has prevailed during the past few weeks, and several have died. We regret to have to announce the death of Ensign De Quincy, belonging to the Chekchu detachment, H. M. 26th Regiment. Ensign De Quincy was the son of the Author of that singular and celebrated work entitled the "Confessions of an English Opium Eater." We omitted to notice the lamented demise of Dr. Bace, also of the 26th Regiment, which took place a week or two ago, at the Western Barracks on this side of the island.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

IN THE YANG-TSE-KIANG, CHUAN, CHINNA, &c.
H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Major. Commanding Officer.

Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, & c. c., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, c. n.

Thalid, 44, capt. Hope.
Endymion, 46, the honble F. W. Grey.
Calliope, 28, A. L. Kuper, c. n.
North Star, 75, Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald, 26, J. Nias, c. n.
Dido, 20, the honble H. Keppell.
Pelican, 16, comr. Justice.
Moderate, 18, Watson.
Hart-quin, 18, the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine, 16, Morshead.
Chiblers, 16, Halsted.
Clio, 19, E. Troubridge.
Hazard, 16, Bell.
Sunderland, 16, Seymour.
Serpent, 16, Nevil.
Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Matland.
Royalist, 10, Chetwood.
Hospital ship Mindon, capt. Quin.

SERVING SHIPS.

Starling, 3, comr. Kellett.
Plover, 3, Collinson.
Belaisle, capt. Kingsomb.
Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire, Cole.
Jupiter, comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake.
Alligator.

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, comr. W. Warden.
Socotria, comr. Ormby.
Auckland, Etherway, I. N.
Teneriffe, Wall, I. N.
Nemesis, comr. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto, Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
Medusa, Hewett, I. N.
Phlegathon, comr. McCleverty, R. N.
Prosperina, comr. Hough, c. n.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
Driver, Farmer.

AT ANCHOR.

M. H. S. Cormoran, 16, capt. Chads, c. n. senior commanding officer.
Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleone, 10, Lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Sir T. Cochrane, c. n., capt. Sir T. Herbert, & c. n.

Vindictive, 30, capt. Nicholas, C. O.
 Nimrod, 18, comd. Glasse.
 Wolverine, 16, Johnson.
 Cruiser, 16, Pearse.
 Young Hebe, 2, Wood.
 H.C. St. Hookly, mr. comd. Ross.
 Memnon, comd. Rowell.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

September, ARRIVED

4. (A.) Akbar, Dumaresq, Madras, 10th August.
4. Zephyr, Johnson, Boston, 18th May.
4. (B.) Wm. Sharples, Jones, Bombay.
5. Rob Roy, Boyd, Singapore.
5. Sp. Angular, Manila.
6. (B.) Elvira, Walker, Singapore.
6. (P.) Victoria, Sans, Calcutta and Singapore.

PASSENGERS Per

Rob Roy, Messrs W. H. Whitehead, & S. Stephens
September, SAILED

3. (B.) Hope, Crawford, Sing. and Calcutta.
3. John Brightman, Viell do do.
3. Harriet, Scott, Beynow, Bombay.
3. Mor, Methuen, do.
3. Fortescue, Baddely Amoy and Chusan.
3. (Sp.) Consuelo, Manila.
3. (B.) Francis Spaight, Winn, London.
3. (A.) Forum, Murdoch, Manila.
3. (Sp.) Rafaela, Patino, do.
3. (B.) Neron, Melville, London.
3. Wm. Pirrie, McDonald, do.
3. Winchester, Bain, do.
3. Queen Victoria, Black, Bombay.
3. Claudius, Norris, Chusan.
3. (A.) Lowell, Peiros, do.

PASSENGERS Per

Winchester, Doctors Campbell, and Prieaux, Mr.
Webb, R. N. Mr. Samuel Fearon

VESSELS EXPECTED

- From England, — Duveco, Devon, Elizabeth, Pink.
 Mary Ann Edie, Claudius, Lou-
 Jackson, Bolton, Matilda.
 Geo. Wallis, Lord Lowther, Adelaide, Zenobia, Athenian, Parrock
 Hall, Asia, Madras, Equestrian.
 Ursula, Bella Marina, John O'
 Gaunt, Will the Whip, Liverpool.
- From Bombay, — Asia, Diana, Coren, Woodman.
 Hy Davidson, Hebrides, Kirkman
 Finlay, St. Lawrence, Wm. Hyde.
 John Moor, Helena Prince Regent.
- From Calcutta, — Dido, Clown, Victory, Framjee
 Cowanjer, Caringa Packet, Bengal
 Packet Ariel, Hero, Poloria.
- From Singapore, — Sarah Belford, Waterloo, Pink, Ptorus.

LATEST DATES

ENGLAND, 4th July.	SINGAPORE, 15th August.
UNITED STATES, May 18.	MANILA, 11th August.
CALCUTTA, 23d July.	AMOI, 28th August.
BOMBAY, 16th July.	CHUSAN, 9th August.
JAVA, 16th August.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSEL.	Tonn.	CAPTAIN.	CONSIGNEE.
Aran,	301	Kellock,	Dent and Co.
Arrow,	—	Gears,	—
Arcthan,	—	Christians,	C. Fearon.
Agnes,	512	Jeffrey,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Andromache,	—	Butchard,	Turner & Co.
Anna Elise,	234	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria,	—	West,	—
Bombay Castle,	—	Baxter,	—
Bolton,	—	Robinson,	Dent & Co.

Bucephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Caledonia,	—	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Corsair,	—	Martini,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Cowanj. Family,	—	Durham,	—
Cadet,	—	Carling,	Jardine M. & Co.
China,	624	Robertson,	Russell and Co.
Cacique,	—	Man,	C. Fearon.
Chebar,	—	Harrison,	Lindsay and Co.
Camsien,	—	Chicos,	Jamieson How & Co.
Charles Forbes,	90,	Wills, [per	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Charlotte,	—	Liebachwa,	—
Deronport,	—	Broadfoot,	Turner and Co.
David Clarke,	—	Mills,	—
Diadem,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	—
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
Euma Eugenia,	—	Kettlewell,	Reynvaan & Co.
Elvira,	—	Walker,	Dirom and Co.
Earl Balcarras,	1488	Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh,	1414	Paterson,	—
Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
Fred. Huth,	—	Toby,	Turner and Co.
Felicity,	—	McDonald,	Dirom and Co.
Gemini,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
Grecian,	—	Wat,	—
Gulnare,	—	wilonghy,	Dirom and Co.
Hero of Malwa,	—	Jackson,	—
Hersay,	—	Easterly,	—
Hongkong,	—	Whittem,	—
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	G. Nye Jr.
Hope,	—	Cockbain,	Macvicar & Co.
Helen Stewart,	—	Brown,	—
Hindustan,	708	Boven,	Dent and Co.
Helen,	—	Bayne,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Island Queen,	—	Bills,	Dent and Co.
Intrepid,	—	Stewart,	—
Louisa,	—	Forgan,	Dent and Co.
Lowjee Family,	—	Ayres,	—
Larkins,	—	Hibbert,	Jardine M. & Co.
Litherland,	—	Freemin,	—
Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
Lori Eldon,	—	Worsell,	Lindsay & Co.
Main,	—	Sproute,	D. & M. Rustomjee Co.
M.S. Elphinston,	—	—	Dent and Co.
Mermald,	643	Gill,	A. A. de Melip.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Mary Anne,	—	Bolton,	—
Madura,	—	Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
Orator,	—	Serry,	Jardine M. and Co.
Potentate,	—	Ramsay,	W & T. Gemmell & Co.
Pandora,	298	Cothay,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Prince of Wales,	—	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Rosa,	—	Metcalfe,	C. H. Hart.
Snipe,	—	Mortoz,	Hughesdon Brothers.
Semiramias,	365	Cairns,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Shepherd,	—	Bowdich,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Salem,	—	Milford,	—
Syria,	—	Stroyan,	—
Tartar,	—	Luce,	—
Trinidad,	—	Brown,	—
Thetis,	—	Cass,	Dirom and Co.
Wm. Sharples,	—	Jones,	Russell and Co.
Wild Irish Girl,	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Weara,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney
U. S. S. Boston,	Commander Long
Akbar,	Dumaresq
Delhi,	Cole,
Levant,	Faulk,
Ann MacKinn,	Vasmer,
Congress,	Hay,
Probe,	Sumner,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Panther,	Martin,
Charleston,	Harlow,
Valparaiso,	Lockwood,
Zephyr,	Johnson,
	Russell & Co.
	Russell and Co.
	J. D. Howard & Co.
	W. A. Lawrence.
	Wetmore & Co.
	I. M. Bull.
	J. M. Bull.
	Olyphant and Co.
	Macvicar & Co.

* At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLAY, at the Canton Press Office, No. 40, Moat.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 51.] Macao, Saturday, 17th September, 1842.

[No. 363.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

SOME TIME this month JOHN SMITH will put up for sale, to the highest bidder, a small quantity of Preserves, Tart Fruits, plain and concentrated white wine Vinegar, Pickles, assorted Sauces, Herring, and Anchovy Paste, Salmon and Herring, in Jars, Cheeses, Capers, Olives, Oil, Jams and Jellies, and Brandy Cherries, at the same time will be put up for sale the residue of an invoice of fashionable.

MILLINERY, &c.

consisting of:—Lady's Bonnets, Lace caps, printed muslin and other dresses; Tippets, Silk and Gauze Scarfs, Hair Pins and Rollers, Silk and Kid Gloves—Tooth, Nail cloth and Hair Brushes, patent Japan Leather, Calcutta made Boots, Bengal Silk Handkerchiefs, Saddles and Bridles, Counterpanes, Lavender Water, Eau de Cologne, Table Lamps, and a variety of useful other articles.

Particulars will be published hereafter in handbills.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE annual meeting of the MORRISON EDUCATION SOCIETY will be held at 11 o'clock A. M. Wednesday the 28th inst., at the residence of the Rev. S. R. BROWN, Macao. A report will be read and officers chosen for the ensuing year. The members and friends of the Society are invited to attend.

E. C. BRIDGMAN, Cor. Sec.
Macao, 6th September, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DROGLES, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June inst., and Mr. PATRICK DUDGON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATTERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmain, and in that of HUCHANAM & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinnang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at Hongkong.

Macao, 11th August 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, is this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of JAMES MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART. JARDINE MATHESON & Co. China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

P. PRO. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.
Macao, 1st July, 1842. DENT & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subalternes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires au payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, cools, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842. C. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms, apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON, Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

To be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Bark MOUNT STEWART ELPHINSTONE, Captain LAWTON, 387 Tons, will leave for Bombay with all despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE LOWRIE FAMILY is expected in the Roads from Whampoa, where she will remain and take such freight as may be offered and sail for the above Ports in the first week of October. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A I Ship ISABELLA, Capt. HARRIS, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October, for freight apply to MULLUBHOY DUNJAREE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Barque REGINA, Capt. POOLE, will leave for the above Ports in or about the 26th inst. For freight or passage apply to CAPT. POOLE, at MR. HARTON'S, or on board, in the Type.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE fine ship ST. LAWRENCE, capt. NEWLANDS, A. I., is at Whampoa, and is offered for freight or charter to any Port.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

RUSSELL & Co. Macao or Canton.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE well known British Bark, MRS. MAID, capt. GILL, 644 Tons will be despatched to the above Port on the 25th instant. For freight or Passage, having a great part of her cargo engaged, apply to Macao, 17th Sept., 1843. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE fast sailing A. I. ship WILLIAM SHAPLES, capt. JONES, will be despatched for the above Port on or before 25th inst., and receive freight, Macao, 17th Sept., 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU", A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 355 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to JAMIESON, HOW & Co. Macao.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Barque ELVIRA, Capt. WALKER 330 Tons, per Register, now lying in the Type. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGNEDA" A. I. at Lloyds, W. JEFFRAY commander and of 412 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma task timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 30 inches on the bends, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co. Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Bark PANDA (298 Tons), Capt. COCHRAN. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "H. O. MALOW", 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. PRO. DIROM & Co. W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE OR CHARTER.—The coppered and snapper fastened enter ABRAHAM, of 48 tons, as she now lies in the inner harbour, with a complete set of sails, and two anchors and chains. Apply to EDWARD JONES. In the Bazarinha

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842

EUROPE ROVE

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ANACARD and COPPER, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to JOHN SMITH. HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality Gentlemen's cotton Socks and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UNDERWEAR &c. &c.—Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Denstable, also, Boy's HATS.—Apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 on and Nails, apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST LANDED and exposed for sale:
a few HANDSOMELY FRAMED
ENGRAVINGS:—

RETURN from HAWKING, containing Portraits of Lord Francis Egerton and family after Edwin Landseer, JOHN KIRBY, preaching before the Lords of the Congregation, in the Church of St. Andrew, Scotland, after WILKIE, MAID of SARAGOMA, EXECUTION, by MARTIN, DUKE of WELLINGTON, in his robes as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, SHIPWRECK off St. MICHAEL'S, LEWIS SPANISH SKETCHES, BYRON'S DREAM, VENICE, GRACE DARLING and HER FATHER, rescuing the 9 survivors from the wreck of the "Forfarshire" steam packet, and the COSSAIRE'S ISLE, a DISTINGUISHED MEMBER OF THE HUMAN SOCIETY, QUEEN VICTORIA, &c. also, in sheets and cases.

MAPS AND CHARTS:
War in China, BORNEM Empire, Canton River, Amoy, Chusan, China; World, Asia, New Zealand, Australia, India, Overland Route to India, Turkey to Bornem, Bible Maps, &c.

and in boxes and stands,
CELESTIAL and TERRESTRIAL GLOBES.
Apply to
Macao, 4th September, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.
Apply to
Macao, 25th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—DUFFY GORDON & Co's.
SHERRY in bottles and HIDS,
PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each,
CLARET in do. 6 do. do,
CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.
apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Mandab, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira, apply to their owner
ANTO. NOMEIRA MENDES

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS. PAIR BUILT ALE in Hhd per "Anna Elisa." apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE.—On board the "ISABELLE ROBERTSON" lying in the Type.
Cases of BASSES BEES,
La Rose CLARET,
OILMAN'S STORES,
SHERRY, in Wood and Bottles,
Provision RICE,
TABLE RICE,
GRAIN,
COSE ROPE.—Apply on board.
1st July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADRIDA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart-bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Moonrabeim, WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAIN PANACEA, compound extract of SARGAPARILLA, Spermariti CANDLES, Yellow SOLAR, CHEWING TOBACCO.—Apply to Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—A RIFLE and a pair double and four abreasted Pistols, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. MR. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—At the Gondowas of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house, the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French PIRN-GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.
An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Fayence Porcelain Dinner SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Muscovatatum SNOW in quart bottles, a $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 200 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hds.
SALTZER WATER DEW.
OILMAN'S STORES late importa.
BEER in tierces; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADRIDA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co; apply to Macao, 20th April, 1842. DENT & Co.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BASS' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.
MANILA SEGARS, 4a superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SALTZER WATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEER.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.
The latest reprintment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.
ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.
The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.
MR. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.
The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, SIMMONS, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz:

JOB PRINTING.
Bills of Lading and Exchange, per 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS
Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 4.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.
Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12
For six Months..... $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

July Overland Mail.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

London, 4th July, 1842.

Her Majesty I am happy to say has not experienced any ill effects from the treacherous attack upon her Royal Person, the particulars of which you received by the last mail on 6th ult. The Royal Pair attended by their suite left Buckingham Palace for Windsor Castle and during the same week visited Ascot Races where Her Majesty was received with lively demonstrations of Joy. The Queen entertained large parties of distinguished Visitors daily at Dinner during the Race Week, and returned to Town on 14th by the Great Western Railway for the first time with which mode of conveyance Her Majesty appeared much pleased. At a Privy Council held that day Her Majesty announced her consent to the Marriage of Prince George of Cumberland with the Princess Alexandrina Mary daughter of the Duke of Saxe Altemburgh. On 15th Her Majesty received Addresses of Congratulation on her late providential escape from Assassination from the Members of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, the former headed by the Duke of Wellington and the latter by the Duke of Northumberland; also from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and common Council of the city of London. The Queen and Prince Albert afterwards honored the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland with their Company at Dinner, a select party of nobility have been graced with invitations to meet them. On 16th Her Majesty held her last Drawing Room for the season. On 18th Prince Albert honored the Duke of Wellington with his presence at the Grand Annual Banquet given by his Grace in celebration of the Battle of Waterloo. On 20th the King and Queen of the Belgians arrived at Woolwich from Ostend and proceeded immediately to Buckingham Palace on a visit of Her Majesty. On 23rd Prince Albert accompanied by the Dukes of Cambridge and Wellington reviewed the Household Brigade in Hyde Park, after which the Queen and Prince Albert accompanied by their illustrious Guests proceeded to Richmond to honor the Duke and Duchess of Buccleugh with their presence at a splendid Fete Champetre given by their Graces at their beautiful Villa in that romantic spot; the Queen Dowager, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and most of the leading Nobility and Gentry were honored with invitations, and on 28th the same noble personages gave a similar entertainment at their Town Mansion in Whitehall Gardens which was likewise honored by the presence of Her Majesty and her illustrious Visitors. On 29th the Queen held a Court and Privy Council, at the former of which the Lord Mayor of Dublin and a Deputation from the Corporation were honored with an audience to present an Address of Congratulation to Her Majesty, Prince Albert and the King and Queen of the Belgians were present at a Grand Evening Entertainment given by the Duchess of Gloucester at her residence in Park Lane. I regret to have to add that yesterday (Sunday) as Her Majesty was proceeding to the Chapel Royal St. James's, a youth of about 18 or 20 years of age was seen priming a pistol near one of the Trees in St. James's Park and the party who noticed it, immediately seized him and wrested the Pistol from him; the Police not believing the statement refused at the moment to take him into custody, and in the bustle he escaped but he was apprehended last evening very late, and is said to be in the employment of a Medical man in the New Road St. Pancras, and since Francis's crime had been heard to express regret that he did not succeed. His name is John Bean. He was examined to day by the secrecy observed prevents my giving you any further particulars at present.

The Gazette of 14th ult. contains the appointment of Major-Genl. Sir Wm. M. Gommec to be Governor of the Island of Mauritius; that of 17th announces that Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint Major-General Sir Robert Sale a Knight Grand Cross of the Bath; that of 21st contains the appointment of George Graham, Esq. (Brother of Sir James Graham) to be Registrar General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages in England in the room of T. H. Lister, Esq. deceased; that of 25th contains the appointment of Hugh Calvelley Cotton, Esq. to be Surveyor General in Van Diemen's Land, George Aubert, Esq. to be Attorney-General of St. Lucia, Col. L. S. Dickson to be Civil Commissioner and District Magistrate at Swellendam, Cape of Good Hope, and Henry Rivers, Esq. to be Treasurer at the Cape of Good Hope.

The Trial of John Francis charged with High Treason in attempting the life of Her Majesty took place at the central criminal Court, old Bailey, on 17th ult. before Lord Chief Justice Tindal, Mr. Baron Gurney, and Mr Justice Pattison. The attorney and solicitor General Mr Adolphus, Mr Waddington and Gurney appeared on the part of the Crown; Mr Clarkson defended the Prisoner. The indictment contained four counts, the first charging the Prisoner with shooting off and discharging a Pistol loaded with Gunpowder and a Bullet at and against the person of our Lady the Queen and the second alleged that the pistol was loaded with gunpowder and certain other destructive materials: the third and fourth were to the same effect. The Prisoner pleaded not guilty. The attorney General opened the case and called Col. Arbuthnot one of Her Majesty's Equerries who deposed to the fact of seeing the Prisoner level the pistol discharge it at the moment the Queen's carriage passed the spot where he stood, the carriage was proceeding at the rate of twelve or thirteen miles an hour as he had given orders for the Postillions to drive at full speed when they entered St. James's Park, having heard previous to the leaving the Palace that fears were entertained Her Majesty's life would be attempted. He heard the report of the pistol and saw the flash, and from the report he should consider the weapon was loaded with a Bullet or other destructive material. Col. Wyld the Equerry to Prince Albert who also accompanied the Royal Party deposed to the like effect. Several other Witnesses who were near the spot gave evidence as to the circumstances of his apprehension. The case for the Prosecution being closed, Mr Clarkson addressed the Jury on behalf of the Prisoner urging that he evidence had been offered to prove that the pistol was loaded with Ball or any other destructive material, or that it was actually levelled at Her Majesty, and Witnesses one of them deposing that Col. Arbuthnot was between Her Majesty and the Prisoner, and another that the pistol was levelled at the hind wheel of the carriage. The learned Counsel did not call any Witnesses for the defence. The Solicitor General having replied, Chief Justice Tindal summoned up the evidence with great ability and impartiality. The Jury having retired for forty minutes to consider their Verdict returned into Court and pronounced the Prisoner not guilty on the first Count, but Guilty on the second Count which charged him with firing a pistol loaded with gunpowder and some other destructive materials and substances. The three Judges then put on their black Caps and Lord Chief Justice Tindal proceeded to pass sentence on the prisoner which was that he be taken to the place from whence he came, that he be drawn on a hurdle to the place of execution and there be hanged by the neck until he is dead, and that afterwards his head be severed from his body and his body divided into four quarters and be disposed of as Her Majesty may think fit. The Prisoner who had evinced great composure throughout the trial was removed from the Bar in nearly a fainting state on hearing his dreadful sentence. The unhappy criminal was informed that his sentence would be carried into effect on this day, but, on Saturday (2nd) a notification was received at Newgate informing the Governor that Her Majesty had been graciously pleased to spare the Culprit's life, and that he was to be transported to Tasmania for the remainder of his days.

On 17th the Earl of Ripon in moving the third reading of the Income Tax Bill entered at great length into the state of the Finances of the country and the necessity that existed for resorting to the measure under consideration to restore the Revenue to a healthy state; he also commented upon the plan proposed by the late Ministers of altering the Duties on Corn, Timber, and Sugar, and proved that the calculation of increasing the Revenue from those alterations would have been futile. The Marquis of Lansdowne defended the proposition of the late Ministers and moved an Amendment to the effect that a judicious alteration of the duties affecting Corn, Timber and Sugar would have greatly diminished the amount of additional Taxation required by the exigencies of the State, and would from its effect in increasing the comforts of all classes and lessening the privations of the great body of the people together with such additions as might have been obtained from other sources have been preferable to a Tax on Income in the present circumstances of the country. Lord Colchester contended that a sufficient supply of Sugar from the British East and West Indies could be procured for the consumption of this country and did not think it at all clear that if we took Brazil or other foreign Sugar, our manufactures would be received in payment. Lord Bragham urged that the admission of foreign sugar would be the means of tearing perhaps 40,000 unhappy Africans from their homes annually to cultivate that article for us in Cuba and Brazil. With regard to the income tax he was compelled to admit that some such measure was necessary in consequence of the deficient state of our Finances. Lord Melbourne supported the amendment. The Duke of Wellington believed that the whole demand of the country for sugar could be fully supplied by our colonies within the tropics, and considering the sacrifices made by the West India Planters eight years ago and the nature of the compromise then entered into with them he thought no alteration of the colonial system ought to be made without full and mature deliberation; that he considered was a good reason why their Lordships should pause before they made any alteration in the duty now levied upon foreign grown sugar. With regard to the Income tax he would say for himself and he believed he might answer for his colleagues that they would adhere to it so long but not as long longer than it was absolutely necessary. After the Earl of Wicklow and Clarendon had addressed the House, their Lordships divided when they appeared for the Marquis of Lansdowne's amendment 52, against it 112. The third reading of the Bill was then proposed when the Marquis of Clanricarde moved that the debate be adjourned to 21st. The Duke of Wellington strongly urged their Lordships to pass the Bill that night as the public service would be prejudiced by its delay, and the commission was prepared to give the Royal Assent to it on the following day. Two divisions took place on the question of adjournment in both of which the Ministers had large Majorities but the opposition persevering it was at length agreed that the debate should be adjourned. On 21st it was resumed by the Marquis of Clanricarde in opposition to the Bill but after a long discussion the third reading was carried by a large majority and the Bill passed. It received the Royal Assent on the following day.

In the House of Commons on the 6th ultimo, Lord John Russell obtained leave to bring in a bill for the better discovery of bribery in the election of members of Parliament. His propositions were that voters accused of bribery before a committee should be at liberty to defend their votes and if convicted should be disfranchised; an indemnity to be given to witnesses making disclosures; that members, candidates, and Agents should be liable to personal examination. And to prevent compromise the enquiry should be carried on at the public expense; but leaving the convicted party liable for the repayment of the expenses. When a petition was presented not claiming a seat but alleging extensive bribery it should be prosecuted at the public expense. When a borough was proved to have been the scene of extensive bribery it might either be disfranchised or the constituency reconstructed. He proposed this latter enquiry should take place before a mixed tribunal of Lords and commons; these as well as their president who should be a Peer, the Crown should nominate; this committee to have power to call in the assistance of the Judges. He proposed to abolish the bribery oath at elections. On 7th Lord Ashley after giving a most painful account of the sufferings and degraded position in which females and children were placed in working in the mines in this country, which statement excited the feelings of the house greatly, obtained leave to bring in a bill to prohibit the employment of females & mines and to limit the age at which male children should be allowed to commence labour therein. The Tariff of the new duties has been proceeded with daily and on the 13th on the question that on manufactures of Silk or of Silk mixed with any other material, the Duty for every £100 value imported from British possessions be £5. Captain Mangles admitted that the reduction from 20 per cent to 5 per cent, was great in this case, but India only levied 3½ per cent on the produce of England imported thither and he suggested whether the House would not agree to the same rate of Duty on Goods imported from British India. Sir Robert Peel replied that Government had extreme difficulty in dealing with conflicting interests, and they had endeavored if possible to do justice to all. No one felt more strongly than he did the claims that India had on this country but he hoped the question would not be passed. The original motion was agreed to on 13th. Viscount Howick moved to reduce the Duty on foreign Coffee from 8d to 7d per lb. Mr. Gladstone and Sir Robert Peel defended the rate proposed by them as giving a power in negotiating with Brazil to make further concession in forming a New Treaty. The Committee divided and the original motion was carried by 33. Lord Sandon then proposed that the stock of foreign Coffee in Bonding-ports from within the limits of the East India Company's Charter which may arrive by 1st August next shall be admitted at a duty reduced from 9d to 7d per lb, this was to give relief to the holders of that article. On a division this motion was negatived by a majority of 64. On the article of Tea Mr. Lindsay hoped Government would take into consideration the advantage that would result from a reduction of duty. Sir R. Peel replied that the Duties on Tobacco and Tea producing seven millions per annum were too important to be lightly disturbed, yet if it could be shown that a reduced duty would so increase the consumption as to produce an equal revenue he should be willing to entertain it. Mr. Mangles wished to know whether it was intended to introduce any differential duty in favour of Tea grown in British India. Sir R. Peel said there could be no doubt that Chinese Tea had a preference over Tea the production of British India; considering the large amount of Revenue derived, Government would not be disposed to consent to any alteration which would affect it. Independently of that objection he much questioned the Policy of encouraging the growth of Asam Tea.

With regard to home East-India news, on the 8th ultimo Mr. Elliott Macnaughten was elected a director of the East India Company in the room of Capt. P. Vans Agnew deceased. The contest was a very close one the successful candidate having 785 and Major Oliphant late of the Madras Engineers, having 782 Votes. Mr. C. Whiteman also went to the ballot and obtained 521 votes. The Marquis and Marquess of Tweeddale left town for the continent on 22d on their way to Madras. At a Quarterly General Court of Eastern India Proprietors held on 22nd Mr. Weeding moved four resolutions condemnatory of the ministerial proposition for the emigration of laborers from the East-India to M. Britton, on the ground that there was no superabundance of population in the former country, and that by removing the labouring portion to cultivate sugar in distant settlements it would interfere with the cultivation of the same staple product in their own country. Sir J. L. Lushington the chairman defended the course proposed by the Government not contending that the natives of the East Indies had a right to take their labor to the best market. After several Proprietors had addressed the Court, the resolutions were put and negatived by a majority of 32. Mr. D. Salomons then submitted a motion in the effect that considering the circumstances of the British intervention in the affairs of Afghanistan the expenses of the present war ought not to be thrown upon the people of India but should be borne by the Exchequer of the United Kingdom. After the opening speech the debate was adjourned to 27th when it was resumed by Mr. Lewis, a Proprietor, who went at great length into the history of the proceedings previous to the commencement of the war. The chairman Sir J. L. Lushington expressed his satisfaction that this motion had been brought forward because he considered it would aid and assist the Court of Directors in getting the just and equitable claim which was due to India performed by the British Government. He however recommended a mild course to be pursued by inserting in the motion that the Court were of opinion that a portion of the expenses should be borne by the Public which view the Court of Directors had impressed upon Lord Fitzgerald in a letter addressed to him in April last. With regard to the Policy of the War he would abstain from saying anything. He certainly regretted that Lord Auckland had not found it possible to enter into a Negotiation with Dost Mahomed. But the truth was that Dost Mahomed stood convinced he could not yield up Peshawar to the Sikhs, and as Lord Auckland said. How was it possible having entered into that Treaty with Ranjeet Singh to accede to those terms? He did hope at all events that the proceedings of the present Ministers would be such as not only to restore the finances but the Peace of that country. The Court of Directors had full confidence in the activity and good sense of the present Governor General and it would be most gratifying to find this Afghan question settled in a manner that would take the Public along with them. After some further observation the Court divided when the amended motion was carried by 23 to 20.

Three Transports sailed on 24th from Gravesend; on board the Queen of England were embarked 80 Rank and file belonging to the 9th Regt. under the command of Captain Robinson and Ensign Swerwright, 30 men belonging to 30th Regt. under the command of Lieutenant Malony with Lieut. Orlish and Meekenzie. On board the Duncan 61 men belonging to 3rd Regt. of Buffs under the command of Ensign Woods, 17 men belonging to the 10th Regt. 31 men belonging to the 13th Regt. 9 men belonging to 20th Regt. under the command of Ensign Head with Ensigns Borrow, Wade and Bradford of 13th Regt. 31 men of 39th Regt. under the command of Captain Shawbengen with Ensign Newport, General and Bray. These two vessels are ordered for Bengal, 160 men of the East India Company's Infantry embarked on board the Harmony for Bombay. Some further detachments of 2nd, 17th, 23d, 40th, 41st and 94th embarked on 30th on board the Santa for Bombay. The Orestes and Springatam transports have sailed with detachments of 18th, 29th, 33th and 97th Regts. for China, 500 rank and file in all.

Lord Congleton committed suicide at his house at Pimlico on 8th ult; this Nobleman is better known to the world as Sir Henry Percell, having held several subordinate offices under the whig Administration; he was promoted to the Peerage just before the last General Election. Over exertion of mind is supposed to have brought on a low nervous state from which he could not be relieved. The Earl of Leicester, many years known as Thos. Wm. Coke Esq. of Holkham Hall Norfolk, died on 30th ult. aged 91.

From the United States we learn that Lord Ashburton's mission is attended with favorable results, and that he will be able to accomplish the Settlement of the difficult questions that have created so much unpleasant feeling for years.

From the West India we regret to learn that a dreadful earthquake took place at St. Domingo on 7th May which totally destroyed the Town of Cape Haytien and it was feared some thousands of its inhabitants perished. Port au Prince also suffered severely, but we have not yet received any detailed accounts of this awful visitation. The neighbouring islands do not appear to have suffered.

6th July, 1842.

The inward mail having arrived on 4th the outward one was detained until this day, I have accordingly kept my despatch open to give you the latest intelligence. The young man who was apprehended charged with intending to shoot Her Majesty, and whose proper name is John Bean, the Son of a working Jeweller in Clerkenwell is still under restraint; the examinations have as usual been before the Privy Council and closed doors. Nothing but rumors are about as to the causes of his acting so disloyally. Her Majesty has not been in Public since Sunday, which is much to be regretted as her daily drives afforded her loyal subjects the pleasure of seeing her in a quiet way. The Gazette of last night announces the appointment of Sir Hewitt Wood B. R. Fellow, C.B., to be a Naval Aide-de-Camp to Her Majesty in the room of Captain Lord James Townshend deceased. In the House of Lords the second reading of the New Fallow Bill was carried by a majority of 55 there being only 4 dissentients, led by the Earl Stanhope who is an enemy to the removal of any restrictions on trade. In the House of Commons Lord Worsley enquired whether there was any truth in the report that the Hon. Col. Dundas had used language disrespectful to her Majesty and if so whether the Ministers had taken any steps in consequence. The observations took place at a Dinner of which the Earl of Exeter was presiding when the gallant colonel spoke disparagingly of the Whigs and censured Her Majesty for not supporting the service with more good will. Sir H. Hardinge stated that immediately on the commander-in-chief becoming aware of the circumstance he called upon the colonel for an explanation, which not being deemed satisfactory the commander-in-chief felt it to be his duty to submit to Her Majesty that colonel Henry Dundas should be dismissed from his appointment of Aide-de-Camp to Her Majesty and further that he should be removed from the command of the 53rd Regt. and be placed on the Half-pay list. Her Majesty had been pleased to approve of the decision and determination of the commander-in-chief. The Quarter's revenue published this day does not contain any thing to cause either congratulation or despair; upon the whole it is less than the corresponding period of last year especially in the customs department, but that is to be in a great degree attributed to the state of stagnation in which trade has been placed during the protracted discussions and delays to which the new tariff has been subjected. The Marchioness of Waterford is still proceeding favorably. I have omitted to mention that Mr. Vinter the Comedian and Proprietor of the Adelphi Theatre died on 16th ult. after a short illness.

(From the London Times, July 6.)

DREADFUL FIRE.—ST. PETERSBURGH, June 23.—On the 21st inst. (probably May 31) a dreadful fire destroyed a salt-works of Novo-Udolsky, in the government of Perm, the property of Stroganoff family. The conflagration spread to the extent of 2½ versts, and lasted three days. Besides the salt-works, with the tune-provisions of all kinds of fuel made for them, from 3,000 to 4,000 inhabited houses connected with the manufactory tory, a large church, and numerous products of nature, have become the prey of the flames.—Prussian State Gazette. The St. Petersburg Gazette gives the following account of calamity, under the head of the place itself; but it differs greatly as to date, even making allowances for the Russian style.—“Perm, May 14 (old style)—In the Solikamsk circle of our government, the Novo-Udolskian salt works, the ancient property of the Stroganoff family, experienced a dreadful visitation. On the 9th of May, at 11 in the morning, the house of one of the workmen took fire from some unknown cause. Every measure for extinguishing the fire was instantly employed; but unfortunately it reached a great quantity of hay which had been stored up, and then the flames spread rapidly over the whole quarter; neither human efforts nor resources of skill could set any bounds to the raging element. The conflagration lasted during three days and nights, and laid a space equal to 24 versts in ashes. Thus the branch of trade which gave life to the industry of the whole quarter, the numerous seething places built in stone or wood, more than 15 stone-houses, containing an immense quantity of salt, about 30,000 fathoms of firewood prepared for the works, the ancient majestic Cathedral, the great edifices built in stone for the five proprietors, for the offices of the managers and clerks, and finally the 5,000 or 6,000 houses, with the property within them, all suffered in the general ruin. The extent of the loss as to value, and even the number of houses that have disappeared, cannot as yet be stated with any certainty. In the neighbouring villages, and in the few houses left standing, the families of about 500 of the labourers in the salt works are for the present quartered, and provided with necessities.

We have received by an extraordinary courier the Paris papers of Friday and Saturday, with letters from our correspondents in the French capital, in Spain, Germany, and Italy.

The Paris journals so received bring no political news of any importance.

The Mentier of Saturday contains the following intelligence from Madrid:—“By a decree dated the 28th ult., the Army of the North is dissolved. The troops of which it was composed are to pass under the command of the Capt. General of the 10th Division (Navarre), and the 11th (Baque provinces).”

The celebrated historian, M. DE SIMONDI, died on the 28th ult., at his country seat, near Geneva, in the 69th year of his age.

The Sed of Marseilles of the 29th ult. states that the Toulon fleet had sailed for Naples.

Our Paris letters repeat that the Russian Minister had still refused to concur with those of the other Powers at Constantinople in the steps taken by them with respect to the affairs of Syria.

SPAIN.

Notwithstanding the disavowal of the correspondence said to have passed between Don Carlos and Maria Christina on the subject of the Queen of Spain's marriage, rumours arrive from all parts that an insurrectionary movement is at hand. Espartaco, however, it is believed, will be prepared for it. The Ministry has at length been re-constructed. The Madrid Official Gazette of the 17th inst. announces the following Cabinet:—Rodil, War Minister and President of the Council; Almagrovar, President of the Senate and Minister of Foreign Affairs; Zumalacarrayon, Minister of Justice; Ramon Calatrava, Minister of Finance; Capas, Minister of Marine; Torres Solano, Minister of Interior.

UNITED STATES.

It appears after all that we are to have no war, and that all money voted so freely the other day by the French chambers in anticipation of hostilities between John Bull and Brother Jonathan has been completely thrown away. The boundary dispute is in a fair way toward settlement, the question of the right of search appears to have been disposed of its sting, and the case of the Creole is no longer considered as a casus belli. The “British Queen” steamer arrived at Coves on Thursday morning, having made the passage from New York in fifteen days, although she was compelled to check her speed for two days while passing by an immense quantity of floating ice, in fields and icebergs, on the 12th and 13th, in lat. 42° 38' and long. 52° 35'. The American papers contain little news except the important fact that the government had resolved to make a reduction in the United States Navy. The prevailing opinion at New York is, that Lord Ashburton's mission will be brought to a favourable and amicable conclusion, though but little is said on the subject in the journals.

The Morning Post of this day contains a letter from Constantinople, dated 17th ult., brought by extraordinary express from Marseilles, in which the following startling announcement is made:—“The general impression produced by what has transpired as to the state of the negotiations with respect to Syria, is that conciliatory means having proved wholly ineffectual, a series of coercive measures, commencing with a demonstration of the united squadrons of England and France, on the coast of Syria, will be forthwith resorted to. The expediency of such a course is said to have been discussed and decided in the affirmative at a conference of the ministers of the five powers, which was held at Baron de Bourqueney's a few days after that which took place with the Turkish ministers at the house of Sarim Effendi.

TROOPS FOR INDIA.—On Friday morning the ship “Wild Irish Girl,” captain Graham, sailed from Gravesend for Bombay with troops, to fill up the casualties which have taken place in the regiments stationed in India. Several otherships, with stores, are to sail for the same destination in a few days.

The “Orestes” and “Hindostan” will sail immediately with detachments of the 18th, 26th, 49th, and 55th, Regiments, direct of Hongkong, China.

LONDON MARKET.

(London, 1st July, 1842.)

SPICES. Casia Ligna.—There has been a good demand through the month, and at a public sale of 1,000 chests on the 17th instant, prices advanced 5s 7s per cwt., picked bundles realizing 90s 6d a 94s, middling 87s a 89s, and ordinary and coarse 77s a 78s 6d. The market remains very steady, and there are buyers at the rates last paid at auction.

TEA.—The downward tendency in prices noticed in our last advices was arrested by the importers refusing to submit to the low rates ruling at the close of the last month. The absence of Public sales, and the continued demand from the country dealers, have caused prices to rally fully 1d a 1½ per lb on sound common Congous, which may now be quoted at 1s 9d, but for the finer descriptions the enquiry has been very limited. The trade are considered to hold very light stocks and the market has a firm appearance. The arrivals during the month amount to 53,530 packages at London and 10,477 packages at Liverpool.

ARRIVALS IN ENGLAND.

From China—June 14. Duchess of Northumberland, 18th. H. M. S. Lorne, 20th. Mary Ann, 22d, Indus, 24th, Parkfield, Foung Queen, 26th, Pestonjee Bomanjee, Sains Castle, Samuel Winter, 27th, Saphia, Rajah.

Manila—22d June, Shepherdess, 25th, Garland Grove, 27th, Bencoolen.

DEPARTURES.

To China—2d June, D'Arcy, 9th, Asia, 15th, Athenium, 21st, Four George Wallis, Orestes, 22d, Christopher Ramson, 27th, Hindostan, 29th. Alexander Baring, Pandora, John O'Gaunt, 30th James Matheson.

VESSEL LOADING.

For China—Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Boustead.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

IN THE YANG-TSEI-KIANG. CHUBAN, CHINHA, &c. H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, capt. Richards, Senior Com-manding Officer.

“Blonde, 42, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, C. B.

“Thalia, 44, capt. Hope.
“Endymion, 44, “ the honble F. W. Grey.
“Calliope, 28, “ A. L. Kuper, C. B.
“North Star, 26, “ Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
“Herald, 26, “ J. Nias, C. B.
“Dido, 30, “ the honble H. Keppell.
“Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.
“Modeste, 18, “ Watson.
“Harlequin, 18, “ the honble F. Hastings.
“Columbine, 16, “ Morshead.
“Childers, 16, “ Hasted.
“Clio, 16, “ E. Troubridge.
“Hazard, 16, “ Bell.
“Vanderer, 16, “ Seymour.
“Serpent, 10, “ Nevill.
“Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Majland.
“Royalist, 10, “ Cherwood.
“Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SERVICING SHIPS.

“Starling, 6, comr. Kellert.
“Plover, 6, “ Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

“Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.
“Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
“Napshire, “ Cole.
“Jupiter, comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
“Rattlesnake,
“Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden.
“Auckland, comr. Ethersey, I. N.
“Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, K. N.
“Pluto, “ Tudor, R. N.
“Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.
“Medusa, “ Hewett, J. N.
“Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
“Proserpine, comr. Hough, A. N.
H. M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
“Driver, “ Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M. H. S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, a senior com-manding officer.
“Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
“Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

“Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Ad-miral, sir T. Cochrane, G. C. B., capt. sir T. Herbert, &c. &c.
“Vindictive, 50, capt. Nicholas, C. B.
“Nimrod, 18, comr. Glasse.
“Wolverine, 16, “ Johnson.
“Cruizer, 16, “ Pearce.
“Young Hebe, 4, “ Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghy, mr. comr. Ross.
“Memnon, comr. Powell.
“Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

September, ARRIVED

10. (B.) St. Lawrence, Newlands, Bombay.
11. H. C. St. Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N. England, Cape, Mauritius and Singapore.
11. (B.) Wm. Hyde, “ Bombay.
“Regina, Poole, Calcutta.
15. “Abertoun, Colt, Bombay.
15. “Pink, McIntosh, London and Singapore.
16. “Pteron, Trigga, do.
“Prince Regent, Barclay, Bombay.
“Kirkman Finlay, Scott, do.

PASSENGER PER.

Pink, Mr. Michaelis.

September, SAILED

14. U. S. S. Constellation, Com. Kearney, } on a cruise,
14. U. S. S. Boston, Comr. Long.
15. (B.) Shepherd, Bowditch, London.
15. “Larkins, Hibbert, do.
16. “Chebar, Harrison, do.
16. “Winchester, Bain, do.
16. “Patentate, Ramsay, do.
Mermaid and Regina to be despatched for Cal-cutta on the 25th.

The H. C. St. Sebastian and Tenasserim arrived at Hongkong from Nanking on the 9th inst. and sailed again on the 11th the former for Ceylon, and Suez, the latter for Calcutta.

Captain Newlands of the St. Lawrence, arrived here on the 10th, from Bombay 31st July, reports having spoken the Hubert Fulton, from Macao, in lat. 9° 35' N., long. 109° 30' E., on the 31st August. On the 8th September the Huys from Macao to Singapore in lat. 19° 20' N. long. 113° 42'—also saw on same day two ships standing to the southward.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Dovecot Devon, Elm-beth, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudius, Louis, Jackson, Boltour, Malinda, George Wallis, Lord Southey, Adelaide, Zenobia, Athenian, Parrack Hall, Asia, Madras, Equator, Urania, Bella Marina, John O'Gaunt, Wm. the Wisp, Liverpool, D'Arcy, Fourm, Orestes, Crisophro, Romson, Hindolun, Alex. Baring, Pandora, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Boustead, James Matheson.
From Bombay,—Asia, Diana, Coro, Woodman, Hy Davidson, Hebrides, John Moor, Belica, John Caloin.
From Calcutta,—Dido, Clown, Fictory, Framjee Cowarjer, Coringa Packet, Bongal Packet Ariel, Horo.
From Singapore,—Sarah Beiford, Waterson.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 6th July. SINGAPORE, 4th Sept.
UNITED STATES, June 13. MANILA.
CALCUTTA, 23d July. AMOY, 28th August.
BOMBAY, 9th August. CHUBAN.
JAVA, 16th August. NANKING, 20th August.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	Tons.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNERS.
Arna,	301	Kethuck,	Dent and Co.
Arrow,		Genre,
Archibald,		Jeffrey,	C Pearson
Agnes,	342	Jeffrey,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Abderrah,		Jeffrey,	J. M. R. How & Co
Anna Eliza,	254	Bateuer,	Hindley Wine & Co.
Anna Maria,		Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Bombay Castle		West,
Baton,		Baxter,
Beechphad,		Robinson,	Dent & Co.
Cleodora,		Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Columbine,		Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Corsair,		Major,	H. Pylus.
Cowaji Family		Martin,	D & M Rustomjee & Co.
Cadet,		Durham,
China,	524	Corring,	Jardine M. & Co.
Cacique,		Robertson,	Russell and Co.
Camaieu,		Man,	C Pearson
Charles Forbes,	990	Clucas,	Jamieson How & Co.
Charlotte,		Wills, (pre)	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Devonport,		Lieschwa,
David Clarke,		Broadfoot,	Turner and Co.
Diadem,		Mills,
Ellora,		Hartland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellen,		Tornbull,
Emma Eugenia,		Brewer,	Dent and Co.
Elvira,		Kettlewell,	Reynvan & Co.
Earl Balcarras,	1488	Walker,	Dirom and Co.
Edinburgh,	1414	Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Frances Burn,		Paterson,
Fred. Huth,		Elington,	Macvicar and Co.
Felicity,		Toby,	Turner and Co.
Gemini,		McDonald,	Dirom and Co.
Greenlaw,		Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Greician,		Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
Gulnare,		Watt,
Hero of Malou,		Wilmington,	Dirom and Co.
Hersey,		Jackson,
Hongkong,		Easterly,
Hygeia,	378	Whittem,
Hope,		Woodbury,	G. Nye jr.
Helena Stewart,		Cockhain,	Macvicar & Co.
Hindustan,	708	Brown,
Helen,		Brown,	Dent and Co.
Isa. Robertson,		Bayne,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Isab. Thompson,		Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,		Kitton,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Island Queen,		Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Intrepid,		Bills,
Kirkman Finlay		Stewart,
Louisa,		Scott,	Dent and Co.
Lowjee Family		Fogras,
Litherland,		Ayres,
Lady Clarke,		Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
Lord Edon,		Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
Main,		Wormell,	Lindsay & Co.
M.S. Elphinstone		Sproule,	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
Mermaid,	644	Lawton,	Dent and Co.
Manly,		Gill,	A. A. de Mello,
Mercury,		Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mary Anne,		W. Scott,
Madura,		Holton,
Orator,		Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
Pink,		Serry,	Jardine M. & Co.
Prince Regent,		McIntosh,	Turner & Co.
Pelorus,		Barclay,
Pandora,	298	Triggs,	Lindsay and Co.
Prince of Wales		Cotley,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Regina,		Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Raparell,		Prole,	Capt. Poole.
Rob Roy,		Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Ross,		Boyd,	H. Pylus.
St. Lawrence,		C. H. Hart,
Saipa,		Russell and Co.
Semiramis,	365	Mortons,	Huxtedon Brothers.
Salem,		Cairne,	Jamieson, How & Co
Serica,		Milford,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Tartar,		Stroyan,
Trinidad,		Luce,
Thetis,		Brown,
Wm. Sharples,		Cass,	Dirom and Co.
Wild Irish Girl		Jones,	Russell and Co.
Wm. Gitties,		Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Weerah,		Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Wm. Hyde,		Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co

AMERICAN.

Akbar,		Dumaresq,	Russell & Co.
Delhi,		Cole,	Russell and Co.
Levant,		Fault,	J. D. Sward & Co.
Ann MacKim,		Vasner,	W. A. Lawrence.
Congress,		Hay,
Probas,		Sumner,	Wetmore & Co.
Grafton,		Gardeor,	I. M. Bull.
Panther,		Martin,	J. M. Bull.
Charleston,		Harlow,	Olyphant and Co.
Valparaiso,		Lockwood,
Zephyr,		Johnson,	Macvicar & Co.

At Whampoa.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

On Sunday last, the 14th instant, arrived in the roads here, the H. C. St. Akbar, commodore Pepper, I N from England, Cape, Mauritius and Singapore. At the latter place the John Calvin had just arrived from Bombay, having on board a portion of the overland mail of July, which arrived in Bombay on the 7th August. The remainder of the letters by this mail were forwarded per Hebrides, John Moore, and Abderton, the latter of which only has as yet arrived. The Steamer brought from Singapore ex John Calvin but very few letters and newspapers, but we have received the extras of Sing. Free Press and Writa Messenger, from which we have extracted the most interesting news, although this mail is most destitute of intelligence of much interest. Another infamous attempt on the life of the Queen was made by a misshapen wretch of the name of John Bean, just after Francis, the last would-be regicide had been condemned to death, and his punishment commuted into transportation for life. The King of France had recovered his health, nor did there seem to be any reason to expect a rupture between England and France. The mission of Lord Ashburton to the United States was likely to be attended with complete success, so that there need be no apprehension of a war with the United States. The accounts from the manufacturing towns and districts in England are most distressing—in Manchester a great many mills had suspended work, and others were expected to do the same. We hope that the ports of China being now open to them, the glorious news of the treaty of peace with this country will exert a salutary influence upon the manufacturing interests.

On the 14th September it blew a strong gale from the Northward, and afterwards from the East. Here and at Hongkong it has not caused any damage to the shipping, but vessels arrived within these last days experienced its violence. The Pelorus lost foretop gallantmast, and flying jibboom, and the Abderton reports that she fell in with a large junk, bottom upwards, on the 13th, the day after the gale. It is singular that although the wind here was northerly, the Abderton coming from the south should have met the gale a day before we had it here; and this makes us conclude that it was really a typhoon of which we had not the whole strength; the barometer fell very much, and the gale here was accompanied by drizzling rain, as is usual with typhoons.

Among the most important political and commercial news brought by the July Overland Mail in the Income-tax Act having received the Royal assent, and the new Tariff as proposed by Sir Robert Peel having passed through the House of Commons, and there is little doubt of its experiencing little or no opposition in the House of Lords.

We hear it said that Major Genl. Lord Saltoun will be among the first to leave the North, to assume the government, military and civil, at Hongkong. The Government Agency Office here it to be abolished, which we regret, for under the management of Mr. Rickett, it has, during its short period of existence been of great convenience to the public for the distribution and despatch of letters. The commissariat department at Hongkong is likewise to be considerably reduced. We hope that under a vigilant military government the police regulations will be such as effectually to restrain the robberies which are now so common. H. M. S. Vindictive is, we learn, soon to leave for Sydney, and thence for Valparaiso.

We have not copied from the Hongkong Gazette the official returns of the killed and wounded at Chinkiang, as we have some doubts as to the correctness of the copy—we can hardly believe 24 drummers of the navy to have been killed or wounded.

By the last advices, the French Frigate Erigone, remained in the Yang-tse-kiang; the Corvette Favosite had arrived at Chusan. The American ships of war Constellation and Boston left here on the 12th, on a cruise, we believe.

The following melancholy advertisement is cut from a London "Times." The advertiser seems not to have promissed doing his 20 years "hard work."

A YOUNG GENTLEMAN aged 37, having just relinquished the naval service, wishes to ENGAGE himself as SHOES-BLACK, and to make himself generally useful. Has been accustomed to hard work for 20 years. First-rate certificates if required. Address to D. L. O., post-office, Alhemarle-street, Piccadilly.

We give below many interesting details of the operations in the north, which ended in a treaty of peace of which the provisions for England are as favorable as the most sanguine could expect, if they should be duly fulfilled by the Chinese; but we hope, English garrisons being continued until their due performance, on three islands on the coast, to be a sufficient guarantee for the good faith of the Chinese. We have already stated below that little doubt need be entertained of the ratification of the treaty by the Emperor who has already approved of all its conditions, excepting one and that of not sufficient importance, we should think, that he would not rather consent to that also, than see the British force continuing in the Yang-tse-kiang, blockading the canal, and taking city after city. Considering then the ratification as certain, let us now look upon the changes this important event is likely to bring about in our intercourse with China. Canton is no longer the centre of the foreign trade, in which in a few cities of Amoy, Foo chow, Foo, Ningpo, and Shanghai are to share, not forgetting Hongkong, which cannot under present circumstances fail of soon becoming the centre of a very important trade. At Amoy the Spaniards used formerly to trade, and have nominally still permission to send their ships there, although this privilege has not been taken advantage of for many years. It is a town which carries on considerable trade, and sends annually many junks to Singapore and the Archipelago, which it supplies with tea and articles the produce and manufacture of China. It also carries on a great trade in grain from Formosa. It is situated on a small island close to the mainland, with which the communication is easy: its harbour is represented as perfectly safe.

Fuchow is the capital of the province of Fuhkeen, is a large city situated on the banks of the Ming-river, which is navigable for large ships up to the bridge thrown over it near the city. Mr. Gutzlaff and Mr. Gordon ascended beyond it in a boat some years since, in search of the tea plant, and several others have been as far as the city. It is in its neighbourhood where most of the black tea, which supply the Canton market, are grown, and as soon as the trade there shall be open, it is likely to become the principal mart for this great staple.

Ningpo we believe carries on the principal trade of the rich province of Chekiang; the river on which it is situated is navigable beyond the city. Most of the raw silk and the green tea come from this and the neighbouring province of Kiang nan where Shanghai carries on the principal trade, particularly with Japan, so that we may expect there to find a market for British manufactures even for Japanese consumption.

It is evident that so soon as these places are all open to British commerce, Canton will become a place of secondary importance, and the system of the Co-hong must fall to the ground. Of this they are already aware, and they say that it would have been far better, had the Emperor paid 50 Millions of dollars instead of permitting foreign trade at other places. This loss of trade will however probably not be felt for the first year or two, as most of the tea for this country's export must already be on their way to Canton. As soon as the ratification is known, it is probable that most of the foreign merchants now residing here, will return to Canton where we understand the rent of factories has already risen beyond former prices. It is to be hoped that in the details of the arrangements to be made by Sir Henry Pottinger, most if not all the restrictions hitherto imposed on foreigners will be removed, when Canton will even become a pleasant place of residence. It cannot fail that the establishment of peace, since the success of the British arms has taught the Chinese that the Barbarians are not so contemptible, and well able to resent the insults it pleased the former to heap on the latter, will bring about a more unreserved intercourse, and that we shall soon become acquainted with the better classes of the people, of whom we have hitherto known little more than the refuse.

HONGKONG we should think is now certain of success, and we are glad of it for the sake of those who, trusting to its permanent occupation, have already laid out large sums in building. Hitherto the Lords of the Treasury, at least, have not considered it as a British Colony, for we learn that the application to allow some Cassia shipped there, to be entered at the same duty as if shipped from a British possession, has been refused, on the plea that it was then only a temporary military post. As soon however as the treaty shall have been ratified by the Queen, it must be considered as a British colony, and as such enjoy all the advantages. Hongkong, besides becoming the centre of the Opium trade, is likely to be a depot from which to supply the other Chinese ports, nor is it improbable that a considerable portion of the Chinese coasting trade will centre there.

It is impossible to foresee all the vast changes in our relations with China which this important treaty will cause. The trade will feel this soon, and although no longer concentrated and confined in one spot, we have no doubt that we shall soon discover many new channels, create new wants among the Chinese for the manufactures of Europe, as well as find many exports from China at present unknown or disregarded.

THE TREATY OF PEACE—CAPTURE OF CHINKIANGFOO, &c. &c.

We publish below Sir Henry Pottinger's proclamation to the Chinese people, and his Circular to British Subjects in Macao, describing the capture of the city of Chinkiangfoo. We likewise republish from last week's paper Sir Henry Pottinger's circular containing the treaty of peace, partly because it will be acceptable to our readers to have all these important documents together, and partly also because, in the hurry of copying and setting up last Friday night, in order that the paper might be ready for the Steamer about to be despatched for Bombay, the signature of the Secretary of Legation was misprinted. Our readers will likewise find extracts from letters from parties with the expedition containing a number of interesting details, and for communication of which we are indebted to friends here. From all these documents our readers will, we trust, be pretty well able to form a correct estimate of the manner in which the important events to the north have been brought about. The assault and capture of the city of Chin-kiang seems to have been the most arduous task hitherto imposed on the military force; the Tartar garrison behaved with the greatest bravery, and their general, when he found resistance unavailing, burned himself to death in his house, where his remains, half consumed by the flames, were discovered. The loss sustained by the Chinese was very great, and had it been limited to the garrison would have been but the necessary result of the contention; but we are sorry to have to relate that many of the Chinese peaceable inhabitants of the town, unjustly dreading the cruelty of the conqueror, killed their wives and children, after which they committed suicide, and the city seems to have suffered more from their apprehension, and from the bands of robbers which from all sides poured into it, than from the British army, the loss on whose part, as will be seen from the official return below has been very great. A fortnight since when we had but an imperfect account, came by way of Cassia of the losses of the army, we mentioned as among the slain Lt. Col. Thomas Stephens; this officer's name is not on the official returns, but we regret to learn that he has died of Cholera. According to all accounts the success of the British arms at Chinkiangfoo, which must have been garrisoned by the very élite of the Emperor's troops, and the subsequent movement of the fleet up the river towards Nankin, and the blockade of the grand canal, has produced the greatest sensation at Peking and at once determined the Imperial government to make peace with the invaders on almost any terms. This resolution was probably strengthened by the discontent and even disaffection which is said to exist in the provinces north of the Yang tse kiang, and which is threatening to break out into open rebellion, on which account the Emperor was unable to succor Nanking with the necessary number of troops, and the whole garrison of that city is said not to exceed 3 or 4000 men. It may therefore be supposed that the wish for peace as well as domestic disturbances may render the Imperial government for the present, sincere, and that there will be no obstacle to the ratification of the treaty by the Emperor, who was previously well acquainted with its conditions, and is represented by his commissioners to have agreed to them all, with the exception of Puh-chow-foo being thrown open to British trade, which latter condition the commissioners seem at length to have conceded on their own responsibility. The ratified treaty was expected to reach Sir Henry Pottinger about the 20th September. The first six millions were to be paid on the 30th Aug. Meanwhile, until the ratification shall have been received, the British force remains off Nanking, whilst a strong detachment with 42 guns is encamped on the hills near the city. We learn that letters from the north state that the twenty one Millions the Chinese are to pay, are to satisfy the following claims.

- 3 Millions, as ransom for the City of Nanking.
- 6 Millions, value of the Opium delivered to Commissioner Lin.
- 12 Millions, expences of Expedition.

This sum is to be paid—6 Millions immediately, 6 in 1843, 5 in 1844, and 4 in 1845.

The Auckland Steamer was to leave on the 18th September for Suez direct, touching at Hongkong, Singapore, and Ceylon with Major Malcolm, Secretary of Legation, who takes the treaty to England, where he is expected to arrive about the 1st January, for its ratification by the Queen, and he will then immediately return to China in the Auckland, which vessel is to wait for him at Suez.

All accounts agree in representing the country round Nanking as most magnificent, although not so densely populated as former travellers would have led us to believe. At Nanking there were no indications of any great trade being carried on there in time of peace, and although its walls are about 17 miles in circumference a great parts of this enclosure are fields, whilst but a small part comparatively is covered with houses.

Off Chinkiang, 28th July, 1842.

"We arrived here on the 20th inst., and you will see from Sir Henry's Circular the manner in which this large town was attacked. The enemy defended the walls with desperate courage; but nothing could surpass the gallantry with which General, Schoeddy's Brigade, consisting of the 55th, and about 200 of the 49th scaled the North Wall, by which they alone lost 83 killed and wounded. The force on our side was about 4,500, and the enemy's 3000. Never have the Chinese disputed our occupation of a city in this style before. At one o'clock the same day Blonde's boats were sent up the Grand Canal to enfilade the North-Gate from which the enemy were cutting up our troops. The canal is narrow, and sometimes the tide runs strong. Pinnace and cutter had not got far up with the walls of the city in front of them, when the enemy opened such terrific fire that 11 out of 13 were killed and wounded in her pinnace, which was, as a matter of necessity, abandoned, as also was the cutter which young Lyon commanded, and who was wounded in the neck. Cornwallis's boat came up soon after, the launch leading; she, mounting two heavy guns, opened fire with shell upon the gate, which was bravely returned by the enemy. A few sappers coming up, and the boats engaging the attention of the Tartars, they (the sappers) crawled on their bellies to the gate and dug a small hole, into which two 60 lbs bags of powder were put, fuse lighted, and almost at same time Cornwallis's boats blew up a magazine of immense size; the gate and those near it were no more seen. Blonde's boats were retaken without difficulty. I imagine that Nanking will be attacked on the 2d August. Capt. Kellett has been up surveying and finds from 10 to 15 fathoms, all the way. Chops are constantly being received from and sent to Keying, the General and Commissioner, and Elepo, the Lieut. General of Chekiang, who are excessively anxious that hostilities should be stayed, until they receive full powers from the Emperor to negotiate; but Sir Henry will not hear of it, as he says that until officers with full powers are deputed, hostilities will never cease. A Chinese, called Corporal White, who was the medium of communication with Capt. Elliot on the Peiho, fills the same situation with us and the Mandarins Keying and Elepo, who are living at Soochow about 8 days sail from this. We sail for Nanking on the 1st; it will probably take us a whole day to get up against a tide running about 4 knots an hour. The general and admiral proposed to take a ransom for that city, but as yet no answer has been sent although they wish us to go to that place, and make it the seat of negotiation. The garrison there is reported to be 4000 men, and a small navy; the latter will of course go up the river, the moment we are in sight. When the Medusa was up there, provisions were sent her, and all the people whom they saw, were very friendly. No doubt they have heard the state of this town (Chinkiang)—it is utterly impossible to describe the scenes which come under one's eyes; immense bands of looters are seen. Like ants, swarming down from the mountains and taking advantage of the poor terrified wretches who are still in the city, carrying away everything moveable, and setting fire to the city the better to enable them to plunder. One or two cases of Cholera have happened and proved fatal; this cannot be wondered at, it being impossible to bury all the dead in a day. We have found a few wounded men concealed in the rushes, and in the most dreadful agony. The women, who are rather numerous, do not appear much alarmed, but all the respectable people are leaving the city, which is to be garrisoned by the 55th, a portion of the 49th, and 100 artillery under General Schoeddy.

Kinshan is to be garrisoned with Marines. It is a very small island, about half a mile in circumference, has some fine Joshouses, and a very beautiful Pagoda on it; it is not fortified; is the residence of Budh priests, and is held sacred.

No painter could give you the least idea of the magnificent country we are in. The horses we get here are very superior to those we found at Amoy and Ningpo, and are being trained for the Artillery.

Yesterday, whilst surveying the city, a great many respectable persons were found, some with their throats cut, and others hanging to the beams and trees on their premises. I saw the half consumed remains of the gallant Tartar General who burnt himself alive as soon as he lost the City; he is said to have been a brave man, and to have headed his troops as became a general.

Off Nanking, 24th Aug., 1842.

"The negotiations are said to be going on in a very satisfactory manner, with the High Commissioners Elepo and Keying, and Newkien, the Governor of this province; but this has been brought about by the fearful example we made of the Tartars at Chinkiang, and by the dreadful effects caused to the people in the north, by our blockading the grand canal. What we have lately done has had more effect upon the cabinet, than all we did before. We were three days coming up from Chinkiang, although the distance is only 40 miles, the current runs with such fearful velocity. We anchored here on the 4th of August, when we saw displayed upon the walls several flags of truce; but we did not acknowledge them, till several communications took place, about the ransom of the city, and in the meantime despatches for Elepo and Keying were received, appointing them High Commissioners, with full power to treat. Negotiations were commenced, which I am glad to say have led to peace between the two nations; the treaty has been drawn out and approved of by the two commissioners and is to be signed by Sir Henry and themselves to-morrow on board the Cornwallis, and the next day is to be sent to Peking to be ratified; the time from its leaving this to its return, will occupy 3 weeks, and Major Malcolm proceeds in the Auckland steamer to Aden for the Queen to ratify on her part.

The country about here is superb; game abounds—Snipes, ducks and pheasants innumerable—also a great many wild pigs. Most of the steamer's and some of the transports are made fast to the trees on shore; the water being very deep, as much as 10 to 25 fathoms on the brink of the river, which is about 2 miles wide.

"I will now give you an account of the meeting which took place this day.—Sir Henry Pottinger, Sir William Parker, and Sir Hugh Gough, went in full dress to meet the Chinese Commissioners, Elepo, and Keying, and Newkien the governor, accompanied by 95 naval and military officers, besides the suite, and a guard of honor of the 18th Royal Irish Grenadier company, and the band of the 18th. We left the ships at 10 o'clock and pulled up a canal off which the Blonde is lying, and arrived at the landing place in a quarter of an hour. The distance from the boats to the temple where the conference was held is about a quarter of a mile, and we had to walk half the way on a raised platform, on account of the tremendous floods; in some streets the water is 24 fathoms (?) deep. Our troops preceded us, and halted in column outside the Templegate, presenting arms as we passed. On entering the first square leading to the temple, we saw about 200 of the handsomest and finest men I ever beheld, drawn up on each side of the causeway; the same in the second square, with the addition of a company of Imperial musicians, who struck up some tune, on which 3 guns from the Cornwallis were fired, as a salute to the High Commissioners, whom we found standing on the threshold of the door to receive us. After the usual ceremonies had been gone through we were led into a large room, where a table with refreshments was set out. The troops followed, presented and then pled arms, to attack the food prepared for them by the care of the Commissioners. After about an hour's conversation, the band struck up a waltz, which alarmed the mandarines so much that many of them rushed from the conference room to see where the noise came from. The conference lasted about two hours. The band, as Sir Henry came out in company with the Admiral and General, played God save the Queen; Rule Britannia for the Admiral, and St. Patrick's day for the General.

"Sickness up here has been very great, but I am glad to say we are all much better.

28th August.

On the 26th we went inside the City to a conference with the Commissioners; our party consisting of twenty, were all mounted on the Madras Artillery horses. The treaty will be signed to-morrow, and I expect there will be no more cities taken, nor, in fact, another shot fired."

The following are some more details of the proceedings of the force to the northward, which we have culled from letters that have been kindly lent us. "Coal of very fair quality is procurable in this district (near Wusung) and the Nemesis in her trip up the river the other day, towards Soochow, met several junks laden with it. The cost is 5 $ per ton, our English coal costs here 10 $! I suspect however this coal will like the Glasgow and Newcastle require an admixture of more bituminous mineral to enable the firemen to work it with advantage and ease."

"All Capt. Bethune's Surveys in the Conway in 1840 we have found correct. A little beyond where he stopped, the flood tides lose their effect, and with that all deposits in the shape of shoals, sands etc., seem to cease also. We have passed only one old rotten 13 gun Battery near a hamlet, called in the maps, "Fort near a town," but never was there a greater perversion of language—town—God help them!—we have seen nothing the whole way up to Chinkiangfoo, fully 130 miles at all to be compared in size, extent, or respectability of appearance, to Whampoa village, and only one which may be said to approach it. Of junks, both in the creeks and in the river not 40 have been seen, and those of the very meanest description; and though the banks of the Yangtze-kiang are certainly rich, the stories about a teeming population, constantly recurring hamlets and towns are all fudge.

"We anchored off Chinkiangfoo on the 29th, and the following morning the 3 brigades with all our artillery were landed, and arrangements made for attacking the town, and the two entrenched camps seen 6 miles inland. Such a sun! then 140°. 13 men of the 98th Regiment dropped down dead from its effects. Lord Saltoun's brigade (1st) dislodged the enemy from the heights; they stood well, and at one time I thought we were going to have a smart business of it. However, when Anstruther's 3 pounders opened on their line they began to waver and retired into the town, where General Schiedde's brigade (2d) as it afterwards proved had warm work awaiting them. Major Johnston (Engineers) was with General Schoedde's brigade, and led on his sappers in excellent style planting his ladders against the wall, and second up. A party of Rifles and H. M. 55th covered the advance, but the fire from the enemy was so good, that many of our men fell, before enough to push on had reached the top of the bastion. Two columns then moved along the ramparts in different directions, and both met with the most obstinate resistance the whole way; the Tartars never, even when severely pressed, giving way in confusion, but fighting manfully and retiring in order and with great coolness. There were on the ramparts at intervals small guard houses where the enemy stood well, and some of our men were cut down by the broad swords of the Tartars and some hurled over the walls in personal encounters. Capt.

Pears (Engineers) made a most successful blowing open operation, a la Guazee, and through the breach a storming party of the Royal Irish rushed with fixed bayonets and hideous cheers, carrying all before them; but the Chinese rallied, and made a splendid stand in a clump of trees and shrubs, and throwing out their flanks, sent a murderous volley through the 18th and 49th, killing 8 officers and many men, but here again the bayonet did its work, and the valiant children of the desert melted like snow before a summer's sun. A curious feature in the battle of Chinkiangfoo is the absence of artillery, the whole business being left to the musket and bayonet."

"A young midshipman of the Blonde, Lyon by name was shot in the neck, in the affair of the Blonde's boats, but disregarding his wound and rallying his remnant of the boats crew, brought them off in splendid style."

SIR HENRY POTTINGER'S

CIRCULAR.

To Her Britannic Majesty's Subjects in China

Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary in China has extreme gratification in announcing to H. M. subjects in China, that he has this day concluded and signed with the Chinese High Commissioners, deputed to negotiate with him, a Treaty, of which the following are the most important provisions.

1. Lasting Peace and Friendship between the two nations.
2. China to pay twenty one millions of Dollars in the course of the present, and the three succeeding years.
3. The Ports of Canton, Amoy, Foo-chow-foo, Ningpo and Shanghai, to be thrown open to British merchants. Consular officers to be appointed to reside at them, and regular and just tariffs of imports and exports (as well as inland transit) duties to be established and published.
4. The Island of Hongkong to be ceded in perpetuity to H. B. Majesty, her heirs and successors.
5. All subjects of H. B. Majesty (whether natives of Europe or India) who may be in confinement in any part of the Chinese Empire to be unconditionally released.
6. An act of full and entire amnesty to be published by the Emperor under his imperial sign manual and seal to all Chinese subjects, on account of their having held service or intercourse with, or resided under the British Government or its officers.
7. Correspondence to be conducted on terms of perfect equality amongst the officers of both governments.
8. On the Emperor's assent being received to this treaty, and the payment of the first six millions, H. B. M. forces to retire from Nanking and the Grand Canal, and the military post at Chinhsai to be also withdrawn; but the islands of Chusan and Kolongsoo are to be held until the money payments, and the arrangements for opening the ports be completed.

In promulgating this highly satisfactory intelligence, Her M. Plenipotentiary, &c. &c., purposely refrains from any detailed expression of his own sentiments, as to the surpassing skill, energy, devotion, and valour, which have distinguished the various grades, from the highest to the lowest, of all arms of H. M. combined forces during the contest, that has led to these momentous results. The claims which have been thus established, will be doubtless acknowledged by the highest authorities. In the mean time, H. M. Plenipotentiary congratulates H. M. subjects in China on the occasion of a peace, which he trusts and believes will in due time be equally beneficial to the subjects and interests of both England and China.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

Dated on board the Steam Frigate Queen, in the Yangtze-kiang River off Nanking, this 29th day of August, 1842.

(True Copy) G. A. MALCOLM,
Secretary of Legation.

From the Friend of China Extraordinary, of 10th September.

The following literal English Version of a proclamation in Chinese, issued by Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary on the 5th of July, and also a Circular to Her Majesty's Subjects in China, under date the 24th of July are published for general information.

A. R. JOHNSTON,
Deputy Superintendent.

Charged with the Govt. of Hongkong.

Govt. House, Hongkong,
9th September, 1842.

Pottinger, Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary &c. &c. makes this clear exposition for the information of all the people of the Country.

Under the canopy of Heaven, and within the circumference of earth, many are the different Countries: of the multitude of these, not one is there that is not ruled by the Supreme heavenly Father, nor are there any that are not as brethren of one Family. Being then of one Family, very plain is it that they should hold friendly and brotherly intercourse together, and not boast themselves one above another. But England coming from the utmost west, has held intercourse with China in this utmost east for more than two centuries past; and during this time the English have suffered ill treatment from the Chinese Officers, who regarding themselves as powerful and us as weak have thus dared to commit injustice. The English, unwilling to enter in contest with them, had borne such treatment for many years, till in the year 1839, the Emperor of China, having determined to prohibit effectually the importation of opium sent a special Commissioner, Lin Tsean, to conduct the arrangements for that purpose; and that Officer finding himself unable to seize the actual offenders of each nation, in place of consulting and concerting measures with the several national Officers residing in China (as it was his proper duty to have done) had the audacity forcibly to confine in Canton the English Officer and people, at the same time threatening them with death. His object was by extorting from them what opium there that year might be in China, to gain favor with his Emperor; and the English Officer at Canton seeing this position of things, commanded the English Merchants in the name of their Sovereign that they should deliver up, for the ransom of themselves from this position of extreme danger, whatever opium they might have in the Chinese waters. Here is one great offence committed by the Chinese officers against the English.

The sovereign of Great Britain in consequence of this and numerous subsequent acts of injustice, appointed as her Envoys, the Admiral Elliot, and Elliot the Superintendent at Canton, to whom jointly full Powers were given for the settlement of affairs with China. And having in consideration the many past acts of injustice of the Chinese Officers, Her Majesty directed the Admiral to take command of a combined Naval and Land Force, and to quarter it at one of the Islands on the Chinese Coast; her instructions being, that if the Chinese Government were willing to admit its errors, and afford redress, a peaceful arrangement of affairs should be concluded; but otherwise, if justice and recompense were refused, that the standard of justice should be raised and its claims enforced by war. The Admiral &c. here-upon proceeded to the Petho and there presented a letter from the Minister of Great Britain which the Minister and Governor Keshen transmitted for the consideration of all the ministers to Peking; after this Keshen wrote to the Admiral stating, that affairs which concerned Canton, it was difficult to arrange so far off, and if the Admiral &c. would proceed to Canton, it would not need long to arrange affairs there. The High English Officers, still desiring peace, consented to this, and proceeded to Canton where they met Keshen and had frequent communications with him both written and personal. Arrangements were not yet concluded, when the Ministers at Peking, men without truth or good faith induced the Emperor, to recall Keshen, and send instead a General Yihien to fight and war with the English, so that the English were actually compelled by these proceedings to take the Boco Tigris and the line of defences from thence upwards and to bring Canton itself to submission, and to take from it a ransom for the punishment of such ill faith. In this ill faith of the Chinese Ministers, we have a second grand instance of offence against England.

The High Commissioner Yukien, and other High Officers, Generals &c. in the several provinces, in repeated instances, when they have found our people cast by the weather on their Coast, or induced by evil men on shore, have been dead to all good and honest feeling, dared to put the captives thus brought into their hands to a tyrannical and cruel death; and have deceitfully and falsely reported the cases to the Emperor, or tyrannically published proclamations to the people, wherein they have invented tales of lengthened contest and seizure of vessels in battle with slaughter of many people. Thus falsely did Yukien declare last year, the circumstances of the English occupation of Chusan; thus did the General Vishan pretend that he had destroyed many vessels; the Governor Yen Petao that he had by force of arms recovered Amoy; the Taotai on Formosa, when shipwreck had cast men on that Island that he had gained a victory over them in battle, and the General Yihking, in May last, that he had destroyed many vessels and killed a multitude of men at Chusan when not one vessel was injured, nor a single man killed. These multiplied false statements, misleading the Emperor and people and hindering peaceful arrangements, are a third great cause of offence against the English.

With reference to trade the English Merchants used to carry their goods to many places, and buy from and sell to the people generally, which was to the people wholly a benefit, and in no sense hurtful. But the Officers at Canton seeking to confine the profits to themselves, induced the Emperor by false statements to restrict trade to Canton alone and to permit 13 "Hong Merchants" to conduct it, not even allowing intercourse with any but them and the linguists appointed by the Government. Thus did these Officers gain the power of meddling in every matter, extorting as they pleased, and disguising everything under false statements to the Emperor. This is a fourth great cause of offence.

There are besides many minor grievances that excite indignation and wrath, but that here need not be enumerated.

Because of these grievances the Plenipotentiary &c. has been sent out by command of his Sovereign to demand redress and satisfaction. When these are obtained, peaceful arrangements may be made and the former friendliness of intercourse may be renewed. But until then, the High Officers who command here the combined Naval and Land Forces will continue, as commanded also by their Sovereign, to maintain the cause of justice and to contend with all their power for the enforcement of such redress. When the Emperor shall appoint a high officer with full powers to negotiate and conclude arrangements on his own responsibility and not till then will hostile operations be stayed.

Now three principal things are required for the redress and satisfaction above spoken: namely, compensation for losses and expenses, a friendly and becoming intercourse on terms of equality between Officers of the two Countries; and the cession of insular territory for Commerce and for the residence of Merchants, and as a security and guarantee against future renewal of offensive acts.

If these three things be acceded to, there will be no difficulty in the settlement of any minor points.

That the people may know our objects, and not be misled by the false representations of their Officers, to commit acts of hostility that would bring home to their own persons and families the horrors of war, the Plenipotentiary &c. proclaims for general information this clear exposition.

Dated in the Yang tse-keang the fifth day of July in the year 1849.

(sd.) HENRY POTTINGER,

H. M.'s Plenipotentiary.

(true copy) G. A. MALCOLM
Secretary of Legation.

CIRCULAR.

TO HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S SUBJECTS IN CHINA.
Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary &c. &c. in China has high satisfaction in promulgating for the information of Her Majesty's Subjects in China, the important progress and success of the Expedition since the date of his last Circular of the 24th of June.

The Expedition was detained by bad weather and other circumstances at Woosung until the 6th of July, on which day it advanced up the river Yang-tse-keang, and on the 14th, reached a military position, but on a range of Hills commanding the stream, where two small, recently erected, Batteries mounting thirteen Guns, opened the first fire since leaving Woosung on the leading Ships, but were instantly silenced, and the guns, batteries and military buildings, connected with them destroyed as soon as men could be put on shore.

At this point the main body of the fleet was retarded by adverse winds for nearly a week during which period some of the ships of war, assisted by the steamers, got up to "Kinsan" or "Golden Island," where the whole armament, amounting to seventy sail of vessels, assembled on the 20th inst., and anchored abreast of the city of Chin-keang-foo.

A reconnoissance having been obtained the same evening, the troops were disembarked as early as possible the next morning. It was at this time believed, that the majority of the Chinese troops, which had been variously reported at from fifteen hundred, to three thousand men,—were in a camp which was visible from Hills overhanging the river, at a distance of about three miles.

Against this camp the right brigade moved under Major General Lord Saltoun. The centre brigade, led by Major General Bartley, was directed in the first instance, to co-operate with the right one, in cutting off the anticipated retreat of the Fugitives from the camp in the direction of the city, and the left brigade, headed by Major General Schoedde, landed on the river in face of the city opposite the fleet where it was instructed to escalade the Northern Wall, which the centre brigade was likewise appointed to do on the Southern Side, after it had performed the other duty assigned to it.

The Chinese troops in the camp, did not venture to stand the near approach of our men, but after firing three or four distant volleys from their Jinfalls and Matchlocks, broke and dispersed all over the country, which was hilly and covered with thick Jungle. By this time the left brigade had got on shore, when it became obvious, that the Tartar Garrison intended to defend the city, from the walls of which they opened a heavy and incessant fire of cannon Jinfalls, Wall Pieces, Rockets & Matchlocks.

As the left brigade moved up from the landing place, the "Auckland" Steam Frigate, which had been placed in position for the purpose, threw some shells amongst the enemy on the works with admirable precision, but was obliged to cease firing, owing to the rapid advance of the brigade to the bottom of the wall which was most gallantly escaladed under a heavy fire from the Tartar troops, who behaved with great spirit, and disputed every inch of the ramparts, availing themselves with great tact, of their knowledge of the localities to gall our, and screen their own, troops.

The centre brigade got into the city (after some delay in finding a bridge to cross the Grand Canal, which runs along the western side of Chinkiang-foo, and separates the walled city from very extensive suburbs) by blowing open one of the gates; but even after the left brigade had received this large reinforcement, besides parties of marines and seamen who were landed the moment the opposition promised to be so stubborn; the Tartars manfully prolonged the contest for some hours, and it was late in the afternoon before they entirely disappeared, which it is surmised the survivors did by throwing away their arms, and uniform, and either hiding themselves till night enabled them to escape, or else mingling with the other inhabitants.

The City of Chin-keang-foo is rather more than four miles in circumference, the Works are in excellent repair, and the parapet, which is so thick and solid that nothing but Cannon shot could have made any impression on it, is pierced with narrow embrasures, and loopholes, and flanked at a variety of spots with transverse walls.

It has hitherto been impossible to obtain anything like a precise return of the strength of the Garrison, but from calculations made with reference to the extent of the works, and Tartar troops seen on them at the same moment; it is thought there could not have been less than three thousand men. Of these it is said, that thirty Mandarins (officers) and one thousand men, were killed and wounded. The Tartar General Commanding in chief, retired to his house when he saw that all was lost, made his servants set it on fire, and sat in his chair till he was burned to death. His private secretary was found the day after the assault, hidden in a garden, and on being carried to the spot, recognized the half consumed remains of his master, who was worthy of a nobler death.

It will be readily understood, that a brilliant Service of which the preceding detail gives but a very feeble outline, could not be performed without loss on our side, and Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary is sure that all Her Majesty's Subjects in China will participate in his feelings of sincere regret at the annexed returns of casualties in killed and wounded in Her Majesty's combined forces.

Arrangements are in progress for placing a strong British Garrison at Chin-keang-foo (which commands the entrances to the Grand Canal, and is therefore of vast importance) and the remainder of the Expedition will shortly move up this majestic river, headed by the Admiral's Flag Ship "Cornwallis," to the Neighbourhood of Nanking (which ancient Capital of the Empire, about forty miles distant, and situated about three miles from the Yang-tse-keang, with which it is connected by a variety of Canals) it having already been ascertained by actual Survey that there is ample depth of water, and no natural impediments.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

Dated on board the Steam Frigate "Queen," Yang-tse-kiang River at Chin-keang-foo this 34th Day of July, 1849.

HENRY POTTINGER,
H. M. Plenipotentiary.

LAND FORCE.

	KILLED.
Col. Driver,			6. M. N. I.
Capt. Collinson,			18 R. I. Irish
Lieut. Gibbons,			49th
	WOUNDED.
Lieut. Bernard,	18th		slight.
Lieut. Baddely,	49th		dangerously.
Lieut. Grant,	49th		slight.
Major Warren,	55th		severely.
Lieut. Cuddy,	55th
Capt. Simpson,	Rifles
Ensign Travers,	2nd M. N. I.		slight.
Lieut. Carr,	2nd
Lieut. Cadell,	Madras Artillery		severely.
Zemedar number	2nd M. N. I.

NAVY.

	KILLED.
Uniacke		Major
	WOUNDED.
Crouch Lieut. Lyon Mids
Killed and wounded, Navy.	24
Army.	145
Total			169
	TOTAL.
Wounded,	150
Killed,	36
Missing,	5
Total			169

*Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLER,
at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.*

PUBLIC AUCTION.

SOME TIME this month JOHN SMITH will put up for sale, to the highest bidder, a small quantity of Preserves, Tart Fruits, plain and concentrated white wine Vinegar, Pickles, assorted Sauces, Herring, and Anchovy Paste, Salmon and Herring, in Jars, Cheeses, Capers, Olives, Oil, Jam and Jellies, and Brandy Cherries. at the same time will be put up for sale the residue of an Invoice of fashionable.

MILLINERY, &c.

consisting of:—Lady's Bonnets, Lace caps, printed muslin and other dresses; Tippets, Silk and Gauze Scarfs, Hair Pins and Rollers, Silk and Kid Gloves—Tooth, Nail cloth and Hair Brushes, patent Japan Leather, Calcutta made Boots, Bengal Silk Handkerchiefs, Saddles and Bridles, Counterpanes, Lavender Water, Eau de Cologne, Table Lamps, and a variety of useful other articles.

Particulars will be published hereafter in handbills.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE annual meeting of the MORRISON EDUCATION Society will be held at 11 o'clock A. M. Wednesday the 28th inst., at the residence of the Rev. S. R. Brown, Macao. A report will be read and officers chosen for the ensuing year. The members and friends of the Society are invited to attend.

E. C. BRIDGMAN, Cor. Sec.

Macao, 6th September, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DIGGLES, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUGGON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

Macao, August 29, 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATTERSON are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Macao, and in that of HUCHANAM & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. HENRY WRIGHT, in our establishment ceased on the 30th ultimo, and Mr. WILLIAM STEWART, in this day admitted a partner.

Our Firm now consists of J. MRS. MATHESON, ALEXANDER MATHESON, ANDREW JARDINE and WILLIAM STEWART.

China, 1st July, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

W. W. DALE.

NOTICE.—Mr. JOHN DENT is this day admitted a partner in our firm.

Macao, 1st July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Submécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godowns at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighters, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDISE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUSS, or to

C. FEARON.—Macao

Macao, 23rd February, 1842

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Brig PELORUS, Capt. TRIENS, will be dispatched for the above Ports on the 1st October. For Freight, apply to Macao, 8 p. 23 1842.

HENRY FVBER.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "THETIS," J. Cass Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 15th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing British Barque "CORRINGA PACKET," of 236 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR BATAVI, SAMARANG AND SIKERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE Capt. BERG, daily expected. For freight or passage apply to

JOHN BURD.

At Hongkong.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Bark MOUNT STEWART ELPHINSTONE, Captain LAWTON, 387 Tons, will leave for Bombay with all despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE LOWRY FAMILY is expected in the Route from Whampoa, where she will remain and take such freight as may offer and sail for the above Ports in the first week of October. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. Ship HARBELLA, Capt. HAD, Dis. 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE Barque ROCHA, Capt. POOLE, will leave for the above Ports in or about the 20th inst. For freight or passage apply to CAPT. POOLE, at Mr. HARTON'S, or on board, in the Tyne.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October, for freight apply to MULLUSHOV DUNJARER Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE fine ship St. LAWRENCE, capt. NEWLANDS, A. I., in at Whampoa, and is offered for freight or charter to any Port.

RUSSELL & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept 1842.

Macao or Canton.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE well known British Bark, MRS. MAID, capt. GILL, 444 Tons will be despatched to the above Port on the 25th instant. For freight or Passage, having a great part of her cargo engaged, apply to

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE fast sailing A. I. ship WILLIAM SHARPLES, capt. JONES, will be dispatched for the above Port on or before 25th inst., and receive freight.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing British built ship "CAMARÉ," A. I. 412 tons, and now on her first voyage. For Freight or Passage apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

JAMESON, HOW & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Barque ELVIRA, Capt. WALKER, 330 Tons, per Register, now lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "ANANDA," A. I. at Lords, W. JEFFREY Commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo and will leave quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma teak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bottom, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Bark "PANDORA" (500 Tons), Capt. CORNALL, Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOON, Captain BOWEN, For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 8th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HERO OF MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. James North, lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) F. PRO. DIROM & Co. W. W. DALE.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

FOR SALE OR CHARTER.—The coppered and copper fastened cutter ADELAIDE, of 40 tons, as she now lies in the inner harbour, with a complete outfit of sails, and two anchors and chains. Apply to EDWARD JONES. In the Bazarinha.

Macao, 12th Sept. 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "Corringa Packet" a portion of best Mosaghy RICE, DRILL, DECCA SOAP. Apply to F. B. CHILCOT. Macao, 23d September, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to J. A. DURAN, Jr. Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—MANILA SEGARS 4s., and EUROPE LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to P. DE LAS HERAS. Macao, 23d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE. FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARABIC and COFFEES, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 26th August, 1842.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE. A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton Socks and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's Calico SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MESSING SHAWLS and silk UNDERWEAR &c. &c. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 9th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, BOY'S HATS. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz; and NAILS; apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST LANDED and exposed for sale: a few HANDSOMELY FRAMED ENGRAVINGS:—

RETURN from HAWKING, containing Portraits of Lord Francis Egerton and family after Edwin Landseer, JOHN KNOX, preaching before the Lords of the Congregation, in the Church of St. Andrew, Scotland, after WILKIE, MAID OF SARAGOSSA, CRUCIFIXION, by MARTIN, DUKE OF WELLINGTON, in his Robes as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, SNIPPER off ST. MICHAEL, Lewis' SPANISH SKETCHES, BYRON'S DREAM, VENICE, GRACE DARLING and HER FATHERS, rescuing the 9 survivors from the wreck of the "Forfarshire" in steam packet, and the CORSAIR'S ISLE, a DISTINGUISHED MEMBER OF THE HUMANITY SOCIETY, QUEEN VICTORIA, &c. also, in sheets and cases, MAPS and CHARTS: War in China, Berman Empire, Canton River, Amoy, Chusan, China; World, Asia, New Zealand, Australia, India, Overland Route to India, Turkey to Barmah, Bible Maps, &c.

and in boxes and stands. CELESTIAL AND TERRESTRIAL GLOBES. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 26th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's. SHERRY in bottle and HDS., PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do., CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick HORSES, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—SAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hds per "Anna Eliza." Apply to DALLAS and Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A RIFLE and a few pairs double and four barreled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Mr. A. GRANDPRE. Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Old MADEIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongabela WHISKY, Champagne CIDER, SWAINS PANACRA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, SPERMACEIN CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHIRWING TOBACCO. Apply to Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE.—At the Gondowns of the undersigned, Gambon Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French PIER GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Patent Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Muslinatum SHIRT in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle. And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY. Macao, 9th June, 1842. O. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases, CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do., CLARET 3 do. do., SHERRY, PALE in Hds., SELTZER WATER new, OILMANN STORES late imports, BEER in tierces; PORK in barrels, COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogalards, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARR' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine favored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPAR for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHATELAIN LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 44 superior, COGNAC BRANDY, SELTZERWATER and HOCK, HAMBURG PORK and BEEF, RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to JOAO BARRETTO. Macao, 28th October, 1841.

July Overland Mail.

From the Stag. Free Press Extra, of 3d Sept.

The Parliamentary intelligence does not exhibit any thing of very paramount importance. In the House of Lords on 14th ultimo Lord Wharnccliffe presented a Petition from an individual praying that at the Trial of Prisoners for criminal offences instead of their being called upon to plead they, should only be asked if they were ready to take their Trials. Lord Denman and Campbell and the Bishop of Exeter thought that the present plan might with propriety be abandoned, it appearing inconsistent to compel a Prisoner in many cases to tell a deliberate falsehood to enable him to have a Trial. On 16th Lord Howden enquired whether the official reports received from Syria agreed with those which had reached him from private sources describing that country to be rapidly retrograding to a state of disorganization and anarchy. He thought our influence in the East could be confirmed and extended without a constant exhibition of open dislike towards one power and of sullen disposition towards the other. The Earl of Aberdeen considered the late accounts from Syria more favorable and although there was much to disapprove in the Government of that country yet it became a very serious question how far we could interfere justifiably with any regard to the independence of the Turkish Empire. He apprehended that when we undertook to liberate Syria from Mehmet Ali and restore it to its lawful Sovereign, we did not undertake to govern that Province for the Sultan, or make any stipulation incompatible with his sovereignty and independence. All the proceedings adopted were agreed to by five powers, and it was considered their especial duty to see the population of Syria and especially the Christian inhabitants enjoy those privileges they possessed before and were promised under our auspices. In this respect he was bound to say the Turkish Government had fulfilled its engagement, he meant as to granting relief from taxation, and some improvements in the administration of the Province he hoped would shortly be carried into effect; he could assure the House that the Government as also our Ambassador at Constantinople would do all that could be justifiably attempted or considered necessary for the protection of the Inhabitants of this Province. On 17th the Earl of Ripon in moving the third reading of the Income Tax Bill entered at great length into the state of the Finances of the Country and the necessity that existed for resorting to the measure under consideration to restore the R. venue to a healthy state; he also commented upon the plan proposed by the late Ministers of altering the Duties on Corn, Timber, and Sugar, and proved that the calculation of increasing the Revenue from those alterations would have been futile. The Marquis of Lansdowne defended the proposition of the late Ministers and moved an Amendment to the effect that a judicious alteration of the duties affecting Corn, Timber, and Sugar would have greatly diminished the amount of additional taxation required by the exigencies of the State, and would from its effect in increasing the comforts of all classes and lessening the privations of the great body of the people together with such additions as might have been obtained from other sources have been preferable to a Tax on Income in the present circumstances of the country. Lord Colchester contended that sufficient supply of Sugar from the British East and West Indies could be procured for the consumption of this country and did not think it at all clear that if we took Brazil or other foreign Sugar, our manufactures would be received in payment. Lord Brougham urged that the admission of Foreign sugar would be the means of tearing perhaps 40,000 unhappy Africans from their homes annually to cultivate that article for us in Cuba and Brazil. With regard to the income tax he was compelled to admit that some such measure was necessary in consequence of the deficient state of our Finances. Lord Melbourne supported the amendment. The Duke of Wellington believed that the whole demand of the country for sugar could be fully supplied by our colonies within the tropics; and considering the sacrifices made by the West India planters eight years ago and the nature of the compromise then entered into with them he thought no alteration of the colonial system ought to be made without full and mature deliberation; that he considered was a good reason why their Lordships should pause before they made any alteration in the duty now levied upon foreign grown sugar. With regard to the income tax he would say for himself and he believed he might answer for his colleagues that they would adhere to it so long but not one hour longer than it was absolutely necessary. After the Earl of Wicklow and Clarendon had addressed the House, their Lordships divided when there appeared for the Marquis of Lansdowne's amendment 52, against it 112. The third reading of the Bill was then proposed when the Marquis of Clanricarde moved that the debate be adjourned to 31st. The Duke of Wellington strongly urged their Lordships to pass the Bill that night as the public service would be prejudiced by its delay, and the commission was prepared to give the Royal Assent to it on the following day. Two divisions took place on the question of adjournment in both of which the Ministers had large Majorities but the opposition persevering it was at length agreed that the debate should be adjourned. On 31st it was resumed by the Marquis of Clanricarde in opposition to the Bill but after a long discussion the third reading was carried by a large majority and the Bill passed. It received the Royal Assent on the following day.

Dumby Times, 3rd August.

NORTH WEST PROVINCES.

We have one letter from Jellalabad which we give below, the most cheering portion of which is the probability of the release of the prisoners taking place ere long, at least the negotiations appear to be in full progress, whilst from another, and what we deem a very authentic source we learn that the offer made to us is a mutual exchange of all our prisoners, and this effected, General Pollock and Nott have received peremptory orders to return; this information may be relied upon and the movement of General Pollock to Gundamuck, which was to have taken place, was only forced upon him by a want of forage and the hope of somewhat alleviating the sickness so prevalent at Jellalabad and had nothing to do with a general movement in advance. The withdrawal of the troops is then again resolved upon, but we will not even yet believe that Lord Ellenboro's system may not be changed again, for we really cannot magies that the army of reserve has been called together for nothing, or as some have said for a demonstration to Indian disaffection or the Sikh government, neither the one or the other require it we think, and assuredly the latter are well aware of all we can do, if we choose, even if their late conduct had not, so far as the government is concerned, removed every suspicion of treachery; for our parts we are, as all others must be puzzled to decide upon the seemingly contradictory order, "the much-to-do-about nothing system" as the Englishman justly calls it, and we are disinclined to gulp down that a retreat from Afghanistan is in reality to take place. We had some remarks to make respecting the duties we conjecture the new corps d'armee may have to undertake, but the late arrival of sundry overland letters and papers has thrown us back, and we must compress our remarks.

Camp, Jellalabad, 7th July, 1842.

I am happy in being able to inform you, that the treaty for the rescue of the prisoners is in a fair way of ratification; the best accounts are received from time to time by those most deeply interested in the event, and an information of a doubtful character has been received to mar the prospects which have been held out for the last twenty days, of a speedy termination to the negotiation, and a happy release to all the prisoners who are in the hands of the Afghans. It may be as well to observe, that Ukhbar Khan is not the person with whom our Politicals are carrying on the treaty, for our General has not a very favorable opinion of Ukhbar's honor, and be fully determined upon not endeavouring to effect any arrangement with Ukhbar Khan after Mackenzie had paid his second visit. In this particular the General has acted the part of a wise man, and I am quite certain, that the resolve, if carried out, will end in the full accomplishment of his wishes and the satisfaction of the Indian Government. Mackenzie has not yet paid his third visit as contemplated, but we are still looking out for him; and, we hope ere many days are over, to find him the messenger of good tidings. As you are aware, I am not one of the Council, and cannot therefore inform you the reason for the non-appearance of this expected visitor; but I can tell you that the opinion formed in camp, is, that he will come in when all is settled, except the signing of the treaty, and that he will bring that document and Chiefs with him, when it will be ratified to the joy of our camp. Brigadier Montez's brigade is still at Pesh Bolak, but it is reported, that it will move in the direction of Fuzilabad, and do a little in the work of destruction ere it returns to our camp. The detachment under Lieut. Colonel Moseley, commanding 64th Native Infantry, is still at Lalpoora, Daakka, and the neighbourhood, and as the men belonging to the detachment (who were left sick in camp) are ordered to join it, I should say there is little or no probability of its return to Jellalabad at present; indeed it could not return unless the Sikhs took the duty, as this detachment protects pass and country from Ali Musjid to Pesh Bolak.—Dell's Gazette July 26.

Dr. Macintyre of the 61st Regiment Native Infantry has been deputed to accompany the Raja of Oudeypoor, who has commenced a pilgrimage to Benares. His Highness's health is such as to require medical treatment. It is now said that the object of assembling the Army of Reserve, is the occupation of Mooltan, and some add of Cashmere.

The purchase of Mules is being rapidly made, and no doubt, some important treasure is contemplated.

A treaty has, we hear, been concluded with Dost Moohammad, by which he will be restored to Cabool, and the Prisoners to us.

The Infantry Retiring Fund Scheme has totally failed, in consequence of so many Regiments having refused to join it. The result to the Army will be a more protracted residence in this delightful country, as well as their aspersions by their brethren of the Engineer, and even cavalry. So much for the want of unanimity.

There is a growing report abroad that the salaries of the civil service will be reduced one third. It is thought that a number of resignations will follow such a measure chiefly of "the talents" with which the service abounds. Should this be the case, a door will be thrown open for the employment of Military men in civil capacities.

Considerable activity prevails in the Agra Magazine, which has been instructed to supply a number of entrenching tools, to be sent to Dehlee. This order gives rise to several conjectures—all of which refer to the Army of Reserve.—Agra Ukhbar, July 21.

From the London Journal of Commerce, of 6th July.

TEA.—We are still without public sales of this article, and in consequence the stocks in the hands of the trade are very much reduced, and the market exhibits a very firm appearance, with few parcels pressing for sale; prices are much the same as last week, but it is more difficult to meet with suitable parcels, and is 9d the lowest point of the market for sound low Congou, which price has been currently paid since our last, and Tswa-hay at 1s 9d per lb. Upon the whole a fair business has been done, but there is no activity in the market.

OFFICIAL ACCOUNTS OF TEA.

DUTY PAID.	Up to 5th June, 1842.	1841.
In London	lbs. 10,009,080	10,058,239
In Liverpool	1,457,023	1,656,838
In Bristol	276,780	317,055

In Hull	38,488	57,818
In Leith	438,868	372,473
In Glasgow	531,752	539,867
All other Scotch Ports	196,070	183,582
In Dublin	1,142,675	1,009,804
In Belfast	886,289	348,510
In Cork	155,094	152,006
All other Irish Ports	325,921	290,768

Total 14,937,040 14,997,162

IMPORTED.
Into London, chests	304,681	57,555
boxes	18,889	20,002
pkts.	10,792	3,187
Into Liverpool, chests	26,517	13,905
boxes	2,330	998
pkts.	7,082	24
Into Bristol, chests	—	— boxes	—	—
pkts.	8,596	—

EXPORTED AND STORED.
From London	1,757,831	2,083,654
Ditto as Stores	148,674	99,551
From Liverpool	855,483	296,249

Total Consumption & Exports	17,499,238	17,478,616
FROM LONDON—COASTWISE (IN BOND).
To English Ports	1,030,370	1,124,328
To Ireland	1,172,789	1,167,947
To Scotland	563,808	399,028

From London	2,766,937	3,691,303
From Liverpool	828,377	596,060
From Bristol	890,871	216,069

RECEIVED COASTWISE.
Into London	791,609	53,024
Into Liverpool	396,289	580,109
Into Bristol	107,558	69,321

MANCHESTER, July 2.—Our Cloth market was never so depressed as it has been this week, and men of all shades in politics seem to think that things are likely to grow even worse than they now are; indeed, there does not appear to be the smallest hope from any quarter, and strange to say, speculation is altogether out of the question. Twist is saleable to a fair extent, but again prices are in favour of the buyer. Two mills belonging to Mr. Richard Roberts, Manchester, will cease working this day (Saturday). The very extensive mills of Messrs Stirling and Beeton, in which it is said two thousand hands have been employed, have not been working since last Saturday. Another mill, and an extensive one, belonging to a company, will either close to-day or next Saturday, or the greatest part of the machinery will stand still. The Oxford-road Twist Company will stop 400 looms this day.

THE TARIFF.

In all human probability, before the time of our next publication the Customs Duties will be in operation. A short review, therefore, of the principal alterations in our commercial code cannot be out of place.

The first principle seems to have been to strike out of the custom's book of rates all prohibitory duties, and, to a very considerable extent, this has been accomplished; but one article is still under the ban of our legislature—we need we say we mean Foreign sugar. We have written at such full length on the subject, that it is unnecessary to enter into the subject now, but this solitary exception will soon be removed, and be placed on the same footing as other commodities. We are borne out in this opinion by that of others, who are as much opposed to the expected reductions, as we are in favor of them. Mr. Burgess, the writer of the Circular to Bankers, says this week "Sir Robt. Peel has betrayed no want of confidence throughout this extraordinary session, except when the opposition most consistently pressed him on the great monopolies of Corn, Sugar and Coffee. Then he bent and prayed for time—for his defence essentially consisted of nothing more;—nor could it, for the principles which he and Mr. Gladstone have most emphatically enunciated, must compel him in another session to give way on these great reserved questions. We, who, as humble members of the 'fourth state, have stood almost, if not entirely, alone in strenuously opposing the rash and inconsiderate application of this new policy, shall not be misunderstood when we say, that by exposing the labour of our miners, artisans, manufacturers and fishermen to a competition with the cheap labour of other countries, without at the same time allowing them to purchase necessities at the lowest possible price; a glaring injustice has been committed upon those our countrymen."

This is perfectly true!—And therefore it is, that we congratulate the country upon the passing of the Custom's Duties Bill. We stated some weeks ago that one of the merits of the measures of Her Majesty's ministers was in the inconsiderateness of their character.

Another principle which has been acted upon in preparing the new Tariff, is in reducing duties so low that the smuggler will not be able to compete. In the manufacturing of leather this principle is applied with full effect. It has been estimated that not less than 30,000 pairs of French boots were smuggled into this country last year, the duties being just sufficiently high to balance the risk. Under the new Tariff, the smuggling trade will be destroyed, the fair tradesman who has suffering under unjust competition will be protected, and we doubt whether the importations will exceed those of last year.

But the most important alteration is in the admission of provisions hitherto prohibited, at moderate rates of duty. This is a merit which belongs entirely to the Premier, of which he is justly proud, as he told the House of Commons on Friday evening. Not one word was there said either by the members of the late government, or by the members of the anti corn-law league respecting the necessity of the admission of other provisions as well as Corn at moderate rates.

The last provision of the new Tariff to which we shall allude is the reduction of the duties on raw materials. We do not hesitate to affirm that these reductions will do more to reinvigorate trade than any other which have been proposed.

Having thus done full justice to the general principle of the Tariff, we cannot but confess that in detail it is very defective. Live Cattle ought to have been admitted by weight, as was proposed during the discussion; but it unfortunately happened that another principle was mixed up with the one actually under discussion. The real object proposed was to levy a heavy protective duty, which was properly approved by members on both sides of the house, and thus a just principle was lost sight of.

In the duties levied on spices there are some very absurd distinctions. Mace, a more costly article than Nutmeg, is to pay a lighter duty; and in the duties on Drugs and Dyes there are many discrepancies, which are very absurd in the eyes of mercantile men; but happily the reduction in the duties are so very extensive that little or no evil will result from these trifling errors.

All doubt having been removed from the minds of the public as to the success of the ministerial proposition, more business has been transacted in all articles in which the duties remain as before. In Sugar during the last month the transactions have been very large, so much so that the quantity taken for home consumption during the last quarter exceeds that of the corresponding quarter by more than 8000 tons, a very gratifying circumstance; and we have no doubt that if the country, by the Divine Providence, enjoy the blessing of a good harvest, of which there is every prospect, we shall in less than twelve months have a complete revival of trade.—Ibid.

CANTON PRESS.
Macao, 24th Sept., 1842.

This week has been absolutely without occurrences of the slightest interest, to which we beg our readers will attribute the barrenness of our columns. The steamer Auckland is hourly expected with the ratification of the treaty, but had, by the last advice from Hongkong, not made her appearance there. She is not to proceed to Swatow, as we stated last week; the Atter steamer is to go from Hongkong in her stead. The Vindictive, Capt. Nicholas, G. B., sailed last week for Sydney and South America. Capt. Sir Thomas Herbert, K. C. B., of H. M. S. Blenheim, left for Nanking in the Merman steamer on the 14th. The U. S. S. Constellation and Boston are at Hongkong. We learn that Capt. Cedille of the French Frigate Erigeron, left Woosung in a Chinese junk for Nanking, accompanied by several officers, and the vessel manned by about forty of his crew. H. M. S. Agincourt, 74, from England 9th May, arrived at Hongkong on the 29th.

As everything concerning the movements of the force in the north is of interest, we have gleaned from the Friend of China some particulars either not given or differently told in our last issue (the correspondent of our contemporary must be deceived in supposing that Sir Henry Pottinger was on the 29th of August, the last date from the Yang-tsi-kiang, in possession of the Imperial ratification of the treaty—this was not expected to arrive till about the 20th September, whence the non-arrival of the Auckland).

We have this moment received the following letter from Captain Walker of the "Elvira," dated 'Tyta, 14th September.'

"In consequence of the threatening weather yesterday, I ordered at one o'clock the quarter boat to be hoisted up, and two of my young men jumped into her to hook her on the davit tackle, when, unfortunately, one of them, William Henry Casson, who was hooking on the stern tackle, let go his hold on it, and fell overboard from the boat; and was drowned before any human effort to save him, could be rendered. I, and four Seamen immediately jumped into the boat in the hope of saving him, but he never again rose to the surface. During my absence from the ship in the boat, the gale increased with heavy squalls, and prevented my getting on board my vessel until 7 a. m. this morning; when, pulling towards her, I saw a colored man in the water, clinging to a piece of wood, whom I took up and conveyed on board the schooner Yock, from which vessel he had fallen overboard.

We learn that the object of the French squadron, consisting of about 10 sail under command of Admiral Perit Toit, and which left the western coast of South America some months since, is to take possession of the Marquesas Islands situated in the middle of the Pacific Ocean in about 10° Southern latitude, and 140° western longitude. Except for the protection of the French whale fishery, we do not see what advantage is likely to arise from the occupation of a group of islands, fertile certainly, but at such a distance from all commercial nations, and peopled by a nation of savages, whom it will be difficult to civilize sufficiently, to make them labor, and by their labor to furnish commerce. At present their simple wants are supplied by nature without almost any exertion on their part, and as yet no attempt to civilize the natives of the islands of that vast archipelago have been attended with little success. Their population is too scanty, and the earth produces food in abundance and spontaneously, and consequently the stimulus to labor is wanting, and civilization, if at all progressing, does it with such slow steps, that the natives do not as yet feel any of the many artificial wants which a redundant population and a variable temperature have imposed on the natives of Europe. America, and Asia. Commodore Porter took possession of these islands in 1814 or 15 we believe for the United States, and named them Washington Islands, but the United States government did not ratify this act, it being contrary to the spirit of the Constitution.

Friend of China, Sept. 15.

At Chin-kiang-foo the Tartars fought well and when they had lost all hope they, many of them, committed suicide as also killed their wives and families. This self immolation is dreadful, and it is said nearly fifty times the number perished here by this method than did at Chapon. This large City was given up to loot. It must have contained 2 to 300,000 souls. Many of our friends got a awful lot of Swag and I came in for my share as an amateur. Not many jewels or ornaments of value were found. Pearls were taken to dress many of the Red Coats of their plunder which was afterwards sold by Public Auction.

Colonel Schoelde's escalade it was said was the prettiest thing yet done in China. The walls were in good repair 20 to 30 feet high. Cadell was the first on the walls where he was wounded.

23rd Aug. Off Chin-kiang-foo: I find in storming this place Major Warren killed in a personal contest two of the enemy. After our troops had not possession of the walls they met with considerable opposition from the Tartar troops who seemed disposed to dispute every foot of ground with them. General Bartley's Brigade lived the banks of the Grand Canal and sniped away at every man that dared to show his face at an embrasure. The Madras Sappers under Captain Pears blew up the gate. He with Lieutenant Rundell fired the bomb, in an instant the Gate was blown to atoms and the building over it was at the same time fired by a rocket. It was after the town was taken that our principal loss took place. The day was hot in the extreme, surpassing the memorable one at Canton. Two officers and twenty men of the 98th died from a Coup de Soleil.

The Public buildings were set on fire and the troops prepared to quarter for the night, when a party of the 49th were fired upon by a secreted party of the enemy; two men were killed and eight wounded. Indeed during the night a desultory firing was kept up.

The island of Kinsan or Golden Island is a perfectly fairy spot, the prettiest scenery we have yet seen in China is to be met here. It has a Pagoda of Seven stories a great part gilt. Though not kept in good order it has a very picturesque appearance, it is evidently intended as a residence for the priests attached to it.

On the 20th of August the Imperial commission-nary Elepo, New and Kyng, attended by the Chinese Naval and Military officers, paid their first visit to the Plenipotentiary on board the Cornwallis, whither they were conveyed by the Nausis steamer. The Envoy and suite, dressed in splendid costumes, were received by their Excellencies in full uniform with their suits, staff, &c., &c., under a salute due to their rank. On ascending the accommodation ladder they were greeted with a Salute from the marines of the Guard. The Band playing the national anthem. They were conducted to the state Cabin where à la mode d'Anglterre a sumptuous repast was laid out and partaken of with evident satisfaction by the Mandarin who were certainly pleased with their reception.

Afterwards they expressed a wish to inspect the Ship, never having before seen a man of war. They were accordingly conducted over every part, and appeared quite astonished at the numerous guns from deck to deck, and the order and discipline which reigned throughout.

29th Aug. At 3 past two P. M. a Royal Salute was fired by the Cornwallis in celebration of the Peace then declared with China. The Imperial yellow flag of the Celestial Empire flying on the main and the Union Jack on the mizen.

The celebrated Porcelain tower is in a good state of preservation; the lapse of five centuries has not impaired the lustre of the colours which were burnt into the material with which it is coated and decorated. It is believed here that the private ratification of the Treaty was received from the Emperor or the 24th inst. Sir Henry Pottinger insisted on having the formal ratification of the Emperor, which he magnanimously consented to give, and it arrived here on the 29th.

September, ARRIVED

3. (B.) Matilda, Rowe, Liverpool.
10 (Brem.) Margaretha, So. America.
11. (B.) Futay Mabarrack, Moore, Bombay.
17. Ganges, Walker, Madras.
17. Harbinger, Candlish, Bombay and Sing.
17. Algerine, Hill, Calcutta, and Singapore.
18. Franece Cowasjee, Edward, do. do.
18. Coringa Packet, Chilcot, do. do.
20. (A.) Zenobia, Putnam, Liverpool. 29th May.
20. (Dan.) Danish Oak, Paulsen, Singapo o.
20. (B.) Salopian, Bell, Valparaiso.
20. Mary Charlotte, Webber, Maulmein.
21. Anne Mary, Rackham, Madras.
22. H. M. S. Agincourt, England.
23. (B.) Urgent, Thompson, Chusan.

PASSENGER PER

Salopian, Mr. and Mrs. de Storr.
Danish Oak, Capt. John Brnd.

September, SAILED

10. (B.) Amirans, Cairnie, Manila.
10. Arrow, Geare, Chusan. Sing.
14. H. C. Str. Mennon, Comr Powell, I. N. Nank.
17. H. M. S. Indictive, Capt. Nicholas, o. N.
20. (Sp.) Singular, Manila. [S. Wallis.
23. (B.) Pink, McIntosh, Chusan.
24. (A.) Delhi, Cole, Manila.

PASSENGERS PER

Delhi, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sturgis and family.
The Henry Davidson, from Bombay to China, was cast away on Pedra Branca near Singapore on the 3d September. Crew all saved except two, by the Brig Jane, by which they were taken to Singapore.

The Regina and Mermaid under despatch for Calcutta on Monday the 30th inst.

VESSLS EXPECTED

From England, — Dorcas Devon, Elizabeth, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudius, Louisa Jack, son, Boltow, George Walke, Lord Lowthry, Adelaide, Athenian, Parrock Hall, Asia, Madras, Equatorial, Ursula, Bella Marina, John O'Gaunt, Willie the Wisp, Liverpool, d'Arcy, Foam, Ore-les, Cristopher Ransom, Hindostan, Alas, Buring, Pandora, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Bonstead, James Matheson.

From Bombay, — Asia, Diana, Corra, Woodman, Hebrides, John Moor, Helena, John Catein, Gilbert Henderson, Chelydra, Victoria.

From Calcutta, — Dido, Crown, Victory, Franece Cowasjee, Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet, Arif, Hera.

From Singapore, — Sarah, Briford, Waterloo.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 6th July. SINGAPORE, 4th Sept.
UNITED STATES, June 16. MANILA, 3d September.
CALCUTTA, 3d August. AMOY, 20th August.
BOMBAY, 9th August. CHUAN.
JAVA, 16th August. NANKING, 29th August.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Arna , 301	Kellock	Dent and Co.
Arethusa , 512	Christiam	C. Fearon.
Agneis , 451	Jeffrey,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Abderton , 451	Cass,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine , 254	Hill,
Anna Eliza , 254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic , 254	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria , 254	Went,
Anne Mary , 254	Rackham,
Bombay Castle , 254	Baxter,
Bolton , 254	Robinson,	Dent & Co.
Bucehalms , 254	Smith,	Lindsay & Co.
Caledonia , 254	Lawson,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine , 254	Major,	H. Pybus.
Cornair , 254	Martin,	D & M. Rustomjee & Co
Cowasj. Family , 254	Durham,
Coringa Packet , 254	Chilcot,
Crest , 254	Carling,	Jardine M. & Co.
China , 254	Robertson	Russell and Co.

* This must be a mistake; the ratification of the treaty by the Emperor, was not expected to arrive at Nanking before the middle of September.

Cacique , 1488	Man.	C. Fearon
Cameien , 1488	Clisco.	Jamieson How & Co.
Charles Forbes , 1488	Wills, [gr]	Jardine Matheson & Co
Charlotte , 1488	Liuchwa
Deronport , 1488	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
David Clarke , 1488	Mila,
Diadem , 1488	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Elora , 1488	Turnball,
Ellen , 1488	Brower,	Dent and Co.
Emma Eugenia , 1488	Kettwell	Reynnau & Co.
Elvira , 1488	Walker,	Dirom and Co.
Earl Balcarras , 1488	Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh , 1414	Paterson,
Flay Mobernack , 1414	Moore,
Franc. Cowasjee , 1414	Edwards,	D & M. Rustomjee & Co
Frances Burn , 1414	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
Fred. Huth , 1414	Turner,	Turner and Co.
Felicity , 1414	McDonald	Dirom and Co.
Ganges , 1414	Walker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Gemini , 1414	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw , 1414	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
Grecian , 1414	Watt,
Guinare , 1414	wilonghby	Dirom and Co.
Hero of Malown , 1414	Jackson,
Hersey , 1414	Easterly,
Hongkong , 1414	Whisttem,
Harbinger , 1414	Candlish,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Hygeia , 378	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
Hope , 378	Cockbain,	Macvicar & Co.
Helen Stewart , 708	Brown,
Hindogtan , 708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Helen , 708	Bayne,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Isa. Robertson , 708	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isa. Thompson , 708	Kilton,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Isabella , 708	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Island Queen , 708	Bills,
Intrepid , 708	Stewart,
Kirkman Finlay , 708	Scott,	Turner & Co.
Lowjee Family , 708	Ayres,	Dent and Co.
Litherland , 708	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
Lady Clarke , 708	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
Lord Eldon , 708	Worsell,	Lindsay & Co.
Maia , 708	Sproule,	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
M.S. Elphinston , 708	Lawton,	Dent and Co.
Mermaid , 644	Gill,	A. A. de Mello.
Manly , 644	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury , 644	W. Scott,
Mary Anne , 644	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
Matilda , 644	Rowe,
Marc Charlotte , 644	Webber,
Madura , 644	Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
Orator , 644	Serry,	Jardine M. and Co.
Prince Regent , 644	Rarelay,
Pelorus , 644	Triggs,	Lindsay and Co.
Pandora , 298	Cotbay,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Prince of Wales , 298	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Regina , 298	Boyle,	Capt. Poole.
Ruparell , 298	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rob Roy , 298	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Rosa , 298	St. Lawrence,	C. H. Hart.
St. Lawrence , 298	Snipe,	Newlands,
Salopian , 298	Salopian,	Morton,
Salem , 298	Salem,	Bell,
Syria , 298	Syria,	Stirford,
Tartar , 298	Tartar,	Sturman,
Trinidad , 298	Trinidad,	Luce,
Thetis , 298	Thetis,	Brown,
Urgent , 298	Urgent,	Cass,
Wm. Sharples , 298	Wm. Sharples,	Thompson,
Wild Irish Girl , 298	Wild Irish Girl,	Jones,
Wm. Gillies , 298	Wm. Gillies,	Gillet,
Wreath , 298	Wreath,	J. A. Durrao Jr.
Wm. Hyde , 298	Wm. Hyde,	Clark,
		Hunt,
		Steward,

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation , 1	Commander Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston , 1	Comman ler Luss
Akbar , 1	Dumireag [Russell & Co.
Levant , 1	Faulk,
Ann Mackin , 1	Vanner,
Congress , 1	Hay,
Probus , 1	Singer,
Grafton , 1	Gardener,
Panther , 1	Martin,
Charleston , 1	Harlow,
Zenobia , 1	Pulnam,
Valparaiso , 1	Lockwood,
Zephyr , 1	Johnson,
	Macvicar & Co.
	SPANISH.
Marla , 1	Cuculla,
Ramiro , 1	Chelydra,
	L. Marques.
	BREZEN.
Margaretha , 1	Jardine M. & Co.
	DANISH.
Danish Oak , 1	Paulsen,
	Russell & Co.

DIED.—Suddenly on board the U. S. Frigate Constellation, on the 13th inst. Lieut. LEVIN HARRY of the U. S. Navy; aged 28 years.

* At Whampoa.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 53.] Macao, Saturday, 1st October, 1842.

[No. 365.]

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On Wednesday the 5th Oct. JOHN SMITH will put up for sale, to the highest bidders, a small quantity of Preserves, Tart Fruits, plain and concentrated white wine Vinegar, Pickles, assorted Sausages, Herring, and Anchovy Paste, Salmon and Herrings, in Jars, Cheeses, Capers, Olives, Oil, Jams and Jellies, & Brandy Cherries. at the same time will be put up for sale the residue of an Invoice of fashionable.

MILLINERY, &c.

consisting of:—Lady's Bonnets, Lace caps, printed muslin and other dresses; Tippets, Silk and Gauze Scarfs, Hair Pins and Rollers, Silk and Kid Gloves—Tooth, Nail cloth and Hair Brushes, patent Japan Leather, Calcutta made Boots, Bengal Silk Handkerchiefs, Saddles and Bridles, Counterpanes, Lavender Water, Eau de Cologne, Table Lamps, and a variety of useful other articles.

Particulars will be published hereafter in handbills. Macao, 30th September, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842

NOTICE.—The Interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DUGGLES, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUGGON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842. Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Manheim, and in that of HUGHAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or for building plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at Hongkong.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLET. HER & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subalternes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires se pareront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842. C. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUSS, or to Macao, 23rd February, 1842. C. FEARON.—Macao.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns Nos. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SALE OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMIRO," captain A. ESCOBAR, one of the best vessels built in Manila; as she is so well known in China it is presumed no further description is required. Apply to

Macao 30th September 1842.

L. MARQUES.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRAM- JEE COMA-JEE," 950 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE, PENANG & CALCUTTA

THE A. I. ship "MADURA," captain MYLNE, will sail for the above Ports on the 15th Inst. This vessel has good accommodations for passengers, and carries a cargo. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE clipper schooner ZEPHYR, capt. JOHNSON, will be despatched for the above ports on Wednesday next the 5th Inst. For freight of treasure only apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE and CALCUTTA.

THE Brig PELORUS, Capt. Briggs, will be dispatched for the above Ports on the 1st October. For Freight, apply to Macao, 8th Sept. 1842. HENRY PYBUS.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "THEETIS," J. CARR Commander, lying in the Typs. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD

THE fast sailing British Barque "CON- SINUA PACKET," of 235 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Bark MOUNT STEWART ELPHINSTONE, Captain LAWTON, 397 Tons, will leave for Bombay with all despatch. For freight apply to Macao, 13th September, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE LOWISE FAMILY is expected in the Roads from Whampoa, where she will remain and take such freight as may offer and sail for the above Ports in the first week of October. Apply to Macao, 12th September, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. Ship LABELLA, Capt. HARRIS, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE Ship PORTA, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October, for freight apply to MULLUSNOY DUNJARRIE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE fine ship ST. LAWRENCE, capt. T. NEWLANDS, A. I., is at Whampoa, and is offered for freight or charter to any Port.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE fast sailing A. I. ship WILLIAM SHARPLE, capt. JONES, will be despatched for the above Ports on or before 27th Inst., and receive freight.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER

TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE Anc. fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 355 Tons O. M. 399 new. Apply to: Captain CLYDE on board, at Hongkong or to

Macao, 27th Sept. 1842.

JAMIESON, HOW & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER

THE BARQUE ELVIRA, Capt. VALERA.

330 Tons, per Register, now lying in the Typs. Apply to

Macao, 9th September, 1842.

DIROM & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGORATH," A. I. at Lloyd's, W. JEFFRAY commander and of 412 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma teak timber; superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bottom, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to Macao, 23d August, 1842. D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER

THE A. I. British Bark "PENNONA" (398 Tons), Capt. COTHAY, Apply to

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN, For freight apply to Macao, 9th July, 1842.

DENT & Co.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG and SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE, Capt. BAGO, daily expected. For freight or passage apply to Macao, 23d August, 1842.

JOHN BURD.

FOR SALE.

THE tank built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 90 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to Macao, 23d August, 1842.

JOHN BURD. at Hongkong

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Tank Built Ship "HARBOUR MALOW," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

(Signed) P. Pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE

Canton, 29th June, 1842.

my vessel until 7 a. m. this morning; when, pulling towards her, I saw a colored man in the water, clinging to a piece of wood, whom I took up and conveyed on board the schooner Speck, from which vessel he had fallen overboard."

We learn that the object of the French squadron, consisting of about 10 sail under command of Admiral Petit Toit, and which left the western coast of South America some months since, is to take possession of the Marquesas Islands situated in the middle of the Pacific Ocean in about 10° Southern latitude, and 140° western longitude. Except for the protection of the French whale fishery, we do not see what advantage is likely to arise from the occupation of a group of islands, fertile certainly, but at such a distance from all commercial nations, and peopled by a nation of savages, whom it will be difficult to civilise sufficiently, to make them labor, and by their labor to furnish commerce. At present their simple wants are supplied by nature without almost any exertion on their part, and as yet most attempts to civilize the natives of the islands of that vast archipelago have been attended with little success. Their population is too scanty, and the earth produces food in abundance and spontaneously, and consequently the stimulus to labor is wanting, and civilization, if at all progressing, does it with such slow steps, that the natives do not as yet feel any of the many artificial wants which a redundant population and a variable temperature have imposed on the natives of Europe. America, and Asia. Commodore Porter took possession of these islands in 1814 or 15 we believe for the United States, and named them Washington Islands, but the United States government did not ratify this act, it being contrary to the spirit of the Constitution.

Friend of China. Sept 15.

At Chin-kiang-foo the Tartars fought well and when they had lost all hope then, many of them, committed suicide as also killed their wives and families. This self immolation is dreadful, and it is said nearly fifty times the number perished here by this method than did at Chapi. This large City was given up to looting. It must have contained 2 to 300,000 souls. Many of our friends got an awful lot of Swag and I came in for my share as an amateur. Not many jewels or ornaments of value were found. Measures were taken to direct many of the Red Coats of their plunder which was afterwards sold by Public Auction.

Colonel Schoofde's escalade it was said was the prettiest thing yet done in China. The walls were in good repair 20 to 30 feet high. Cadell was the first on the walls where he was wounded.

23rd Aug. Off Chin-kiang-foo: I find in storming this place Major Warren killed in a personal contest two of the enemy. After our troops had got possession of the walls they met with considerable opposition from the Tartar troops who seemed disposed to dispute every foot of ground with them. General Bartley's Brigade lined the banks of the Grand Canal and sniped away at every man that dared to show his face at an embrasure. The Madras Sappers under Captain Pears blew up the gate. He with Lieutenant Randall fired the bars, in an instant the Gate was blown to atoms and the building over it was at the same time fired by a rocket. It was after the town was taken that our principal loss took place. The day was hot in the extreme, surpassing the memorable one at Canton. Two officers also twenty men of the 98th died from a Coup de Soleil.

The Public buildings were set on fire and the troops prepared to quarter for the night, when a party of the 49th were fired upon by a secreted party of the enemy; two men were killed and eight wounded. Indeed during the night a desultory firing was kept up.

The island of Kinabau or Golden Island is a perfectly fairy spot, the prettiest scenery we have yet seen in China is to be met here. It has a Pagoda of Seven Stories a great part gilt. Though not steep in good order it has a very picturesque appearance, it is evidently intended as a residence for the priests attached to it.

On the 20th of August the Imperial commissioners Elepo, New and Kyeng, attended by the Chinese Naval and Military officers, paid their first visit to the Memporatory on board the Cornwallis, whither they were conveyed by the Nemesis steamer. The Envoy and suite, dressed in splendid costumes, were received by their Excellencies in full uniform with their suits, staff, &c., &c., under a salute due to their rank. On ascending the accommodation ladder they were greeted with a Salute from the marines of the Guard. The Band playing the national anthem. They were conducted to the state Cabin where de la mode d'Anglterra a sumptuous repast was laid out and partaken of with evident satisfaction by the Mandarins who were certainly pleased with their reception.

Afterwards they expressed a wish to inspect the Ship, never having before seen a man of war. They were accordingly conducted over every part, and appeared quite astonished at the numerous guns from deck to deck, and the order and discipline which reigned throughout.

20th Aug. At 4 past two P. M. a Royal Salute was fired by the Cornwallis in celebration of the Peace then signed with China. The Imperial yellow flag of the Celestial Empire flying on the main and the Union Jack on the mizen.

The celebrated Porcelain tower is in a good state of preservation; the lapse of five centuries has not impaired the lustre of the columns which were burnt into the material with which it is rooted and decorated. It is believed here that the private ratification of the Treaty was received from the Emperor or the 24th inst. Sir Henry Pottinger insisted on having the formal ratification of the Emperor, which he magnanimously consented to give, and it arrived here on the 29th.

September.

ARRIVED

- 3. (B) Matilda, Rowe, Liverpool.
- 10. (Brem.) Margaretha, So. America.
- 11. (B.) Fatley Moharruck, Moore, Bombay.
- 17. " Ganges, Walker, Madras.
- 17. " Harbinger, Candehis, Bombay and Sing.
- 17. " Algerine, Hill, Calcutta, and Singapore.
- 18. " Framjee Cowasjee, Edward, do. do.
- 18. " Coringa Packet, Chilcot, do. do.
- 20. (A.) Zenobia, Putnam, Liverpool. 29th May.
- 20. (Dan.) Danish Oak, Paulsen, Singapore.
- 20. (B.) Salopian, Bell, Valparaiso.
- 20. " Mary Charlotte, Webber, Maulmein.
- 21. " Anne Mary, Rackham, Madras.
- 22. H. M. S. Agincourt, England.
- 23. (B.) Urgent, Thompson, Chusan.

PASSENGER PER

Salopian, Mr. and Mrs. de Storr.
Danish Oak, Capt. John Brnd.

SAILED

- September.
- 10. (B.) Semiramis, Cairnie, Manila.
- 10. " Arrow, Geare, Chusan.
- 14. H. C. Str. Memnon, Comr Powell, I. N. Nank.
- 17. H. M. S. Indictive, Capt. Nicholas, do. do.
- 20. (Sp.) Singular, Manila. [S. Wales.
- 23. (B.) Pink, McIntosh, Chusan.
- 24. (A.) Dolhi, Cole, Manila.

PASSENGERS PER

Delhi, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sturgis and family.
The Henry Davidson, from Bombay to China, was cast away on Pedra Branca near Singapore on the 2d September. Crew all saved except two, by the Brig Jane, by which they were taken to Singapore.

The Regina and Mermad under despatch for Calcutta on Monday the 26th inst.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Dovecot Devon, Elizabeth, Mary Ann Edie, Claudius, Luiza Jack son, Baltour, George Wallis, Lord Louthier, Adelaide, Athenian, Par rock Hall, Asia, Madras, Eggs trion, Urula, Bella Marina, John O'Gaunt, Wills the Whip, Liver pool, d'Arcy, Beam, Orestes, Cris topher Rawson, Hindostan, Alex Baring, Pandora, Ann Jane, Chid dora, Edward Boustead, James Matheson.

From Bombay,—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodman, Hebrides, John Moor, Helena, John Calpin, Gilbert Henderson, Chydra, Victoria.

From Calcutta,—Dido, Cleopatra, Victory, Framjee Cowasjee, Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet, Ariel, Hera.

From Singapore,—Sarah Belford, Waterloo.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 6th July. SINGAPORE, 4th Sept.
UNITED STATES, June 15. MANILA, 2d September.
CALCUTTA, 2d August. AMOY, 28th August.
BOMBAY, 9th August. CHUAN.
JAVA, 16th August. NANKING, 29th August.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	Tonn.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Arna , 301	Kellock	Dent and Co.
Archona , —	Christians	C. Fearon
Agnesia , 512	Jeffrey	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Abberdon , 451	Cass	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine , —	Hill
Anna Eliza , 254	Baicher	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic , —	Barlow	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria , —	West
Anne Mary , —	Rackham
Bombay Castle , —	Baxter
Bolton , —	Robinson	Dent & Co.
Bucehalms , —	Small	Lindsay & Co.
Caledonia , —	Lawson	Dirom and Co.
Calcutta , —	Major	H. Pybus
Corair , —	Martin	D & M. Rustomjee & Co
Cowasji Family , —	Durham
Coringa Packet , —	Chilcot
Cinet , —	Curling	Jardine M. & Co.
China , 524	Robertson	Russell and Co.

* This must be a mistake; the ratification of the treaty by the Emperor, was not expected to arrive at Nanking before the middle of September.

Cacique , —	Man,	C. Fearon
Cameien , 398	Chucua,	Jamieson How & Co.
Charles Forbes , 994	Willa, [gr	Jardine Matheson & Co
Charlotte , —	Liebecian
Devonport , —	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
David Clarke , —	Mills
Dindem , —	Harland	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora , —	Turnbull
Ellen , —	Brewer	Dent and Co.
Emma Eugenia , —	Kettlewell	Reynvan & Co.
Elvira , —	Walker	Dirom and Co.
Earl Balcarras , 148	Baker	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh , 1414	Pateron
Play Mobernack , —	Moore
Fram. Cowasjee , —	Edwards	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Frances Burn , —	Edington	Macvicar and Co.
Fred. Huth , —	Toby	Turner and Co.
Felicity , —	McDonald	Dirom and Co.
Ganges , —	Walker	Jardine M. & Co.
Gemini , —	Mardon	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw , —	Morrice	Lindsay and Co.
Grecian , —	Watt
Gulnare , —	Willingby	Dirom and Co.
Hero of Malown , —	Harvey
Hongkong , —	Whittem
Harbinger , —	Candehis	Fox Rawson & Co.
Hygia , 378	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
Hope , —	Cockbain	Macvicar & Co.
Helen Stewart , —	Brown
Hindostan , 708	Bowen	Dent and Co.
Helen , —	Bayne	Jardine Matheson & Co
Isa. Robertson , —	Kelly	Pereira and Co.
Isa. Thompson , —	Kitton	Fergusson, L. and Co.
Isabella , —	Hardie	Dent and Co.
Island Queen , —	Balls
Intrepid , —	Stewart
Kirkman Finlay , —	Scott	Turner & Co.
Louise Family , —	Avres	Dent and Co.
Lithland , —	Freeman	Jardine M. & Co.
Lady Clarke , —	Lawrence	Turner and Co.
Lord Edon , —	Worsell	Lindsay & Co.
Maia , —	Sprole	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
M. S. Riphinston , —	Lawton	Dent and Co.
Mermad , 644	Gill	A. A. de Mello.
Manly , —	Hart	C. H. Hart.
Mercury , —	W. Scott	Jardine M. & Co.
Mary Anne , —	Holton
Matilda , —	Rowe
Marc Charlotte , —	Webber
Madras , —	Mine	Macvicar & Co.
Orator , —	Serry	Jardine M. and Co.
Prince Regent , —	Barclay
Pelorus , —	Triggs	Lindsay and Co.
Pandora , 298	Cothay	Holliday Wise & Co.
Prince of Wales , —	Jones	Jardine Matheson & Co
Regina , —	Pool	Capt. Pool.
Ruparell , —	Rigby	A. & D. Furdonjee.
Rob Roy , —	Boyd	H. Pybus.
Rosa , —	C. H. Hart.
St. Lawrence , —	Newlands	Russell and Co.
Snipe , —	Morton	Hughesdon Brothers.
Salopian , —	Bell	C. Fearon.
Salem , —	Misford	Jardine Matheson & Co
Syrin , —	Siroyas
Tartar , —	Luce
Trinidad , —	Brown
Thetis , —	Cass	Dirom and Co.
Urgent , —	Thompson	Fox Rawson & Co
Wm. Sharples , —	Jones	Russell and Co.
Wild Irish Girl , —	Gillet	J. A. Durran Jr.
Wm. Gillies , —	Clark	Macvicar & Co.
Weera , —	Hunt	Jardine Matheson & Co
Wm. Hyde , —	Steward

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
U. S. S. Boston, Comman ler Luce
Akbar, Humares Russell & Co.
Levant, Faulk, J. D. Sward & Co.
Ann Markim, Vanner, W. A. Laurence.
Congress, Hav,
Probus, Saugner, Wetmore & Co.
Grafton, Gardener, J. M. Bull.
Panther, Martin, J. M. Bull.
Charleston, Harlow, Olyphant and Co.
Zenobia, Putnam,
Valparaiso, Lockwood
Zephyr, Johnson, Macvicar & Co.

SPANISH.

Marla, Cuculla, A. Cuculla.
Ramiro, Chelydra, L. Marques.

BREMAN.

Margaretha, —, Jardine M. & Co.

DANISH.

Danish Oak, —, Paulsen, Russell & Co.

DIED.—Suddenly on board the U. S. Frigate Constellation, on the 13th instant, Lieut. LEVIN HARRY of the U. S. Navy; aged 28 years.

* At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Pe do Monte.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY, PLATE, FRAMED WINE, GLASS AND CROCKERY WARE, BUNKS, HORSE, COWS &c. belonging to M. J. LEIGHTON Esq.
Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE—A new LONCHA, 64 cubic length and 16 breadth, of about three hundred talas of Royal Cotton burden, built a year since. Any person wishing to buy her apply to A. SOLAS TORREZAO, at the Bazarinho, Mata Tigres Street, from 8 to 9 o'clock in the morning.
Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR SALE ON CHARTER—The coppered and copper fastened cutter ADELAIDE, of 40 tons, as she now lies in the inner harbour, with a complete suit of sails, and two anchors and chains. Apply to EDWARD JONES.
In the Bazarinha.
Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

WANTED—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 35 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.
Macao, 27th June, 1843.

FOR SALE—On board the "Corringa Packet" a portion of best Mungahy RICE, DRILL, DECCA SEAL. Apply to Macao, 23d September, 1843.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER AND NAILS. Apply to
J. A. DURRAN, Jr.
Macao, 23d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—MANILA SEGARS 4s., and EUROPE LITTEP PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to
P. DE LAS HERAS.
Macao, 23d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.
FOR SALE, from 1 to 3 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—JAVA ARRACK AND COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to Macao, 20th August, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

HOSIERY &c. FOR SALE.
A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton Socks and Stockings of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS—Florence, Tuscan, and Dutch, also, Boy's Hats. Apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz; and NAILS; apply in
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST LANDED and exposed for sale:
A few HANDSOMELY FRAMED ENGRAVINGS—

RETURN from HAWKING, containing Portraits of Lord Francis Norton and family after Edwin Landseer, JOHN KNOX, preaching before the Lords of the Congregation, in the Church of St. Andrew, Scotland, after WILKIE, MAID of SARAGOSSA, CRUCIFIXION, by MARTIN, DUKE of WELLINGTON, in his robes as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, SNIPWRECK off St. MICHAEL'S, Lewis' SPANISH SKETCHES, BYRON'S DREAM, VENICE, GRACE DARLING and HER FATHER, rescuing the 9 survivors from the wreck of the "Fenimore" steam packet, and the CORSAIR'S ISLE, a DISTINGUISHED MEMBER of the HUMAN SOCIETY, QUEEN VICTORIA, &c. also, in sheets and cases.

MAPS AND CHARTS:
War in China, German Empire, Canton River, Amoy, Cochin, China; World, Asia, New Zealand, Australia, India, Overland Route to India, Turkey to Barmah, Bible Maps, &c.
and in boxes and stands.

COLUMBIAN AND TERRESTRIAL GLOBES.
Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th September, 1842.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEANS, 25 to 27 foot long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 26th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—DUFF GOSDON & Co's. SHERRY in bottle and HIDE, FINE WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. each, CHAMPAGNE in bottles of 1 dozen. Apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick HOUSES, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Pays de Mandoua, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner
ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE—SAUNDERS, Pale Burton ALE in Hides per "Anna Eliza." Apply to Macao, 27th June, 1842. DALLAS and Co.

FOR SALE—A Rifle and a few pairs double and four abreast PISTOLA, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE—Old MADRIRA WINE, PALE SHERRY in quart bottles, 50 Baskets Superior CHAMPAGNE, BORDEAUX CLARET, Old Monongahela WHISKY, CHAMPAGNE CIDER, SWAINS PANACHA, compound extract of SASSAPARILLA, Spermaceti CANDLES, Yellow SOAP, CHEWING TOBACCO. Apply to Macao, 2nd July, 1842. JOHN D. SWORD & Co.

FOR SALE—At the Godowns of the underminded, Gambon Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—
Most Splendid French PIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Pavence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Muslipatam SHUR in quart bottles, a 4/3 per bottle.
And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hides.
SULTZER WATER dew.
GIAMANS STORES late imports.
BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—MADRIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of REIMS & Co.; apply to
DENT & Co.
Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BASIN PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SULTZER water, GIP, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.
E. L. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases.
MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SULTZERWATER and HOCK.
HAMBURG PORK and BEER.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 22th October, 1841.

LOTTERY.
MEMRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's.
FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS', and GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY,
OF 1843, of all Prizes!

[It is the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mutual Agency: for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lotteries: from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Sivele, China, &c. it is proposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived thence, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund; only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Contributors of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing: and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate; or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with, or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!
With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

MEMRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' and GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the meeting First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843, valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket: divided into 2,900

Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner extremely dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioner Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. pay to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	5 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	25 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances. 480 Tickets.
Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes: only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket.
CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co's Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittance, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co's letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co, to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co, either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co, purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co, for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra Rs. 25 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this. Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly. N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.
The lasting resentment of Miss KRAOU LWAN WANG. A black Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.
BOP's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.
THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR CUSTOMS. price one dollar.

Mrs NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITTE, &c., price 60 cents.
The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.
Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.
ADVERTISEMENTS
Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS
Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12
For six Months..... $ 7
For three..... $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office for 20 cents each.

July Overland Mail.
From the Monthly Times, 6th July.

At a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, on the 23rd ult., Mr. Murchison, the chairman of the evening, stated that a gentleman, employed by Government in ascending the river Zube in Africa, from east to west, had fallen in with a considerable tract of country inhabited by a race of pygmies not exceeding four feet in height, with very curious views of religion and government, and exactly resembling the type of Herodotus.
A FATAL PERIOD.—Within the period of 100 hours, observes Gulliland's Messenger, three of the greatest calamities of this or any century have occurred: viz. the fire at Hamburg, on the 5th of May; the earthquake at St. Domingo, on the 7th; and the fatal accident on the Versailles railroad, on the 8th.

FRANCE.
The King laid, on the 2nd ult., the first stone of the fort of the Bicêtre, which is to command the plain of Miteljeif, the valley of the Sievre, and the road to Italy. "This fort," says the Commerces, "is situated within a short distance of the cascade continue, and can easily batter the suburbs of St. Jacques and St. Marcou. This fort, one of the most menacing for the capital, will have five bastions, three of which are to be turned against Paris."

A CHANGE OF OWNERS.—The Dowager Queen of Spain, Christine, has purchased Malmaison, the former residence of the Emperor Napoleon and the Empress Josephine.

The Americana of Brest of the 10th ult. states, that a terrific hurricane burst upon that town the preceding day, which caused much injury. Heavy claps of thunder were followed by a fall of enormous hailstones, which broke the greater part of the windows in the houses. Some persons were killed and many severely wounded.

THE FORTIFICATIONS OF PARIS.—The Commerces observes, that Paris is about to be converted into a fortified town of the most formidable kind. "On the exterior it is encircled in with batteries and loop holes, and in the interior the barracks are daily multiplied. The Municipal Council and the Minister at War have agreed to convert the former oil stores in the rue de Fontaine and the military storehouse in the rue Cherche-Midi into barracks, the first for the municipal guard, and the second for troops of the line."

The Journal du Havre gives an account of the arrival of that part of the three steam-boats, the Archimedes, Opuscula, and Papier, built for the Pope in England. They came into the harbor with the Papal standard flying at their stern. They are of about 30 tons burden, and their engines of about 30-horse power. The sailors who manned them are dressed much like those of France, and have painted on their hats Maria Romanæ.

A NAVAL FIELD-MARSHAL.—The Monitor publishes a Royal ordinance, instituting a post of Field-Marshal in the marine department. This officer is to be commissioned by the minister of marine to inspect at least once in two years the corps of infantry belonging to the navy employed in the military harbours of the kingdom or in its transatlantic establishments. By another ordinance of the 15th inst., the King raised to the rank of Naval Field-Marshal M. de Fitte de Sancy, Colonel of the "Marine Infantry" (for such is the title of that arm in France.)

THE LATE SIR SIDNEY SMITH.—A subscription to raise a monument in Pere la Chaise to the memory of Sir Sidney Smith is now in progress in Paris. Lord Cowley, Lord Leven and Melville, Lord Aylmer, &c., head the list.

RUSSIA AND PRUSSIA.

The Leipzig Gazette says that a plot against the Emperor of Russia has been discovered and supposes the Senate of Petersburg having joined in the conspiracy, which was provoked by the late attempts to emancipate the peasantry.

The Commerces observes, that notwithstanding the manifestations of sympathy recently exhibited by the Cabinets of London and St. Petersburg, the latter Government, aware of the events which are preparing in Southern Asia, is anxious to disengage itself from the struggle which is making in the Caucasus. It is announced that the minister of war, Prince Tchernicheff, will take the command of the army about to act in that country, and will conclude his operations as speedily as possible. The Russian Government appears to be confident of success.

Berlin is about to be enriched with a collection of 845 Indian manuscripts, almost all in the Sanscrit, and containing the whole of the Vedas, which M. Bunsen, the privy councillor of the embassy at London, has purchased from the heirs of the late Sir R. Chambers. The Vedas are in no library, either at London or Paris, and the Bodleian collection at Oxford has obtained this work only within a few weeks, by Professor Wilson's agreeing to cede his precious collection. The copy of the Vedas purchased for Berlin alone cost £1,000 in India and the Vedas comprise one hundred and twenty numbers. The whole collection cost M. Bunsen £1,350.—Galignani.

EARTHQUAKE IN ST. DOMINGO.—TEN THOUSAND LIVES LOST.—The American papers received by the Acadia inform us that an appalling catastrophe had befallen the island of St. Domingo. That island was visited on the 7th ult. with repeated and severe shocks of earthquake, which had entirely demolished the town of Cape Haytien, and it was calculated to have destroyed 100,000 of its citizens. Other towns on the same side of the island had, it was feared, shared in the desolation. The town of Cape Haytien has entirely disappeared, and with it two-thirds of its population, which amounted to about 15,000 inhabitants. A fire broke out after the earthquake, which destroyed the powder magazine, and with it the miserable remnant of the inhabitants who had escaped the earthquake. The towns of St. Nicholas and Port Paix are also said to be destroyed. The approach of the earthquake was indicated in Port-au-Prince by great heat, and heavy clouds that covered the neighbouring hills, and followed the direction of the south-west to the north-east. The vessels at anchor, some of the sailors report, experienced the shock before they saw the houses agitated, which seemed to indicate that the shock came from the west. There were two shocks at Port-au-Prince very distinctly felt, the first not so long as the second, which last endured about three minutes. Every person strove to get out of the houses, and the streets were filled with the afflicted population. A little longer, says the Patriote, and Port-au-Prince would have been the theatre of a disaster similar to that of 1770. There is hardly a house or a wall that has not suffered a little. On the Saturday night succeeding, and on Sunday there were other shocks. On Monday morning at 12 o'clock there was another shock. The weather all the while was changeable, now extreme heat, now rain, now fair, and now signs as if of a storm. On Tuesday, again, there was another shock, and since then, says the Patriote, "it seems to us that we walk upon a quaking earth." A letter from St. Marc says, that the earthquake was felt there with great violence. Many houses were seriously damaged, and some destroyed, but no loss of life is mentioned. At Gonaives the shocks were yet more serious. The greater part of the houses were overthrown. A fire broke out at the same time, and there was not a drop of water in the town. All the houses that were not burnt suffered from the earthquake. The president of Hayti has given orders to the physicians and officers of the hospitals to leave the city immediately, in order to attend to the distressed Despatches have been received from the governor of Limbe, a place near the Cape, stating that after the shock he sent to that city for news. His aid-de-camp found the city destroyed, and the ruins covered by the sea, with the exception of a small portion, where were assembled the surviving inhabitants and authorities, most of the latter grievously wounded and mutilated.

Rumours have been circulated that discussions exist between Sir Robt. Peel and Lord Stanley the latter considering he does not hold a sufficient prominent place in the House of Commons. It has also been said that Lord de Grey and the Lord Chancellor of Ireland (Sir Edward Sugden) and the Irish Secretary (Lord Elliott) have disagreed and the Lord de Grey will shortly vacate the appointment of Irish Viceroy, and that the Duke of Buccleugh was expected to succeed him. I do not consider there is any foundation for these rumours, as they emanate from the opposition papers. The Marquis of Waterford was married at Whitehall Chapel on 8th ult. to the daughter of Lord Stuart de Rothesay our Ambassador at St. Petersburg. After staying a few days in the neighbourhood of Town they proceeded to Curraghmore his Lordship's seat in County of Waterford where they were most enthusiastically received; but I regret to state that this joy has been completely damped by a most serious accident that occurred on 28th ult. The noble Marquis was driving his Lady in a Phaeton about the grounds when one of the horses took fright, it is conjectured from being stung by an Hornet and started off at full speed, and after running a short distance the Pole of the Phaeton broke, by which circumstance the Marquioness was thrown out, her head coming in contact with a Tree. The Marquis was also thrown out but did not at the moment feel much inconvenience, assistance was soon procured and the unfortunate Lady conveyed back to the mansion; the accounts that have since been received represent her Ladyship as going on favorably and that she is sensible, but it is doubted whether the injury to the brain has yet fully developed itself; her Ladyship was also much bruised. The Marquis has been so painfully excited by the accident as not to regard his own sufferings which have been rather severe, from internal bruises.

(From the London Times, July 4.)

We have advices from our Lisbon correspondent to the 27th of June. Neither the slave trade nor commercial treaty came signed by this packet, but the two plenipotentiaries had come to a better understanding, and there was little doubt of the treaties being forwarded signed within a week or a fortnight. Our correspondent acquiesces as positively with the important intelligence that the Duke of PALMEIRA will immediately join the Administration as Foreign Secretary and President of the Council, and that Senhor CAMARAO will be replaced in the Marine Department by a statesman of more undisputed administrative capacity. The result of the elections was an immense majority for the Government. In all the provincial districts they were successful, and defeated only in Lisbon.

From the Atlas for India, of 6th July:
LONDON IN 1845—A FRAGMENT.

LONDON, a marvel even to its own dwellers habituated to its universal redundancy, must ever be a subject of overwhelming interest and astonishment to those who, in distant lands, ponder on its mighty elements and its rapid development. It is a moral and physical colossus, and displays a double manifestation of its energies, which are at once centrifugal and centripetal: with a giant stride it reaches the confines of the earth to disseminate its principles of action, and to reap the varied produce of its industry, whilst in its own deep heart it is nourishing a preservative principle, resembling altho the advance of plausible change and the inducements to injurious report. It stretches the hand of beneficence and protection towards all of the human race, yet jealously watches over the agencies of its own power, and tenaciously consults in every onward move the precepts of its long experience.

There was a time, before the "right divine" of Kings was questioned, when London was a remarkably picturesque city. It is true the materials were generally unpretending, wood and plaster being combined into pleasant but frail forms. Still the builder was then an artist, and great must have been his delight when the onmost gable crowned his ingenious effort, and he felt that he had added another gem to the metropolitan scene. Seven generations of a period dwindled with the feudal ages; the stoutest remained a brief span to tell their antique tale of elegance and chivalry, and yielded the spots they had adorned to dull square brick walls, with duller square apertures for doors and windows, surmounted by menacing ranges of unsmiling chimneys. Without attempting to lead our readers through the details of social and architectural transition, so pleasantly treated by Charles Knight, in his embellished work on Ancient and Modern London; we will, though not without a backward glance, and ourselves in the heart of the capital under George III. The tastes of Holland & Hanover had impelled a mongrel set on the novel buildings, whilst the dull hand of the unlearned English builder, not even emulating the some who move refined exotic piles of his foreign rivals, raised regions of monotonous streets, composed of mean and towering houses, which could alone be distinguished by the numbers affixed to their insignificant doors. The blackened walls, unsash-traved windows, and sunken roofs, must have impressed the foreigner with the idea that he walked amidst a city which had lately suffered from the ravages of fire. St. Paul's, it is true, reared its noble form above the maze of brickwork; Westminster Abbey relieved the monotony of the general view of the west end, by its lacustrine towers and the spires of "the fifty new churches," occasionally, relieved the horizontal line. Still London was a dull heavy city in spite of the Monument, with its lying inscription (now effaced); of the Tower, with its moley walls (now relieved of a dead weight); of Old Newgate, with its well-filled gibbets (now rarely used); and of Whitehall, with its grand front (useless, it would seem, as a model to later architects).

We might almost venture to paraphrase the boasts of Augustus, and assert of George IV. that he found London of brick, and left it covered with stucco. It appears to be an established law of mortality that all human changes shall be in extremes. What the successor of George III. found bald and gloomy he left haunting and plausible. The total absence of architectural ornament was succeeded by the most inconspicuous multiplication of riches. Columns, feeble imitations of those beneath which a Plato taught and a Cicero pleaded, were pressed into the service of John Smith and George Thomas, and the capital of Jupiter Pluvius might be seen decorating the abode of a vendor of umbrellas. Light, ever a desideratum in our city, was scarce in its timid progress by columns of ponderous proportions; and that which might probably have entered by slow degrees through the assuming windows, lost its way amidst a forest of columns and pilasters. These evils of the antagonistic principle, which levelled Swallow-street, and reared that of "the Regent," were, however, greatly counterbalanced by the vast improvement effected through the instrumentality of Mr. Nash, to whose talents we are indebted for the noblest thoroughfare and which has been so successfully imitated in succeeding days, by which hold lines are ploughed through crowded quarters, and population taught to migrate from favorite localities to others more refined in manner and matter, leaving its former abodes to benefit inferior migrations. The formation of Regent street and Regent's park, in 1814, is the great feature of that period, and is necessarily connected with recollections of the visit of the Allied Sovereigns. Those who then saw London, with that solitary indication of approaching beauty, regularity, and convenience, could not surmise the principal portions of the improving capital, where threefold labours are totally changing its material aspect and geographical character, and might, but for "the cockney's lamden," and other conspicuous objects, imagine they were far away from the "nation of shopkeepers."

From 1814 to the present time the progress of improvement has been unparalleled. Under William IV. we witnessed the completion of the gigantic masses by which the dull Chelsea fields have been converted into aristocratic areas; of those noble piles which occupy the site of the low-screened Palace of the Regent, long known as Carlton House; and of those sweeping and admirable alterations attendant upon the formation of the London-bridge approaches and the connection of the New-road and Finsbury with the Bank. The mere extension of the metropolis may be regarded as "a matter of course." We will simply consider those internal improvements which do not necessarily result from a swelling census, and which have altered the distribution of its vast interior, taking little note of those brick and mortar protruberances which have modified the circumference of the "Great Wen."

The estate of the Marquis of Westminster, upon which the former of those improvements has been effected, is an irregular quadrangle, bounded on the north by Knightsbridge, on the south by the King's-road, Piccadilly, on the east by Grosvenor-place and the Green-park, and on the west by Grosvenor-street. Its greatest extent either way is about half a mile, diminishing to about a quarter of a mile towards its northern boundary. Besides numerous well built and straight streets, its centre is embellished by the imposing area of Belgrave square, commenced in 1825, measuring 684 feet by 517, while by Wilton crescent to the north, and Eaton square to the south, with several churches and chapels, supply the spiritual wants of a rapidly improving neighbourhood.

The character of the generality of the mansions, as contrasted with the architecture of the past age, displays a great advance in the science of building; and although the same rich mouldings and carvings as are to be found in the houses of the eighteenth century, find no place here, the arrangement and decorations are of a lighter and more convenient state, and the space is better employed according to modern notions. In some of the palaces, it is true, may be traced violent symptoms of a meretricious feeling for ornament, encouraged by that facile principle of modern architecture—atque, which lends such powerful assistance to the caprices of innovation. Still, on the whole, this new quarter is a grand feature of the metropolis, and rivals anything to be found in Europe, viewed as a quarter of private residences.

Another new portion of the of the metropolis deserves special mention—that which lies on the northern side of the Uxbridge-road, extending towards the Harrow-road on the north, towards Raywater on the west, and bounded by the Edgware road on the east. It extends upwards of half a mile in each direction. A road leading from the extremity of the Serpentine river (which is crossed by the Uxbridge line) to the Edgware road, besets its northern or detached villa portion, and its southern or aristocratic portion. At its lower or western extremity is a noble range of first rate mansions, situated in Hyde Park gardens, which, notwithstanding the untoward necessity which existed of leaving the western wing incomplete, presents an unrivalled elevation of almost palatial grandeur.

Connected with the majestic line of Regent street, but of a different date, is the compact plot known by the name of Carlton gardens, occupying the site of Carlton House and grounds. Although in the heart of the west-end, it enjoys the advantages of seclusion, the mansions which face the park offering from their back windows, with a little stretch of imagination, a thoroughly rural aspect. Amidst much that is imposing in the character of the large structures, there is much that is mean. Their street fronts are simple to baldness, whilst their park-façades display unnecessary and unwieldy decorations. The Prince of Wales' feathers decorating the pediment of the latter is in the worst taste—no ill selected ornamental compliment feebly carried out. At present the stables of old Carlton House prevent the completion of the other wing. When the flat of King's-Lane shall authorize the removal of the huge brick kiln, the whole range, divided by the York Column, will present a very striking appearance. It was originally intended that an uninterrupted terrace should stretch along the park front (beneath which are the domestic offices), but it pleased the good old "sailor King" to insist upon a "gangway" being formed across this aristocratic inclosure. By this considerate arrangement the public has obtained a pleasant expanse, of no great dimensions, it is true, but a pleasant spot for loungers, at the base of the columns, whence the timid may safely view the park—birds which occur in the adjacent park. Of the column itself we cannot say anything very flattering. It is of pale red granite, 150 feet in height, and is surmounted by a bronze statue of the Duke, fourteen feet high, erected by Westmacott. The inclosure, which in our young days was as monotonous a field as cows would desire to graze in, with a geometrical piece of water, beset by the remains of the Jubilee Chinese bridge, is now a very charming spot where the powers of the landscape gardener are displayed to the greatest advantage. The stream has been carried into elegance, gravelled walks wind through it, amidst stately clumps of trees and pleasing plantations, whilst tribes of aquatic birds cultivate the acquaintance of cake-bewasting children, and satisfy the naturalist that "aquaticness" is not weak in the feathered race. The Bird Cage walk has also shared the improvements of the age. A continuous railing now gives uniformity to the footpath, whilst the greater additions of "The Wellington Chapel and Barracks" removes the raggedness of the site of Rosamond's Pond. The once demure residence of Queen Charlotte, "Buckingham House," was, in 1825, laid violent hands upon by Mr. Nash at the instigation of George IV., and for a series of years the patience and purse of the nation were subject to violent attacks for the purposes of architectural caprice. Even Parliament was roused by the sums levied upon unsettled plans. On the death of the parties concerned, Mr. Blore was commissioned by William IV. to prepare the Palace for his residence; and, after great and judicious alterations by that gentleman, it was at length taken possession of by her present Majesty, who, we fear, does not experience all the comfort of her regal abode which should seem to be warranted by an outlay of nearly one million.

The Park front is low and heavy, with the disadvantage of being unduly recessed; the windows are small, and the ground story mean. The garden front which, of course, the public never beholds, is by far the most pleasing feature of this mongrel abode. A hall of dismal lowliness leads to suits of small rooms magnificently furnished, whilst a strip of walled inclosure termed "The Picture Gallery" stretches along the centre of the pile, connecting the state with the state-domestic rooms. Neither the puny marble arch, with its common place bronze gate, nor the sculpture which adorns this pile, can render it a fitting abode for the Sovereign of a mighty empire. Let us leave the scene and seek "the study side of Pall Mall." It was once a quiet respectable street; it is now distinguished by its one-sidedness—the southern side being studded with club-houses of noble proportions—continuations of those which deck St. James-street, and the new "Reform Club" by Barry, towers above the others. There are few saunterers more imposing for the amount of work seen than that from the Opera House, (a very striking quadrangle, truly, with its continuous colonnade), past the Senior United Service Club, with its two storied portico, right and left, Waterloo-place, with its Bado light; and Carlton Gardens with the York Column, then catching the range from "The Athenæum," with its Athenian frieze and statue of the goddess, "The Travellers, with its genteel face, the soaring and three sided display "Reform Club," the somewhat dull "Conservative Club," and the richly decorated elevation of the "New University" Refuge for Orphans and Cantabs. Let us, however, before retracing our steps, turn into the court of St. James's Hospital and gaze at the massive pile which is now the property of the Duke of Sutherland, having been begun by a prince of the blood who, unfortunately, was not a man of business, and consequently built a home for others to live in. Without criticising it by canon, we will simply inform our distant readers that it is a commanding edifice presenting four different architectural faces of considerable pretensions, and that, viewed as a town residence, its exterior and interior are altogether unrivalled in Europe.

Let us not pass that monument to George III. It is an exquisite piece of horsemanship, but lacks the abstract view we love so well in these durable records. It is too like a man, and far too like a fine horse. The detestable parish-pump railing spoils what was not spoilt before.

Let us stand as near the centre of "Trafalgar-square" as the works of the "Nelson Testimonial" and the Esplanade will allow. That frontage of 460 feet, with a depth of 56, is, for want of a better name, called "The National Gallery." The right wing is occupied by the Royal Academy of Arts, the left by the collection of ancient paintings. Each establishment requires the wing occupied by the other. Neither, of course, thinks of moving; so the evil and the remedy are ordered to "lie on the table."

If ever mortal man was worried into infirmity of purpose, the architect of this longitudinal gallery certainly was. It was decided some few years back that a national institution of some sort was to be built in order to "use up" the columns which had formed the portico of Carlton House. The purpose was never very clearly defined; and, indeed, it did not seem to matter. It would not do for one thing, it might for another. It was not for a museum, for a barracks. The columns we have alluded to were given to the nation by William IV., it not being quite clear, however, that they were his to give, and necessarily ordained the style of the building, and partly its size. Then he had successively to consider the right of way through the intended edifice, to barracks on the one hand, and a workhouse on the other. He was, moreover, threatened with the displeasure of parish juries, and paving boards, if he ventured to erect a morsel of the parish church, or to encroach an inch on the footpath. He had, consequently, to throw back wings, and to cramp the podium of the portion. In fact, the poor man must have suffered much! For a sum of about 75,000, and with these drawbacks, he has produced as decent a building as could be expected. We fully expect that when its elevation shall be increased to the eye by the excavated expanse which is now constructing in front, it will have gained infinitely in importance.

The "columns" to Nelson now erecting, from designs by Mr. Railton, will be as good a column as can be drawn by measurement from given standards. It is now too late to complain of the taste evinced by the selection. It seems to have been predetermined that a fitting monument to our naval hero, both as regards his character, and that of naval art, should not be attempted. We trust that the sum in hand, about half that required, will kindly prove sufficient.

Old Montague House having been found insufficient for the purposes of the "British Museum," a new edifice was commenced, by Sir Robert Smirke, some years since. When completed, we have no doubt it will be the most comprehensive and noble museum in Europe. Its cost will be nearly one million. The Elgin marbles are already deposited in a chaste magnificent room; the Egyptian and Etruscan antiquities are in suitable galleries, while the library of George III. occupies a sumptuous room of ample proportions. The front is in course of erection, but as far as the designs, it will lack repose, owing to the multiplicity of columns and recesses. To the same architect we are indebted for the simple and noble "Post Office," an Ionic edifice, completed in 1829. Behind this is the ponderous and highly enriched façade of the Goldsmith's Hall designed by Mr. Hardwick. Being near the spot we will allude to the great improvements in "Christ's Hospital"; or, "the Blue-coat School," by Mr. Shaw. "The New Hall," of the Tudor Gothic is an imposing structure, 187 feet in length, now most advantageously seen from Newgate-street.

It were an endless task to retail the improvements which have altered the aspect of London. "London, Southward, and Ham-murath bridges" will be new to the absentee from London, as will also be the countless "new churches," Grecian and Gothic, "the termini of the various railroads," "the two Zoological Gardens, the environs cemeteries, the mechanics' institutes, the halls for public meetings, the new statues to kings and heroes, the commodious and extensive cigar divans and billiard rooms, the theatres," (the St. James, the Lyceum, the Queen's, the Norton Folgate, the Garrick, &c. &c.) the... but we tire of the dry enumeration. London has doubled itself in appearance and comfort within the last twenty years.

There only remains to complete this incomplete sketch mary, to notice the novelties which are to stamp the town of Victoria with an equal renown in these particularities.

The subject building in Europe is now rapidly advancing under the direction, and from the designs, of Mr. Bovy. "The New Palace of the Legislature," which replaces the old incongruous pile, destroyed by fire, Oct. 16, 1834, extends in one unbroken front, 300 feet in length, along the river, from Westminster bridge to Millbank. Its style is what is fashionably termed the Elizabethan Gothic, and its cost will be nearly the favourite sum of one million. A gorgeous tower, 300 feet high, will spring from the Millbank end, and a terrace, 30 feet wide, will run along the river front. The principal point to be noticed in its interior is its proposed decoration with appropriate frescoes.

The Old "Royal Exchange" having likewise fallen a prey to flames, Mr. Tate has been selected to replace it by a public fabric the portion of which will be unequalled in dimensions by any in the united kingdom.

Various new lines of streets are projected, one comprising Farringdon street towards Islington is progressing, another carrying the important thoroughfare of Piccadilly into Lons Acre is in contemplation, and it has also been proposed to carry a viaduct over the dangerous declivity of Holborn Hill.

A beautiful, too beautiful perhaps, new model prison has been erected in the neighbourhood of Pentonville, where solitary confinement is to be tried on an agreeable system.

But we must close our rambling paper. The moral progress of the modern Republic has not been less astonishing than its material advance. The claims of the humbler classes are considered to an extent unknown in former days; every citizen real or supposed finds ready advocates, and the tongue of vague reform is active in inspiring emulation. To us as contrast of splendour and misery still assails the eye of philanthropy, and there are not wanting those amongst the canker spirits of the age who, amidst the discordant elements of metropolitan grandeur and power, discern the seeds of a mighty ruin. We suggest no fears, we suggest no comfort. We drop the pen as we took it up with the impression that whatever fate may be reserved for this towering seat of civilisation, it will be in accordance with the laws of that omnipotent being who orders all things in their due season, and for the inscrutable purposes of Divine Will.

THE NAVY.

COPYRIGHT MATTER.—SHERBORN, 2. Oct. 2.—A court-martial will be held on board Her Majesty's ship "Camperdown" on Friday next, on Mr. James Bascumber, late master of the "Larne," 18 guns, for alleged negligence of duties and incompetency—charges which have been brought against him by captain P. T. Blake, of the "Larne," which was paid off here this day. The weather to-day has been very boisterous, with thunder squalls, and rain. Wind variable, from W. to N.W. strong breezes. Her Majesty's ship "Talbot," capt. Sir Thos. Thompson, sailed the "Albatross" flag at about half-past seven this afternoon, and afterwards sailed for Portsmouth.

CHINA.—A memorial from merchants, manufacturers and others directly or indirectly interested in the trade with China, has been addressed to Sir R. Peel, calling the attention of government to certain considerations arising from the past history of our intercourse with that empire, and affecting the manner in which, on the resumption of power, our future intercourse with it should be regulated.

After showing that if the trade were placed on a firm and satisfactory basis, the results would be most beneficial, especially as regards our linen and cotton exports, the memorialists contend that our commerce with China cannot be conducted on a satisfactory basis so long as the contraband trade in opium is permitted; or indeed, any trade in opium, even though legalized, for the fact may be shown, that in proportion as the traffic in opium has increased, that in British manufactures has declined. They therefore argue that, the prohibition of its cultivation in the dominions of the East India Company, and of its transportation through their territories from India and those provinces in which its produce is not under their control.

In conclusion, the memorialists call attention to the effects of the opium traffic upon all concerned in the production of the drug, and its transmission to China. They say that the destruction in price, and the rambling nature of the trade, have proved ruinous to many; and that though to some few well-known British firms in the East, it has proved a source of large though precarious advantage, yet to British engaged in honourable commerce with China,—to the growers and importers of wool and cotton,—to the manufacturers of this country, and the thousands of operatives in their employ, it is positively prejudicial.

CALCUTTA.

From the Englishman of 24th August.
With reference to your remark the other day that some of the partners in Fergusson, Brothers and Co.'s house were particularly to be lamented because they had taken their private fortunes into the house, which were now to all intents and purposes gone. Mr. Ford of the firm of Eglington, McClus and Co. said at the Meeting yesterday that it would be satisfactory to his principals and no doubt to the Creditors generally to know what was the position of Fergusson, Brothers and Co.'s affairs at the time Messrs. Dickens, Thomas, and Hogg joined the firm. This session of partners took place on the 1st May, 1841, and it was desirable to know that the same were at credit of the partners previous to that date. Mr. W. Fergusson replied that the credits stood thus.

Mr. W. F. Fergusson 10,50,000
and Trust funds 100,000

Repay. 11,50,000
Mr. Colin Campbell 2,10,000
and Trust funds 27,000

Supern. 2,57,000

Mr. H. Leighton 1,95,000

In further explanation and in reply to Mr. Ford, Mr. W. Fergusson stated that the sum paid into the firm by Mr. Robert Thomas was about 160,000 rupees; by Mr. G. Hogg 80,000 rupees; but that Mr. T. Dickens's account exhibits, as on that date, a balance against him of Co.'s Rs. 2,70,150 after taking over all his property and paying the liabilities thereupon. There are, however, the G. Hogg's grants to be brought to his credit, the value of which has not yet been fixed by the firm. It appeared, from what Mr. Fergusson said, that the unfortunate result of shipments to Europe on Mr. Dickens's account, previous to his joining the firm, but not ascertained at the time, had greatly reduced his expected means.

Mr. Ford further asked for an explanation of certain rumours abroad relative to the settlements, of no inconsiderable sums, which were said to have been made on Mrs. Dickens and Mrs. Thomas immediately prior to Messrs. Dickens and Thomas joining the firm. To this, Mr. Fergusson's answer was, that Mr. Dickens did make a settlement on Mrs. Dickens previous to joining the firm, but he included in it only the proceeds of his household furniture, about 20,000 Rs., and some property which the firm would not take over from being of little or no value; all beyond that was merely an engagement to make good a certain amount when he could.

Mr. Thomas having promised to make a settlement on Mrs. Thomas previous to marriage but which was omitted to be done, subsequently did so on his household property to trustees, expressly stating at the time that if circumstances occurred to render it liable to be questioned, it could not be supported, and the assignment is accordingly given up.

Finally, Mr. Ford enquired when the interest of M. James Fergusson in the firm of F. B. and Co. ceased, and if the firm was solvent at the time he withdrew?

Mr. W. Fergusson replied that Mr. James Fergusson's interest in the firm ceased on 30th April, 1839, though he was not advertised out until 30th April, 1841. He has a balance of four lakhs in the firm uncovered, and Mr. F. stated unhesitatingly that the firm was perfectly solvent when he retired.

Mr. W. Fergusson in concluding the explanation, added that in addition to the sums at credit of the old partners of F. B. and Co. there is an undivided reserve of Rs. 1,50,000, which they were bound to make up to Rs. 1,00,000 after a careful examination of F. B. and Co.'s accounts, having been agreed on by the new partners when they joined, at the amount of F. B. and Co.'s doubtful debts.

We have given as full a report of the meeting held yesterday as our recollection enabled us to carry away, from whence the public will see that the affairs of the firm are to be dealt under a trust.

CALCUTTA.

Messrs Fergusson, Brothers & Co.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Fergusson, Brothers and Co. was held yesterday pursuant to notice. Major H. B. Henderson, having been called to the chair, read the Advertisement calling the meeting, and entered upon an exposition of the affairs of the firm, which our readers will have ascertained by reference to the following document, which was read from the chair. It is unnecessary to say, that the lists and statements referred to fully corroborated the substantial part of the document.

From List No. 1. It will appear that we owe on accounts current in this country ... 1,04,000
Ditto to parties in Europe ... 1,34,000
And to connections and relations of Messrs. of the Firm ... 10,00,000

Making a total of ... 12,48,000

Not covered by securities.
Statement No. 2. shows the amounts lent to us by individuals covered by securities, and leaving an estimate of surplus after realization of ... 1,27,000

No. 3. is a Statement of amounts lent to us by and through the Union Bank covered by securities leaving an estimated surplus of ... 6,00,000

No. 4. is a general Statement of assets including the estimated surplus shown in Nos. 2 and 3, and amounting to Co.'s Rs. 29 of 000 to meet the Co.'s Rs. 18,40,000 in List No. 1 and our Commercial debts.

No. 5. is an estimate of the position of our property with Briggs, Thurburn & Co. made out as correctly as is in our power in the absence of any accounts from them excepting of closed transactions and with no memorandum of dependencies to credit. From this it would appear that had all the bills been paid we should not have owed them, when our property was realized, more than Rs. 1,50,000 subject to a further reduction from a favorable realization of four assignments including 344 chests of 13,000 manils of Indigo, some of which would be sold before October.

There would on the other hand have to be added our two thirds share of loss on their advances of assignments to us, and the value of such goods here as have not been pro forma remitted.

The balances against us with our other agents will we hope be small, as we have made considerable shipments of Indigo to Messrs. Magnise Jardine and Co. and Hottinguer and Co.

Though in our present position the value of some of our assets must be liable to deterioration, it will be seen that we have about Rs. 1,50,000 to meet claims of Co.'s Rs. 18,40,000 due to individuals, our liabilities on returned bills, and what may appear ultimately due to our agents in Europe.

Mr. George James Gordon, the Secretary to the Union Bank, then pronounced the following Resolution. Proposed by Mr. G. J. Gordon, seconded by Mr. Beckwith—That in pursuance of the recommendation of the parties whose proceedings at a meeting held on the 20th instant have been published, the affairs of the estate be wound up by the partners as their trustees.

In support of his proposal Mr. Gordon pointed out the advantages to the creditors resulting from the practice of winding up affairs under a trust deed in preference to throwing them into the Insolvent Court. He instanced the case of Richards, Mackintosh and Co., whose estate had paid, through the exertions of Mr. Brown Roberts and another trustee, a much larger percentage than could possibly have been realized by any assignees. Mr. Beckwith, in support of the resolution, cited the case of Shotton and Co. of Bombay, the closing of whose affairs under a deed of trust had been committed to himself. In that case the creditors were well satisfied with the results.

Mr. Burton denied that assets always expedited the settlement of affairs, and quoted the case of McClintock and Co., which remained unsettled for several years, five of which one of the partners passed in a jail. He thought, moreover, that it would be better for the partners, were the Insolvent Court to be resorted to, as their minds would be more quickly freed from anxieties. He felt it would not be the wish of a sensible creditor needlessly to tax their time and energies. The motion of Mr. Gordon being put from the chair, was carried without a dissenting voice.

It was then proposed that Mr. B. Campbell, Mr. Mackintosh and Mr. Richards be appointed the trustees to wind up the estate. Mr. H. Wollaston (firm of Hamilton and Co.) thought that these parties being in business themselves, would scarcely have sufficient time to do justice to the creditors, and he therefore proposed the addition of Mr.

Hampton, the Secretary to the Committee of the Agra Bank, and representative of Briggs, Thurnburn and Co., the largest creditors. He considered that the fact of Mr. H. representing so heavy a stake furnished an assurance that the interests of the general body of creditors would be regarded. Mr. G. J. Gordon, on the latter point, referred to recent proceedings in the Insolvent Court, when it was held (in the case of Beaby and Boyd and Co.) that a large interest in the affairs of a concern was not always a guarantee for the efficient management and rapid closing of an estate. Mr. Turton explained to Mr. Gordon the grounds of that sentiment—Beaby was a hostile creditor. Much discussion ensued, in which Mr. Wollaston and Mr. Remfry of the same firm took active parts, and the latter gentleman proposed an amendment upon the resolution that ultimately withdrew it.

Mr. Ford asked for an explanation upon some parts adverted to in the Englishman of Monday. For the explanation given we refer the reader to our editorial column.

Mr. Turton proposed the third (following) resolution, prefacing it with some remarks upon the general conduct of the members of the firm, highly eulogizing them as Merchants and liberal members of Society, and expressing a hearty sympathy in their present misfortune. Mr. Turton's sentiments appeared to meet with general concurrence.

Proposed by Mr. Turton and seconded by Mr. Beckwith,—That this meeting having entire confidence in the partners of the House, request the Trustees to make such reasonable arrangements with the partners or such of them as may be willing to act, for their assistance in winding up the affairs.

Mr. Remfry next suggested that the duration of the trust, should be fixed at two years, but it was contended on the other hand that it was impossible to fix a limit in such cases. If, at the end of two years, the estate should be unclosed and any party chose to proceed against the partners all the intervening time would have been lost. Mr. Turton then submitted the following resolution:—

Proposed by Mr. Turton and seconded by Mr. Lane,—That Messrs. Waddington and Stander be instructed to prepare the Trust Deed under the foregoing Resolutions with all the usual covenants and all practicable despatch.

Prefacing the motion with some observations, Mr. Turton next proposed (and the proposal was carried nem. con.)

That the separate estates of the partners be also conveyed and assigned for the payment of their separate debts to the same Trustees as are now appointed for the joint property.

The business of the meeting here terminated. The Chairman then rose and speaking in the same strain regarding the partners as Mr. Turton had done, stated that he, as Secretary to the Oriental Insurance Company, secured the funds of that institution by paying the whole into the Bank. Thanks were then voted to Major Henderson for his conduct in the chair, and the meeting dispersed.

MESSRS. BRIGGS, THURBURN, & Co.

A marked sensation was produced in the city by the intelligence that the highly respectable firm of Briggs, Thurnburn, & Co. had suspended their payments. The immediate cause of this unfortunate event is understood to be the continued absence of returns from Calcutta for advances made upon consignments, and of remittances to meet draughts upon the house. Messrs Briggs, Thurnburn, & Co. were the agents of the Agra Bank, and it will be satisfactory to the parties holding the bills of that bank to know that the funds and agency have been transferred to Messrs Coats & Co. We further learn that the interests of Messrs Briggs & Co., of Alexandria, are unaffected by this event.

A meeting of the creditors of the firm was held on the 28th June, when a statement was furnished, from which we collect that Messrs Briggs, Thurnburn, & Co. are under acceptances, on open account, to the amount of 111,040l. 18s. 3d. for their correspondents in Calcutta, and 36,993l. 16s. 7d. for correspondents in China—bills due at different periods, from the month of June to the end of the present year. That the entire amount of their engagements, exclusive of these bills, is 94,423l. 13s. 6d., and their claims upon the house in Calcutta, after deducting the unpaid bills, 294,000., to which, for the purposes of a final adjustment, may be added the other assets of the concern. Of the 94,423l. 13s. 6d., the more immediate engagements of the firm, we believe that at least 80,000l. are advances recently made to Messrs Briggs, Thurnburn, & Co. by private friends. The meeting having heard a statement of affairs, and understanding that Mr. Jenkins, one of the partners, is prepared to proceed to Calcutta as soon as the concerns of the firm are put in course of liquidation, with a view to secure the interests of the creditors in regard to the large balance owing to the firm; it was resolved, that the holders of bills in returning them to India and China should give a discretion to their correspondents, in case the drawers are not prepared to retire them on their arrival out, to concur with other parties, who have claims, in such plan as may be found most beneficial and calculated to promote the interest of all parties, and to avoid the sacrifice of property. It was further unanimously agreed, that Messrs Briggs, Thurnburn & Co. shall be permitted to wind up their affairs under trustees, who are to be directed to afford time and assistance to the corresponding house in India, should such accommodation be required.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Manila, 14th Sept. 1842.

Sir,—In noticing in your paper of the 20th Aug. the accident which befel the "Ann" Capt. Macalpin in the Strait of Basuelan you say that, "the Spanish Governor refused her assistance to get to Manila where she could repair the injuries she might have received &c."

Having good reason, to believe that such was not the case, but on the contrary that Capt. Macalpin actually refused the assistance tendered him, I conceive it my duty to give you my authority, and to lay before you a translation of an official communication addressed to me by the Governor General detailing the circumstances alluded to.

As the statement published by you may lead to an erroneous impression, I feel happy in being able to state of my own knowledge, that the Spanish authorities throughout the Philippines have always shewn the greatest readiness, promptitude, and humanity in rendering assistance to vessels in distress, and in giving succour to the shipwrecked and distressed seamen which so frequently arrive on these coasts; and of this the events of the last few months alone afford ample testimony, independent of the documentary proofs I have in my possession.

I remain, Dear Sir,

Yours very respectfully.

ROBERT DIGGLES.

TRANSLATION.

Superior Government and Capitanía General of the Philippines.

Sir,—The Governor of Zamboanga writes me under date 22d June as follows.

"Most Excellent Sir,—On the night of the 13th instant, the English Bark "Ann" Capt. Macalpin bound from China to London struck on the S. W. of the Island Sta. Cruz being laden, according to the Captain's Statement with Tea and Silk to the value of $100,000. The Captain of this Division assisted them with a falua (a large boat), and two whalers, who were anchored in these roads, did the same with their boats. They got her off on the 5th to enable her to come into this port, when they found she had sustained much damage, and was making 13 a 14 inches water per hour. I offered the Captain to secure his cargo on shore, and the barque in the Caldera, and also offered him a small craft and money to go to Manila and procure the necessary materials to complete her repairs, all of which he declined; but asked for 20 men from this place to work at the pumps and to prosecute his voyage. I afforded him the men whilst here, but not to go on the voyage, owing to the damaged condition of the vessel which threatened to founder; nevertheless, the Capt. of the "Ann" proceeded on his voyage to Batavia accompanied by the two whalers."

"The above particulars are to be found in documents deposited with me, and to which the Captain has given his testimony, and which I communicate to your Excellency for your information and government."

• Date and name of the Whalers not given.

The which, in the absence of any English Consul in Manila, I have transferred to you that you may act thereon and take such steps as you may deem expedient.

Signed, MARCELINO ORRA,
Gov.-Genl. of the Philippines.

To ROBERT DIGGLES, Esq.
Manila, 26th August, 1842.

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, 8th Sept.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SINGAPORE FREE PRESS.

Sir,—I beg to give you a short account of the loss of the ship Henry Davidson, of London, of 600 Tons burden, with Coiton from Bombay and bound to China, lately under my command. We left Singapore Roads on Friday, the 2nd instant at noon, and proceeded with light baffling winds to the Eastward. From 3 p. m. till midnight tacked frequently sounding regularly. At midnight we made Batiam Point to hear South 6 or 7 miles and soundings to agree, wind still at East—from midnight too hazy to see the land but wind being directly contrary and the distance of Pedra Branca so great (20 miles or more no apprehensions were felt, when at 2 A. M. a loud rippling was heard at N. E. The anchor was ready and the lead hove; got ground at 17 fathoms and immediately the ship drove with a rate of 7 or 8 miles per hour (dead against the light wind) on a shelf of Rocks; struck and in 10 minutes had 13 feet water in the well and in half an hour the upper deck was under water; at this time we let go an anchor to keep her on the reef as the tide was still making and having got into the boats left the ship at 4 A. M. (then the water over the gangways) and took shelter in the Brig James anchored close to, and which with another vessel bound through the Straits of Rhio had been thus far drifted out of their supposed situation near 20 miles in two or three hours—proving that our mistake was caused by an unusual current and that 2 other vessels, both coasters and well-acquainted were deceived as well as ourselves. We returned after daylight and succeeded, in saving some of the people's clothes &c. as also some of the sails which we unbent from aloft, but while thus engaged the ship swung off the reef and giving a heavy plunge went down head foremost and in so doing upset one boat full of sails and I am sorry to add that when we mustered afterwards, 2 men, John Robertson and John Smith seamen, both of London, were missing and seen no more. I have only to add that all hands deserve great praise for their cool, steady conduct throughout, and I would take this opportunity of informing the Captains of ships in Harbour especially those bound home that there are now five boys and the chief officer disengaged, who would be very glad to proceed home on moderate terms and who can all have the very highest character.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

W. B. MACDONNELL,

Late commander ship Henry Davidson.

Singapore, London Hotel, Sept. 6, 1842.

The shipping report of Monday last announced the arrival of the Regalad from Borneo, and we are happy to have it in our power to state that she brought to this port TWENTY THREE LASCARS, of whom twenty belonged to the Viscount Melbourne, and three to the Sultana.—the disasters that befell both of which vessels have been given in detail in former numbers of this paper. It is to the indefatigable exertions of Mr. Brooke that these men owe their restoration to their country and their friends. That gentleman had proceeded to Borneo Proper, where his character had already made the most favourable impression; and it was not long before he established himself on a footing of the most cordial understanding with the native authorities, which he immediately availed himself of to procure the liberation of the unfortunate Lascars. Those that belonged to the Melbourne were given up to his representations by the Borneo Chief, without fee or reward; but the three of the Sultana's ship's company he had to procure the liberation of by purchase, paying a ransom of twenty five dollars for each individual. These three poor fellows had been bought and sold several times over, have first become property at Marudu or Maluda Bay, and been sold and resold like merchandise until they found themselves in Borneo Proper. Those of the Melbourne were picked up at a place called Maru on the coast, a short distance to the westward of Tungong Bawau and as nothing had been heard of these men since the disaster of the vessel in February last it is impossible to say what might eventually have been their fate, had it not been for the well-timed and generous aid of Mr. Brooke, one of whose principal objects in visiting Borneo Proper, was to effect their liberation.—Idid.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 1st Oct., 1842.

Through the kindness of a friend we were enabled last Saturday morning, to give the news, received by express, of the arrival at Hongkong of the Auckland Steamer, on her way to Suez, with Major Malcolm, Secretary of Legation, who takes home the treaty of peace for Her Majesty's ratification. We believe, we were the first on that occasion who apprized our readers of that important event, but we wanted time, and, partially, information to give fuller particulars. It is now commonly reported in the letters that have been received from the north, that the Emperor has addressed an autograph letter to Sir Henry Pottinger, in which he fully accedes to the terms of the treaty, and expresses his willingness to exchange ratifications, whenever that of the Queen of England arrives here. We publish below the substance of an Imperial Edict, alluding to the treaty of peace, and ordering English prisoners as well as Chinese traitors that may have been in the custody on account of dealing with the English, to be set at liberty forthwith and we learn moreover that at the time of the Auckland coming away (15th September) four of the six millions of dollars had been paid. The remainder, it was said, we know not whether on good authority, was to be paid at Woosung, and the fleet was on the day the steamer left, also to lift anchor and drop down the river to Woosung. We suppose Sir Henry Pottinger would hardly leave Nanking without seeing the first of the conditions of the treaty fulfilled to the letter. H. M. Brig Cho has, we hear, arrived at Hongkong the day before yesterday, and was immediately to proceed to Calcutta with, we believe, a portion of the treasure, the bulk of which is to be sent forthwith so England in H. M. S. Blonde, Herald, Columbine, and Modeste; the Blonde's portion being three millions of dollars; The Auckland steamer left Hongkong for Singapore, Ceylon, and Suez on the 24th, and H. M. S. Nimrod, Captain Glaess, for Calcutta with despatches on the 26th.

It is commonly reported that Sir William Parker and Sir Hugh Gough will not leave the north before the month of December, and that Sir Henry Pottinger will visit, in a steamer, accompanied, as we hear said, but without being willing to vouch for the truth of it, by two imperial commissioners, the different places that are to be thrown open to British commerce, and settle whatever may be necessary for the future intercourse between the two nations there. The Calliope has, we understand, been sent with the Nemesis steamer to the island of Formosa there to receive the crews of the two shipwrecked vessels the Nerubuda and Anna, that have since been detained there as prisoners, and is expected every moment to arrive at Hongkong. A very great proportion of the force will for the present, we believe, remain in the north, and probably make Chusan their head-quarters.

No official notice has been issued to British subjects of the imperial assent to the treaty; but we have every reason to believe what we have stated above concerning it to be true, and we believe that most of the merchants here contemplate leaving for Canton, there to transact the season's business, very shortly. A portion will likewise go to Hongkong, where there can be no doubt the quantity of illicit trade, as far as the Chinese are concerned, will be very considerable. Hitherto the perfect freedom the opium trade enjoyed at Whampoa has been much in the way of the success of Hongkong, but we hear that lately not only the drug, but quantities of British manufactures have been stored there, and that the Chinese take them thence in their smuggling boats. As soon as the arrangements for a trade in Amoy, Fuh chow foo, Ningpo, and Shanghae shall have been made, we doubt not to see many English merchant ships repairing thither, and that then China will really be what an author called his book some years back, "China Opened."

By the Ariel arrived from Calcutta last September, and Singapore 15th, we have received papers from the former to the 24th August, and the latter 14th September. The news from Afghanistan is of an undecided nature, although they are up to the 24th July, as those previously received, and the belief that the evacuation of the country was contemplated was gaining ground daily. Negotiations for the liberation of the prisoners continued, but without, apparently, any result. An officer who on parole had visited the Camp at Jellalabad, brought with him letters from which it appears that the female prisoners, and indeed all of them, were very well treated; but we understand that the very latest accounts from Calcutta brought by the Ariel, state the ladies to have been subjected to most infamous treatment; from all we have however previously heard of the conduct of the Affghans, we should be inclined to disbelieve such rumours. General Monteath's brigade was employed in demolishing the fortresses, in the country round Jellalabad. The failure of Messrs FRANKOVY BROTHERS & Co. is the most important commercial event. We refer our readers to our extracts from the Englishman on this subject.

The following is translation of an imperial Edict published by the Canton authorities, concerning the liberation of English captives, and of such Chinese as may be detained on account of their dealings with the English, as agreed on by one of the stipulations of the treaty of peace.

"The Minister of justice of the province of Kwangtung," has received from the governor of the two provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsee the imperial edict appointing the three Commissioners, E. Shee, and Niong, to treat with the English; by the mediation of these three great mandarins the peace has been concluded, and they have presented to the Emperor the different provisions of the treaty entered into.

"In one of these provisions the English demand that their countrymen, and Chinese traitors who have had dealings with them, be liberated. The three great officers have reported this to the Emperor, who has acceded to this demand of the English.

"And in consequence, the Governor of Kwangtung and Kwangsee, in obedience to the Imperial Edict orders all authorities, in case they should have detained prisoners any English officers, and Chinese traitors that have had dealings with them, since the beginning of the war up to the present moment, to set them at liberty forthwith.

"We, together with the receiver general of the province, in virtue of this edict, with which we fully concur, order all authorities to act according to it.

22nd year of Taonkwang, 8th moon,
18th day (22nd September).

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette.

SELECTIONS.

FROM THE Peking GAZETTE.

THE REVENUE IN CHE-KANG.—Lew-yun-o the Lieut. Governor of Che-keang, lay a long and laboured memorial before the Court, setting forth the impossibility of collecting the usual revenue. The failure of the income he attributes to the three following causes, 1st. The frequent inundations to which the Province has been subject, 2nd. The disturbance into which the Province has been thrown by the invasions of the barbarians, and consequently in the third place, the fright and alarm of the inhabitants, vast numbers of whom fled and left their fields in an uncultivated state. He proposes that the head Collector of the Provincial Customs be deputed to exhort the people to dismiss their fears and quietly to resume their accustomed avocations.

ROBBERIES.—The Lieut. Governor of Kweichow Province reports during robberies, accompanied by violence and murder, in three different districts of the Province. As usual he recommends the disgrace of the officers in charge of the said districts for not keeping up better guard. Kwei-chow is the smallest of the Provinces in the Empire and situated in the south west.

FRESH PATRIOTISM IN CHE-KANG.—Newkeen, the Governor of Che-keang, reports to the court that owing to the continued harassing of the "rebellious barbarians" the salt merchants of the province have come forward and advanced five hundred thousand taels (about seven hundred thousand dollars) to enable the army to prolong the war, and if possible expel the invaders. His Majesty is delighted with such patriotic manifestations, and orders the names of all the said patriots to be laid before him that he may award them imperial favours.

YIHSAN AND COLLEAGUES.—The Board of punishment have decided against Yihsan, the rebel quelling general, Ke-king the Governor and Leang the Lieut. Governor of Canton province for false representations concerning events at the Bogue and Canton, and all three of them are disgraced by imperial order, but retained in office to retrieve their honour.

ADMIRAL FOR FOKKEN.—The Governor of Fokken memorializes the Court on the importance of an admiral of tried courage being appointed to the Fokken station. The Emperor orders one of the Admirals in Che-keang to repair to Fokken and assume the duties of the station.

TEEN-TSIN.—Anxiety is manifested with regard to having Teen-tsin in a proper state of defence, and a large number of additional high officers have been sent there to aid in the heavy military duties of the station.

ROBBERIES.—A large memorial is laid before the Emperor by Yang-ying-shan, one of the Censor, relative to extensive robberies accompanied by murders which have recently been committed in Shen shen province, all of which calamities are attributed to the criminal negligence of the various officers in charge of the suffering districts.

BIRTH DAY PRESENTS.—Among the great number and variety of articles which the Emperor presented to Cha-pang-teen on the anniversary of his 60th birth day, which we noticed a week or two ago, the Gazette records the following: two happy longevity cards written by his Imperial Majesty's own hand, one image of Buddha of illimitable immortality, one rose-wood truncheon adorned with gems, one string of court beads of precious stones, two pieces of various ornaments of pearls, porcelain and brass; two court dresses imperially adorned, and eight pieces, large and small, of magnificent silks. The above were sent in state to the aged minister by the hands of the high military officers of the court.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHEAST.

IN THE YANG-TSUI-KIANG, CHUSAN, CHINWAN, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 79, capt. Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

"Blonde, 43, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief; capt. T. Bourchier, C. B.

"Thalia, 44, Capt. Hope.

"Endymion, 44, the honble F. W. Grey.

"Calliope, 28, A. L. Kuper, C. B.

"North Star, 26, Sir J. E. Home, Bart.

"Herald, 26, J. Nias, C. B.

"Dido, 20, the honble H. Koppell.

"Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.

"Modeste, 18, Watson.

"Harlequin, 19, the honble F. Hastings.

"Columbine, 16, Morehead.

"Chilliers, 16, Halsted.

"Hazard, 16, Bell.

"Wanderer, 16, Seymour.

"Serpent, 16, Nevill.

"Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Maitland.

"Royalist, 10, Cheswood.

"Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

"Starling, 4, comr. Kellott.

"Plover, 6, Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

"Belleville, capt. Kingcomb.

"Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.

"Hamphire, comr. Cole.

"Jupiter, comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

"Rattlesnake, comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

"Alligator, comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

STATIONERS.

H. C. Queen, comr. W. Warden.

"Nemesis, comr. Powell.

"Plover, comr. W. H. Hall, R. N.

"Plover, comr. Tudor, R. N.

"Ariadne, comr. Roberts, I. N.

"Melusina, comr. Hewett, I. N.

"Phlegathon, comr. McCleverty, R. N.

"Proserpine, comr. Hough, A. N.

H.M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.

"Driver, comr. Farmer.

AT ANKOW.

M.H.S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chas. C. B. an ion commanding officer.

"Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)

"Chameleon, 10, lieutenant Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

"Blenheim, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, Sir T. Cochrane, C. B., capt. Sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.

"Agincourt, 74, Johnson.

"Wolverine, 16, Pearson.

"Crux, 10, Wood.

"Young Hebe, 4, Wood.

H.C. St. Hooghy, comr. comr. Ross, Commodore Pepper, I. N.

September.

ARRIVED

16.	(B.)	Black Nymph , Hall, Singapore.
16.	"	Nigral Faranga , Rees, Chusan.
16.	"	Oxyrrh. Kik. , Liverpool.
17.	"	Mary , Johnson, Singapore.
17.	"	Palestine , McLean, Liverpool.
21.	"	John Calvin , Kerg, Bombay.
21.	"	Hebrides , Melville, do.
24.	(Pp.)	Ghana , Paland, Manila.
26.	(Haut.)	Kameralda , Tollars, Hamburg & Sing.
26.	(B.)	Drongon , Johnson, Bombay.
27.	"	Arctid , Burt, Calcutta, 1st September.
27.	"	George Armstrong , Colombo, ———.
27.	"	Hutchinsonshire , McGregor, Madras.
27.	"	Fort William , Hogg, Bombay.
28.	"	Fers , Fowler, Celestus and Singapore.
28.	"	John M. G. , Whittycomb, Bombay.
28.	"	Jollans , Chapman, do.

September,

SAILED

84 H. M. S. Nimrod, Comr. Glass, Calcutta.
87, (B.) Regina, P. nic, Singapore and do.
88: " Mermoid, Gill, do. do.
89, D. R. S. Bowen, Comr. Long, Mazathau.
90, (B.) Chiss, Robertson, Bombay.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Dorcas, Dracen, Elizabeth, Mary Ann Ed's, Claudius, Louis, Jack son, Bulwer, George Wallo, Lord Louth's, Adelaide, Archibald, Port-land Hall, Ald, Madras, Equis-tris, Cravie, Brita Marina, John O'Gaunt, W'ile's the Wisp, Liver-pool, F'reg, Foam, Ore-hy, Chris-topher Rawson, Hintonson, Alec-tering, Pindars Ann Jane, Chil-ders, Edward Bountead, James Mathews.

From Bombay.—Isa. Davis, Coran, Woodman, Borden, John Moor, Nelson, John Colvin, Gilbert Henderson, Charles, Victoria.

From Calcutta, — Don. Clawn. Victory. Framjer
Cowmjer, Coringa Packet, Bengal Packet Ariel, Hero.

From Singapore.—Sarah Bedford, Waterloo, Ontario.

Latest Darns.

ENGLAND, 6th July.	SINGAPORE 15th Sept.
UNITED STATES, June 15.	MANILA, 17th Sept.
CALCUTTA, 1st Sept.	AMoy.
BOMBAY, 9th August.	CHUAN.
YOKO, 14th August.	NANKING, 15th Sept.

Elvira,	Walker,	Dirom and Co.
Earl Balcarras,	1118 Baker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh,	Paterson,	"
Fay, Nobarruck	Moore,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Frans, Cowasjee	Edwards,	Macvicar and Co.
* Frances Burn,	Ellington,	Turner and Co.
* Fred Huth,	Toby,	Dirom and Co.
Fleur,	McDonald,	Jardine M. & Co.
Fort William,	Hogg,	Macvicar & Co.
Ganges,	Walker,	Turner and Co.
G. A. Armstrong,	—	Landsay and Co.
Gemini,	Mardon,	"
G. Gieslaw,	Morris,	Dirom and Co.
* Gracian,	Watt,	"
* Guineas,	Willoughby,	"
* Harle of Malacca,	Jackson,	"
Hercy,	Easterly,	"
Hindoo,	Whettem,	"
Hindoo,	Candlish,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Hindoo,	Fowler,	"
Hiro,	378 Woodbury,	G. Nye jr.
* Hygiea,	Cockain,	Macvicar & Co.
Hupe,	Brown,	"
* Helen Steward,	708 Bowen,	Dent and Co.
* Hindustan,	Bayne,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Holen,	Murillie,	"
Hobbs,	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isa Robertson,	Kinton,	Ferguson, L. and Co.
Isaiah Thompson,	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Isabella,	Balls,	"
Island Queen,	Stewart,	"
Interpel,	Knox,	Jardine M. & Co.
John Calvin,	Whitcomb,	H. Rustomjee,
John Moore,	Chapman,	D. & V. Rustomjee & Co.
Juliana,	Scott,	Europe & Co.
Kirkman Finlay,	Avree,	Dent and Co.
Low J. Family,	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
Liberland,	Lawrence,	Turpet and Co.
* Lady Clarke,	Worell,	Landsay & Co.
* L. and E. Don,	Appule,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Main,	Layton,	Dent and Co.
M. S. E. Phinaston,	Hart,	H. H. Hart.
Manly,	—	W. Scott.
Mercury,	Hu tun,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mary Anne,	Rowe,	"
Mail du,	H. avenside,	"
M. J. C. Webster,	Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
Madura,	K. k,	"
Maizey,	Servy,	Jardine M. and Co.
Maizey,	Harclay,	"
Maizey,	Trick,	Landsay and Co.
Maizey,	288 M. Lean,	"
Maizey,	Cuthay,	Holliday Wier & Co.
Maizey,	John,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Maizey,	Rees,	"
Maizey,	Kahy,	A. & D. Furdorjee,
Maizey,	Hyd,	H. Phing,
Maizey,	—	C. H. Hutt,
Maizey,	Newlands,	Riba-T and Co.
Maizey,	M. v. n. n.	H. H. H. H. Brothers.
Maizey,	Bell,	"
Maizey,	M. f. n. n.	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Maizey,	Grayan,	"
Maizey,	Luce,	"
Maizey,	Rowan,	"
Maizey,	Cass,	Dirom and Co.
Maizey,	Thompson,	F. & B. B. n. n. & Co.
Maizey,	Jones,	Russell and Co.
Maizey,	G. H. n.	J. A. Du ran jr.
Maizey,	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Maizey,	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Maizey,	Steward,	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commander Kearney.
Akbar,	—	Dumaresq Russell & Co.
Levant,	—	Pauk,	J. D. Beard & C.
Ann Mar Kim,	—	Yasper,	W. A. Lawrence.
Compass,	—	Hav,	"
Probas,	—	Summer,	W. Moore & C.
Gyftion,	—	Goosner,	I. M. Bull.
Panther,	—	Martin,	J. M. Bull.
Chickadee,	—	Harlow,	Olyphant and Co.
Zephyr,	—	Putnam,	"
Vulpineas,	—	Lockwood,	"
Zephyr,	—	Johnson,	Maclean & Co.
		Pratt,	"
Marin,	—	Cuenca,	A. Cuenca.
Ramiro,	—	Escher,	L. Marques.
Quana,	—	Salido,	J. Salido.

Margaretha,	1	1	Jardine M. & Co.
Danish Oak,	1	1	Russell & Co.
Emeralda	1	1	Wetmore & Co.

• At Wharton.

Printed and published by EDUARD MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Pado Monts.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Arco.	301	Kellock.	Dent and Co.
Arcti.	—	Burt.	"
Arctothoa.	—	Christians.	C. F. Aron.
Arcadia.	512	J. Frey.	D & M. Ruston-Jones & Co.
Arcturion.	451	Cook.	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine.	—	Hill.	"
Anna Elias.	256	Butcher.	Holiday Wise & Co.
Asiatic.	—	Harlow.	Jardine M. & Co.
Anna Maria.	—	West.	"
Anne Mary.	—	Richman.	"
Bagby Castle.	—	Baxter.	"
Bathamphire.	—	McGregor.	"
Bulton.	—	Robinson.	Dent & Co.
Black Nymph.	—	Hall.	"
Burehalus.	—	Small.	Lindsay & Co.
Caledonia.	—	Lewson.	Dixon and Co.
Columbine.	—	Vijor.	H. Pehna.
Cordis.	—	Murth.	D & M. Ruston-Jones & Co.
Cordis Family.	—	Mathis.	"
Corinna Fackel.	—	Conlon.	"
Caled.	—	Carting.	Jardine M. & Co.
Carrigan.	—	Man.	C. Fearon.
Cassiope.	308	Chew.	Jamieson How & Co.
Charles Fortis.	90	Williams.	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Charlotte.	—	Wilkinson.	"
Drachas.	—	Johnson.	D & M. Ruston-Jones & Co.
Dracopart.	—	Broadfoot.	Turner and Co.
Dread Clark.	—	Mills.	"
Diadem.	—	Harland.	American & Co.
Elora.	—	Garnbui.	"
Elora.	—	Brewer.	Dent and Co.
Emma Bononia.	—	Kettellall.	Bentham & Co.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 55.] Macao, Saturday, 15th October, 1842.

[No. 367.]

THE SPANISH.

BRIGHTINE "GITANA," of 260 tons.

JOHN SMITH will put up for sale by Public Auction, some time this month, (if not previously disposed by private contract) that fine and fast sailing, new, (only a few months old) Brigantine "Gitana"; she is remarkably well found in stores, her inventory may be seen on application; further particulars will be published hereafter.

Macao, 7th October, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DE VITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DIAGERS, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUDGROD, who submitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842. Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATRAGON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to CAMELLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Macao, and in that of SUCHANAM & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or for finishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STRAITS MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.
Macao, 22nd June, 1841. W. W. DALE

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.
Macao, 10th August, 1842.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rate of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coole, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to C. FEARON, —Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq. —Hongkong. or Mr. A. GRANDPRE. —Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE "ROB ROY" captain ROBERT BOYD, will leave for the above ports positively on the 31st inst., for freight of Treasure only. Apply to HENRY PYBUS.

Macao, 10th Oct., 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE A I Clipper Barque SALOPIAN, captain BELZ, will be despatched for the above ports on the 17th instant. For freight apply to C. FEARON.

Macao, 11th Oct., 1842.

FOR SALE OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMIRO," captain A. ESCOBAR, one of the best vessels built in Manila; as she is so well known in China it is presumed no further description is required. Apply to

Macao, 30th September 1842.

L. MARQUES.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRAM-JER COWAR," 950 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE, PENANG & CALCUTTA

THE A I ship "MADURA," captain MYLNE, will sail for the above Ports on the 15th inst. This vessel has good accommodations for passengers, and carries a surgeon. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British built ship "THETIS," J. CARR Commander, lying in the Typa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 14th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY

PART OF THE WORLD

THE fast sailing British Barque "CORINGA PACKET," of 236 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22nd September, 1842.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE Bark Mount STEWART ELPHINSTONE, Captain LAWTON, 387 Tons, will leave for Bombay with all despatch. For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A I ship ISABELLA, Capt. HARRIS, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG AND SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE, Capt. BERD, For freight or passage apply to

JOHN BURD.

At Hongkong.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER

TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CANARU," A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. For Register 355 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

JAMIESON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE fine ship ST. LAWRENCE, capt. NEWLANDS, A. I., is at Whampoa, and is offered for freight or charter to any Port.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR BOMBAY.

THE fast sailing A. I. ship WILLIAM SHARPLES, capt. JONES, will be despatched for the above Port on or before 25th inst., and receive freight.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "ADONDA," A. I. at Lloyd's, W. JEFFRAY commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckman tank timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bends, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Bark PANDORA (300 Tons), Capt. COTHAY. Apply to

HOLLIDAY WISE & Co.

Macao, 6th August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October for freight apply to MULLINS & DUNN, Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE tank built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Trunk Built Ship "HARBOUR MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. Pro. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Europe Rope from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3a. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to Macao, Oct. 6, 1842.

JOAO BARRETTO.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY, PLATE, PLATED WARE, GLASS AND CROCKERY WARE, BOOKS, HORNS, COATS &c. belonging to M. J. LEIGHTON Esq.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE.—BREATHING COPPER AND NAILS.

Apply to J. A. DURRAN, Jr.

Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the "Corringa Packet" a portion of best Moonghy Rice, DRILL, DICCA SOAP. Apply to Macao, 23d September, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MANILA SEGARS 4s., and EUROPE LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to P. DE LA HERAS.
Macao, 22d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE.—from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARRACH and COPPER, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 26th August, 1842.

BUSTERY &c. FOR SALE.

A beautiful selection of Lady's silk and cotton STOCKINGS of the best quality. Gentlemen's cotton SOCKS and STOCKINGS of ditto. Gentlemen's CALICO SHIRTS with LINEN fronts, MERINO SHAWLS and silk UMBRELLAS &c. &c. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, Boy's HATS. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz. and NAILS; apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST LANDED and exposed for sale: a few HAND-OMELY framed ENGRAVINGS:—

RETURN from HAWKING, containing Portraits of Lord Francis Esjort and family after Edwin Landseer, JOHN KNOX, preaching before the Lords of the Congregation, in the Church of St. Andrew, Scotland, after WILKIE, MAID of SARAGOSSA, CRUCIFIXION, by Martin, DUKE of WELLINGTON, in his robes as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, SHIPWRECK off ST. MICHAELS, Lewis SPANISH SKETCHES, BYRON'S DREAM, VENICE, GRACE DARLING and HER FATHER, rescuing the 9 survivors from the wreck of the "Forfarshire" steam packet, and the CORSAIR'S ISLE, a DISTINGUISHED MEMBER of THE HUMANE SOCIETY, QUEEN VICTORIA, &c.
also, in sheets and cases,

MAPS and CHARTS:

War in China, Burman Empire, Canton River, Amoy, Chusan, Chioa; World, Asia, New Zealand, Australia, India, Overland Route to India, Turkey to Burmah, Bible Maps, &c.

and in boxes and stands,

CELESTIAL and TERRESTRIAL GLOBES.

Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 9th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co.'s SHERRY in bottle and HDs, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick HOUSES, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES

FOR SALE.—A RIFLE and a few pairs double and four barreled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodowns of the undernamed Gamboa Fac tory, adjoining the Custom house the following articles, viz:—
Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch, thickens, in gilt frames and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.
An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new Payence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Manipulation SHIRTS in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.
And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Apply to
G. GONZAGA.
Macao, 9th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases, CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do, CLARET 3 do. do, SHERRY, PALE in HDs, SALTZ WATER new, OILMAN'S STORES late imports, BEP in tins; POKE in barrels, COALS 1200 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to
DENT & Co.
Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARS PALE ALB, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 26th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—CHALEAU LA ROSA, in 2 dozen cases. MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior. COGNAC BRANDY. SELTZER WATER and HOCK. HAMBURG PORK and BEEF. RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVASE. Apply to
JOAO BARRETTO.
Macao, 28th October, 1841.

LOTTERY.

MEMRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's. FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS, and GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY. OF 1843, of all Prizes!

[In the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wholesale Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of subscribers, to their General Mofussil Agency for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lotteries from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Sirats, China, &c. it is purposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived therefrom, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund; only for the accommodation of those permanent subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of Money, as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate, or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with, or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]
2,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

MEMRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co.'s FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' and GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty ($80) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843; valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000 Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Covenant and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each ..	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances. 480 Tickets.
Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes; only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early pre-paid postage applications as possible, for chances; at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentations of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co.'s letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

6.—As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

7.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

8.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

9.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s Rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

10.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

11.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s Rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED and FOR SALE at THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE:

The lasting resentment of Miss KSAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. ASOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Esq. price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.

Policies and info pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.

Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.

for 3 months $ 6.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12
For six Months..... $ 7
For three..... $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

HAYTI.

From the New York Courier and Enquirer.

THE GREAT EARTHQUAKE.—The Schr. H. Lawrence, Capt. Wilbur, arrived at New York, on Friday last, from Port au Platte, and brings the following distressing details of the late earthquake. On the evening of the 23d ult. while Capt. Wilbur was in the act of heaving his anchor, there was another severe shock of an earthquake, which, however, did no further damage.

PORTO PLATA, May, 20th 1842.

On the 7th of May the Island of Hayti was visited with an earthquake, which in its destructive effects has proved the severest which we have ever had on record. The weather had been for many days past excessively hot and sultry. The temperature varying from 92 to 98 degrees in the shade, and 110 degrees when exposed to the solar rays. The winds were hot, parching and unrefreshing, and the drought had been for some time past prevailing. In the afternoon of that day, at about half past 5 o'clock, I was standing on the square, which is situated in an elevated part of this town. The sky was uncommonly serene, and the descending sun promised to be bright and glorious in its setting—just then, casting my eyes towards Mount Isabella, which overlooks the town—I perceived a dark vapour ascending and enveloping its base and sides—a rolling, rumbling sound immediately succeeded, and instantaneously came a shock which nearly dashed me to the ground. The level of the square appeared undulating like the waves of the sea—a faint and sickly sensation came over me, and dizziness and difficulty of breathing. The houses rocked to and fro like vessels in a storm. The ground was rent in various parts. Many persons were thrown down by the force of the concussion, others were reeling as in a state of drunkenness. Every moment we expected the earth to open and engulf us. A second shock followed, yet stronger than the former, accompanied by the same appearances, effects and terrors. The church, a strong and massive building, seemed tottering to its fall, the bricks flew from the solid masonry as if from projectiles—wide fissures appeared in the walls and arches, and the whole would have been levelled but for the uncommon strength of the outside buttresses and the lowness of the building. It was affecting to hear the terrific cries and lamentations of the women and children, and instructive to contemplate even then—their lowly prostration to the Divinity—imploping his mercy, aid and succor in their distresses. The second shock must have lasted about 60 seconds. Fortunately for us, our town is almost entirely constructed of wood, which alone accounts for its preservation. The stone buildings suffered materially, and some of the finest were entirely destroyed. From the 7th up to the present date, we have been in a continued state of alarm—upwards of 40 shocks having taken place during that interval, some more or less severe. Processions and prayers are continually on foot to avert, if possible, the Divine displeasure. The men wear serious and solemn looks; the women when not in processions are sitting at the doors of their houses, either in tears or with looks of prayer. Business is not even thought of, each is in our state of agitation.

The fine town of Santiago, about 60 miles distant in the interior, and the centre of our agricultural commerce in this part, has been entirely destroyed. The population consisting of about 6000 souls, of which 590 are buried in the ruins—farther in the interior the towns of Vega and St. Omer have met with similar fates. The city of Cape Haytien, the deposit of all the agricultural products of its fine plain, the capital of the Northern part of the Island, the first city in Hayti for the beauty and solidity of its buildings, and the second only in size and importance, has met with utter destruction, and is one immense mass of crumbling ruins. It is stated that the number who have been crushed to death and who have otherwise fallen victims there to this calamity, amounts to 7000 souls. A gentleman who left immediately after the disaster, informed me that so sudden had been the catastrophe, that hardly three seconds were allowed to escape from the houses. Thousands were buried alive, and no relief at hand. Cries of agony and shrieks would now and then proceed from the buildings and break the solemn stillness of the night. Many dead and putrid bodies were lying in the streets, and nobody to remove them. The air was tainted with the infection, and a pest seemed quickly settling over the city.

21st May.—Since writing the foregoing, further intelligence has reached us from the Cape, which has materially added to the horrors of its former situation. The city being a depot for all the articles imported for the supplies of the interior, an immense quantity of merchandise was generally kept on hand for that purpose. At the period of its dreadful visitation, the supplies were abundant, and the stores crowded with goods. Will it be believed that the cupidity and depravity of human nature should so far overcome the terror inspired by the awfulness of the catastrophe, as to permit men to indulge and riot in a systematic and organized pillage! This is, however, most fearfully true. Hundreds of individuals pouring in from the country commenced upturning the crumbling ruins, and drawing forth from thence all the merchandise and valuables of whatever kind they could lay hold of, despatched the same to their different hiding places. Opposition was for sometime useless, and a summary execution was necessarily resorted to by the authorities to strike a salutary terror. Many of the marauders were shot, and now, to crown the whole with the extremity of horror, a slow fire which had arisen and had been gradually creeping onwards from the time of the catastrophe, spread at once into a general conflagration, consuming what had escaped the former calamity and the sacrilegious hands of pillage. The survivors now in a state of almost positive nudity and starvation, were thus deprived of their remaining hopes, and misery and utter destitution stared them openly in the face. Hundreds had taken refuge on board the ships in the harbor, with the trifling effects which an agonising haste suffered them to lay hold of, together with as many of the maimed and wounded as were thus favored by their good fortune. As far as we have been able to learn, the city of Santo Domingo has fortunately sustained no damage whatever; neither has Port au Prince with any injury to speak of, according to our last accounts. The conduct of the inhabitants of Porto Plata, displayed a noble instance of generous and sympathetic feeling—alike honorable to their hearts as it was meritorious from its utility. An association was formed of the principal inhabitants, and a board of relief established for the conveyance of succor to the distressed, both in Cape Haytien and in Santiago. Provisions were contributed by each for this purpose, according to his means, and a depot was fixed to distribute the same as the exigencies of the case might require, and to those arriving here in a destitute state; many have been thus relieved from the horrors of famine, which would have been the climax to their previous misfortunes and misery. The other towns and villages besides our own and those enumerated above, which have most seriously suffered (so one of which are entirely demolished) are Porto Paix, Gonaves, St. Marc, Mole St. Nicholas, St. Louis du Nord, Port Dauphin, Limbeport Margot, Boyene, La Grande Riviere, Laxavon and Altamira, which together with Porto Plata, Cape Haytien, Santiago, St. Omer and La Vega before mentioned, make in all 17 towns and villages, with loss of lives in nearly all. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the severity of the blow which will be given to commercial interests in general, through all their channels and ramifications—many years will be required to restore matters to their former footing. It will be equally difficult to conjecture at what period the signs of ravages will be removed and the towns and cities regain and approach their former condition. We wait with extreme anxiety to hear the fate of our sister islands, Cuba, Porto Rico and Jamaica. We must conclude that they have each and severally been visited with the same calamity, though perhaps not to the same extent and damage. The direction taken by the Earthquake, which proved the most severe in its effects, was along the Northern and North-eastern part of all the other parts of our Island have experienced the shock, though only in a partial and limited degree.

SIDNEY CROSS, Porto Plata.

GEO. POTTS,

No. 31 Lispenard street, New York.

F. CARUANA,

P. S.—During the Earthquake at Santiago, the inhabitants rushed into the Roman Catholic Church to implore mercy from the most high God, and filled it to overflowing, and when it fell, rivers of blood were seen to pour through the ruins proceeding from the bodies of the poor unfortunate souls crushed within.

GEO. POTTS,

No. 31 Lispenard street, New York.

F. CARUANA.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir,—If you can spare a column of your journal for the insertion of the following account of the "BENJAMIN REACH RESCUE," you will much oblige all the parties interested in the spirited movement which came off on Saturday the 6th instant at 2 P. M. Your notice will in some measure repay the exertion which was used by the commanders and crews in Canton River to gratify the subscribers to a purse made up by the merchants of Canton.

At 12 o'clock the rendezvous flag was hoisted at the main of the "Earl Balcarra," by the kind permission of Captain Baker, as the signal for the boats to assemble; and by 3 o'clock the entries were completed. The course was round two boats with distinguishing flags stationed, one at the East and the other at the West end of the ships in Benjamin Reach; the starting and winning posts being on the far-board beam of the "Earl Balcarra."

First Race—for 6 oared Gigs.
1st prize $20, 2nd $10.

For this race 3 boats entered and started and came in in the following order.

boats.	ships names.
1st Lilly	Jardine,
2d Lambbrick	Jardine,
Mo Mistake	Earl Balcarra,
Bessy	Buckinghamshire,
Good fellow	Charles Forbes,

time 24". 3".

Second Race—For 4 and 5 oared Gigs.
1st prize $20, 2nd $10.

This was a well contested Race, the Boats were manned by Europeans and Lascars.

boats.	ships names.
1st Patrick's Day,	Wild Irish Girl,
2d New Zealander	Grecian,
Pollux	Gemini,
Sea Queen	Gulmar,
Spicy	Syed Khan,
Cadet	Cadet,
Immaculate	Tartar,
Lord Eldon	Lord Eldon,
Snake,	St. Lawrence,
Zebra	Greenlaw,
Caroline	Caroline,
San Slick	Hebrides,

time 23". 45".

The winner had it all his own way, but the officers were well up with the second boat.

Third Race—Large Cutters,
1st prize $20, 2nd $10.

A spirited contest took place between the first and second boats, and was won by only half a length—All the boats were pulled by Lascars.

boats.	ships names.
1st Prince of Wales	Prince of Wales,
2d Black Joke	Earl Balcarra,
No Joke	Earl Balcarra,
Bonnie Kate	Charles Forbes,

time 24". 25".

Fourth Race—Second Cutters, (4 to 12 oars),
1st prize $20, 2nd $10.

The Boats were manned by Europeans and Lascars; the time will prove the exertion that was used to win this well pulled race.

boats.	ships names.
1st Valparaiso	Valparaiso,
2d Happy-go-lucky	Edinburgh,
Amazon	Amazon,
Princess Royal	Prince of Wales,
Kitty	Charles Forbes,
Perhaps	Edinburgh,
Penelope	Buckinghamshire,
Grey Mare	Bucephalus,
Cattamaran	Greenlaw,

time 24". 50".

Fifth Race—Jolly Boats.
1st prize $20, 2nd $10.

This batch of small fry, closely followed by the "Lord Eldon's" "Mite" pulling 9 oars, was manned by crews of all nations, colours, and castes and a more amusing sight, as well as a better contested affair, never came off.

boats.	ships names.
1st Clerk of the scales	Hindustan,
2d Lady Clarke	Syria,
Lord Eldon	Lord Eldon,
Lord Eldon's mite	Lord Eldon,
Saucy Jack	Tartar,
Black Joke	Asiatic,
Mary Ann	Mutual,
Helen	Helen,
Castor	Gemini,
Charles	Charles Forbes,
Little Joke	Earl Balcarra,
Never	Buckinghamshire,
Young Charlotte	Charlotte,
Blow Hard	Wm. Gillies,
Margie Lauder	Bucephalus,

A Purse was made out of the pot amounting to $400 and eleven of those worthy and useful Wash Girls boats started for various prizes, affording the greatest amusement.

Won by Ally, a young lady of strong pull-away powers; the remainder being rewarded according to their merits.

The winning boats of the day were then entered, and started for 2 prizes 1st Prize $20 2nd Prize $10.

The Sally taking and keeping the lead and winning very easily; the Valparaiso 2nd.

The Second boats were then entered and started for the same prizes; the Lambick and New Zealand taking the wrong course, were distanced, and the prizes awarded to the Black Joke 18, oars, and the Clerk of the Course.

A general scramble now took place for the losing boats, and every variety assembled to the number of 25. Prizes as before; the winners were the Perhaps 1st, Sam Slick 2d; the Earl Balcarra's "No Mistake" unfortunately committed herself after taking and keeping the lead easily, by running home to the starboard instead of the larboard gangway.

The stewards were A. HARR, Esq. Umpire, Captain THOMAS, Captain GRIBBLE.

To add to the pleasure of the day, many of our fair countrywomen, being unusual but nevertheless most welcome visitors in Whampoa Reach, were amongst the spectators, and their bright eyes beamed with the gratification they experienced, and no doubt increased Jack's exertion to do his best. The visitors were most hospitably entertained during their stay, by Captain Paterson of the Edinburgh, who gave a handsome ball and supper; Captains Baker of the Earl Balcarra's, Wills of the Forbes, Mardon of the Gemini, Bowen of the Hindostan, and many others to whom their thanks are due.

Pray excuse this long affair, which will I fear be more tedious than the race, and craving your indulgence as well as that of your readers, I remain,

Your's truly,
NAUTICUS.

Canton, 10th October, 1842.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir,—The excitement produced by the late glorious news from the North, confirming his beloved Island as a British possession appears to have elevated your Hongkong Contemporary a little too far above this lower world, and such sublimary matters as advertisements have not since probably received the same attention from him as heretofore.

In the "Friend" of the 9th Ult. are the following remarks, written in a strain of such virtuous indignation as must, in these times of Mammon-worship, call forth the warmest sympathy of the Public with the morality of the Editor, and his high minded contempt of the filthy lucre to be derived from advertising the scheme of a Calcutta Lottery.

"We have had an advertisement sent us from Calcutta which contained a scheme for a Lottery: we have declined to insert it, as we are determined not to use our influence in encouraging a system so socially pernicious, and subversive of public morality."

"We are told that much forgery is induced by the minor lotteries in India, or as they were formerly called in England, Little goes."

Now all this is very edifying and very delightful (we won't quarrel about the little pomposity of style) but to! "one little month" has hardly elapsed, and all this fine sentiment appears to have evaporated. In the "Friend" of last week there occurs a notice of a Lottery at Hongkong; a regular Little Go for a Palanquin &c., valued at $300. Whereon the worshipful Editor remarketh not, but perhaps in his next he will vouchsafe his readers some explanation of this glaring inconsistency.

Your's, Dear Sir,
Very faithfully,
G.

Macao, 12th Oct., 1842.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 15th Oct., 1842.

We have had during the week no arrivals of much interest, if we except, on account of her quick passage, the John O'Gaunt from Liverpool in 106 days, but she, of course, brings nothing so late as the July Overland Mail. From Canton we learn that the new Teas were beginning to come in, but we have not yet heard of any prices having been fixed. In Macao the Tea-trade, for the present, seems to be at a stand, no one being desirous to buy at former rates, and dealers not yet having reduced their prices sufficiently. The stock here is however represented to be considerable.

From Manila we learn by the arrival of the Black Swan that the French Frigate Erigone arrived there from the Yangtze-kiang on the 27th of last month. We believe she will proceed by way of Polynesia to the western coast of South America. The Corvette Favorite, it seems, is still in the Yangtze-kiang.

We learn nothing new from Canton, and until H. M. Plenipotentiary comes back from the north, we fear our papers will continue to be barren of intelligence of much interest; everything now being at a stand; business from all we can learn is very unsatisfactory at Canton, it being excessively difficult to realize imports.

From Hongkong we have the gratifying intelligence that Lieut. Hamilton is likely to recover from the wounds, we mentioned in our last he had received during an attack on his house by thieves; we have not since heard whether any more atrocities of a similar character have been committed there; but from the unprotected state in which the town seems to be left there during the night, we should not be astonished that other houses had likewise been attacked and sacked. We hope soon to learn that an efficient police has been established there; at present, it is to the highest degree hazardous to have anything of value in one's house, as the thieves would soon contrive to convert it into their own property.

The following are the movements we have been able to learn to H. M. Ships. The Clio goes to Singapore and Calcutta this day. Her letter bag will be open at the Government Agency until one o'clock. H. M. S. Blonde, Herald, Columbine, Moderate, and Blenheim are all going home without delay, and Agard has already gone to N. S. Wales.

The report of the Imperial Commissioners of which copy below, is in many respects a remarkable and interesting document, intended of course to gloss over as much as possible the harshness of the facts, the existence of which can no longer be kept secret. Vixhaun, of Canton celebrity, seems to have had sufficient interest with these commissioners to maintain his impotence that the ransom money of Canton was paid for the Opium seized; but as its value was doubt, the sum paid at Canton, 6 millions more have been conceded to the demands of the English. The reason they assign for agreeing to the payment of 12 millions for the expenses of the expedition are true enough, for if the war been protracted, the Imperial treasury would, besides the Chinese war expenses, have had to pay a much larger sum, and the prudent Chinese thought the greater economy the wiser plan. The poor Hong merchants will be made to pay the remaining three millions of the Hong-debts, and we stated last week that they have already been called upon by the local authorities to pay before them all the particulars of those debts.

The indignant stare of H. M. Plenipotentiary seems to have appeared to the Chinese commissioner quite as portentous as Lord Burleigh's shake of the head. They seem not to have dared to provoke a second. The confession made by these commissioners that there was no hope of victory, and that therefore, the sooner peace was concluded, the better, is a proof that they have at last themselves become aware of their helpless state, and of how open and unprotected their immense empire is against a foreign enemy. They have paid dear for their previous presumption, but let us hope that the experience gained will induce them strictly to fulfil the conditions of the treaty, that peace and amity between the two nations may really be everlasting.

The Lowell (Amer.) has during the week arrived from Chusan 6th October, but at that time it was not known with any certainty that the whole of the six millions had been paid; it was said that an unpaid balance would be received at Woosung, whether this be true or not we know not, but suppose the force will not leave the neighbourhood of the city of Nanking until this first part of the treaty will be fulfilled, Meantime some few of the transports had left the Yangtze-kiang, and arrived at Chusan. Nothing certain seems to be known of the time when H. M. Plenipotentiary may arrive here, and settle at Canton the mode of doing business there in future. By the abolition of the Co-hong, and the consequent liberty of trade, business will have to be transacted in a manner very different from before, and although cheaper prices for exports may be the result, shippers will not be able to transact their business in the easy manner they have hitherto done, since they will be exposed to frauds of all kinds, whilst formerly good faith in their transactions was the leading feature of the Hong merchants. We suppose that some sort of commercial tribunal must be established to decide between Foreign and Chinese merchants in case of debt or dispute, the due organization of which will be a matter of some difficulty. The duties, particularly on shipping, also require revision, and some of the impure channels through which they now pass before they reach the Imperial treasury cut off. We perceive from the Report of the Imperial Commissioners on the subject of the 'Treaty of Peace,' which we copy from the last number of the Register, that according to their version, Sir Henry Pottinger requires all duties to be paid into the hands of the Consul, and by him to the Imperial treasurer; we know not whether this be not some misconception or misstatement of the Commissioners, for this would constitute the English Consul de facto a Chinese custom house officer, and would require a consular establishment on the largest scale. It is however for the interest of the Chinese government that the system of levying the duties on foreign trade should be thoroughly revised, for on many articles the duty now paid amounts to much more than double of that prescribed by the Imperial tariff. It also falls very heavy on some articles, whilst others are but lightly taxed. Candles for instance are so heavily taxed, that for some time their importation through the Hong merchants has altogether ceased. Woollens generally pay a heavy duty. Longcloths, the price of which has so much fallen in England, pay the high duty of from 80 cents to $ per Piece or 20 to 40 per cent. We might enumerate many more articles, to illustrate the unequal weight of the duties. But what most of all has interfered with the foreign trade has been the changeable rate of the duties, which have from time to time been raised, to meet, it is said, the increasing demands on the Cohong by their own government, and to pay the foreign debts charged upon the Consular fund. One of the articles of the treaty being that three millions of the money paid by the Chinese Government, are to pay these debts, no pretext any longer remains for levying these extra duties. It is therefore to be hoped that a fixed tariff will take the place of the former irregular mode of imposing duties.

We copy from the Chinese Repository for September the following extract from the journal of the Revd Mr. Abel, an American missionary now residing at Amoy, and the comment thereon by the editor of the Repository. We confess we are inclined with him to think that the instances of infanticide related by the Chinamen, are pure inventions, probably for the purpose of engaging the foreigner's compassion, and to enable him at some future time to ask for pecuniary assistance. Even in China men are not so thoroughly lost to shame as not to know that infanticide is a crime punishable by their own laws, and those guilty of it would not confess it unless they had some motive for it.

"23d. To-day, had a conversation with one of the merchants, who came to Kulanga for trade, on the subject of female infanticide. Assuming a countenance of as much indifference as possible, I asked him how many of his own children he had destroyed; he instantly replied, 'two.' I asked him whether he had spared any; he said 'one I have saved.' I then inquired how many children his eldest brother had destroyed. 'Five or six.' I inquired of the second, third, and all the rest, some had killed four or five, some two or three, and others had none to destroy. I then asked how many girls there were left among them all. 'Three,' was the answer. And how many do you think have been strangled at birth? 'Probably from twelve to seventeen.' I wished to know the standing and employment of his brothers. One, he said, had attained a literary degree at the public examinations; a second was a teacher; one was a sailor; and the rest were petty merchants, like himself. Thus it was evidently not necessary, but a cold Italian calculation of the gains and losses of keeping them, which must have led these men to take the lives of their own offspring. It is so seldom that we can find a man as candid as this, that I am quite incapable of saying whether he and his brothers have not exceeded their neighbors. At present I think they have.

"Sometime after this conversation, I asked Mr. Boone's teacher whether any of his children had been deprived of life. He said no, adding that it was a very wicked act. He confessed, however, that his sister, or sister-in-law had with her own hand destroyed her first three children successively. The fourth was also a girl; but the mother was afraid to lay violent hands on it, believing it to be one of the previous ones reappearing in a new body."

But we are not without suspicion that his informant, in the cases of infanticide, deviated from the truth. We have known instances, where long stories, of strange and pitiful occurrences, have been told as authentic by the Chinese, which upon counter and cross examination have been found to be utterly false. We wish Mr. Abel had made a closer examination, and written a more circumstantial narrative of these diabolical acts, giving the name, the residence, and history of that family of murderers. Their deeds are so foul that they deserve to be capitalized in the annals of Fokien. We have before heard of the cruel hearts of the men of Changshan; but we were not prepared to read of such wholesale murder. Mr. Abel will do well to repeat and extend his inquiries regarding infanticide in Fokien.

TRANSLATION.

From the Canton Register, 11th Oct.

Report from the Imperial Commissioner, and his colleagues, on the requisitions of Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary.

The imperial commissioner and great minister, Ke-ying, the acting adjutant-general of Toopoo, Kiepo, and the governor of the two Keang provinces, Newchen, take the articles of peace which have been decided upon with the English nation, and send up a duly prepared report of all the circumstances.

1st. The said barbarians begged that we should give of foreign money 21 millions of dollars. On examination it is found that the said barbarians originally wanted to extort 30 millions of dollars; but Chang-e and his colleagues argued the point strongly again, and a third time, and at length the sum was fixed at 21 millions dollars. They said, that 5 millions was the price of the opium, 3 millions for the hong merchant's debts, and 13 millions for the expenses of the army. The Shewei (an officer of the emperor's body guard), Chang-e and his colleagues, represented that the price of the opium had already been paid by the city of Canton, in 6 millions dollars; how could payment be extorted a second time? and the debts of the hong merchants should be liquidated by themselves; how could the officers of government be called upon to pay them? As to the necessary expenses of the army, why should China be called upon to pay them; and these matters were discussed again and again. The said barbarians exclaimed, that opium was not produced in England; but that it was all sent forth from a neighbouring country. That upwards of 20,000 chests had been destroyed, and it required no small sum to pay for them; the 6 millions that had been paid, did not amount to half of the prime cost; and therefore the deficiency must now be supplied. As to the hong merchant's debts, the hong merchants, originally, should have discharged them; but as they delayed the payment for a long time, the accumulation amounted to a vast sum; on that account, therefore, they requested 3 millions dollars, which, however, did not amount to more than a tenth part of the original claims; and they particularly requested that a despatch should be sent to Canton, directing that a clear enquiry should be made into all the hong merchant's debts; and to limit a time for their recovery; but if they (the hong merchants) had no funds forthcoming, then it will be necessary to require the government to pay the debts.

As to the item of expenses of the army; as peace has already been made, the soldiers and sailors should be rewarded, before they are sent home; as to the amount of those necessary expenses, it is not decided to pay, you must say nothing more to us about the retirement or not of the army and fleet; but if hostilities do not cease, we apprehend that the expenditure of China, in future, will not stop at 13 millions dollars. Further, the men of war have already taken Kiangchow, and have blockaded the passages; and if we are soon enabled to order them to retire, the advantages to China will be very great indeed; and so forth.

The said Shewei (Chang-e), and his colleagues, again authoritatively questioned as to the difficulties; but the said barbarian only stared at him, indignantly; the Shewei was not listened to.

I, your servant, have examined and found what are the unwarrantable demands of the said barbarians, which they so importunately urge; and they are deserving of the utmost hatred. But considering that they have already attacked and laid in ruins Kiangchow; and it is proved that not only the rivers and Kiangchow, it will be difficult to recover speedily, but I am apprehensive we shall be blocked up, both on the north and south; which will be the heaviest calamity.

The ships that formerly blockaded the entrances were far different from these (in the Yangtszekiang), and great expenses is unavoidable; as yet, our reputation is not lost; so to the extorted 21 millions dollars, they are to be reckoned at 7 mace each of silver, which will amount to upwards of taels 14,300,000; the hong debts are 3,000,000 dollars, weighing taels 2,100,000; which must be recovered from the hong merchants of Canton; when a clear examination has been made. There still remains taels 12,600,000. This year, the first payment of dollars 6,000,000, has been made, equal to taels 4,200,000. New one million has already been carried to the account of the people and merchants of Kiangchow, which the officers must pay in the first instance. And in time, money may be looked for for the purchase of honours—(buttons and peacock's feathers). The remainder is to be cleared off in 3 years, not requiring taels 3 millions for each year. Moreover, the duties that the said nation will pay should be taken into account, which will help the expenditure of the imperial family, and disturbances will be prevented.

Comparing one year's expenses of the army (with the sum paid to the English) it is as three to two; and there is only the name of fighting, without the hope of victory; it is better to adopt plans in accordance with circumstances, and put an everlasting stop to war.

The 4,200,000 taels, the first payment made of this year has been collected from the funds of the treasurers and salt-commissioners of the three provinces of Chaherng, Keangsoo, and Gankow; which will be repaid hereafter by the duties on the merchants and people.

"We wait to receive the imperial will, that we may send post-haste orders (to the treasurers and salt commissioners), to be respectfully obeyed."

2nd. The said barbarians, begged that Hongkong might be conferred on them as a place of residence; they also requested to be allowed to trade at Kiangchow, Fuchow, Heamun (Amoy) Ningpo, and Shingchow. The Shewei, Hauling, and his colleagues—as the barbarians had already built houses on Hongkong, and yet could beg for favour,—granted that they might dwell there. With reference to Kiangchow, and the other four places, they must be considered too many. As to the regulations of the trade as well as the duties, they should early be consulted and decided upon.

When clear and explicit questions were asked, it is authenticated, that the said barbarians answered,—“We consider Hongkong as our dwelling place, and we must have Kiangchow, and the others, in all five places, as ports of trade; but if it cannot be allowed, then neither Amoy, Ningpo, Chinkoo, Tientsin, Topeo, Pootchen, nor Chinkoo, will be delivered up, neither will our forces retire. And as we want to trade at all those places, it is absolutely necessary that resident consuls should be appointed to superintend affairs; to restrain the barbarians (English), and prevent disturbances. The duties shall be paid according to the regulations of China; and when the duties are settled, there shall be no delay in the payment.”

“Further, when we traded at Canton, the whole trade was in the hands of the mandarin hongmerchants, and we were exposed to their extortions, and the injuries we suffered were not small. Hereafter, we desire to choose our own merchants, that trade may be conducted quietly; and the entire duties are to be paid through the consuls to the hoppo, and not to pass through the hands of the hong merchants, in order that their extortions may be prevented;” and so forth.

The said Shewei, again represented that from the five places, Kiangchow, &c., some should be deducted; but the said barbarian obstinately refused. I, your servant, have examined and found, that with reference to the said foreigners dwelling on Hongkong, and going to trade in the provinces of Fokien and Chaherng, the imperial will has already been received, granting the desired permission. As to what they have requested about trading at the five places named, although the comparison is great; but as they have taken and kept possession of Amoy, and other places, which are not yet given up; and as they still hold Hongkong Koolong Pootchen, and have not retired, and it will be a difficult matter to get them back.

If we again prepare our armies to maintain those places, it is a difficult matter to engage with them on the waters. Though near (or opposite) to each other, we have been idle (there has not been any fighting) for many days; and as to those places which they have taken, and keep possession of, will it not be best to allow them to return to us our territory, and allow them to trade, since they are willing respectfully to pay the duties? Just now, they are sensible and repent of their errors, and are as obedient as if driven by the wind, and when again united in mutual friendship, benevolence, and truth, all things will go on well. And since they will guard their own market, and surround and protect the sea boundaries (rivers and coasts) there will not be any necessity for recourse to our interference, which will be to the advantage of our country.

We request the imperial will may be sent down to the governors and lieut. governors of each of the three provinces, to examine clearly into the duties and trading regulations of the controller of maritime customs in the province of Canton; and consult about the management of affairs, and fix them on a secure basis.

* Shanghai is in Kiangsoo.

3rd. That which the said barbarians have requested with reference to the officers of China,—to have ceremonial intercourse upon an equality; and the barbarians who have been made captives, and the Chinese traitors who have been seduced (into the service &c. of the English), the release of all these they most earnestly solicit.

I, your servant, have examined, and found, that with reference to equal official intercourse, it may be unreservedly granted; and as the affairs with the foreigners are finished (the war ended), the prisoners may also be released; by which harmony and good understanding will be strengthened; for a state of peace will bring repose and gladness, and overthrow factious parties; these matters may be allowed to proceed; and I have left them to the Shewei, without discussing them.

By J. S. D. C. R.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD,
IN THE YANG-TSEI-KIANG, CHUAN, CHINNAH, &c.

H. M. S. Cornwallis, 78, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, &c. &c. commander in chief captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

Blonde,	42,	capt. T. Bourchier, &c. &c.
Thalia,	44,	Hope.
Endymion,	44,	the honble F. W. Grey.
North Star,	26,	Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald,	26,	J. Nias, &c. &c.
Dido,	20,	the honble H. Koppell.
Pelican,	18,	comr. Justice.
Modeste,	18,	Watson.
Harlequin,	18,	the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine,	16,	Morshead.
Childers,	16,	Halsted.
Wanderer,	16,	Seymour.
Serpent,	16,	Nevill.
Algerine,	10,	comr. W. H. Wainland.
Royalist,	10,	Chetwood.
Hospital ship Minden,	capt. Qain.

SURVEYING SHIP.

Starling,	8,	comr. Kellatt.
Plover,	6,	Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

Belaisie,	capt. Kingcomb.
Apollo,	comr. G. Frederick.
Sapphire,	Col.
Jupiter,	comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen,	comr. W. Warden.
Memnon,	comr. Powell.
Nemesis,	lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,	Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne,	comr. Roberts, I. N.
Medusa,	Hewitt, I. N.
Phlegathon,	lieut. McClevery, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr. Hough, &c. &c.
H. M. Vixen,	comr. H. Bayes.
Driver,	Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M. H. S. Cambrian,	26,	capt. Chads, &c. &c. senior commanding officer.
Pylades,	16,	comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleon,	10,	lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

Agincourt,	74,	Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, Sir T. Cochrane, &c. &c.
Rienhelm,	74,	capt. Mr. T. Herbert, &c. &c.
Wolverine,	16,	Johnson.
Cruiser,	16,	Pease.
Young Hebe,	4,	Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghy,	comr. comp. Ross.
Akbar,	Commodore Pepper, I. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

September.		ARRIVED
27, (B.)	Equestris, Cromarty, London.
18,	Chantillon, Grange, Madras and Sing.
October,
1,	Black Swan, Hart, Manila.
9, (P.)	Indiana, Carvath, Java.
9, (B.)	John O'Connell, Robertson, Liverpool.
13,	Form, Greig, Portsmouth.
14,	Kestrel, Bouvain, Madras.

SUPPLEMENT.

October, SAILED
 10. (B.) Elvira, Walker, Singapore.
 10. " Calcedonia, Lawson, London.
 10. " Laujee Family, Ayres, Bombay.
 11. " Akbar, Dumareq, Manila.
 12. " Arum, Kellock, Singapore.
 11. " Corsair, Fraser, Bombay.
 15. H. M. S. Clio, Comr. Troubridge, Stug. & Cal.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Bombay.—Hallen, on the 15th.
 For Bombay & Sing.—Isabella Thompson.
 For Sing. & Cal.—Madura, Telephon on the 17th; Horo on the 25th; Rob Roy on the 31st.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia, Devon, Elizabeth, Mary Ann, Edip, Claudius, Louisa, Jack son, Bolivar, George, Waltis, Lord Louthier, Adelaide, Athenacum, Par rock Hall, Asia, Madras, Urula, Bella Marina, Wills, the Wisp, Liverpool, Arce, Orestes, Cris topher Rawson, Hindustan, Alex Baring, Ann Jane, Childers, Ed ward Boustead, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine.
 From Bombay.—Julia, Diaga, Corco, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Chely dra, Victoria, Wm. Abrahams, Midlothian, Cema, Belvidere, Quintin Leith, Inglish.
 From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Pictory, Bengal Packet, Marian, Etha, Maulmain, Malacca, Elizabeth, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine, Pappy.
 From Singapore.—Waterloo, Onyda.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 6th July. SINGAPORE, 22d Sept.
 UNITED STATES, June 22. MANILA, 17th Sept.
 CALCUTTA, 1st Sept. AMOY.
 BOMBAY, 9th August. CHINA, 6th Oct.
 JAVA, 16th August. NANKING, 15th Sept.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	Tons	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Ariel	—	Burt	Dent and Co.
Archibald	—	Christians	C. Fearon
Aurelia	612	Jeffrey	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Abberdon	453	Catt	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine	—	Bill	"
Anna Eliza	254	Butcher	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic	—	Barlow	Jardine M. & Co.
Anne Mary	—	Rackham	"
Bombay Castle	—	Baxter	"
Belghamshire	1463	McGregor	"
Bolton	—	Robinson	Dent & Co.
Black Nemph	—	Hall	"
Buenahua	—	Small	Lindsay & Co.
Black Swan	—	Hart	C. H. Hart.
Columbine	—	Major	H. Pybus.
Cowan , Powerty	—	Darham	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Coringa Packet	—	Chilcot	"
Chapelleer	—	Grange	"
Calet	—	Carling	Jardine M. & Co.
Calique	—	Mag	C. Fearon.
Camden	398	Cleves	Jamieson How & Co.
Charles Forbes	80	Wills, Jr.	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Charlotte	—	Liebachi	"
Dungen	—	Johnson	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Deronport	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
David Clarke	—	Mills	"
Diadem	—	Harland	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora	—	Turnbull	"
Ellen	—	Boswer	Dent and Co.
Emma Ezeria	—	Kettlewell	Reynolds & Co.
Equestrian	—	Cromarty	"
Earl Balcarras	1488	Baker	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh	1414	Paternon	"
Frank Cowling	—	Edwards	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Frans	—	Greig	Dallas and Co.
Frances Ann	—	Thomson	Fox Rawson & Co.
Frances Bora	—	Edington	Macvicar and Co.
Fred. Math	—	Toby	Turner and Co.
Felicity	—	McDonald	Dirom and Co.
Fort William	—	Hogg	Jardine M. & Co.
Ganger	—	Walker	"
Geo Armstrong	—	Jones	Macvicar & Co.

*Geminl,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
*Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
*Gretton,	—	Watt,	"
*Guthrie,	—	Withingby	Dirom and Co.
*Hero of Malown	—	Jackson,	"
*Heraey,	—	Easterly,	"
*Hongkong,	—	Whettem,	H. Holgate.
*Harbinger,	—	Candeish,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Horo,	—	Fowler,	"
*Hygeia,	778	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
*Hope,	—	Cockain,	Macvicar & Co.
*Helen Stewart,	—	Brown,	"
*Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
*Helen,	—	Bayse,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Hebrides,	—	McVillie	"
*Is. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
*Isab. Thompson	—	Kittin,	Fergusson, L. and Co.
*Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
*Island Queen,	—	Balla,	"
*Intrepid,	—	Stewart,	W. Allanson & Co.
*John Calvin,	—	Knox,	Jardine M. & Co.
*John Moor,	—	Whitcomb	H. Rustomjee.
*Juliana	—	Chapman	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
*John O'Gaunt,	—	Robertson	Turner & Co.
*Kirkman Finlay	—	Scott,	"
*Kestrel,	—	Braynals,	Dent and Co.
*Litherland,	—	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
*Lord Eldon,	—	Worrell,	Lindsay & Co.
*Main,	—	Sproule,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
*M.S. Elphinston	—	Lawson,	Dent and Co.
*Marian,	—	Brown,	"
*Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
*Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
*Mary Anne,	—	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Matilda,	—	Rowe,	"
*Mary C. Webster	—	Hearnside	"
*Madura,	—	Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
*Osprey	—	Kirk	Jardine M. and Co.
*Orator,	—	Serry,	"
*Prince Regent,	298	Barclay,	"
*Palestine	—	McLuan	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Pondora,	—	Colony,	Holliday Wise & Co.
*Prince of Wales	—	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Royal Exchange	—	—	"
*Ruparell,	—	Righty,	A. & D. Fardonsjee.
*Rob Roy,	—	Burd,	H. Pybus.
*Rosa,	—	—	C. H. Hart.
*St. Lawrence,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
*Snipe,	—	—	Hughesdon Brothers.
*Salopina,	—	Bell,	C. Fearon.
*Syrta,	—	Strayan,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Tartar,	—	Lucas,	"
*Thetis,	—	Cass,	Dirom and Co.
*Urgent,	—	Thompson	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Wm. Sharples,	—	Jones,	Russell and Co.
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durrant Jr.
*Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
*Wet. off,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Wm. Hyde,	—	Steward,	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
*Levant,	Faulk,
*Ang MacKin,	Viguer,
Congress,	Hay,
Probus,	Summer,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Paither,	Martin,
*Charleston,	Harlow,
Zenobia,	Putnam,
Valparaiso,	Lockwood,
Maseppa,	186 Prescott,

SPANISH.

Maria,	Cuenca,	A. Cuenca.
Ranira,	Escobar,	L. Marques.
Gitana,	Salado,	J. Salado.

BRITISH.

Margaretha,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
-------------	---	------------------

DANISH.

Danish Oak,	—	Russell & Co.
-------------	---	---------------

HAMBURG.

Esmeralda,	—	Wetmore & Co.
Hebe,	—	A. A. de Mello.

DUTCH.

Jaco,	—	J. Burd & Co.
-------	---	---------------

* At Whampoa.

DIED. In the Foreign Hospital, Owen Bolton, ship "Geminl." Capt. Mardon, seaman on the 10th October 1842.

Henry Walker, "Lord Eldon." Capt. Worsell, seaman, on the 11th October 1842.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLIS,
 at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 56.] Macao, Saturday, 22nd October, 1842.

[No. 368.]

NOTICE.—Subscribers to the CONCERT of MADAME DE STORR, which was to have taken place this evening, are informed that, owing to Madame de Storr's indisposition, the first Concert will not take place till Saturday next the 29th October, and the second on Sunday night the 7th November.
Macao, 22d October, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firms of

PITCAIRN SYME & Co. at Batavia,
SYME & Co. at Singapore.

and KER MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KER, McMICHAEL & Co.

KER MURRAY & Co.

Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDEMAN, or

KEVINVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Godowns are rented and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 5th Oct. 1842

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1842, and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DUGLAS, RAWSON & Co.

STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUNNETT was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842. Adieu, August 29, 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATTERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Agoa, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROE SHAW, in our firm here, at Manilla, and in that of BUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGE, master builder, interv. arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and here to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or for building plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG.

Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late MR. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1842, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKING being admitted a Partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKING & Co. China, 6th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STRAITS FIREWORKS OFFICE or BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

p. pro. DIROM & Co.

Macao, 32nd Sept. 1841.

W. W. DALE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subalternes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALER, CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

G. V. GILLESPIE.

HONGKONG!

GOODS AND MERCHANDISE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUUS, or to

C. FEARON.—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.
To be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner, and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton.

For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE "Red Fox" captain ROBERT BOYD, will leave for the above ports positively on the 31st inst., for freight of Treasure only. Apply to

HENRY PYBUS.

FOR SALE OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMIRO," captain A. ESCOBAR, one of the best vessels built in Manila; as she is so well known in China it is presumed no further description is required. Apply to

L. MARQUES.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRAMER" (COWARJER), 950 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE, PENANG & CALCUTTA

THE A 1 ship "MADURA," captain MYLNE, will sail for the above Ports on the 15th inst. This vessel has good accommodations for passengers, and carries a surgeon. For freight or passage apply to

MACVICAR & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "THETIS," J. CARA Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD

THE fast sailing British Barque "COR RINGA PACKET," of 236 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD,

THE A 1 Ship ISABELLA, Capt. HARRIS, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG AND SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANG, Capt. BENO, For freight or passage apply to JOHN BURD, at Hongkong, or B. BARRETTO, Macao.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER

TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast, sailing English built ship "CANABRU," A. 1. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. For Register 355 Tons G. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to JAMIBSON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGNORA," A. 1. at Lloyd's, W. 1274 1/2 tons, Commander and of 513 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Mekan teak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bands, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. 1. ship HINDOON, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FOWEN, Thomas POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October, for freight apply to MULLANDY DUGANJEE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE Teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 60 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Helo of Malacca," 482 Tons British, per Agents, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to (Signed) P. PRO. DIROM & Co.

W. W. DALE.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

HOUSE WANTED.—A small perfect House, consisting of four or five rooms, with Kitchen and servant's office, in a respectable neighbourhood. Liberal terms will be agreed in, and the premises will be required for three or four months; apply to the Editor of THIS PAPER

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHOVIES, Weight each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

TO LET.—A Spacious House with a Veranda and Terrace in front and a fine Garden near St. Paul's church now occupied by Mr. Brown, will be vacant on the 1st proximo; for particulars apply to Macao, Oct. 12, 1842.

A. DA SILVA.

TO LET.—From the 1st November a g. the House now occupied by the Revd. S. R. Brown. Apply to

A. DA MIRANDA.

Macao, 26th November, 1842.

RAFFLE OF A PAINTING.

THE subject of which is taken from a novel of Victor Hugo, "Notre Dame de Paris." Emerald is represented in the midst of the people of Paris, in the square of Notre Dame, at the moment when, dancing with her goat, she perceives at the balcony of a house, Capt. Phoebeus who sometime before had saved her life, and whom she has not since seen.

The scene is laid in the reign of Louis XI. and the costume of that period has been furnished to Madame de Storr, who has composed this picture, from the Royal Library in Paris.

This raffle is to consist of 50 tickets to be drawn on the 5th November next at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in the presence of the ticketholders, in the house at present occupied by Mr. and Mrs. de Storr, in the Rua Formosa, and the picture to be the prize of the last number drawn.

The price of one ticket is three dollars, and each will be signed by Mr. de Storr and sealed with his seal; and to his application may be made every day between four and five o'clock in the afternoon for inspection of the drawing.

FOR SALE—Bally Rice, COCOANUT OIL, COFFEE, Java ARABIC in cases and casks, Singapore BEANS and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old RUM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD & Co. Hongkong, 17th Oct 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE—Europe ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAIN-BLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 2, 3, Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to JOAO BARRETTO. Macao, Oct. 8, 1842.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, PLATE, PLATED WARE, GLASS and CROCKERY WARE, BOOKS, HORSES, cows &c. belonging to H. J. LEIGHTON Esq. Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to J. A. DURRAN, Jr. Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—On board the "Corring Packet" a portion of best Moonghy RICE, DHOLL, DECCA BEAR. Apply to F. B. CHILCOT. Macao, 23d September, 1842.

FOR SALE—MANILA SEGARS 4s., and EUROPE LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to F. DE LAS HERAS. Macao, 23d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—JAVA ARABIC and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 20th August, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, Boy's HATS.—Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz. and NAILS; apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEANS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 20th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—DUFF GORDON & Co.'s SHERRY in bottle and HIND, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do., CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE—A RIFLE and a few pairs (couple) and four abridged PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Mr. A. GRANDPRE. Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

FOR SALE—At the Gondowns of the undersigned Gamboa Fac tory, adjoining the Custom house the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French FINE GLASSES of half an inch, thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Pavence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Manipatani SNUR in quart bottle, a $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases, CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do., CLARET 3 do. do., SHERRY, PALE in Hds., SELTZER WATER new, OILMAN'S STORES late imports, BEER in terrors; PORK in barrels. COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 7th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases, MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior, COGNAC BRANDY, SELTZER WATER and HOCK, HAMBURG PORK and BEER, RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS. Apply to JOAO BARRETTO. Macao, 20th October, 1841.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KRIS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BASS PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SELTZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS, BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. CO'S DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

LOTTERY.

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co.'s FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS, AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY, OF 1843, of all Prizes?

[In the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mutual Agency: for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lotteries: from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, China, &c., it is proposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived thence, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund: only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing: and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate: or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with: with or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets; as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co.'s FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843; valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000 Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1/2 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1/4 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1/8 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances. Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes: only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme. 100 ditto. Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements. 2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co.'s letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

6.—As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

7.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be allotted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

8.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

9.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

10.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

11.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KEADU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.

ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, $ 100—$ 1.

Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.

Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.

For 3 months $ 5.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press may be had at the Office for 20 cents at 30 cents each.

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette.

4th October, 1842.

PROCLAMATION.

CANON, chief magistrate of the great English nation's territory of Hongkong, issues his proclamation.

It appears that recently a great many night robberies have been committed, and this proclamation is now issued for the information of all the people. Hereafter, all Chinese, besides the usual watchmen, are forbidden to walk the streets after eleven o'clock at night, and whoever shall violate this prohibition shall be arrested by the police and brought before the chief magistrate for thorough examination and judgment.

Let each tremblingly obey. A special proclamation. Taoskwang, 22d year, 9th moon, 1st day 4th Oct. 1840.

HONGKONG REGATTA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON REGISTER.

Dear Sir,—Doubtless it will be no less gratifying to your readers than it was to those of your worthy contemporary in their delight at the Blenheim Reach Regatta to find that the new settlement at Hongkong is not behind them in their endeavours to create sport and afford amusement. On Wednesday last this beautiful bay was enlivened by that noble ship, the Fort William, being decorated with a crowd of flags from her trucks to the water's edge, and at 3 o'clock the rendezvous flag was hoisted and the loud boom of a 32 pounder was heard to roar along the silent waters and distant valleys of this truly beautiful island, as a signal for the boats to assemble alongside and prepare for starting for the following races.

1st Race 4 oar'd Gigs. 1st prize 16 £ 2d do 5 £.

General Wood's do. Mary Ann's Ariel's Shah Allom's John O'Gaunt's	Black Doll Fancy Flirt Peri True Blue Fly
--	--

Never did allies for the "oacks" appear at the starting post with less determination to keep their heads the right way, than the above named competitors. The Flirt kept up her tickish character by coquetting with every boat she came near till at last "off" was given by the umpire, and the Peri took the lead, the others being jammed in a general foul, they however soon got clear and away went the "flies with their merry wren hums," determined to do their best to make up their lost distance, and though they gained considerably, yet they would have done better had they had "some of that ere rich beef and gravy." The Peri kept her advantage to the last, and won by a length. The Flirt an excellent second and the rest well up.

2d Race 6 a 12 oar'd Cutters. 1st prize 18 £ 2d do. 8 £.

Fort William's General Wood's Bombay Castle's	Any Compensation The Widow
---	----------------------------------

A small entry for this race, few liking to enter the lists against the well known winning ways of the widow, who, being accustomed to the thing, made no difficulty in going off, and displacing, with calm composure, the resistance offered to her beautiful bow, reminded us strongly of the gentle murmurings of a mountain stream winding its way through some favoured vale; when within a short distance of the rounding vessel, the race between the Ladies became highly interesting, each struggling hard for the superiority, when one of the Widow's oars caught a crab, lost his balance, and was heard to sing (out) with considerable pathos, "All is lost now." The beautiful Amy here shot ahead winning easy, and proving herself the truly Amyable. The Widow tried hard to recover her accident, but was obliged to yield the palm for the 2d prize to the Compensation.

2d Race 14 a 18 oar'd Cutters. 1st prize 20 £ 2d do. 10 £.

Fort William Shah Allom's H. C. S. Ackbar's	Protty Jane Little William Smoke
---	--

At starting "My Pretty Jane" had the call, having been successful in many previous matches, but Smoke no sooner got his stem up than he walked away from her like smoke, and left her to receive the attention of "little Billy," who through his "stagnant appearance does not much in his favor," pulled away from her like "Blazes," and called upon the umpire to pay him (17) £ for being second.

3th Race Bona fide Jolly boats. 1st prize 6 £ 2d do. 4 £.

Fort William's Shah Allom's Bombay Castle's	Mustard Pot Pepper Box Bona fide
---	--

This was a bona fide jolly race though not by a Bona fide win. The two members of the crust stand were disputing every inch of the way for about two thirds of the distance, when the Mustard Pot, who had been coming it rather strong among the sandwiches, challenged the Pepper Box for a race; here a severe struggle took place, when the midshipmen of the Pepper Box fouled the Mustard Pot, but clearing themselves soon, and having a greater number of oars, won the race. The Ricwallah secured; closely followed by the Bona fide.

5th Race a punter for 4 oar'd Gigs. 1st prize 16 £ 2d do. 5 £.

General Wood's do. Mary Ann's Ariel's	Black Doll. Anonyma. Flirt. Peri.
--	--

These boats are the same that started in the first race, but different crews, four of the Snokers being put into the Anonyma, and the Flirt into the Peri. Nothing could stand against steam, and the Anonyma won easy. The Flirt, second.

Thus ended the sports of the day; too much credit and praise cannot be given to captain Thorshill for the able manner in which he discharged the duties of umpire, and to captain Gen. Hogg, for the kind and hospitable reception we met with on board the Fort William.

I am, sir, your humble servant.

SPECIATOR.

From the Hongkong Gazette, 13th Oct.

We are glad to report that Lieut. Hamilton is decidedly convalescent, can sit up a part of the day, and is considered out of danger. He received eight wounds, and his escape from death has been a most providential one. He declares that both of the pistols which he fired took effect, he was within only a few steps of the men when he discharged them, a robber fell at each discharge, and he saw them carried off by their accomplices. He feels the same certainty about one being also killed by his writer.

Some threatened attempts, but no actual robberies have been committed since the affair with Lt. Hamilton. The Police, who have been very active both day and night within the past week have succeeded in capturing quite a number of suspicious personages who turn out to be, some real Pirates, and others equally genuine land robbers.

The sentence of cutting off the tails of robbers we find has had a most salutary effect, and of such a loss the Chinese of all classes stand in dreadful awe. It has been said that many hundreds of the more respectable people of the settlement threaten to leave if the sentence of cutting off tails be not abolished—we say let them leave, we sincerely hope it may not be abolished. Men of conscious integrity can live anywhere where the fear of civil preservation.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 22nd Oct., 1842.

We have no news whatever from the North, not even that the whole of the first six millions has as yet been paid. Every one connected with mercantile affairs is most anxiously looking for the arrival of Mr Henry Pottinger, who will have to arrange with the Canton authorities the manner in which trade there is to be carried on in future, and until this is done it is not probable that many British merchants will be found to enter on the large mercantile transactions usual to the season, particularly as it is to be hoped that the tonnage dues, and export duties on teas will be considerably reduced, and business will naturally beat a stand until those very material points are agreed on. As it is, we learn that the market for all sorts of imports is extremely inactive, and although some of this season's teas have arrived, we have not heard that any transactions have taken place; partly owing to reasons above mentioned, and partly because under present circumstances, when a fall in the English market must be expected, prices here ought to be lowered in proportion, to which the Chinese dealers will not yet agree.

We understand that an Arab trader has brought news to Batavia from some place on the east coast of Borneo that he there found the Dutch Barque Elizabeth, which sailed from Singapore on the 3th November 1840, bound for China, and which, not having since been heard of, was supposed to have foundered in the same gale during which the French Frigate la Magicienne was wrecked. Our information is very scanty, but probably the vessel sustained some injury, or was dismasted, and driven helpless upon the inhospitable shores of Borneo, where she was by the natives hid in a creek and plundered of everything she contained. We learn that the Nakodah who brings this intelligence, states that he conversed with the master of the vessel Captain Lindstedt, from whom he learned that himself and the whole crew had been reduced to slavery. It is a most singular circumstance that their fate should, during nearly two years, have remained a secret to the Dutch authorities of Borneo, and proves the watchfulness of their barbarous masters. We are glad to learn that the Government of Batavia was fitting out an expedition for the purpose of rescuing their subjects from slavery, and, we hope, to obtain some satisfaction beyond their mere liberation from the inhabitants of that part of Borneo where the vessel has been found.

We understand a new weekly paper has just made its appearance in Hongkong under the title of "The Free Correspondent." The names of the Editors, we are told, are Messrs Bennett and Ford. Its size is about equal to that of the papers published here in the Portuguese language, and we reserve what we may have to say on its contents to a future opportunity. We have however to repeat our doubts of its being likely to answer in a pecuniary point of view; for, great as the prospects of China are, we should think four weekly papers in Macao and Hongkong will hardly find sufficient patronage to cover the not inconsiderable expenses.

It is with much regret we have to announce the loss of the fine ship Harmony Capt. A. D. Smith, bound from Manila to Bombay. The particulars of this disaster our readers will find in the following extract from the protest drawn up at Manila, where the Captain and the greatest part of the crew arrived safely, with the exception of four seamen who were drowned by the upsetting of the jolly boat.

EXTRACT FROM THE PROTEST.

"Capt. Smith and the officers of the Ship Harmony, being laden with about 10000 piculs sugar, 100 cases silk and other merchandise, declare that on the 18th September last they the said passengers set sail on board the said ship from the port of Manila in the Philippine Islands, bound directly to the port of Bombay, and that the said ship in the prosecution of her said voyage on the 20th day of the same month at 1 1/2 p.m. struck on a sunken reef or shoal in the China sea by reckoning in latitude 12 N. and longitude 112 45 E. not laid down in any Chart, being at the time under double reefed topsails with a very heavy sea and no appearance of shoal water. That the pumps were immediately set a-going whilst the ship kept heaving over the shoal until she got into deep water. On sounding the pumps we found she was gaining about 18 inches water an hour, and at 8 o'clock same afternoon she had seven and a half feet water in the hold, when finding she was fast sinking we abandoned her. The Captain, twenty three mariners and passengers taking to the Long Boat, and the chief mate with five mariners to the Jolly Boat, without being able to save the Log Book, clothes, or any other article, and steered our course for Manila. The wind increasing on the 27th to a gale, we shaped our course for the Island of Luzon where we arrived on the 30th of same month, where we remained that and the following day until a Spanish coasting schooner was ready to carry us to Manila, at which place we all arrived safely with the exception of four seamen who were lost by the upsetting of the Jolly Boat near the Island of Luzon.

"The names of the four seamen drowned are, George Roney, John Allan, Henry Reid and Wm Campbell."

The following letter has been addressed to Capt. A. D. Smith by the passengers of the Harmony.

The undersigned, passengers on board the ship Harmony in her late voyage from Manila, deem it a duty incumbent on themselves, as well as an act of simple justice to the officers of the vessel, to make the following statements in regard to her loss, and the subsequent preservation of the greater part of Crew. The vessel struck a shoal about half past one p.m. on Sabbath Sept. 25th the wind had been strong, and very baffling all morning, but at the time the ship struck was tolerably steady; her course was westward. We are of opinion that no blame whatever can be attached to the Captain and officers. The loss of the vessel was an accident that could not be expected, for at the time she struck there was no sign whatever of danger. The water had no unusual color, and though at the time, we could not at least ten miles on every side, there were neither island, rock nor breakers in sight.

The highest praise is due to Capt. Smith for the presence of mind and care he displayed on this trying occasion, and for the arrangements he made to secure the safety of all on board. We are satisfied that more could not have been done, and that it could not have been done in a kinder manner. We embarked in the boats between six and seven o'clock P. M., and after being out four days and five nights the long boat arrived safely at the island of Luban. The jolly boat was unfortunately overturned by a heavy sea, and four men lost. We remained two days at Luban, and arrived at Manila Oct. 3. After leaving the ship our lives were several times in great danger, and we believe that under God their preservation is chiefly due to the skill and care of Capt. Smith. We shall ever feel the warmest gratitude to him for the attention he has shown us on this occasion.

A. MANIGLIOR,
J. J. GERVILERS,
W. M. LOWRIE.

Manila, 7th October, 1849.

N. B. The dates are not in Manila time.

Owing to her name not been put on our weekly circular asking for shipping intelligence, the Mary Ellen from the United States has been hitherto omitted in our shipping list. We are glad to learn that the Rev. Doctor Peter Parker has, after an absence of about three years, returned to resume his useful and philanthropic labors. His return is warmly welcomed by the foreign community, of which he has been many years a much esteemed member, and many sickness-stricken Chinese will have cause to rejoice that their old friend is once more among them.

MANILA.—We give below translation of a decree passed by Ferdinand VII. and of another issued by order of the present Regent, Espartero, neither of which has been published, or acted upon at Manila. It will from these two papers be seen that the policy intended to be acted upon by Ferdinand's government was much more liberal concerning the residence of foreigners in the ultramarine possessions of the Spanish crown, than that of the present so-called liberal Government of the Regent. We know not why publicity has not been given to these documents by the Colonial government, except it be that even the latter is still too favorable to foreigners, of whom the government and Spaniards in the colonial possessions continue to entertain the greatest jealousy.

The following are the documents in question:—
ULTRAMARINE GOVERNMENT.

The King has been pleased to issue the following decree: D. Fernando VII. by the grace of God and the Spanish constitution, King of Spain, to all whom it may concern—know, that the Cortes have decreed, and we have sanctioned the following.

Art. 1. All foreigners who, in virtue of the law of 8th September 1830, in which they are promised an inviolable asylum for their persons and property in the Spanish territories, are desirous of going to any of the Spanish ultramarine provinces, may do so either from their respective countries or places of residence, in the same manner as they may from thence come to the provinces of this Peninsula.

Art. 2. All foreigners who by virtue of the said law of 8th September, shall go to the Spanish Ultramarine Provinces, shall be admitted by their local authorities, with permission that they may with full liberty and security employ themselves in whatever manner most suitable to them.

Art. 3. All foreigners, already residing in the Ultramarine Provinces, and who may be willing to settle there, will give notice thereof to the Constitutional Municipality of the place they may have chosen. The Municipality, in this case, will inscribe in the census-book of the place, his or their names, and those of his family if he has any, stating whence they come, age, married or not married, and occupation, and from the date of this registration they are to be considered as settlers, and the time reckoned, which the constitution requires, to enjoy the rights of a Spaniard, and to enable him to obtain his naturalization.

Art. 4. From the day of any foreigner settling in any place of the Ultramarine Provinces, according to the provisions of the foregoing article, he may, like any other Spaniard, acquire unoccupied land, or any other in the neighbourhood of the place; he may discover mines, and work mines according to the established laws and decrees, particularly such as those of the Cortes Extraordinary of 4th January, 1813, and of the ordinary Cortes of 8th November, 1820, prescribed to the natives of the soil.

Art. 5. Every Spaniard and foreigner of whatever degree, even before settling on Spanish territory, may either for himself or in partnership of not exceeding three, treat for the establishment of one or more new settlements; for which purpose he is to present his project to the Provincial deputation of the district in which may be situated the land on which he intends to form the new settlement. The Provincial Deputation will then examine the project, and, if according to existing laws of the Indies, or corrected in accordance with them, will approve of it and let it be carried into effect; without prejudice to the information to be given to the Government; which latter, with its own views, will lay it before the Cortes for their ultimate approbation.

MINISTRY OF MARINE, COMMERCE, AND ULTRAMARINE.
GOVERNMENT.

Your Excy: The Regent of this Kingdom being informed through the despatches of the predecessor of Y. E. of the necessity there is for the enactment of fixed rules to determine the circumstances and manner in which permission may be granted to Foreigners to reside in those Islands; and having before him the consultations held on this subject in the Chamber of the Indies of the Supreme Tribunal of Justice, has been pleased to resolve:

1. That all foreigners who may be desirous of going there may do so from their former places of residence or from their native country; and in case they intend establishing themselves there, they will address the Governor Captain General, who being by writing informed of their origin, character, business, industry or capital they may bring, and who, judging of the convenience and utility resulting to the country, may give them permission, or refuse it, should he deem it prejudicial on other grounds.

2. That the foreigners who may prefer to address themselves to Her Majesty's Government, do so through this Ministry, sending in the documents to prove their origin, industry, business, or capital with which they intend establishing themselves in those provinces; and that permission be either given or denied according to circumstances and the advantages thereby to be derived by this country and the Metropolis; and it will be easier to obtain this favor by presenting a certificate of good morals signed by the Spanish Consul residing at the place of residence of the applicant, or in case of there being no Consul, then from a house already established and known in those provinces.

3. That foreigners already established, or who may hereafter establish themselves there in the manner aforesaid, may become citizens in the place of their residence, according to the laws; and for this purpose they must solicit the corresponding declaration from the Governor Captain General, who may either concede or withhold permission, as he may deem best for national interests. These concessions of citizenship, which must be preceded by obtaining information from the respective municipalities, are all interim, until confirmed by the Supreme Government; to obtain this the same superior authority will send the necessary information for ultimate decision.

By order of His Highness I communicate this to Y. E. for information and to act accordingly.
May God protect Y. E. many years.

CANBA.

Madrid, 14th August, 1841.

Such are the laws and orders of the Spanish Government with regard to the establishment of foreigners in Manila; but as hitherto they have never been published, or in any way made known, and are completely a dead letter.

Another subject with regard to Manila and the British merchants residing there, and of which we have heard as prejudicial to their interest, is the want of a British Consul, while many of the other nations trading there have consuls; for instance, the French, Americans, Belgians, Danes, and Swedes, and yet the commerce of all these together does not exceed in value that of the English. It is much to be wished that the home government would soon supply this want, and as so many Consuls are now about being appointed for China, also send one to Manila. We respectfully beg to draw the attention of H. E. Sir Henry Pottinger to this subject. At present we believe, whenever there is any business to be transacted, such as is generally the province of a Consul, the Philippine Government are obliged to address themselves to one or other of the British merchants there, as our readers will have observed some numbers back in our paper, and though the merchants may be willing to do all in their power to supply the want of a Consul, it occupies their time which may be, to them, more profitably employed. A Consul would also be very useful at Manila for bringing under the consideration of the government, the unequal manner in which the duties upon opium trade, for although nominally only 9 or 14 per Cent are levied, the goods imported are in many instances valued at double and even five times their real value, so that the duty in fact amounts to from 20 to 70 per Cent.

From the Canton Register, 18th Oct.
TRANSLATION.

"A letter from Neuchâtel, the govt. port of the two Kraang provinces, dated 6th moon, 20th day (July 27th), conveyed by the deputed officers, Chia and Lia-Shoope—or majors—to Chinkang, to be delivered to the Kraang nation's public ambassador; to pay his h h h and strife, which are occasioned from our being separated, and not knowing and misunderstanding each other, I write purposely, with perfect sincerity, a permanent proclamation, by which we may understand the principles of reason and our true and sincere feelings and intentions.

It is generally known, that men, being influenced by the elements of heaven and earth, by which they live it is not necessary to de de de, whether the flowery (Ching) or foreigners are not restrained by the two words—reason and human feelings. On the vast breadth of the four seas, every kingdom has its prince, every nation its (own) people; custom-house, where goods are inspected; and the boundaries are divided by drawn limits. And neither one nor another—this not that—are allowed to intrude and usurp—(on what is not their own); this is agreeable to reason.

Although the productions of the central and flowery empire are many and abundant, still it is cut off and separated by a great distance from (other nations—the western world). It also possesses many excellent, rare, and extraordinary commodities; and with some nations there is a trade, with others, none; but in commerce, fair dealing and equity must be observed, in order to connect each other together by good understanding and harmony—no consonant to human feelings and reason.

In our great and pure nation, the many and flowery regions are soothed and tranquilized; and we have waved for ages over ten 10,000 le. and (our dominion) extends to Cora, the land of the farthest east; your honorable country is situated in the ocean, on the limits of the extreme west; and the distance between us is immense.

The emperors of our dynasty have always equally regarded natives and foreigners, (English), and we have been united by a friendly commercial intercourse for two hundred years.

Now the high and supreme ruler—the emperor—in thoroughly learned in all civil and military matters, and the management of all affairs; he reverently respects, like his ancestors, the laws of heaven; he sees, then, at this time are our old relations so suddenly changed—so as to be the cause of a national quarrel? It is most unreasonably, from the spreading opium poison, Opium is neither pulse nor grain, and yet multitudes of our flowery subjects eat (smoke) it, wasting their property, and destroying their lives; and the calamities arising therefrom are numberable! how is it possible for us to refrain from forbidding our people to use it?

But men are born, like good grain and flowery weeds, some good and some bad. Our bad subjects—the low—they use the opium, and your honorable country has had people who traffic in and sell the opium. In the beginning, your honorable country did not force the sales nor the consumption, and the prohibition of opium and of trade, in the beginning, was not the original intention of the cherishing kindness of the emperor toward foreigners—(i. e., formerly the prohibitions were lax, loosely observed—not strictly enforced; and the cause of national quarrel has arisen from their strict enforcement, and the destruction of the opium). If it is not so, at the time when your honorable nation's former public envoy went to Tientsin, to state his defence and represent his complaints, how, when, immediately the imperial will was sent down, did he repair to Tientsin, and there await the examination and management (of the matter); and further, before Tientsin had been received back, orders were given to the army guarding the coast, not to open their fire on the English ships; thus, our emperor's virtue is produced by heavenly force.

Trois Tyrannique nullo mibi discrimine agitur—the people of your honorable nation have all eyes and heard of this (truth).

When they arrived at Canton, to examine into and manage the origin and end (the dispute), I had not arrived in the provinces of Fuhkeen and Canton, and was unable, therefore, to become fully acquainted with the matter; and from then until now the affairs of Chekeang have been the subject of discussion. Since we lost Chin-ko and Ningpo, in the 3d moon of this year, the emperor has conferred on Elepo, the rank of Chungtang—a principal minister of state, and the button of the 4th rank (light blue); and also ordered him to receive the seals of an acting-adjutant general of the district of Toopoo. Try and think, that if the Chungtang, Elepo, committed an offence in being too timid, that he is now quickly promoted to high official employment. When I was a small, inferior officer, I was unable to look and intimately understand (the emperor's intentions,—mind); but such intentions must have dwelt in the nourishing and protecting heart of the emperor (i. e. the taking care and promotion of Elepo and New-been.)

From the 4th moon until now,—the soldiers of your honourable nation have entered the district of Toopoo, ruined our city of Woong, and killed our commander-in-chief; and you have also attacked and taken by storm, the city of Chinken; and when the people of the province of Akongso heard of it, what else could they do than assemble their lusty youths to protect their families, while it was my duty to guard the frontiers, to face difficulties and firmly maintain (Nanking), devoting myself to death as a return for my country's favours.

When the Chekeen—magistrate of E-ching district, had seen the proclamation, he copied and sent it to me. The contents of the honourable ambassador's and great minister's pastoral proclamation announce an application for justice; and from which, when read, and fully understood, the mutual purposes and sentiments of the two nations will be known. In the beginning, there was not any cause of interruption to our good understanding; but from appearances and circumstances, the more we repel each other, the more distant we recede from each other; a state of decided, uncompromising hostility will be the consequence. If there is any real cause of complaint against China, with reference to human feelings and reason, if there is the least incongruity, there is no hindrance that you should not substantiate the facts, and make a true statement, when the right or the wrong will be evident; or, perhaps, it would be better that the noble ambassador should draw up a statement, and send it, through me, to the emperor; or clearly narrate and explain all the circumstances to me, in a public statement, and I will report them in a despatch to the emperor: both ways are feasible—you may please yourself; and when we mutually understand each other's minds, all petty, trifling differences and causes of dislike will be at an end; and those affairs can be perfected, and mutual friendship will long last: if not, then must the troops again join in strife, and the business of each day will be battles. Although our central nation has enjoyed peace for a long time; and we are not prepared for attacking and fighting, which has led to this frequent cruel treatment of, and tyrannising over the people, yet you also must have lost many of the officers and soldiers of your honourable country; and what man has neither father, mother, wife, nor son; who are distant from this country several tens of thousands of leagues; carrying on this strife which will cause the generation of families, and perfection of hatred and calamities; and when will an end be (to this state of things), which must be considered as highly offensive to the supreme heaven's benevolence—which loves that men should live (and not die fighting):

"And should I not spare Nineveh, that great city wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle?" Heaven detests the self-sufficient and audacious, but heaps blessings on the obedient and humble. Those who rebel against human feelings, providence protects them out. Our central nation has, for successive ages, guarded against arrogance and self sufficiency, and we have held fast by humility, through good report and bad report, for profit or loss, for good or for evil, waiting upon the will of heaven. Your honourable country has the most profound reverence for providence, and the greatest respect for truth. I have now offered my most private thoughts before heaven, and they are evident as seen in a mirror. As we are both inclined to be friends, and to put away hatred; cease from war, and give repose to the people; and from the present to hereafter, your honourable nation will enjoy profit inexhaustible.

To establish his merit, by exertions of zeal ability and fidelity, with his native country, is the task of the honourable public ambassador; will he not, then, act a great and splendid part; illustrious and eminent (as he is)—If the two armies again join battle, there will be killed and wounded on both sides. Each party should be faithful to their sovereign; and there are not sufficient causes of anger.—Further, China did not first put her army in motion; but because your honourable country attacked us, we were obliged to defend ourselves.

Your honourable country's troops coming from afar, you must necessarily be involved in great expense; and the necessary expenditure for the defence of our central empire, will be twofold. I am a civil officer, unaccustomed to military affairs. I took up, with humble gratitude, to the emperor, who has appointed me to the important duty of guarding the (maritime) boundaries; and I dare not but exert my utmost strength both of body and mind, to return a recompense for the favour of my prince. And seeing the people fleeing from their habitations, and native banditti everywhere plundering, my head sickens and my heart is deeply pained. I consider that all my life, I have not done the least praiseworthy action; but I am true and guileless; and I can swear before the sky and its sun, and announce it to the demons and gods, that I am perfectly sincere in these sentiments. I have written and ordered to be delivered to the public ambassador by the two Showpe, and I beg that he will adjust all matters, according to heavenly principles and human feelings: with speed decide on his great measures; choose that which is good, and follow it out—(manage the affairs as you like, concluding that you manage for the best). If I have uttered one insincere word, may I be punished both by gods and men."

This is a letter between equals—Chaoa kwai—despatches passing between the governors, lieut. governors, and tartar generals, are so called.—By J. S. Ed. C. R.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.
IN THE YANG-TSE-KIANG, CHUAN, CHINHA, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B. Commander in chief, captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer

- "Blonde, 42, capt. T. Bourchier, C. B.
- "Thalia, 44, " Hope
- "Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Gray.
- "North Star, 26, " Sir J. E. Homs, Bart.
- "Herald, 36, " J. Nias, C. B.
- "Dido, 30, " the honble H. Keppell.
- "Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.
- "Modeste, 16, " Watson.
- "Harcuquin, 16, " the honble F. Hastings.
- "Columbine, 16, " Mershead.
- "Childers, 16, " Haisted.
- "Wanderer, 16, " Seymour.
- "Serpent, 16, " Nevill.
- "Algerine, 10, lt. comr. W. H. Matland.
- "Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.
- Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

- SURVEYING SHIPS,
"Starling, 6, comr. Kellier.
"Plover, 6, " Collinson.

- TROOPSHIPS,
"Belleisle, capt. Kingcombe.
"Apollo, comr. G. Frederick.
"Sapphire, " Cole.
"Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
"Rattlesnake,
"Alligator,

- STEAMERS.
H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,
"Memnon, comr. Powell.
"Neptune, lieutenant. W. H. Hall, R. N.
"Pluto, " Tudor, R. N.
"Ariadne, comr. Roberts, J. N.
"Medusa, " Hewett, J. N.
"Phlegethon, lieutenant. McCleverty, R. N.
"Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.
H.M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
"Driver, " Farmer.

AT AMOY.

- M.H.S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chade, C. B. senior commanding officer.
"Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
"Chameleon, 10, lieutenant. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

- "Agin-court, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, C. B.
"Blenheim, 74, capt. sir T. Herbert, K. C. B.
"Wolverine, 16, " Johnson.
"Cruizer, 10, " Pearce.
"Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.
H.C. St. Hooghly, mr. comr. Ross.
"Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE

- October. ARRIVED
5, (Du.) Jane, Bery, Singapore.
10, (B.) Burman, Cleland, do.
10, " Himalaya, Burn, Madras.
11, " Colonist, Leak Singapore.
13, " Suran, Neathy, Sydney.
13, " Marlam, Rouse, Calcutta & Singapore.
15, (A.) Lowell, Pierce, Chusan.

- 17, (B.) Lady of St. Kilda, Lawrence, Melbourne.
18, " Diana, Davidson, Manila.
18, " Fortitude, " Bombay.
18, " Chelydra, " do.
19, " Malacca, Shettler, Calcutta.
19, " Ann Jockelis, Wightman, do.

- October. SAILED
10, (B.) Wm. Sharples, Jones, Bombay.
10, " Leah Thompson, Kitton, do.
20, " Pandora, Cothay, Manila.
20, " Salopian, Bell, Singapore.
21, " M. S. Elphinstone, Lawson, Bombay.

- UNDER DESPATCH
For London—Helen Steward.
For Singapore—Coringa Packet, Interpreter, Madras, Maia.
For Sing & Cal.—Hers, Rob Roy on the 31st.
For Manila—Ghana 24th instant.
For Bombay.—David Clarke to be despatched on the 22nd.

VESSELS EXPECTED

- From England.—Julia, Devon, Elizabeth, Mary Ann Edie, Claudine, Louisa Jackson, Bolivar, George Wallis, Lord Lowther, Adelaide, Athenaeum, Parrock Hall, Asia, Madras, Ursula, Belle Marina, Wille the Wisp, Liverpool, & Argy, Oracles, Christopher Rawson, Hindostan, Alex. Barling, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Boustead, James Matheson, Greghound, Little Catherine.
From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodrow, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Victoria, Wm. Abraham, Middleton, Lome, Belvidere, Quaila Lath, English.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Crown, Victoria, Bengal Packet, Eliza, Maulmain, Elizabeth Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballentine, Poppy.
From Singapore.—Waterloo, Onyda.

LATEST DATES,

- ENGLAND, 6th July. SINGAPORE, 30th Sept.
UNITED STATES, June 23. MANILA, 7th Oct.
CALCUTTA, 1st Sept. AMOY,
BOMBAY, 24th August. CHUAN, 6th Oct.
JAVA, 27th August. NANKING, 18th Sept.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Ariel	—	Burt	Dent and Co.
Arethusa,	—	Christians	C. Fearon.
Agnes,	512	Jeffrey,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Abbottson,	451	Catt,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine,	—	Hill,	"
Anna Eliza,	234	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic,	—	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ann Jockelis,	—	Wightman	"
Anne Mary,	—	Rackham,	"
Bombay Castle	—	Baxter,	"
Beghamsheire	1408	McGregor	"
Bulton,	—	Robinson,	Dent & Co.
Black Nymph	—	Hall	"
Bucéphalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Black Swan,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Burman,	—	Cleland,	"
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybus.
Cowasj. Family	—	Durham,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Coringa Packet	—	Chilcot,	"
Chanticleer,	—	Grange,	"
Cadet,	—	Carling,	Jardine M. & Co.
Colonist,	—	Lesk,	"
Cacique,	—	Man,	C. Fearon.
Gannett,	398	Clucos,	Jamieson How & Co.
Chelydra,	—	—	Dent and Co.
*Charles Forbes	990	Wills, (Ger	Jardine Matheson & Co
Charlotte,	—	Liebeckwa	"
Drongan,	—	Johnson,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co
Diana,	—	Davidson	"
*Devonport,	—	Broadfoot	Turner and Co.
David Clarke,	—	Mills,	"
*Diadem,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	"
Ellen,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
Emma Egencia	—	Kettlewell	Reynvaan & Co.
Equestrian,	—	Cromotory,	Jardine M. & Co.
Earl Balcarra,	1468	Baker,	"
Edinburgh,	1474	Paterson,	"
Fram. Cowasjee	—	Edwards,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co

SUPPLEMENT.

Foam,	—	Greig,	Dallas and Co.
Frances Ann,	—	Thomson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
*Fred. Huth,	—	Toby,	Turner and Co.
Felicity,	—	McDonald,	Dirom and Co.
Fortitude,	—	—	D. & M. Rustonjee Co
Fort William,	—	Hogg,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ganges,	—	Walker,	—
Geo Armstrong,	—	Jones,	Macvicar & Co.
*Gemini,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
*Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
*Grecian,	—	Watt,	—
*Gulsare,	—	Wilsonghby,	Dirom and Co.
*Hero of Malown,	—	Jackson,	—
Hersey,	—	Easterly,	—
Hongkong,	—	Whettem,	H. Holgate.
Harbinger,	—	Candeish,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Hero,	—	Fowler,	—
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	G. Nye Jr.
Hymalaya,	—	Burn,	—
Hope,	—	Cockain,	Macvicar & Co.
*Helen Stewart,	—	Brown,	—
*Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Helen,	—	Bayne,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Hebrides,	—	Mciville,	—
Has. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Ferreira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Haland Queen,	—	Balls,	—
Intrepid,	—	Stewart,	W. Allanson & Co.
John Calvin,	—	Knox,	Jardine M. & Co.
John Moor,	—	Whitcomb,	H. Rustonjee.
Juliana,	—	Chapman,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co
Jane,	—	Berg,	J. Burd and Co.
John O'Gannat,	—	Robertson,	Turner & Co.
Kirkman Finlay,	—	Scott,	—
Kestrel,	—	Beauvais,	Dent and Co.
Litherland,	—	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
*Lord Eldon,	—	Worsell,	Lindsay & Co.
Lady St Kilda,	—	Lawrence,	—
Maia,	—	Sproule,	D. & M. Rustonjee Co
Marias,	—	Brown,	Dent and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	—	W. Scott.
Mary Anne,	—	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
Matilda,	—	Rowe,	—
Mary C. Webber,	—	Heavy-side,	—
Malacca,	—	Shettler,	—
Mariam,	—	Rouse,	—
Madura,	—	Milne,	Macvicar & Co.
*Osprey,	—	Kirk,	Jardine M. and Co.
*Orator,	—	Serry,	—
Prince Regent,	298	Barclay,	—
Palestine,	—	McLean,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Prince of Wales,	—	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Royal Exchange,	—	—	—
Red Rover,	—	Wright,	—
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rob Roy,	—	Boyd,	H. Pybus.
Rosa,	—	—	C. H. Hart.
*St. Lawrence,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
Sylph,	—	Guy,	H. Rustonjee.
Soipe,	—	—	Hughesdon Brothers.
Susan,	—	Nesby,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Syria,	—	Stroyan,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Tartar,	—	Luce,	—
Thetis,	—	Cass,	Dirom and Co.
Urgent,	—	Thompson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Wild Irish Girl,	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran Jr.
*Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Woomiff,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Wm. Hyde,	—	Steward,	—

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	—	Commodore Kearney,	—
*Levant,	—	Faulk,	J. D. Sward & Co.
*Ann MacKim,	—	Vasmer,	W. A. Lawrence.
Congress,	—	Hay,	—
Probus,	—	Sumner,	Wetmore & Co.
Grafton,	—	Gardener,	I. M. Bull.
Panther,	—	Martin,	J. M. Bull.
*Charleston,	—	Harlow,	Glyphant and Co.
Zenobia,	—	Putnam,	—
Valparaiso,	—	Lockwood,	A. A. Kitchie.
Matappa,	186	Prescott,	Russell & Co.
Lowell,	—	Petres,	W. H. Petres.
Mary Ellen,	—	—	A. Heard & Co.

SPANISH.

Maria,	—	Cuculla,	A. Cuculla.
Ramiro,	—	Escobar,	L. Marques.
*Citana,	—	Salado,	J. Salado.

HAWAIIAN.

Margaretha,	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
-------------	---	---	------------------

DANISH.

Dejah Oak,	—	Paulsen,	Russell & Co.
------------	---	----------	---------------

HAMBURG.

Emeralda,	—	Tollens,	Wetmore & Co.
Hete,	—	Both,	A. A. de Mello.
—	—	Durog,	—
Jane,	—	Bery,	J. Burd & Co.

* At Whampoa.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 57.] Macao, Saturday, 29th October, 1842.

[No. 369.]

CONCERT OF MADAME DE STORR.

THIS evening at half past eight, a vocal and instrumental concert in the house of Mr Lourenço Marques, who has had the kindness to lend his saloon for that purpose. There having been no time to send out all the tickets, the subscribers that may not have received theirs, are requested to send for them to M. de Storr, Rua Formosa, who has still a few tickets to dispose of. Macao 29th October 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION,

ON THURSDAY NEXT,

The 1st of November, 1842.

JOHN SMITH, has the pleasure to acquaint the public that he will sell by Public Auction, in his auction room, positively to the highest bidder, an invoice of fresh Stationery, WOOLLEN SHAWLS, QUILTS, MULL and WOOLLEN MUSLINS, Bird SHOT, Religious PRINTS, BUTTER, handsome Toilet GLASSES, Table CUTLERY, Gilt Jewellery, Inkstand, &c. at the same time will be put up for sale, the Wearing Apparel and Effects of the late Mr. CLARENCE RHIND. The sale will commence precisely at half past 10 o'clock. Macao, 27th October, 1842.

NO. 105.—On Wednesday the 2nd November, JNO. SMITH will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, (in the godowns of J. P. SINGH, Esq. Praya Mendocina) a quantity of DAMAGED BOMBAY COTTON, ex "Kirkman Finlay"; and a few casks of UNBOUNDED OIL. Macao, 27th October, 1842.

CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT ON LONDON, payable in such sums as may suit the convenience of the holder at Alexandria, Malta and other places in the Mediterranean; as well as on the Continent of Europe, may be had on application at the Office of REMINGTON & Co. Bombay, 11th August, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firm of

PITCAIRN SMITH & Co. at Batavia,

SMITH & Co. at Singapore.

and KERR MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KERR, McKIMING & Co.

KERR MURRAY & Co.

Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to F. H. TIEDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENNIS DEVIKKE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st August, 1842.

REMINGTON & Co.

Hongkong, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Interest and Responsibility of Mr. JAMES STRACHAN in our House ceased on the 30th April 1841; and our business after this date will be conducted under the firm of DROGLES, RAWSON & Co. STRACHAN & Co.

Manila, 31st August, 1841.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUNNOS, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1843. Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATRICKSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Mr. F. LANGER, master builder, lately arrived from Calcutta, is about establishing himself in his business at Hongkong, and begs to inform the Public that he is desirous of taking charge of the superintendence of such buildings as are now erecting, or furnishing plans and superintending the building of others to be erected there. Gentlemen desirous of availing themselves of his services are requested to apply to him at HONGKONG. Macao, 11th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maculmein, and in that of RUCHANAM & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842. INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subdégargues des Navires Français repartent en Chine sans préavis que leurs navires ne paieront d'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 19th August, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lightage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns at Hongkong, upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUNN, or to C. PEARSON.—Macao

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong,

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTICLEER" Captain GRANGE, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive Cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to

HENRY ORRIBLE.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE first class ship "KIRKMAN FINLAY," Captain SCOTT, 439 tons register, now lying in the Roads and ready to receive cargo. Apply to

TURNER & Co.

Macao, 27th October, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE bark "BLACK NYMPH" Capt. HALL, 360 tons register, will have early despatch, for freight apply to

FOX, RAWSON & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE "Red Rover" Captain ROBERT BOYD, will leave for the above ports positively on the 31st inst., for freight of Treasure only. Apply to HENRY FYBUS.

Macao, 10th Oct., 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 335 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

JAMIESON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE new British Barque "AGNEDA" A. I. at Lloyds, W. JEFFRAY commander and of 512 Tons burthen is ready to receive Cargo, and will have quick despatch.

This vessel was built under particular inspection of the very best Heckma teak timber, superiorly fastened, coppered to 20 inches on the bands, and has excellent accommodations for passengers. For freight and passage apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23d August, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; for freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship PORTA, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLUBHOY DUSARJEE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Home

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Huso of MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

FOR SALE OR FREIGHT TO MANILA.

THE new fast sailing Spanish Brig "RAMIRO," Captain A. ESCOBAR, one of the best vessels built in Manila he is so well known in China it is presumed no further description is required. Apply to

L. VARGUES.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRANJEE COWAPER," 950 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fast sailing British Barque "CONRANGA PACKET," of 286 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "THETIS," J. CARR Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD,

THE A I Ship LABELLA, Capt. HANBIE, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG AND SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE, Capt. BERG.
For freight or passage apply to
JOHN BURD, at Hongkong, or B. BARRETTO, Macao.

WONKED—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

TO LET—A Spacious HOUSE with a Veranda and Terrace in front and a fine Garden near St. Paul's church now occupied by Mr. Brown; will be vacant on the 1st proximo; for particulars apply to Macao, Oct. 19, 1842. J. A. DA SILVA.

RAFFLE OF A PAINTING.

THE subject of which is taken from a novel of Victor Hugo, "Notre Dame de Paris." Esmeralda is represented in the midst of the people of Paris, in the square of Notre Dame, at the moment when, dancing with her goat, she perceives at the balcony of a house, Capt. Phoebus who sometime before had saved her life, and whom she has not since seen.

The scene is laid in the reign of Louis XI., and the costume of that period has been furnished to Madame de Storr, who has composed this picture, from the Royal Library in Paris.

This raffle is to consist of 50 tickets to be drawn on the 5th November next at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in the presence of the ticketholders, in the house at present occupied by Mr. and Mrs. de Storr, in the Rua For-miga, and the picture to be the prize of the last number drawn.

The price of one ticket is three dollars, and each will be signed by Mr. de Storr and sealed with his seal; and to him application may be made every day between four and five o'clock in the afternoon for inspection of the dainting.

FOR SALE—CANVAS, TWINE AND CORDAGE. Apply to
Macao, 25th October, 1842. DIROM & Co.

JUST RECEIVED—A PARCEL of fresh CHATEAU
MARGANX, in one and three dozen cases;
AND
Raisins and Peaches, for sale on exceedingly moderate terms. Apply to
Macao, 25th Oct. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

SUPERIOR MANILA SEGARS—A BATCH of very superior No. 111 Manila SEGARS, warranted of the first quality, and good—in whole and half boxes. Apply to
Macao, 25th Oct. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—BALLY RICE, COCONUT OIL, COFFEE,
JAVA ARRACK in cases and casks, SINGAPORE BEAMS AND PLANK, PORT WINE, SHERRY, OLD ROM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. JOHN BURD & Co.
Queen's Road.

FOR SALE—EUROPE ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1
ANCHOR, 1 CHAINCABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, St. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to Macao, Oct. 8, 1842. JOAO BARRETTO.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD
PROPERTY, PLATE, PLATED WARE, GLASS and CROCKERY
WARE, BOOKS, HORNS, COWS &c. belonging to H. J.
LEIGHTON Esq.
Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER AND NAILS. Apply to
Macao, 22d Sept. 1842. J. A. DURRAN, Jr.

FOR SALE—On board the "Corringa Packet" a portion of best MOONSHY RICE, DRILL, DRCCA SOAP. Apply to Macao, 23d September, 1843. F. B. CHILCOT.

FOR SALE—MANILA SEGARS 4s., and EUROPE
LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to Macao, 23d September, 1842. P. DE LAS HERAS.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms.
Apply to
Macao, 15th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—JAVA ARRACK and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to Macao, 28th August, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, BOY'S HATS. Apply to
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz.; and NAILS; apply to
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long,
and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.
Apply to
Macao, 25th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—DUFF GORDON & Co's.

SHERRY in bottle and HIDS,
PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each,
CLARET in do. 6 do. do,
CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.
apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira;
apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE—A RIFLE and a few pairs counting and four shelled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to.

Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE—At the Goodowns of the undersigned Gambao Factory, adjoining the Custom house
the following articles, viz.—

Most Splendid French FIRE GLASSES of half an inch, thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 71;
inches; by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS,
with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Pavement Porcelain DINNER SER-VICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Muslin-stem Sugar in quart bottles, a $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful
articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in HIDS.
SPITZER WATER new.
GILMAN'S STURGES late imports.
BEEF in tins; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—CHATEAU LA ROSE, in 2 dozen cases
MANILA SEGARS, 4s superior.
COGNAC BRANDY.
SEITZERWATER and HOER.
HAMBURG PORK and BEER.
RUSSIAN DUCK and CANVAS.
Apply to
Macao, 28th October, 1841. JOAO BARRETTO.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads,
and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to Macao, 20th April, 1842. DENT & Co.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BASS' PALE
ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored p. French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, BREITZER water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TOP PENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila
and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply in Macao, 26th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March. 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

LOTTERY.

MESSRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's.
FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANT
ERS, AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY,
OF 1843, of all Prizes!

[It is the consent of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Watney Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, in their General Mofussil Agency: for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennual Lotteries: from the Presidents of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, &c., &c., it is purposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived thence, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund;
only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Contributors of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing: and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans
of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate: or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with: without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!
With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt.
Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ticket, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes,
only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme:

MESSRS THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA
UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GEN-
BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843;
valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket: divided into 2,000
Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless; Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally obligatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

NOTICE.

1 Prize of.....	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances. 480 Tickets.

Reserved, of the First Calcutta
Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes:

only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be entitled upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making an early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co.'s letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice
to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.
As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them.
It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and
Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping
the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery
Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a price of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See
6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s Rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

THE CANTON PRESS.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs. T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly, N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co's rs 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest recension of Miss KEADU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. Esop's FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.
Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper also $ 3.
Other work in proportion.
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.
ADVERTISEMENTS.
Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
" " for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance..... $ 12
For six Months..... $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

Tea Trade with the United States.

Average exportations since 1807.

5 Years.	Ch. Black	Ch. Green	Total Ch	Population of the U. S.	Importation of Coffee.
from 1807 to 11	19,440	30,680	50,120	In 1810 was 7,229,000
1812 to 16	23,700	24,450	50,050	" 1820 .. 9,330,000	In 1820 was 21,000,000
1817 to 21	46,340	77,780	124,100	" 1830 .. 12,867,000	" 1830 .. 21,000,000
1822 to 26	38,830	98,430	135,260	" 1840 .. 17,063,000	" 1840 .. 24,000,000
1827 to 31	28,300	6,800	97,180
1832 to 36	54,460	141,700	196,160
1837 to 41	40,100	119,000	169,100

Average annual supply of Tea to the United States at 169,000 Ch.

Disposed of as follows:

Viz Loss by Fire, Wreck, &c. 3,000
Export to Canada and elsewhere 35,000
Consumption in the United States... 129,000 — 169,000 Ch.

Export of Tea to the U. S. from the season just closed 1841 a 42 Ch. 162,563 equal 12,600,000 pounds.
Deduct of Loss and Export..... 40,000 .. 3,200,000

Left for consumption..... Ch. 122,563 .. 10,400,000 pounds.

(pound for each person.
Population about 12,000,000 equal to 1 of 2

The supply of Coffee for 1841 a 42 being about 90,000,000 of pounds, or equal to 5 pounds for each person.

Notes. The more rapid growth of population in the United States being in the western and north western States where Coffee is almost exclusively used, the increase of consumption falls chiefly on the latter article. The new Tariff submitted by the committee of ways and means utilizes 2 c. per pound on Coffee and a scale of 3 a 20 c. on Tea, or say at 12 c. on 1 of a pound—to 7 c. per head nearly.

The new Scale may be supposed to operate nearly as follows on an Import of 120,000 Ch., a quantity perhaps as large as can be safely sent under proposed duties, estimating the consumption at 100 a 110,000 ch, and Export 20 a 30,000 under very low prices in Europe.

Say 3 cent. on 10,000 Ch. Bohra costing average 12 T. is 25 p. Cent
8 Do " 25,000 " Souchong " " 20 " 40 " "
8 Do " 25,000 " Cm. Young Hyson " " 18 " 50 " "
10 Do " 30,000 " Skin & Tw. Hkay " " 20 " 50 " "
12 Do " 40,000 " Young Hyson " " 20 " 50 " "
20 Do " 5,000 " Cm Gunp. & Impl. " " 20 " 100 " "
20 Do " 5,000 " Country do. & do. " " 35 " 60 " "
130,000 Chests.

Comparative Export of Tea for the Season of 1841 and 42.

To the United States.	To Great Britain.
Young Hyson Chd. 85,454 equal 7,629,980 lbs.	.. 1,210,000 lbs. (in the proportion of 6 to 1 nearly
Hyson Skin 18,325 .. 1,209,430 "	.. 378,000 " " " " " 4 " 1 "
Hyson.... 9,478 .. 835,026 "	.. 1,810,400 " " " " " 1 " 3 "
Twankay... 3,141 .. 231,280 "	.. 3,603,535 " " " " " 1 " 14 "
Gunpowder... 8,895 .. 8-9,500 "	.. 1,180,000 " " " " " 1 " 11 "
Imperial.... 6,581 .. 618,614 "	.. 698,000 " " " " " 1 " 1 "
131,874 .. 11,294,730 Green	.. 8,789,985 " " " " " 34 " 1 "
Souchong & Congo 22,107 .. 1,769,860 lbs.	.. 8,789,985 Green.
Pecco... 678 .. 44,890 "	.. 24,500,000 Congo.
Pouchong... 7,912 .. 532,104 "	.. 3,509,950 Other kinds.
30,689 .. 2,343,554 Black	.. 36,799,905 pounds total English as 28.
Chests 131,874 equal 11,294,730 Green	.. 13,630,284 pounds total American.
.. 30,689 .. 2,343,554 Black

SINGAPORE.

From the Sing. Free Press, of 3rd Oct.

ARRIVAL.—The first instalment of the Overland Mail arrived here yesterday by the Columbus, which left Bombay on the 9th instant, but the bulk of the letters &c. are in other vessels which are expected hourly. We give below our monthly letter, which contains a pretty full summary of English News, which however are of no interest or importance. We have added a few extracts from the London Mail, and the latest Mercantile Information. We should have made our extracts fuller, and offered some remarks on the Overland News, but we have hurried to press to be enabled to forward our Extra to China and Manila by the Poppy, the letter bags of which close to day at 4 p. m.

Aug. Overland Mail.

A duel was fought on 15th ult. between Capt. Boldero M. P. and the Hon. Craven Berkeley arising out of a letter that had appeared in the Morning Chronicle charging Capt. Boldero with having in a conversation which took place in the Library of the House of Commons said that if any person damned the Queen in his presence he should take no notice of it for he was no eaves dropper. Captain Boldero denied having used such expressions and enquired of Mr Berkeley if he had written the letter, he replied he had not, but that the statement was in substance correct. Capt Boldero then wrote to Mr Alexr. Thompson, Mr Liddell, Mr Botfield and Sir Chas. Douglas who were present at the conversation, who all concurred in stating that the observations were, if any person after dinner should make use of any observation against the Queen, he (Capt. Boldero) should not then notice it, but require an explanation on the following morning. Mr Craven Berkeley refusing to retract his impression, a hostile meeting took place but without any ill effect. Mrs Fox, the widow of the late Rt. Hon. Charles James Fox died at Chertsey on 8th ult. at the advanced age of 97. By her decease a Pension of £1000 from the Civil List falls in. The Lord Chancellor has been indisposed for a short time, but is now nearly recovered; a report was circulated during his illness that he contemplated resigning the seals before Michaelmas Term, and that Sir William Follett the present Solicitor General, would succeed to the Woolack. On 9th ult. the Court of Common Council of London Mr King postponed his motion for a grant of £500 out of the City's cash in aid of the fund for granting relief to the Families of those who have suffered in Afghanistan until the arrival of more information. An application has been made to the Board of Trade by a House at Liverpool for leave to import Foreign Sugar duty free for Agricultural purposes and for fattening cattle. The Board considering that it would afford the opportunity for an illicit trade to a large extent have very wisely declined to accede to the proposition. The contract for supplying the carriages for conveying the Passengers across the Egyptian Desert has been obtained from the Peninsular Company by Mr. Andrews, Her Majesty's Coach maker at Southampton. Each carriage is to be in the form of a small omnibus to carry four inside and two out. They will be of very light construction for the purpose of passing easily over the Sandy Desert. Each carriage will be drawn by two Arab horses which will run 2 miles stages. Forty carriages must be ready by 1st Sept. next. The Cleopatra, 28, Capt. Wyvell is under orders for China; she will touch at Mauritius to convey the new Governor Sir Wm. Gomm. A new iron steam Frigate called the Gaulepoupe has been built for the East India Company's Navy and will sail shortly, she is commanded by Commander Charlewood, R. N.

FRANCE.—This country has been again thrown into a state of distress and excitement by the sudden and afflictive death of the Duke of Orleans the King's eldest son and Heir Apparent of the Throne: The Royal Duke was returning from Neuilly to Paris on 18th ult. in an open carriage drawn by a pair of horses and when near Porte-Maillot the horses took fright from some unexplained cause, and started off at a rapid pace; the Prince stood up in the carriage to see what occasioned the increased speed, and it is supposed must have been suddenly jerked out, he fell upon his head and was taken up in an insensible state from which he never rallied altho' he was immediately removed to the House of a private contiguous, and the most prompt and able medical assistance procured, he breathed his last about 3 hours after the accident. The King and Queen left Neuilly a short time after the Duke and met the express which had been despatched to apprise them of the melancholy circumstance. Their Majesties were specially with the royal sufferer and remained until his decease, when the King ordered the Royal body to be conveyed to Neuilly and himself and the Queen accompanied it. From a surgical examination of the head it appeared that there was a fracture on the posterior part of the skull extending from the occiput to the other and ascending from the frontal bone which was almost entirely severed from the head. The surgeons were therefore of opinion that the head of the Prince had sustained all the force of the fall, as no other part of his Royal Highness's person was seriously injured. The Duchess of Orleans was on the borders of Belgium when the accident happened, but speedily returned to Paris overwhelmed with grief. A royal ordinance was issued on 14th commanding the Chambers of Peers and Deputies to assemble on 26th instead of 31st, as originally appointed, it being necessary to name a Regency immediately as the Duke's eldest son is only 4 years old. On 26th the King, attended by his four surviving sons, and surrounded by his officers of state, opened the session in person, and delivered under very painful emotions a short speech announcing the afflictive event and entreating the Chambers without loss of time to make such an arrangement for continuing the Royal authority in case of his death as would preserve France in peace. It is understood that the Ministers will propose to confer the regency on the Duke de Nemours the King's next son, and to the other Royal Dukes in succession should need require and there is no opposition expected, as Mr. Thiers had been honored with an audience of the King and was believed to have assented to the plan.

The present Ministry do not appear very firm in their seats—the party of M. M. Dufaure and Passy having seceded from them, and it is expected the former will be proposed as a candidate for president of the Chamber of Deputies in opposition to the ministerial candidate. The body of the unfortunate Prince was brought to the church Notre Dame, Paris on 30th and will this day be interred in the Family vault at Dreux, the King attending to assist at the funeral obsequies.

Spain.—The ministry of Genl. Rosell is stated to be in a very wavering condition and is not expected to continue long, unless with some material reinforcement. Genl. Turbano in Barcelona has been committing several excesses upon the unfortunate inhabitants whom he has singled out as Carlists, several have been put to death, and others have fled to avoid his tyranny.

(From the London Mail Aug. 4.)

The funeral procession for transferring the remains of the late Duke of Orleans from Neuilly to Notre Dame, where they are to lie in state, took place on 30th of July. The troops of the National Guard and of the garrison were all under arms, and lined the road the whole length of the procession. The clergy, both on foot and in carriages, were far more numerous, and in greater pomp, than at the funeral of Napoleon, the Archbishop of Paris himself was in the procession, whilst many of his clergy were on foot. The heart of the Prince, contained in an urn, covered with crape, was borne in a state mourning coach, with four ecclesiastics. The hearse, or calafalque, which followed with the body, drawn by eight horses, was far more ample than that which bore Napoleon's remains. This was of gold: The calafalque of the Duke of Orleans was plain, the principal part of which contained the coffin; and this was surmounted by figures and ornamental work in silver. The cords of the pall were borne by six grandees on horseback Marshal Soult, and three other Marshals, bore four of these cords; the Chancellor and another civilian bore the two others. The Prince's charger, a grey, was covered with a black gauze, studded with silver stars. The Princes, the ministers, the deputations of peers and deputies, followed in a long line of mourning coaches; and the demeanour of the public evinced every sympathy for the melancholy fate of the Prince and the grief of his family.

The king of the French opened his new Parliament on the 26th July in person.

On attempting to address the Chamber, the King's grief and agitation were extreme. For some moments he felt unable to proceed. His emotion soon communicated itself to his auditory, and changed into sobs the cheers of enthusiasm with which on his entrance the King had been hailed. On uttering the first words his voice faltered, and he burst into tears. During the delivery of the whole speech His Majesty's voice frequently failed him. At every such pause the cheering was renewed and at the close the Chamber for many minutes rang with cries of "Vive le Roy." The speech over his Majesty sat down and remained while the deputies were sworn in. On the King's way back to the Tuileries he was most enthusiastically received by the people. His Majesty seemed much altered by the calamity, that had fallen upon him, his family, and the country.

THE SPEECH.

Gentlemen, Peers, and Deputies,

"Under the grief which oppresses me, deprived of that dearly beloved son whom I considered destined to replace me on the throne, and who was the glory and support of my old age, I have deemed it imperative to hasten the moment of your assembling around me. We have together a great duty to fulfil. When it shall please God to call me to himself, it is necessary that France and the Constitutional Monarchy be secured against being for a moment exposed to any interruption of the Royal authority. You will therefore have to deliberate upon the measures requisite for preventing, during the minority of my beloved grandson, this immense danger."

"The calamity that has befallen does not render me ungrateful to Divine Providence, which still preserves to me my children, worthy of all my tenderness and of the confidence of France."

"Gentlemen, let us now secure the repose and safety of our country." At a later period I shall call upon you to resume your accustomed labours relative to state affairs."

The law of Regency has been drawn up. It gives the office of Regent to the Duc de Nemours, and in his default to each of his brothers successively. The garde and tutelle are given to the Duchess of Orleans. There was at first some idea of setting up the Duchess as sole Regent in opposition to the Duc de Nemours, but this M. Thiers refused to sanction. He had an interview with Louis Philippe on the very day of his arrival from the Viehy waters, which lasted several hours, and contrary to the expectation of his friends, M. Thiers declared in favour of the regency of the duke, and the guardianship of the Duchess of Orleans, instead of the widowed mother's sole regency. But though the opposition have consented to present no amendment on the Address, nor to go to any division on the regency, they have still resolved to bring forward a motion for overturning the Ministry. M. Guizot is not reluctant to accept the challenge M. Barrot is the Opposition candidate for the Presidency. The Ministry will support Sauset. The Chamber of Deputies have been occupied in the appointment of Presidents to the bureaux, in which the Conservatives have a decided advantage.

A great quarrel has arisen in the Chamber between Ministers and their opponents, each accusing the other of having favoured their common enemies the Legitimists, in the elections. The accusation is no doubt true on both sides, and may well be so: for there are hundreds of people who wear the name of Legitimists, and who are anything under the sun. They style themselves Legitimists to get the votes of the peasantry, and afterwards, perhaps, a good bribe from the Government. And, in the mean time, they are sought for and flattered by both parties neither of which fear them, though both are anxious for the small aid they can bring.

Messrs Bates, Thurnburn, and Co.—At a meeting of the creditors on the 21st of July Sir G. Larpent Bart., in the chair, the resolutions of the meeting of the 28th of June: and the circular which had been addressed to the absent creditors forwarding that resolution, were read. The chairman, referring to the details contained in the circular addressed to the creditors stated that the accounts had been made up in more detail, but that there was in substance, no material alteration in the debts and assets of the house, and that the last overpaid mail had brought remittances in bills of lading to the extent of about 10,000*l*. He also stated that at the date of the latest information from Calcutta, the house of Ferguson, Brothers, and Co., was proceeding in the usual course of business, nor was any pressure to be apprehended beyond what might arise from the stoppage of Briggs, Thurnburn and Co., and that if time and facility were afforded by the billholders, a confident expectation was held out by Mr. Dickens, a partner of Ferguson and Co., and by others indirectly connected with that firm, that the house in Calcutta would make provision for the dishonoured bills. He added that Mr. Jenkins proposed to leave this country for Calcutta, by the overland mail of the 1st September and that Mr. Thurnburn, Senr., was desirous of proceeding to Egypt, which would retrieve the estate from expenses; and further, that since the suspension took place, sufficient assets had been collected to enable the parties to make a payment of twelve and a half per cent on the debts owing by the house. It was moved and resolved unanimously—"That the interest of the creditors would be best consulted by two of the managing partners, Mr. F. W. Collard and Mr. R. Thurnburn, Junr., devoting their services to the liquidation of the affairs of the house, under the direction of the following inspectors: Sir George Larpent Bart., Thomas Dent Esq., and John Small Esq."

That the draft of a deed be prepared forthwith for carrying into effect the preceding resolution, and when so settled, to be presented to the creditors for signature.

"That the partners be authorized to compound debts, and submit to arbitration where necessary, and that the deed contain a release from the creditors as soon as the inspectors consider such release can be given consistently with the interest of the creditors, and in the mean time, the inspectors make such allowance to the partners for their services, as they may deem proper."

"That as soon as the deed is ready for the signature of the creditors, a dividend of twelve and a half per cent, be paid them."

"The accounts due, including bills under 50*l*. on hand, and held singly at the time the house of Briggs, Thurnburn and Co. suspended its payment, being stated not to exceed 1540*l*. That the partners, with the assent of the inspectors, be authorized to pay the same in full; the amount to be so paid not to exceed 1500*l*."

The late rise in indigo will, it is expected, benefit this estate from 25,000*l* to 30,000*l*.

Messrs Acranman, Morgan & Co.—A meeting of the creditors of this firm took place under a flat in bankruptcy on July 15. There were two flats; one against Daniel Wade William, Edward, and Alfred John Acranman, as merchants, and the other against the Messrs Acranman and Morgan, Holroyd, and J. N. Franklin, as steamship builders. The liabilities of the firm are estimated at about 300,000*l*, in addition to those of their several estates. Messrs Miles, Horford, & Co. were elected assessors, and Messrs Thomas Fyten and Robert Castle, assignees.

LONDON MARKET.

(From London Price Currents, August 4.)

Tea.—The large public sales, announced early in the month for the 13th and 22nd, tended to check cheat steady demand by private contract which had been ruling during the whole of the month of June. At these sales 63,000 Packages were offered, of which the Trade bought 20,000. Throughout these sales the Importers evinced much firmness by freely buying in their Toss, and in many instances taxing their Conque as 1d to 2d per lb above the current rates; this gave confidence to the buyers, and a good business has continued to be done since by private contract.

Prices remain very nearly the same as quoted at the third of last month, with the exception of Bohas; the stock of which has increased very much lately, and it being principally of the lower qualities, sales are very difficult, even at a reduction of 2d per lb.

The clearances have been very steady, with a fair demand for exportation. The only arrival during the month has been the "John Bibby," with 8,300 Packages; but as several of the vessels which arrived at the end of June did not land their cargoes until after the 30th, they were not included in the stock, which remains about the same as last month.

	1841	1842
Total imports...	7,389,900 lbs.	29,982,000 lbs.
Deliveries...	19,412,000 lbs.	30,526,000 lbs.†
Stocks...	26,864,000 lbs.	32,356,000 lbs.
Of which 2,358,000 were exported.
Of which 224,000 do.

Sizes.—Cashu Almas, the market was heavy during the early part of the month, and several parcels offered at auction were partly taken in, those which were sold went at a reduction of 2s a 3s per cwt. upon prices previously paid by private contract. During the last few days there has been an improved demand, and several parcels taken in at the late auction have been sold at the bought-in prices. On the 26th, 304 Chests were sold in public sale at an advance of about 2s, fully recovering the decline above mentioned, a few fine picked lots realised 9s a 9s 6d, good middling 8s 9d a 8s 6d.

Campar, has declined to £ 15 a 14, at which prices only small quantities can be sold.

China Root, £ 2 5s a 2 3 10a per cwt.

Galanga Root, 12 a 13, per cwt.

Rhubarb, 4s 3d a 8s 6d per lb.

Salt, China, Tealee, 17s a 18 a 2s 6d per lb.

Tayman, none.

Canton, 9s a 10s 6d per lb.

Chin chow, 2s a 3s per lb.

Soy, China, 5s a 5s 6d per gallon.

RECEIVED IN ENGLAND.

From China.—July 16: Rajah; 20, H. M. S. Sulphur; 21, H. M. S. Wellington; 22, John Bibby; 23, Cordelia; August, 1, Louisa; 2, Earl Grey.

DEPARTURES.

For China.—July, 1, George Wallis; 7, Cornwall; 8, Liverpool; 16, Lady Raffles; 29, Greyhound.

KHELAT-I-GHILZIE.

From the Bombay Times, 24th August.

From Kandahar direct, our letters with the exception of the unjoined long and interestingly detailed account of the defence of Khelat-i-Ghilzie, are of little importance as regards active operations, they do not give us any hint of the actual arrangements, said in the letter above to be about to take place, but the force of their contents would incline us to believe that a retrograde movement by the Bolan pass, is contemplated.

The harvest at Kandahar is being gathered in, but no grain is being collected for the army, and the men are now being fed from the stores in the godown, a certain indication to the Sepoys, that they are to return, much to their disappointment, for they continue most anxious to avenge their country. A singular circumstance has come to light at the Western capital, which would tend materially to increase the suspicions entertained, that Shah Sohrab had a larger share in the proceedings of his subjects than we have hitherto been willing to allow him. It is that the Envoy at the request of the Shah forwarded directions to Kandahar to have the seminary of Magazines removed from the Citadel: this was remonstrated against, and the reply was that the King required all the accommodation available about the Citadel for himself, and that some other places could be found for the Magazine. It might go to Killa Aram (16 miles off,) and removed it must be.

We now submit to our readers the narrative above alluded to, and at the same time that we are pleased at being chosen as the first to present such a document to our readers, again, express our renewed astonishment that so little beyond our bare complimentary notice has recognised the undoubted claims General Nott, and all his force have on the gratitude of the Government of India. They have, we maintain, done their ditty admirably and gallantly, and it behoves the Governor General to remove without delay, the impression now abroad, that wilful neglect is the cause of the silence so long preserved.

"We marched into quarters at Khelat-i-Ghilzie in November 1841. Our barracks were excellent, but the fortifications of the place were little more than commenced on, and along some hundred yards of the works there was neither wall and ditch. Directly we got news of the insurrection at Cabool, the Sepoys were set to work to strengthen the defences of the post—scarp, palisades, parapets, and a ditch at the most accessible part of the works were commenced on, and both officers and men continued to work at them until the winter set well in, and the frost rendered the ground so hard, that there was no longer any working it. On the 9th December about fifteen hundred Ghilzie made their appearance, with the intention, as they said, of besieging us. They took up their ground about two and a half miles off, but their warlike efforts were confined to firing a few shots into the place at night, and an attempt made by a party of their horse to cut off some of our men who were cutting bluntness for fuel, in which they were foiled by the Sepoys of the guard. A fall of snow compelled them to decamp after nine days, and the only damage they did us was, to make all the chiefs in our neighbourhood "yagoo." Of all the chiefs whom we had paid and supported, only one man adhered to us, and he a person of no great influence. The winter now set in with severity, and the cold soon became excessive. We had no doors for the barracks, and neither doors nor glass for the windows of our quarters, which were large and lofty rooms some 36 feet long, and our supply of fire wood we were obliged to husband, so that we never could keep our rooms warm. You must recollect Khelat-i-Ghilzie, its situation is a very exposed one situated in the throat of a funnel—high winds prevail throughout the year, and in winter the lower the temperature sank, the higher blew the north wind. Snow lay for two months on the ground, and the thermometer fell as low as forty degrees below the freezing point. With no door to the barracks, and only such rough purdais as grain bags, which were all we could get, you may conceive how much our men suffered; a gale of wind always blowing when the temperature was below zero, and usually, too, blowing most strongly at night. I have never experienced a winter so continuously cold. When we entered the garrison we had provision in flour for the troops, for upwards of six months; but as we got an increase of three hundred men to the post, when Colonel Macleod's brigade passed us on its return to Candahar, we had many additional mouths to feed, and we knew not how long we might be required to hold the post. We had a quantity of wheat in store, but with the country all round "yagoo" we had not the means of grinding it. We got possession of some millstones, and tried to get up mills, but after getting all the machinery in order, we found that all the water we could command was not sufficient to keep the machinery in motion. We then tried a bullock mill which also failed from our not being able to fabricate the iron work of sufficient solidity, and we should have been utterly nonplussed, had not an officer in the garrison possessed a book on mechanics in which was contained a description of a vertical hand-mill capable of grinding some sixteen maunds daily. This we succeeded in constructing after two months and a half's labour upon mills, and little anxiety as to the result. We were now easy in our minds, for this with some small hand-mills gave us the means of supporting our garrison for some two or three additional months, and we knew our men would fight and hold the post against all the Afghans in the country as long as our provisions lasted. We had occasional communication with Candahar by means of highly paid emissaries, and we thus learned the disastrous fate of our Cabool comrades. The tidings of the winter was excessive, but it passed at last. With the spring our labours on the defences recommenced, and as soon as the weather became mild, the hostile chiefs of the two great Ghilzie tribes in our neighbourhood made their appearance. These gentlemen had spent the winter in a more sheltered locality, and as long as they were not near us, the villagers brought in commodities for sale, but, with their appearance, all supplies ceased. On two occasions we were obliged to "chop" sheep—the first was a peaceable affair, we secured a whole flock without let or hindrance, but, on the second occasion, we had to fight for them, and had a few men wounded. We had forty-three European Artillery men in the garrison, and it was chiefly for them that the animal food was required. The supply of all their necessities ran out in winter, and on two different occasions they were for some days on bread and water, yet they never grumbled, worked as well as if they had been highly fed, and bore all their privations with the most admirable good humour. The hostile Ghilzie chiefs at first brought only a few hundred men with them, and took up their quarters at a safe distance of some miles from us; but during all April they were receiving accessions to their force, and with these accessions their boldness increased, until they diminished their distance to less than a mile from the place. As they approached, our range necessarily became more limited, and we had neither Cavalry nor the means of moving a gun, and the country round Khelat-i-Ghilzie is full of ravines, and exceeding favourable to the sheltering mode of fighting, which these gentry most approve of. We were latterly, as the investment became more close, obliged to confine ourselves to the narrow space within our defences; these by the continued labour of our men had become very respectable, and, such as we deemed, no Afghan without the aid of gun would have attempted. In this however, we were agreeably disappointed. Towards the middle of May the enemy commenced to dig trenches round the place, working at them all night. By the 26th, they had completely surrounded us with them, the nearest being within two hundred and fifty yards of our defences. These were all loopholed, and afforded the enemy perfect cover; they were constructed, too, with some skill as to position, as the advanced trenches were invariably protected by 2 or 3 trenches in their rear, and they were uniformly placed, so as to have the advantage of any natural cover afforded by the ground. From these trenches the hottest fire any of us had ever seen Afghans keep up, was poured upon any one who exposed himself, obviously picked marksmen were selected for this duty, for they fired exceedingly well for Afghans and strangers of from 600 to 700 yards, their long jezails throw balls with great accuracy. They were so completely sheltered in these trenches that we seldom had an opportunity of firing at them excepting when parties were relieving each other, and then the dense barrels and rattle of the gunfire came into play. Such had been the monotony of our previous existence that it was a matter of great amusement firing at these gentry and it was seldom that any fellow got into the narrow trenches in daylight without running the gamut of a few double barrels. On the evening of the 20th May the enemy were unusually quiet, and so few of them visible that it was a matter of doubt whether the greater number of them had not decamped. A few of them were observed, by means of our telescopes, at a distance of fort practising escalading with scaling ladders, and this was the first intimation we had of their having constructed these articles. Officers and men both, for several nights previously, kept at their posts; there was bright moonlight and the night passed with unusual quietness until towards morning the moon went down. The attention of the Officer on duty was then suddenly arrested by the clatter of horses feet, indicating the close presence of a large body of horse and the word was passed round to get ready. Shortly afterwards the whole Northern face of the works was assailed by dense bodies of the enemy. The morning was so dark that they were within 100 yards before they were observed, though we were on the look out for them and they came on with great boldness, shouting Allah! Allah! They were received with discharges of grape and a hot fire of musketry which must have done heavy execution among these dense masses; still they pressed on, pushing their attack with the greatest vehemence at the north east and north west angles of the works, where the ascent was most easy and the defences apparently most accessible. At the north east angle the defence consisted of a ditch, scarp of some seven or eight feet in height, a slope of some eight feet between the top of the scarp and the parapet, the latter consisting of sand bags. The enemy, by the aid of scaling ladders, crossed the ditch, ascended the scarp and sloping bank, and endeavoured to get over the parapet: here they were resolutely met with the musket and bayonet. Thrice they came boldly on to the assault, planting one of their standards within a yard of the muzzle of one of our guns, and thrice they were driven back; only one man succeeded in getting into the place, and he was shot with his foot on the axle of this gun. Two guns were in position at this part of the works and the attempts of the enemy to get within the works through their embrasures, and over the parapets on either side, were so determined that the Artillery men, for some minutes were obliged to quit their guns and betake themselves to the musket and bayonet with which they did good service; the Sepoys too fought well, one of them was observed by the Artillery men to have lost four men. The principal annoyances suffered by the garrison was from showers of heavy stones, there were thrown into the works in great quantity to cover the escaladers, and several of our men were knocked down and smartly bruised by them. During the height of the assault the enemy fired little, they had apparently slung their match-locks and came on sword in hand, but they were met by a fire so deadly and well sustained that they had no chance of success. The Officers of the garrison were all surprised at the boldness and determination of the attack, but we understood afterwards, that trusting to their numbers, and emboldened no doubt by their previous successes at Kabul and Ghuznee, they reckoned on confidently ousting the place, that many of their women were waiting in the ravines close at hand to share in the plunder of the Garrison. The assault lasted from twelve minutes to half an hour, and at day break they drew off, carrying away all their wounded and many of their dead. A party of them took refuge behind some rocks at the N. W. angle of the works and just under the harakiz popping their heads out occasionally; they fired a few shots at us, but they did not seldom that this number were supposed to be few. Two companies of Sepoys as I had not to unearth them and, to the surprise of all, at least 300 men broke open and boiled for the neighbouring ravines faster than we ever saw Affghans run before. A heavy fire was poured into them, but they ran so fast, and cover was so close that few of them fell. The greater part of the enemy retired into the ravines into which they had dragged their dead and wounded, and from day light until half past 2 p. m. they were employed in carrying them off. From their trenches on the north face of the works which were filled with men, they kept up a pretty constant fire to cover this process. Had we possessed a few good Cavalry we should have inflicted a heavier loss on them, but they were strong in horse having about 800 in the field, while we had not a mounted man, and so it was judged prudent, as the ground afforded excellent cover for their mode of fighting, to rest satisfied with the thrashing we had given them and to permit them to carry off their wounded without incurring the loss of our own men in moving on to attack them. They left 104 dead bodies at the foot of the defences, and within a few days after the assault, the Political Agent ascertained that the number of killed, and of wounded men who died within a few days after the action, considerably exceeded 400. On the dead bodies were found quantities of our own magazine cartridges, supposed to have been procured at Ghuzni, and which accounted for their unusual expenditure of ammunition. Computed by themselves the lowest number of assailants was stated at 3,500 men, the highest at 7000. On the body of the Mezir of Meer Allum, Chief of the Hotack tribe of Ghilzie, who fell in the assault, was found the master roll of his contingent amounting to 2000 and odd men, he furnished about a third part of the force, and that the number of assailants must have been about 6000 men. By sunset on the day of attack not an enemy was visible, and it was a source of honest gratification of the garrison, that we had driven off our enemies and inflicted a heavy loss on them by our own efforts. The garrison consisted of about 800 men, about 500 of whom were actually engaged. When we took possession of the place it consisted of little more than three ranges of barracks for the troops, built on a commanding position. By the assiduous labour of the sepoy and the constant supervision of the Engineer and Officers, it had been converted into a post of such strength as if well defended would have puzzled regular troops unprovided with guns to take, and did defy Affghans. It must have been a source of honest pride to our excellent commanding Officer to find that when positions of greater strength had admitted, he had not only fortified his own post, but maintained it, and signally defeated the enemy before it.

Troops in quarters in this country have seldom suffered more from the severity of climate and the privation of accustomed necessities than those at Kelat-i-Ghilzie. During the more severe days in winter, the Hindoo Sepoy, did not cook for two days together, and even the Europeans, so bitter was the cold, were glad to keep to their barracks and even to their beds, to keep themselves warm. Our bazar was latterly destitute of every thing excepting the usual Commissariat rations issued from the godown, and for some months, these were served to the Sepoy on a reduced scale. As for the Officers they lagged at their own privations, but they will not soon forget the dreary winter days, their shiverings at mess table, their tiffins on bread and water, and their nights at mess to discuss their scanty fare, to which hunger was an excellent sauce and the only seasoning. Two days after the defeat of the enemy we heard of the advance of Colonel Wymer's brigade to relieve us, which arrived on the 26th of May. We moved into camp, the barracks and defences of Kelat-i-Ghilzie were destroyed, and the 7th of June saw us safe at Kandahar.—Dell's Gazette, August 10.

RENGAL.

WILKINSON'S COMMERCIAL ANNUAL.

(From the Friend of India, August 11.)

After we had made some progress in examining and comparing Wilkinson's Commercial Annual, we were favoured with the following Analysis of it from a friend for which we return him our best thanks. We felt no hesitation whatever in substituting his remarks for our own.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF THE IMPORTS INTO AND EXPORTS FROM CALCUTTA, also, of the tonnage of ships into and out of the port—of the trade with European and other nations—from 1837-38 to 1841-42 both inclusive—by which there appears to be a great increase on the last two years of the above period.

Imports Tonnage.—The import tonnage of Calcutta of British and Foreign ships, including Dhooceer, was in the year 1837-38, 163,690, tons (ships 590,) and in 1841-42, 304,977 tons (ships 1001,) being in the latter period an increase in tonnage of 86 per cent.

Exports Tonnage.—The export tonnage for 1837-38, was 173,111 tons (ships 530,) and in 1841-42, 277,816 tons (ships 885,) being an increase in tonnage of 64 per cent.

Of vessels mentioned above from the United Kingdom direct, or via the Cape and Madras, the import tonnage in 1837-38, was 55,132 tons (ships 123). In 1841-42, 111,144 tons (ships 250,) more than double the tonnage and number of ships of the former period, and exceeding the export tonnage from Calcutta for the United Kingdom

Of the vessels cleared out of the port of Calcutta for the United Kingdom direct, or via the Cape and Madras, the tonnage in 1837-38, was 59,286 tons (ships 236,) exhibiting an increase in tonnage of about 75 per cent, and in ships of more than 90 per cent.

Imports General.—The Imports General into Calcutta, in 1837-38 amounted including Treasure, to Co's Rs. 4,08,99,504. In 1841-42 Co's Rs. 5,42,98,722, an increase of nearly 30 per cent.

Exports General.—The exports general from Calcutta, in 1837-38, amounted, including Treasure, to Co's Rs. 6,50,45,969; and in 1841-42 Co's Rs. 8,39,40,592, above 34 per cent increase.

Exports.

Of the articles of export, Indigo has increased in value from Co's Rs. 1,12,47,681 in 1837-38 to Co's Rs. 2,39,51,248, in 1841-42 an increase of about 113 per cent.

Opium, the next in value, was in 1837-38 Co's Rs. 2,12,92,386, but in 1841-42, was only Co's Rs. 143,01,281, a decrease of more than 52 per cent. In 1839-40, it was only Co's Rs. 79,73,980, just as the China expedition was leaving Calcutta, since which it has improved on the year 1839-40.

Sugar.—The export of sugar in 1837-38 was Co's Rs. 67,18,911. In 1840-41, Co's Rs. 1,64,68,898 being an increase of 144 per cent on the year 1837-38; this was overdoing the market, however; in 1841-42 it amounted to Co's Rs. 1,39,16,426, or above 107 per cent, greater than in 1837-38.

Raw Silk.—In 1836-38 was, Co's Rs. 46,81,517 and in 1841-42, increased Co's Rs. 85,15,404.

Raw Cotton.—In 1837-38 Co's Rs. 18,61,165 1838-39 it was Co's Rs. 22,24,689, and in 1841-42 gradually fell to Co's Rs. 12,05,347. It must be much improved in quality to compete with the Foreign market. India is capable of yielding any quantity. The war in China may have decreased the exportation for that country from Bombay, &c.

Salt Petre.—In 1837-38 was Co's Rs. 26,38,667 and in 1841-42 Co's Rs. 32,10,734 gradual increase of the article, and if improved in manufacture, more might still be exported.

Rice.—In 1837-38 was, Co's Rs. 24,72,343, and in 1841-42, Co's Rs. 36,21,610, a gradual increase.

Wheat.—In 1837-38 was, Co's Rs. 283,914. In 1840-41, Co's Rs. 498,301, and decreased in 1841-42 to Co's Rs. 234,010.

Imports.

Cotton Twist and Yarn. in 1837-38 was Co's Rs. 51,37,564, rose in 1841-42 to Co's Rs. 78,90,983, and in 1841-42 was only Co's Rs. 55,27,997.

Salt.—In 1837-38, it amounted to Co's Rs. 13,49,013. In 1839-40 rose to Co's Rs. 18,64,360, but fell in 1841-42, to Co's Rs. 6,4,591.

Coffee.—In 1837-38, amounted to Co's Rs. 86,248; in 1840-41 rose to Co's Rs. 413,782 and in 1841-42 fell to Co's Rs. 317,120.

Tea.—In 1837-38, was Co's Rs. 539,274; fell to Co's Rs. 183,507 in 1838-39; rose to Co's Rs. 619,443, in 1840-41, and was in 1841-42 Co's Rs. 391,913, so that it has increased since the war.

Coals.—In 1837-38 amounted to Co's Rs. 74,378 and in 1841-42, to Co's Rs. 348,372. Query. How much of this was English?

Tobacco.—In 1837-38, amounted to Co's Rs. 6,762, and in 1841-42, Co's Rs. 95,724. Why is not the Tobacco of India improved by the use of foreign seed, &c?

Value of Imports

General	Co's Rs.
1837-38	406,99,504
1841-42	542,98,722

Value of Exports

General	Co's Rs.
1837-38	650,45,969
1841-42	839,40,592

Of both in 1841-42 Co's Rs. 13,81,37,314

Trade with Great Britain.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	205,94,897
1841-42	330,69,120
but 1840-41	507,42,434

Trade with France.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	18,55,860
1841-42	22,42,864

Trade with North America.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	7,29,443
1841-42	18,52,904
1839-40	Maximum

Trade with China.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	67,44,036
1838-39	24,28,696
1839-40	27,53,801
1840-41	50,82,423
1841-42	61,02,418

So that the Imports and Exports have increased since 1839-40, when the Expedition sailed from India, though not equal to their former amount.

Trade with Singapore.

Imports.	Exports.
Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	29,26,893
1840-41	30,94,396
1841-42	34,47,861

Trade with Pinang and Malacca.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	992,797
1841-42	863,543

Trade with the Arabian and Persian Gulphs.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	19,34,748
1841-42	7,95,311

Trade with Ceylon.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	81,887
1841-42	249,080

Trade with Madras and the Coromandel Coast.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	26,69,000
1841-42	17,35,639

Trade with Bombay and the Malabar Coast.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	17,15,377
1839-40	38,93,357
1841-42	14,34,739

Trade with Pegu.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1137-38	14,66,671
1341-42	18,61,465

Trade with the Mauritius.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	467,934
1841-42	94,846

The Trade with South America, Hambro, Bremen, Genoa, Sumatra and Java—Bourbon, Cape of Good Hope and St. Helena, Manila, New Zealand and Aden, &c. is of small amount.

Collections at Calcutta for Imports and Exports.

Co's Rs.	Co's Rs.
1837-38	52,10,936
1841-41	51,45,760

Remarks.—Indigo keeps its rise in the value of its annual produce exported, notwithstanding the operations at Java. The late gale may have destroyed much of the weed, which will raise the price in Bengal and in Europe. To keep its place in the market, it must be carefully prepared, or Java may prove a dangerous rival!

Opium will keep its position in China whenever the war in that Empire shall cease, if its quality be superior to that of China. If the Emperor shall be humbled, (keep tow'd) he will lose the power of interdicting the use of the drug among the people—the latter liking the article, the majority of the nation must carry the point against the minority.

It would be desirable to procure a similar statement from Madras and Bombay, and to give a complete comparative statement from the year 1833-34 to 1841-42, to include the whole of India, since the commencement of the last charter; and if this were made annually, it would be a very interesting compendium to Mr. Wilkinson's excellent "Commercial Annual." I would advise Mr. W. to prepare such a summary, as shall give to the public at large, both in India and in Great Britain, a "General View" of the commercial state of "British India." Hundreds of copies would be sold yearly, and after the first comparative statement was prepared, it would only be necessary to add (from the Commercial Annual) for the next year. The whole would be contained in a few pages being the general abstract of the "Annual."—W. H.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 29th Oct., 1842.

H. M. S. Modeste arrived from Chusan the 18th or 20th, nearly this week, and has already again sailed for England direct, with rather more than a million of the money paid at Nanjing. The remainder of the six millions of Dollars will be taken by the Blonde, three millions; the Herald a million and a half or thereabouts, and the Columbine, half a million. When the Modeste came away the whole of the British force had left the Yang-tse-kiang (the six millions having been paid) and arrived at Chusan. H. M. S. Blenheim, Craizer and Modeste have sailed for England during the week; Herald and Columbine are to follow immediately, and perhaps one or two others of the ships of war, and a considerable portion of the Steamers; the rest of the squadron, we learn, is for the present to remain here, with the exception of H. M. S. Kadymion, under orders for India. When the Modeste left Chusan it was not expected that Sir Henry Pottinger would be down here before the middle of December, and even then he would not be able to settle the many important questions regarding the trade of Canton until the arrival there of the Imperial Commissioners, who, we hear, are not expected before the month of February. This season's trade will therefore have to be transacted in a great measure, upon the old footing. It is said that H. M. Plenipotentiary will visit Fuhchowfoo before coming to Canton; and from the Imperial receipt we have copied from the Canton Register, it will be seen how reluctantly that city has been opened to foreign commerce; it must namely be remembered that that paper bears date previous to that of the treaty. We expect within the next week to see a great proportion of the fleet and force arrive at Hongkong, previous to the latter leaving for India, although we suppose that a considerable part will be kept here until all the conditions of the treaty shall have been fulfilled.

At Canton business is still represented as being at a stand, all sorts of imports being extremely difficult of sale.

By the Poppy, arrived from Calcutta and Singapore yesterday, we have received the Sing. Free Press Extra of 2d October, containing the principal items of the news brought by the August Overland Mail, from which we have extracted, although few monthly summaries have of late happened to be so barren of interest. The most important and at same time melancholy part of them is the death by accident of the Duke of Orleans, in consequence of which the Duke of Nemours is to be Regent after the King's death, during the minority of the Comte de Paris (now Duke of Orleans). From India we learn, although we have not received any papers whatever per Poppy, that a forward movement upon Cawul had been determined on. In Opium there had been much speculation of late and prices had been driven up to 1800 Rupees for Patna, but, by the last advices, had receded to 1800. In consequence of these high prices as much as 710 $ had been paid in Singapore, and holders were asking 750 $. In Whampoa and this neighbourhood we understand the prices to be quite nominal at 790 @ 730 $ for Patna, the deliveries at these prices here being next to nothing—and sales on the coast being effected at considerably lower quotations.

The only ship of war remaining in the Yangtze-kiang by the last advices, is the French Sloop Faunelle; the French Frigate Erigone, lately returned to Manila from the north of China, is understood, expected shortly to arrive here.

We know not whether we owe an apology to our readers for the scantiness of information of local interest; but the state of inactivity and uncertainty in which everything connected with trade at present is in China, renders it impossible to be more explicit; nor do we think that our readers would profit much were we to indulge in vague prognostications of what the future may bring.

We have been favored with a very interesting abstract of the trade of the United States with China, which will be found immediately after our columns of advertisements. We are much obliged for this information to the parties who gave it to us, and we believe its general correctness may be fully relied on.

It is somewhat singular that the Canton authorities have lately purchased some foreign vessels, the Lintin and Ramiro, which are at present both anchored near Canton. What their object may be in doing this would be difficult to guess; perhaps they intend improving their naval architecture, but if so, purchasing old merchant vessels for models, will give them but little. We learn that their cruisers are just now very active in the river, at least in what is called the inside passage between this and Canton, as travellers lately come by that route have been boarded by Chinese government vessels not less than three times during the same night. This vigilance is, we believe, necessary to suppress the many piracies, which during the time of the war, when Chinese government vessels dared not show themselves, have been but too frequent, and also we suppose to levy for the use of the Commanders of these cruisers part of the duties at least which the smugglers evade. Into Macao harbour some five or six junks of war came about a fortnight since, and are still there, we believe, busy queezing the natives. They will require to recruit their finances after such long continued inactivity.

From the Canton Register, 15th October.

Imperial Edict.

In reply to the report of the imperial commissioners, Kying, Kiepo, and Newbern, (vide C. R. Oct. 11th.) On the 27th day of the moon, (Sept. 1.) the following imperial edict was received.

"Kying and his colleagues, have sent up a document containing a report and rough sketch of the articles of the convention discussed at a personal conference (with H. B. M.'s plenipotentiary in China).

I have inspected the report, and have a full knowledge of the whole of it.

I, the emperor, seriously considering the evils to the unaccountable number of the people, and the important consequences to the greatness, power, and station of the empire; and I cannot avoid being constrained and forced to grant what is requested; it is but one time of hitherness, and trouble, but then ease, repose, and peace may be reckoned on for ever; and not only will the two provinces of Kiangsoo and Chekung, be preserved entire, but the empire will be held together in its integrity!—As to those items in the report relating to trade, there are some that are improper and require further consideration. Now as the barbarian ships are willing to leave the Chang river, and are also willing to retire from Chowpaan hill; that which they have before requested relative to a free trade at five ports, the country of Fuk chow must be excluded; permission to trade thither cannot by any means be granted, but another port may be exchanged for it; they may be allowed to trade, coming and going, at the four ports of Canton, Amoy, Ningpo and Shanghai.

As to the matter of the hong merchant's debts, the said great ministers must necessarily accommodate themselves to circumstances, and in a perspicuous edict (explain the matter thus, to the English.)

"The said nation has traded with China for more than 200 years, and heretofore all has been harmony and good will; and the trade has always been transacted by barter and money. But as the hong merchants and yourselves have between you mutually transacted the affairs of trade, our public officers have hitherto never examined into or troubled themselves about the trade. The affairs of the rise and fall in prices, whether low or high, are very petty, trifling matters. Further, our speech and language are unintelligible to each other; and most decidedly, the district officers will not be able to manage the matter."

Hereafter, the Chinese merchants at all the ports will adopt extraordinary modes of giving trouble and cheating, even to cutting—i. e. demanding excessive discounts; when there will be no hindrance or fear of laying a clear statement of the case before the district officers, who will certainly punish the said merchant (delinquent); decidedly there will be no indulgence shown. As to the $6,000,000 it is proper that I should give them, by which my sincerity and good faith will be manifest; and they are to be collected from the salt commissioner's and provincial treasuries of the three provinces of Chekung, Kiangsoo, and Gankung, the richest supplying the deficiencies of the poorest. As to correspondence being conducted on terms of perfect equality between the officers of the two governments; and the barbarian who have been made captives, and the Chinese who have been seduced (into the employ of the English),—I grant all these supplicated favours; let the captives be released; and I order that all the matters (the three just mentioned) be allowed which have been requested.

Further, with reference to what is contained in the report about sealing the said barbarians do not require your seal as proof, but the imperial seal of the empire to be fixed as a guarantee (of the treaty); so I shall not fall in dignity—and the feelings of my imperial station will not be lost.

Before, I have disseminated my imperial rescripts to each of the dependencies of China, all sealed with the imperial seal of the empire; and I order that my rescripts be sent under a living seal with the despatches from the board of civil office, and they are to be forwarded in this ceremonious manner, that all the clauses which have been clearly reported, may be properly managed.

From the time of this settlement, the said great minister must especially report to the emperor, behaving with perfect sincerity, that of the things supplicated, there are none which have not been granted.

From this epoch of a thorough, free, trade, there should be everlasting peace and harmony; your nation should also treat us with mutual, perfect sincerity; and certainly not again commence military operations, in direct opposition to heavenly principles; for not only have you already caused troubles and confusion in many provinces; but you must not again come, seeking causes of quarrel and war; and just so, the coast and territories of the provinces of Canton, Fuhkeen, Taiwan (Formosa) Chekung, Kiangsoo, Shantung, Chihle, and Shuntien (Peking), the barbarian vessels of war are not allowed to enter and frequent.

Since at this time we are at peace, of the officers and troops in each province, there are some that should be sent away and others detained. We have already consulted, as to the ancient cities of China, her signal

• Korea, Japan, Cochinchina, Hainan, Siam, &c.
† The imperial rescripts are to be folded and the back edges to be joined to the same of the despatches of the Lepo, and fastened by a diamond shaped seal.

pyramids and batteries; and it is proper that they should all be rebuilt successively, according to former custom; there have not been of modern erection; but they were built for the purpose of guarding against and seizing the pirates, and were not established to guard against the said barbarians; and we certainly must not incoherently and disorderly produce suspicion and apprehension. Those distant provinces which have not yet heard of or possess a full knowledge of the peace; if any of your (barbarian) ships abruptly enter, and are suddenly attacked; you must not make this a cause of screening yourselves, borrowing pretences, and mouthing.

The whole of the above matters rest wholly in the deep consideration and extreme care of the said minister and his colleagues; let them be wholly true and sincere in deliberating and deciding; and so far ever put an end to the risings of war; there must not be the least misconception or misunderstanding. This is not an affair or time to be idle; or to discuss the matter in a hurried, remiss, and irregular manner; but regard it with severe and serious attention; with sincere and serious attention regard it!

Hurry on this edict at more than at the rate of 600 in a day, and order him, (Kying) to inform himself of its contents.—Respect this. By J. S., Ed. C. R.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD, IN THE YANGTZE-KIANG, CHUSAN, CHINKAI, &c.

H. M. S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief, Captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

Blonde,	48,	capt. T. Bouchier, C. B.
Thalia,	44,	Hope
Eudymion,	44,	the honble F. W. Gray.
North Star,	26,	Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald,	36,	J. Nias, C. B.
Dido,	20,	the honble H. Koppell.
Pelican,	18,	comr. Justice.
Harlequin,	18,	the honble F. Hastings.
Columbine,	16,	Morhead.
Childers,	16,	Haisted.
Wauderer,	16,	Seymour.
Serpent,	16,	Nevill.
Algerine,	10,	comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist,	10,	Chetwood.
Hospital ship Minden,	capt. Quin.
SOUTHERN SQUADRON.
Starling,	6,	comr. Kellott.
Flover,	6,	Collinson.
TACOBURAS.
Belleisle,	capt. Kincomb.
Apollo,	comr. C. Frederick.
Naphtire,	Cole.
Jupiter,	comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STAMERS.
H. C. Queen,	comr.	W. Warden,
Memnon,	comr.	Powell.
Nemesis,	lieut.	W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,		Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne,	comr.	Robert, I. N.
Medusa,		Hewitt, I. N.
Phlegethon,	lieut.	McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr.	Hough, A. N.
H. M. Vixen,	comr.	H. Baya.
Driver,		Farmer.

AT ANOY.
M. H. S. Cambrian, 26, capt. Charles, C. B. senior commanding officer.

Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.
Agincourt, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Sir T. Cochrane, C. B.
Wolverine, 16, Johnson.
Young Hebe, 4, Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly, comr. comr. Rom.
Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED
10, (B.)	Melish, Fawcett, Madras.
22,	Idaly, Galt, Calcutta.
27,	Victoria, Mordaunt, Bombay.
24,	Dover, Mallory, Liverpool.
25,	Isabella, Sinclair, Singapore.
25,	Slam, Smith, Madras.
25,	Semiramis, Calbre, Manila.
26,	Poppy, Cole, Calcutta & Sing. 4th Oct.
26,	Marimain, Guy, Calcutta & Sing.

SUPPLEMENT.

October, SAILED
 23, (B.) Estira, Walker, Manila.
 23, " Hartinger, Candlish do.
 23, " Herray, Langtry, London.
 24, " Geo. Armstrong, Jones, Singapore.
 24, (Sp.) Gilena, Salado, Manila.
 24, (B.) Madara, Mylne, Singapore.
 25, (Hamb.) Esmeralda, Tollen, Singapore.
 25, (B.) David Clarke, Mills, Bombay.
 26, " Shah Alham, —, Sing. & Calcutta.
 26, " John Seward, Brown, London.
 26, H. M. S. Nedra, Comr. Watson, England.
 27, H. M. S. Blenheim, Capt Sir Thomas Herbert, K. C. K., Singapore Cape and England.
 27, H. M. S. Cruiser, Pearce, do. do.
 27, (A.) Menappa, Prescott, Chusan.
 28, (B.) Devonport, Broadfoot, Bombay.
 28, " Helen, Baine, do.

PASSENGERS Per
Shah Alham, Captain J. Ramsay, D. A. C. G. and family; Mr. Chas. Hoeg and family; Mr. W. H. Whitehead.
 H. M. S. Nedra, Captain Chas. Napier, R. N.

UNDER DESPATCH
 For Singapore, — Coringa Packet, Intrepid, Mala.
 For Sing. & Cal. — Hero on the 29th, Red Ray on the 31st.

For Calcutta, — Ariel on the 5th November.
 For Liverpool, — Hope in a few days.

VESSELS EXPECTED
 From England, — Julia, Elizabeth, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudius, Louise Jackson, Bolton, Geo. Wallis, Adelaide, Athenaeum, Parrock Hall, Asia, Madras, Ursula, Bella Martin, Wills' the Wisp, Liverpool, C. Grey, Orestes, Christopher Rowson, Hindostan, Alex. Baring, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Boustead, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Eagle, Geo. Wallis, Commandant, Julia, Topley, Alliance.
 From Bombay, — Ada, Diana, Cora, Woodma, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abrahams, Middlethian, Lena, Belvidere, Quintin Leth, English.
 From Calcutta, — Dido, Cowra, Victory, Bengal Packet, Ebra, Elizabeth Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine.
 From Singapore, — Waterloo, Onyda.

LATEST DATES
 ENGLAND, 4th August. SINGAPORE, 2d October.
 UNITED STATES, June 22. MANILA, 7th Oct.
 CALCUTTA, 14th Sept. AMOY.
 BOMBAY, 9th Sept. CHUAN, 18th Oct.
 JAVA, 27th August. NANKING, 15th October.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	Tons	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Ariel	—	Burt	Dent and Co.
Archimedes	—	Christians	C. Pearson.
Agnes	512	Jeffrey	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Abberton	451	Catt	Jamieson, How & Co.
Algerine	—	Hill	"
Anna Eliza	254	Butcher	Holliday Wise & Co.
Asiatic	—	Barlow	Jardine M. & Co.
Ann Lockerby	—	Wightman	"
Anne Mary	—	Rackham	"
Bombay Castle	—	Baxter	"
Beckhamshire	1408	McGregor	"
Bolton	—	Robinson	Dent & Co.
Black Nymph	—	Hall	Fox Rawson & Co.
Bocephalus	—	Small	Lindsay & Co.
Black Swan	—	Hart	C. H. Hart.
Burman	—	Cleland	"
Columbine	—	Major	H. Pyba.
Cowan's Family	—	Durham	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Coringa Packet	—	Chilcot	"
Chanticleer	—	Grange	"
Cadet	—	Curling	Jardine M. & Co.
Colonist	—	Leak	J. Burd and Co.
Cockade	—	Man	C. Pearson.
Comet	308	Clinco	Jamieson How & Co.
Chelydra	—	Wishart	Dent and Co.
Charles Forbes	900	Wills, Jr	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Chatham	—	Liebowitz	"
Brogan	—	Johnson	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Diana	—	Davidson	"
Dove	—	Mallory	Fox Rawson and Co.
Diadem	—	Harland	Macvicar & Co.
Elora	—	Turnbull	"
Ellen	—	Brewer	Dent and Co.
Emma Eugenia	—	Kettlewell	Reynolds & Co.
Equestrian	—	Cromarty	Jardine M. & Co.
Earl Balcarra	1488	Baker	"
Edinburgh	1414	Peterson	"
Fram, Cornelia	—	Edwards	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Fram	—	Groff	Dallas and Co.

Frances Ann, — Thomson, Fox Rawson & Co.
 Edington, — Macvicar and Co.
 Fred. Ruth, — Toby, Turner and Co.
 Felicity, — McDonald, Dirom and Co.
 Fortitude, — " D. & M. Rustomjee Co.
 Fort William, — Hogg, Jardine M. & Co.
 Ganges, — Walker, "
 Gemini, — Mardon, Turner and Co.
 Greenlaw, — Morrice, Lindsay and Co.
 Grecian, — Watt, "
 Golsare, — Wilongby, Dirom and Co.
 Hero of Malows, — Jackson, "
 Hongkong, — Whettem, H. Holgate.
 Hero, — Fowler, Fox Rawson & Co.
 Hygeia, 378 Woodbury, G. Nye Jr.
 Himalaya, — Burn, "
 Hope, — Cockain, Macvicar & Co.
 Helen Stewart, — Brown, "
 Hindostan, 708 Bowen, Dent and Co.
 Helen, — Bayne, Jardine Matheson & Co.
 Hebrides, — Melville, "
 Isa. Robertson, — Kelly, Pereira and Co.
 Isabella, — Hardie, Dent and Co.
 Intrepid, — Stewart, W. Allanson & Co.
 Islay, — Galt, A. A. de Mello.
 Isabella, — Sinclair, Lindsay and Co.
 John Calvin, — Knox, Jardine M. & Co.
 John Moor, — Whitcomb, H. Rustomjee.
 Juliana, — Chapman, D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
 Jane, — Berg, J. Burd and Co.
 John O'Gaunt, — Robertson, Turner & Co.
 Kirkman Finlay, — Scott, "
 Kestrel, — Bunsen, Dent and Co.
 Litherland, — Freeman, Jardine M. & Co.
 Lady Clarke, — Lawrence, Turner and Co.
 Lord Eldon, — Worsell, Lindsay & Co.
 Lady St. Kilda, — Lawrence, "
 Maia, — Sproule, D. & M. Rustomjee Co.
 Minerva, — Brown, Dent and Co.
 Manly, — Hart, C. H. Hart.
 Mercury, — " W. Scott.
 Mary Anne, — Holton, Jardine M. & Co.
 Matilda, — Rowe, "
 Malacca, — Shettler, "
 Melish, — Fawcett, " Maulmein, — " H. Rustomjee.
 Mariah, — Rouse, Dent and Co.
 Osprey, — Kirk, Jardine M. and Co.
 Orator, — Serrey, "
 Prince Regent, 298 Barclay, "
 Palestine, — McLean, Fox Rawson & Co.
 Poppy, — Cole, Pereira and Co.
 Prince of Wales, — Jones, Jardine Matheson & Co.
 Royal Exchange, — " "
 Red Rover, — Wright, "
 Ruparell, — Rigby, A. & D. Furdonjee.
 Rob Roy, — Boyd, H. Pyba.
 Rosa, — " C. H. Hart.
 St. Lawrence, — Newlands, Russell and Co.
 Siam, — Smith, "
 Semiramis, — Cairnie, Jamieson, How & Co.
 Sullimany, — Monk, D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
 Sylph, — Guy, H. Rustomjee.
 Snipe, — " Hughesdon Brothers.
 Susan, — Neahy, Fox Rawson & Co.
 Syria, — Stroyan, Jardine Matheson & Co.
 Tartar, — Luce, "
 Thetis, — Cass, Dirom and Co.
 Urgent, — Thompson, Fox Rawson & Co.
 Victoria, — Mordaunt, "
 Wild Irish Girl, — Gillet, J. A. Durran Jr.
 Wm. Gillies, — Clark, Macvicar & Co.
 Weeratt, — Hunt, Jardine Matheson & Co.
 Wm. Hyde, — Steward, "
 Wm. Hyde, — " "

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, | Commodore Kearney.
 "Levant," — Paulk, J. D. Sward & Co.
 "Ann MacKim," — Vasmor, W. A. Lawrence.
 Congress, — Hay, "
 Probus, — Sumner, Wetmore & Co.
 Grafton, — Gardener, I. M. Bull.
 Panther, — Martin, J. M. Bull.
 "Charleston," — Harlow, Olyphant and Co.
 Zenobia, — Putnam, "
 Valparaiso, — Lockwood, A. A. Kitchie.
 Lowell, — Peirce, W. H. Peirce.
 Mary Ellen, — " A. Heard & Co.

SPANISH.

Maria, — Cuculla, A. Cuculla.
 Margartha, — " BERNARD.
 " — " Jardine M. & Co.
 Danish Oak, — Paulsen, Russell & Co.
 Hebe, — Both, A. A. de Mello.
 Jane, — Bery, J. Burd & Co.

* At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER,
 at the Canton Press Office, P. O. Monks.

NOTICE.—In consequence of the indisposition of Madame de Storr, the concert, which was advertised to take place on Monday next, is postponed until further notice.

Macao, 3rd Nov. 1842.

LOTTERY.—SANTA CAZA DE MIZERICORDIA, hereby informs the Public that the first drawing of the Mizericordia Lottery for the present season 1842 will positively take place on Tuesday the 15th instant at 10 o'clock A. M., and will continue to draw upon every second day (Sunday excepted) until the 8th or the last drawing are finished.

Macao, 2d November, 1842.

CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT ON LONDON, payable in such sums as may suit the convenience of the holder at Alexandria, Malta and other places in the Mediterranean as well as on the Continent of Europe, may be had on application at the Office of

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 11th August, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firm of PITCAIRN SYME & Co. at Batavia, SYME & Co. at Singapore.

and KER MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KER, McMICKING & Co.

KER MURRAY & Co.

Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stowed in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDEMAN, or

BEYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUBROW, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATERSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROB SHAW, in our firm here, at Macao, and in that of HUCHANAM & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Interest of the late Mr. JAMES INNES in our Establishment, ceased on the 30th of June 1841, and Mr. JOHN HENRY LARKINS being admitted a partner on 1st ultimo, our firm will in future be carried on under the style of FLETCHER, LARKINS & Co. China, 8th Aug. 1842.

INNES, FLETCHER & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE or BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 16th August, 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coole, fire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUSS, or to

C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE,—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTICLEER" Captain GRANGE, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to

HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE bark "BLACK NYMPH," Capt. HALL, 300 tons register, will have early despatch, for freight apply to

FOX, RAWSON & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A. I. for 2 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 355 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

JAMIESON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLUBHOY DUNJARJEE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HERO of MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER,

THE A. I. British built ship "TERTIS," J. Case Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 15th September, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG AND SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE, Capt. BENO. For freight or passage apply to JOHN BURD, at Hongkong, or B. BARRETTO, Macao.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD

THE fast sailing British Barque "CON-RINGA PACKET," of 226 Tons Burthen, Captain CHILCOT, and is ready to receive cargo. Apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 23rd September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FAIR-HER COWASJEE," 980 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD,

THE A I Ship "ABELLA," Capt. HAN-DE, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

TO LET.—A Spacious House, with a Veranda and Terrace in front and a fine Garden near St. Paul's church now occupied by Mr. Brown; will be vacant on the 1st proximo; for particulars apply to Macao, Oct. 19, 1842. J. A. DA SILVA.

RAFFLE OF A PAINTING.

THE subject of which is taken from a novel of Victor Hugo, "Notre Dame de Paris." Esmeralda is represented in the midst of the people of Paris, in the square of Notre Dame, at the moment when, dancing with her goat, she perceives at the balcony of a house, Capt. Phoebus who sometime before had saved her life, and whom she has not since seen.

The scene is laid in the reign of Louis XI., and the costume of that period has been furnished to Madame de Storr, who has composed this picture, from the Royal Library in Paris.

This raffle is to consist of 50 tickets to be drawn on the 5th November next at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in the presence of the ticketholders, in the house at present occupied by Mr. and Mrs. de Storr, in the Rua Formosa, and the picture to be the prize of the last number drawn.

The price of one ticket is three dollars, and each will be signed by Mr. de Storr and sealed with his seal; and to him application may be made every day between four and five o'clock in the afternoon for inspection of the painting.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to DIROM & Co. Macao, 25th October, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED.—A Parcel of fresh CHATEAU MARGANX, in one and three dozen cases;

AND

Raisins and Prunes, for sale on exceedingly moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 20th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARRACK and COFFEES, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 26th August, 1842.

SUPERIOR MANILA SEGARS.—A Batch of very superior No. 111 Manila SEGARS, warranted of the first quality, and good—in whole and half boxes. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 29th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—Bally Rice; COCONUT oil, COFFEES, JAVA ARRACK in cases and casks, Singapore BEANS and PLANKS. PORT WINE, SHERRY, old RUM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD & Co. Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE.—Europe ROPS from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINCABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, Sa. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to Macao, Oct. 8, 1842. JOAO BARRETTO.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY, PLATE, PLATED WARE, GLASS and CROCKERY WARE, BOOKS, HORSES, COWS &c. belonging to H. J. LEIGHTON Esq. Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER AND NAILS. Apply to J. A. DURRAN, Jr.
Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE. On board the "Carrington," a portion of best MOONLIGHT BICE, DRILL, DECCA SOAP. Apply to P. D. CHILCOET.
Macao, 22d September, 1842.

FOR SALE. MANILLA SKEANS, IRON, and BOWERS LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to P. DE LAS HERAS.
Macao, 22d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 19th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS. Florence, Tuscan, and Dentaw, also, Boy's Hats. Apply to JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz.; and NAILS, apply to JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE. SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long,
and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.
Apply to JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 20th July, 1842.

FOR SALE. DUFF GORDON & Co's
SHERRY in bottle and HIDE,
PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each,
CLARET in do, 6 do, do,
CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.
Apply to LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE. Several brick houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de D. Rodrigo, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; also, do, their own.

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES

FOR SALE. A RIFLE and a few pairs of guns and a few ARMS and Pistols, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Mr. A. GRANDPRE.
Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

FOR SALE. At the Goodowns of the undersigned Cambo's Factory, adjoining the Custom house
the following articles, viz:—

Most splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frames and chased work, from 60 to 75 ¢ each, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new PATINA Table-bronzed LAMPS, with Spanish Shada and Chinney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new FAIENCE Porcelain DINNER SER-VICES, Cut Glass Tumblers, Wine and Beer Glasses.

The best MULLIGAN Soup in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And to close on account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE. CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE in 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in Hides.
SELTZER WATER dew.
OILMAN'S STORES late imports.

BEEF in tins; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE. MADRIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogheads, and Quarter cases; from the well known house of KRIST & Co.; apply to DENT & Co.
Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE. An invoice of superior BASS PALE
ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, one barrelled PALE BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, and PORT WINE, SELTZER
WATER, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TUR-
PENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, MANILA
and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPRAYS for lower and Top Masts. Apply in Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE. MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS on LONDON,
I. Co's DEBTS on CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

LOTTERY.

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's
BIENNIAL UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GEN-ERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY.
Of 1843, of all Prizes!

In the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universally of support, or a sufficient number of subscribers, to their General Mofussil
Agency for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial
Lotteries from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Sirga, China, &c. it is purposed to devote and allow the principal portion of the profits derived there, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserve Fund;

only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans
of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate, or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with, without incurring charges, then the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.

2,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt.
Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved Prize,
for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes,
only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA
UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GEN-
BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843;
valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket: divided into 2,900
Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered equitable, and equally obligatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances.

480 Tickets.

Reserved, of the First Calcutta
Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes:
only amongst those Subscribers,
whose prizes may turn up less than
a half Ticket in this Scheme, .. 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket!

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co's Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances,
from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co's letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. (see 4 and 5 conditions.)

3.—The amount of the subscriptions, as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice
to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

6.—As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

7.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta
winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferred, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished: The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference, in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Deeds, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them.

It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and
Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping
the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery
Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. (See
6 and 8 conditions.)

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra op. n. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions,
Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project
of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this,
Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for Co's Rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE
CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG.
A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.
ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal
translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS.
price one dollar.

Mrs NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF
THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, p 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4

Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Re do Monte at 30 cents each.

August Overland Mail

From the Sing. Free Press. Extra of 3d Oct.

The proceedings in Parliament have been as follow.
In the House of Lords The New Tariff bill has been passed after an ineffectual opposition from Earl Stanhope and a few other Noble Lords. On the 14th ult. a Bill for the better protection of Her Majesty's person was brought up from the Commons (the particulars of which you will have below) and read a first time, and on the 15th the Lord Chancellor moved the second reading which was supported by Lords Melbourne, Cot-tenham and Brougham, and carried unanimously. The standing orders were then suspended and the bill passed to the Committee and was read a third time,—on the question, that the bill do pass the Duke of Wellington expressed his concurrence in the observations made by Lord Brougham relative to the lamentable death of the Duke of Orleans. He was convinced that all their Lordship would concur with him in expressing deep concern and grief at that fatal occurrence. The bill was then passed. The Bankruptcy amendment bill, the Lunacy Bill, the Country Court Bill and the Poor Law amendment bill have been all passed. On 24th Lord
Campbell moved that it be a standing order that no Member of the House of Commons be heard at the Bar of the House of Lords for or against any bill depending in the House. (This resolution had special reference to Ruebeck who had obtained leave from the House of Commons to appear at the Bar of the House of Lords as Counsel in support of the bill for disfranchising the borough of Sudbury). The resolution was opposed by the Lord Chancellor and Lord Brougham as unnecessary and was negatived without a division. On the 29th the Marquis of Clanricarde gave notice that in consequence of the late period of the Session he did not intend proceeding for the present with the bill for disfranchising the Borough of Sudbury. Their Lordships have passed a great number of bills without any lengthened discussion.

In the House of Commons on 6th ult. M. A. B. Cochrane stated that having looked into precedents relative to Members of the House attending committees and finding they rather tended against the view he had originally taken as proposed to attend the committee on Election proceedings to give his evidence. On 7th Mr. Bouverie in consequence of the distressed state of a some parts of the country proposed a resolution for the purpose of giving the Privy Council power to reduce or discontinue the duties on the importation of Foreign Corn until Jan. 1845 should they consider it necessary. This was opposed by Mr. Gladstone and Sir Robert Peel as placing upon Ministers an unnecessary responsibility, and was negatived on a division by a majority of 62. On 8th Sir Robert Peel stated, in reply to an enquiry that to remove the difficulty that existed between the Brazilian Government and this country relative to the period at which the treaty with that country would expire a new commercial treaty had been under consideration for some time and his impression was that the matter would be speedily settled. He further stated that the Brazilian Government had not made any public communication to their chambers of their intention to make any alteration in the duties on British goods. The debate on Mr. Wallace's resolution for an enquiry into the distress alleged to exist in some of the manufacturing districts and which had occupied four evenings, was brought to a close on 8th after three ineffectual attempts having been made to obtain a further adjournment; the resolutions were negatived by a majority of 125. On 11th Sir Robert Peel took the opportunity in morning for a committee of supply to offer an explanation relative to a statement made a few evenings previous by Lord Palmerston that the present Ministers on their entering office had strongly solicited Lord Auckland to retain his appointment of Governor General of India whence Lord Palmerston had inferred that there was an approval of the policy that had been pursued in India, Sir Robert Peel protested against any such inference, and upon making every enquiry he could not find any official document bearing out the statement. He was well aware that Lord Ellenborough entertained a high opinion of Lord Auckland, and thought that he might have written a private letter urging him to remain in India until his successor arrived there, as a minute had been drawn up by Lord Ellenborough soon after his entering upon the duties of President of the board of control wherein he stated that Facts and opinions may perhaps be gathered from the records but without personal communication with Lord Auckland his successor will know little of the open by whom his measures are to be executed. No communication had been made to the cabinet as to Lord Auckland's remaining, and he therefore considered that Lord Palmerston was not borne out in his statement. Lord Palmerston replied that he had seen the extract from Lord Ellenborough's letter which fairly bore out all that he had stated, and that it was not for him to explain how it was that Sir Robert Peel was not acquainted with the wish expressed. Mr. Villiers then moved that the house resolve itself into a committee to consider the law relative to the importation of foreign corn with a view to its total repeal. After much discussion the motion was negatived by a Majority of 111. On 12th, Sir Robert Peel brought in a bill to provide for the future security and protection of Her Majesty. This measure was introduced in consequence of three assassins having been made on Her Majesty within the last two years. It was not intended to make any new capital offences but to do away with certain needless forms and solemnities which surrounded the trials of certain offenders and were calculated to administer to the morbidity of those base miscreants who committed those crimes partly for the purpose of serving for themselves an unfavorable notoriety, what he proposed to do was merely to provide that when the attempt charged was an attempt to wound the sovereign the same form of trial should be adopted as in the case of a private person. With regard to the prisoner Frances two meetings of the Privy Council had taken place and after mature deliberation and acting in accordance with Her Majesty's gracious commands and with the advice of the Judges they had come to the unanimous determination of mitigating the sentence to transportation to one of the most penal settlements. He now proposed that after the passing of this act if any person shall wilfully do damage, or attempt to discharge, or point, aim, or present at or near to the person of the Queen, any gun, pistol or other description of fire-arms, or any other arms whatsoever, although the same should not contain any explosive or destructive material; or shall discharge any explosive substance or material at or near the person of the Queen, or if any person strikes or attempt to strike the person of the Queen, with any offensive weapon or by any other means whatsoever or wilfully throw or attempt to throw any substance whatsoever at the person of the Queen with intent to injure or to excite alarm for her Majesty's safety, such person shall be subject to the punishment awarded to the offence of larceny viz transportation for seven years. But a discretionary power will be given to imprison these offenders for a certain period, and to inflict personal chastisement. Lord John Russell cordially assented to the provisions of the bill as did also Mr. O'Connell, who said it was considered and with truth that flagellation was a brutal punishment, but these were crimes that were committed by Brutes, and no punishment could be adequate but a brutal punishment. The bill was brought in and read a first and second time the standing orders being suspended for that purpose. On 13th Sir Robert Peel moved the committee on the bill, on which Mr. Hume delivered himself of a long address relative to the distress of the country and the want of economy in the official and water departments and particularly in Her Majesty's household which he considered might be reduced one-half, and suggested that it would be a proper step to appoint a select committee to enquire into the expenditure of the country. Sir Robert Peel considered the Hon. Gentleman must be under a mistake in supposing the motion to be one for a committee of supply which Mr. Hume afterwards admitted to be the case. The bill then went through the committee and was subsequently read a third time and passed. In reply to a question from Sir J. Seale, Sir Robert Peel stated that government had not yet decided as to the port of arrival and departure of the East and West India Mails. The principle which would guide them would be the interests of Trade and Commerce and the convenience of the passengers. On 15th amongst the miscellaneous estimates proposed, was a vote of £50,000 towards defraying the expense of Steam communication to India by way of the Red Sea for one year to 31st March 1845. Dr Bouverie enquired whether there was any intention of opening a communication by the Equator and whether any amount of public money had been expended in the experiments made with regard to this route? Sir George Clerk said that the public money had not been applied to the prosecution of the experiments referred to. On 18th Mr. Shiel entered into a lengthened complaint against the Members of the Irish Government and concluded by moving for the correspondence on the case of Mr St. George who had been removed from the magistracy by the late government and restored by the present administration. Lord Elliot defended the present government and after much discussion the motion was negatived by a majority of 71. The Poor Law Amendment bill having met with the most determined opposition from a small body of members had made such slow progress that in two meetings in committee only one clause had been agreed to, Sir James Graham on 19th informed the house that government had come to the determination of withdrawing all the clauses of the bill excepting the first five, which he had no doubt the house would pass seeing they had already sanctioned the first which continued the commission for a further period of five years, and the other four contained the regulations for carrying the same into effect, and the former act expired on 31st so that sufficient time did not offer to complete the bill. He however gave the house the most positive assurance that ministers would reconsider the various enactments and details contained in the bill and at every early period next Session would bring forward a measure on the subject. The Bill was then passed. On 20th Mr. Gladstone moved the second reading of a Bill to allow foreign Corn to be ground in Bond for the purpose of being made up for the use of shipping, and for exportation. This was opposed by Mr. Russell, Mr. Frotter and Mr. Geo. Palmer and supported by Mr. Hutt, Mr. Roebuck and others and carried on a division by a majority of 87. On 21st Mr. Hume moved for the production of various documents relative to the deposition of the Rajah of Sattara, and stated that next Session it was his intention to bring the subject before the House. This motion was agreed to. Mr. Hume also stated he had given notice of his intention to move for certain documents with reference to the financial difficulties of India by reason of the Wars in Afghanistan and China, but as the Chairman of the East India Company had lately said that a portion of the expenses of the Afghan War ought to be borne by the Public Treasury and that a correspondence was going on between the Government and the East India Company, his motion might impede the negotiation and he should not therefore persist in it. Sir Robert Peel observed in introducing his financial statement he had alluded to the deficiency in the Indian Exchequer as an additional reason why we should make every effort to place our finances at home in a healthy position but he never meant to state or to imply that the East India Company had any claim on the British Government. Mr. T. Dencombe moved that an address be presented to Her Majesty, calling her attention to the continued distress in the manufacturing districts, and praying that she should no effectual means be adopted to alleviate it previous to the prorogation of Parliament, that Her Majesty would be pleased to reassemble the same at an early period with a view of giving fuller effect to those sound principles of Commerce which if impartially and fairly carried out would, by giving an impulse to industry, avert those calamities which must otherwise occur. Sir Robert Peel stated that the prospect of the early re-assembling of Parliament would be more likely to increase the evils than the contrary, as it would cause the depression in trade to continue, arising from the uncertainty as to what alterations might be contemplated by Ministers in the great interests which affect our Commerce. The accounts he received stated that there was a revival in trade and this coupled with the prospect of a good harvest would be trusted tend to avert those evils some Gentlemen anticipated. The motion was eventually negatived by a majority of 56. The following day Mr. Gibson renewed the motion in a different shape; this appeared to be put forward only to impede the Government measures, and some of the Opposition members expressed their intention not to be parties to such a course, a division took place and the motion was negatived by a majority of 92. On 25th Sir Robert Peel stated it was the intention of Ministers to propose an additional grant of £10,000 for the purpose of national education. The Irish Estimates were proceeded with—Mr. Hume objected to the vote of £12,431, for the expenses of the Household of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, considering that the Office with all its pageantry was useless and as he understood that the present Lord Lieutenant was about to be withdrawn he hoped Ministers would not appoint another. Sir Robert Peel replied that the reference to the present Lord Lieutenant was particularly unfortunate. So far from there being any intention to withdraw Lord de Grey, his conduct had met with the most decided approbation of Government and he was merely about to leave Ireland for a few months for the benefit of his health. A vote of £25,000 was proposed on account in the Syrian expedition. Mr. Hume did not understand the principle of giving soldiers and sailors gratuities of this sort. We kept an army and navy and paid constantly for them, then why should they be paid extra when wanted? The Syrian expedition he thought had been a very improper one. The Chancellor of the Exchequer replied that on the present occasion it was unnecessary to enter into the Policy of the War. But the vote was proposed in accordance with the prevailing custom of warfare which had been to give a portion at least of all captures to the captors. Now our soldiers and sailors had stormed and carried Acre with a skill and bravery which had been the admiration of Europe and in the fortress had been found a great quantity of stores &c. As these goods were delivered along with the fortress to the power whose property they justly were it was thought fair to give to our brave seamen and soldiers some compensation for the loss of what would under ordinary circumstances have become their lawful booty,—there had been several parallel cases and he was of opinion the gratuity was well deserved. Lord C. Hamilton thought the placing those Officers and Seamen on full pay in a time of Peace was sufficient remuneration for their services, as also the renown and honor gained by their exploits, and he considered that those who had not had the opportunity of displaying their valour were to be pitied and were more deserving the gratuity. Captain Petchell, Sir C. Napier and Sir G. Cockburn defended the vote which was carried. On 26th Sir Robert Peel in reply to a question from Sir F. Burdett said it was the intention of Government to ask for a grant to defray the expense of erecting a monument to the memory of Sir Sidney Smith and they also considered Lord Exmouth and De Saumarez deserving the same honor. The Colonial Passengers Bill was read a third time on the question that it do pass. Mr. Maves deprecated the wholesale deportation of that class of persons which this Bill was intended to effect from their native country to places where they were consigned to a state partaking more of Slavery than freedom. Mr. G. Bunke considered the only resource of the West India colonies was in the East Indies, and on the authority of Sir Charles Metcalfe ventured to assert that the importation of labor at least into Jamaica might be permitted without any danger at all, provided the passengers were sufficiently taken care of; Mr. Vernon Smith said that considering the Bill merely, in the light of a measure for facilitating the transfer of the surplus population of India to the Island of Mauritius he should vote for it. Mr. Hogg opposed it fearing that it would revive and encourage the practice of crimping which had sometimes since been suppressed,—he admitted that the regulations were nearly as favorable as possible to the laborers emigrating and trusted that the beneficial effects anticipated would result from the measure, although he entertained strong doubts of its success. Lord Stanley at some length explained the reasons which had induced the Government supported by a large majority in the Court of Directors and Proprietors of the East India Company to introduce the measure. A Division took place on the clause relative to the coolies when there appeared 118 for it and only 24 against it. The Bill was then passed. On 28th Capt. Pittsford obtained leave to bring in a Bill to require and regulate the examination of all persons who wish to become Masters or chief Mates of merchant vessels. Several accidents having lately occurred owing to the alleged unskillfulness of the commanders of Merchant vessels, he felt it necessary to propose some provision for the protection of the public. His Bill recommended that a board of Examiners should be established in the principal Sea Ports of Great Britain and Ireland composed of Practical seamen chosen by the managing ship owners of the district assisted by the Trinity corporation and to be controlled by the Board of Trade. The expense of the board to be defrayed by fees to be paid by each officer examined on receiving his certificate of qualification; masters were to pay £3 for a certificate to entitle them to go to any part of the world; Masters of coasting vessels £2;—mates £1. 10.—mates of coasters £1. Several members recommended that the measure should be taken up by Government. The Report of the Election compromise committee had been brought up and printed—amongst the cases enquired into that of Nottingham is as follows. The Committee found that Sir John Hobhouse and Sir George Larpent had spent £12,000 on the Election, a very large part in an illegal manner and that Mr. Walter & Mr. Charlton the unsuccessful candidates spent nearly £5,000 much in the same way. That previous to the trial of the Election Petition it was arranged that Sir George Larpent, should vacate his seat and that Mr. Walter should not be opposed on a new election,—that Sir John Hobhouse and Sir George Larpent agreed to pay £1,900 towards the expenses of the petition and the former deposited a promissory note for £4,000 as security for the fulfilment of the terms of the arrangement. At Harwich £6,300 was spent by Mr. Attwood for the election of himself and Major Beresford, the constituency consisting of only 182 voters; that of the above sum £3,000 is alleged to have been given to 33 persons in direct bribery. That the expenses the election to Sir D. Le Marchant one of the unsuccessful candidates was £1,500 and of Mr. Bagshaw, the other was £500 besides which there are nearly £400 of bills against these gentlemen yet unsettled. A compromise was entered into pending the petition by which Major Beresford was to retire and Sir D. Le Marchant to be returned unopposed on a new election, that Mr. Attwood was to deposit £2,500 as security for the fulfilment of this compromise, £2,000 of which Mr. Attwood himself considered was paid out and out, and the remaining £500 to be returned when the terms were completed. Mr. Roebuck on 28th after a long address on the subject proposed three resolutions to the effect, that the compromise of election petitions, if for the future they were allowed to pass without punishment or censure, tend to bring the House into contempt with the people and thereby seriously to diminish its power and authority. That all such practices are hereby declared to be a violation of the liberties of the people, a breach of the privileges of the House which it will in all future cases strictly enquire into and severely punish. That for the several Boroughs whose elections have been enquired into Mr. Speaker do issue no writ for any election of members till further legislative enactments have been adopted to protect the purity of elections. These resolutions were opposed by the Solicitor General and others as unnecessary, nothing further being intended by the Hon gentleman and as the bill for the suppression of bribery then before the House would embrace every point alluded to in the report of this committee they hoped the House would negative them, and they were accordingly negatived by a majority of 89. On 19th Mr. Home presented a petition from Puntah Sheen the deposed Rajah of Sattara now an exile in Benares. The petitioner complained of the conduct of the East India Company towards him, and prayed that justice which if he had been a peasant he would have had from the Laws of this Realm. Mr. Home gave notice that on 4th (this evening) he would bring the subject of the petition before the House. A supplemental Grant for the service in India and China was moved for and Sir Henry Hardinge explained that six Regiments had been sent out to India to replace the Regiments sent thence to China. This had been done at the request of the East India Company who would bear the whole of the expense. These six Regiments had been replaced by other Regiments raised in England since. The extra expenses which appeared in the vote were chiefly for China. A new writ was issued for the Borough of Nottingham in the room of Sir G. Larpent retired. On 30th the Committee for enquiring into the late Election for Ipswich reported that the same was void on the ground of bribery, but that the members Mr. T. Gladstone and Lord Gosport had not been proved complicit in the illegal acts. (This is the second void Election for the Borough from the same cause, which has been declared this session). On 1st instant a new writ was issued for the election of two members for Southampton the former one having been declared void through bribery some time since. On 2nd Mr. Home moved for a return of the sums paid by the Secret Committee of the Court of Directors of the East India Company as secret service money in Great Britain in each year since the Charter of 1833. He understood that £195,000 had been paid in this way by the late President of the Board of Control without the concurrence of the Court of Directors.

AFGHANISTAN.

From the India Gazette, of 9th Sept.

We have a letter of the 17th instant from Jullalabad; but it does not add much to our stock of intelligence. The advance order was, of course, the common topic of conversation. The General is stated to have said, that he would be at Caubul before Nott; but many were much inclined to doubt whether they would advance further than Jugdulluck.

Nott's advance is spoken of as a circuitous retreat, and it is thought that Pollock's division, or rather a portion of it, will only advance to cover this retreat. It is said that England's division will remain at Candahar, until Nott arrives at Caubul. This is opposed to all the previous accounts, but it seems more probable than the old story of the two divisions turning their backs on one another. The detachment at Fattialab is in high spirits and excellent health; the climate is represented as being there much better than at Jullalabad, and the officers able to walk about all day in the sun. At the latter place, we are sorry to say, sickness is rife. Monteath's brigade, which when out in the Shin-warrie district, had enjoyed excellent health, had been suffering much since its return. Cholera had broken out in the 30th Regiment, and there had been several fatal cases. It was supposed that that corps, with two squadrons of the 10th Cavalry, and the bullock battery would remain to garrison Jullalabad. The other squadron of the 10th goes to Dakhra. The Sikhs were still encamped in a valley, on the other side of the river.

The following is an extract from another Jellalabad letter of 17th August:—

"General Pollock has at length determined to advance into Caubul. Two days ago despatches arrived from General Nott, mentioning his intention to leave Kandahar on the 10th of this month for Caubul, and to destroy Ghuznie on his way. General England was to be left at Kandahar with a sufficient force to make his way through the Bolan pass.

"The 9th Queen's march to Fattialab on the 20th instant, to remain till about the 4th proximo, and then move on to Caubul. General Pollock's force is, I believe, to consist of the whole of the Artillery, (with the exception of the bullock battery;) the 3d Light Dragoons; the 1st Light Cavalry; the 3d Irregulars; the three Queen's Infantry regiments; four Native Infantry regiments; and the Jessaichies.

"The Sikhs march to and remain at Jugdulluck to occupy some of the heights there, till the force returns from Caubul. There is a report to-day that Akbar Khan has fled from Caubul, leaving the prisoners behind. We are all delighted with the onward move."

We have letters from Jullalabad to the 18th ult. but they do not contain much news. The Head Quarters were to move up on the 20th. but with regard to their ultimate destination opinion seemed to be divided. Some speak of the certainty of an advance upon Caubul, leaving detachments at Fattialab, Gundamak, and Jugdulluck, a rapid despatch of business, and a rapid withdrawal; others again of wintering at the capital; whilst a third party surmises that the force will advance no further than Gundamak, with the view of accelerating our negotiations for the release of the prisoners, and helping Nott's to accomplish, in safety, the last stage of his journey. Of course, every one was anxious to push on to Caubul, and many were deploring the chance of Nott being left to do all the work—here is an extract from one of our letters:—

"We are about to go on to Caubul. Thus at least it is currently affirmed. But so many exceptions may be taken to such a course at such a time, that the impression has been pretty generally received, that instead of going on to Caubul we shall merely proceed to Gundamak, and that it is merely with the view of accelerating the conclusion of our treaties for the recovery of the prisoners, that we shall make that demonstration of an advance on Caubul. And yet, if there be, (as apparently there is) good reason to believe, that General Nott has actually advanced to meet us at Caubul, there will be, and there ought to be, no halting on our part at Gundamak. No! "we must stand the hazard of the die;" in other words, I believe, we must hazard the experiment of another winter at Caubul.

"Three hundred more camels are to be here from Peshawur in a few days, if we wait for them, but we have lost, I hear, not much less than that number during the last three months—months that have been passed in fruitless inactivity."

We do not believe that there is the remotest chance of our divisions wintering at Caubul, unless it be as a disaster; It is not likely that we shall voluntarily place ourselves again between the lion's jaws. But one of our correspondents seems to think that there is no lion, or at all events that the lion has no jaws. He says that we can knock Caubul to pieces in 30 days. If any one knocks Caubul to pieces, it must be General Nott with his siege guns; but as he only takes 40 days provisions with him, and would not reach Caubul before the middle of September, he cannot very well afford to spend twenty days at the capital. Besides, we think we might undertake to say, that the knocking to pieces of Caubul is just the thing that would not be done if there were plenty of time to do it:—

"As for the occurrence of any mischance, any calamity, such as some people delight in predicting, the thing is impossible, absurd, and ought to be left out of the question. What! Nott's and Pollock's united forces in danger from what Afghans or Afghan seasons either can do unto them! Rubbish! They'll go up light and it won't take them more than twenty days to knock all the stones of Caubul down; and to burn whatever is capable of being consumed by fire—(burnable,—is there such a word?) would scarcely be a work of as many hours; and then they'll return by Jullalabad, and we shall all go back to India with colours flying (flying colours, I think is the idiom though,) and bands playing, and stay at home, Regiments saluting us, and the choice of nice stations to go to, and the pick of nice girls to flirt with, and to fall in love with us. Now, only fancy, dear Editor. Only look on your picture—the picture you drew of a retreat without going first to Caubul; and on this—which shadows forth in colours cheerful perhaps, but certainly not false, the result—so important in a political point, and so beneficial to the morale of this army.—of a mere four or five weeks' expedition to the Afghan capital.

"I will merely add a detail of the troops that have been named to go no. These are.

"ARTILLERY.—Alexander's troop of H. A.—Abbott's Battery of Foot Artillery, Backhouse's Mountain Train.

"CAVALRY.—The 3rd Dragoons, 1st L. G. (or one Regiment, it seems doubtful which); Tait's Irreg. Horse.

"INFANTRY.—The 9th Foot—15th, 31st dist; 26th, 35th and 60th N. L., and I believe Ferris's 400 Jugailchoes. The move is I think an admirable one,—a move calculated to enable us to quit the country without dishonour—and one which will ensure our return to India, during the approaching cold weather.

"The General makes no secret of his intentions; he also has no hesitation in saying, that General Nott has actually advanced on Caubul, and will join his force at that capital. Hurra then, again for Caubul your sowl."

A Delhi Gazette Extra supplies the following information:—

Camp, Fattialab 16th August, 1842.—"An order arrived this morning for our moving on to Kabul, and we expect to break ground from this about the 25th instant to concentrate at Gundamak, where a force will be left. I hear that two Regiments the 53rd and 53rd, will be left to garrison Jellalabad under Brigadier Monteath. It appears, that General Nott wrote to General Pollock, that he commenced his march from Kandahar on the 10th of this month and expected to reach Kabul on the 15th of September, and of course our movements will be made to correspond with his. General Pollock has requested that as little baggage as possible may be taken, and I hear the Europeans go without any tents except a very few for those who fall sick or get wounded. The Europeans and Natives appear in the highest spirits, and all are eager for the move. The 3rd Light Dragoons and Captain Alexander's Troop of Horse Artillery joined us this morning. General Sale commands at this place, which is two good marches on the Kabul road, and only two from Gundamak."

Another correspondent says:—
"The major part of General Pollock's force is, as last ordered forward to Kabul, and a proclamation of thunder and lightning is to be issued if the prisoners are not safely delivered up ere the force reach Caubul. We shall now see whether General Nott's services will be duly acknowledged or not?"

Jellalabad 17th August, 1842.—"The order is out for our advance on Caubul at last, and you may imagine the state of activity we are in. Two days ago the following order was issued:—'As the advances on Caubul has been determined upon, a depot for supplies will be formed as speedily as possible at Fattialab for the army. &c. &c.' You will, I dare say, have heard that our advance has been entirely caused by General Nott having done so—it is said that he left Candahar on the 10th inst., and that he expects to be at Cabul on the 15th of next month: our movements are, they say, thus laid down. We move on from this first to Futtiahad where a depot will be formed for the army, as soon as this is completed we are to advance on Gundaumuck, where a second depot is to be formed, and from that the Company's troops are to make a rush on Cabul, leaving the Sikhs to form the point of appui for our forces, while in advance. Cabul, of course, is to be destroyed, and not one stone to be left on another, at least so says rumour. Nothing has happened to the force in advance, they have been out and destroyed some of Ukhbar Khan's forts and villages—not a shot fired. A letter from them to-day says, that a number of men who had been prisoners at Cabul had arrived that day, the people there were aware of our advance from the Candahar side.

"Shumshooddeen Khan had written to Ukhbar Khan telling him to be of good heart, that he would take care and give a good account of the force from the East, and all he had to do was to beat those from the West."

The following Military movements are announced consequent on the assembly of the Army of Reserve, the departure of the Commander-in-Chief from Simlah and the arrival of the Governor General:—

"The Commander-in-Chief's escort, a Squadron of the 7th Light Cavalry; and the 10th N. I. (one Company to be left to accompany the 1st European Regiment) leaves Kurnaul for Bhar, on the 18th of October; the Governor General's escort, 3d Light Cavalry and 63d Native Infantry to leave Kurnaul on the 1st of November. The 73d Native Infantry now at Meerat to take the place of the 10th at Kurnaul. The Artillery march from Kurnaul for Poreepeer on the 26th October.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 5th Nov., 1842.

We have during the week, with the exception of the north of China, had no arrivals of much interest, but have since received Calcutta papers to 26th September, from which we have made some interesting extracts on Afghan affairs. From Chusan H. M. B. Columbine has arrived at Hongkong yesterday on her way to England. We do not hear that she brings any intelligence of interesting nature not before known.

We regret to learn that the troops lately returned to Hongkong from the north are suffering very severely from illness. Of H. M. 95th regiment, we are told not more than 35 men are actually fit for duty. We hope that the so much boasted climate of Hongkong may soon restore these poor fellows to health, but at same time we have to regret to state that the mortality of the garrison there of the 24th, since June last has been very great, greater probably than it generally has proved to be to new troops even in India. The mortality in the Yangsekiang is reported to have been very great; every one of the transports has suffered more or less severely, and although the fire of the enemy has with the exception of a few occasions, not proved very destructive, the loss of life on the part of the English will be found, we fear, anything but trifling. The cold, even before the troops and transports came away from Chusan, is represented to have been excessive.

We observed from last Thursday's friend of China that Major General Lord Saltoun is now in command of the force at Hongkong. Mr. Woosnam, surgeon to the Embassy, has during the absence of Major Malcolm been appointed temporarily to the post of Secretary of Legation.

We have copied from the last Friend of China the astounding fact that a number of Chinese, who landed in boats, attacked West Point Battery, and succeeded in carrying off 24 muskets belonging to Her Majesty Queen Victoria. Poor Queen! if such enemies were to be everywhere, equally successful! What sort of lookout may have been kept at West Point Barracks will puzzle any one to determine—but the Chinese, by way of giving a lesson no doubt, thought it would be the best way to show their cleverness by penetrating even into the lion's den. It is said of good old Homer that he sometimes sleeps; he, the son of the heroes, battles and sieges; why should not the subjects of his song have a similar indulgence? We hope however that we shall have to report no more doings of muskets carried off. We regret to learn that night robberies are again being practiced at Hongkong—indeed, until the police is better organized, on a more liberal footing, there seems to be very little security of property on that settlement.

PIRACY AT HONGKONG.—We have copied from the Friend of China of last week a police report detailing evidence given before the magistrate against five men who had lately been concerned in plundering a boat near Tungkol. The mere fact of the Piracy, as being of every day occurrence, would hardly have entitled its lengthened report to a place in our columns, were it not that the evidence discloses in a most positive manner, that there exists a society of which the heads are resident at Hongkong largely engaged in piracy, and so much feared by the peaceable trader and navigator that their protection, or rather their abstinence from violence and robbery, is purchased at fixed prices, according to the value of the property to be conveyed by water, and the time such protection is to last, for which regular passes are granted, and agents appointed on the island to whom a consignment of them is made, which they sell in the regular way of business. We have all along suspected the existence of these nefarious practices, and more than once stated our belief, based upon native information which we had every reason to believe deserving of credit, that the heads of the bands of pirates infesting these waters reside at Hongkong, and that there they are very influential members of the native community. We were then contradicted by the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, which paper chose to say that our statements proceeded from the influence a clique inimical to the settlement of Hongkong exercised over us, and that, moreover, the editors of that paper had made every enquiry on the subject and believed our statements to be without foundation. How much the late disclosures at the Police Office have shown us to have been in the right (we do not intend it to be understood that we at present allude to the individual then named, but as speaking more generally) our readers are able to judge, nor would we have written what we did if we had not believed that our native information was pretty well to be relied on. But it is of little importance comparatively, to possess a general knowledge that an organized system of piracy exists in these waters, of which the originators and movers reside at Hongkong, unless they are discovered, and severe punishment dealt out to them. That the men lately caught and sentenced to punishment, are not the chief movers, is pretty evident, but it also seems that one or two of them, at least, must possess considerable knowledge of the secrets of the society, one being stated to be a leader and the other a secretary of the Chooee E Thong society, and the latter being the consignee of the passes above alluded to. Could not, by guaranteeing a remission of the punishment to one or both of them, they be prevailed upon to state all they know, and thus bring under cognizance of the authorities the wealthier and more guilty members of this atrocious band of thieves? Until their discovery, piracy is not likely to diminish, and the native trade of Hongkong to flourish. Acts of piracy are now of daily occurrence, and we learn with regret that even our cotemporary of Hongkong, when lately returning from Canton to his "Capital" was attacked by pirates near the Bogue, and robbed of all he happened to have with him. The subject of piracy requires the greatest attention of the authorities, and we hope will receive it, if they can only be convinced that its head quarters are Hongkong.

After having written the above, at a late hour last night, the last Thursday's "Friend of China" was kindly lent us, from which we see with pleasure that the Chief Magistrate had made some discoveries of vendors of safety passes, from whose papers it would appear that not less than several hundreds of them had been lately disposed of. This proves the widely ramified nature of those piratical societies, and the danger being thus shown to be so very great, the exertions of the authorities will, we hope, be doubled until they are able to lay hold on the heads of this conspiracy against society. That these heads, as well as their understrappers, are chiefly residing at Hongkong, we have little doubt, and regret to see from the evidence adduced at the police office, that no progress has as yet been made to find them out, although we should suspect the sellers of the passes are perfectly able of giving every elucidation on the subject. Until these crimes are brought home to some of the now influential Chinese residing at Hongkong, neither piracy nor night robberies will be put a stop to, and justice must be content to punish the few miserable individuals the leaders of the companies are willing to give up as a cloak for their more dangerous machinations.

In the latter part of last and first days of this week upwards of twenty transports and H. M. S. Bellisle and Jupiter have arrived at Hongkong. According to a correspondent of the Hongkong Gazette the garrisons at the different places occupied by the British force will consist of 1935 men at Chusan, 980 at Amoy and 1700 at Hongkong. The remainder of the force we believe is forthwith to return to India. At Shanghai, Capt. Balfour, N. I., has been provisionally appointed British Consul and other appointments will be made, we suppose, at Ningpo, Amoy, Fuhchow, and Canton. All accounts we have seen or heard of agree that Sir Henry Pottinger may not be expected at Hongkong much before the end of December. We also hear it stated on pretty good authority that the negotiations for the details of the treaty, affecting the trade of Canton, are to be carried on on the Island of Lianao, about halfway between this and Hongkong and that preparations for the accommodation of the Imperial commissioners have already been begun there. The Commissioners are however not likely to reach Lianao before February next, and this season's trade will have to be conducted at Canton under the old restrictions and duty. The Chinese cruisers continue very active in the river against piracy and smuggling; the latter between Canton and Macao is being very seriously interfered with by them just now.

We hear nothing as yet of the shipwrecked crews of the Nerbudda and Ann, from Formosa whither we learn H. M. B. Serpent has been despatched to demand them. We have heard of some rumours that the Chinese on Formosa deny the existence of these prisoners, and that subsequently apprehensions are entertained of their having been faultily dealt with. We hope the liberation and restoration of these unhappy people to their countrymen will soon effectually contradict these rumours.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China of 27th October.

To the Editor of the "FRIEND OF CHINA."

Dear Sir,—I have the pleasure to annex for your information transcript of a letter addressed by his Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger to the naval and military commanders in China, regarding the destruction of a building called the "Porcelain Tower" by Capt. Officer and seamen in Her Majesty's Service. The public at large, will at once concur in the views and sentiments of Sir Henry, relative to this most disgraceful breach of decency, on the part of those concerned, and as a warning to others, it is to be hoped some punishment may be awarded to prevent the recurrence of such conduct. I give you the letter as received from head quarters.

"I am sorry to inform your Excellency that the Abbot of the Chinese Monastery attached to the 'Porcelain Tower' has this morning waited on me to complain that large parties of European officers and sailors yesterday visited the Tower and employed themselves by cutting off portions of the building, including the 'Josses' and other figures, for the purpose of carrying them away."

"The Abbot states that on one occasion there could not have been less than forty men so employed and that the destruction of the tower caused such excitement among the people, that a vast crowd collected, who appeared at one time disposed to interfere, to prevent this disgraceful desecration."

"It is necessary for us to effect on the serious part the effect that must result from these outrages, to say "nothing of the sort that all reflecting persons must feel at the wanton destruction of a building of such celebrity."

"I have also the pleasure to submit a statement of the distribution of the forces in China, by which you will perceive that a larger complement of men will be stationed at Chusan than elsewhere and thus be enabled to effectually check the first outbreak, that may occur among the disaffected people in that particular quarter."

CHUSAN.	AMOI.	HONGKONG.
H. M. 55th 500	18th 420	55th 500
H. M. 18th 420	41 M.N.I. 450	H. M. 28th 550
M. N. I. 950	Mad. Arty. 25	41th N.I. 450
Multras Arty. 70	Sappers 15	Royal Arty 100
Sappers 40	G. Lancers 20	Mad Sappers 50
Gun Lancers 40	G. Lancers 50	G. Lancers 50
1930	980	1710

Total 4,560 Men.

Yours faithfully,
AMICUS.

POLICE.

BEFORE THE CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

6th October, 1842. Case of Piracy.

"Asong"—"Ayer"—"Cheung thong"—"Afok" and "Ahung" charged with robbery by "Aqui." "Aqui" deposes—On the 24th of this month I was returning to this place from Canton, and when near Tongkoo the boat in which I was, was attacked by two pirate boats containing about 60 men and 10 Matchlocks, they boarded us and with drawn swords and threatened us. Two men were wounded by their sword cuts—I was bound up and suspended by the waist from the mast, they stripped me and I was beaten with the flats of their swords, all my property taken; worth about 200 dollars. The master of our boat wanted to pay for a protective pass, and went to "Asong" head pirate who refused it—I can swear to all these five prisoners, the two prisoners "Afok" and Ahung bound and suspended me, whilst Among the leader was giving orders to them.—He is the head of the "Chooee E thong" association.

Altogether the boat was robbed of 13 or 1400 $ worth of property.—The comprador "Athai" lost heavily.—After robbing the boat, the pirates left us. "Cheung thong" is the clerk to the "Chooee E thong," society and writes all their passes.—At present I don't know if I can produce other evidence but I will try and bring more to-morrow.

With the papers found on the prisoners, who were apprehended in a mat shed above the Bazaar, there are 4 protective passes, receipts for 7 passes, for 12 dollars, a letter from Tong Moon applying for passes, saying that he was interested to him for sale, of which 8 were sold, and asking for 5 more; an account book shewing a sale of Rice, Eggs and other articles to this society, on the part of Fong Fook (case 473) for about 5000 cash; also a bill from Fong Fook for 4990 cash. Fong Fook's shop is named Soong hing, and the bill is drawn on Ahing (supposed to be of the society) as it was found in the account book with other small accounts and two sealed impressions having some perfume.

There being no further evidence in this case it closed for to day.

Friday 7th October, Examination Continued.

"Ahee" deposes—I keep a Shop in the Bazaar where I sell cloth, hose and sundries, I went to Canton to make some purchases, and having bought to the extent of 140 dollars, I was returning in a passenger boat to this place, and on the 14th of last month, at 11 o'clock at night when near Tongkoo, 2 Pirate boats boarded us—the 5 prisoners were in the pirate boats, I can swear to them.—The prisoner A-song is a head pirate, I know him to be head pirate, because the captain of one boat went up to him and showed him this pass, (pass produced) stating it to be good until the 1st December next and having the seal of the "Chooee E thong" Society. As soon said he did not care for the pass, he would plunder the boats. The Pirates were more than 60, I cannot tell exactly; they raised on board with swords and spears, they had Matchlocks but did not fire them; I was not ill used in person, all my goods were taken by the pirates, and they left us. I heard of those pirates robbing another Boat, but I did not see them do so. All of the prisoners boarded our boat, Amou also was robbed, he was my fellow passenger and there were many others, I heard long since that Asoon was the head of the Chooee E thong.

"Amou."—I was coming from Canton to this place with ready made cloth and clothes for sale, amounting to 60 Dollars: on the 24th of last month when near Yong Koo at night, about 11 o'clock, I was aroused from my sleep by pirates boarding our boat. We were plundered; I lost every thing, and even my pocket (or purse) which contained a little money, and some letters the whole of my loss was not more than 60 Dollars. I was confused and do not remember the countenances of any of the robbers,—the prisoners may or may not have been there, but I cannot say they were. I was beaten twice with the flats of their swords, before I allowed them to take my purse, I was below and do not know more than I now state.

In consequence of their information Sergt. Collins was sent to search a house belonging to Asoon in the Bazaar, where one old woman named Mongpo was found and some papers—the papers shew pirate books and acts of protection passes, from the Chooee E thong and Asoon is designated as the elder Brother, and in a letter from a man, designated Chan Sing lam, Asoon is addressed as the leader, and the prisoner Cheungthong an clerk to the Society; there are also 6 more passes of protection with the seal of the Society.

The woman Mongpo states. I live in Asoon's house in the Bazaar and pay 2 dollars per month for one room, my son Hing Hop lived with me, he has gone to work or catch fish—I don't know now where he is, I know nothing of pirates. Asoon is owner of the house, but does not live there.

Sergt. Collins states, that he found the papers under bed clothes, some hanging on walls near the walls, others in boxes, and a few in a Table drawer, the woman was in a room by herself.

Saturday Oct. 8th Examination Continued.

"Kutnung" deposes—On the 24th of September my boat was passing near Tongkoo, two pirate boats boarded us, I was plundered of 300 Dollars, and beaten with swords; 3 of the crew were wounded, they have gone to their houses at Tung Koon to be cured of the sword cuts—I had charge of Athai's property amounting to 300 Dollars and consisting of Flour, Grass cloth, and shoes all was taken by the pirates who would not respect my pass; I bought the protective pass from Cheung thong of the Chooee E thong Society. I paid 8 Dollars for the pass, it was to last for 3 months, I purchased it here in a mat house above the Bazaar about 15 days since I can swear to all the prisoners having boarded my boat except Asoon—I cannot swear to Asoon as I am not sure about him. The pirates were more than forty; they had match locks, spears and swords. We were only 19 men, my pass is not here, it is in my boat which is gone to the Bogue. I did not show the pass to the pirates, but called out and told them I had one from then Society; but they said they did not care, they would plunder the boat. I heard afterwards that the same pirates plundered another boat that night.

"Akia" states—On the 24th Sept. off Tongkoo when in the passengers boat belonging to Kutnung; I was plundered of property in Flour, Cloth, and money to the amount of 110 dollars—50 of which was in money I am a very old man and cannot see well, I was down in the hold and do not know that the Prisoners were the Pirates; on looking at them I cannot say that I recognise any. I was not beaten. All of the passengers were plundered.

"Athai" comprador states—I sent 300 dollars by Kutnung to Canton to purchase Flour, Grass Cloth and Shoes. He came here on the 23rd and told me that my property was all taken as well as his own, by Pirates. I informed Major Caine of the circumstance who ordered me to look out for the Pirates, and give him information the moment I could hear of them. I obeyed this order, and the Police took the prisoners in consequence of the intelligence I obtained from Kutnung.

DEFENCE.—The Prisoners all deny the charge. As soon states: I was on shore here on the 26th of Sept. I am an opium seller, and the papers found in my house belong to some of the people living there, but not to me.

"Cheung thong" states—I am a tailor and was robbed by Pirates on the 26th Sept. at night when in the boat with Abu and Amon (the witnesses Aho and Amon are again brought into court and confronted with Cheung thong whose statement they deny.)

"Afuk" says, I was in a ferry boat on the 26th of last month employed in coming and going to and from "Shallow water bay"—Never knew Asoon before the day he was seized.

"Aree" states I sell fruit and was seized on the top of the Hill. I know nothing of the Pirates. I never saw Asoon before we were taken.

"Ahung" states—On the 26th of September I was brought over from Shallow water bay by Afuk's ferry boat. I owe him 50 cash for bringing me over, I am a poultry seller and an honest man, never saw Asoon before I was seized.

The Prisoners say they can bring evidence to speak to their characters, Asoon states he cannot do so for 3 or 4 days, but then he can bring 3 or 4 shopmen to speak for him.

The foregoing case was referred to the head of the Government.

Mr Johnston having taken his seat, the evidences are duly sworn and confirm their previous testimony; the Prisoners having no witnesses to produce, the 3 days have been allowed them to procure evidence the following sentence is recorded.

The evidence is quite conclusive and the two Prisoners Asong and Cheung thong, are sentenced each to 4 years hard labour in chains. The other three Prisoners Afok, Ahung, and Aree are each sentenced to 2 years hard labour in chains. All 5 Prisoners are to suffer a corporal punishment of 100 strokes each, and to have their tails cut off opposite to the house of Asong.

"Asong's" house is confiscated, and to be sold by public Auction, the proceeds being divided among the plundered in proportion to the amount of their loss, and the remaining due to be paid to the parties by the two prisoners Asong and Cheung thong, previous to their release from Prison.

We are sorry to learn that attempts at kidnapping have been resumed at Chusan. Captain Wellesley and his nephew we are informed of the Duke of Wellington, and Lieut. Shadwell of the 98th (a Son of the Vice Chancellor) narrowly escaped being carried off. The latter, although tied to a pole, contrived to shoot at his assailants and wounded one if them in the arm, when they all made off.—Idid.

From the Friend of China, of 3d Nov.

We have received an Imperial Edict dated eighth moon, second day (September 8th 1842) promising to the Empire and dependencies, the following important items.

1. The Emperor withdraws his objections against Foo chow foo, and gives his full consent to its being one of the five ports, where British Merchants may dwell with their families. The imperial commissioners begged to be punished, for representing the wishes of the English on this subject, but His Majesty exonerates them from all guilt.

2. The Merchants are alone holders responsible for the debts they may have contracted; without aid from Government.

3 The Hong Merchants no longer allowed to monopolise the commerce, but both foreigners and natives permitted to trade with whom they please, and their mutual accounts to be settled between them at such times as they may choose, both parties being alone responsible for their own debts.

4. All English prisoners to be immediately, benevolently and unconditionally released.

5. All kinds of intercourse allowed between the natives of China and the people of England, without fear of official interference.

6. Natives who violate the laws of the Empire, whether in the employment of foreigners or not, are to be tried without foreign interference.

7. As the barbarians are unacquainted with the language of the Middle Kingdom, Interpreters will be allowed.

8. The natives of the Empire every where to pay the usual Custom House dues.

9. Fixed duties are to be established at all the five ports.

10. All the British Ships to leave the Yang-tse keang by the 10th day of 8th the moon (14th September).

11 Full assent is given for the occupation of Chusan and Koolangau by the English until all the money be paid. His Majesty hopes for the final payment to be made with the least possible delay, that Chusan and Koolangau may be relieved, no more fighting may be excited, peace for ever firmly established and the throes which agitate the imperial bosom may be at once allayed.

All the Provinces are to consider this as the high Imperial fiat, establishing honourable intercourse between the two NATIONS. The term R. barbarian, is still employed.

We learn that on Tuesday night last, the West Point Barracks were attacked by armed bands of Chinese miscreants, who landed in boats from Kowloon. This daring attempt nearly proved successful, for two of the sentries were knocked down and gagged, twenty four of her Majesty's muskets were taken from the Store before the alarm was given!!!—Idid.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUSAN, CHINNAI, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. S., commander in chief, Captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

Blonde,	43, capt. T. Bourchier, c. z.
Thalia,	44, Hope.
Endymion,	44, the honble F. W. Grey.
North Star,	28, Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Herald,	26, J. Nias, c. z.
Dido,	20, the honble H. Keppell.
Pelican,	18, comr. Justice.
Harlequin,	18, the honble F. Hastings.
Childrens,	16, Halsted.
Vanderer,	16, Seymour.
Serpent,	16, Nevill.
Algerine,	10, lt. comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist,	10, Chetwood.
Hospital ship Minden,	capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

Starling,	6, comr. Kellett.
Plover,	6, Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

Apollo,	comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire,	Cole.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STAMFORD.

H. C. Queen,	mr. comr. W. Warden,
Mennon,	comr. Powell.
Neonides,	lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,	Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne,	comr. Roberts, I. N.
Medusa,	Hewett, I. N.
Phlegethon,	lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr. Hough, a. n.
H. M. Vixen,	comr. H. Bayes.
Driver,	Farmer.

AT ANCHOR.

M. M. S. Cambrian,	36, capt. Chads, c. z. senior commanding officer.
Pylades,	18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleón,	10, Hunt.
Agincourt,	14, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. z.
Wolverine,	16, Johnson.
Columbine,	16, Marehead.
Young Hebe,	4, Wood.
H. C. St. Hooghly,	mr. comr. Ross.
Akhar,	Commodore Pepper, I. N.
H. M. T. S. Belleisle,	capt. Kingcomb.
Jupiter,	mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

October.	ARRIVED
30, (B.)	Adelaide, Liverpool.
30, (B.)	Ingle, Isaacson, Bombay.
30, H. M. S.	Belleisle, Capt. Kingcomb, Chusan and upwards of 90 transports from the north.
31, (A.)	Splendid, Calais.
November,
2, (B.)	Quentin Leitch, Gray, Bombay.
3, (B.)	Raymond, Mackay, Chusan.
4, H. M. S.	B. Columbus, Morehead, Chusan.
4, H. M. T. S.	Jupiter, Hoffmeister, do.

PASSENGER PER

Flight, Mr. Herjeebboy Rustomjee.

October.	SAILED
29, (B.)	Coringa Packet, Chilcott, Singapore.
29, (B.)	Salem, Milford, Bombay.
31, (B.)	Helen, Bains, do.
31, (B.)	Rob Roy, Boyd, Sing. and Calcutta.
November,
1, (B.)	Hero, Fowler, Calcutta.
2, (B.)	Erst Ruth, Toby, Cape of Good Hope.
4, (B.)	Margaretha, Klencke, Manila.
4, (B.)	Kirkman Burling, Scott, do
4, (B.)	Ariel, Fort, Sing. and Calcutta.
5, (B.)	Hope, Cockbain, Liverpool.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.	Intrepid, Mole.
For Sing & Cal.	Poppy on the 8th; Red Rover on the 10th instant.
For Madras.	Kestrel, in a few days.
For Bombay.	Agnes, Sullivan.
For Manila.	Zenobia.

PASSENGERS PER

Ariel,	Messrs Wm. Leslie and Smith;
Kirkman Burling,	Mr. Wm. Blenkin.
Rob Roy,	Messrs S. Stephens, J. J. de Remedios, and F. H. de Azevedo.

Maulmain erroneously reported as arrived last week; she is not yet in.

List of H. M. Ships and Transports arrived from the Northward.

H. M. S. Belleisle; H. S. 98th Regt. Lt. Saltoun. Walmer Castle. 6th Madras N. I.; Warrior, Bengal Volunteers; Faize Rabbey, 14th M. I. and camp followers; Flowers of Agie; Wm. Turner. City of Palaces, Bengal Volunteers; Victoria, Percy. Bengal Volunteers; Tamerlane, Maria, Bengal Volunteers; Bhurampooter, Bengal Volunteers.

29th Oct. 35 a 40 miles E. S. E. of the Pratas about the ship Splendid fell in with the wreck of a large Junk and took therefrom 21 Chinese.

The Moulmain and Conrade from Singapore and the British Isle from Manila have not arrived. H. M. B. Ship Hazard for England and for New South Wales has sailed from Chusan.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,	Julia, Elizabeth, Mary Ann, Edie Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Bellver, Alphonso, Parrock Hall, Madras, Ursula, Bella Marina, Wills' the Wisp, Liverpool, & Arce Ordeal, Christopher Rawson, Hindostan, Alex. Baring, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Bonfield, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Roffe, Geo. Wallis, Coromandel, Tapley, Alliance.
From Bombay,	Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodma, Helene, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abraham, Middleton, Balvidero, Columbus, England.
From Calcutta,	Dido, Clow, Victory, Bengal Packet, Eliza, Rhinoceros, Nabal, Thomas Lawrie, Mary Hallandine, Thomas Lawrie, Mary Hallandine.
From Singapore,	Waterloo, Onyda, Maulmain.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th August.	SINGAPORE 21 October.
UNITED STATES, June 23.	MANILA, 14th Oct.
CALCUTTA, 14th Sept.	AMBY.
BOMBAY, 9th Sept.	CHUAN, 18th Oct.
JAVA, 27th August.	NANKING, 15th October.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	COMPANIES.
Adelaide,	—	Christians	C. Fearon.
Arethusa,	—	Jeffrey,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Agnes,	512	Galt,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Aberton,	451	Hill,	"
Algerine,	140	Butcher,	Holiday Wise & Co.
Anna Elisa,	234	Barlow,	Jardine M. & Co.
Asiatic,	—	Wightman	"
Ann Lockerby,	—	Rackham,	"
Bombay Castle,	—	Baxter,	"
Beckinghamshire,	140	McGregor	"
Bolton,	—	Robinson,	Dent & Co.
Back Nymph,	—	Hall,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Borephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Black Swan,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Fybus.
Cowsey Family,	—	Durham,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Chanticleer,	—	Grange,	Henry Gribble.
Cadet,	—	Carling,	Jardine M. & Co.
Colonist,	—	Loak,	J. Burd and Co.
Cacique,	—	Man,	C. Fearon.
Camelion,	398	Clucas,	Jamieson How & Co.
Chelvra,	—	Wishart,	Dent and Co.
Charlotte,	990	Wills, [Gr]	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Chatterbox,	—	Johnson,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Drongan,	—	Davidson	"
Diana,	—	Mallory,	Fox Rawson and Co.
Devos,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Dindem,	—	Tarnbull,	"
Elora,	—	Brewer,	Dent and Co.
Ellen,	—	Kettlewell	Reynaan & Co.
Emma Eugenia,	801	Cromorty,	Jardine M. & Co.
Equestrian,	1488	Baker,	"
Earl Balcarres,	1414	Peterson,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Edinburgh,	—	Edwards,	Dallas and Co.
Frank Cowan,	—	Greig,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Foam,	—	Thomson,	Macvicar and Co.
Frances Ann,	—	Edington,	"
Frances Burn,	—

Felicity,	—	McDonald	Dirom and Co.
Fortitude,	—	Hope,	D. & M. Rustomjee Co.
Fort William,	4248	Walker,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ganges,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Gemini,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
Greenlaw,	—	Walt,	"
Grecian,	—	Whitcomb,	Dirom and Co.
Gulnare,	—	Whettem,	"
Hero of Malova,	—	Fowler,	H. Holgate.
Hongkong,	—	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
Hygeia,	378	Burn,	"
Hymalaya,	—	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Hindostan,	708	Melville,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Hebrides,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Intrepid,	—	Stewart,	W. Allanson & Co.
Islay,	—	Galt,	A. A. de Mello.
Isabella,	—	Sinclair,	Lindsay and Co.
Ingia,	—	Isaacson,	Jardine M. & Co.
John Calvin,	—	Knox,	H. Rustomjee.
John Moor,	—	Whitcomb,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Juliana,	—	Chapman	J. Burd and Co.
Jane,	—	Berg,	Turner & Co.
John O'Gaunt,	—	Robertson	Dent and Co.
Kestrel,	—	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
Litherland,	—	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
Lady Clarke,	—	Worsell,	Lindsay & Co.
Lord Eldon,	—	Lawrence,	"
Lady St. Kilda,	—	Spruce,	D. & M. Rustomjee Co.
Maia,	—	Brown,	Dent and Co.
Minerva,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Manly,	—	W. Scott,	"
Mercury,	—	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mary Anne,	—	Rowe,	"
Matilda,	—	Shettler,	"
Malacca,	—	Fawcett,	Lindsay & Co.
Melish,	—	Rouse,	H. Rustomjee.
Maulmain,	—	Kirk,	Dent and Co.
Marham,	—	Terry,	Jardine M. and Co.
Osprey,	—	Barclay,	"
Orator,	298	McLean,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Prince Regent,	—	Cole,	Pereira and Co.
Palatine,	140	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Puppy,	—	Gray,	Turner & Co.
Prince of Wales,	—	Mackay,	Jardine M. & Co.
Queen Leitch,	—	Wright,	"
Royal Exchange,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fordyce.
Raymond,	353	Ross,	C. H. Hart.
Red Rover,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
Ruparell,	—	Smith,	"
St. Lawrence,	—	Cairne,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Siam,	365	Moak,	D. & M. Rustomjee & Co.
Semkramis,	—	Guy,	H. Rustomjee.
Sellinany,	364	Neatby,	Hughdon Brothers.
Sylph,	—	Stroyan,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Snipe,	—	Lucas,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Susaa,	—	Case,	"
Syria,	—	Thompson,	Dirom and Co.
Tartar,	—	Thompson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Thetis,	—	Shiet,	Dent and Co.
Urgent,	—	Clark,	J. A. Durran Jr.
Victoria,	—	Hunt,	Macvicar & Co.
Wild Irish Girl,	—	Blaward,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wm. Gillies,	—		"
Wreath,	—		"
Wm. Hyde,	—		"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
Lavant,	Faulk,
Ann MacKim,	Vasmer,
Congress,	Hay,
Probus,	Wagner,
Grafton,	Gardner,
Panther,	Martin,
Charleston,	Harlow,
Zenobia,	Putnam,
Valparaiso,	Lookwood,
Lowell,	Peiros,
Mary Ellen,	A. Board & Co.
Splendid,

SPANISH.

Maria,	Capulin,
	A. Capulin.
	DANISH.
Danish Oak,	Panthers,
	Russell & Co.
	HANNOVER.
Helo,	Both,
	A. A. de Mello.
	DUTCH.
Jane,	Borg,
	J. Burd & Co.

* At Whampoa.

PUBLIC AUCTION.
On FRIDAY the 18th INSTANT.

JOHN SMITH here to intimate to the public, that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on his premises, positively to the highest bidder, the following:—

Cut and plain Decanters, Tumblers, Claret, Wine, Champagne and Liqueur Glasses.—Superior Havana Segars.—Engraving: The "First Ear-ring," a "High land Breakfast," the "White Mouse," "Spanish Mother," "Pete," "Strong Kitten," "Disputed Hero," "Queen Victoria," "Duke of Wellington," "Basilisk & Portia," "Gull and Innocence," "A Light Tresser of Dover," sets of "Spanish Skeltons," &c.—Raisins; Prunes; Jam and Jellys; Mustard; Herrings and Herring Paste; Be-kley and Pine Cheeses.—Cotton Rocks and Guernsey Frocks.—Invoices of 8-day and Miniature Clocks, and Cutlery, consisting of Penknives, Scissors, Razors, &c.—Telescopes.—Second-hand Wearing Apparel.—Bengal Table Cloths.—Fine English Napkins and Table Covers.—The residue of an invoice of Sundries: Macassar Oil; Peppermint; Essences; Work Boxes; Dolls; Lady's and Gentleman's Kid and Silk Gloves; Elastic Braces; Waist Bands; silk Cravats, and Lady's silk Handkerchiefs; Scarfs, and bobbinet Blawls and Tippets; Gilt Jewellery; agate handled Table and Dresser Knives and Forks; Umbrellas and Parasols, and a variety of miscellaneous other articles.

and, a small quantity of SHERRY, BEER, and BRANDY, (in wood and bottle), also a parcel of

PRIME AMERICAN BEEF AND PORK, any quantity of which may be taken, at the average, prior to the day of sale

Further particulars will be published in Handbills. Particular attention of CAPTAINS and others connected with SHIPPING is claimed to the sale of Prime American Beef and Pork, as the whole are for positive sale, without limit or reserve.

Macao, 11th November, 1842.

LOTTERY.—SANTA CAZA DE MISERICORDIA, hereby informs the Public that the first drawing of the Misericordia Lottery for the present season 1842 will positively take place on Tuesday the 15th instant at 10 o'clock a. m., and will continue to draw upon every second day (Sunday excepted) until the 8th or the last drawing are finished.

Macao, 2d November, 1842.

CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT ON LONDON, payable in such sums as may suit the convenience of the holder at Alexandria, Malta and other places in the Mediterranean as well as on the Continent of Europe, may be had on application at the Office of

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 11th August, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firm of

PITCAIRN SYME & Co. at Batavia, SYME & Co. at Singapore, and KEE MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KEE, McMURRAY & Co.

KER MURRAY & Co.

Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODORE DAVIS DEVITES and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUNOON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATRICKSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Moulmein, and in that of RUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Penang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighters, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subdégarnes des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne passeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

P. H. TIDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DAVIS, or to

C. FEARON.—Macao

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER to WHAMPOA THE COAST or ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTICLEER" Captain GRANGER, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to

HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SINGAPORE.

THE bark "BLACK NYMPH," Capt. HALL, 300 tons register, will have early despatch, for freight apply to

FOX, RAWSON & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER

TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 355 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

JAMIESON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. L. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWER; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR BATAVIA, SAMARANG and SOERABAYA.

THE Dutch Barque JANE, Capt. BEAG. For freight or passage apply to JOHN BURD, at Hongkong, or B. BARRETTO, Macao.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FARMER COWAN," 860 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. BUSTOMEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT or CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Hase of MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "TURTLE," J. Cass Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE and BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October, for freight apply to MULLOHBY DUNJARRIE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 60 tons burthen, 3 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong

FOR FREIGHT or CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. Ship ISABELLA, Capt. HADDIS, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 33 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE IN THE TYNE.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal RICE at very moderate rates. Apply to captain GALT on board the "ISLAY" in the Tyne, or to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED.—A PARCEL of fresh CHATEAU MARGARET, in one and three dozen cases; AND RAISINS and PRUNES, for sale on exceedingly moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH

Macao, 20th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARABIC and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

JOHN SMITH.

SUPERIOR MANILA SEGARS.—A BATCH of very superior No. III Manila SEGARS, warranted of the first quality, and good—in whole and half boxes. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 29th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—BURY RICE, COCONUT OIL, COFFEE, JAVA ARABIC in cases and casks, Singapore BEANS and PEANES, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old RUM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to

JOHN BURD & Co.

Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—Europe ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3d. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to MACAO, Oct. 8, 1842.

JOAO BARRETTA.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION on an early day, hereafter to be named, the valuable HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY, PLATE, FINEST WARE, GLASS and CHINA WARE, BOOKS, HORSES, COWS &c. belonging to M. J. LEIGHTON Esq.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to
Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—MANILA SEGARS &c., and EUROPE
LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to
P. DE LAS HERAS.
Macao, 22d September. 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.
FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms.
Apply to
Macao, 15th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, Boy's HATS.—Apply to
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 24 inch; and NAILS; apply to
Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BRAMS, 25 to 27 feet long,
and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.
Apply to
Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—DUFF GORDON & Co's
SHERRY in bottles and HOPS,
PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each,
CLARET in do. 6 do. do.
CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.
Apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de Marquês, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira;
apply to their owner

FOR SALE—A KIFLE and a few pairs GUNNIE and four, barrelled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to
Macao, Aug. 27. 1842.

FOR SALE—At the Gondowos of the undersigned Gambou Factory, adjoining the Custom house
the following articles, viz:—
Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch,
1 thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70
inches, by 30 to 40 in.
An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS,
with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.
A few very neat new FINE PORCELAIN DINNER SER-VICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.
The best Mullipatam SNUG in quart bottles, a 53 per bottle.
Add to close an account—Some of the most fanciful
articles of French and English MILLINERY.
Macao, 9th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 3 do. 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALM in Hides.
SULTZER WATER BEW.
OILMAN'S STORES late imports.
BEEF is lances; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to
Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—MADIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter cases, from the well known house of KRIS & Co.; apply to
Macao, 30th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BARR' PALE
ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine imported pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SULTZER water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TOR-
PENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila
and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS.
BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
Macao, 4th March, 1842.

LOTTERY.
Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's
FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANT-
ERS, and GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY,
OF 1843, of all Prizes!

[It is the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mofussil
Agency: for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennual Lotteries; from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, China, &c. It is purposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived thence, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund;
only for the accommodation of those permanent
Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing: and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans
of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe,

or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate: or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with, or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!
With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt.
Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto,
for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes,
only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA
UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENE-
BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843.
On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843;
valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000
Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Covenanted and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of 200 Tickets.
1 ditto 100 ditto.
1 ditto 50 ditto.
1 ditto 25 ditto.
1 ditto 12 ditto.
1 ditto 6 ditto.
1 ditto 3 ditto.
1 ditto 2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each 10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto 10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto 10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto 10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto 10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto 10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto 22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances. 480 Tickets.
Reserved, of the First Calcutta
Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes:
only amongst those Subscribers,
whose prizes may turn up less than
a half Ticket in this Scheme, 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co's Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances,
from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlement.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co's letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co, to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice
to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta
Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta
winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets,
or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them.
It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and
Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping
the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery

Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See
6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co's rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions,
Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves
the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project
of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this,
Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co's rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

From the Monthly Times, of 4th August.
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

—The North American mails acquaint us with some strange internal convulsion in the United States, sufficiently perplexing to the foreign politician. John Tyler has dethroned his fellow citizen subjects by an act of authority—he has vetoed "the Little Tariff Bill." The President and parties in Congress are at issue about a new tariff, which should have been decided before the 30th of last month; but the disputants could not manage to finish their quarrel in time.

—Another intestine commotion was a small revolution in Rhode Island, where a gentleman chose to appoint himself Governor and issue proclamations. The authorities did not much difficulty in driving him out, and in asserting the vigour of the law; and the citizens are smug with admiration, because their state constitution is able to put down revolutions so easily. The foreigner, on the other hand, is puzzled to know why there should have been any revolution to put down. The following are the particulars in brief:—The universal suffrage party had, under the command of Dorr, their irregularly elected Governor, actually taken the field. A force amounting to between 700 and 800 men fully armed, had taken up field works. The Government troops and the militia, to the number of nearly 3,000, under the command of Major McNeill, moved against the rebels.
But before the attack commenced, the universal suffrage men, deserted by their leader Dorr, broke and dispersed.
Only one or two lives were lost on the side of the rebels, about 200 of whom were made prisoners.

—The matter most concerning us, Lord Ashburton's negotiations with the United States Government, is involved in some obscurity. Some say that they go on favourably; others report that they had become perplexed at the last. Mr. Tyler's embroilment with Congress does not promise leisure and calm for delicate diplomatic bargains.

—Extract of a letter from an officer at Boston, U. S.:—
"The finances of this country are in a most deranged state; no money even to pay the mercenaries in their dock-yards. Tow hundred and fifty men were discharged from the dock-yard here last week, and all building and repairing stopped. Similar reductions have taken place at New York and Philadelphia. A great outcry against the Congress, meeting held, &c. Their navy was small enough before; now it will be nothing but the name of a navy.

—The stage in which Mr. Van Buren was travelling was upset, a few days ago, near Plainfield, Indiana, and the ex-President was slightly injured in the shoulder.
The other passengers escaped.—New York paper.

—There are in the United States 138 daily newspapers, 141 weekly newspapers, 125 semi and tri-weekly newspapers, and 227 periodicals.

The latest accounts received by the Boston steamer state that Lord Morpeth, after a very extensive tour through the United States, had arrived at Montreal.

—The French steam-frigate, the Gomer, arrived at
New York on the 15th ult., in twelve days, from Fayal.
Melancholy accounts of the explosion of two steam-boats are given in the papers. The first was the explosion of the boiler on board the steamer Etna, at the mouth of the Missouri, on the morning of the 3rd ult.
Of the persons killed and wounded by the explosion, 38 were Germans, from Düsseldorf, on the Rhine; 12 Americans, 1 Frenchman, 1 Mexican, 1 Englishman, and 2 coloured persons. The dead rooms of the hospital were full, and it was almost impossible for friends and relatives to distinguish some of the corpses. A postscript in the St. Louis Bulletin of the 4th states the number that had died, up to eleven o'clock p.m. of the 3d ult., at 53.
The second explosion was that of the boiler of the steamer Shamrock, on the lake above La Chine. It was very disastrous. The Montreal Herald's account of the accident is heartrending. A list of 43 of the English portion of the passengers on board, killed, missing, &c., is given. One family of 7, and another of 8, are among the killed. The total loss of life was supposed not to have been less than 60 or 70.

—The amount of bills granted by the East India Company, from 6th July to August 3rd, are, upon Calcutta, £19,289 7s. 4d.; Madras, £3,805 7s. 6d.; Bombay, £2,800; Total: £25,994 18s. 10d.

—Under the new Tariff, American beef has just been received, and sold in Perth at three pence per pound.

—Feargus O'Connor has been at Nottingham, pointing out upon the flames; and contributing his quota toward the disturbances which have distressed that city.

—A new candidate for Southampton has started in the person of Mr. George Thompson.

—The Prince of Wales and Queen Victoria have just been launched from the yard of Messrs Green and Wigram.

—The marriage of Lady E. Grosvenor with Lord Prudhoe is upon the tapis.

—Earl Grosvenor has abandoned his intention of an excursion to the Mediterranean this year, and has disposed of his schooner yacht the Dolphin.

—The Southampton, East Indiaman, has arrived at Spithead from the eastward, and sailed on the 30th ult. for Madras and Calcutta.

—The Admiralty has granted permission to the yachts of the Thames Club to carry the blue ensign of her Majesty's fleet.

—A duel took place lately in St. Petersburg, says a letter from Berlin, between Prince Dolgorouki, son of the Russian general of that name, and Prince Jachwill. Prince Dolgorouki was killed. They were both officers of the Imperial Guards.

—The Warwick, 50, captain Lord John Hay, is still at New York, waiting the termination of Lord Ashburton's diplomatic labours, to convey him back to England.

—The Nottingham writ was issued without a division, and almost without a debate, although Sir R. Peel delivered an excellent and most satisfactory speech upon the occasion.

—Grisi added "a little warbler" to the census last week, at a cottage in the north-western suburbs of London.

—The Moniteur announces the death of General the Baron St. Cyr Nagurs, peer of France, at the battle of Vichy. The Courier Français announces the death of Baron Larrey, the celebrated surgeon, at Lyons, on the 29th ult.

—A Bill is now before Parliament to grant furlough allowances to the Bishops of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, in case of return to Europe for a limited period.

—Messrs Briggs, Thurnburn and Co., having received considerable shipments from India and the United States, a dividend was agreed to be made of 2s. 6d. in the pound, and to pay all debts under a certain amount at once.

—A fatal duel took place lately at Naples, between two indistinguishable, under Admiral Bugeo, which, as too often occurs, arose from a trivial incident.

—The report that the Royal Mail Packet Company requested leave to modify the terms of their contract with the Government, is generally believed. They ask an additional £160,000 per annum, or leave to run only one packet in each month.

—The Americans are about to construct an iron floating battery for the defence of New York.

—The case of the Beulah, troopship for India, relative to an appeal for salvage, has not yet terminated.

—Capt. De Ruyven has been restored to his magisterial functions, since the Ennis riot enquiry.

—The Irish scandal mongers have circulated accounts which tend to criminate a lady whose reputation has ever stood beyond reproach, the subject has been taken up by the husband very determinately. Sir Wm. Leeson (the party referred to) will probably not allow the matter to drop here.

—Fanny Elssler has arrived from the United States, where she has been received with enthusiasm, and whence she has reaped a rich harvest.

—Twenty-three foundation scholars have just been admitted at Eton, to fill up the vacancies.

—Cast-iron buildings, costing about £500 to £1500, are in course of construction to be sent abroad.

—The Lumber Troopers, whose dispute will be found elsewhere faithfully recorded, have invited Sir Peter Laurie to become a "comrade."

—An unfortunate man who had formerly been in the army in India, was lately taken before the magistrate for terrifying a body of tailors with the threat of "sending them to sup with Shah Soojah." Temporary derangement from a wound he had received in the head was the attributed cause of his outbreak. He lamented that General Sale had not the advantage of his counsel at time of need, and thought of joining him.

—The Blackwall Railway carried in one week 69,000 persons!

—A new piano-forte has been lately introduced, under the title of the Euphonicus; it possesses the advantage of a cottage piano for singing and of a cabinet for tone, by a contrivance of the inventor, M. Benet.

—There is a Society in Brussels who are industriously establishing an aerial post-office route, by pigeon carriers. Of 57 special messengers lately despatched, 50 returned in due course. It is no disparagement to say the scheme is "in subibus."

—Extensive preparations are in progress at Rodcliffe the seat of Colonel Raille, M. P., Ross-shire, in expectation of a visit from Sir Robert Peel, immediately after the prorogation of Parliament.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 12th Nov., 1842.

General Yikshan went last week from Canton to the Bogue, accompanied by 40 boats all filled with men, and the rebuilding of the forts there will be forthwith commenced. Already have temporary temples (of matting) been erected on Tiger Island, Anunghov, North and South Wansung, and 4 huempes to offer up propitiatory sacrifices to the gods, that they may for the future take the new fortresses under their especial protection. The natural position of the Bogue is such that with a very moderate share of the knowledge of engineering it might be sufficiently fortified to protect the entrance of the river against any naval force. This knowledge, however, the Chinese do not possess, nor do we learn that they have any scientific foreigners in their pay, and we therefore suppose that the new forts will be very little if at all, superior to those destroyed last year. Near second bay a new fort is likewise to be erected. The Lintin and Rumto, two vessels we mentioned a fortnight since as sold to the Chinese, are also at present at the Bogue in company with a Chinese frigate intended to carry 44 guns, of which we are told a good many are actually on board. In case of need the Chinese will however find some difficulty in fighting the guns with effect; they being all of different calibre. Two other Chinese frigates, after an European model, are also building near Canton. The Lintin is under command of an American with four or five sea-cunnies, the rest of the crew are Chinese. About a fortnight since the Canton authorities were anxious to increase the number of their foreign built flotilla to twelve sail, and the Hongmerchants had received order to procure them; we have not yet however heard of any order purchase, although they have been in treaty for several, and we suppose that to the great satisfaction of that body, the matter will be allowed to drop, and the very useless expense avoided.

We perceive that a theatre is already being constructed at Hongkong, and the advertisement regarding it states that actresses of great beauty and good morals have been engaged. We have since heard that whether in imitation of the ancients or from want of fair thespians we know not, although we suspect the latter, the female parts will be dressed and acted by young men. We however wish every success to the enterprise.

The French Frigate Erigone, Capt. Cécille, arrived from Manila on Thursday last. The Sloop Favorite arrived from Chusan at same time, having been only three days on her passage.

Now that the Chinese are employed in fortifying the entrance of the Canton River, we suppose they will soon take some measures to suppress the illegal traffic of all sorts now carried on at Whampod, much to the detriment of the Hoppo's and the Hongmerchants pockets, and the opium trade on this part of the coast will soon centre in Hongkong, although its neighbourhood is at present to such degree infested by pirates, that it will be only at great risk and expense that native boats can resort there for valuable merchandise. The innumerable islands formed by the mouths of this river (by the Chinese called the Ten Thousand Isles) offer to the pirates as many safe retreats from the British cruisers at least, and the activity of the Chinese boats of war seems to be more confined to the larger branches of the river, nor is the honesty of their commanders proof against bribery, and they may often be found in league with the same persons they are sent to destroy. Another difficulty is to detect who are peaceable traders or fishermen and who pirates; for we strongly suspect that many who to day follow a peaceable calling, may tomorrow rob any weaker party they may chance to fall in with. That however very widely ramified societies of piracy exist, can no longer be doubted after the disclosures lately made at the Police office of Hongkong, and we hope some clue may be discovered by which the principal parties interested may be brought to light, and as these are strongly suspected to reside at Hongkong, punished according to their deserts. We know not in how far the punishments lately awarded to some pirates against whom there was conclusive evidence of their guilt, may be legal, but we are convinced that it will have a very good effect in deterring others from following similar pursuits. The chief of these pirates was by Mr. Johnston, the deputy governor, sentenced to four years imprisonment with hard labor, 100 blows with the bamboo, to have his tail cut off, and after expiry of the term of punishment, to be banished the island. This, although not too severe for the grave crime committed, seems sufficiently so for the object of punishment, and the degradation of having their tails cut off, a sign of infamy most dreaded by the Chinese, seems to us a very judiciously devised measure. We hope the Hongkong authorities will continue their endeavours to discover the heads and the hearts of these pirates, that this, at present, most serious evil may be, if not altogether suppressed, at least greatly mitigated.

From Canton we learn nothing of much interest. There was little or nothing doing in trade. A new feature, however, in social life is, that several ladies have followed their husbands to Canton, and are now being there annihilated by the Chinese authorities. Temporary visits from foreign ladies have been hitherto of common occurrence there. We hope one of the conditions to be insisted on by H. M. Plenipotentiary when settling the mode of future carrying on trade at Canton will be that greater liberty will be allowed the English as to the place of their abode, for if the merchants take these families to Canton, the factories will be by far too small for their accommodation.

H. M. S. Harold Capt. Nias, C. B. has during the week arrived at Hongkong from Chusan which she left on the 1st of this month. She will immediately proceed to England with a million and a half of dollars, part of the first instalment of six millions paid by the Chinese. We are glad to learn that the accounts she brings of the apparently friendly feelings of the Chinese towards the English are satisfactory. Before leaving Nanking the Imperial Commissioners gave a grand entertainment to a great many of the officers of the navy and army, during which professions of the most friendly feelings on both sides were not wanting, and we learn that whatever English officers went on shore, the people behaved very peaceably. Shanghai has been visited by several of them, and all speak in the highest terms of the beauty of its situation and of the advantages it is likely to offer as a place of trade. The Chinese people there themselves seem to anticipate the future intercourse with foreigners, and the profits they are likely therefrom to derive, with considerable satisfaction, and behaved, mandarin as well as common people, with great politeness towards their visitors. The house occupied by Capt. Halford, the provisional Consul there, is spoken of as beautifully situated. At Chusan all sorts of provisions were plentiful and cheap. European as well as Chinese, and the sickness which the force had brought with it from the Yang-tze-kiang was diminishing. The Cornwallis, the Admiral's flagship is, we understand to sail for Hongkong next month, and will soon after arrival proceed to India with Admiral Sir William Parker, K. C. B. It is said that a great portion of the force will very soon arrive at Hongkong.

By the Columbus from Bombay, arrived this week, a considerable portion of the August Overland Mail has been received; but the principal part of it, we hear, expected in the Lady Lath not arrived at Singapore by the last advice. It is a singular thing, but generally vessels most anxiously expected make the longest passages.

HONGKONG.

From the Friend of China, 3rd Nov.

PIRACY.

EXAMINATION BEFORE THE CHINESE MAGISTRATE. October 12th 1842.

"Aiyong" "Achese" and "Aguai" taken up in a house in the Bazaar on the 16th of this month, where Pirate papers were found.

The papers show as follows.

One book accounting for the sale of 93 persons, sold by a Shop named Kwong-lung (the Shop of the prisoner Aiyong is termed Kwong-lung the different boats belonging ing to Cheong Chow for about 300 Dollars last year.

Another book detailing sale of 115 passes to various boats.

A letter from Chan yen thing to Aiyoong of the Shop Kwong lung asking for 26 protective passes, sending 10 Dollars on acct and some crabs; this is dated October.

A book showing the name of the Society selling these passes, to be Cheum thong and Seon Sum thong.

Another book, detailing purchase of passes from the Societies of Seon E thong and Seun hing thong and Ai yang thong.

A letter from Cham yen thing to Aiyoong of the Seun hing thong society for 26 passes, to be delivered to the Be-ner Ahon and asking for the seal of the general society being affixed to the passes-sending him 15 Dollars and some crabs dated in August.

An account of 88 passes sold by Aiyoong to various boats, latest date June.

An Envelope of a letter sent to Aiyoong and addressed to him as of the Seun hing thong association.

A letter from the society Che Sam thong to Aiyoong wishing to borrow from him ten Dollars, and Cakes to the Amount of 3 Dollars.

The prisoner Aqual was taken by the Chief Magistrate in the house stated to belong to Aiyoong, and for which Aqual stated he paid a monthly rent of ten dollars to Aiyoong. The prisoner Aiyoong and Acheon were taken by Ache the head Police man, after the passes were examined.

The passes were taken by Acting Sergt. Crompton of the Police who was in the house with the Chief Magistrate. Private Donnelly also was present.

DENIAL.—Aiyoong states the head of the Seun hing thong is Aching; he is not here: I don't know where he is, my name is among the papers before the court, as I was employed to bring passes for Aching, I don't belong to the society. I keep a Shop, and the shrimp and crab, and fish boats used to come to me for the passes to protect them—I used to buy the passes from Aching who lived in a mat shed belonging to the Seun hing thong which has been pulled down by the Police. The last pass I bought from them was last month. I have never been a pirate—I ask for mercy and favor, the shop does not belong to me—I hired it from Tung See at a monthly rent of 10 dollars since the 8th of September.

Acheon (whose wife was in the house with the wife of Aiyoong) states—I am a boatman; I hired one-room from Tung See on the 19th of August last when Aiyoong hired all the house; I still continued a tenant, and paid the two Dollars to him—I own a small boat, for conveying passengers from shore to ships and back again. I am no Pirate and have nothing to do with Pirates.

"Aqual" states I am no Pirate I hired my room from Aiyoong (this man was formerly a police man and left the service without leave) I know nothing of Pirates.

Witness—Tung See states, I hired my house to Aiyoong about a month since for ten dollars per month; this is my certificate from the Land Office; certificate produced dated 1st July 42, in favor of witness; I always believed Aiyoong to be a man who sold rice &c, generally, have known him only a few months.

SENTENCE.—Aiyoong is sentenced to 4 months imprisonment with hard labour, and to a fine to the Queen of two hundred dollars.

Acheon is sentenced to two months imprisonment with hard labour.

Aqual is sentenced to two months imprisonment with hard labour.

All three Prisoners are to leave the Island after their release from prison.

The witness Tung See is to pay a fine to the Queen of forty dollars, for having rented his house to a person of Aiyoong's description; he is warned to be more circumspect in future as to who he has for a tenant.

Major Malcolm, Secretary of Legation to H. M.'s Mission in China, having proceeded to England on duty; during his absence, Richard Woonnam, Esq., is appointed to act as Secretary to Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart, H. M.'s Plenipotentiary.

By order, J. ROBT. MORRISON.

Actg. Sec. and Treasurer to the Supt.

Steam Frigate Queen, off

Wankee, 17th Sept., 1842.

Extract from G. O. to the Expeditionary Force, dated Head Quarters, Ship Marion,—11th October, 1842.

Major General Lord Saltoun, will be pleased upon his arrival at Hongkong to assume command of the troops at that station.

Lieut. Col. Taylor 39th Regiment M. N. F. will cause the records of the Brigade Major's office to be made over by Captain Eades, the Station Staff officer, whose appointment will cease from that date, to Brigade Major Grant.

True Extract

(Signed) ARMINE S. M. MOUNTAIN.

Lieut. Col. Deputy Adjutant General.

CAUBUL.

From the Straits Messenger, 4th Oct.

We have received voluminous files of Papers from the three Presidencies. We place before our readers below the most interesting extract we could find from the Bengal Papers. The first instalment of the August Mail being in, we are precluded from either making further selections, or from offering any comments thereon:—

The letter of the 21st ultimo from Dukha, which we quoted yesterday, contained the following words:—

"They have a native report here to the effect that one of the prison res at Canbul is dead. They say Troup; and that he has been shot; but it is very probably nothing but 'rum'."

We thought at first, that the allusion in the above was to the death of Lieutenant Conolly; but, we fear that we were mistaken in this, for we have received information, from another source, to the effect, that captain Troup being in attendance at a Durbar, was taunted by Akbar Khan, or one of his party, with not having exerted himself to bring the negotiations with General Pollock to a satisfactory conclusion. Troup remonstrated, and Futeh Khan, it is said, warmly espoused his cause. There was a disturbance, in the midst of which, according to our information Capt. Troup was killed. This story is given, in so circumstantial a form that we are afraid we can not altogether discard it as a mere idle rumour.

The Calcutta Star gives the following on the subject:—

"Letters last night received from Pottitabad mention, that poor Troup had been killed in an affray at the Durrer after his return. The only particulars I have heard are as follows:—It appears that he was insulted and abused in the Durbar on his return, and accused of having acted treacherously during his recent visit to Camp, by some of Akbar Khan's followers, which so enraged Futeh Jung, in whose presence the whole occurred, that he fired at one of the most prominent parties in the affray, when a row immediately ensued, during which poor Troup was cut to pieces. The Kuzilshahs have got possession of four of the captives, and I trust we shall soon hear of the whole being in their hands, when we may look upon them as all safe."

I am happy to say, that by all accounts Akbar Khan is at a discount in 'Canbul' and it is said, that several influential chiefs have pledged themselves, the prisoners shall not be carried away.

Akbar Khan, it was supposed, had some idea of holding, and had sent out 6,800 men with the avowed intention of attacking Pollock, but as he had not the wherewithal to furnish their needs, they would not fight."

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUAN, CHINHA, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, &c, &c, commander in chief, captain Richard, Senior Commanding Officer

Blonde,	42,	capt. T. Bouchier, c. n.
Thalia,	44,	" Hope
Endymion,	44,	" the honble F. W. Grey
North Star,	26,	" Sir J. E. Home, Bart
Dido,	30,	" the honble H. Keppell.
Pelican,	18,	comr. Justice
Harlequin,	18,	" the honble F. Hastings.
Children,	16,	" Halated.
Wanderer,	16,	" Seymour.
Serpent,	16,	" Nevill
Algerine,	10,	comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist,	10,	" Chetwood.
Hospital ship Minden,		capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

Starling,	6	comr. Kellett.
Flover,	8,	" Collinson.
Apollo,		comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire,		" Cole.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen,	mr. comr.	W. Warden,
Memnon,	comr.	Powell.
Nemesis,	lieut.	W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,		Tudor, R. N.
Ariadne,	comr.	Roberts, I. N.
Medusa,		Hewett, I. N.
Phlegathon,	lieut.	McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr.	Hough, R. N.
H. M. Vixen,	comr.	H. Bayes.
Driver,		Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M.H.S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chads, c. n senior commanding officer.

Pylades,	18,	comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleoon,	10,	lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

Agincourt,	74,	Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, c. n.
Herald,	36,	capt. J. Nias, c. n.
Wolverine,	16,	" Johnson.
Columbine,	16,	" Marshhead.
Young Hebe,	4,	" Wood.

H. C. St. Akbar,		Commodore Pepper, I. N.
H. M. T. S. Belleisle,		capt. Kingcomb.
Jupiter,		mr. comr. G. A. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

October. ARRIVED

27. (B.)	Minerva	Brown, Batavia.
29. "	(Trpt.)	Pracy, Hickman.	Chusan.
29. "	"	Victory, Shilstone.	do.
29. "	"	City of Palaces, Sherrif.	do.
29. "	"	Lady of St. Kilda, Manton.	Port Philip.
30. "	(Trpt.)	Tanquerline, Mackenzie.	Chusan.
30. "	"	Wm. Turner, R. als.	do.
30. "	"	Flowers of Ugir, Annest.	do.
30. "	"	Ranymede, Macaggard.	do.
30. "	"	Burhaupoler Brown.	do.
30. "	"	Warrior, Dary.	do.
30. "	"	Maria, Soosdall.	do.
30. "	"	Fuiza Babany, Stecoart.	do.
30. "	"	Walmer Castle, Campbell.	do.
30. "	"	Sarat Merchant, Tawson.	do.
30. "	"	Asia, Smith.	do.
30. "	"	British Isle, Graham.	Manila.
30. H. M. S.	Belleisle,	Capt. Kingcomb.	do.
30. H. M. T. S.	Jupiter,	Hoffmeister a n	do.
31. (B.)	(Trpt.)	Gostrude, Stead.	do.
31. "	"	Markel Behar, Hutchison.	do.
31. "	"	Cars. Cowjee, Campbell.	do.
31. "	"	Asia, Davidson.	do.

November.

1. (B.)	(Trpt.)	Raymond, McKay.	do.
2. "	"	Ann Dingwall, Arthur	Singapore.
4. H. M. S.	Columbine,	18. comr. Morhead,	Chusan.
5. (B.)	Columbine,	Short,	Bombay.
5. (P.)	Lus. Barradas,	Java.
6. (B.)	Columbus,	Bombay & Sing.
6. (Hamb.)	Georg Heinrich,	Manila.
6. H. M. S.	Herald,	Capt. Nye, c. n.	Chusan.
6. (B.)	Anthony Anderson,	Spalt,
7. "	Elizabeth,	Morris,	Calcutta.
8. "	Arrow,	Geare,	Chusan.
9. (Fr.)	Frigate Erigone,	Capt. C6 ille,	Manila.
9. "	Sloop Favorite,	Comr. Page,	Chusan.

November. SAILED

3. (B.)	Black Nymph,	Hall,	Singapore.
3. Hoeghly,	Ross,	Calcutta.
5. (A.)	Zenobia,	Purnam,	Manila.
6. (B.)	Agada,	J. Grey,	Bombay.
8. "	Poppy,	Cole,	Sing and Calcutta.
4. "	Agaton,		Sing. do.
10. "	Kestrel,	Beauvais,	Madara.
10. "	Bolton,	Robinson,	Sing. and Calcutta.
10. "	Ellen,	Brewer,	Bombay.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore,—Intrepid, Maia
For Batavia,—Emma Eugenia, 14th instant.
For Sing & Cal.—Red Rover, 14th instant.
For Bombay,—Bombay Castle, 14th; Salimany.

PASSENGERS Per

Amazon, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Leighton and family.

We regret that letters of 4th November from Manila report the loss of the Munimain in the Palawan passage. Her long boat and part of the crew arrived at Manila—the two officers and four men drowned. The Captain had not reached Manila on the 4th November. The Munimain had about 110 chests of Bengal Opium on board, the remainder of her cargo consisting of sundries.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England,—Julia, Affaire Mary Ann, Edna Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Bolton, Athenaeum, Porroch Hall, Madras, Urals, Bella Mariani, Wild the Wisp, Liverpool, & Argy Orion, Christopher Rawson, Hindustan, Alex. Baring, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Bantlett, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catharine, Lady Rafter, Geo Wallis, Carumandil, Tupy.

From Bombay,—Asia, Diana, Corra, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abraham, Midlothian, Belvidere, England.

From Calcutta,—Dido, Clown, Victory, Brugal, Pachel, Eliza, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine.

From Singapore,—Waterloo, Onyda.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th August.	SINGAPORE, 8th Oct.
UNITED STATES, July 18.	MANILA, 4th Nov.
CALCUTTA, 14th Sept.	AMOY.
BOMBAY, 9th Sept.	CHUAN, 5th Nov.
JAVA, 27th August.	NANKING.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Pe de Moule.

PUBLIC SALES.

(By order of the Trustees.)

On THURSDAY, the 24th of NOVEMBER, and on MONDAY the 5th of December, 1842.

JOHN SMITH begs to announce to the public, that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, the whole of the neat, substantial, new and fashionable Household Furniture and Fittings-up; Wines and Liquors; Books; handsome Plate and Plated-ware; elegant Glass and Earthen-ware; Cow and Calf; Arab Horses, Sedan Chairs &c. Belonging to CHARLES HUGG, Esquire. Full particulars will be published in Catalogues; and the property may be seen two days previous to the Sale.

On MONDAY the 5th DECEMBER, 1842.

JOHN SMITH will have the pleasure to put up for Sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, the whole of the valuable Honolulu Property, &c. belonging to HENRY JOHN LEIGHTON, Esquire, consisting of fashionable Furniture and Fittings-up; rich Plate and Plated-ware; very superior Glass and Crockery ware; a splendid collection of Books; Wines and Liquors; Cattle; Sedan Chairs, &c. Further particulars will be published hereafter. Macao, 18th November, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On THURSDAY the 6th DECEMBER, 1842.

JOHN SMITH has the pleasure to announce to the public, that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on the premises, in Praya Grande, the whole of the valuable Household Furniture, Plate and Plated-ware; Glass and Crockery-ware, and a variety of Sundry Effects, belonging to DONNA MARIA DE CASTRO, going to Europe. Further particulars will be published in handbills. Macao, 18th Nov. 1842.

NOTICE.—The Firm of ELGAR & Co. was dissolved on the 4th September 1841, by virtue of the document annexed. HENRY ELGAR. Macao, 17th November, 1842.

(Copy.)

Be it hereby known and understood to all persons or parties concerned that the Firm of ELGAR & Co. of Macao which commenced January 1st 1840, is hereby dissolved from this date by the mutual consent of parties authorized whose signatures are hereunto affixed.

(Sd.) CHAS. H. HART.
(Sd.) A. A. SACRAMENTO.

Macao, 4th September, 1841.

CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT ON LONDON, payable in such sums as may suit the convenience of the holder at Alexandria, Malta and other places in the Mediterranean as well as on the Continent of Europe, may be had on application at the Office of REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 11th August, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firms of

PITCAIRN SYME & Co. at Batavia,
SYME & Co. at Singapore,
and KER MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KER, MCKERRICK & Co. KER MURRAY & Co. Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODORE DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUNGSON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842. Macao, August 29, 1842. TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—All persons having claims against the Estate of the late Capt. ANDREW PATRICKSON, are requested to make the same known, and all persons indebted to the said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to

CAMILLO L. SOUZA.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Melmeim, and in that of HUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE or BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, cooile, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842. C. V. GILLESPIE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Salmécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DOUG, or to

G. FEARON.—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTICLEER" Captain GRANGE, 250 tons O.M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to

HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. Per Register 355 Tons O. M. 398 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to

JAMESON, HOW & Co.

Macao, 17th Sept. 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1841.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRANKLIN COWLES," 960 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co. Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Hano or Malown," 462 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "Tartar," J. Cass Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 15th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTS, THOMAS POWELL, Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLISBOROUGH DUNNICK Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office. Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 90 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD. at Hongkong.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PORT OF THE WORLD.

THE A I Ship ISABELLA, Capt. HADIN, 423 Tons Register. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 12th September, 1842.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A Printing Establishment complete with a full assortment of types—two Presses, &c. Apply to the EDITOR of THE CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE in the TYPA.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal Rice at very moderate rates. Apply to Captain GALT on board the "Islay" in the Tyne, or to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED.—A PARCEL of fresh CHATEAU MARGAUX, in one and three dozen cases; AND

RAISINS and PRUNES, for sale on exceedingly moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 24th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARRACK and COFFEE, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 26th August, 1842.

SUPERIOR MANILA SEGARS.—A Batch of very superior No. 111 Manila SEGARS, warranted of the first quality, and good—in whole and half boxes. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 26th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—Batty Rice, COCONUT oil, COFFEE, JAVA ARRACK in cases and casks, SINGAPORE BEANS and PLANK, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old Rum and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to

JOHN BURD & Co.

Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—EUROPE ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3s. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to

JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, Oct. 8, 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to

J. A. DURRAN, Jr.

Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—MANILA SEGARS &c., and EUROPEAN LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to

P. DE LAS HERAS.

Macao, 23d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms.
Apply to
MACAO, 15th July, 1842.
JOHN SMITH.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Danish, stable, also, Boy's Hats. Apply to
MACAO, 16th Sept. 1842.
JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers; Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 cent; and NAILS; apply to
MACAO, 16th Sept. 1842.
JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BRAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms.
Apply to
MACAO, 26th July, 1842.
JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's SHERRY in bottle and HIDS, PORT WINE, in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen.
Apply to
LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick HOUSES, with good masonry work, situated in a street leading to the Praça de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner
ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES

FOR SALE.—A RIFLE and a few pairs double and four barreled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, on cases complete. Apply to MACAO, Aug. 27, 1842.
Mr. A. GRANDPRE

FOR SALE.—At the Goodwins of the undermentioned Gambow Factory, adjoining the Canton house the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French FIRE GLASSES of half an inch, thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 45 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Favourite Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cat Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Muscatel and SHERRY in quart bottles, a $3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most beautiful articles of French and English MILLINERY.
MACAO, 7th June, 1842.
G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.
CHAMPAGNE 3 do. do.
CLARET 3 do. do.
SHERRY, PALE in HIDS.
SEUTZER WATER BEV.
OILMANS STORES late imports.
BEEF in casks; PORK in barrels.
COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.
MACAO, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KINGS & Co.; apply to
DENT & Co.
MACAO, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARN PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT-OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few GRABS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to MACAO, 20th May, 1842.
A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.
E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to
MACAO, 4th March, 1842.
RUSSELL & Co.

LOTTERY.

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's.
FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY.
Of 1843, of all Prizes!

It is the right of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, according to obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Manager Agency for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lottery from the Presidencies of Bengal, Madras, Bombay, Madras, Straits, China, &c. It is proposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived thence, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund; only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Contributors of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate; or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with, with, or without charging them the usual Bankruptcy or Agency Interest and Commission.

24,000 or all Prizes!!!
With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 400 Calcutta Govt.

Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's. FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY of 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843; valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000 Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the 1st January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances.
Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes; only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme. 100 ditto.
Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co's Rs. 110 each Ticket.
CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co's Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co's letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomps Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a price of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co's rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co's rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 19th Nov., 1842.

We have during the week had no arrivals either from the West or North that have added to our stock of news. The Lady Leith with a great portion of the August Overland mail still keeps out. Nothing, with any degree of certainty seems as yet to be known, as to the time Sir Henry Pottinger and the Imperial Commissioners may be expected here. Meanwhile, the Canton Tea market has opened at high prices, and we suppose, this season at least, trade there will be carried on as usual.

We are glad to learn that letters dated the 4th of November from Manila (received per Carolina) say "The Captain and rest of the crew of the brig Muhlman arrived here this morning."

It appears that the two mates met their death after they had left the vessel, as also some of the seamen. We hope in next number to lay before our readers the Captain's protest.

H. M. S. Blonde, 44, Capt. T. Bourchier, C. B., arrived during the week from Chusan, leaves for the Cape of Good Hope and England this day, with three Millions of the first instalment of the 21 Millions of dollars to be paid by the Chinese.

The H. C. Steamer Albar having on board Rear Admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane, K. C. B., left here for Whampoa on Tuesday last. We learn that Sir Thomas reached Canton on Wednesday last. We mentioned in our last that the Chinese were already beginning to rebuild the Bogue-forts, but have since heard that for the present they have desisted owing to a message sent to them by an English ship of war that the rebuilding could not be permitted until the ratifications of the treaty had been exchanged.

A few days since a Parsee servant was sent with four thousand taels of Sycee Silver in a Chinese boat, to deliver them on board the Bombay Castle then about to sail for Bombay. The boat has however never reached the vessel, nor have any tidings been heard of the Parsee, and it is very much to be feared that the Chinese boatmen have thrown the man overboard, and made off with the money. Strangers cannot be too careful how to trust themselves or property to Chinese boatmen, whom the slightest temptation, and in the above case it was considerable, incites to murder, as they have but little to apprehend being detected and punished. It is not long since a seaman went in a boat from here to the Typa, and although his property consisted of a little wearing apparel and perhaps a few dollars only, the miscreants made an attempt to throw him overboard during the passage, which he, being a strong man, fortunately frustrated, and by threatening the boatmen with a knife forced them to take him aboard a ship in the Typa, where however the alarm could not be given in time to secure the offenders.

We regret to learn from letters and persons lately returned from Canton that the feelings of the people there appear to be by no means friendly to foreigners, and the report that these would be permitted to settle on the island of Honan opposite Canton on the southern bank of the river, has excited much jealousy among the people, who have even issued a proclamation in which (we are told) they say that the Emperor has no right to permit the English to dwell among them with their families, and even, should he give such a permission, they would surpass its being carried into effect. We publish elsewhere another proclamation emanating from a similar spirit. Several ladies who a few days since, accompanied by some gentlemen, walked into the backstreets, were mobbed, and had twice, or three times to retreat into shops for protection, before they again reached the factories; the mob collected on this occasion was very great, nor did it disperse for some hours after the objects of their curiosity had ceased to be visible. An occurrence which might have led to serious results happened the day before yesterday, when a Manila sailor, who had been much annoyed by the populace, wounded a man rather severely in the hand with a knife; upon which a number of Chinese drew their knives to revenge themselves; the sailor however succeeded in reaching the gate of the Old Company House, which was immediately shut against the much-exaggerated populace which remained in great numbers before the factories for some time, but afterwards little by little dispersed. We know not what interpretation to give to the circumstance of these Chinese being armed with knives; they invariably heretofore having gone unarmed. From it, it would almost appear that this riot had been intentional on their part. A conciliatory conduct on the part of English and other foreigners will be very necessary to prevent the unpleasant alternative of again taking to arms.

The following translation of a proclamation extensively circulated in Canton and its neighbourhood has been kindly furnished us; it shows at all events, that, if the paper is really what it professes to be, there still exists much enmity among the people against foreigners, and extended intercourse with them.

"A public communication from the gentry and people of the villages contiguous to Canton.

"We have recently heard that the English foreigners are thinking of moving into this country to dwell, and that from outside of Canton along the banks of the river, and all the way to Hoiann they have taken plans and sketches, trusting to their power ere long to come and seize them. Now for the native Chinese and foreigners to mix together will indeed be a vexatious thing, in the highest degree annoying to the feelings; it is a matter which most deeply concerns every one of us, people and gentry, both in our families and in our estates, and a thing that can by no means be permitted. If we estimate the people in the villages of Hoiann and Shanto (Fa-te) there are upwards of 200,000 inhabitants; those in Great and Little Fowei (near the French folly) cannot be less than 400,000; those in the villages along the banks at Lukpu are about 100,000; and those on the north-west (near Naishing) cannot be much under 500,000 people. If the English foreigners keep in their own sphere and do not come to dwell in the land, we, the gentry and people need concern no plans to oppose them; but if they come to reside here, we must instantly let it be generally known, that with united purpose and action, we may at once get them away, and not allow a single person to remain, nor a streak of canvas to be seen;—thus we shall allay the general displeasure. For, (as the Chinese says), 'Heaven sees as the people see, and heaven hears as the people hear.' This intimation is previously given, let every one be ready."

COMMERCIAL.

The tea-market at Canton has opened at 26 & 28 Taels, China price, the reduction of duty being two taels per Picul. 70 to 80 chops are said to have been settled, but it is doubtful whether even with the reduction of duty any will be shipped off. The supply of green tea is said to be decidedly much shorter than last season's.

The following reduction on the most important articles in the consocio charges have likewise been resolved on by the Hongmerchants, the other articles of less importance we have not yet heard particulars of.

Raw Cotton, from 4 to 3 mace per Picul.
Grey Longcloths, 25 cts. to 15 cents per Piece.
White do., 15 cts. average, to 7½ cts. "
Spanish Stripes, 15 to 20 cents "
Long Kils, 40 cts. to 25 cents "

The following we copy from the China General

Equivalent to, vox populi vox Dei.

Price Current of 15th November.

Total quantities of Tea and Raw Silk, exported from July 1st, 1841 to June 30th 1842

Total Black	27,462,637
Green	9,790,531
Sorts	78,161

Grand total, lbs. 36,131,219

Export of Tea to Great Britain from 1st Oct 1840 to 30th Sept. 1841.

Bohea	230,768	Twankay	2,998,034
Congou	21,631,991	Hyson	1,400,774
Caper	644,618	Hyson Skin	19,952
Souchong	540,296	Hong Hyson	1,163,976
Hong May	127,760	Gumpowder	1,041,310
Sorts	126,460	Imperial	420,384

Pekoe	9,0917	Total Green	6,515,860
Or. Pekoe	779,460	Black	24,490,694

lbs. 30,935,954

Export of Tea to Great Britain from 1st Oct. 1841 to 30th Sept. 1842.

Bohea	1,007,004	Twankay	2,338,655
Congou	30,763,495	Hyson	1,671,506
Caper	270,618	Hyson Skin	253,126
Souchong	584,663	Young Hyson	1,103,473
Hong May	390,383	Gumpowder	638,999
Sorts	96,16	Imperial	606,818

Pekoe	594,935	Total Green	7,699,176
Or. Pekoe	840,331	Black	34,682,479

lbs. 42,381,648

The following interesting description has been sent to us by an anonymous correspondent, to whom we are much beholden for it.

THE YANGTZEKIANG.

This noble river, which is one of the very largest in the world, takes its rise in Tibet, and from thence flows through the heart of China into the Pacific Ocean. It is styled by the Chinese "The son of the sea," and truly in every respect it is worthy of such a dignified appellation. At its mouth, which is at Wanning or thereabouts, it is fully 8 or 10 miles wide, and this enormous width continues till you reach Foh-shan and Lung-shan which are the names of two hills, one of each side of the river, styled by the Chinese the gates of the river, where it is about five miles wide. Both at Foh-shan and Lung-shan there are towns, but the largest is Lung-shan which is also a military post of some consequence, and at which a strong force is kept, consisting of a Lieut. General and three or four regiments. Foh-shan is also a military post, but not of such magnitude as Lung-shan. Though called by the Chinese "the gates of the river," still the great width of it would allow of the vessels of an invading force to pass by without receiving the slightest injury, let the forts do all they could to oppose them. The scenery on both banks of the river is very beautiful, the country round about in general consists of low marshy ground, which yield all kinds of vegetation to a great extent. At the entrance to the great river, there are many and extensive shoals, and also not a very great depth of water, but when the first thirty or forty miles are passed, there is then a deep and regular channel, which is perfectly safe, not possessing the same obstacles as at first, which rendered navigation rather dangerous. The only way to account for these shoals is that the rapidity of the current carries along with it the sand from the bed of the river, till it reaches its mouth, where it lodges it, thus giving rise to shoals and banks of great magnitude which, as time rolls on, increase in size. This current runs with very great velocity, the average of its rate being five miles an hour, so that without a good leading wind it is very difficult for vessels to make way against it. From Foh-shan the river goes on gradually narrowing, but keeping up its beauty in every respect, and the next place of any note that you come to is Kungyinhon. This is a very pretty place, situated in a small cove, with high hills behind it, but on the other side beautiful scenery consisting of a richly wooded and productive country. The river here is about three miles wide. The next place of note is Tseon-shan or Silver Island which is about 100 miles up the river, just below the city of Chinkiang-foo. This is a small island in the middle of the stream, it is not more than a third of a mile in circumference, but is really a very pretty little spot, being covered with foliage from top to bottom, with several very beautiful houses and pavilions showing themselves here and there; most of the roofs are varnished over with yellow in honor of a visit which one of the Emperors was pleased to pay to the place. There are flocks of white pigeons also, cooling and flying about it, the thick growing trees affording them a capital domicile. Altogether it looks very well and adds much novelty to the scenery round about. Kinsan, or Golden Island, with Chinkiang-foo between, next make their appearance.

The city of Chin-kiang-foo is of great extent, and fortified with good walls, it is a Tartar city, and, as at Nanking, the part which they hold of it is walled off from that in which the Chinese live. The suburbs are of very great extent, nearly equal in size to the city itself. It is a place of importance, on account of its neighbourhood to the grand canal, which flows close to its walls, and consequently causes a smart trade to be carried on.

Kinsan or Golden Island then offers itself to view, (this is an island situated in the middle of the river, just where the Grand Canal crosses it; it is remarkable as having been the residence of one of the Emperors some hundred years back, for a short time. It is a very beautiful little place, as it takes precedence of Tseon-shan altogether. When the keeping up of the place was supported by the Emperor, it must have been of some importance; but since he has withdrawn his funds it is gradually sinking into decay, but still bears some traces of former grandeur. Its sole inhabitants consist of a set of priests who are exceedingly poor, yet they seem to hold the island in veneration, and always show and point out the different places where the Emperor used to reside, with much respect. The chief ornaments of the island are its temple and library, the former of which is well worth seeing. It contains a very great number of large idols ornamented in an splendid manner. The library also contains an immense assortment of books, all in manuscript; they are bound very beautifully in yellow satin, and are kept in a room which keeps them in a very good state of preservation, though most of them are upwards of a hundred years old. The island is just like a hill rising out of the river, and its ascent is very steep; at the top there is a pagoda of seven stories, which looks well outside, but inside is directed of all its ornaments and its staircases &c. are falling into decay. All the houses at which the Emperor staid, have vanished roofs, which in the distance when the sun shines upon them looks very well. The island in size is similar to Tseon-shan. At Nanking the river is about a mile wide, but there is still the same beautiful scenery as before. For the last three or four years the river has at certain times been swollen to a great extent, so as to lay the country round entirely under water, thereby proving a source of great calamity to the poor people, who are often very extensive sufferers, more especially in the province of Hoiann. The trade carried on upon it throughout the year, is very great, as it is almost entirely through it that communication is carried on between the Western and Eastern parts of the Empire.

From the Canton Register of 15th Nov.

TRANSLATION.

Reports from the Imperial commissioner Kying, the Intendant of Yuen, Ekepo, and the governor-general of the two Kwang provinces, Nankin.

On the 26th day of the 7th moon (August 31) we reported on the affairs connected with the barbarians, and the conclusion of a treaty of peace, which we duly sealed; we now make a list of the several articles and report them for the Imperial inspection; and we also take the management of the affairs (with a. m. a plenipotentiary) and respectfully report them in a duly prepared memorial, and looking up pray for the Imperial examination of the matter.

We humbly state that we went on board the barbarian ship, having been invited by the English barbarian; and we found it difficult to oppose his requisitions: of these, we have already made a report by a post-haste despatch; this is on record.

On the 22d day of the 7th moon (August 27) we received a despatch from the privy council, stating that on the 17th of the moon (August 23), they had received the Imperial commands (as follows):—

Kying and his colleagues have reported, that for several successive days they have met the English barbarian in consultation to determine and settle the articles of the treaty; and with reference to the subject matter of their conference, there is still something that is not right. I order that the consultations be immediately settled, and a report sent back of all the circumstances.—Respect this.

In obedience to the Imperial will, as communicated in the said despatch, we have examined and found that the said barbarian had requested to enter the city (Nankin), in order to deliberate upon and settle the terms of the treaty, and thus to manifest that there were no doubts or suspicions. We, observing that he had already become obedient and submissive, immediately appointed the 21st day of the 7th moon (August 26) to arrange a military guard to meet and accompany the foreign leader (Tseu-tai-ant—an epithet of martial leaders; used in the Sau-tso-eh), Pottinger, with his suite, consisting of about ten persons, peacefully into the city, to consult with us at a personal conference in the public hall on the terms of peace. At that time he restored an intercepted despatch from the Nanking general, Tschapou. We consulted together on the different articles for general ways, and in translating into the Chinese language, the papers that were presented, we publicly reading them, although the style and phraseology were not good, perfect, or pleasing, still we understood the general and important meaning, and the various articles before requested were not a dividend; neither were there any seditions or irascible expressions. All the facts were accurately reported, and we received the imperial will in an edict, pointing out that the emperor was unsatisfied, and directing a more delicate investigation. The affairs of barbarians have always hitherto been reflected in the divine intelligence (the emperor's mind and knowledge) as in a mirror; to which we most respectfully submit, and will immediately depute the acting treasurer of Nanking, the judge of Kiangsoo &c. to go on board the barbarian ship to promulgate the gracious imperial will; and taking the imperial orders and explaining them to and instructing (h. m.'s plenipotentiary). The said barbarian leader, Pottinger hearing that all he had requested had been granted, was highly excited to gratitude; and at once dismissed all doubt and suspicion.

(Here the commissioners quote what h. m.'s plenipotentiary has said or written:—we presume not very correctly.)

As to rebuilding the forts and military defences &c. it has all been respectfully and willingly accorded: and nothing different was said.

With reference to the affair of the hong merchant's debts, he stated that the hong merchants of Canton owed his countrymen a very large sum of money, and he wanted three millions of dollars to clear the score; and exclusive of this, he did not presume to require the government to supply any further deficiency.

As to the future course of trade, as the emperor had said its details were trifling, petty matters; he (Kou a vulgar word) also did not dare to say that they should be under the superintendence of the public officers; but as the trade at Canton had hitherto been subjected to the scraping and parings of the hong merchants, and as hereafter they were to trade with whom they liked,—the duties being paid according to law,—their being cheated in the dark would be prevented.

He is very grateful for the imperial favour allowing trade at the five ports; and merchant's halls (or consulates) must forthwith be established, as places for the warehousing of goods; and at each place there must be a consul, who will hold the general control over his countrymen, and be able to restrain the multitude of merchants, and not permit them to create disturbances.

Further, his country is distant from China upwards of 70,000 li, passing over a vast ocean; and ships can come and return only once a year; it is, therefore, necessary to allow (the English) to bring their families with them, to prevent them from being separated and scattered.

He, since he has obtained trade, and also permission for the families of his countrymen to dwell in China, is still more grateful for the substantial favour of the heavenly dynasty; and resting content in the affairs of trade and the due payment of duties, he will assist our officers and soldiers in pursuing and searching for pirates, in order by their strenuous exertions to repay the imperial favour.

As to Fuchow,—that is the district whence the bohea tea comes; and a custom-house is, already there established, for the purposes of trade and the payment of duties, and matters are managed with great facility. At Fuchow there was formerly a Looshow merchant's hall; and his (the English) affairs can be regulated on the same plan; therefore he impudently requests the bestowal of favour; and he now earnestly entreats the emperor will rescind the order—not to allow trade at Fuchow, and as a mark of extraordinary and additional favour to permit trade at that port like the rest.

The Tientsin is near to Peking, and he dare not rashly and disorderly prefer a request as to that port; and besides this, if all places on the coast there is not one at which tea can be bought, and sold with greater advantage or convenience, than at Fuchow. Moreover, it is one of China's principal southern districts, and its relations may be compared with those of Canton. It is right, therefore, that I (h. m.'s plenipotentiary) should request of the emperor's favour to allow that—liberty to trade at Fuchow,—be conferred; such are his words.

The said Shewel (deputed officers) in very possible way, again and a third time indicated the difficulties to this arrangement; but he obstinately adhered to his first request.

We have examined and found that the English have hitherto traded only at Canton; but now, since the said barbarians will go and trade at each of the other ports, it cannot be but that their broad cloth, camels, clocks and watches, must be exchanged for the natural productions of China, tea and silk. And since the goods of the barbarians are very numerous, and cannot be speedily consumed, if they are kept long on board the ships part of the capital will be lost, and their circulation being impeded, our business of governing i. e. the collection of duties will be very difficult.

With reference to the barbarian merchant's halls and consuls, it is also difficult to oppose his requests.

Formerly, when the barbarian ships entered the port, and quillies were brought, they were only permitted to remain on board the barbarian ships; they were not allowed to dwell in the factories. The laws as originally established are very strict.

I humbly consider that it is a difficult matter to control the barbarian ships; they certainly come and go like the blast; and floating on the vast waves, in the morning they are in the east and in the evening in the west, distant a hundred li in the twinkling of an eye; and are thus able to distress the coasts.

Now if they had warehouses for their merchandise, and their wives and children, on whom their hearts are fixed; and as they will bring a vast quantity of goods as well as their families, for whom their warm affection is excessive, under these circumstances it will be easier to control them.

The English barbarians hold their wives in high respect and estimation; the husband submits to the wife, and condescends to be obedient to her disposition; and by these means their (the English) temper will be softened, and then there will not be any necessity of especially guarding against, or fear of disturbances.

Again, as to the Woo-ee tea, we have examined and found that it is produced in and sent forth from the district of Kearnin to Fuchow, and from thence sent for sale to all the foreign nations.

The said barbarian (h. m.'s plenipotentiary) begs to be allowed to go to Fuchow to trade and buy tea: his disposition and intentions are fixed on this point.

We have examined and found that the aspect and condition of Fuchow may be compared with Canton (with reference to the Min and Pei rivers); and comparing it with Ningpo and Shanghai, which are near the important districts of Sochow and Kangleow, the allowing trade at Fuchow is a matter of less import than allowing trade at those ports; and if the permission is pertinaciously refused, and another port allowed, and since he wishes for Tientsin, we are apprehensive there will be occasion for more discussion. We again and a fourth time deliberated maturely; and every day sent to enquire respecting his intentions and disposition; he had already purchased ballast for his ships, and sent boats sounding, with the intention of going out of the river, and return to the ocean, and had communicated with his fleet not to interrupt the Chinese junks in the Yangtzekeang; and he communicated with us to send officers to Chinkeang to suppress the native banditti; and as affairs were already truly settled, the said barbarian had 'done with solitering,' as there was peace.

Now it is not convenient to be pertinaciously obstinate on one point, until obstructions are formed to a great game (arrangement). We then fixed the 24th day (August 29) for a personal interview with Pottinger, who brought the former memoranda first agreed upon when peace was made, requesting us to affix our seals; he also affixed his own seal, and the treaty was then mutually exchanged, to manifest that for ever there would be no alteration.

It is authenticated that the said foreign leader has stated that the emperor having bestowed extraordinary favours in granting all that he had requested, he certainly would not dare to remain long in the river; and also that he would not dare to create disturbances at other places; he only waited to clearly ascertain the passage, when he would immediately withdraw his troops:—such are his words.

We think his intentions and words may be fully trusted.

But in our management of the barbarian affairs, we have presumed to proceed on our own discretion; and now we are unable to argue the matter further. We cannot escape from the consequence of our crime; and it is right that we request the imperial will that each of us be severely punished for his crime.

With reference to the money, the imperial will has bestowed on the said barbarian, it is now in the course of payment.

It is agreed that the barbarian ships shall leave the river on or before the 10th day of the 8th moon (Sept. 14) without hindering the returning grain boats (from Peking); when the river is restored to its usual tranquillity, we shall immediately send a report.

Further, Pottinger has requested that the imperial seal be put to the treaty, to set forth its reality and truth; and when the emperor condescends so to do, the said barbarian leader will be inexpressibly glad. He has said, that as the ships have not yet left the river, he dare not hastily request the imperial seal, but when the ships leave the Chang river he will again request the imperial seal, in order to manifest his respectful obedience:—such are his words.

His intentions are sincere and respectful. Besides waiting until the appointed time arrives, when we must again report the circumstances, the particulars of the treaty that we have settled with Pottinger, and the causes of our deliberations and management, it is proper that we should report; and also make a fair copy of the treaty, overreaching offering it up for the imperial inspection.

Looking up we beg for the imperial examination (of this) respectful report.—7th moon, 16th day (Aug 31).

By JOHN SLADE, Esq., C. R.

(To be concluded next week.)

The following proclamation is posted up about Macao.

By imperial command, the rebel quelling general, Yi;—As it is generally known, that because the English barbarians formerly rebelled on the borders, and attacked and destroyed the forts of Shakes, Take, and the "tiger's gate" (Bogue); and as to the officers and soldiers who there fell in the ranks of battle, a clear examination and a duty prepared report has been already made, concerning them; and the imperial will has been received: with respect to building for each one a hall of ancestors, in which sacrifices are to be offered to their manes for ever; and to support their sons and descendants for ever by the national bounty.

Those who, in danger, drew in and advanced not, and in going to battle got out of the way and hid themselves, of these also a clear examination has been made, and they are marked for degradation, and to be sent to the frontiers: all this is on record.

Now I have received a despatch from the imperial commissioner and great minister. Kying, stating, that at present there is peace, and (the use of) shields, and lances are to cease for ever; and so forth.

With reference to these commands from the three imperial commissioners, besides writing orders to all the inferior officers to respectfully obey and manage the affair; it is right that I order altars to be raised to those officers and soldiers who advanced to and were killed in battle, at which masses are to be said, to tranquillize their faithful souls.

I appoint the 1st day of the 10th moon (Nov. 3) until the 5th, when altars are to be raised in the Haechung temple (Hunan Joss-house), and prayers are to be chanted for repose of the souls of the departed. When the time arrives, all the civil and military officers of the province, are to go and burn incense and pour libations to the shades of those who careless of their lives devoted them to their country; and let their names be engraven for ever.

As to those who in danger were timid and did not advance, they must be treated according to law; it will be hard to allow them to escape out of the net:—i. e. to pass over their lost sense of duty.

All the subordinate civil and military officers are forthwith to respectfully obey accordingly. Oppose not. A special proclamation.

By JOHN SLADE, Esq., C. R.

From the Friend of China of 10th Nov.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "FRIEND OF CHINA, AND HONGKONG GAZETTE."

Sir,—In your paper of Thursday last, you have been led into a mistake in stating that this Station was attacked on Tuesday night by an armed band of Chinese; who landed from Kowloon, and knocked down and gaged two Sentries &c. before the alarm was given.

No attack of the kind took place at these barracks. It is however true, that on the night in question a theft was committed in a boarded house, which has long been falling to pieces and in which two men were sleeping at the time. The thieves entered by removing some loose boards at the end farthest from the men, and the theft was not discovered till morning.

I am, Sir,

Yours obediently,

J. CUMMING,

Lieut. Cameronians.

West Point Barracks, Hongkong, 7th Nov., 1842.

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER DATED MARIAN, CHUSAN, October 26, 1842.

We were on shore a few days ago, and the change that has taken place in both the Suburb and City is astonishing. For the former, the regularity and neatness with which the Barracks, Hospitals, Cells &c. (not forgetting the imposing appearance of the Joss house Citadel) are built reflect much credit on the good management of the local Authorities. In the latter, from the entrance of the main gate, to the house where the hospital of the 49th was situated on the left turn to the West gate, there is a complete line of shops, and besides China trinkets &c., supplies of all kinds are abundant and exceedingly moderate. In fact, all kinds of supply are brought off to the shipping, such is the abundance of every thing. Means of waters communication quite plentiful—and if the Plenipotentiary would make no objection, I would venture on an expedition over to Niungpo to have a last look at the scene of our former toils and miseries.

I suppose you know that Saut is to remain at Hongkong with a Mr. Fagan an assistant, Genl. Schoedde is appointed to command at Chusan. Lord Saltoun at Mongkong. Of the remaining Staff by my next.

Captain Balfour of the Madras Artillery is, I hear, about to be appointed Consul at Shanghai.

Of the other Consulates have heard nothing as yet.

I confess that we are rather sorry at the small advance in the Cal. dates. There is a report here that the June overland was omitted to be sent by the Driver owing to its not being sorted at Hongkong, which has caused some bother.

We are not expected to leave in 10 days, but our movements are quite uncertain; so much depending upon the nature of the instructions that may be received from India; but there is some rumor that the General will leave Hongkong in a Steamer.

The splendid appearance of the outer and inner harbours, not forgetting "Just in the way," crowded as it was with shipping of almost all sizes and kinds, would have surprised and pleased you as much as it did us. With much difficulty and the aid of the Driver, we managed to get anchoring ground near Tea Island, having the very next moment, nearly two ships on our larboard quarter and starboard bow inclined to dispute the ground, on the former she did come, causing us much apprehension, for from the frequency of similar and other more dangerous accidents, the habitation of a ship, so unfortunate as ours has been, is to me exceedingly dangerous. Daily the Ship is getting into more troubles and the general voice is for a removal.

SEE SUPPLEMENT.

Extract from a letter dated Koolungee dated 3rd November, 1842.

"I can assure you that our situation is deplorable, out of the Company of the 18th Ft here, we have buried 3 Officers; 4 Sergeants the master tailor, and 54 men, since July last, and our Doctor not expected to live. Every man in the place had the fever, no man excepted from the Major down.

The following appointments are, we understand, to take place.

Major Hope Grant, Brigade Major, to be appointed Adjutant General.

Lieutenant E. Haythorne 98th ft. to be Brigade Major.

Capt. Balfour Madras Army, Consul at Shanghai.
Rev. Mr. Gutzlaff.....at Foochowfoo.
Mr. Thom.....at Ningpo.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUAN, CHINESE, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander-in-chief, captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

" Thalia, 44, " Hope
" Endymion, 44, " the honble F. W. Grey
" North Star, 26, " Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
" Dido, 20, " the honble H. Keppell.
" Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.
" Harlequin, 18, " the honble F. Hastings.
" Children, 16, " Halsted.
" Wanderer, 16, " Seymour.
" Serpent, 16, " Nevill.
" Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Meiland.
" Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.
" Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

" Starling, 6, comr. Kellett.
" Plover, 6, " Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS.

" Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
" Sapphire, " Cole.
" Rattlesnake,
" Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,
" Memnon, comr. Powell.
" Nemesia, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
" Pluto, " Tudor, B. N.
" Medusa, comr. Hewett, I. N.
" Phlegethon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
" Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.
" H.M. Vixen, comr. H. Bayes.
" Driver, " Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M.H.S. Cambrian, 36, capt. Chade, c. b. senior commanding officer.
" Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
" Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

" Agincourt, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Sir T. Cochrane, c. b.
" Wolverine, 16, " Johnson.
" Columbine, 16, " Morshead.
" Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.
" H.C. St. Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N.
" H.M.T.S. Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.
" Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

November, ARRIVED

" Anna Bowra, Chusan.
" Arrow, Gears, do.
" Wanderer, Smith, do.
" Medusa, Purdie, New Zealand.
" Calcedonia, Liddell, Sydney.
" Hope, Goss, Hobart Town.
" Tranquillade, Campos, Sooloo.

13 H. M. S. Blonde, Capt. Bouchier, c. b. Chusan.
13, (A.) Caroline, ———, Manila.

November.

SAILED

16 H. M. S. Herald, Capt. Nias, c. b. Sing. Cape of Good Hope and England.
16, (B.) Bombay Castle, Baxter, Sing. & Bombay.
16, " Prince Regent, Barclay, Singapore.
16, " Palestine, McLean, Singapore.
18, " Marian, Rouse, Sing. and Calcutta.
18, " Emma Eugenia, Kettiewell, Batavia.
18, " Colonial Lark, Billy.
18 (Du) Jane, Berg, Batavia.
19, (B.) Algerine, Hill, Singapore.
19, H. M. S. Blonde, Capt. Bouchier, c. b. Cape of Good Hope and England.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.—Interpid, Maia, Penang, Colombo.
For Calcutta.—Red Rover.
For Bombay.—Thetis the 28th instant; Anthony Anderson 1st Dec.; Sulimany.
For London.—Elinora.
For Chusan.—Camaica.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia, Affiance, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Bolivar, Athenaeum, Porroch Hall, Madras, Scutula, Bella Marina, Will'o' the Wisp, Liverpool, d'Arcy, Orestes, Cristopher, Rawson, Hindostan, Alas, Baring, And Jane, Childers, Edward, Bowstead, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Raffles, Gao, Wulla, Coromandel, Tepley.

From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert, Henderson, Wm. Abraham, Midlothian, Belvidere, England.

From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Victory, Bengal, Packet, Eliza, Nabal, Thomas, Lorrie, Mary, Bullantins.

From Singapore.—Waterloo, Oneyda.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th August. SINGAPORE, 5th Oct.
UNITED STATES, July 15. MANILA, 4th Nov.
CALCUTTA, 14th Sept. AMOY.
BOMBAY, 9th Sept. CHUAN, 8th Nov.
JAVA, 17th Sept. NANKING,

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	Tons	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Adelaide , —	—	Christians	C. Fearon.
Arctura , —	—	Gears	"
Arrow , —	—	Catt	Jameson, How & Co.
Abbottson , 451	451	Butcher	Holiday Wise & Co.
Anna Eliza , 254	254	Splatt	Macvicar & Co.
Anty Anderson , 498	498	Arthur	Jardine M. & Co.
Ann Dingwall , —	—	Gears	"
Arrow , —	—	Barlow	"
Asiatic , —	—	Wightman	"
Ang Lockerby , —	—	Blackham	"
Anne Mary , —	—	McGregor	"
Bekglumshire , 1469	1469	Small	Lindsay & Co.
Bucephalus , —	—	Hart	C. H. Hart.
Black Swan , —	—	Graham	"
British Isle , —	—	Short	"
Columbine , —	—	"	Dirom and Co.
Columbus , —	—	Major	H. Pybus.
Columbine , —	—	Durham	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Cowas , Family	—	Orange	Henry Gribble.
Chanticleer , —	—	Curling	Jardine M. & Co.
Cadet , —	—	Liddell	Turner and Co.
Caledonia , 495	495	Man	C. Fearon.
Cacique , —	—	Clucas	Jameson How & Co.
Camaica , —	—	Wishart	Dent and Co.
Chelydra , —	—	Wills, [ger	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Charles Forbes , 990	990	Liebschwa	"
Charlotte , —	—	Johnson	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Drongas , —	—	Davidson	"
Diana , —	—	Maljory	Fox Rawson and Co.
Devon , —	—	Harland	Macvicar & Co.
Diadem , —	—	Turnbull	"
Elizora , —	—	Morris	"
Equestrian , —	—	Crornory	Jardine M. & Co.
Earl Balcarras , 1438	1438	Baker	"
Edinburgh , 1414	1414	Paterson	"
Edwards , —	—	Edwards	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Edwards , —	—	Grek	Dallas and Co.
Edwards , —	—	Thomson	Fox Rawson & Co.
Edinburgh , —	—	Edinburgh	Macvicar and Co.
Edinburgh , —	—	McDonald	Dirom and Co.
Edinburgh , —	—	Fortitude	D. & M. Rustonjee Co.

"Fort William, 1248	Hoge,	Jardine M. & Co.
"Ganges, —	Walker,	"
"Gemini, —	Martin,	Turner and Co.
"Greenlaw, —	Morris,	Lindsay and Co.
"Grecian, —	Watt,	"
"Gulbore, —	wronglyby	Dirom and Co.
"Hero of Malown, —	Whitem,	"
"Hongkong, —	Fowler,	H. Ho'gate.
"Hyacin, 378	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
"Himalaya, —	Burn,	"
"Hindustan, 708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
"Hobbs, 377	Goss,	Half day Wise & Co.
"Hobbs, —	Mcville	Jardine Matheson & Co.
"Isa. Robertson, —	Kelly,	Peters and Co.
"Isabella, —	Hardie,	De' and Co.
"Islay, —	Galt,	A. A. de Mello.
"Isabella, —	Sinclair,	Lindsay and Co.
"Islands, —	Islands,	"
"John Calvin, —	Knox,	Jardine M. & Co.
"John Moor, —	Whitem,	H. Rustonjee.
"Juliana, —	Chapman	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
"Jane, —	Berg,	J. Bird and Co.
"John O'Gaunt, —	Robertson	Turner & Co.
"Liberland, —	Freeman,	Jardine M. & Co.
"Lady Clarke, —	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
"Lady of St. Kilda, —	Manton,	"
"Lord Eilon, —	Worsell,	Lindsay & Co.
"Lord St. Kilda, —	Lawrence,	"
"Maia, —	Macrae,	D. & M. Rustonjee Co.
"Minerva, —	Brown,	Dent and Co.
"Munly, —	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
"Mercury, —	"	W. Scott.
"Mary Anne, —	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
"Matilda, —	Rowe,	"
"Malacca, —	Shettler,	"
"Medusa, 45	"	"
"Melish, —	Pawcett,	Lindsay & Co.
"Mopry, —	Kirk,	Jardine M. and Co.
"Orator, —	Ferry,	"
"Prince of Wales, —	Jones,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
"Queen Letich, —	Gray,	Turner & Co.
"Royal Exchange, —	"	Jardine M. & Co.
"Rimond, —	Macay,	"
"Red Rover, 253	Wright,	A. & D. Furdosjes.
"Riparell, —	Rigby,	C. H. Hart.
"Rosa, —	"	Russell and Co.
"St. Lawrence, —	Newlands,	"
"Siam, —	Smith,	"
"Semiramis, 365	Cairns,	Jameson, How & Co.
"Sulimany, —	Monk,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
"Syph, 304	Guy,	H. Rustonjee.
"Snake, —	Hugh,	Hugheson Brothers.
"Susan, —	Neathy,	Fox Rawson & Co.
"Syria, —	Stroyan,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
"Tartar, —	Luce,	"
"Thetis, —	Cass,	Dirom and Co.
"Urgent, —	Thompson	Fox Rawson & Co.
"Victoria, —	Mordant,	Dent and Co.
"Wild Irish Girl, —	Gillet,	J. A. Durran Jr.
"Wm. Gillies, —	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
"Weas, —	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
"Wm. Hyde, —	Steward,	"
"Wanderer, —	Smith,	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation , [Commodore Kearney.
"Levant, —	Paulk, J. D. Eward & Co.
"Ann MacKinn, —	Vasmer, W. A. Lawrence.
"Congress, —	Hay,
"Probus, —	Sumner, Wetmore & Co.
"Grafton, —	Gardner, I. M. Bull.
"Panther, —	Martin, J. M. Bull.
"Charleston, —	Harlow, Olyphant and Co.
"Valparaiso, —	Lockwood, A. A. Ritchie.
"Lowell, —	Peirce, W. H. Peirce.
"Mary Ellen, —	"
"Splendid, —	Laud, A. A. Ritchie.
"Carollas, —	"
"Maria, —	SPANISH.
	"Cecilia, [A. Cecilia.
	DANISH.
"Danish Oak, —	"Paulsen, Russell & Co.
	HANOVER.
"Hebe, —	"Boh, [A. A. de Mello.
"Georg Heinrich, —	"Hilrichsen, Wetmore & Co.

At Whampoa.

DIED.—At Hongkong on the 30th Oct., Mr. F. Langer, Architect aged 39 years.

At the Victoria Hotel on the 3rd inst. Captain Matta.

At the Residence of Capt. Bamfield, Hongkong, on the 8th inst. Lieutenant Beaven, of the Bengal Volunteers.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLER, at the Canton Press Office, Po de Monte.

CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 61.] Macao, Saturday, 26th November, 1842.

[No. 373.]

PUBLIC SALE.

(By order of the Trustees.)

On MONDAY the 5th DECEMBER, 1842.

JOHN SMITH will have the pleasure to put up for Sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, the whole of the valuable Household Property, &c. belonging to HENRY JOHN LEIGHTON, Esquire, consisting of fashionable Furniture and Fittings-up; rich Plate and Plated-ware; very superior Glass and Crockery-ware; a splendid collection of Books; Wines and Liquors; Carriage, Sedan Chairs, &c. Further particulars will be published hereafter.

Macao, 18th November, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On THURSDAY the 8th DECEMBER, 1842.

JOHN SMITH has the pleasure to announce to the public, that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on the premises, in Praya Grande, the whole of the valuable Household Furniture, Plate and Plated-ware; Glass and Crockery-ware, and a variety of Sundry Effects, belonging to DONNA MARIA DE CASTRO, going to Europe. Further particulars will be published in handbills.

Macao, 18th Nov. 1842.

NOTICE.—The CONCERT OF MADAME DE STORR, which was to have taken place on Monday the 7th November, but postponed on account of Madame de Storr's indisposition, will take place on Monday next the 28th instant in the Saloon of Mr. Marquess. The concert will begin at 8 o'clock precisely.

Macao, 25th November, 1842.

NOTICE.

COPIA DE DESPACHOS

Conformando-me com o accordo dos Credores a f— que se apresentaram em consequencia da citação de f— ordinada pelo despacho de f— nomeado a ALEXANDRE MATHESON, G. T. BRAINE, Administradores da Massa fallida, e o autorizo para venderem os bens, arrecadarem as dividas, rever os papéis &c., em conformidade do mesmo accordo, para depois darem conta da liquidação: o Escrivão os notifique para tomarem conta deste encargo.

(Assinado) BASTOS.

Macao, 17 de Novembro de 1842.

Translation.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting of the creditors of FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co., I hereby appoint ALEXANDER MATHESON and G. T. BRAINE, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate, and I empower them to dispose of the Assets, receive all debts due to the Estate, examine the papers &c. in conformity with the said resolutions, and to give an account hereafter of the realizations. The Clerk will notify this to the parties that they may take charge accordingly.

Macao 17 Nov. 1842. (Sgd) BASTOS.

In pursuance of the above, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims upon the Insolvent Estate of Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co to present the same within 2 months of this date, and all persons indebted to the said Estate to make immediate payment to Mr. Henry Fessenden at the office formerly occupied by Messrs Fergusson, Leighton & Co.

ALEX. MATHESON, } Trustees.
GEORGE T. BRAINE, }

Macao, 26th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—The Firm of ELGAR & Co. was dissolved on the 4th September 1841, by virtue of the document annexed.

Macao, 17th November, 1842.

(Copy.)

Be it hereby known and understood to all persons or parties concerned that the Firm of ELGAR & Co. of Macao which commenced January 1st 1840, is hereby dissolved from this date by the mutual consent of parties authorized whose signatures are hereunto affixed.

(Sd.) CHAS. H. HART.
(Sd.) A. A. SACRAMENTO.

Macao, 4th September, 1841.

CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT ON LONDON, payable in such sums as may suit the convenience of the holder at Alexandria, Malta and other places in the Mediterranean as well as on the Continent of Europe, may be had on application at the Office of

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 11th August, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of Mr JOHN MURRAY in the firms of

PITCAIRN SYME & Co. at Batavia,
SYME & Co. at Singapore,
and KER MURRAY & Co. at Manila,

ceased this day.

Our business here will henceforth be conducted under the firm of KER, McMICKING & Co.

KER MURRAY & Co.

Manila, 1st October, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DEVITER and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. PATRICK FRANCIS ROBERTSON in our Establishment ceased on the 30th June last, and Mr. PATRICK DUDGON, was admitted a Partner on the 1st Jan. 1842.

Macao, August 29, 1842.

TURNER & Co.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmein, and in that of ROCHANAW & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE OF BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions, received, and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Granite Godowns at Hongkong, on moderate terms; apply upon the premises No. 1 Albany Godown, or to JOHN BURD & Co. Queen's Road. Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 24th November, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

A VIS.—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subrécargues des Navires Français venant en Chine sont prévenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les mêmes droits qu'ils ont aux autres ports des navires Anglais et Américains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDEMAN, or

REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUVE, or to

C. FEARON.—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTIERE" captain GRANGE, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to HENRY GRIFFLE.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE fine, fast sailing English built ship "CAMARU," A. I. for 12 years, and now on her first voyage. For Register 355 Tons O. M. 395 new. Apply to Captain CLUCAS on board, at Hongkong or to JAMIESON, HOW & Co. Macao.

Macao, 17th Sept., 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FARMER COWAN," 453 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Haze of MALOWN," 453 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "TARIS," J. Cass Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTS, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October for freight apply to MULLUSHOV DUNBARIE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE task built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 52 to 60 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A Printing Establishment complete with a full assortment of types—two Presses, &c. Apply to the EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE IN THE TYPA.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal RICE at very moderate rates. Apply to Captain GALT on board the "ISLAY" in the Tyne, or to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED.—A PARCEL of fresh CHATEAU MANGAR, in one and three dozen cases; AND

RAISINS and PRUNES, for sale on exceedingly moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 20th Oct. 1842.

SUPERIOR MANILA SEGARS.—A BATCH of very superior No. 111 Manila SEGARS, warranted of the first quality, and good in whole and half boxes. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 20th August, 1842.

FOR SALE.—JAVA ARRACK and COFFEES, in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—Bally Rice, COCONUT oil, COFFEE, Java ARABICA in casks and casks, Singapore BEANS and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old Rum and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD & Co. Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE—Europe ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 30, Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to Macao, Oct. 8, 1842. JOAO BARRETTI.

FOR SALE—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to J. A. DURRAN, Jr. Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—MANILA CIGARS 4s. and EUROPE LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to P. DE LAS HERAS. Macao, 22d September, 1842.

FOR SALE—EUROPE ROPE. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 15th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, Boy's HATS. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz. and NAILS; apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEANS, 25 to 27 lb net weight, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE—DUFF GORDON & Co's SHERRY in bottle and HDs, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manuco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner ANTO. NOGUERA MENDES

FOR SALE—A Rifle and a few pairs double and four barrelled Pistols, from Sam Noick, London, in cases complete. Apply to Mr. A. GRANDPRE Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

FOR SALE—At the Goodwons of the undersigned Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house the following articles, viz.:

Most Splendid French PIRA GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 80 to 70; inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed Lamps, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Favourite Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Musilipatam SNUF in quart bottles, a 53 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY. Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases, CHAMPAGNE 3 do. 3 do. CLARET 3 do. 40.

SHERRY, PALE in HDs. Seltzer Water dew.

OILMAN'S STORES late imports. BEEF in tins; PORK in barrels.

COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BARS PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavoured pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, and PORT WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

From the Bombay Times.

OVERLAND TRADE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND CHINA.

To the Editor of the Bombay Times and Journal of Commerce.

Sir,—As in your number of the 5th June you allude to some of my letters relative to the trade between Russia and China, I venture to submit a few more observations on your own publications:

my only object in doing so, as you know quite well, is to elucidate the question as far as it lies in my power, and not to enter into a polemical discussion. I must also add that I have not a copy of my former letters with me at present, and consequently beg to apologise should you meet with any repetitions.

When I wrote about the Russian trade, I merely meant the trade carried on under the protection of Russia, by Russian subjects, and through Russian Custom Houses along the line between Moscow and Kiatcha. This trade I believe to be of little importance, and not likely to be improved by China being engaged in a maritime war. But besides this regular road for what may be called the Official trade of Russia with China, you may observe that independent tribes of barbarians of every description—Tatars, Kirghis, Boskirs, Camouks,—are settled between the Russian and Chinese empire: some of these acknowledge the Russian, some the Chinese supremacy: as they are wandering tribes, some of them belong, according to the season, to one Government for a few months, and to the other for the remainder of the year. Neither the Russian or Chinese Emperors have any regular control over them, nor can they establish among them Custom Houses, or levy taxes on tea or any other commodity; whilst they consider themselves fortunate if they succeed in keeping such wild and daring robbers quiet, and content themselves in receiving small presents of horses and furs as acknowledgments of their supremacy. This will give you an explanation of the fact observed by you, that 60,000,000 Russian subjects are drinking tea all day long,—whereas the official importations amount to a trifling quantity. By far the greatest quantity does not come through Kiatcha, has nothing to do with the regular trade of Russia, and cannot be mentioned in Government reports. So much so that those very bricks of tea, butter, and milk alluded to by you, and which are commonly used by the wandering tribes, are not to be found in Odessa, Moscow, Petersburg, or any other bona fide Russian town.

I will now examine your observations on the accuracy of the Russian custom house reports, and hope to explain why, according to your own opinion, no confidence can be placed on these reports. If a country is actually added to the Russian Empire, the trade is at first altogether free; and soon afterwards the custom house income is farmed out, and when everything goes on smoothly, a regular custom house is established. It is quite clear that a farmer will never give a correct account of his profits; he will always say that he is a loser by his bargain. From thence no trustworthy reports may be expected. A regular custom house's accounts are even less to be depended upon. If the head of such a department gets a pay equal to that of many a buder at Bombay, he is a fortunate man indeed. But if his salary is next to nothing, his illegitimate profits are enormous, and he not only contrives to make a large fortune, but he supports by almost regular allowances his own subordinates, who otherwise would be doomed to starvation. I know an old French emigrant who was appointed through Prince Potemkin's interest to some inferior custom house situation at Cherson; as he would not be bribed, he of course, by his refusal, put a stop to all these embezzlements. He was soon dismissed. He afterwards complained, and his claims were laid before the Empress Catherine II. "Oh!" said H. M., "he belonged to the custom house, and was fool enough not to make his fortune! I cannot do any thing for him." I have no reason to think that the morality of Russian functionaries has improved since Catherine, or rather since I visited Russia. The obvious consequence is, that the return of imports or exports may show an increase or a diminution, according to the honesty of the public agents, without proving any alteration in the trade. It is, allow me to say, perfectly different from those reasons given by yourself, and grounded on some proceedings of the French Custom-house which I disbelieve altogether, and are almost impossible. Every merchant, every public officer may, if he chooses, go to the French Custom-houses, examine the register, and see what has been imported or exported. The grand total of exports and imports is one of the data for the presentation of the budget, and undergoes, before the Chambers, a very rigid examination. How could a Government so narrowly watched as the French Government is by various parties, falsify such documents, run the risk of discovery for the advantage of a few smugglers? Observe that smugglers are not in need of such protection; they never will say to any one where they are going; they will ship brandy at some places on the French coast where there is no French Custom-house, and smuggle it to England. How can the Custom officers make a return of such operations? The only wonder is that such a simple idea had not occurred to Mr. Porter. Are the authorities at Gibraltar friendly to smuggling in Spain because they do not give an account of it?

If we cannot depend on Russian or Russo-German reports, to understand what effect the war in China has on the Russo-Chinese trade, do not allow that such a question cannot be elucidated. It is of course beyond the reach of a private individual, but the Chamber of Commerce or some Mercantile house at Bombay may easily come to a conclusion. Let them cause a return to be made of the teas imported or exported in the Baltic, and it will be known whether the land tea trade has improved, and in what proportion.

In your number on the 15th June I observed a report of some Turkish opium having arrived at Odessa; on this matter I may perhaps give some information. As far as my memory goes, the quantity of Turkish Opium grown at Carra-hissar is 400 chests. It was a Government Monopoly, and almost all the stock was bought annually at Smyrna by the respectable house of Mr. Van Lennop for the Dutch Company. It was afterwards sent to Amsterdam and Batavia, or sold in London. This regular trade must have stopped when they had fears of the Canton market being closed. Of course as reported in the newspapers, some Greek merchants may have superseded Mr. Van Lennop, and sent the opium through Odessa, although I doubt if Taganrog was not the best place to sell it. This trade I am afraid, will take the road of the Black Sea henceforth, whatever may be the settlement of the affairs between the British and the Chinese. My first reason is, that no European house can in Turkey compete with the Greeks, where they understand a particular trade; the second is, that a ready sale without duty will always be found at the Makariff fair, where are numbers of those Asiatics mentioned in the letter. Well may the Emperor boast of his respect for international laws in the opium trade to be carried on at Kiatcha; his order on that subject is, like many others, only to deceive Europe, and to be exalted in continental newspapers. If he wants no opium trade with China, the only plan to prevent it is a prohibition in Russia.

I remain, your obedient servant,

X.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 26th Nov., 1842.

Except from the North, we have had no arrivals during the week, bringing later accounts from any part of the world than we were previously in possession of, nor has anything of importance or interest occurred here, where our readers must kindly take into consideration that it is not our fault our paper is so barren of news, with the exception of accounts of ships disasters, that will be found below. A vessel just arrived from Manila reports having met with very bad weather; the Lady Letitia, from Bombay and Singapore, with a portion of the August overland mail still keeps on. In Canton everything is quiet, nor have we heard that the hostile spirit of its inhabitants, of which we spoke in our last, has again manifested itself. In trade we have nothing to add to our last week's report.

We have seen letters from Amoy stating that authentic accounts had been received there by the authorities to the effect that only nine persons still existed of the many that were shipwrecked on the Coast of Formosa in the Nerbudda and the Ana of whom Capt. Denham, late master of the Ana is one, and these were to be liberated on the 29th of this month. The letter we have seen does not state in what manner he that gave the information from Formosa was enabled to obtain information of the fate of the remainder, and it is to be hoped that it was erroneous. There are rumours of their having been executed, but we hope, for humanity's sake, that they will prove unfounded, and our hope is supported by the fact that hitherto the Chinese have not been guilty of such cold-blooded murder, except in a few instances, and then the victims were single individuals. On most occasions although at times ill treated, the prisoners that fell into the hands of the Chinese, were kept with a view of obtaining some advantage through their ultimate delivery, and it was therefore the interest of the Chinese to protect their lives. A few days through the liberation of Captain Denham and his companions in misfortune, will probably give us more certain information on this painful subject.

H. M. S. Endymion, Capt. the honourable W. F. Grey, 20 transports and a steamer arrived at Hongkong from Chusan. Lieutenant General Sir Hugh Gough left the fleet on its way down, to visit Amoy. Nothing certain is known as to the time when Sir Henry Pottinger may be expected here. By the last advices from Chusan, H. E. was making a visit to Ningpo, we believe in company of the Imperial Commissioners. We believe Sir Henry will not arrive at Hongkong before the end of this year.

Last Saturday between five and half past five o'clock, a gentleman was walking just beyond the copse, generally called love-lane, on the road leading to the barrier, when he all at once felt his arms seized from behind, whilst some six men set upon him, one of whom tore his eyeglass from him; but he succeeded in disengaging his arms and layed about him with a stick, unfortunately a light one, but was again seized from behind, when all the men, six or seven, threw themselves upon him, beat him with stones, and brought him to the ground, when they took his watch, of great value from him, and decamped. Information was immediately given to the competent authority, and a handsome reward offered for the recovery of the watch. The Chinese police officers seem to have been very active, stimulated no doubt by the reward, for the watch was already discovered on the Monday following, and four of the thieves in prison. The watch has since been restored to its owner. People cannot be too cautious how they venture alone, into little frequented parts of the neighbourhood of Macao, where these bands are continually prowling about on the look out for prey, and where numerous similar robberies have already been committed.

LOSS OF THE MAULMEIN.—The Black Swan arrived from Manila on the 19th inst, and brings from that place Capt. Morton, his second officer and 16 of the crew of the unfortunate "Maulmein," which vessel was lost on a shoal in lat. 10° 36' and long. 116° 49', with about one fathom water on it—a solid rock, not more than 20 yards the longest way, and no bottom all round. She struck at 4 p. m. just at the moment they were striking the bell eight.

The above particulars have been kindly sent us, and from the same source we learn, that previous to the Black Swan leaving Manila, the Spanish ship Colum arrived there, and reports having fallen in with a raft to the northward of Pulo Zapata, with a flag hoisted, but not a living creature thereon; they took it on board after casting adrift the different spars from each other, consisting of topmast, topail, lower yards, studding sail booms etc. etc., English branded.

LOSS OF THE MARY STEWART OF MADRAS.—The following is copy of a note picked up by Captain Morton (late commanding the Maulmein) on the island of Caliony (one of the Calamanes) in a square gin-bottle, October 18th, 1842, on his arrival at that place after leaving the wreck.

Brig "Mary Stewart,"
28th April, 1842.

Whoever may happen to fall in with this, will see the last writing of me, the unfortunate Captain. We are now fast going down, having struck on a rock in the night and our boats being perfectly unfit for use, we hourly expect a death, which seems to us inevitable. Should this fall into the hands of any body, I would beg of them to report the loss of the above vessel, so that her owners, in Madras, may see her fate. I have not time for more.

(Sgd.) R. WILSON, Captain.

LOSS OF THE HERCULANEUM TRANSPORT.—The following particulars we have been kindly furnished with:

The "HERCULANEUM" Stroyan laden with Coals and Govt. Stores, on her passage from Calcutta to China was totally lost on the morning of the 19th October on the Northern part of Formosa. It appears the vessel took the passage through the Fuh Kien or Formosa channel, and on the 6th Oct. by dead reckoning they had been unable to get an observation by several days, the Northern point of Formosa was found to bear S. W. by W. distance about 50 miles, it was then blowing a hard gale and very heavy and every thing was done to make the ship snug as the gale was evidently increasing; during the day of the 18th all their sails were blown away, and 3 a. m. on the 19th a heavy sea struck the vessel washing away all her sky lights, quarter galleries &c., this was shortly after followed by another tremendous sea which carried away her wheel bhains and relieving tackles rendering her completely unmanageable and she immediately paid off before the Wind and at 7.30 a. m. struck and drifted over a reef, and in a few minutes afterwards settled on a bed of rocks close in shore in the Bay of Kelong. The crew were saved by a rope floated on shore by a cask in effecting which one man met a watery grave. On landing they fell into the hands of a mob of Chinamen whose only object appears to have been plunder, and they were soon stripped of all their clothes and every thing they had been able to save; three or four days after they were handed over to the authorities, who treated them very kindly, supplied them with clothes and money each man one mace per diem, the Captain & Co. and they were then carried in chairs to a large city on the Western Coast where they continued to be very well treated until they were taken off by H. M. S. Serpent. On their arrival at Amoy they met with a very kind reception, from Capt. Ghads of H. M. S. Cambrian.

We beg to direct the attention of our readers to Sir Henry Pottinger's Circular, restricting the intercourse of the British with the Chinese, until the settlement of sundry questions and arrangements, to Canton, Hongkong, Amoy, and Chusan. We doubt not that such restriction is called for by circumstances, but we should like to see the definite arrangement accelerated.

We are much obliged to our Correspondent for his "Visit to Ningpo." If he could give us a good description of the Porcelain Tower at Nanking he would add to our obligation. We know of parties ascending it several times and offering their libations to "absent friends;" but this famous structure remains undestroyed as yet in modern times, (1842).

We have got into our possession a Chinese document from Amoy of rather an extraordinary nature, and as the paper was generally circulated at Amoy and Kowlong, we hesitate not in giving below a translation with which we have been favored. It affords, but another instance, of the many to be met with at present, of the terrelling tendency of our times, the issue of the circular being attributed to American Missionaries now at Amoy, who, in fact, are the only Americans there, and who acting as Agents for a Canton firm, entertain, no doubt, a wish of cementing the two worlds together, and have pitched upon Bohas as the connecting link. The following is a translation of the widely spread paper in question.

TEA WANTED.

We wish to have the first quality of Tea called,

1. Moos Cha of Fokeen Province.
2. Wen She Leu Yuen.
3. In Kwo Tay Wy (tea esteemed by the English).
4. Tene Nun Tayn Shan (weak tea).

When formerly we were at Canton, we traded there, and now, being at Amoy, the merchants ought to sell to us at just and reasonable prices; their goods must be good and unadulterated.

We require Tea from the famous hills of Kwun Ngan Chy, namely

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1. Now Chong | 200 chests weighing 30 lbs. |
| 2. Yeau Sow Chong 108 | " " " 10 " |
| 3. Pou Chong | 1500 " " " 30 " |

2d Tea from the hills Wang Ming Yan,

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. Sowchong | 2000 chests weighing 40 lbs. |
| 2. Yaou Sowchong 3000 | " " " 25 " |
| 3. " 2d quality 1000 | " " " 10 " |
| 4. Yaou Powchong 500 | " " " 45 " |
| 5. " 3d quality 1500 | " " " 20 " |
| 6. " 4th " 300 | " " " 10 " |

All this Tea must be of first quality, and its price moderate.

It is not only this once that we do business; we shall continue it long time.

2. The Tea we want must not keep for a day only, but for a long while.

(Signed) THE AMERICANS, or people of the flowered Banner.

22nd year of Taoukwang,
1st day of the 13th moon.
(31st November, 1842)

A VISIT TO NINGPO.

We left the outer anchorage of Chusan at 8 o'clock a. m. in a steamer with tide in our favour, but wind dead against us and proceeded on at a very rapid pace to Ningpo; but we had hardly started before the rain began to pour down in torrents and the atmosphere became so thick around us that we could hardly see our way, so that the Captain thought we should be obliged to anchor. This gloomy weather continued till we approached Chin-hae when to our great satisfaction it cleared up, and we could then distinctly make out our route. At about 10½ a. m. we passed Chin-hae and Chao-pou-shan which are just at the mouth of the Ningpo River, the latter place is a high hill that overlooks the city, on its summit there is a fort, which from its natural and artificial defences is of considerable strength. The Ningpo River at its entrance is about a quarter of a mile wide, but the water is rather shallow; one great obstacle in ascending it is the bar which is not far from its mouth and at low water is often covered by less than two fathoms. The rise and fall of the tide is from 1½ to 2 fathoms. At 11½ a. m. we anchored at Ningpo after having been only 2 hours and 3 quarters on our way, and going at an average nearly 11 knots an hour. Ningpo by water is about forty miles from Chusan, and 15 from Chin-hae.

Soon after anchoring we went on shore to have a stroll through the city. We found all the shops to be beautifully fitted up and adorned in all kinds of ways, and goods of every description to be bought in them. Everything bore an appearance of cleanliness and peace. The inhabitants behaved to us more like old friends, than former enemies, for they thronged out upon us from every house, inviting us in, and offering us all and sorts of refreshment, and also taking us about the city and showing us the improvements and additions that had taken place since we evacuated it, which certainly are very great, for all houses that were pulled down, or burnt, are now again renewed in a much better manner than before.

Amongst other places that we visited was the Chin-chow merchants' temple, a most beautiful structure, adorned all over with carvings of wood and stone, which are very exact and are always kept in the minutest repair. Its greatest ornaments are the granite pillars, and huge marble lions of the former there are a great number all round the place, with dragons winding round about them, minutely carved out of one solid piece of granite, the lions also in the same way, cut out of an immense block of marble.

The next day we went out shooting on the other bank of the river opposite to the city, and penetrated for about five miles into the country. We were everywhere received by the people with respect and kindness, but not so by the game, the individuals whom we had come out especially to see, for with the exception of a few they had not the politeness to show themselves.

The rest of the days that we staid up here we successively visited the city, and its environs and were always well received and pleased with what we saw, but when we came to buy the people's goods there always rose some difficulty as to making a bargain, for they, thinking that we were made of money, always put the most extortionate prices on them, which nothing could induce them to lower till the day or two before we went away, when they at last came down, and a few bargains were made, but not so many as there would have been, had they at the commencement began with fair and just prices.

One day a large party of us made an excursion to the Mei-hu lake distant from Ningpo about fourteen miles. Our route lay up a canal leading direct to the place; two thirds of the way we went along very rapidly by means of tracking lines, two or three persons being affixed to each boat who ran along the land; in this manner we went on at the rate of 4 knots an hour, but the latter part of the way the tracking path having ceased, we moved on only by the help of the scull, and of course at a very slow pace. When we arrived at the lake we found to our astonishment and disappointment that most of the water was drained off, so that in the middle of it there were large plots of dry ground with extensive swamps, and this of course deprived it of much of its beautiful and romantic scenery. Last year it was one extensive sheet of water. It is just like a basin, being imbedded in a collection of high hills surrounding it on all sides; these hills are covered with verdure and trees from top to bottom, with jungle, which gives cover to pheasants, a good number of which we had the pleasure to meet, and succeeded in taking some home with us. The swampy ground about the lake, also affords a large supply of duck and teal, some which we also procured. After having spent about five hours on shore we returned to our boats, where a good dinner was served up for us, and of which none were backward in partaking; this being completed we set out again on our way back, after having very pleasantly enjoyed the day.

The day that we went away, just before starting, the high Mandarin came on board to accompany us part of the way down the river for the purpose of seeing the engines at work; they were taken down into the engine room while everything was in motion, and every part of the engines and the principles on which they moved were explained to them. This highly delighted them, and they expressed much wonder and surprise at the great ingenuity displayed therein. The ceremonies of taking leave being over, they were landed with great display, and we then rapidly proceeded on our way back to Chusan, everybody being delighted and gratified with the visit to Ningpo.

From the Friend of China and Hongkong Gazette, 17th November.

An epitome of the following document was given on the 2nd, page 1st column of No. 33, but its high importance induces us to accompany a Translation with a copy of the original paper itself, as it appears in a recent "Peking Gazette."

On the 2d day of the 8th Moon (Sept. 8th 1842) the Imperial will was received as follows;

1. Ke Ying has sent up a dispatch concerning the settlement of affairs with the barbarians, the establishment of Peace, and the affix of the Imperial Seal.

2. The various items of the Treaty entered into, have also been submitted to the Imperial glance, having been assented to by the said Commissioners.

3. In this dispatch was likewise stated the confirmed desire of the English to have trade at Foochow foo, to erect factories, and to dwell there with their families, to all which the Imperial assent was given, on the 26th day of the 7th moon, (Aug. 3d, 1842). 4. Our commissioners themselves, requested great punishment (for the concessions to the English) but we acquit them of all guilt on the subject. 5. As to the old debts of the Hong Merchants, the Foreigners will not dare to seek the interference of the officers of Government. 6. The English are to have nothing to say, against the erection of our forts and citadels.—To these two last items the English have given their respectful assent. Each of the different points were drawn out in form, and the Emperor having given them thorough perusal adjudged them worthy of negotiation, but demanding the utmost care and the most judicious deliberation.

7. At the various Ports where the barbarians are to trade they are allowed to carry on their dealings indiscriminately with whomsoever of our merchants they please, and all debts contracted between them to be paid by the respective parties without official interference. 8. The money (the 21 mil. lianes) is to be paid by annual instalment. It is a vast amount, and where is such a sum to come from to be given away? Let Ke Ying alone be held responsible hereafter for arranging the matter and registering before hand the places which are to supply their respective quota of the funds, and memorialize the court accordingly. 9. In the present dispatch it is stated that on the 15th day 6th moon 21st year, the said English nation had received money at the various cities. As to these cities where such money has been received, with the definite amount, and also the amount to be deducted, let clear investigations be instituted and representations made to the Court in accordance therewith. 10. The prisoners of each country to be unconditionally delivered up; that extraordinary benevolence may be manifested; 11. The natives of the Middle kingdom who have been in attendance upon the officers of the said English nation are to be considered free from guilt for so doing; and as peace has now been declared, the people of both nations are to be regarded as one mutual whole, no one again daring to proceed to bloodshed. 12. Should any of our people in other matters offend against the laws, our nation alone is to take the management of their cases without the interference of the English nation. 13. Hereafter there will be fixed duties at the Five Ports, and as to the Custom House arrangements, the said barbarians have lived so long at Canton how is it that they are not fully aware of them. 14. The Merchants of the Middle kingdom who carry on Trade from the interior and pass through the Custom Houses, are to pay the usual dues. 15. Our assent is given for the occupation of Tinghas and Koo-lang-soo for a time until the money be paid; and let each of the Five Custom Houses be thrown open, let the ships pass out and let it be also understood that military occupation of the above places will not be allowed for a great length of time. 16. Let each of the above items be definitely arranged by Ke Ying and colleagues with the Barbarians, giving closest attention to the minutest particulars, that the Treaty may be drawn up in the most clear and intelligible terms, preventing all after difficulties, and confusion of affairs. As the Barbarians cannot understand us let the services of Interpreters be employed that they may be satisfied. 17. The whole of the Barbarian vessels are to leave the great River about the 10th of the 8th moon, (Sept. 14th); and let the matter be adjusted with the speediest dispatch that quiet may be restored to the Imperial bosom, and let these our commands be sent by the most rapid express, and cause them to be made known. "RESPECT THIS."

PROCLAMATION.

H.E. Britannic majesty's plenipotentiary, and chief Superintendent of the trade of British subjects in China, deems it proper, in consequence of applications having been lately made to him, to proclaim for general information, that no British merchant vessel can be allowed to go to any of the ports (Canton excepted) that are to be opened in accordance with the late treaty, until the tariffs and scale of duties shall be fixed, and consular officers appointed; and of which arrangements due notice will be published.

In the mean time, the ports of Tinghas (Chusan) and that of Koolongsoo (Amoy) are, as heretofore, open to all vessels wishing to visit them,

God save the Queen,

Dated on board the steamer frigate Queen, in Chusan Harbour, this 14th day of November, 1842.

(Signed) HENRY POTTINGER.

Her majesty's plenipotentiary and chief superintendent of trade in China.

(True copy.) CHARLES E. STEWART,
Assistant secretary and treasury,

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD.

AT CHUAN, CHINSHAN, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief, captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

Thalia,	44,	Hope.
North Star,	28,	Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Dido,	20,	the hon'ble H. Keppell.
Pelican,	18,	comr. Justice.
Harlequin,	18,	the hon'ble F. Hastings.
Children,	16,	Halsted.
Wanderer,	16,	Seymour.
Serpent,	16,	Nevill.
Algerine,	10,	comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist,	10,	Chetwood.
Hospital ship	Miner,	capt Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS.

Starling,	6,	comr. Kellett.
Plover,	6,	Collinson.
Apollo,		comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire,		Cole.
Rattlemake,
Alligator,

STEAMERS.

H. C. Queen,	mr. comr. W. Warden.
Merman,	comr. Powell.

Nemesia,	lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Pluto,	Tudor, R. N.
Medusa,	comr. Hewett, I. N.
Phlegethon,	lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine,	comr. Hough, R. N.
H.M. Vixen,	comr. H. Bayes.
Driver,	Farmer.

At Amoy.

M.H.S. Cambrian,	36, capt. Chads, R. N. senior commanding officer.
Pylades,	18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleon,	10, lieut. Hunter.

At Hongkong.

Agincoourt,	74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, sir T. Cochrane, C. B.,
Endymion,	44, the hon'ble F. W. Grey,
Wolverine,	16, Johnson.
Columbine,	16, Morshead.
Young Hebe,	4, Wood.
H.C.S. Akbar,	Commodore Pepper, I. N.
H.M.T.S. Belleisle,	capt. Kingcomb.
Jupiter,	mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

November, ARRIVED

19, (B.) Black Swan,	Hart, Manila.
19, (A.) Oneida,	Swift, Singapore.
20, (B.) Christina,	Primrose, do.
20, (Du.) Orion,	Suljock, Batavia.
20, (A.) Delhi,	Cole, Manila.
20, " Oscar,	New York,
22, " Akbar Dumaresq,	Manila.
22, H. M. S. Endymion,	Capt. the Hon'ble F. W. Gray, Chusan, and 20 Transports.
25, (Fr.) l'Orient,	Lagravere, Manila.

PASSENGER Per

l'Orient, M. Challaye, French Consul.

November, SAILED

18, (B.) Red Rover,	Wright, Sing. and Calcutta.
23, " Camairu,	Clucas, Chusan.
24, " Earl Balcarras,	Baker, Manila.
26, " Cowasjee Family,	Durham, Sing. & Calcutta.
26, " Sullimany,	Mhuil, Bombay.
26, " Juliana,	Chapman, do.
26, " Thetis Cass,	do.
26, (B.) Dingwall,	Arthur, So. America.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.—Intrepid, Maia, Penang, Colombo.
For Calcutta.—Framjee Cowasjee.
For Bombay.—Anthony Anderson 1st Dec.; Sulimany, Charles Forbes.
For London.—Ellora.
For New York.—Charleston.

PASSENGERS Per

Algerine, (omitted last week) Mrs. Langer & family, Cowasjee Family Mr. C. Michaelis.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia Affance, Mary Ann, Edin Claudiu, Louisa Jackson, Bolivar, Athenian, Madras, Urmia, Brilla Marina, Will's the Wisp, Liverpool, & Arcy, Orestes, Christopher Rawson, Hindostan, Alexander Baring, Ann Jane, Children, Edward Boustead, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Raffles, Geo. Wallis, Commodore, Tapley.
From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Coren, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abraham, Middleton, England.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Crown, Victory, Bengal Packet, Eliza, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballentine, Dunyama.
From Singapore.—Waterloo.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th August.	SINGAPORE, 5th Oct.
UNITED STATES, July 15.	MANILA, 15th Nov.
CALCUTTA, 14th Sept.	AMOI.
BOMBAY, 9th Sept.	CHUAN, 18th Nov.
JAVA, 4th Oct.	NANKING.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLAY,
at the Canton Press Office, Po do Monte.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 62.] Macao, Saturday, 3rd December, 1842.

[No. 374.]

NOTICE.

Sale of the 8th Instant. Postponed,

HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY,
Fittings—up, &c.

Belonging to
H. J. LEIGHTON, Esq.

UNTIL
Thursday, the 8th Instant.
JOHN SMITH.
Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION.

On or about the 15th instant.

JOHN SMITH begs to acquaint the public, that he will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on the premises on the Praya Grande, the whole of the Household Property, Books, Wines and Liquors, Plate, Plated Glass and Crockery-ware, &c. &c. Belonging to W. H. MORSE, Esq. Further particulars will be published hereafter.

Macao, 2d December, 1842.

PUBLIC AUCTION,

of the

"VICTORIA," and the "BEE."

JOHN SMITH will sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, on an early day this month, (of which due notice will be given) the Cutters "Victoria," and the "Bee," with all their spars, sails, &c. &c. as they lie off the Praya Grande. Further particulars will be issued in Handbills, and in the meanwhile Inventory of their stores may be seen at the Auctioneer's.

Macao, 2d December, 1842

NOTICE.

COPIA DE DESPACHOS

Conformando-me com o accordo dos Credores a f— e que se apresentaram em consequencia da citacao de f— ordinada pelo despacho de f— nomeou a ALEXANDRE MATHESON, G. T. BRAINE, Administradores da Massa falida, e os autorizo para venderem os bens, arrecadarem as dividas, rever o pupilo &c., em conformidade do mesmo accordo, para depois darem conta da liquidacao: o Escrivao os notifique para tomarem conta deste cargo. (Assinado) BASTOS.

Macao, 17 de Novembro de 1842.

Translation.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting of the creditors of FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co., I hereby appoint ALEXANDER MATHESON and G. T. BRAINE, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate, and I empower them to dispose of the Assets, receive all debts due to the Estate, examine the papers &c., in conformity with the said resolutions, and to give an account hereafter of the realizations. The Clerk will notify this to the parties that they may take charge accordingly.

Macao 17 Nov. 1842. (Sgd.) BASTOS.

In pursuance of the above, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims upon the Insolvent Estate of Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co. to present the same within 2 months of this date, and all persons indebted to the said Estate to make immediate payment to Mt. Henry Fergusson at the office formerly occupied by Messrs Fergusson, Leighton & Co.

ALEX. MATHESON,
GEORGE T. BRAINE, } Trustees.

Macao, 26th November, 1842.

NOTICE—Is hereby given, that the undersigned having been duly licensed, has opened a Dispensary on the Praya Grande, at the corner house opposite to the Judge's Residence.

F. A. SEABRA.

Macao, 30th November, 1842.

NOTICE—The Firm of ELGAR & Co. was dissolved on the 4th September 1841, by virtue of the document annexed.

HENRY ELGAR

Macao, 17th November, 1842.

Be it hereby known and understood to all persons or parties concerned that the Firm of ELGAR & Co. of Macao which commenced January 1st 1840, is hereby dissolved from this date by the mutual consent of parties authorized whose signatures are hereunto affixed.

(Sd.) CHAS. H. HART,
(Sd.) A. A. SACRAMENTO.

Macao, 4th September, 1841.

NOTICE—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmein, and in that of HUCHANAW & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOSIUS DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of BOMBAY, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorised to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Granite Godowns at Hongkong, on moderate terms; apply upon the premises No 1 Albany Godown, or to JOHN BURD & Co. Queen's Road. Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 24th November, 1-42.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, cradle, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842. C. V. GILLESPIE.

CONSULAT DE FRANCE EN CHINE.

AVIS—Messieurs les Capitaines et Subalternes des Navires Francais venant en Chine sont prevenus que leurs navires ne payeront à l'avenir, à Whampoa, que les memes droits que ceux auxquels sont soumis les navires Anglais et Americains.

C. ALEX. CHALLAYE.

Gérant le Consulat de France en Chine.

Macao le 15 Mai 1842.

NOTICE—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUVV, or to

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong,
or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE PENANG AND MAULMEIN.

THE Brig "ANNA," Capt. BOWRA, will sail for above ports on the 5th December. For freight apply to

JARDINE MATHESON & Co.
Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British Built Bark BIRMAN, 544 Tons, Captain J. CLELAND, apply to

HOLLIDAY, WISE & Co.
Macao, 3d December, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, Captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHWANTICLER," Captain CHANGS, 250 tons O. M., and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SINGAPORE AND CALCUTTA.

THE fine fast sailing new Ship "FRAM-JER COWARDEN," 950 tons, Capt. Edwards, will have quick despatch from Whampoa. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 1st October, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "Hsao or MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to DIROM & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built ship "THETIS," J. CARR Commander, lying in the Tyne. Apply to DIROM & Co.

Macao, 19th September, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship PORTH, Thomas POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLINGS DUNN & Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE tank built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to JOHN BURD. at Hongkong.

WANTED—To purchase 3 or 4 ANCHORS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

FOR SALE—On board the French Ship L'ORIENT, Capt. Lagravier, ENGLISH NEWCASTLE COAL, at 75 cents per Picul in bags. Apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED FOR SALE—A Few pieces of Merino; Long and short Gloves and Mittens; Wide and Narrow Ribbon; Felt and superfine Silk Hats, and a few fresh Fine Closets.

Superior Pale and Brown Sherry; Double barrelled Fowling Pieces and Pistols, Shooting, and a small quantity of fresh American Beef and Pork. Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE—A Printing Establishment, complete, with a full assortment of types—two Presses, &c. Apply to the EDITOR of the CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE IN THE TYPA—Two thousand Bags of Bengal Rice at very moderate rates. Apply to Captain GALT on board the "IRAY" in the Tyne, or to A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to DIROM & Co.

FOR SALE—Bany Rice, Cocanout oil, Coffee, Java ARABIC in cases and casks, Singapore BRAND and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old and new, and Whisky in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD.

Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE—SHOOTING COFFERED NAMES. Apply to J. A. DURKAN, Jr.

Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE—Europe ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINCABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3. Manilla CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to Macao, Oct. 8, 1842. JOAO BARRETTO.

FOR SALE—MANILA SEGARR 4s, and EUROPE LETTER PAPER at moderate prices. Apply to P. DE LAS HERAS. Macao, 22d September, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.
FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to Macao, 15th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

STRAW BONNETS,—Florence, Tuscan, and Dutch, also, BOY'S HATS. Apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz; and NAILS; apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to Macao, 25th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE—DUFF GORDON & Co's SHERRY in bottle and HDOS, PORT WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. apply to LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner ANTO. NOGUERA MENDES.

FOR SALE—A RIFLE and a few pairs double and four barrelled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE—At the Goodwoods of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—Most Splendid French FIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit. A few very neat new Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Muscadine SNUP in quart bottles, a £3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY. Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases. CHAMPAGNE 8ds 3 do. do. CLARET 3 do. do. SHERRY, PALE in HDs. Seltzer WATER NEW. OILMAN'S STORES late imports. BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels. COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEES & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE—An invoice of superior BASS PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavoured pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases; London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

FOR SALE—MEXICAN DOLLARS. BILLS ON LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

From the Bombay Courier August Overland Mail.
INDIAN HOME INTELLIGENCE.

The contract for supplying the carriages to convey passengers across the Egyptian desert has been obtained from the Peninsular Company by Mr. Andrews, Her Majesty's coach-maker at Southampton. Each carriage is to be in the form of a small omnibus, to carry four inside and two out; they will be of a very light construction, for the purpose of passing with facility over the sandy soil of the desert. Each carriage will be drawn by two Arab horses, which will run seven mile stages; forty carriages must be ready by the 1st of September next.

THE LATE SIR H. FANE AND THE EXPEDITION TO AFGHANISTAN.—Col. H. Fane, Aide-de-Camp to the late Commander-in-Chief in India, has published a letter, in which he says, "I am prepared to prove, if called upon, that the military head in India, and second member of Council of that country, did oppose, or perhaps rather, point out to the Governor General the extreme danger of this wild and unmeasured expedition, to be carried on in countries so distant, and of which we knew so little: our communications with India at any moment liable to be interrupted by the fierce and warlike hordes on our front, flank and rear, whose spirit of vengeance was the more inflamed against us from the numbers of themselves who had fallen in the almost daily affairs with our troops, from our first advancement into their country. Sir Henry Fane did at the same time insure to the Governor-General, from the high spirit and courage of that army which he the Commander-in-Chief, has collected, organized, and put in motion—that success which at first attended us, but at the same time warned the Governor-General, that to maintain large bodies of troops in countries so distant, and which hardly produce sufficient food for a very scanty population, was next to impossible!" Has the result justified such sound and good military advice, or not? Relative to Sir H. Fane's retirement from the army of the Indus, Col Fane adds—"I will here take leave to correct both Sir John Hobhouse and Lord Palmerston in the assertion that 'Sir Henry Fane retired from the command of the army of the Indus from ill-health.' This is a gross mistake: the principal and real reason was disgust at the extraordinary power, both civil and military, delegated to Mr. Macnaghten, such power as would have rendered the Commander-in-Chief of all the armies in India a mere cipher or tool in the hands of a civil secretary to Government. The Commander-in-Chief at that time being the second member of the Council of India, and besides a soldier of some forty years' experience."

An address to thanks to Mehmet Ali, for keeping open the communication through Egypt in 1840, beautifully engrossed on vellum with the royal arms of England at the top, together with a large gold medal bearing an admirable likeness of the venerable Pacha, will be transmitted by the next mail to the English consul at Alexandria for presentation to his Highness.

CABUL RELIEF FUND.—The committee associated for the purpose of promoting this humane undertaking are still zealously engaged in their praiseworthy vocation, and have resolved on the transmission to India of a portion of their assets, amounting to 2,500*l.* by the present overland mail. The remittance has been generously undertaken at a favourable rate of exchange by the East India Company, as will be seen by the annexed letter from the secretary at the India House to the Cabul relief committee:—

"East India House, July 28, 1842.
"I have received and laid before the Court of Directors of the East India Company your application on the part of the Cabul relief committee. In reply, I am commanded to inform you that, with a desire to afford every facility for the objects which that committee have in view, the Court have consented to receive into the home treasury such funds as the committee may be desirous of remitting for distribution in India. Instructions will be issued to the government of Bengal by the next overland mail to pay the equivalent of the amount to be then announced, and of such further sums as may be authorised by his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief to receive and distribute money on account of the sufferers in the late disasters in Afghanistan, am to add that, under the circumstances, the Court will direct that the payment be made at the exchange of one shilling and eleven pence (1*s.* 11*d.*) the rupee.
"I have &c.
J. C. MELVILL.

"Sir John Campbell, K. C. H., &c. &c."

MISCELLANEOUS.
By the official returns published by the Customs the exports of the precious metals to foreign and colonial parts, for the week ending June 30th, was as following:—Silver coin to China 219,607 ounces; silver coin to Rotterdam, 5000 ounces; silver bars to Hamburg, 1,400 ounces.

We hear from a quarter that is likely to be well-informed, that in the event of the Sudbury Disfranchisement bill passing the House of Lords, Sir Robert Peel intends to propose that an additional member each be given to Middlesex and to Liverpool; thus preserving to the House of Commons its present number of members, and effecting an approach to a more equal numerical proportion between the representatives and the constituencies.

The sale of the extensive stock of plate and jewels of the late firm of Rundell and Bridge, of Ludgate-hill, commenced on the 13th, at the rooms of Messrs Christie and Manson, in King-street, St. James's. The stock is supposed to be the most valuable ever offered for public competition.

STEAM BOAT TRAFFIC.—In consequence of the reduction of the fares by the Gravesend steam-boats to 6*d.*, an immense number of persons visited that place, and the adjoining village of Northfleet and Rosherville gardens, last week; and on Sunday upwards of 7,000 were conveyed to Rosherville for 6*d.* each; in what are called the "Temperance steam-boats." The Diamond, Star, Eagle, and Falcon, the Sons of the Thames, and Father Thames, and others from London which keep up the old fare, and the railway steamers from Black wall, landed 10,000 persons at the Town pier and Terrace Pier, Gravesend, on Sunday. Upwards of 10,000 also landed at the Woolwich and Charlton Piers. The number of persons landed at Greenwich exceeded 30,000; and in the evening, when the people were returning to London, the boats were crammed to excess. There were 109 steamers on the Thames on Sunday, engaged in the conveyance of passengers, and twenty-three of them were running to Gravesend only.

The expedition in search of the South Pole returned to the Falkland Islands on the 1st of May, after being nearly seven weeks surrounded by floating ice. They had succeeded in taking up a position for exploring about 78° South, but were unable to add more than 40 or 50 miles to former discoveries.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has empowered the Bishop of Jerusalem to ordain "young divines, candidates for the pastoral office in the German church" at Palestine, on condition of their subscribing to the Apostles', Nicene, and Athanasian creeds.

The supply of silver coming from South America is now larger than it has ever been since the separation of those colonies from Spain, upwards of twenty years ago.

The annual income of the Marquis of Waterford from land alone, is 74,000*l.*

PORTSMOUTH.—Rear-Admiral the Hon. D. P. Houwerie resigned his command as superintendent of the dockyard and the ships in ordinary at this port, on the 28th. His successor is Rear Admiral Hyde Parker, C. B. Admiral Sir Edward Codrington, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., will retire from his command as Port Admiral here in a few weeks, when his time for holding the appointment will expire. Either Admiral the Hon. Sir J. Talbot, K. C. B., or Sir T. Byam Martin, G. C. B., will succeed him.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Dear Sir,—Having seen in your last number a paragraph relative to a robbery which took place on 19th ultimo in which you attribute the promptitude of the recovery of a watch to the inducement of a handsome reward held out to the Officers employed, I beg to observe that your information must be incorrect, as the watch was recovered without any such reward being previously offered to them, by me, and if any gratuity was tendered by its owner when the watch was delivered into his hands, it was a gift to which, as public Officers, they were not entitled.

By your allowing this a place in your next number, you will oblige.

Your's faithfully,
F. A. SEABRA.
Procurador do Leal Senado.
Macao, 1st December, 1842.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Sir,—The following incident will show in what high estimation the commercial adivices of your Hongkong cotemporary are held by native as well as foreign merchants here.

Throughout yesterday there was a general and very active enquiry for "Oxleys' concentrated Essence of Jamaica Ginger." On my enquiring of a Chinese, what could occasion so sudden a demand for an article so out of the way of ordinary commerce, I was told it was intended for Peking: as it appears in the translations from the Peking Gazette, published in the Friend of China, "his imperial majesty had got wind."

THE CANTON PRESS.

Your's
TY FOONG.

Macao, 26th November, 1842.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

The letter signed H. relative to a dispute with a hong merchant, shall be inserted if the writer will favor us with his name and a permission to make use of it, if called for. Otherwise it will be delivered to his application at our office.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 3rd Dec., 1842.

We have again to complain of the scarcity of matter interesting to our readers. We have no arrivals with later dates from Europe or India since last week, and in China everything remains in statu quo. When the Imperial Commissioners may be expected to arrive in this neighbourhood we have not learned, but we hope they may not retard their journey too long, for without the details of the treaty be settled, we cannot expect a healthy trade to revive. Trade is described as languid in Canton, although, as we mentioned before, a good many chops of tea had been bought at rather high prices.

Paris papers of 6th August, so far from reporting the French Ministry in a minority, state Mr. Sauzet, the ministerial candidate, to have been elected President of the Chamber of Deputies by a majority of 43, on the 5th of August.

We mentioned last week that very unfavorable accounts had been received from Formosa with regard to the shipwrecked crews of the Nerbudda transport, and Ann. By the Thames, since arrived from Amoy we understand that accounts fully confirming those previously received of the atrocities the Chinese have been guilty of towards their accidental prisoners are said to come to hand, it being now confidently reported that of the natives, 69 were beheaded on one morning, and that Mr. Gully, passenger per Ann, shared the same fate. We must however mention that, trustworthy as the above information may be, no letters giving a detailed or authentic account have yet been received, as far as we can learn, by any one here. These must be expected by the Queen steamer in which Capt. Denham, late master of the Ann, who with his officer and 10 or 12 of his crew have been given up by the Chinese and arrived at Amoy, is expected to arrive. Should our information be correct, and we see but little hope for doubt, we think the case one of such atrocious, cowardly, and altogether unprovoked cruelty, that its perpetrators ought to be called to a severe account. Even the most savage nations generally respect the laws of hospitality sufficiently to save the lives of men thrown by shipwreck on their shores; and the Chinese themselves have admirable laws intended to protect such people, according to which they have strictly acted in many instances; nor does the existence of war in the empire present a valid excuse for thus violating all precepts of humanity; these poor people could not have been worse treated, had they been pirates and with armed hand made a descent upon the country; instead of which the greater part was thrown by the aid of a plank from the wreck naked upon the shores of Formosa.

It will be seen from the shipping report that a number of transports have within the latter half of last month arrived from the north at Hongkong, where there is now a fleet of them counting upwards of 50 sail, the greater part of which we understand is within a few days to leave with that part of the land force ordered to return to India, escorted by several ships of war and steamers. Lieut General Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B., has during the week arrived at Hongkong; and we hear it now said that, contrary to former reports, Sir Henry Pottinger is daily expected at Hongkong from Amoy where, by the last advices, he had arrived.

We publish with much pleasure the note received from the Procurador of Macao, relating to the robbery of a watch we gave an account of last week. The reward we spoke of as having been offered for the recovery of the watch, was promised to the Chinese Police runners direct, without the interference of the Procurador, and we hasten to state this to prevent any misapprehension on the subject, which we, by our account in question, may have unintentionally caused.

From the Hongkong Gazette, 24th Nov.

SELECTIONS.

FROM THE PEKING GAZETTES.

CHAPPOO. Many of the troops who so cowardly fled before the barbarians at the battle of Chappoo have been arrested, and, by Imperial command, have been sentenced to transportation to the "cold country." All the officers who also fled have been summarily disgraced. The Officers and troops on the other hand, who fought bravely have all been rewarded with Imperial favours.

PATRIOTISM IN SHAN-SE. Two wealthy merchants in Shan se Province have contributed for the use of the army in contending against the barbarians forty thousand taels (upwards of fifty thousand dollars). The Emperor promotes both of them to the rank of Mandarins, without office.

INDIGNATION AND EXTORTION. Recent freshets in the northern parts of the Imperial province having caused great distress, His Majesty ordered high officers to proceed to the said districts and make accurate reports concerning the real state of the sufferers. In many instances these officers refused to report cases of distress unless they were freed by the suffering parties. His majesty having got wind of this shameful collusion, had the offenders tried, disgraced and punished.

CHER KEANG AND KEANGGU. Such have been the alarm and dread in these Provinces occasioned by the proceedings of the barbarians that the peasantry have been utterly unable to till their fields, and consequently none are prepared to pay their usual taxes in kind. The Imperial assent is therefore given to omit the collection of this year's revenue in the said Provinces.

CHAPPOO. In consequence of the capture of Chappoo all the Mandarins of the place are either killed, wounded or missing, and also all the seals of office have been lost. The Emperor orders new officers to the city, and directs the Provincial Treasurer of Chekeang, to supply them all with seals for their respective offices.

CAVALRY. The Emperor orders his high officers to make immediate arrangements for the selection and purchase, in Tartary, of two thousand fine horses, to be brought to the capital forthwith, for the use of the Imperial Regiments of Cavalry.

Several high and wealthy officers of Tartary were about making the Emperor a present of fifteen hundred horses, but his majesty intimated his unwillingness to accept them. The Ministers made every effort to prevail on the Emperor to do the honors the distinguished favour of accepting their horses and his majesty finally consented, but more than intimated that a repetition of such presents would be inexpedient.

GIUSENG. Considerable excitement has been recently occasioned at Peking by the arrest of a Shense merchant in the act of smuggling out of the city upwards of sixty tael (about four catties) of Giuseng. The case was considered of sufficient importance to submit it to the Board of Punishments, who, taking the Merchant through a formal trial, sentenced him to be immediately banished to the "cold country."

LITERARY HALL. The hall in which the triennial literary examinations, in Peking, for the first degree, were wont to be held, having become somewhat dilapidated; a new one has just been completed on a magnificent scale and has received the high approval of the Imperial mind.

BRIBERY. It has been recently discovered that several officers having charge of the prisoners for life, have been in the habit of releasing a prisoner now and then in consequence of large bribes offered by the friends of the Prisoners. Ching, one of the Censors, made representation to the Emperor on the subject, and his Majesty issues his sternest commands for the immediate arrest of all the suspected parties.

POLICE.

In the case of the alleged murder at Chekchoo, to which we referred last week, it came out on the examination before the Chief Magistrate of the Prisoners, Samuel Mitchell, John Mc Daniel, and Alexander Mc Laine, all privates of the 26th Regiment, that on the night in question three Soldiers entered the house of the deceased, who was stabbed by them; according to the Chinese witnesses there seemed no reason why they should have entered the house, nor any incentive to commit such a crime. It was said that samshoo was not sold by the deceased nor was he or the inmates of his house plundered. Dr. Coles who examined the body, thirty six hours after death certified as follows. "There are two wounds on the chest, as if made by a Bayonet, both triangular, with clean edges, the broader base of the triangle being uppermost." One of the wounds must have caused instantaneous death, being through the heart.

As stated in our last, on the same evening another house was entered and a China woman robbed and wounded. The property taken was trinkets valued at $8. Dr. Coles who attended her, found that she had a number of wounds on different parts of her body, two on her head and many bruises.

The prisoner Samuel Mitchell in his defence stated.

"I was mad drunk with Samshoo, and had my bayonet with me. I was beaten in the houses and may have used it. I bought 9 bottles of Samshoo that night from the woman Alok for three rupees. John Mc Daniel and Mitchell told him when they were prisoners in the Guard room that he, Mitchell was the man who had killed the China man, and that Alosay and Alexander Mc Laine were the men who were with him.

Alexander Mc Laine said he was one of the drinking party in the Barracks, but did not enter the town that night, and that he had no knowledge of the murder till the next day.

The sentry stated that on the night in question, he saw a man running up to the barracks and before he could turn out the guard to seize him, he had entered the barracks. When the man passed him, he was twenty yards off.

It is believed the Court martial will be held when Sir Hugh Gough arrives on the island.—Ad.

NANKING.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

The city is situated on the banks of the Yangtszekiang, about 140 miles from its mouth: The city itself which is enclosed with two walls, is three miles inland, though the outermost wall comes to within half a mile of the river's bank. These walls which are very high and strong, with good parapets and strong bastions, are still further defended by a broad and deep canal, which flowing round them serves as a good moat. The country all round about is very beautiful, and the scenery is very fine; the copes and marshes also contain partridges, snipe &c., of which together with other game, there is a tolerable supply. The gates of the city are of splendid construction, being built and fortified in the strongest manner possible, from what little has been seen of it, the city does not seem to contain many magnificent or splendid public buildings but the greatest attraction in that line (and perhaps of the whole Empire) is the Porcelain Tower which is built on the south side, about half a mile outside of the gates. This splendid structure is about 300 feet high, there is altogether not including the ground floor, nine stories, each of which are ornamented in the most beautiful manner. The walls inside are for the most part gilt, and figures are also moulded upon them; this gilt which is in an excellent state of preservation seems to be mixed with oil which may account for its good looks. Though a large portion of the building consists of stone and other materials, still the most part consists of beautiful white porcelain, which is made up in bricks of a foot in length and about half that in width. It is of an octagonal shape. From its summit you have the whole Panorama of Nanking; before you, which together with the beauty of the adjacent country, and the noble Yangtze in the distance forms one of the most beautiful views describable. You can also distinctly see the separation of the Tartar from the Chinese part of the city, the part which is occupied by the former race being again walled round, and fortified, it has much the resemblance of a citadel. This Tower which is in an excellent state of preservation from top to bottom is 500 years old, being built in the reign of Yungli an Emperor of the Ming Dynasty. The trade that is carried on at Nanking is pretty considerable, but not so great as might have been expected from so large a city, one the capital of an Empire.

In and round about Nanking, there are many thousand Mahomedans, who openly profess their religion, but they seem to be in a state of great ignorance, even of the doctrines they pretend to hold, and always showed themselves ready to part with their koran (which not one in a hundred can read or understand) or any thing of that kind for a very trifling pecuniary reward.

Nanking taking all in all is really a fine city, but its days of grandeur are gone by, and now instead of rising it is already beginning to dwindle away.—Id.

Friend of China, 1st December.

The following is a Translation of a dispatch recently sent to all the military departments in Kwang-tung and Kwang-se Provinces. An official note attached thereto, shows that it is not to be posted upon the walls, as Proclamations most generally are.

LEANG, Chief Magistrate of the Nan-hao district, and CHANG, Chief Magistrate of the Pwanya district, issue their commands for the disbanding of the troops, in order that the people may quietly attend to their trade and affairs. We have received a dispatch from their Excellencies the Governor General of the two Kwang Provinces, and the Lt. Governor of Kwang-tung, upon opening which, we find they have received a dispatch from the Commander in Chief at Peking, to the following effect:

In consequence of the English barbarians having excited disturbance, it became requisite to collect the troops together from every place, and also to summon into the field the brave marines and able bodied militia in order, mutually, to keep up the proper guard and defence. Now, however, Peace has been established on the former footing, and therefore upon the day that this despatch reaches the various guarded passes, and other temporarily fortified places,—let all the regular troops, brave marines, and able-bodied militia, immediately disband, and return to their respective regions, that all the soldiers and people may mutually dwell together in quiet. We, the Chief Magistrates, issue this our Proclamation, and require that all the country scholars and elders of the people, see that the said orders are carried into execution. Let there be no delay in disbanding and returning, as all kinds of trades and occupations can now be carried on in quiet.

Let no wickedness be practiced by the parties returning, but let all hearts rejoice over the great and happy peace which has been established. Let each tremblingly obey. A Special Proclamation.

Taoukwang 22nd year, 9th moon, 12th day.
(15th November, 1842.)

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD, AT CHUSAN, CHINNAH, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief, captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

Thalia, 44, Hope.
North Star, 26, Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.
Harlequin, 18, the honble F. Hastings.
Childers, 16, Halsted.
Wanderer, 16, Seymour.
Serpent, 16, Nevill.
Algerine, 10, comr. W. H. Maitland.
Royalist, 10, Chetwood.
Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS,

Starling, 6, comr. Kellett.
Plover, 6, Collinson.

TROOPSHIPS,

Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
Sapphire, comr. Cole.
Rattlesnake,
Alligator,

STAMERS,

H. C. Queen, mr. comr. W. Warden,
Memnon, comr. Powell.
Nemesis, lieut. W. H. Hall, R. N.
Plato, Tudor, R. N.
Medusa, comr. Hewett, I. N.
Phlegathon, lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
Proserpine, comr. Hough, a. n.
H. M. Driver, Farmer.

AT AMOY,

M. H. S. Cambria, 36, capt. Chads, a. n. senior commanding officer.
Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
Chameleon, 10, lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG

Agincourt, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral Sir T. Cochrane, a. n.
Endymion, 44, the honble F. W. Grey,
Dido, 30, the honble H. Keppell.
Wolverine, 16, Johnson.
Columbine, 16, Morhead.
Young Hebe, 4, Wood.

H. C. St. Akbar, Commodore Pepper, I. N.
H. M. Vigen, comr. H. Bayes.
H. M. T. S. Belleisle, capt. Kingcomb.
Jupiter, mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

November, ARRIVED
15, (B. G. Trpt.) Atth Rehomen, Lagan, Chusan.
17, " Sophia, Saxon, do.
18, " Jas. Fleming, Clark, do.
20, Parrock Hall, Wharton, London.
22, H. M. S. Andymion, Honble Capt. Grey, Chusan.
23, (B. G. Trpt.) Duke of Bedford, Lay, 63 do.
24, " Lady Anne, Ford, 69 do.
25, " Orient, Wales, 41 do.
26, " Thos. Gibson, 83 do.
27, " Jas. Hickiffe, Chayne, 33 do.
28, " Coromandel, Loblain, 42 do.
29, " Urgent, Marshall, 65 do.
30, " Wm. Henry, Bickford, 63 do.
31, " Livingston, Rickerly, 87 do.
32, " Rohomeny, Norris, 84 do.
33, " Nimrod, Geyre, 5 do.

22, " Marion, 21 do.
23, " Blundell, Trail, 27 do.
24, " Alibi, Voight, 1 do.
25, " Forth, Heckford, 18 do.
26, " Martha, Enealdon, 76 do.
27, " Gipsy, Stace, 12 do.
28, " R. Cowarfer, Callie, 31 do.
29, " Lysander, Currie, 39 do.
30, " Wm. Wilson, Hawken, do.
31, " Trio, Hall, do.
32, H. C. St. Proserpine, Capt. Hough, a. n. do.
33, H. M. S. Dido, Capt. Keppell, a. n. do.
34, H. C. St. Vixen, Capt. Boyes, a. n. Amoy.
26, (B. G. Trpt.) Lady Leith, Lewis, Bombay.
28, " (Trpt.) Bolton, Rigby, Newcastle.
29, " Thos. Grenville, Cory, Amoy.
30, " Faize Allum, Bennett, do.
31, " Thames, Baker, do.
32, (A. G. Trpt.) Lema, Bombay.
December,
2, (B. G. Trpt.) Alex. Baring, London.

November, SAILED
18, (B. G. Trpt.) Caledonia, Liddell, Manila.
19, " Isabella, Sinclair, Sing. and Bombay.
27, (Hamb.) Georg Henrich, Hinrichsen, Sing. and 28, (D. G. Trpt.) Danish Oak, Paulsen, Singapore. [Hamburg.
29, (B. G. Trpt.) Thetis, Coes Ning Penang and Madras.
30, " Asiatic, Barlow, London.
31, (A. G. Trpt.) Charleston, Harlow, New York.
December,
1, (B. G. Trpt.) Cadet, Curling, London.
2, " Syria, Strogan, do.
3, " Anna Watson, Leith.
3, (D. G. Trpt.) Orion, Sullock, Manila and Batavia.
3, (B. G. Trpt.) Charles Forbes, Wille, Sing. and Manila.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.—Isarepid, Main, Penang, Colombo.
For Calcutta.—Franchise, Cowenjee.
For Bombay.—Anthony Anderson
For London.—Ellora.

PASSENGERS Per

Thetis, Majors Campbell and Prescott; Capt. Logan and Mr. Wey.
Charles Forbes, M. Lannoy, Belgian Consul for Manila.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia, Affiance, Mary Ann, Edie, Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Bolivar, Athenian, Madras, Ursula, Bella Marina, Willo' the Wisp, Liverpool, d'Arcy, Orestes, Christopher Rawson, Hindostan, Ann Jane, Childers, Edward Bousleid, James Matheson, Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Raffles, Geo. Wallis, Coromandel, Tupley.
From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Coras, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abraham, Midlothian, England.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Victory, Bengal Packet, Eliza, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine, Anonyma
From Singapore.—Waterloo.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 4th August. SINGAPORE, 8th Oct.
UNITED STATES, July 15. MANILA, 15th Nov.
CALCUTTA, 14th Sept. AMOY, 26th Novbr.
BOMBAY, 9th Sept. CHUSAN, 22d Nov.
JAVA, 4th Oct. NANKING,

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
Adelaide,	—	Christians	Jamieson, How & Co.
Arethusa,	—	Catt,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Abberton,	451	Butcher,	Macvicar & Co.
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Russell and Co.
Anty Anderson	498	Splatt,	Jardine M. & Co.
Alex. Baring,	—	Gears,	"
Arrow,	—	Wightman	"
Ann Lockerby	—	Wrightman	"
Anne Mary,	—	Blackham,	"
Bekghamshire	146	McGregor	"
Bucephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Birman,	—	Cleland,	Holliday, Wise & Co.
Black Swan,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
British Isle,	—	Graham,	"
Columbus,	—	Major,	Dirom and Co.
Columbia,	—	H. Pybas,	"
Chanticleer,	—	Grange,	Henry Gribble.
Christina,	—	Primrose,	Turner and Co.
Chelydra,	—	Whistart,	Dent and Co.
Cacicque,	—	Man, [Ger]	C. Feagun.
Charlotte,	—	Liebachwa,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Cherokee,	—	McKellar,	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.

Drongan,	—	Johnann,	—	Fox Rawson and Co.
Devon,	—	Mallory,	—	Macvicar & Co.
Diadem,	—	Harland,	—	"
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	—	"
Elizabeth,	—	Morrin,	—	"
Equestrian,	801	Cromorty,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh,	1414	Paternon,	—	D. & M. Rustonjee & Co.
Edwards,	—	Edwards,	—	Dallas and Co.
Fram,	—	Greig,	—	Fox Rawson & Co.
Frances Ann,	—	Thomson,	—	Macvicar and Co.
Frances Barn,	—	Edington,	—	Dirom and Co.
Felicity,	—	McDonald,	—	D. & M. Rustonjee Co.
Fortitude,	—	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Fort William,	1248	Hogg,	—	"
Ganges,	—	Walker,	—	Turner and Co.
Gemini,	—	Mardon,	—	Lindsay and Co.
Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	—	"
Greelan,	—	Watt,	—	Dirom and Co.
Gulnare,	—	wilonghyb	—	"
Hero of Malown	—	Whittem,	—	H. Holgate.
Hongkong,	—	Fowler,	—	G. Nye jr.
Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	—	"
Himalaya,	—	Burn,	—	"
Hindostan,	708	Rowen,	—	Dent and Co.
Hope,	377	Gms,	—	Holliday Wise & Co.
Hebrides,	—	Malville,	—	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	—	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	—	Dent and Co.
Islay,	—	Galt,	—	A. A. de Mello.
Inglis,	—	Isaacson,	—	Jardine M. & Co.
John Calvin,	—	Knox,	—	whitcomb
John Moor,	—	John Moor,	—	Berg,
Jane,	—	Robertson	—	Freeman,
John O'Gannet,	—	Lutherland,	—	Lewis,
Lady Leith,	—	Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,
Lady of St Kilda	—	Lady of St Kilda	—	Manton,
Lord Eldon,	—	Worsell,	—	Lawrence,
Lady St. Kilda,	—	Sproule,	—	Brown,
Maia,	—	Manly,	—	Hart,
Minerva,	—	Mercury,	—	Holton,
Mary Anne,	—	Rowe,	—	Sutler,
Matilda,	—	Malacca,	—	Purdi,
Medusa,	453	Medusa,	—	Pawcett,
Melish,	—	Melish,	—	Kirk,
Osprey	—	Osprey	—	Terry,
Orator,	—	Orator,	—	Jones,
Prince of Wales	—	Parrock Hall,	—	Wharton,
Queen Leitch	—	Queen Leitch	—	Gray,
Royal Exchange	—	Royal Exchange	—	Mackay,
Raymond,	—	Raymond,	—	Rigby,
Ruparell,	—	Ruparell,	—	Rosa,
Siam,	—	Siam,	—	St. Lawrence,
Semiramis,	365	Semiramis,	—	Smith,
Snee,	—	Snee,	—	Hiem,
Susan,	—	Susan,	—	Neathy,
Tartar,	—	Tartar,	—	Thompson
Urgent,	—	Urgent,	—	Mordant,
Victoria,	—	Victoria,	—	Gillet,
Wild Irish Girl	—	Wild Irish Girl	—	Clark,
Wm. Gillies,	—	Wm. Gillies,	—	Hunt,
Weyraff,	—	Weyraff,	—	Howard,
Wm. Hyde,	—	Wm. Hyde,	—	Smith,
Wanderer,	—	Wanderer,	—	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
Levant,	Paulk,
Ann MacKim,	Vasner,
Probus,	Summer,
Grafton,	Gardner,
Panther,	Martin,
Valparaiso,	Lockwood,
Lowell,	Peirce,
Mary Ellen,	—
Splendid,	Laud,
Carolina,	—
Delhi,	Cole,
Akbar,	—
Lema,	—
Oscar,	—
Oneida,	Swift,

FRANCE.

Fr. Frig. Frigone, 44,	Captain Cécile.
Fr. Corr. Favorite, 24,	Commander Page.
Maria,	Cuculla,
Hebe,	Both,

* At Whampoa.

THE CANTON PRESS.

VOL. 7, No. 64.] Macao, Saturday, 17th December, 1842.

[No. 376.]

NOTICE.

COPIA DE DESPACHOS.

Conformando-me com o accordo dos Credores a f.—e que se apresentará em consequencia da citação de f.—ordenado pelo despacho de f.—nomeio a ALEXANDRE MATHESON, G. T. BRAINE, Administradores da Massa fallida, e os authorizo para venderem os bens, arrecadarem as dividas, reyer os papéis &c., em conformidade do mesmo accordo, para depois darem conta da liquidação: o Escrivão se notifique para tomar conta deste encargo. (Assignado) BASTOS.

Macao, 17 de Novembro de 1842.

Translation.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting of the creditors of FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co, I hereby appoint ALEXANDER MATHESON and G. T. BRAINE, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate, and I empower them to dispose of the Assets, receive all debts due to the Estate, examine the papers &c. in conformity with the said resolutions, and to give an account hereafter of the realizations. The Clerk will notify this to the parties that they may take charge accordingly.

Macao 17 Nov. 1842.

(Sgd.) BASTOS.

In pursuance of the above, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims upon the Insolvent Estate of Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co to present the same within 2 months of this date, and all persons indebted to the said Estate to make immediate payment to Mr. Henry FERGUSON at the office formerly occupied by Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co.

ALEX. MATHESON,
GEORGE T. BRAINE, } Trustees.

Macao, 20th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—Is hereby given, that the undersigned having been duly licensed, has opened a Dispensary on the Praya Grande, at the corner house opposite to the Judge's Residence.

F. A. SEABRA.

Macao, 30th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP BUCHAN, in our firm here, at Mannheim, and in that of BUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinnang, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. MATTHEW THEODOROS DENIS DEVITRE and Mr. THOMAS WINGATE HENDERSON in our firm ceased on the 31st ultimo.

REMINGTON & Co.

Bombay, 1st August, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of Bombay, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Granite Godowns at Hongkong, on moderate terms; apply upon the premises No 1 Albany Godown, or to JOHN BURD & Co. Queen's Road. Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 24th November, 1842.

STORAGE at HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godown at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to

Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842.

C. V. GILLESPIE.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 30 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to

F. H. TIEDMAN, or
REYNVAAN & Co.,—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS and MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to M. DUPUS, or to C. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong, or Mr. A. GRANDPRE,—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A. I. British built Brigantine BLACK SWAN, 4 years old, now lying in the Tyne; apply to

G. H. HART.

Macao, 8th Dec. 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British Built Bark BIRMAN, 544 Tons, captain J. CLELAND, apply to

HOLLIDAY, WISE & Co.

Macao, 3d December, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A. I. ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWER; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 8th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HERO OF MALOBYN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to Canton, 28th June, 1842. DIROM & Co.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A. I. barque "CHANTICLEER" captain GRANGER, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Tyne and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale, Apply to

HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTH, THOMAS POWELL, Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLUGHBY DUJANER Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and cap. red Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 ANKERS, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842

TO LET.—A small House in the Praya Manduco. Apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 3d December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the French Ship L'ORIENT, Capt. Lagravier, ENGLISH NEWCASTLE COAL, at 75 cents per Picul, in bags. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED FOR SALE.—A Few pieces of Merino; Long and short Gloves and Mittens; Wide and Narrow Ribbon; Felt and superfine Silk Hats, and a few fresh Pine Cases.

also.

Superior Pale and Brown Sherry; Double barrellled Fowling Pieces and Pistols. Sheet, and a small quantity of fresh American Beef and Pork. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A Printing Establishment complete with a full assortment of types—two Presses, &c. Apply to the EDITOR of THE CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE IN THE TYNE.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal RICE at very moderate rates. Apply to captain GALT on board the "LALAY" in the Tyne, or to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

FOR SALE.—BAILY RICE, COCONUT oil, COFFEE, JAVA ARRACK in cases and casks, Singapore BEANS and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old RUM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD & Co. Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE.—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to

J. A. DURBAN, Jr.

FOR SALE.—Europe ROPE from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINCABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, Sa. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to MACAO, Oct. 8, 1842. JOAO BARRETO.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Dutch, also, Boy's HATS.—Apply to

MACAO, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 15 to 26 oz; and NAILS; apply to

MACAO, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to

MACAO, 25th July, 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—MADEIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRIS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—DUFF GORDON & Co's SHERRY in bottle and HIDS, Port WINE in cases of 6 dozen each, CLARET in do. 6 do. do, CHAMPAGNE in baskets of 1 dozen. Apply to

LINDSAY & Co.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—A Rifle and a few pairs double and four barrellled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to

MACAO, Aug. 27, 1842. Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—At the Godowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house, the following articles, viz.—

Most Splendid French First GLASS of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new FINEST PORCELAIN DINING SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLED, Wine and Beer GLASSES. The best Mulligatawny Soup in quart bottles, a 43 per bottle.

And in close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 5th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.

CHAMPAGNE 4ns 3 do. do.

CLARET 2 do. do.

SHERRY, PALE in Hds.

SULTZER WATER dew.

OILMANS STORES late imports.

BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels.

COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.

E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

MACAO, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French Calcutta, fine flavored pale French Brandy in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, Seltzer water, Gin, white and black Paints, PAINT OIL TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English Cordage, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few Spars for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DA MELLO.

LOTTERY.
Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's.
FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS,
AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY,
OF 1843, of all Prizes!

[In the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universally of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mofussil Agency for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lotteries from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, China, &c. it is proposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived therefrom, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund; only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick-certificates; or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with, or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843,

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843; valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000 Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1/2 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1/4 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1/8 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1562 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances.

480 Tickets.

Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes: only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, or 100 ditto.

Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid-postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co's letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers. As a consideration to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands.

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE

CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The latest reprintment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG, A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar.

ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

The CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS and THEIR DEBTS, price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The LAW relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symonds, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, 100—$ 1.

Policies and folio pages $ 5.

Letter paper size $ 3.

Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Of Ships $ 5.

Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.

for 3 months $ 6.

Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

From the Sing. Free Press, 10th Novbr.

—AFFGANISTAN.

FALL OF CAUBUL AND GHUZNIE.

Through the kind attention of two of our subscribers we have been favoured with the hasty perusal of copies of the Bengal Hurkaru Extraordinary of the 11th instant brought by the Captain of the Dido and which he carries to Singapore. It consists of extracts from several letters giving accounts of the fall of Ghuznee and Caubul, and we have barely time to abstract the substance of them for our local readers.

FALL OF CAUBUL.

On the 13th September Major General Pollock encountered Ukbar Khan commanding an Army 10,000 strong at Tezeen. After some hard fighting, in many instances the bayonet alone deciding the contest the enemy were routed and dispersed leaving several hundreds killed and wounded on the field and two guns, large quantities of ammunition and stores, and three standards in our hands. The loss on our side was 32 killed and 130 wounded. On the 14th our forces advanced to Badkhalak—on the 15th encamped on the race course at Caubul and on the 16th General Pollock took possession of the Balla Hissar and planted the British standard on the walls, Sir R. Shakspeare with 700 Kusa-ulbashes proceeded to Bamean in search of Akbar Khan who declares that he will not deliver up the prisoners unless Dost Mahomed be given in exchange. Mrs Trevor and 8 children, Capt. and Mrs Anderson and 3 children, Capt. Troop and Dr Campbell had come into Camp. Abundance of supplies was pouring in and Caubul was quiet.

FALL OF GHUZNIE.

On the 5th September Major General Nott came before Ghuznee. The city was found to be full of men and the hills to the north east were covered with heavy bodies of cavalry and infantry. Major Saunders went forward to reconnoitre but was obliged to wait until a detachment of cavalry and artillery came up when the enemy were driven from the suburbs into the town. The low hills to the N. E. of the town were occupied and the ground marked out for breaching batteries. On the morning of the 6th it was discovered that the fortress was evacuated. Nott dismantled the citadel, destroyed the principal gate, released 327 sepoy of the 27th N. I. who had been sold into slavery and having accomplished this important service with a loss of no more than 3 killed and 43 wounded, marched for Caubul carrying away with him the celebrated sandal wood gates of the temple of Ghuznee brought by Mahmood from Somnat. He expected to reach Caubul on the 17th September,—Pineang Gazette.

(From the Eastern Star, Oct. 9.)

Our last week's issue announced the Victory gained by General Pollock at the Jugdulluck Pass on the 8th ultimo, and the forcing of that formidable barrier in spite of all opposition and the formidable position occupied by the enemy; and further mentioned the receipt of intelligence from General Nott of that Officer having defeated Shumsoodeen on the Southern side of Ghuznee and having subsequently advanced upon and obtained possession of that Fortress.

Since then, the despatches detailing these events have been published to the Army by the Governor General, with a very handsome and merited encomium upon the two leaders and the Officers and men engaged. General Pollock's despatch adds little or nothing to the details we had already made known, but General Nott although his communication is brevity itself, contains some additional facts and in a more positive shape than those we were before in possession of. It appears that on the 28th August, in the neighbourhood of Mukoor, the enemy attacked the rear guard, but were quickly dispersed by Captain Christie with two Regiments of Skinner's Horse and three of his own Regiments, who pursued the enemy some distance and cut upwards of sixty of them. The Force continued their march apparently unmolested until the 30th August, when they encamped at Gouine about 38 miles S. W. of Ghuznee. Hither Shumsoodeen rashly but gallantly advanced to meet them with 12,000; in the afternoon of that day he took up a strong position in the vicinity of the Camp, his left established on an eminence of some height, his centre and right extending along a low ridge that flank resting on a small fort filled with men. They took up their position in the most bold and gallant manner, cheering as they came up, and opened a fire of small arms supported by two Horse Artillery 6 pounders which were admirably served. General Nott moved out with about half his Force, his columns advanced on different points of the Enemy's line with the greatest regularity and steadiness, after a short and spirited conflict completely defeated them, capturing their guns, ammunition Camp Equipage, &c. and dispersing them in all directions; the want of sufficient daylight was the only thing, that saved the whole of their Infantry.

Shumsoodeen fled towards Ghuznee accompanied by about 30 horsemen.

Our loss was considerable, amounting to 104 officers and men killed and wounded with 78 horses killed, wounded and maimed. It may be inferred that the 3rd Bombay Cavalry were seriously engaged as their loss is particularly heavy, comprising two officers, captains H. Berry and G. O. Reeve killed and two others, captain G. S. Ravencroft, and Lieut. T. A. Mackenzie, wounded. The Troops engaged appear to have consisted of H. M.'s 40th and 41st regts. of foot, the 16th, 38th and 42nd regts. Bengal Native Infantry, the 3rd Bombay Light Cavalry the details of Skinner's and Christie's Horse, captain Anderson's Horse Artillery and captain Blood's Horse Field Battery. The behaviour of all appears to have been admirable, and the dashing and gallant conduct, the rapidity and precision of captain Anderson's Bengal Horse Artillery is particularly noticed, a compliment which those will best appreciate, who know the extreme difficulties this officer had to encounter in rais-sing and equipping the troop in question.

Of General Nott's subsequent movements little is apparently known, that he reached Ghuznie on the 4th of Sept. as announced in the Calcutta Star Extra of the 1st of Oct., seems however beyond a doubt, as his last letter was dated on the 3rd from Nance a short march from Ghuznie: the intelligence of his possession of that place was we believe delivered verbally by the Casid who probably witnessed it on the morning of the 4th. Reports are current from different quarters that General Nott had reached Cabul, and also that previously to so doing he had been again opposed by Shumooden, who was of course again defeated; this last rumour however seems improbable, for after his signal defeat on the 30th we doubt if Shumooden could have mustered a sufficient force, or even if he could that he would have again ventured, after such a lesson, to measure his strength with us in the fair field: it is not however improbable that some slight opposition, or attempt to harass the advance, may have occurred which has afforded a foundation for the report. It was that the force would remain a few days at Ghuznie and that the place would be destroyed.

From General Pollock's Camp we have been most anxiously looking out for intelligence for the last two days; it is certain that he has met with resistance during this advance in the neighbourhood of Tezen and that there has been some severe fighting: the details we possess at present are very meagre and we cannot do better than put them before our readers in the shape in which they appeared in the Calcutta Star Extra of Friday last:—

"We have just received intelligence that accounts reached Simla on the 25th September from Torabkhan Khan, who is with Pollock's division, that a battle had been fought (date not given) with Akbar Khan, Jubbar Khan, Ameenollah Khan and other Chiefs in which the enemy was signally defeated. Akbar has fled and is said to be left alone in his extremity. Our correspondent writes that there is no doubt of the truth of the above, as Shere Sing's congratulations to Lord Ellenborough accompanied the despatch which reached him in six days from Peshawar: Colonel Palmer and the Ghuznie Prisoners are at Cabul, from which city the inhabitants were rapidly flying. It is also repeated that the Cabul prisoners are in the keeping of the Kuzilbashes.

At the moment of the arrival of the above the Englewood put forth the following Extra, which contains fuller details than our letter. It will be seen it states that at the time of General Pollock's action, General Nott, was only one march from Cabul. This, if correct, is corroborative of the truth of the intelligence we gave in our Extra three days ago.

"We have intelligence to the following effect.

Akbar Khan came in person to oppose Major General Pollock was constantly engaged while advancing from Judduluck.

On the morning of the 12th, he encamped at Helf Kotul.

On the 13th marched at day light; the enemy appeared in force on the heights to oppose our advance.

Mahomed Akbar Khan was accompanied from Cabul by 500 horse and 1000 foot: the Ghilzie invited him out, saying that they were 20,000 strong at Tazeen, and the time had arrived for striking a blow.

Mahomed Akbar Khan followed in the rear by Nawab Jubbar Khan and Mahomed Juman Khan with 4 guns and the rest of the Cabool force, but these latter were not engaged in the action of the morning.

Mahomed Akbar Khan commanded one division in person, and Ameenollah and Mahomed Shah Khan another, Azeez Khan Ghilzie and Khan Shereen Khan another.

Cabool is nearly deserted by the citizens.

The action beyond Tazeen continued nearly from the morning till night.

Akbar Khan made several obstinate assaults, and the Ghilzie the same under Azeez Khan.

Later on our people reserving their fire of artillery till the Afghans came close, punished the enemy severely. Azeez Khan's division suffered most, and at length withdrew; Akbar Khan losing heart followed the example and retreated to a hill on one side of the road where our Cavalry charged up the road, and put to flight the rest of the host.

The main body of our Troops then moved to the of Zaboon-i Zaboon.

The slaughter on the Afghan side was great. We also suffered a little.

Our troops encountered Nuwah Zuman Khan's force on the plain Zaboon-i-Zaboon, a cannonade commenced which soon became too hot for the enemy; further opposition was not expected.

Nott had taken Ghuznie according to some reports, (and there was little doubt entertained on the subject) and destroyed the place. He was within a march of Cabul when Pollock's action took place.

Some reports go the length of saying that the Kuzilbashes have taken the English Prisoners from Akbar Khan, and brought them to General Pollock as a Peace-offering—that our troops have reached Cabul after defeating Akbar again in the Khoord Cabool Pass, and that he has fled towards Toorkistan."

This intelligence seems strongly to corroborate the report published as such in an Extra from the Star Press on Wednesday last, which is further corroborated by a letter from Dakhla of the 18th, and by one received yesterday from Kurnaul, dated 29th, which mentions that a report had reached the station that day in a very positive shape, that Cabul was in our possession.

To the details given in the Extra we have little to add, beyond a report that Akbar Khan and Shumooden had fled together to Baik. The invasion of Khooloom by the king of Bokhara appears to be confirmed, and the report of the prisoners being in the hands of the Kuzilbashes, although difficult to understand, comes from so many quarters that we cannot but think there must be some foundation for it which we sincerely trust there may be.

We earnestly desire to receive some details of the action near Tezen and the subsequent one said to have taken place at Khoord Cabul, for though we have not the least doubt of the complete success of our force, we fear from the protracted and determined character of the resistance offered that our loss must of necessity be heavy.

Every hour must bring us so near to the receipt of positive intelligence that it is idle to speculate on what may have occurred, but we cannot avoid expressing our opinion that the reports of the occupation of Cabul will be found to be correct in substance, though the date may have been anticipated by a day or two.

Since the above was in type we have received two letters from General Pollock's Force Judduluck, dated the 9th September the substance of which will be found in the following copy of the Calcutta Star Extra published yesterday afternoon.

Letter from General Pollock's Force of the 8th ultimo, mention that the advanced Division under Sir R. Sale had a brilliant affair with the enemy on the 8th ultimo, at the entrance of the Judduluck Pass;—The opposing force consisting partly of Gilzies and partly of Akbar Khan's troops, amounting altogether to about 4000 men, were very strongly posted behind a long line of Sungahs, extending for a considerable distance; on approaching their position the guns were opened, and the troops charged in gallant style.

The Enemy made a bold stand at first and their shot told heavily on our troops, killing and wounding between 40 and 50; but in about a quarter of an hour the whole position was carried.

The Barrier of Judduluck had been repaired, and the scene exhibited by the skeletons of the slain belonging to our ill-fated force is described a most painful: upwards of 700 bodies were estimated as being exposed there.

It appears that all the sick and wounded had been butchered at this spot.

The Ghilzies have taken to their own hills, and Akbar Khan's troops have returned to Cabul. Captain Nugent of the Commissariat was the only officer killed in this affair.

The Rear Guard did not arrive until late in the evening, and had been fired at all the way. Many camels had broken down; a good deal of property had been lost. The chief of Judduluck who had been fighting against us all day came in during the evening and tendered his allegiance, promising provisions in abundance and to afford free communication to the daks.

General Pollock received intelligence on the 9th from General Nott, who had routed Shumooden on the 27th of August, and occupied Ghuznie on the 4th of September; the Garrison evacuated the place as he approached. He purposed halting for a week and then moving on to Cabul.

The Englishman's extra states the Shumooden was caught inside the fortress, and killed by our men.

Our own letters which distinctly speak as to the authenticity of the report regarding General Nott, a cousin from whom brought the information to General Pollock direct, say not a word regarding the capture or death of Shumooden Khan.

The force with General Pollock expected to reach Cabul about the 15th: Akbar Khan is said to have come out one march to meet us but changed his mind and returned to Cabul.

From the Canton Register, 13th Dec.

ACCOUNT OF THE LOSS OF THE BRIG "ANN,"
ON THE ISLAND OF FORMOSA.

We left Chusan harbour on the 8th of March, 1842, bound to Macao, intending to touch at the ports of Chiochew, Amoy, &c., on our way.

We had on board 85 hands, captain and officers, also R. Gully, esq., and servant, in all 57.

We weighed about 10 A. M. with a light N. breeze, and sailed through the Sarah Gally passage; when outside we were becalmed, but by the onset of the sweeps were enabled to get to Ketow point before the tide made against us, where we anchored. We weighed the next morning with a light N. E. breeze and drizzling rain; sailed through Goff's passage, at the southern entrance of which we spoke the schooner Lynx, and anchored for the purpose of taking in some freight from her; the barque Aren was in company with her. After receiving the same with captain Wade's letters, weighed again and proceeded on our voyage. It was my intention to have called at Shipoo, but the Lynx having just left them and reporting no vessels, I did not like to stop, particularly as dispatch was my aim. When near the Gocama we passed a vessel under British colors bound up, which I took to be a transport and made the best of my way.

About 6 P. M. we had the Black Islands bearing due east, and from them I took my departure; the breeze had freshened considerably but I carried on a press of canvas; during the night we steered a course along shore, and at 8 A. M. on the 10th hauled in S. W. to sight the land, but the weather was too thick to see any distance; continued drizzling rain, we had no observation; towards even I shortened sail, and at 8 altered the course to S.W. with no other sail on the vessel than the topsails and jib, the former on the cap; at 10 I took in the first reefs and kept them still down, and at 11.45 the weather having got equally with a heavy sea on, the night being pitch dark, I determined to take in the second reefs and heave too till daylight, not wishing to pass Chiochew in the night. At this time I supposed myself to be about from 12 to 13 miles N.E. of one of the Lamays, called Oekus, and was in the act of luffing her to, to enable the people to get the main top sail reefed quicker, when a man on the top sail yard called out land, put the helm down immediately, when he again called out land on the harbor bow. I took one side of the helm myself to assist the man in shifting it, and in the act of doing so the struck, and hung about amidsthips on a reef from the deck we could see nothing; here she hung for a minute, but such succeeding sea forced her further on and brought the wind which was N.N.E. on the harbor quarter; a very heavy sea struck her now and forced her over the reef, carrying away the rudder and injuring the whole of her stem frame; she now fell with her deck out, the sea making clean breaches over her, and washing away every thing moveable from the deck; the starboard bulwarks were also washed away. I did not cut the masts away, hoping they would assist in lurching her over the other way the next heavy sea that struck her, and fortunately succeeded; directly she fell with her larboard side up, I cut away the masts; the tide was now falling rapidly; immediately commenced on the long boat, provisioning her but on taking the hatches off found the hold full of water went immediately to the magazine, but too late to save the powder, we found it entirely under water; got it up and took all we could and dry to make musket & pistol cartridges, about 5 each man, as all we had ready made were useless by being wet. The jolly boat had been washed away and the foremast in falling stove in the other boat, leaving us nothing but the long boat. It was my intention to have sent Mr. Roope, chief mate, in her in search of some vessel, but found it would be impossible at any time of tide to have got her over the reef while the gale lasted. At day-dawn my worst fears were realized; I found by the appearance of the land we were on Formosa and not the Lamays, as I had at first thought. On looking round we saw the masts of several small junks to the eastward of us, and I determined, if possible, to take one and put to sea in her. I made all hands put on a good suit of warm clothing, and arm themselves, cautioning them particularly to keep together, and on no account to straggle from the rest. I also took a sextant, chart, logbook, and telescope. I was the last man out of the brig; she was high and dry, but the tide rising rapidly made me anxious to get out of her, as I expected she would go to pieces as soon as the sea reached her. The junks were about 5 miles from where we were wrecked, and on arriving at the creek where they lay found they were aground; the men in them invited us to go aboard; which we did, about half of us in one and half in another (there were 4). I explained, through my Chinese carpenter, that if they would take us a cross to Chismoo, or any place near that, I would give them $3000; the Chinese captain said he would in 3 or 4 days: this offer was of course useless, and I found, as tide rose, could not get out of the creek, the wind blowing right in, and a bar across the entrance, which it was impossible in that weather to cross. At this time the natives were thronging round us, and hundreds of them running with axes to the unfortunate brig. Our shroff and havidar had been seized by the natives on our way from the wreck to the creek; the chief mate's servant was robbed of the sextant which he carried, and a coat. I sent Mr. Roope with a party of our best men to see if he could not rescue the two men they had taken, but in consequence of the increasing parties of natives constantly coming, he very wisely returned as speedily as possible. The junk was surrounded on all sides by parties of armed men. We let them know we had arms by holding them up as to let the muzzles of the musk be rest on the side of the junk. Many of those who appeared to have the most to say came to and fro in a small sampan in earnest conversation with the junk men. About 2 p. m. they commenced stoning us, and the people in the junk did all they could to make us fire, but I knew that if we killed one man (we could have killed many), we should all be murdered. The junk was again at this time in the mud, the tide falling rapidly. Finding we did not use our arms, they came on board, a few at a time, all armed with knives; at last, when the boat was full, they threatened to murder us if we did not give up our arms; this I did the more willingly as many of our people wished to fire upon them; this I fortunately prevented, for I am convinced had our Chinese been killed we should have been butchered. I therefore gave them up as the most likely means of saving our lives. The people on shore fired matchlocks occasionally, but I think it was only to intimidate us, as an officer was in his chair about 1 mile from us, but sheltered by a bank of sand.

Immediately they got possession of the arms, they began stripping us in a cruel way; they took my cap and shoes off and flung them overboard; our clothes were literally torn off our backs; when they had stripped us, they made a signal by waving a piece of cloth fast on a spar to the officer's party, who immediately came down. It was bitter cold, and raining hard, with the wind N. E., blowing a fresh gale. We tried to get below in the junk, but were kicked and flung up again; some of the people in the other junk fared much better, as they let them keep their clothes. About 4 p. m. I went down with the rest to the officer; here we were seized by the soldiers and driven away to the southward and westward, past the lazaret; when passing, I endeavored to go on board and see if I could get any thing to cover myself with, but was knocked down, half-stunned by a blow on my head with the butt end of a spear.

(To be continued.)

RIOT AT CANTON.

From the Canton Register, 13th Dec.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CANTON.

Canton, Dec. 8th, 2 p. m.

"After a night of much anxiety and excitement, I send you a line to say that we are all safe, and the danger apparently over for the present.

Before this reaches you you will have heard that a row commenced at 9 or 10 yesterday morning between some lascars and Chinese, which went on increasing through the day; until at night it reached a fearful crisis. We early sent notice to Hongqua, but his report, if he made any, was not heeded. The mob increased in numbers and audacity every hour, and by 2 or 3 we could see by the plunder carried by, that Mr. Murrell's factory had been looted. The ladies (English) had already taken refuge at Kingqua's. This scene of plunder and violence went on through the afternoon, a feeble party of the city police, which came out to restore order, being beaten off the field.

Early in the evening the Anti-English feeling began to show itself in the setting fire to the British flag staff, and the concentration of the mob on the company's factory. Matters getting thus serious, old Mingqua politely sending a chair, the ladies (American) were taken to his factory, whence he kindly promised they should be sent to his family house, in case of necessity. Soon after they had been comfortably placed there, the smoke appeared issuing from the interior of the British hong, and it became evident that the incendiary mob had fired that factory. We were now attended to Mingqua's terrace, whence we had a full view of the sad, but splendid conflagration. The skylight of Mr. Murrell's house and the chimneys belched smoke beautifully for a while, till they sunk in the flames. The verandah still stood firm, but sudden volleys of smoke poured in from every crevice, and soon after the whole roof and architrave was burning furiously. The square all the while was crowded by Chinese who had early thrown down the company's wall and forced sundry passages through the paling of the square. Alarms were from time to time communicated to this immense mass, and they at one moment fled in all directions, and then swayed back again to their former position. Furious cries and shouts were every instant mingled with the crackling of the fire and the crash of the falling ruins. The fire extended slowly back into No. 2, but happily the night was nearly calm, and the light breeze which the conflagration made veered a little to the eastward; this and the strong wet walls of the British hong saved the factories on our side of Santow (Hoglane), but insured the destruction of those eastward. It was evident the Dutch and Greek hong must go, and our concern for the inmates of the former was increased by the report of fire arms from that quarter which several times reached us. The fire engines sent to check the flames were driven off, the mob declaring no one should interfere to save the British hong, and when that was down they themselves would help to save the others.—This with the eastern factories was impossible; and Mr. Heard and party, after defending their entrance against the thieves for some hours, were forced by the fire to escape by the back passage at about 11 o'clock. Happily they effected this in safety; and soon after the flames running along the verandah, consumed it, and now of those fine porches nothing remains standing but the lower arches and some broken pillars. Of course the Greek hong shared the same fate. While the fire was still intense there, smoke issuing from Mr. Fisher's showed that that also had been doomed to destruction. Some new alarm was felt from this fresh outbreak, but happily the same causes prevented the fire from spreading westward. The assurances of the ring leaders of the mob that they would fire no other factory were now corroborated by the evident exertions going on along the outskirts of the crowd to check the thieving by despoiling the wretches of their plunder. We became less and less apprehensive for the rest of the hong and, after keeping the terrace till two or three in the morning, lay down on mat couches and got a few broken snatches of sleep. Some of our party (12 in all) sat up till morning. It was on the whole a fearful night, the fire threatening all of us, and the furious mob in full possession of the square making the removal of anything impossible. In fact, old Mingqua, though kind as possible to us all, the ladies especially, refused to open his gates when we wished to return to our factory.

To-morrow there was a full in the popular violence, and it was determined that the ladies and a large escort should take Mingqua's boat, and proceed down to Whampoa, which they accomplished without molestation; the rest of us, after an early breakfast, returned to our factories, which we found quite as we left them. But again, as the morning advanced, the mob collected, resumed full possession of the square, and renewed their work of plunder. They had now evidently found entrance into some not empty treasuries. Razamouins were appearing in quick succession laden with dollars. This ill-gotten booty was, however, so soon left in their quiet possession, every suspected fellow was soon surrounded, seized, and his dollars scattered in the scuffle to be scrambled for by the by-standers; for hours the square was covered by knotted groups of the kind, struggling desperately for a share in the plunder. By and by the police and long copies mingled in the affray, for the purpose of sporting and punishing the villains. Thus the morning wore away, and no interference came from the government. No doubt the governor passed an anxious night, ready to interfere, but dreading the power of the popular party. In the course of the morning, he learned the true state of the case; that the factories were not all burned, that the foreigners all murdered, and that the portion of the mob which had the burning of the British hong as its object was satisfied, and that he had only the thieves to contend with; he, therefore, ventured to interfere, and a strong body of soldiers at length appeared at about noon, and cleared the square of the lawless fellows who had been more than 24 hours in possession of it. It was pleasant to rally forth again and we went down to the seat of the conflict, where five dead bodies of Chinese, torn and bloody, showed that some at least had not escaped to run riot again. Numbers of wretches soon came creeping from the burning embers, evidently thieves, yet we saw none apprehended; the officers seemed content to scatter them.

Thus ended this disgraceful affair for the present, for vast crowds are still hanging on the edges of the foreign residences, and new efforts to fire and plunder may be apprehended. We are now putting our moveables on board a chop, and shall go aloft until Sir Henry settles the account with the authorities. An express was sent to him yesterday, and we wait to see whether he will choose to explain away the difficulties of the rowdies, or challenge them to as much fight as they are inclined for. It is clear that either the native or foreign officers must afford protection, or we cannot return to the factories.

The British flag staff was an object of much interest through the evening. It was fired at the base, the flame crept slowly up the staff, which still stood steadfast until the fire reached the cap, there the cross piece detained and increased the flames until the staff burnt through and the topmast slowly toppled down: a loud shout from the mob marked their triumph when it fell.

As to the commencement of the row, the Lascar's fight was merely the exciting occasion; it has been evident to us for some time that a growing discontent was abroad. I hear some have been foolish enough to ascribe the discontent to the arrival of the ladies; it is the working of the popular mind and passions as to the late war,—humbled at the north but not convinced here, nor, perhaps, anywhere. Now, perhaps, the real difficulties of the China question commence.

The leaders of the patriot party lately applied to the governor for arms: he refused; they requested permission to arm themselves: he evaded this petition; they have now tried fire, and in time may command guns."

DARING ATTEMPT AT HOUSE-BREAKING AND ROBBERY.

At 3 A. M. yesterday morning Captain C. H. and Mrs. Hart heard a noise at their bedroom window on the second floor in a house in the Rua Formosa. Captain Hart got up and took his sword, and he then saw a Chinese youth standing between the window and the curtain; Capt. Hart made a pass at him with his sword, but he supposed the curtain turned off the weapon, and that he did not wound the robber, who, finding he was discovered, immediately jumped through the window into the street on the stones, a height of about 28 feet; Captain Hart had to move round a writing-table, and the thief made his spring before he could collar him. There were two accomplices in the street, one of whom was holding the ladder; the other, when he saw they were discovered immediately ran away. Captain Hart took hold of the ladder, when the Chinese holding it also decamped, and it was drawn up into the house; it is a bricklayer's ladder, rather heavy, requiring two men to draw it up. The man who jumped from the window lay upon the ground for about a minute, and then hobbled away.

This is the most daring attempt at house-breaking and robbery in Macao that it has been our task to record.—Ibid.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 13th Dec., 1842.

At length, after our latest advices from Calcutta are three months, and from Singapore two months old, we have received by the Argo dates from the former to the 11th Oct., and the latter 10th Nov. We have by this opportunity received the Sing. Free Press of 3d and 10th November, and observe that the following vessels had arrived there from this—Oct. 30th, Wm. Sharples, Salopian, Isabella Thompson; Nov. 4th, Caledonia, 5th, Harriet Scott, Shah Alam, Coringa Packet; 8th, Esmeralda, Geo. Armstrong, H. M. S. Modiste, M. S. Elphinstone, Intrepid, Mala; 9th, H. M. S. Blenheim, B. M. B. Cruiser. We have with much pleasure extracted from these papers the Indian News, from which it will be seen that after some hard fighting the English were again in possession of Cawbul and Ghuznee. Some of the prisoners had been recovered, but the greater number still remained under control of Akbar Khan. We regret to learn from private letters, extract from which we have been kindly favored with that a heavy gale had done much damage to the shipping in the Bay of Bengal, as will be seen from the following:

Extract of letter from Calcutta dated 9th Oct. 1842.

"The 'Nabob' has put back from sea, she arrived off Calcutta last night in a sinking state in tow of a Steamer, she was bound to China. This morning's Semaphore announces the 'Eliza' put back totally dismasted, she sailed for China a few days ago. Very bad weather must have been experienced at the Sandheads. Two Arab ships totally dismasted are announced in the Eastern Channel. The 'Bintang' a new vessel built for the Straits trade, has returned leaky. The 'Madagascar' has 6 feet water in her hold, and the 'Fairfield' has lost all her top masts. The 'City of Poonah' I am glad to learn had reached Madras in safety, she had bad weather outside and threw overboard 200 Bags of Jute, Spars &c."

RIOT AT CANTON.—We last week laid before our readers such particulars of the riots at Canton on the 7th and 8th of this month as had then reached Macao. Since then of, course more details of these disastrous events have been received, and we also copy from the Register a letter written by an eyewitness giving a full description. Our impression that this riot, or it may perhaps even be called insurrection, was not a momentary ebullition of feeling, nor the consequence of the quarrels between the lascars and Chinese, has become more strengthened by all we have heard, and we cannot but suspect that the project to destroy the English factory had been for sometime entertained by a party at Canton, and that its execution may perhaps have been prematurely hurried on by circumstances. The fact that the flagstaff in front of the British hong was first set fire to, and of the mob being even ardent that the fire should not spread beyond the English factory, are proofs that the rage of the populace was chiefly directed against the English or their property, and it is indeed a fortunate circumstance that the weather happened to be so calm and clear, for had there been any wind, no matter from what quarter, little doubt can be entertained but that the fire which has now destroyed only three honges, would have communicated to the remaining ten and to those of the hong-merchants, in which case the loss of property would have been enormous. Fortunately, at the time of this riot occurring, but few of the Factories, which were all more or less injured in May last year by the populace, were inhabited; the Creekhong was without inhabitants; only one house in the Dutch and four in the English hong were occupied; nor was there, we are told, much property in the godowns formerly belonging to the Company. The most sensible loss on this occasion has been that of a considerable quantity of Specie, said altogether to amount to about $50,000, which was plundered by the mob, and became a frequent cause of contention between them, each thief as soon as he had carried off any portion of the booty, being in his turn attacked and rifled by his brother thieves. This scene of riot and disturbance lasted until about 10 o'clock of the morning of Thursday, when at last the authorities interfered, and soldiers were ordered to disperse the mob, and this was then effected without difficulty. It was even said that summary capital punishment had been dealt upon some of the offenders, and their heads exposed as a warning in Hog-lane. It is however a singular coincidence that the number of heads and of those of the mob found dead in front of the factories, is the same, namely five, and the suspicion that the heads of the already dead were made to serve on this occasion seems not to be ill founded, since during the then temper of the populace, and the very slender authority the government seemed to possess, the latter would hardly have ventured on inflicting such summary punishment.

SEE SUPPLEMENT.

On the following morning (Friday the 9th) daylight discovered the H. C. Steamer Proserpine anchored in front of the Factories, and her opportune arrival (with Sir Hugh Gough and suite on board whose departure hence for Canton, we mentioned last week) caused no small excitement, as no doubt the guilty Chinese fancied that she would immediately open fire upon the town. The shopkeepers began to carry off their goods, and people tried to get as much as possible out of the Steamer's way. In the course of the morning Sir Hugh Gough had an interview with the authorities at Canton, at which these are understood to have expressed their regret at what had happened, to have excused it with their want of power over the excited people, and to have offered compensation for the damage done. A fast boat had on the day previous been despatched from Canton for Sir Henry Pottinger at Hongkong, but this, singular enough, was not allowed to pass down the river by the Chinese cruisers, and the man to whom the despatch had been entrusted, with an offer of $40 for its safe delivery at Hongkong, came back to Canton a day or two after, stating that the letter had been taken from him by the Mandarins. Up to the last accounts from Canton (the 13th) no communication. It was understood had been received there from Hongkong, but according to our accounts from the latter place, the rumours that a strong force was immediately to proceed to Canton are without foundation. Sir Hugh Gough, leaving the Proserpine steamer at Canton, had left for Hongkong in the schooner Parados.

Such events as the late riot at Canton prove how very unsafe it now has become not only as a place of residence for foreigners, but as a deposit of commercial property as the slightest pretext may, and will, we doubt not, cause a repetition of such dangerous scenes, and they may very likely end still more destructively. If Canton is to remain a port for foreign commerce, it seems to be quite necessary that foreigners there should also have the means of defending themselves against the people, and a fort and garrison would become indispensable. The arrangement of the details of the treaty of peace has by this event become more complicated, if indeed the Chinese are sincerely bent upon accomplishing it. There can be no doubt that among the people much dissatisfaction exists on account of the success of the British arms, and that many of them ascribe the failure on their own side, and probably not unjustly, to the incapacity and venality of their officers, who, they say, only consume their substance in time of peace, whilst against an enemy they are unable to protect them, amusing nevertheless the emperor with false tales of their own achievements, thereby averting not only the punishment so justly their due, but even obtaining honors and rewards they have but ill deserved. Mortified vanity has also no small share in causing the hatred against the English so lately manifested, and so plainly expressed in the manifesto we published last week from the Repository. We can, however, hardly believe that after the severe lesson read to them, the high officers of state or the Imperial government should be desirous of again plunging the country into war by nonfulfilment of the treaty; yet, accounts lately received from Canton make it almost appear that the former pacific professions of the Peking government were as hollow as they were during the memorable exchange of notes between the Imperial Commissioner Keshen, and H. M. late Plenipotentiary Capt. Elliot, and that, since so great a proportion of the force has left the north, the Court may again flatter itself, that in a second trial of strength, it may fare better than in the first. The circumstance which has caused our suspicion that the Chinese government does not intend with good faith to fulfil the conditions of the treaty, is the report brought from Canton, that Elepoos, the Imperial Commissioner, hitherto daily expected to arrive for the arrangement of details, is said, when not many days journey from Canton, to have received orders immediately to retrace his steps. If this should prove true, it is very probable that another campaign will become necessary, it going a great way to convince us that the Chinese are not nearly enough humbled to understand why such important concessions should be made to a foreign nation upon which, to within the last few years, they have looked with sovereign contempt. We sincerely hope to find the report from Canton as well as our apprehensions without foundation, for there is no saying what may be the consequences to China should the war again be kindled.

Although the greatest portion of the people in and near Canton may view any nearer intercourse between foreigners and Chinese, with apprehension, it is yet consoling to find that there is a party holding a different opinion and that this party has published a counter-manifesto, in answer to the one already mentioned, and of this a translation for which we are indebted to the kindness of a friend, will be found below. If the note appended to that document is to be trusted, this paper has had great effect upon the minds of the people, and influenced the opinions of many; but we rather suspect the note to be not much more than a flourish of vanity of the author of the paper itself, who is pleased to ascribe probably greater effects to his eloquence than the facts warrant. The last accounts from Canton are silent as to any revolution in the feelings of the populace in favor of foreigners; they, on the contrary, state that the excitement was still apparently increasing, that all the streets leading to the factories continued filled with a mob, and that foreigners could not walk even a few steps into the backstreets without being jostled and insulted. Most of the property and books had been removed from the Factories on ship board, and those dwelling within them were quite prepared to be driven thence. We may in fact now expect a repetition of the disorders of the 7th and 8th of this month.

After writing the above, the same friend who has favored us with the translation of the protest to the memorable "Proclamation of the people and gentry" has also been kind enough to send us an edict from the Vice-Roy and Foo-yuen, against that same proclamation, which will be found below. The Chinese are such consummate actors that it requires great skill to find out whether they perform natural or studied parts, and it would be impossible to say, with any degree of certainty, how far the government may have instigated, or be implicated in, the late outrages at Canton. It is singular that their soothing edict appeared only a day before the factories were burned, and does almost seem to be intended for nothing better than a blind; the poor old man of 89 years of age is blamed as the instigator! However this may be, a day's later accounts from Canton than above alluded to have since been received, and it is reported that the Imperial Commissioner Elepoos has really been ordered to return, and an Imperial edict has been received (dated 26th Oct.) according to which Newkeen, one of the Imperial Commissioners, has been stripped of his rank, for having signed the treaty. If all this be true, the Chinese war must be begun over again, since it seems that the removal of part of the forces from the north has again filled the Chinese in office with their blustering presumption. Nothing, supposing these reports to be true, will now keep the Celestial Empire within bounds, but the taking into their own hands, by the English, some considerable portion of the Country.

The mob at Canton continued still very mischievous, and was threatening the factories; a large force of soldiers had however collected, and kept their immediate vicinity clear of the people. It was however said that the people and villagers from the surrounding districts were marching up to Canton, so that we may next have to report a conflict between them and the troops. The Steamer Proserpine arrived here from Canton last night, having there been relieved by the Newen; the former left again with Sir Hugh Gough for Hongkong a few hours after her arrival.

Howqua's son, who our readers may recollect, was with the Hongmerchants Sanqua, and two linguists sent by order of the Imperial government sent to Hong-chow-foo, some months since, has with one of the linguists returned to Canton. Sanqua also is daily expected.

ANSWER TO THE MANIFESTO OF THE GENTRY AND PEOPLE OF AND NEAR CANTON, INIMICAL TO FOREIGN INTERCOURSE.

Published at Canton

Whoever has studied the writings of Confucius well knows his words. "That the man who does not feel any anxiety about what is far off will without fail have sorrow near by;" and again "Be harmless, and then you will be undisturbed." Whoever carries out these two principle of anxiety and harmlessness to their full extent, there can be no doubt, is prepared for every emergency. At this time, the patriotic gentry and people have unitedly led on and excited each other to protect themselves against the foreigners; and to prepare themselves for any affair that might happen before it came. They simply wish to remove every source of anxiety, however remote, and thus they probably expect to prevent all sorrow that may be near. Such conduct indeed bears the semblance of the greatest wisdom, but those who act thus have not examined very deeply, nor have they looked to the bottom of the matter. We somewhat suspect they have lost their harmlessness, and obtained instead an empty disquiet.

Now, for natives and foreigners together to enjoy a benevolence high as heaven, and submit upon a kindness like the earth for thickness, cannot be regarded as violating the dictates of reason. Can it be supposed that every individual in this land always fully practices the requirements of virtue? Or must we also conclude that every English foreigner sets at naught the principles of common sense and reason? Have the patriotic gentry and people never yet heard what Mencius said? In the days of the Eastern Chou dynasty, the state Tsü was still numbered among uncivilized and barbarous states, but he thus speaks, "Chin Liang was a native of Tsü. He came northward to study in the middle kingdom, and among all those at the north who studied with him, not one could compare with him." We beg you who are learned seriously to consider this expression. If these English foreigners possess the military strategy which we know they do, it is not so entirely certain that they do not also possess literary rules. When they were carrying on the attack against the city of Canton, in the second, third, and fourth months of last year, can you remember one instance of their soldiers having disorderly murdered a man? Or, in all their successive enterprises and engagements in the provinces of Fukien, Chekiang, and Kiangnan, can you call to mind one instance of one of their soldiers having killed a person against the rules of war?

Confucius has observed, "In my intercourse with men, whom do I traduce or whom do I laud? Now, if you will but observe the successive acts of these English, you will probably find that every act has not been so utterly opposed to reason, nor so completely against common sense (as you seem to imagine). Their wish now to come up to the provincial city and dwell among us, must and will be made a subject of mutual deliberation, in which the feelings and desires of both parties will be amicably consulted; and after which both can live together neighborly. There is no evidence that they intend to come and by violence carry their point.

If however you suppose otherwise, can you imagine that the English foreigners, during the long time they have had intercourse with us, have had no spot, not even a foothold, on which to erect their dwellings, but that now they are compelled to put forth their strength and take forcible possession of this place, that they may have a quiet place to reside in? Whenever a man of talents undertakes a business, he ought repeatedly to turn it over and reflect upon it again and again, in order that he may completely exhaust whatever is praiseworthy and good in it, neither injuring himself nor others, but accomplishing the whole without detriment to anyone.

Now those who have set in motion and carried on this affair, have not merely acted upon what they themselves saw and knew to be true, but hearkening to rumors and dark surmises, they have acted thus impetuously and recklessly of all consequences. They have assumed to themselves the name of the patriotic gentry and people, and have everywhere posted up their manifestoes. They have raised the cry, "Guard against the foreigners," but really they only wish to stir up commotion; they wish to be reckoned as those who quiet the people, but they are in truth no otherwise than public demagogues; every wise man thoroughly sees through their intentions.

We have reflected upon this matter, looking at it in all lights; there is, in fact, nothing to cause apprehension in the country, but these factious people themselves are trying to stir up a commotion. Where then is the use of making such a buzz about this affair?

This is a public statement by the learned scholars of Canton.—(See Note.)

Note.—This was posted up in the Minglun Hall on 2d December, upon which day there was a public meeting there; many of the patriotic gentry and people seeing it, immediately left the assembly; while others were irritated to furious raving. Some said its sentiments were exceedingly proper and reasonable; and others praised the style as very nervous, and took copies of it away with them? Some there were who wished to tear it down, while others carefully guarded it and would not suffer it to be destroyed. There were on that day not less than several thousand persons assembled at the Minglun Hall, all excited to the highest pitch of anger against the English, but on seeing this placard, they looked at each other in amazement, and full one half of them left the place.

PROCLAMATION.

Kó kung and Liáng Páucháng, respectively governor and lieutenant governor of Kwangtung, &c. Herby issue a clear proclamation to all the intelligent gentry, that they do not listen to incendiary reports which may inveigle them.

It is well known, that last year during hostilities, whoever of the gentry made out plans or devised schemes, which could be acted up, that we selected and availed of them; and also whoever of the brave militia came forward to be drilled and exercised, that we then employed them to the uttermost. We have now respectfully received his majesty's commands, granting to the English his soothing kindness, and that trade may be conducted as before. All scholars, officers and common people, ought therefore respectfully so accord with these arrangements of his imperial majesty, and not promulgate different opinions and counsels.

However, at this time, there is Ye Xungtsai and others with him, who have falsely taken upon themselves the name of the Public Assembly Hall, and have secretly printed a public manifesto. They have endeavored to raise and organize troops, and to subscribe for and collect money, which is full evidence that they really mean to excite a commotion.

Wherefore we issue this proclamation to all gentry, scholars, tradesmen and people, that each of you most carefully watch over himself and his family, nor on any account listen to these seditious investigations, lest you involve yourselves in legal criminality.

It is that we may quiet and allay the minds of

* So we translate Minglun Táng. This is the name of a hall in Canton, in which the people assemble to consult upon their grievances, and make their representations to the emperor or to his officers. There is such a hall in every city and town in the empire, and assemblies in them for political purposes are allowed by the Penal Code.

people, that we, the governor and lieutenant-governor, now publish this special and clear proclamation. Whoever presumptuously disregards it, we shall instantly seize, and at the same time bring his offence to his majesty's knowledge. Do not therefore say that we have not told you beforehand. A special proclamation. Dec. 6, 1848.

Note. This proclamation was posted up in the Public Assembly Hall.

Ye Yangtsai is a native of the district of Tungkwan, upon whom the degree of master of arts was conferred by his majesty. On account of his age, 89, he could not go up to the capital, and therefore has not received, as has been falsely stated, the honor of a Hánlin.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED

December, 9. (B.) James Matheson. Liverpool.
13. " Arun, Kellick. Singapore.

SAILED

2. (B) Frankie Cowasjee, Edwards, Sing. & Cal.
10. " Futlay Mombarrich, do. do.
11. " Hebe, Both, Singapore.
12. " H. M. St. Viscen, Comr. Bayes, Sing. & Bombay.
13. (B.) Hebriden, Melville, London.
14. " Pellicy, McDonald, Manila.
16. " Fortitude, do.
17. " Hope, Goes, do.

UNDER DESPATCH

For Singapore.—Intrepid, Maiz, Penang, Colombo.
For Madras.—Weraff.
For Bombay.—Anthony Anderson, Prince of Wales (on the 19th.)
For London.—Ellora.
For Liverpool.—John O'Gawnt about the 15th.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia, Affiance, Mary Ann Edie, Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Boltour, Athenian, Madras, Ursula, Bella Marina, Willie the Wisp, Liverpool, & Arce, Orestes, Cristopher Rawson, Ann Jane, Coromandel, Childers, Edward Boustend Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Reflex, Geo Wallis, Pepley.
From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abrahams, Middlethian, England.
From Calcutta.—Dido, Clown, Victory, Bengal Packet, Eliza, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine, Anonyma.
From Singapore.—Waterloo.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 4th August. SINGAPORE, 10th Nov.
UNITED STATES, July 15. MANILA, 20th Nov.
CALCUTTA, 11th Oct. AMOY, 3d December.
BOMBAY, 29th Sept. CHUAN,
JAVA, 9th Oct. NANKING,

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNERS.
Australasian Pa.	—	Nichols,	Dent and Co.
Arun,	—	Kellock,	"
Arethusa, (cket	—	Christian,	"
Abberton,	451	Catt,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Anty Anderson	498	Spitt,	Macvicar & Co.
Alex. Baring,	—	Hale,	Russell and Co.
Arrow,	—	Geare,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ann Lockerby	—	Wightman	"
Anne Mary,	—	Rackham,	"
Bckghamshire	1488	McGregor	"
Bucephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Baboo,	—	Stewart,	Dirom and Co.
Birman,	—	Cleland,	Holliday, Wise & Co.
Black Swan,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
British Isle,	—	Graham,	Fletcher, Larkins & Co.
Columbus,	—	Short,	Dirom and Co.
Colombia,	—	Major,	H. Pybas.
Chanticleer,	—	Orange,	Henry Gribble.
Christina,	—	Primrose,	Turner and Co.
Clelydra,	—	Wishart,	Dent and Co.
Culdes,	—	Campbell,	"

Cacique,	—	Man, (ger	C. Fearon.
*Charlotte,	—	Liebschwa	Jardine Matheson & Co.
*Cherokee,	—	McKellar,	D. & M. Rustonjoe & Co.
Drogan,	—	Johnson,	"
Devon,	—	Mallory,	Fox Rawson and Co.
*Dindem,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	"
Elizabeth,	—	Morris,	"
Equestrian,	801	Cromorty,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Edinburgh,	1414	Paterson,	"
Elphinstone,	—	—	Dent & Co.
Foam,	—	Greig,	Dallas and Co.
Frances Ann,	—	Thomson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
*Fort William,	1248	Hogg,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Ganges,	—	Walker,	"
*Gemini,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
*Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
*Greiciun,	—	Watt,	"
*Gulastre,	—	wiloughby	Dirom and Co.
*Hero of Malown	—	Whetten,	"
Hongkong,	—	Fowler,	H. Holgate.
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury	G. Nye Jr.
Hymalaya,	—	Burn,	"
*Hindustan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Islay,	—	Galt,	A. A. de Mello.
Inglis,	—	Isaacson,	"
John Calvin,	—	Koor,	Jardine M. & Co.
James Matheson	—	whitcomb	Dirom and Co.
John Moor,	—	Berg,	H. Rustonjoe.
June,	—	Robertson	J. Burd and Co.
*John O'Gawnt,	—	Freeman,	Turner & Co.
*Litherland,	—	Lewis,	Jardine M. & Co.
Lady Leith,	—	Lawrence,	"
*Lady Clarke,	—	Manton,	Turner and Co.
Lady of St Kilda	—	Worsell,	"
*Lord Eldon,	—	Spruue,	Lindsay & Co.
Maia,	—	Brown,	D. & M. Rustonjoe Co.
Minerva,	—	Hart,	Dent and Co.
Manly,	—	—	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	Holton,	W. Scott.
Mary Anne,	—	Rowe,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Matilda,	—	Shettler,	"
Malacca,	—	Purdie,	"
Medusa,	453	Fawcett,	Lindsay & Co.
Mellish,	—	Kirk	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Osprey	—	Terry,	"
Orator,	—	Jones,	"
*Prince of Wales	—	Wharton,	"
Parrock Hall,	—	Gray,	Turner & Co.
Quentin Leitch	—	—	D. & M. Rustonjoe Co.
Royal Exchange	—	MacKay,	Jardine M. & Co.
Raymond,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Furlongjoe.
Raparell,	—	Ross,	C. H. Hart.
*St. Lawrence,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
Siam,	—	Smith,	"
Semiramis,	365	Cairnie,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Snipe,	—	High,	Hugheson Brothers.
Susan,	—	Neatby,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Urgent,	—	Thompson	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Victoria,	—	Mordant,	Dent and Co.
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran Jr.
Wm. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Weeraff,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wm. Hyde,	—	Seward,	"
Wanderer,	—	Smith,	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
*Levant,	Faulk,
*Ann MacKinn,	Vasmer,
Probus,	Sumner,
Grafton,	Gardener,
Panther,	Martin,
*Valparaiso,	Lockwood,
Lowell,	Peirce,
Mary Ellen,	Land,
Splendid,	Gole,
Carolina,	Dumarez,
*Delhi,	Poor,
*Akbar,	Hepburn,
*Loma,	Oscar,
*Niantic,	Oneida,
Occur,	Jessore,
Watkins,	Russell and Co.

FRENCH.

Fr. Frig. Erigone,	44,	Captain Cécille.
Fr. Corv. Favorite,	24,	Commander Page.
L'Orient,	—	Lagravere Dent and Co.
Spain.	—	Cucullis, A. Cucullis.
Spain.	—	Bremer.
Margarethe,	—	Klenke, Jardine M. and Co.

* At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDWARD MOLLAY at the Canton Press Office, Po-do Monte.

NOTICE.—The undersigned has this day transferred the business hitherto conducted by him in China, to Mr. JOHN SILVERLOCK.

W. H. HUGHES.

WITH reference to the above, the undersigned will carry on the business hitherto conducted by Mr. W. H. HUGHES in China, from this date.

JOHN SILVERLOCK.

Macao, December 19th, 1842.

NOTICE.

CÓPIA DE DESPACHOS.

Conformando-me com o accordo dos Credores a f— e quem apresentará em consequencia da citação de f— ordinario pelo despacho de f— nomeio a ALEXANDRE MATHESON, G. T. BRAINE, Administradores da Massa fallida, e os autorizo para venderem os bens, arrecadarem as dividas, vender os papéis &c., em conformidade do mesmo accordo, para depois darem conta da liquidação: o Escrivão os notifique para tomarem conta deste encargo. (Assinado) BASTOS.

Macao, 17 de Novembro de 1842.

Translation.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting of the creditors of FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co., I hereby appoint ALEXANDER MATHESON and G. T. BRAINE, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate, and I empower them to dispose of the Assets, receive all debts due to the Estate, examine the papers &c., in conformity with the said resolutions, and to give an account hereafter of the realizations. The Clerk will notify this to the parties that they may take charge accordingly.

Macao 17 Nov. 1842. (Sgd.) BASTOS.

In pursuance of the above, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims upon the Insolvent Estate of Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co. to present the same within 2 months of this date, and all persons indebted to the said Estate to make immediate payment to Mr. Henry Fessenden at the office formerly occupied by Messrs Ferguson, Leighton & Co.

ALEX. MATHESON, } Trustees.
GEORGE T. BRAINE, }

Macao, 26th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDEOP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maulmein, and in that of RUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Piaseg, 10th June, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE at Bombay, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 22nd June, 1841.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions, received, and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Granite Godowns at Hongkong, on moderate terms; apply upon the premises No. 1 Albany Godown, or to JOHN BURD & Co. Queen's Road.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 24th November, 1842.

STORAGE AT HONGKONG.—Cotton will be received into Godowns at the monthly rent of eight cents per bale, charges, lighterage, coolie, hire &c. &c., not to exceed nine cents per bale for receiving, and same for shipping apply to Hongkong, Sept. 1, 1842. C. V. GILLESPIE.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 36 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to F. H. TIEDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.
Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the premises to N. DUNS, or to G. FEARON,—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

HINDUSTAN INSURANCE SOCIETY OF CALCUTTA

1840 & 1844.

THE undermentioned having been appointed AGENTS in China for the above Society, are prepared to receive applications for Insurance of such risks as by the Regulations of the Society they are authorized to take Policies are to be made payable either in London, Calcutta, Bombay, Singapore, or China.

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22d Dec., 1842.

Agents in China.

FOR SYDNEY CALLING AT HOBART TOWN IF SUFFICIENT INDUCEMENT OFFERS.

THE A I British Brig "ISLAY," Capt. GALT, has the greater part of her cargo engaged, and will be despatched on the 8th January 1843. For freight apply to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 23rd December, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship "ARIST ROMAN," of 770 Tons, Capt. LUGER, will have early despatch. For freight apply to

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British built Brigantine BLACK SWAN, 4 years old, now lying in the Type; apply to

C. H. HART.

Macao, 8th Dec. 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A I British built Bark BIRMAN, 544 Tons, captain J. CLELAND, apply to

HOLLIDAY, WISE & Co.

Macao, 3d December, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A I ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HERO OF MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Canton, 26th June, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A I barque "CHANTICLEER," captain GRANGE, 250 tons O. M. and 280 N. M. now lying in the Type and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to

HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship FORTS, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MULLENBOY DUNBARIE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office.

Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 60 tons burthen, 2 years old. Apply to

JOHN BURD, at Hongkong.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

TO LET.—The House lately occupied by H. J. LEIGHTON Esq., situated in the Rua de Hospital, till the 1st June 1843. Possession given immediately, apply to

HENRY FESSENDEN.

Macao, 24th December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the French Ship L'ORIENT, Capt. Lagravier, ENGLISH NEWCASTLE COAL, at 75 cents per Picul, in bags. Apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED FOR SALE.—A Few pieces of Merino; Long and short Gloves and Mittens; Wide and Narrow Ribbon; Felt and superfine Silk Hats, and a few fresh Fine Cheeses.

also,

Superior Fles and Brown Sherry; Double barrelled Fowling Pieces and Pistols, Shooting, and a small quantity of fresh American Beef and Pork. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—A Printing Establishment complete with a full assortment of types—two Presses, &c. Apply to the EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

FOR SALE IN THE TYPE.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal Rice at very moderate rates. Apply to captain GALT on board the "ISLAY" in the Type, or to

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to

DIROM & Co.

Macao, 25th October, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Bally Rice, COCONUT OIL, COFFEE, Java ARABIC in cases and chests, Singapore BEANS and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old RUM and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to

JOHN BURD & Co.

Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842.

FOR SALE.—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to

J. A. DUREAN, Jr.

Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—Europe Rope from 1 to 4 inches, 1 ANCHOR, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3s. Manila CIGARS in whole and half boxes. Apply to

JOAO BARRETTO.

Macao, Oct. 8, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE.—Rope from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 15th July, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Dunstable, also, Boy's HATS. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 10th Sept. 1842.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers. Dutch and English SHEATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz; and NAILS; apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 16th Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BEANS, 35 to 37 foot long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to

JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 24th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADRIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRIS & Co.; apply to

DENT & Co.

Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner

ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—A Rifle and a few pairs double and four barrelled PISTOLS, from Sam Neck, London, in complete. Apply to Macao, Aug. 27, 1842.

Mr. A. GRANDPRE.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS.

BILLS ON LONDON.

E. L. CO'S DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to

Macao, 4th March, 1842. RUSSELL & Co.

FOR SALE.—At the Gooddowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz.—

Most Splendid French PIRE GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 80 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed Lamps, with Spire Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very neat new Fayence Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Muscatatam SAUT in quart bottles, a 4/3 per bottle.

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases.

CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do.

CLARET 3 do. do.

SHERRY, PALE in Hbds.

SULTZER WATER new.

ORIENTAL STORES late imports.

BIRD-INDICATORS, PORK in barrels.

COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co.

Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior BARK PALE

ALL, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine

flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London

bottled SHERRY, PORTER, & PORT WINE, SULTZER

water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL TURpentine, English and Russian CANNAS, TWINE, Manila

and English CORDAGE, SHEATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for Jaws and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 30th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

LOTTERY.

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's.

FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS,

AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY.

OF 1843, of all Prizes.

[It is the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and

Co. of No. 91, Fawcett Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support, or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mofussil

Agency for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial

Lotteries from the Presidencies of Bengal,

Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, Chinn, &c., it is purposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived there, towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund;

only for the accommodation of those permanent

Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans

of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe,

or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate; or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring

Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency

Interest and Commission.]

9,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt.

Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto,

for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes,

only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co's FIRST CALCUTTA

UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL

BIENNIAL LOTTERY OF 1843,

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843;

valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket; divided into 2,000

Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50)

per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostentatiously dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned

Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless

Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal; and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage,

SCHEME.

1 Prize of..... 200 Tickets.

1 ditto..... 100 ditto.

1 ditto..... 50 ditto.

1 ditto..... 25 ditto.

1 ditto..... 12 ditto.

1 ditto..... 6 ditto.

1 ditto..... 3 ditto.

1 ditto..... 3 ditto.

10 ditto of 1 Ticket each..... 10 ditto.

20 ditto of 1 ditto..... 10 ditto.

30 ditto of 1 ditto..... 10 ditto.

40 ditto of 1 ditto..... 10 ditto.

50 ditto of 1 ditto..... 10 ditto.

100 ditto of 1-16 ditto..... 10 ditto.

320 ditto of 1-32 ditto..... 10 ditto.

1280 ditto of 1-64 ditto..... 23 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances..... 490 Tickets.

Reserved, of the First Calcutta

Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes: only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, .. 100 ditto.

Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mofussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co.'s letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in on eof the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomps Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

6.—As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands

7.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mofussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

8.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

9.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

10.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

11.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this. Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly.

N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

MR. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 60 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continue the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, .. 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion. *
The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
" for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

Latest Europe News.

(From the Monthly Overland Mail, Sept. 6.)

HER MAJESTY'S VISIT TO SCOTLAND

DEPARTURE OF HER MAJESTY FROM WINDSOR.

CASTLE.—WINDSOR, August 29th.—Her Majesty and His Royal Highness Prince Albert breakfasted this morning at a quarter past four o'clock, the hour of five having been arranged as the period for the departure of the court for the Slough station.

Her Majesty arrived at Slough in less than fifteen minutes from the time of leaving the Castle. The special train was there in readiness, with the steam well up. Her Majesty, his Royal Highness Prince Albert, and the royal suite, immediately upon alighting, took their seats in the state carriage, and in less than two minutes from the time of Her Majesty's arrival the Queen was en route for Paddington.

Precisely at ten minutes before seven o'clock the royal carriage, containing Her Majesty and Prince Albert, arrived at the spot for embarkation at Woolwich, and the Queen and her royal consort were received with due military honors, the band of the royal marines playing the national anthem. Prince Albert alighted first from the carriage, and Her Majesty was handed down the steps by his royal Highness on one side, and his royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge on the other. An Admiralty barge was alongside the Royal George yacht, and Her Majesty mounted the accommodation-ladder, and handed on board by Prince Albert and Lord Adolphus Fitzclarence.

The members of Her Majesty's household who accompanied the Queen and Prince Albert, included the Duchess of Norfolk, lady in waiting; hon Matilda Paget, maid of honor in waiting; Mr George Edward Anson, treasurer to Prince Albert; Major General Wemyss, equerry to the Queen; Colonel Bouvier, equerry to Prince Albert; and Sir James Clark, physician to Her Majesty.

On leaving Woolwich the royal yacht (towed by the Government Monkey steam tug) was preceded by the Lightning and Black Eagle Government steamers.

As the squadron neared the Camperdown, at the Nore, the admiral came off in his barge, and paid his respects to Her Majesty as the royal yacht proceeded on its way.

HER MAJESTY'S ARRIVAL IN SCOTLAND:

EDINBURGH.—September 1st.—The royal yacht approached Granton pier this morning about eight o'clock towed by the Black Eagle and Shearwater steamer. A few minutes past eight, the royal yacht came alongside of Granton pier, and Her Majesty and his royal highness Prince Albert immediately afterwards landed, in quite a private manner. Her Majesty entered an open carriage and four, Prince Albert taking his seat on her left hand. The Queen was attired in a pale blue dress with a pink satin faced bonnet and a white lace shawl lined with pink. Notwithstanding the early hour of the morning, and the dullness of the weather, thousands were assembled of the pier, and received the royal pair with loud and enthusiastic shouts of welcome. Her Majesty bowed in the most courteous and affable manner to the crowds on each side. Two other open carriages, containing the ladies in waiting, and others of the royal suite followed Her Majesty's carriage.

Her Majesty and Prince Albert arrived at Dalkeith palace about eleven o'clock, entering by the Dugton approach. The beautiful demesne was thronged with ladies and gentlemen, admitted by tickets, who enthusiastically cheered the royal pair. Immediately on the auspicious event being announced in Dalkeith, the bells rang a merry peal, and a union jack was hoisted on the steeple. The town was crowded to excess, and great preparations are making for a general illumination.

We regret to say the Her Majesty suffered a good deal from sea-sickness during the voyage, which compelled her, as far as possible, to keep on deck, where a couch was prepared for her accommodation.

The Prince of Wales and the Princess Royal will remain at the Castle under the care of the Dowager Lady Lyttelton, until the return of the Queen, whose absence from England is not expected to exceed a fortnight.

SUMMARY OF HOME INTELLIGENCE.

From the Monthly Atlas, Sept. 6.

It will be seen that a spirit of discontent has strongly manifested itself in our manufacturing districts; that decisive measures have been found necessary to quell the disturbance; that the military have had, of all others, the most distressing duty to perform, that of firing on their countrymen; and that fears have been entertained that a general insurrection in the provinces would occur, seconded by the Chartists in the metropolis. These surmises, however, have not been realised, and at this moment tranquility is gradually being restored, and men are relinquishing the unprofitable warfare against their employers, and their country's law.

We have not inserted all the minutiae of the riotous proceedings, for the details, though necessary for the English reader, are not so far from the Indian, and as long as he is made conversant with the occurrences in his fatherland, and the history of the times, the dilution on disagreeable topics is best avoided. Neither do we profess to enter into political discussions on the causes of the prevalent discontent, for we have pledged ourselves to avoid party controversy, which an argument on the disturbances must produce. It may be well, while on this subject, to state, that we have not rested quite content with mere sympathy for the great distress now existing, but, as a slight encouragement for the best political talent of the day to expound their opinions on the causes of, and remedies for, the prevailing distress, we have offered a premium of ONE HUNDRED POUNDS for the best essay on the subject; and, we sincerely hope, the arguments it may contain, the facts it may demonstrate, and the remedies it may offer, will have the effect of bringing the subject immediately before Parliament when they again assemble; for the growing distress of the people in a small island, increasing in population, will, if it be not checked, come home to the hearth of every individual; and, it is too bad pity for others should only be awakened by suffering ourselves. With these slight references to a subject so rife with melancholy and depressing thoughts, we will dismiss the topic, for we should be indeed unwilling to make a parade and boast of the presentation of a sum which every individual, gifted with the means, should contribute towards the amelioration of his suffering countrymen; then, indeed, an essay would only be required to show the causes for distress, since the remedy, or the temporal one, would be in the vast sum accumulated.

The foreign news of the month will be found fully detailed in other columns of our paper, and, like our home occurrences, they are important and interesting. The death of the Duke of Orleans not only furnished the French press with a subject for discussion and controversy, but the English journalists also entered fully and sympathetically into the melancholy topic. Seldom has an occurrence involved so great a domestic calamity and at the same time produced such political changes, as at once affecting the heart of the nation by the loss, and the interests of the kingdom by its momentary nature.

The news from America is, on the whole, highly satisfactory; but the fact of America being a nation upholding the system of human traffic is a heart-ache to every civilised kingdom of the globe, and unless she will follow the bright example of her mother country, and cease to trade in the bones and sinews of her fellow-creatures, that sincere cordiality so essentially requisite to exist between nations for their mutual well being and support, must, from the nature of men's sympathies, cease to be reciprocated; and if animosity is ever pardonable, it surely is when it extends to those who reduce human nature in the scale of creation; at variance with the laws of humanity and the Divine will. Sweep America, sweep slavery from your soil: nor boast of your laws, your productions, nor your freedom, while you tolerate the manacle and the lash, while you support the barter in human blood, and while the jingle of the letter speaks too eloquently of bondage and degradation.

Parliament closed on Friday, August 12, her Majesty in person addressing the members of the two Houses of Legislature. The account of this last will be found under its proper head; and enters into the minutiae of the lively scene, as well as relating the more sober business which the proceeding involved.

The domestic event, par excellence, of the month is the visit of her Majesty to her Scotch subjects. The embarkation at London; the progress, the arrival, and landing of the royal party have been made the most of by the press. Accounts from the north are dilated on in south, east, and west; and, extracted from a Scotch paper, our readers will find an amusing description of how the authorities were too late to pay their respectful ceremonies to her Majesty—for she was unexpectedly early—and the bustle, hurry, clamour, and driving, occasioned by the early movements of the cortège, must have afforded much merriment to the Queen, for she so conspicuously took the Edinburgh dignitaries by surprise that the wish to sustain the civic honour had only time to be changed into a desire to see the Queen at a distance. Monday last was the day her Majesty, accompanied by Prince Albert, left the Woolwich Dockyard for her Scotch dominions. In other columns will be found the necessary details of her departure and progress. She has the best wishes of all her subjects. May her voyage to and residence in Scotland be most agreeable and beneficial, both to her health and to the feelings and loyalty of our brave and enlightened fellow-subjects! May those who direct the public entertainments and festivals, presentations and congratulations, have the good taste to remember and feel, that this visit of her Majesty is neither of a political nor of a religious character. She is, undoubtedly, to Queen, but she goes to visit the Scotch nobility, and to gratify her love of nature, and her respect for the Scotch character, by gazing on the lakes and mountains of a great and noble land, and by receiving the expressions of homage and loyalty from an enlightened and independent people. She does not go to Scotland at the request of her ministers, or to carry or oppose any measure of a political or ecclesiastical character. We hope this will be steadily kept in view by those who may come in close contact with her Majesty, and that the distress of Renfrewshire, the strike at Glasgow, and above all, the sad disputes between the General Assembly and the civil courts on the question of church patronage, may not be referred to in either addresses of congratulations, or in petitions or memorials. The Queen does not proceed to Scotland with her ministers in her train; and therefore, let her feel that she is a fair and graceful woman, appearing in the midst of a stern and rough, but yet of a loyal and devoted people. A truce to politics as far as the Queen is concerned, during her residence in Scotland. We hope, also, that her Majesty will not be expected to attend at the Presbyterian place of worship, and that her failure to do so will not be attributed to any want of respect on her part to that form of worship which prevails in that portion of her dominions. Her Majesty is the head of the church of England, as well as, we understand, an Episcopalian not less from choice, than from education. If her Majesty should visit Ireland on any subsequent occasion, she would not be expected by the Roman Catholics to be present at the celebration of the mass;—and neither should it be required from her that she should pass by, in Scotland, the church of which she is a member, in order to countenance a form of worship which she does not conscientiously approve. The Scotch are too clever and philosophical a people to be gratified by a homage rendered to their national faith which is not the result of conviction. We have written thus much on this subject because it has been alleged that the General Assembly of Scotland has expressed a wish of involving the Queen in the discussion now going on relative to the church of that country. We cannot believe this report; and at any rate, we are convinced that such men as Dr. Chalmers, whatever their wishes may be, will not so violate the rules of good breeding, national politeness, court etiquette, and the known feelings of the Queen, as to introduce matter to her notice so unpalatable as the church of Scotland's disputes with the civil courts of that country, and even with the decision of the House of Lords.

The increase of diseases brought about by the late warm weather had well nigh occasioned some general anxiety, and in France, and especially at Paris, a vast amount of fever and inflammatory disorders, as well as European cholera had manifested themselves; but the change in the weather to which we have already alluded will speedily put a stop to the progress of disorder, as well as to all causes for alarm.

Another of those infatuated suicides had taken place where the very awfulness of the manner of committing the act seems to be the incentive to its perpetration: we mean another death from precipitation from the Monument. It will be seen that the poor girl was in service, and indiscretion preying on her mind was the cause of self-murder. The Monument is at present closed until a horizontal rail, invisible from the ground, is placed near the balustrade, to prevent the re-occurrence of such an act, and the peculiar effect which such examples produce on similar diseased minds.

We are happy to find that the new world is beginning to operate favourably upon the markets, and to be likely to bring about a supply of much cheaper provisions than we have been hitherto accustomed to believe to be attainable in this country. We learn from Exeter, among a variety of other places, that Mr. J. C. Wellocks, of that city, was on board a vessel in the night of 28th month in the early part of the week which was victualled with excellent beef at Buenos Ayres, the cost of which was a penny a pound in the market there. This beef, after the long voyage it had undergone, was found to be excellent in condition, and of prime quality. The bullock, he learned from the captain, might be purchased alive for five shillings, on condition that the hide, horns, and tallow were returned. This would yield the beef at about a farthing a pound, and by the new process of salting it, enable the merchant to ship it in the prime condition for the English market, paying a handsome profit, after being retailed at three-pence per pound. Looking at all the sources of supply which will grow up with the market, it appears that we shall have to thank Sir Robert Peel for a reduction in the price of food. Fruit, vegetables, butter and cheese, have also become more plentiful, and much more reasonable. The large importation of these articles will of course explain the fact, and we rejoice to know that at least some sort of set off is thus presented in compensation for the trouble, annoyance, and loss occasioned by the INCOME TAX.

The theatrical world is about to awake from its lethargy. Covent Garden was to have opened on Saturday last, the 3d September, but owing to the illness of Miss Adeline Kemble the performances are postponed until Saturday next. The fair songstress is to be the principal attraction, and, we trust, a new comedy by Douglas Jerrold, will be, as his dramas generally are, successful. Drury Lane will commence a winter campaign, under the management of Mr. Macready, a gentleman whose every effort deserves success, since he has fought bravely for the resuscitation of a better and purer dramatic stage representation. The Haymarket proceeds prosperously and quietly on, it being one of the few theatres, indeed the only one which continues open nearly the entire year, and people say when they want to be amused—"Go to the Haymarket."

The summer and harvest of 1842 will long be remembered. We have had the sun to ripen, and the breeze to refresh us;—the hay and the corn harvests have been most productive;—the fruit season has been unparalleled;—and we have now only to hope that the "apple gathering" may be as productive, and as well got in, as the other harvests of wheat and hay. And now, when the warmer rays of the sun are no longer required for ripening and bringing to perfection the productions to be placed in our garners, and when animal life, beginning to sink under a degree of heat to which in these northern climes it is unaccustomed, the season has changed, gentle but continuous rains have descended to gladden man's heart, and to impart vigour and nourishment to the parched ground; and all is again green and bright, healthy and glad. The heat of the weather was, indeed, becoming not only to ourselves but to our immediate continental neighbours a subject of deep anxiety, for vegetable food was rapidly increasing in price when the change took place, which we hailed with delight, and which we record with gratitude. We hope, indeed, that that change will in no measure affect the pleasures and recreations of our young and bonny Queen in her Scottish tour, and that "the weather" may be added to every other agreeable accompaniment to her Majesty's sojourn on the other side of the Tweed. In most countries of Europe the weather during the summer has been much warmer than it is wont to be, and everywhere rich golden harvests; and now we have reason to believe glorious and abundant vintage, will testify to the bounties of that Providence whose kind and paternal protection is extended to all his works.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF PEERS. PROROGATION.

Aug. 12.—Parliament was this day prorogued by the Queen in person.

Her Majesty having taken her seat on the Throne in the House of Lords, directed the Usher of the Black Rod to summon the House of Commons to the bar.

The Speaker, accompanied by an unusually large attendance of members, having reached the bar, proceeded to address her Majesty briefly on the labours of the session, and presented the Appropriation Bill.

The Lord Chancellor, kneeling, presented her Majesty with a copy of the Royal Speech, which she read as follows:—

THE ROYAL SPEECH.

"MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,
"The state of public business enables me to release you from further attendance in Parliament.
"I cannot take leave of you without expressing my grateful sense of the assiduity and zeal with which you have applied yourselves to the discharge of your public duties during the whole course of a long and most laborious session.
"You have had under your consideration measures of the greatest importance connected with the financial and commercial interests of the country, calculated to maintain the public credit; to improve the national resources, and by extending trade and stimulating the demand for labour, to promote the general and permanent welfare of all classes of my subjects.
"Although measures of this description have necessarily occupied much of your attention, you have at the same time effected great improvements in several branches of jurisprudence, and in laws connected with the administration of domestic affairs."

"I return you my especial acknowledgments for the renewed proof which you afforded me of your loyalty and affectionate attachment, by your ready and unanimous concurrence in an act for the increased security and protection of my person.

"I continue to receive from all Foreign Powers assurances of their friendly disposition towards this country.

"Although I have deeply to lament the reverses which have befallen a division of the army to the westward of the Indus, yet I have the satisfaction of reflecting that the gallant defence of the city of Jellalabad, crowned by a decisive victory in the field, has eminently proved the courage and discipline of the European and native troops, and the skill and fortitude of their distinguished commander.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS,
The liberality with which you have granted the supplies, to meet the exigencies of the public service, demands my warm acknowledgments.

"MY LORD AND GENTLEMEN,

"Your will concur with me in the expression of humble gratitude to Almighty God, for the favourable season which his bounty has vouchsafed to us, and for the prospects of a harvest more abundant than those of recent years.

"There are, I trust, indications of gradual recovery from that depression which has affected many branches of manufacturing industry, and has exposed large classes of my people to privations and sufferings which have caused me the deepest concern.

"You will, I am confident, be satisfied on your return to your several counties by the same enlightened zeal for the public interests which you have manifested during the discharge of your parliamentary duties, and will do your utmost to encourage, by your example and active exertions that spirit of order and subordination to the law which is essential to the public happiness, and without which there can be no enjoyment of the fruits of peaceful industry, and no advance in the career of social improvement."

Her Majesty then proceeded to Buckingham Palace, in the same state and attended by the same escort as on her arrival.

The royal cortege was loudly cheered in its progress to and from the House of Lords.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

FRANCE.

—The Chamber are doing just what was expected—nothing. They are now employed on the details of the Regency Bill; and as the true question was, whether M. Guizot should stay in or go out, and as it is settled that he shall stay in, the Chamber, having finished the true purpose of their existence, are now complaining of being kept only to be roasted alive. Politics have perished in Paris; for the human frame cannot support two inflammations at once, and the thermometer stands at 100 in the shade. It is obvious that no man will sit to hear M. Molé read a harangue on the interests of all mankind, while he is forced to inhale an atmosphere ten degrees above blood heat. The rights of man become nonentities to men who feel in the condition of a fried sole; and the gesticulations of that most nervous of patriots, Odillon Barrot, became emphatically ridiculous when they may be attributed to his seat having become a red-hot gridiron. Like the corps qui part of the soldiers, the gallantry of the deputies has turned into the wisdom of a general flight; and France, like young Phaëton, after a vain attempt to set Europe on fire, is now abandoning ambition for the season, and thinking only how to extinguish her conflagration in her own waters. But as there are no rivers in France but the Seine, and as the ocean is prohibited to a Frenchman, the Salins de la rivièr are crowded nightly with a multitude of unequalled An boat, dinghies, and dialogues, since the Gothic invasion.

—The Regency Law was voted on the 30th ult. by the Chamber of Deputies. The numbers were 310 ayes, and 94 noes. The first amendment, which was in favour of the Duchess of Orleans' Regency, was negatived at once. The next was M. de Sade's amendment, which worded the law as applicable solely to the present occasion, and to princes now living. About eighty members voted for M. de Sade's amendment, and about as many for one of M. Barrot's, obliging the Regent to be twenty-five years of age. The entire law was then put to the vote in a house of 404 members, and passed.

—The King, Queen, and royal family left Neuilly on the 23rd ult., for the Chateau of Eu, in Normandy. The Moniteur Parisien states "that their departure had been suspended by the indisposition of the Duke de Chartres (the younger son of the Duke and Duchess of Orleans), but the real cause of the postponement was the illness of her Royal Highness the Duchess, his mother."

—The Duke of Nemours has quitted Paris for Strasburg, to inspect the military divisions in that quarter. His Royal Highness is to visit in succession the camps of Luneville, Rocroy, St. Omer, and Compeigne. He was expected to return to Paris on the 6th or 7th inst.

—The Augsburg Gazette of the 24th ult., states that the Duke of Bordeaux and the Duchess of Angoulême were to have left Toplitz on the 19th ult. The prince was said to have experienced considerable benefit from the use of the mineral waters of that place; but it was, nevertheless, still feared that he would be lame for life.

—In Paris the heat is so intense, ranging, as it does, from 80 to 94, that the theatres are quite at a discount—in fact, totally deserted—while ice flows as profusely in human throats as it does in the bed of the Neva at St. Petersburg, on the first summer's thaw.

—An accident similar to that which at Cherbourg occasioned the mutilation of two artillerymen, occurred at Strasburg, on the 10th ult., during the grand exercises of the artillery of that garrison. Several quick matches that had been introduced in the touch-hole of a howitzer, failed of their effect, owing to the charge not having been rammed home. In remedying this defect, by driving the charge home, the gun went off; the man on the right, who was the most exposed, had his right arm and part of the shoulder carried away, and is not expected to live; the other had his left hand blown off.

—A letter from Paris, of the 6th ult., says, "We are but slowly recovering from the shock occasioned by the lamented death of the Duke of Orleans. The theatres are not yet well attended. One novelty, however—an English pantomime by English performers, at the Variétés—draws crowded audiences; but they (Howel, Mathews, &c.) on one day occasioned great scandal. They refused to play, because—'forsooth—it was Sunday!'"

—M. Thiers arrived in Boulogne on the 26th ult. In the night he left for St. Omer, with the intention of following the route of la Grand Armée to Austerlitz, with the view of making his forthcoming work "Sur l'Empire" as perfect as possible. "He is accompanied by his wife and two secretaries.

—The appeal made by Mlle. Fanny Ellsler against the decision of the Court relative to her breach of contract with the director of the French Opera, has been rejected; and the previous sentence, which condemned her to pay 60,000f. for non-fulfilment of her engagement, confirmed.

—The French squadron, under Admiral Hugon, arrived at Ajaccio, in Corsica, on the 13th ult. It consisted of eight ships of line, two frigates, and a steamer, carrying together 11,000 men, and 910 pieces of artillery. The squadron was to remain at Ajaccio until the 22nd.

—It appears from the Railway Moniteur that a correspondence has taken place between the French and American Governments, on the subject of a steam-boat line between Havre and New York. The French Government proposed that each should supply two or three steamers. The Americans have not yet come to a decision.

—The National announces the death of M. Voyer d'Argenson, "who, although one of the most illustrious and most pure amongst the politicians of the day, concluded his career in obscurity."

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL.

—From Madrid we learn that the heat was much greater than at Paris, and at Seville still more intense. The thermometer (Reaumur) stood at Madrid at 34 degrees (104 of Fahrenheit), and at Seville at 36, or 117½ of Fahrenheit.

—The Madrid Gazette publishes a decree of the Regent fixing the standing force of the army for the present year—namely, infantry, 67,177 men; artillery, 7,899; engineers, 1,239; cavalry 13,760 men, 11,730 horses; reserve, 40,000 men.

—According to a return published in the Gazette, 52,619 lots of national property had been sold, down to the 30th of June last, and their proceeds amounted to 1,980,740,133 reals (nearly 20,000,000l. sterling).

—Some disorders had taken place near Alicante, where the inhabitants of four of the neighbouring districts had combined and joined in an attack on the Government salt works. The assailants succeeded in carrying off a large quantity of salt. The Political chief immediately repaired to the spot, at the head of some troops, and easily succeeded in restoring order and arresting the principal leaders.

—The Private accounts from San Sebastian of the 22nd ult., announce that the Infant Don Francisco de Paula and family left the city on the preceding day for Bilbao, where they intended to remain until the conclusion of the festivities, which were to have commenced on the 25th. The Princes were afterwards to repair to the baths of Cestona, and proceed from thence on a tour through the provinces.

—Some Portuguese banditti having arrested a senator named Saens, from whom they required a ransom 30,000 piastres, the Spanish Government addressed a very energetic note to the Cabinet of Lisbon, threatening to march troops into Portugal in pursuit of the robbers, if similar outrages recurred. The reply of the Portuguese Government was satisfactory. It authorised the Spanish troops to enter its territory, should such acts again come to pass, and forwarded orders to that effect to the frontier authorities.

—The wine-farmers on the Douro had formed themselves into a co-operative association. The distress in the north of Portugal, owing to the failure of the maize crop, had not been at all alleviated. Our correspondent, however, from personal observation and extensive inquiry, announced that the approaching vintage would, in all human probability, be one of the finest that has been witnessed for many years.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The Great Western, which left New York on the 11th ult., brings papers to that day inclusive, with about seventy passengers, among whom is a messenger bearing despatches from Lord Ashburton to the British Government. These despatches are generally believed to be satisfactory and conclusive as regards the principal matters in dispute between this country and the United States. The North-Eastern Boundary question is already arranged to the satisfaction of both parties. The Croce case is also settled, and the case of the Caroline is now being discussed and in the course of adjustment. It is rumoured that the Right of Search question has also been amicably disposed of. The North-Western Boundary question will not be entered into in the present negotiation, as the necessary surveys will be a long time before they are completed.

—Lord Morpeth arrived at Kingston, from Quebec, on the 16th July; and many of the principal inhabitants waited on him. On the 18th, he left the town in the mail-steamer for Toronto, on his way to visit the Manitoulin Island and the upper portion of the Province.

—During the last few days, the guns from the big ships off the Battery have been sounding salutes, at intervals, since the arrival of the Warple, in giving honour to different visitors of distinction. Lord John Hay, commander of the Warple, visited the North Carolina, when fourteen guns were fired. As we saw this gallant officer, in full uniform and one sleeve hanging, step from the barge at the Castle Garden, it brought to mind some thrilling incidents of the late war. Captain Hay was a midshipman on board the Shannon, when she captured the Chesapeake, commanded by Captain Lawrence, who, with the brave Ludlow, died fighting on the deck. This same officer now returns, after a lapse of nearly thirty years, himself a post-captain, and anchors his battle ship in our merry waters, in friendship and in peace.—New York Herald.

—The Warple may be looked for in about ten days or a fortnight, with the Right Hon. Lord Ashburton, from New York, as private letters have been received, stating that unless any unexpected event should occur to prolong his lordship's stay, he would embark for England on or about the 20th of the last month.

—The icebergs continue immensely numerous and large, a few degrees east of the North American coast. They have rendered the summer here unusually cool and stormy.

—The American Tariff Bill is a document which interests the mercantile community in a great degree. Throughout the whole of this tariff, it is observed, that whenever any article is supposed to interfere with American production, the rates of duty laid on are of the most prohibitory character, while the chief incitement appears to have been the exclusion of English manufactured articles, although it has been repeatedly asserted that the views of America were co-operative with British manufacture and industry.

From the Canton Register, 20th Dec.
Peking Gazette.

On the 20th day of the 9th moon (October 23), the imperial edict was received.

The English barbarians have created disturbances on several parts of the coasts for another year. Newkeen was appointed to take charge of the borders, and then promoted to the governorship of the two Keang provinces, and as to the means of guarding and defending, protecting and warding off (danger from the borders) was his especial duty; and I, the emperor, many times gave clear instructions that he should be very careful in keeping strict discipline and a watchful guard always and not be in the least lax and remiss; but the said governor is merely presumptuous and self-confident, and only knew to guard the entrance to Woosung, but now the barbarian ships have entered, and he has not been even able to maintain (Woosung), and then the said barbarians invaded and attacked Chankiang (river) and the capital of the province (Nanking). They (the ships) continued to arrive for several moons, but not the slightest preparations were made; and the country has lost much money through the useless military, which excites the anger and resentment of every man.

At present the English barbarians are tranquillized; and all their ships have left the river and gone to sea. I, the emperor, because of thinking that the black-haired people were in midst of mud and ashes—calamities and distress—could not but bend my will and constrain and force myself to accord with that which Keying and his colleagues had requested, and promise free trade to the English barbarians, and thus cause my people to rejoice in their occupations and dwell in peace, and prevent the recurrence of the calamities of war; and considering the former affairs (the defeats of the Chinese and successes of the English) all that has happened is his fault.

Newkeen is a magnate of the first rank, and has been invested with the important charge of guarding the frontiers; but he has ungratefully nullified my favours in being weak as water in the performance of his duty, and has injured and disgraced the honour and respectability of the nation; if he is not severely punished, how can the laws of the country be illustrated and manifested, and the high officers warned in the proper performance of their usual duties?

I order that Newkeen be deprived of his official rank, and taken into custody to undergo examination; and Keying is to send him under an escort to Peking, to be delivered over to the criminal board for the punishment of his crimes.

Ching Yuktsee (the foyuen of Keangsoo) was also invested with the defence of a place (his province), and I find he remained protecting the provincial capital, Soochow, and did not lead on his troops to battle; his case differs somewhat from that of Newkeen.

Tai Choopee (the tartar general of Nanking) lost the city of Chinkiang; he is also guilty of the crime of not exerting himself in defending his post. I order that they be delivered over to the said board and that each of them be severely punished. Respect this

On the 23d day of the 4th moon (Oct. 26) the imperial edict was received.

At the present time the English barbarians are tranquillized. The regulations of all that concerns the trade, and the proper management of affairs with regard to the tranquillity of future times (i.e. preparations for the defence of the empire: if certain places require troops for defence, send troops; if the material of the army is deficient, increase it; if the forts are not properly situated, then select better sites), are most important questions. Keying has been appointed governor-general of the two Keang provinces; as to the proper management, as regards the future, of the trade of the province to Keangsoo, and with reference to all the circumstances, I order that he meet with Ching Yuktsee (who has been degraded from his rank but retained in office) and Yeupoo (tsetuh or general of Keangsoo), and consult with them on the management.

As to the proper management of the neighbourhood of the Keangpoo (north river) with regard to the future, I further order the said governor and his colleagues to meet with Lo Seang Fan (lieut. governor of Ganhuay) and consult upon the management. As to the two provinces of Chekeang and Fuhkeen, they are places now, within the controul of the said governor; and a long time will be required to settle the affairs of those provinces; all that is right in the relative affairs of those provinces may stand, and what is not right must be corrected; it is also necessary to meet, consult, and devise plans of safe settlement, and cause the barbarian merchants to understand and obey; in the management there must not be two courses of action.

As to the proper management of all the affairs of the trade of the province of Chekeang, with regard to the tranquillity of after times, I also order Keying to meet Newkeen had reported he could defend Woosung.

Lee Yinko (the foyuen of Chek-ang) and consult on the settlement of all matters.

As to the proper management of affairs in the province of Fuhkeen, as regards the tranquillity of the future, I order Eleang (governor of Chekeang and Fuhkeen), Lee Hungsoo (lieut. gov. of Fuhkeen), and Tso Chienpen (tsetuh of Fuhkeen), to exert their whole minds in consulting and managing.

As to the regulations of the said province, I order Eleang to put himself in correspondence with Keying, that affairs may be securely and firmly settled.

The barbarian affairs are now for the first time settled; it is necessary that the governor and his colleagues (Eleang, Keying, &c.) should avail themselves of the circumstance of the time and locality, that their considerations of and provision against probable evils may extend long into the future; for in all cases the mutual tranquillity of the people and the (English) barbarians must be ensured: all must be well and nothing bad, vicious or low.

All these matters must not be managed remotely or carelessly, by which future calamities will be induced.

As to the governor of the two Keang provinces, originally the charge of the yellow river was committed with his duties; but he has now too many affairs to attend to. The business of the repairs of the banks of the yellow river, he is not required to superintend; wait until the consultation on the affairs of those provinces and the methods of management are finished and completed; when again as usual, Keying will be reinstated in the superintendship (of the river). RESPECT THIS.

By John Slade Ed C. R.

CANTON PRESS.
Macao, 24th Dec., 1842.

By the Harlequin from Bombay 14th Oct., the Overland Mail of 6th September has been received, and we have made as many extracts of the European news as our limits would permit. Riots, or almost insurrectionary movements, had taken place in many parts of England and Wales among the labouring people. The workmen began the strike at Staley bridge, and it soon spread to Manchester, Birmingham, Stockport, Preston, Wigan, Oldham, Black burn, Leeds, Huddersfield, Halifax, Bradford, the potteries at Burslem, Henley, Shelton and Dunley, Nottingham, Leicester and South Wales. In most places the military were called out, and in some several lives have been lost, although the parade of strength on the part of the authorities in most instances, we are happy to say, had the desired effect of restraining the rioters from violence. The disturbances had by the last accounts not been altogether suppressed, but nearly so, and many workmen had returned to their work. The crops are represented to have been abundant, and the vintage promises to be the finest of many years past. The heat in England and in many parts of the continent had been excessive. The Queen, as will be seen, was on a tour to Scotland. The French Regency bill had passed into law by a great majority. The accounts from the United States as to the pending negotiations between that Government and Lord Ashburton are favorable, and that nobleman was expected to leave New York in the Warapite frigate on about the 20th August. Our papers from Bombay contain no later intelligence from the seat of war in Cabul than we laid before our readers in last week's paper.

We notice in Singapore the arrival from China, 10th Nov. Red Ray, Davenport, Hero, Madura; 11th, H. C. St. Hoogly; 14th, H. M. Brig Columbine; 15th, Ariel, Ellen; 16th, Poppo; 17th Amazon.

By the last accounts from Canton (20th Dec.), everything there remained quiet, although considerable excitement still seemed to prevail among the populace, which rendered it dangerous for any foreigner to walk to any distance from the Factories into the backstreets. Congratulatory addresses to the mob, for having fired the English Hong, had been stuck on the walls in many places, and we even hear that high rewards have been offered by the gentry and people to whoever would enlist as a soldier in the cause of driving the English from China. All this may be nothing but empty vaporing; but, knowing something of the, at least heretofore, arbitrary sway of the authorities, we must infer from these undisguised expressions of feeling, either that the government is too weak to oppose it, or else that it connives at these popular outbreaks in order to regain a portion of that influence it certainly has lost during the late war, and more perhaps at Canton than at any other place, where the outwardly conduct of Yik-shan the rebel quelling general, and his boasting and false reports to the Emperor, are perfectly well understood, and where on that account very little good will towards the authorities exists. From all we have heard of the late riot at Canton we are still inclined to believe that the burning of the English factory was premeditated, and it was possibly the opportune arrival of the Pranapine steamer that saved the other factories from violence. How will be found the correspondences on the subject of this riot between the British merchants then at Canton, Sir Hugh Gough, and Sir Henry Pottinger, and although we are ready to admit that H. M. Plenipotentiary's answer to the merchants letter can only have been dictated by a sincere desire to smooth, as much as possible any difficulties there may be in the final settlement of the arrangements to be entered into with the Imperial Commissioners, yet such answer, containing as it does heavy accusations against the British merchants, could not be received without a rejoinder. We understand the merchants are ready to bring forward evidence for whatever they have stated; this we have not seen, and cannot therefore judge in how far Sir Henry's acquittal may have been warranted; the statement in the rejoinder, of their advice or assistance never having been asked we believe to be perfectly true, nor do we know in what way such assistance could have been given, all the operations of the war being carried on in the north, and merchants here left to shift for themselves. We shall however not make any more remarks on this correspondence, leaving our readers to judge for themselves from the documents.

We hear that a number of transports, escorted by several ships of war and troopships, altogether upwards of 60 sail, have during the week left Hongkong for Singapore and India. We have not yet received any particulars of these departures.

Loss of the Spanish Race Singular on her passage from Manila to Alcon. The vessel left Manila on the 26th November, and on the 4th December at night spiked an English or American ship, standing the same way as she did. The Singular was supposed to be considerably to windward of the Prata when at daybreak she struck upon it, and was left high and dry on the shoal at low water. The Captain and crew intending to go to the Prata island constructed a raft to enable them to take with them some provisions, and other effects and into the longboat went the Captain, mate and 93 of the crew and passengers, four or five other men in another boat and six in the cutter. The longboat was however unable to reach the land, being by wind and waves driven to leeward, and it was therefore thought best to steer for the coast of China, where they were met by a fishing boat and taken to Macao on the 19th. The Captain says he saw the cutter to leeward of the land under sail; he has seen nothing of the boat, but he thinks it impossible that under the circumstances she could have reached the small island. The cargo of the Singular consisted of rice, opium, cotton, and some gold dust, valued altogether at 45 to 50,000 $. Two foremen have gone with the Captain to attempt saving the cargo. At the place where the Singular struck three anchors belonging to a large ship (probably lost there) were seen.

The weather in the China sea seems to have been very bad. Captain Salado of the Glebe (arrived during the week from Manila) states that he was obliged, three different times, to take shelter under the land of the Island of Luzon, and that very strong South Easterly currents prevailed. The steamer Victoria which left Manila some time since for China has been obliged to put back.

Public Correspondence on the disastrous events in Canton on the 7th and 8th of December 1842.

Corr.

His Excellency, Major General
Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B. &c. &c. &c.
Sir,—The undersigned British merchants in Canton having met to deliberate on their present position, beg leave respectfully to submit that enquiry of the Chinese leads them to believe that the recent attack on the Foreign factories was the result of a pre-arranged determination of the mob, assisted and influenced it is supposed by parties avowed to apprehended foreign innovations; and as the social authorities were grossly unable for a considerable time to quell the disturbance, and did not, in fact, succeed in doing so until after a considerable loss of life and property, we are forced to the conclusion that the British community cannot be considered safe in their houses in Canton, without efficient protection from their own government on the spot.

Although the local authorities have placed a considerable number of soldiers to guard the factories, we do not consider that they can be depend-upon in case of another rising of the people; and others represent considerable bodies of men to be still assembled in the city and neighbourhood of Canton, from whom another attack may, at any moment, take place.

Under these circumstances we beg leave respectfully to solicit Y. E. to allow the steamer Proserpine to remain in front of the factories, should such an arrangement be possible; at any rate until some communication may be received from h. m.'s plenipotentiary affording information to the British merchants of his intentions for their future security. We have the honor to be

Your Excellency's most obedient servants,
(Signed)

Dent & Co. Turner & Co.
Gibb, Livingston & Co. Lindsay & Co.
Eox, Rawson & Co. per William Fryer. per E. A. Staple. Dirom & Co.
Bell & Co. per W. Potter.
per J. M. Smith. C. S. Compton,
Henry Gribble.
Canton, 13th December, 1842.

Copy.

Canton, December 13th, 1842.

Gentlemen,—In reply to your letter received last night, I beg to assure you that I sensibly feel the critical situation in which you stand.

It is from reluctance to leave you in uncertainty that, although anxious to return to the head quarters of the force, I have remained here five days, and am still waiting in hourly expectation of an answer to the communication which I despatched to her majesty's plenipotentiary on the 8th instant.

I will accede to your request in regard to leaving the Proserpine where she is, and I would decide to remain myself in any event, but I do not apprehend any immediate further outbreak, and feel that I can be individually of little use here, whereas my presence is required with the force. It would be a great satisfaction to me to hear from Sir Henry Pottinger before I leave you, and I shall delay my departure as long as possible with that view.

I received through the Kwangchee on the 9th inst., an assurance that the Chinese government is very desirous to maintain tranquility, and though their power may be doubtful, I believe the assurance to be sincere. I will take this occasion to recommend you to be upon your guard, and carefully to forbear from all that may tend to collision with the populace, pending the result of the measures, upon which the plenipotentiary, with whom the decision rests, may determine.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,

(Signed) H. GOUGH, Lieut. General.
The British Merchants at Canton.

His Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart.

Sir,—We take the liberty of waiting on your excellency with the annexed copy of a letter which we yesterday addressed to Sir Hugh Gough, together with a copy of his reply, by which you will perceive that he has consented, in consequence of the recent attack on the foreign factories, to allow the steamer Proserpine to remain off Canton for the present, for the protection of the British community.

It is unnecessary to trouble your excellency with the statements in detail of the parties who were eye witnesses of the riot, or the enquiries which have been subsequently made, but the result may be stated in few words.

1. That there appears no doubt of the fact that the attack on the foreign factories had been determined on for some time previously to its occurrence, and that the parties employed in it were regularly organized.

2. That although an affray between some Lascars and Chinese, was the ostensible cause of its commencement at that particular time, the attack would have taken place sooner or later had no such circumstance occurred.

3. That the local authorities were unable or unwilling to afford efficient protection in time to prevent a considerable sacrifice of life and property, and the causes, which occasioned such a result, are liable at any moment to recur.

4. That there is a spirit of hostility to the English very general among certain orders in Canton, and that the common people are guided and influenced by parties who have means and ability of giving effect to their operations in a more systematic manner than could be expected from an ordinary mob.

As no machinery exists at present for carrying on the trade, except by actual residence in Canton, and as it is unlikely any change can be made in time for the management of the present season's business, we consider it of the utmost importance that the British community should be enabled to continue for the present to reside in their factories, as their withdrawal would, in the existing state of affairs, necessarily throw the business into the hands of the Americans and others, who from their political position and other causes are not likely to suffer from the hostility of the Chinese.

The recent occurrence having shown that life and property are insecure under the protection of the local government, we beg leave respectfully to submit to your excellency our conviction that the British community cannot with safety remain in Canton, unless protection be afforded on the spot, by our own government authorities and we venture therefore to hope that your excellency will take into consideration their urgent request that their excellencies the naval and military commanders-in-chief may be moved to place such a force for their defence in Canton as may seem expedient.

We have the honor to be,
Your excellency's,
Most obedient Servants,
(Signed)

Dent and Co. W. C. LeGeyt.
Turner and Co. Jas. Hulbert.
Gibb, Livingston & Co. Franjee Jamsejee.
C. S. Compton. Pestonjee Cowjee.
Wm. Fryer. Hornumjee Franjee.
Bell and Co. Pestonjee Mervanee & Co.
Per pro. Mackrill Smith. Jummoojee Nasserwanjee.
E. A. Staple. Ruttunjee Franjee.
D. Potter. Burjorjee Sorabjee.
Canton, 13th December, 1843.

No. 213.

Government house,

Hongkong, December 16th, 1842.

Gentlemen,—I have this day received your letter of the 13th instant, inclosing copies of one which you had addressed to lieutenant-general Sir Hugh Gough, and of his excellency's reply on the subject of the late disturbances at Canton.

I observe that you assume, 1st. That the disturbance originated in a preconcerted plan. 2nd. That it would have taken place sooner or later without the immediately exciting cause of an affray between certain Lascars and the Chinese. 3rd. That the local authorities were either unable or unwilling to afford the necessary protection; and 4th that there is a spirit of hostility towards the English amongst certain classes in Canton, who guide and influence the rabble in their operations.

You proceed to observe, that it is not possible to carry on your commercial pursuits at Canton except by actual residence. You add, that your withdrawal would throw the trade into the hands of Americans and others, who are not likely to suffer from the hostile feelings of the Chinese, and you conclude by requesting, that I will move the naval and military commanders-in-chief, to place such a force for your defence and protection in Canton, as may seem expedient.

I propose to have the honor of replying to the various points of your letter in the order in which you have arranged them; and, in doing so, I hope and believe that it is not necessary for me to assure you of the unfeigned solicitude which I feel to promote your interests and welfare, as well as to provide for your comfort and safety, by every means in my power, consistent with the views which my judgment has led me to form; after the deepest and most anxious reflection on the questions which those points involve, in connection with the momentous trust which has been confided by her majesty's government to my guidance.

With respect to the 1st point, I am obliged to distinctly avow, that no single fact has come to my knowledge that authorizes me to concur in the opinion you have expressed on it. On the contrary, the accounts that have reached me show that a large body of Lascars (Sir Hugh Gough states no less than 170), had been allowed to go up to Canton on leave, from the ship "Port William" (and other vessels), without any apparent control, or any person to look after them; that they had been fighting "the whole day" with the Chinese, whom they drove back and kept in check until towards the evening, when the Chinese assembled in large bodies, and overpowered the Lascars, who were, in their turn, driven back and allowed to take refuge in one of the hongs that was subsequently burned, and that only then the attack on the buildings commenced.

I cannot convey to you my sentiments on this (1st) point more clearly and simply than by here quoting a portion of a private letter which I wrote on the 13th instant to lieutenant-general Sir Hugh Gough, in answer to one which I had had from his excellency on the 11th. "I hope the riots at Canton are over, and that our merchants there will profit by their experience. It seems quite clear, that the crew of the "Port William" and other ships were the originators of the disturbance, and before I make any demand for repayment of the losses from the local government, I must be satisfied that some attempt was made to control the Lascars. "I hold that not even a boat's crew should be allowed to land without a responsible officer, or person, with them, and if merchants will not enforce some regularity and order in their ships, they must take the consequences."

The 2d point is in a great measure disposed of by the preceding remarks, and I shall also have occasion to advert to it's tenor in considering the 4th one. I shall therefore only here say, that viewed abstractedly it is based on mere surmise, which is by no means admisible in discussions like the present, and in which all statements adduced, ought, I conceive, to be strictly limited to matter that is susceptible of clear proof.

I think that the insinuated unwillingness (referred to in the 3rd point) of the local authorities to afford protection, is in no degree borne out by any of the details that have reached me up to this moment; and it not only appears to me to be disproved by what those authorities have since done with the object of affording protection, but is likewise at total variance with the information and opinions that I have obtained from many different quarters, as to the anxiety which both the provincial officers and the hong merchants had displayed up to the day in which the disturbance took place, to avert, as far as they could, the injury to the local trade and prosperity of Canton which the late treaty is calculated to inflict; and which anxiety they evinced by a variety of conciliatory arrangements and concessions, which are too well known to call for particularization in this letter.

As to the alleged inability of the local authorities to afford protection,—that, I can only, as at present informed, contemplate in the light of a conjecture. We all know what an unmanageable thing an exasperated mob is in every part of the world. Many instances of this truism could be adduced, within all our recollections, in England and other of the most civilized nations of Europe; and before I subscribe to the correctness of this allegation, I must learn that proper and timely application was made to the local officers, which, I regret to add, I have strong reasons for believing, was not the case. It may, however, be true, that the Chinese authorities had not the power immediately at hand to restore order when the riot became serious; and it may even be hereafter unhappily verified, that they do not possess the means of preserving the peace for the future; but with respect to the first of these suppositions, it is just and proper in looking at it to inquire why our Lascars,—one of whom I am informed began the riot by stabbing a Chinese,—were not restrained by those whose business it was to look after them; and as regards the second supposition, if we admit that it is possible, and investigate the cause, we are obliged to revert to occurrences which took place before I came to China.

None of you, gentlemen, will suppose me capable for a moment of palliating the base and barefaced perfidy of the officers of the provincial government in the progress of events which terminated in the city of Canton being left at the mercy of her majesty's arms in May 1841; but I believe I am quite justified in saying, that up to that time there was no general popular feeling of ill will or antipathy towards the British nation on the side of the people. It is true, that we had from the earliest period of our intercourse with this empire, submitted (with a very few memorable exceptions) to constant contumely and indignity from the Chinese government officers, but so far as the mass of the population were concerned, they were, I have understood, as civil and as well disposed as I have invariably found them, in all parts of the empire which I have had occasion to visit, since the peace was concluded. It thence follows, that the change which at that time came over the people, and which has gradually led to their present state of exasperation and excitement, must have been brought about by ourselves,—that is, partly by mismanagement and partly by ill-treatment,—and I believe both these causes to have had a share in bringing matters to their present crisis.

The 4th point is so mixed up with those that precede it, that in examining it, I might repeat many of my foregoing observations; but I will spare you the repetition, and will content myself by asking you, collectively and individually, whether,—with your admitted knowledge of the hostile feelings of certain classes at Canton, coupled with the influence which you declare you believe those classes to be able to exercise over the people, and also bearing in mind your recorded belief, that sooner or later an outbreak would take place,—you, to whom this letter is particularly addressed, as well as all other foreigners, whether subjects of England or not, can stand forward and conscientiously assert, that you have studied the complexion of the times, that you have in any single iota, or circumstance, striven to aid me in my arrangements as the humble but zealous instrument of the government whose protection has been extended to you in an unparalleled degree, and which, I may add, you are always ready to claim and exact,—by endeavouring to dissipate and soothe the very excitement and irritation of which you so loudly complain? I may even ask, whether you have not thrown serious difficulties and obstacles, if not positive risk, in the way of the very arrangements and measures which you so earnestly desire to see perfected, and which, next to the assertion of her majesty's dignity and honor, have been the leading object of my public actions for the last eighteen months? It is needless to occupy your time, and swell this letter by detailing circumstances; but I presume, that you will now be ready to allow, that it would have been better had you gone on, as in past times, quietly and unobtrusively with your mercantile pursuits, until it was announced to you, that the provisions of the recent treaty were to be considered in full force. Even in the most civilized parts of the globe such a course would have been equally advisable and expedient; and how much more so do they appear with a jealous, agrogant, and unapproachable government like that of China, which we have for ages allowed, and almost encouraged, to revile and treat us as human beings of lower grade.

SUPPLEMENT

I have now arrived at the consideration of your present position and future prospects and wishes, as set forth in your letter; and with respect to the advantages, if not necessarily, of actual residence at Canton, as well as the probable consequences that would attend on your being forced to withdraw from that place, I need only remark that I should and shall very truly regret the loss and inconvenience to which you would be exposed by the latter step becoming indispensable, I trust, however, that it will yet be averted through the measures which I have in view; but advertising to the closing request of your communication, I must, at once, finally, most explicitly, and candidly acquaint you, that no conceivable circumstances should induce me to place her majesty's government in an false and undignified a posture, as I should consider it to be placed in, were I to send troops and ships of war to Canton in opposition to the request and wishes of the local government, in order that you might carry on your trade under the protection of such troops and ships of war. Such an arrangement, irrespectively of the conclusive objection to it which I adduce above, would inevitably lead to further ill-will, heart-burning, and violence, and its only result must be disappointment; and, in all likelihood, a renewal of hostilities between the governments of England and China,—a calamity which I feel certain you will one and all, cordially unite with me in earnestly deprecating.

In conclusion; I have in this letter entered at more length into an exposition of my sentiments, than may have seemed to you to be called for by the one which you addressed to me; but even before the Canton riot took place, I had imbibed many of the impressions which I now communicate to you, and as a copy of this letter will be transmitted to her majesty's government, in explanation of the course which I have decided upon following, I am desirous that the grounds of that decision should be clearly known to all of you. I had hoped before this time to have had it in my power to intimate to you the purport of the reply as to late events, which I am expecting from the viceroy at Canton; but owing to circumstances beyond my control, I am disappointed. You shall be made acquainted with it shortly, and in the mean time, as it seems to be quite certain that the presence of the small steamer at Canton is merely a source of irritation, whilst in truth, if there be any danger, she can in no shape ward it off, I have given my ready assent to rear admiral Sir Thomas Cochrane's suggestion, that she should be recalled.

I have the honor to be,
Gentlemen,

Your very faithful servant,
(Signed) HENRY POTTINGER,
Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary,
RICHARD WOODNAM,
Acting Secretary.

Messrs Dent & Co.
Messrs Turner & Co.
&c. &c. &c.

Canton,

To His Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger Bart.

H. M. Plenipotentiary, and Superintendent of the Trade of British Subjects in China &c. &c. &c.

Sir,—We have the honor of acknowledging receipt of Your Excellency's letter of 16th instant, and although we are well aware it would be unsuitable for us unnecessarily to occupy Your Excellency's time by further observation on the subject to which it refers, we trust to be excused for advertising to some points which appear to call for reply.

Your Excellency is pleased to say that our opinions "being based on mere surmise, are not admissible in such discussions as the present;" but we may be allowed respectfully to observe, that if opinions of parties, most of whom were present in Canton, before, during, and after the riot, are deemed unworthy of attention, we hope they may, at any rate, not be considered of less value than reports which have accidentally reached Your Excellency at Hongkong, a place remote from the scene of action. Whatever information Your Excellency may have received leading to a different opinion, we beg respectfully to assure Your Excellency, that all evidence which we have since collected, tends only to strengthen and confirm the views expressed in our former letter.

Even were it admitted, as appears to be assumed by Your Excellency, that the irregular conduct of certain Lascars led to this riot we may venture to observe, that the practice of allowing Seamen of all nations to proceed to Canton on liberty, has been of long standing, and that if, as appears to be the opinion of Your Excellency, such custom was calculated to lead to difficulties, the remedy could not possibly be considered as resting with the British Merchants, who never have had authority to make regulations for the control of seamen, nor the power to impose penalties for the breach of any that it might be deemed expedient to frame.

As Your Excellency appears to doubt that timely notice was given to the authorities, of the serious character which the Riot had assumed, we shall have the honor to forward to Your Excellency authenticated statements, showing that repeated applications were made in vain through the Hong merchants, for protection; and we may add that it is understood the messenger from the Viceroy, who waited on His Excellency Sir Hugh Gough in Canton, distinctly admitted that such applications were made, but could not for a considerable time be attended to in consequence of a force not being available.

The most important paragraph of Your Excellency's letter remains to be noticed. It is the grave charge which Your Excellency is pleased to bring against the English and Foreign merchants in the following words, which we extract at length:

"I will content myself by asking you collectively and individually, whether with your admitted knowledge of the hostile feelings of certain classes 'at Canton, coupled with the influences which you declare you believe these classes to be able to exercise over the people, and also bearing in mind your recorded belief that sooner or later an outbreak would take place, you to whom this letter is particularly addressed, as well as all other foreigners, whether subjects of England or not, can stand forward and conscientiously assert that you have studied the complexion of the times, that you have in any single iota or circumstance striven to aid me in my arrangements as the humble but zealous instrument of the Government, whose protection has been extended to you in an unparalleled degree, and which, I may add, you are always ready to claim and expect, by endeavoring to dissipate and soothe the very excitement and irritation of which you so loudly complain? I may even ask whether you have not thrown serious difficulties and obstacles, if not positive risk, in the way of the very arrangements and measures which you so earnestly desire to see perfected, and which, next to the assertion of Her Majesty's dignity and honor, have been the leading object of my public actions for the last eighteen months?"

In reference to these strong observations, we take the liberty of most respectfully recalling to Your Excellency's recollection, that since Your Excellency's arrival in China, nearly a year and a half ago, the letter of 18th inst., is the first and only address which has been submitted to Your Excellency by the British merchants, individually or collectively, either seeking for information or asking for protection: That Your Excellency's proclamation dated 12th August 1841, distinctly stated that the mercantile community must carry on their Trade at Canton entirely on their own risk and peril; that such proclamation was in some measure indirectly rescinded by one dated "Chusan, 14th Nov. 1842," allowing the trade at Canton to continue, although no government protection was even then actually promised or afforded; and that during the progress of such trade no protection has directly or indirectly been given or claimed, within the Port of Canton, at a time when warlike operations and seizures of Chinese property, have been carried on along the whole coast, and even in the Canton river itself.

We conceive, therefore, we may be allowed in some degree to dissent from the opinion of your Excellency that "the protection of the government has been extended to us in an unparalleled degree," and considering the serious risk of person and property which we have incurred, without one word of complaint or remonstrance, during the whole time that your Excellency has had charge of affairs in China, we submit that an insinuation that we are over ready to claim such protection, is not altogether in accordance with the actual circumstances of the case.

We may be allowed further to observe, that none of us are aware of any occasion on which your Excellency has thought it desirable to seek for our opinions, or co-operation, in any way; the only information we have received of your Excellency's views or wishes, being found in certain Proclamations made public during the progress of hostilities; and we can conscientiously assert that none of us have ever, to our recollection, thrown risk or difficulty in the way of your Excellency.

During the past sixteen months, we may observe, that the trade in Canton, although carried on without any protection or control on the part of the British Authorities, has been managed by former parties, and in as peaceable and unobtrusive a manner as at any period since the abolition of the Company's Charter, and we feel justified in most solemnly denying that the charge of ill-treatment of the Chinese can with justice be cast upon the Foreign merchants.

We may safely assert that the Merchants generally have endeavored to carry on their mercantile pursuits in Canton in accordance with former customs, and in the only case, we believe, where innovation has taken place, the residence of ladies in Canton, the very limited number who have taken advantage of the permission formally granted by the local authorities, and with the implied, if not expressed sanction of your Excellency, have been accidental visitors, not wives of resident merchants. We may add that no intimation was, we believe, conveyed to any one, that your Excellency disapproved of these proceedings, altho' the circumstances were generally known, until after the attack on the Factories.

We beg leave to assure your Excellency that we have been, and are, one and all, ready and anxious to conform to all arrangements which may be made for the regulation of our trade and other matters by the officers of our government, and when duly informed of them; but we respectfully submit, that severe public censure should not indiscriminately be cast on all the foreign merchants, in consequence of outrages assumed to have been occasioned by the acts of a few, especially when such acts may be considered rather the result of the absence of understood regulations than of premeditated irregularity.

As your Excellency has been pleased to lay a copy of your Excellency's letter before the home Government, we beg leave to request the same course may be pursued with our reply.

We have the honor, to be, Sir,

Your Excellency's
Most obedt. and humble servts.

Dent & Co. Fox, Rawson & Co.
Turner & Co. W. O. LeCoyt.
Gibb, Livingston & Co. H. Gribble.
C. S. Compton. Dirom & Co.
Lindsay & Co. Bell & Co., &c. &c.
Macao, 23rd December, 1842.

H. M. SQUADRON TO THE NORTHWARD,
AT CHUSAN, CHINA, &c.

H. M. S. Cornwallis, 79, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief, captain
Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

"Thalia, 44, " Hope.
" North Star, 26, " Sir J. B. Home, Bart.
" Pelican, 18, comr. Justice.
" Harlequin, 16, " the honble F. Hastings.
" Childers, 16, " Halsted.
" Wanderer, 16, " Seymour.
" Serpent, 16, " Nevill.
" Algerine, 10, Lt. comr. W. H. Withland.
" Royalist, 10, " Chetwood.
" Hospital ship Minden, capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS,

"Starling, 8, comr. Kellett.
"Plover, 8, " Collinson,
"Apollo, comr. C. Frederick.
"Sapphires, " Cole.
"Rattlesnake,
"Alligator,

STEWARDS,

"Memnon, comr. Powell.
"Medusa, comr. Hewitt, I. N.
"Phlegethon, Lieut. McClervy, R. N.
"Proserpine, comr. Hough, R. N.
H. M. Driver, " Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M. H. S. Cambrian, 28, capt. Chads, a senior commanding officer.

"Pylades, 18, comr. Tindal, (absent.)
"Chameleon, 10, Lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

"Agincourt, 74, Bearing the flag of Rear Admiral, Sir T. Cochrane, K. C. B.,
"Endymion, 44, capt. the honble F. W. Grey,
"Dido, 20, comr. the honble H. Koppell,
"Wolverine, 16, " Johnson.
"Columbine, 16, " Morehead,
"Young Hebe, 4, " Wood.

SUPPLEMENT.

H.O.S. Arthur, Commodore Pepper, I. N.
 " Queen, W. Warden.
 " Pluto, Tudor, R. N.
 H.M.T.S. Beilke, Capt. Kingcomb.
 " Jupiter, Comdg. G. B. Hoffmeyer.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

ARRIVED

December.
 10. (B) Phaetone, Franklin, Hobart Town.
 11. (T) Palmyra, Daniell, Chusan.
 12. (A) Westmoreland, Brigatack, do.
 13. (A) Bonar, do, Batavia.
 14. (Sp.) Alana, Salado, Manila.
 15. (B) Antelope, Rortier, Calcutta & Singapore.
 16. Relapido, Woodward, Singapore.
 17. (B) Helios, Steljes, do.
 18. (B) Blackcliff, Harrison, Penang.
 19. Athenion, Mann, London.
 20. Eliona, Dunning, Bombay.
 21. Harlequin, Oliver, do.
 22. Good Success, Barnes, do.
 23. Surya, Naylor, Manila.
 24. Ronoka, Pratt, do.
 25. (B) Margaria, Aquino, Java.

PASSENGERS Per

Beatha, Messrs W. Blunkin and W. Thompson.

SAILED

11. (B) Meta, Sproule, Singapore.
 11. Corwall, Hillman, England.
 12. (Hamb.) Helo, Beth, Singapore.
 13. (P) Staphylea, Almeida, do.
 14. (B) Guss, Mackellar, do.
 15. Pink, do, do.
 16. Prince of Wales, Jones, Bombay.
 17. John O'Grady, Robertson, Liverpool.
 18. (A) Dohi, Cole, New York.
 19. Black Swan, Knox, London.
 20. Litheland, Freeman, Liverpool.
 21. Cherokee, McKeller, Glasgow.
 22. Lord Eldon, Worsell, Hobart Town.
 23. Urgent, Thompson, Singapore.
 24. H. O. St. Nemeth, Lt. Hall, R. N., Singapore.

PASSENGERS Per

Dehti, Messrs David Sears and F. A. Appleton.
Prince of Wales, Major Young; Messrs W. H. Hughes and W. C. Hunter.
 H. M. St. Vison, will leave for Singapore and Bombay this evening.

ARRIVED IN ENGLAND FROM CHINA.—Sept. 1st

Sappho, Downs.

SAILED FROM ENGLAND FOR CHINA.—Aug. 18th
Queen, 26th, Tapley, 7th, George IV., 14th, Isa, 15th, Little Catherine.

UNDER DESPATCH

For London.—Elora.
 For Bombay.—Anthony Anderson.
 For Calcutta.—Penteloon.
 For Madras.—Weraff.
 For Singapore.—Ponang, Colombo.
 For Manila.—Christina.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Meta, Affance, Mary Ann Edie, Claudio, Louisa Jackson, Boikvar, Madras, Ursula, Bella Marina, Willelmo Wtop, Liverpool, St. Arcy, Oracles, Cristopher Rawson, Ann Jane, Coromandel, Childers, Edward Boulton, Grayhound, Little Catherine, Lady Raffica, Geo. Walls, Tapley, England's Queen, Siam, George IV., Isa.

From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodman, Helena, Gilbert H. Anderson, Wm. Abraham, Midlothian, England.

From Calcutta.—Clown, Victory, Bengal Packet, Elita, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Ballantine, Anonymous Water Witch.

From Singapore.—Waterloo.

LATEST DATES.

ENGLAND, 4th Sept. [SINGAPORE, 18th Nov.
 UNITED STATES, Aug. 11, [MANILA, 12th Dec.
 CALCUTTA, 11th Oct. [AMoy, 18th December.
 BOMBAY, 14th Oct. [CHUSAN,
 JAVA, 24th Oct. [NANKING,

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	COMPANIES.
Australasian Pa-	—	Nichols,	Dent and Co.
Arun ,	—	Kellock,	"
Arethusa , (cket	—	Christian,	"
Abberton ,	451	Catt,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Anna Elisa ,	294	Butcher,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Anty Anderson	498	Splatt,	Macvicar & Co.
Alex. Baring ,	—	Hale,	Russell and Co.
Arrow ,	—	Geare,	Jardine M. & Co.
Athenian ,	—	Mann,	"
Ann Lockerby	—	Wightman	"
Anne Mary ,	—	Rackham,	"
Berkhamshire	1468	McGregor	"
Bucephalus ,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Baboo ,	—	Stewart,	Dirom and Co.
Birman ,	—	Cleland,	Holliday, Wise & Co.
Black Swan ,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
British Isle ,	—	Graham,	Fletcher, Larkins & Co
Columbus ,	—	Short,	Dirom and Co.
Major ,	—	H. Pybus,	"
Chanticleer ,	—	Orange,	Henry Gribble.
Christian ,	—	Primrose,	Turner and Co.
Chelydra ,	—	Wishart,	Dent and Co.
Coldee ,	—	Campbell,	"
Cacique ,	—	Man, (ger	C. Fearon.
Charlotte ,	—	Liebachwa	Jardine Matheson & Co
Devon ,	—	Mallory,	Fox Rawson and Co.
Diadem ,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co
Ellora ,	—	Turbull,	"
Elizabeth ,	—	Morris,	"
Equestrian ,	801	Cromarty,	Jardine M. & Co.
Edinburgh ,	1414	Paterson,	"
Elphinstone ,	—	Framlin,	Dent & Co.
Foam ,	—	Greig,	Dallas and Co.
Frances Ann ,	—	Thomson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Frances Burn ,	—	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
Fort William ,	1248	Hogg,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ganges ,	—	Walker,	"
Good Success ,	—	Eames,	"
Gemini ,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
Greenlaw ,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
Gresian ,	—	Watt,	"
Gulnare ,	—	wilongby	Dirom and Co.
Harold Malown	—	Whettem,	"
Hongkong ,	—	Fowler,	H. Holgate.
Hygeia ,	378	Woodbury	G. Nye jr.
Hymalaya ,	—	Burn,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Helena ,	—	Dunning,	"
Harlequin ,	—	Oliver,	"
Hindostan ,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Isa. Robertson ,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella ,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.

Isle ,	—	Galt,	A. A. de Mello.
Inglis ,	—	Isaacson,	C. S. Compton.
Jamieson Matheson	—	whitcomb	Direm and Co.
John Moor ,	—	Berg,	H. Rustomjee.
Jane ,	—	Lewis,	J. Bard and Co.
Lady Leith ,	—	Lawrence,	Jardine M. & Co.
Lady Clarke ,	—	Manton,	Turner and Co.
Lady of St. Kilda	—	Brown,	Dent and Co.
Minerva ,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Manly ,	—	—	W. Scott.
Mercury ,	—	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
Mary Anne ,	—	Rowe,	"
Matilda ,	453	Shettler,	"
Malacca ,	—	Purdie,	"
Medusa ,	—	Fawcett,	Lindsay & Co.
Mellish ,	—	Kirk	Jardine Matheson & Co
Osprey ,	—	Terry,	"
Orator ,	—	Porter,	Dent & Co.
Pantaloen ,	—	Wharton,	"
Parrock Hall ,	—	Gray,	Turner & Co.
Queen Leitch	—	—	D. & M. Rustomjee Co
Royal Exchange	—	—	Jardine M. & Co.
Raymond ,	—	Mackay,	"
Rockcliff ,	—	Harrison,	"
Ruparell ,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Fardonjee.
Rosa ,	—	—	C. H. Hart.
St. Lawrence ,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
Siam ,	—	Smith,	"
Sully ,	—	Naylor,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Semiramis ,	369	Cairnie,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Snipe ,	—	High,	Hugheson Brothers.
Susna ,	—	Neatby,	Fox Rawson & Co.
Victoria ,	—	Mordant,	Dent and Co.
Velocpede ,	—	woodward	"
Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran jr.
Wm. Gillies ,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co
Weeraff ,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co
Wm. Hyde ,	—	Seward,	"
Wanderer ,	—	Smith,	"

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation,	Commodore Kearney.
Leyant ,	Faulk,
And MacKim ,	Vasmer,
Probus ,	Summer,
Grafton ,	Gardner,
Panther ,	Martin,
Valparaiso ,	Clark,
Lowell ,	Lockwood,
Mary Ellen ,	Peirce,
Splendid ,	—
Caroline ,	Land,
Akbar ,	Dumaresq,
Lema ,	Poor,
Niantic ,	Hepburn,
Oscar ,	—
Oneyda ,	Swift,
Jessore ,	Watkins,
Basar ,	—
Zenobia ,	Pratt,

FRENCH.

Fr. Frig. Erigone, 44, | Captain Cécille.
 Fr. Corr. Favorite, 24, | Commander Page.
 L'Orient, | Lagravier | Dent and Co.

SPANISH.

Maria, | Cuculla, | A. Cuculla.
Gitana, | Salado,

BRITISH.

Margaretta, | Klenke, | Jardine M. and Co.
Heloisa, | Steljes, | W. Allanson & Co.

• At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLAN,
 at the Canton Press Office, Pado Monte.

PUBLIC AUCTION,
ON TUESDAY.

The 3rd January, 1843.

JOHN SMITH, has been requested to intimate to the public, and to offer for sale, by Public Auction (in the Premises, No. 2, almost opposite to Messrs. L. Just and Son, and adjoining to that on the E. of J. Rickett, Esq., Rua de Sé.) the whole of the valuable Household Furniture, and Fittings-up Plate and Plated-Ware, Superior Wines and Liquors, Glass & Crockery-Ware, Brussels Carpet, &c., belonging to Mrs. A. PATERSON, Gone Home.

For particulars of the Sale refer to Hand-bills. The sale will commence precisely at half past 10 o'clock. Macao, 29th December, 1842.

THE interest and responsibility of JOHN STEPHEN MENDES in the Firm of PEREIRA & Co. of Canton and Macao, ceased on the 25th October 1837, and the firm has this day been dissolved by mutual consent of the remaining partners MANOEL PEREIRA and FRANCISCO JOZE DE PAIVA. All outstanding business will be closed by FRANCISCO JOZE DE PAIVA.

MANOEL PEREIRA.

FRANCISCO JOZE DE PAIVA.

Macao, 31st December, 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned has this day transferred the business hitherto conducted by him in China, to Mr. JOHN SILVERLOCK.

W. H. HUGHES.

Macao, December 18th, 1842.

WITH reference to the above, the undersigned will carry on the business hitherto conducted by Mr. W. H. HUGHES in China, from this date.

JOHN SILVERLOCK.

Macao, December 19th, 1842.

NOTICE.

COPIA DE DESPACHOS

Conformando-me com o accordo dos Credores a f.—a que se apresentará em consequência da citação de f.—ordenado pelo despacho de f.—nomeio a ALEXANDER MATHESON, G. T. BRAINE, Administradores da Massa falida, e os autorizo para venderem os bens, arrecadarem as dividas, rever os papeis &c., em conformidade do mesmo accordo, para depois darem conta da liquidagão: o Escrivão os notifique para tomarem conta deste encargo. (Assinado) BASTOS.

Macao, 17 de Novembro de 1842.

Translation.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting of the creditors of FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co., I hereby appoint ALEXANDER MATHESON and G. T. BRAINE, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate, and I empower them to dispose of the Assets, receive all debts due to the Estate, examine the papers &c. in conformity with the said resolutions, and to give an account hereafter of the realizations. The Clerk will notify this to the parties that they may take charge accordingly. (Signed) BASTOS.

Macao 17 Nov. 1842.

In pursuance of the above, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims upon the Insolvent Estate of Messrs FERGUSON, LEIGHTON & Co. to present the same within 2 months of this date, and all persons indebted to the said Estate to make immediate payment to Mr. Henry Fessenden at the office formerly occupied by Messrs Ferguson, Leighton & Co.

ALEX. MATHESON,GEORGE T. BRAINE,

Trustees.

Macao, 28th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—The interest and responsibility of Mr. WILLIAM WARDROP SHAW, in our firm here, at Maclemin, and in that of HUCHANAN & Co. Glasgow ceased on the 31st December last.

DUNNETT SHAW & Co.

Pinang, 10th June, 1842.

HINDOSTAN INSURANCE SOCIETY OF CALCUTTA 1840 & 1841.

THE undermentioned having been appointed AGENTS in CHINA for the above Society, are prepared to receive applications for insurance of such risks as by the Regulations of the Society they are authorized to take. Policies are to be made payable either in London, Calcutta, Bombay, Singapore, or China.

D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22d Dec., 1842.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agents in China, for the STAR INSURANCE OFFICE of Bombay, are prepared to receive applications for insurance of such risks, as by the regulations of the Office they are authorized to take.

Macao, 23rd June, 1841.

DIROM & Co.

NOTICE.—The undersigned having been appointed Agent at Macao, for the PHOENIX MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY, of CALCUTTA is ready to receive applications for Insurance of Risks, as by the regulations of the office he is authorized to take.

A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 10th August, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions, received, and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Granite Godowns at Hongkong, on moderate terms; apply upon the premises No. 1 Albany Godown, or to JOHN BURD & Co. Queen's Road. Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 24th November, 1842.

NOTICE.—Goods and Merchandise of all descriptions received and carefully stored in spacious, dry and secure brick Godowns situated on the Queen's Road No. 20 at Hongkong, upon moderate terms. Apply upon the premises to F. H. TIEDEMAN, or REYNVAAN & Co.—Macao.

Goods are received and sold on Commission.

Hongkong, 19th Oct. 1842.

NOTICE.—STORAGE can be obtained at low rates in GRANITE GODOWNS situated where there can be no fire risk, on application to C. V. GILLESPIE, 46 Queen's Road.

Hongkong, 23d Dec., 1842.

HONGKONG.

GOODS AND MERCHANDIZE of all descriptions, received and carefully stored, in spacious, dry and secure Brick Godowns, at Hongkong; upon moderate terms; apply upon the Premises to N. DUBS, or to C. FEARON.—Macao.

Macao, 23rd February, 1842.

ALBANY GODOWNS, HONGKONG.

TO be let together or separately the extensive range of Godowns No. 47, Queens Road. These Godowns are built entirely of Granite, and in the most substantial manner; and are each capable of containing about 2000 Bales of Cotton. For further particulars apply to

C. V. GILLESPIE, Esq.—Hongkong.

or Mr. A. GRANDPRE.—Macao.

Macao, 12th July, 1842.

FOR SYDNEY CALLING AT HOBART TOWN IF SUFFICIENT INDUCEMENT OFFERS.

THE A 1 British Brig "ISLAY," Capt. GALT, has the greater part of her cargo engaged, and will be despatched on the 8th January 1843. For freight apply to A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 23rd December, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship "AFRIK ROHMAN," of 770 Tons, Capt. LUGBIN, will have early despatch. For freight apply to D. & M. RUSTOMJEE & Co.

Macao, 22nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A 1 British built Brigantine BLACK SWAN, 4 years old, now lying in the Tyga; apply to C. H. HART.

Macao, 8th Dec. 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE A 1 British built Bark BIRMAN, 544 Tons, captain J. CLELAND, apply to HOLLIDAY, WISE & Co.

Macao, 3d December, 1842.

FOR LONDON.

THE A 1 ship HINDOSTAN, captain BOWEN; For freight apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 9th July, 1842.

FOR SALE, FREIGHT OR CHARTER.

THE Teak Built Ship "HANO OF MALOWN," 482 Tons Burthen, per Register, Capt. JACKSON, now lying at Whampoa. Apply to DIROM & Co.

Canton, 28th June, 1842.

FOR SINGAPORE AND BOMBAY.

THE Ship PORTH, THOMAS POWELL Commander, will leave on the 1st October; for freight apply to MOLLUSNOR DUNAJEE Esq. and passage to Captain POWELL on board or at Agents Office. Macao, 13th September, 1842.

FOR FREIGHT OR CHARTER TO WHAMPOA THE COAST OR ANY PART OF THE WORLD.

THE A 1 barque "CHANTICLEER" Captain GRANGE, 250 tons O.M. and 280 N.M. now lying in the Tyga and ready to receive cargo. Freight to Whampoa 50 cents per Bale. Apply to HENRY GRIBBLE.

FOR SALE.

THE teak built, and coppered Dutch Schooner MARY of 80 tons burthen, 3 years old. Apply to JOHN BURD at Hongkong.

WANTED.—To purchase 3 or 4 Anchors, Weight, each from 32 to 40 cwt; apply by letter to the Office of this Journal. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

TO LET.—The House lately occupied by H. J. LEIGHTON Esq., situated in the Rua de Hospital, till the 1st June 1843. Possession given immediately. Apply to HENRY FESSENDEN. Macao, 24th December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Mantia Rice in quantities to suit purchasers. Apply to Captain N. PUTNAM, on board Ship "Zambia," at Whampoa.

FOR SALE, ON COMMISSION.—A few Marine Barometers, Satin, Gause, and Shoe Ribbons, superfine Blue and Black Cloths, six-barrel Pocket Pistols, superior Rifles, and one very handsome 8-day Clock, in rich gilt metal frame, and a pair of three branch Candlesticks, the whole covered with glass domes. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 30th December, 1842.

FOR SALE.—On board the French Ship L'ORIENT, Capt. Lagravere, ENGLISH NEWCASTLE COAL, at 75 cents per Picul, in bags. Apply to DENT & Co.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

JUST RECEIVED FOR SALE.—A few pieces of Merino; Long and short Gloves and Mittens; Wide and Narrow Ribbon; Felt and superfine Silk Hats, and a few fresh Pine Cheeses.

also.

Superior Pale and Brown Sherry; Double barrelled Fowling Pieces and Pistols, Sheetings, and a small quantity of fresh American Beef and Pork. Apply to JOHN SMITH.

Macao, 2nd December, 1842.

FOR SALE IN THE TYGA.—Two thousand Bags of Bengal RICE at very moderate rates. Apply to captain GALT on board the "ISLAY" in the Tyga, or to A. A. DE MELLO.

Macao, 12th November, 1842.

FOR SALE.—CANVAS, TWINE and CORDAGE. Apply to DIROM & Co. Macao, 25th October, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Belly RICE, COCONUT oil, COFFEE, JAVA ARABIC in cases and casks, Singapore BRANDS and PLANKS, PORT WINE, SHERRY, old Rum and WHISKY in bottles. Apply to JOHN BURD & Co. Hongkong, 17th Oct. 1842. Queen's Road.

FOR SALE.—SHEATHING COPPER and NAILS. Apply to J. A. DURRAN, JR. Macao, 22d Sept. 1842.

FOR SALE.—Europe Rope from 1 to 4 inches, 1 Anchor, 1 CHAINABLE, for a vessel of 300 tons, 3d. Manila CORDS in whole and half boxes. Apply to JOAO BARRETTO. Macao, Oct. 8, 1842.

EUROPE ROPE.

FOR SALE, from 1 to 9 inch, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 15th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MEXICAN DOLLARS. Bills on LONDON. E. I. Co's DRAFTS ON CALCUTTA, accepted. Apply to RUSSELL & Co. Macao, 4th March, 1842.

STRAW BONNETS.—Florence, Tuscan, and Dun stable, also, Boy's HATS.—Apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1843. JOHN SMITH.

JUST arrived and for sale, in quantities to suit purchasers: Dutch and English BREATHING COPPER, from 16 to 26 oz: and NAILS: apply to Macao, 16th Sept. 1842. JOHN SMITH.

FOR SALE.—SINGAPORE BRAMS, 25 to 27 feet long, and 7 to 10 inches square, on moderate terms. Apply to JOHN SMITH. Macao, 25th July, 1842.

FOR SALE.—MADRIRA WINE in Pipes, Hogsheads, and Quarter casks, from the well known house of KEIRS & Co.; apply to DENT & Co. Macao, 20th April, 1842.

FOR SALE.—Several brick Houses, with good wooden work, situated in a street leading to the Praya de Manduco, adjoining that of Francisco Pereira; apply to their owner ANTO. NOGUEIRA MENDES.

FOR SALE.—A RIFLE and a few pairs double and four barrelled PISTOLS, from Sam Nock, London, in cases complete. Apply to Mr. A. GRANDPRE. Macao, Aug. 27, 1843.

FOR SALE.—At the Goodowns of the undersigned, Gamboa Factory, adjoining the Custom house; the following articles, viz:—

Most Splendid French PINK GLASSES of half an inch thickness, in gilt frame and chased work, from 60 to 70 inches, by 30 to 40 in.

An assortment of new Pattern Table bronzed LAMPS, with Spare Shade and Chimney pieces to fit.

A few very new Payen Porcelain DINNER SERVICES, Cut Glass TUMBLERS, Wine and Beer GLASSES.

The best Mullipatin Snur in quart bottle, a $3 per bottle

And to close an account—Some of the most fanciful articles of French and English MILLINERY.

Macao, 9th June, 1842. G. GONZAGA.

FOR SALE.—CHAMPAGNE in 1 dozen cases. CHAMPAGNE fine 3 do. do. CLARET 3 do. do.

SHERRY, PALE in Hbds. SELTZER WATER new.

GERMANS STORES late imports. BEEF in tierces; PORK in barrels.

COALS 120 tons. Apply to DALLAS & Co. Macao, 27th June, 1842.

FOR SALE.—An invoice of superior Bass' PALE ALE, bottled in Calcutta, French CLARET, fine flavored pale French BRANDY in one dozen cases, London bottled SHERRY, PORTER, and PORT WINE, SELTZER water, GIN, white and black PAINTS, PAINT OIL, TURPENTINE, English and Russian CANVAS, TWINE, Manila and English CORDAGE, BREATHING COPPER, NAILS, and a few SPARS for lower and Top Masts. Apply to Macao, 20th May, 1842. A. A. DE MELLO.

LOTTERY.

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co.'s.

FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS, AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY.

Of 1843, of all Prizes!

[In the event of Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. of No. 91, Wellesley Street, Calcutta, succeeding in obtaining universality of support; or a sufficient number of Subscribers, to their General Mufussil Agency: for the Civil Service and Army, and Biennial Lotteries: from the Presidencies of Bengal, Agra, Bombay, Madras, Straits, China, &c., it is proposed to devote and allot the principal portion of the profits derived there; towards the gradual establishment, and accumulation of a Reserved Fund; only for the accommodation of those permanent Subscribers and Constituents of the Agency and Lottery, who may be of considerable standing; and who may ultimately require pressing advances, or Loans of Money, so as to enable them to proceed to Europe, or elsewhere, on Furlough, upon sick certificate; or urgent private affairs; or Indigo Planters requiring Loans to finish the remainder of the season with; with, or without charging them the usual Banking or Agency Interest and Commission.]

2,000 or all Prizes!!!

With the Capital Prizes of 200 and 100 Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets, as well as another 100 Reserved ditto, for the ultimate equal division of Government Prizes, only amongst those Subscribers, whose Prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this scheme!

Messrs THOMAS WILTSHIRE & Co.'s FIRST CALCUTTA UNITED SERVICE, INDIGO PLANTERS' AND GENERAL BIENNIAL LOTTERY of 1843.

On Five Hundred and Eighty (580) whole tickets, of the ensuing First Calcutta Government Lottery of 1843; valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket: divided into 2,000

Prizes or Chances, at only Company's Rupees Fifty (50) per Chance; and the Drawing to take place before the first January 1843.

Although, this Lottery is in a manner ostensibly dedicated, to the United Government and Commissioned Service, of the several Presidencies and Settlements; nevertheless: Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. beg to request, it might be considered Universal: and equally dedicatory to the Public at large, for their liberal patronage.

SCHEME.

1 Prize of	200 Tickets.
1 ditto	100 ditto.
1 ditto	50 ditto.
1 ditto	25 ditto.
1 ditto	12 ditto.
1 ditto	6 ditto.
1 ditto	3 ditto.
1 ditto	2 ditto.
10 ditto of 1 Ticket each	10 ditto.
20 ditto of 1/2 ditto	10 ditto.
40 ditto of 1/4 ditto	10 ditto.
80 ditto of 1/8 ditto	10 ditto.
160 ditto of 1-16 ditto	10 ditto.
320 ditto of 1-32 ditto	10 ditto.
1362 ditto of 1-64 ditto	22 ditto.

2,000 Prizes or Chances.

480 Tickets.

Reserved, of the First Calcutta Govt. Lottery Tickets of 1843, for the purpose of ultimately, equally dividing the Government Prizes: only amongst those Subscribers, whose prizes may turn up less than a half Ticket in this Scheme, .. 100 ditto. Total, 580 Tickets, Valued at Co.'s Rs. 110 each Ticket.

CONDITIONS.

1.—Subscribers shall not be called upon to pay for their chances, until 2000 Tickets shall have been actually disposed of. But, nevertheless, to prevent disappointment, it is to be hoped, intending subscribers will, in the interim, see the urgent necessity of making as early prepaid postage applications as possible, for chances, at Co.'s Rs. 50 per chance, with or without remittances, from the Mufussil or Out-stations of the several Presidencies or settlements.

2.—After securing 2,000 Chances, it is expected, subscribers will discharge the full amount of their Tickets, on the immediate presentation of Messrs. Thomas Wiltshire and Co.'s letter of demand, much prior to the drawing of this scheme. [see 4 and 5 conditions.]

3.—The amount of the subscriptions as realized, to be deposited in one of the Banks.

4.—It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. to erase the name of those subscribers from the list of this Lottery, who may, from casual circumstances, fail to pay for their chances in full, much prior to the drawing, with or without any kind of reference or notice to them whatever.

5.—After 2,000 chances shall have been paid for, in full, the drawing will take place, either at the Calcutta Exchange, or in any other place, most convenient to the majority of subscribers, before the 1st January 1843, of which, timely notice will be given in all the papers.

As a counteraction to the general complaint of unfairness against Minor Lotteries, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. would be very happy indeed, and gratefully obliged to a few disinterested gentlemen, if they would kindly take the entire management of the drawing of this Scheme, into their own hands

6.—All prizes, above a quarter Ticket, accruing from this scheme, shall be delivered to the fortunate Calcutta winners, either in Government Lottery Tickets, or if preferable, paid in cash, at company's rupees 110 for each Ticket, three days after the drawing shall have been finished. The same conditions are equally applicable to the Mufussil or Out-station winners of prizes in the several Presidencies and settlements, only with this difference: in lieu of cash, Government Lottery Tickets, or Drafts, less Exchange, &c. shall be remitted to them. It shall be optional with Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. either to pay in Government tickets, money or drafts.

7.—Messrs Thomas Wiltshire & Co. purpose keeping the 100 Reserved First Calcutta Government Lottery Tickets of 1843, in their possession, or depositing the same in one of the Banks, with the ulterior view of equally dividing the Government prizes, only amongst those subscribers, whose chances may turn up a prize of less than a half Ticket in this scheme thirty-five days after Government shall have finished its drawings. [See 6 and 8 conditions.]

8.—Should any of the above 100 Reserved Tickets, be entitled to Prize Tickets for the last two days, or prior drawings of the Government Lottery, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. for the benefit of winners of prizes of less than half a Ticket will pay the extra co.'s rs. 50 for each Ticket, demandable by Government, out of their own pocket.

9.—With reference to the 6, 7 and 8 conditions, Messrs T. Wiltshire and Co. reserve to themselves the discretionary power of charging a commission of eleven per cent on all Government Prizes.

10.—In the event of Government changing its project of the first Lottery of 1843, so as to disarrange this, Messrs Thomas Wiltshire and Co. also reserve to themselves the privilege of altering their scheme accordingly. N. B. With especial reference to the 5th condition, subscribers, may, with the greatest confidence, rely on the fidelity and punctuality of the projectors, in the drawing of this scheme. Those who may feel it inconvenient to subscribe to a whole ticket for co.'s rs. 50, will find it much to their advantage to arrange for halves quarters &c. by clubbing together amongst themselves.

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE AT THE CANTON PRESS OFFICE.

The lasting resentment of Miss KEAOU LWAN WANG. A Chinese Tale, translated by SLOTH, price one Dollar. ESOP'S FABLES in Chinese, with a free and a literal translation, by SLOTH, price two dollars.

THE CHINESE HONG MERCHANTS AND THEIR DEBTS. price one dollar.

Mrs. NOBLE'S NARRATIVE OF THE SHIPWRECK OF THE KITE, &c., price 50 cents.

The Law relating to MERCHANT SEAMEN, arranged for the use of Masters and Officers in the Merchant Service, by Edward William, Symons, price one dollar.

THE charges for ADVERTISING and JOB PRINTING, at the Canton Press Office continues the same as before, viz.

JOB PRINTING.

Bills of Lading and Exchange, $ 100—$ 1.
Policies and folio pages $ 5.
Letter paper size $ 3.
Other work in proportion.

The Press cannot be set for less than 100 copies.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Of Ships $ 5.
Not exceeding 7 lines $ 1.
for 3 months $ 6.
Exceeding 7 lines, 10 cents per line additional.

TERMS.

Of Subscription to the Canton Press.
For one year payable in advance $ 12
For six Months $ 7
For three $ 4
Single numbers of the Canton Press, may be had at the Office Pe do Monte at 30 cents each.

Overland Mail

From the Monthly Times, 6th Sept.

REVIEW OF THE SESSION.

Lord Palmerston rose to move for returns of the titles of the bills introduced into either House of Parliament during this session, with the dates of the respective stages. That motion, he said, embraced the whole policy of the ministers, and would justify him in reviewing it. The war, which closed in 1815, had roused all the passions and faculties of Europe, and a return to peace would not instantly quiet them. The Spaniards and Portuguese had made great struggles to obtain representative governments; England partook the impulse; and the two questions which chiefly agitated her were the relief of the Roman Catholics, and the reform of parliament. The Act for Catholic relief had been owing to the firmness and ability of three men—Sir R. Peel, the Duke of Wellington, and Mr. O'Connell. He hoped the duke was destined to add to that and to his other achievements, the complete emancipation of commerce—(Cheers). Then came the other measure—the reform of the representation; in the anticipation of which the Tory government resigned. The Whig plan came out, and struck dismay into the whole Tory party, who then feared that the British constitution, and the safety of property itself, were gone. The result had refuted those fears; and not less idle would be found the main apprehension of the present day, the dread of commercial freedom. When it became obvious that the introduction of representatives for the great trading communities must lead to the removal of commercial restrictions and monopolies, the friends of the old system made a fresh struggle, believing that if they could obtain a majority in this House, such as they already possessed in the Lords, they would effectually protect their own interests. They succeeded at the elections, and so triumphantly, that the defeat of their opponents amounted almost to a rout—(Laughter). But short-sighted is all human wisdom, and their triumph was speedily changed into sorrow. A few months only passed away, when their leaders turned their weapons against them; and if not in that House, yet certainly in every other house in London and in every club, loud had been their lamentations and their complaints of deception—(Cheers). But if there had been deception at all they had been their own deceivers. They should have ascertained the opinions of their chiefs before they brought them into power. Those chiefs had announced the soundest principles of free trade. Now, certainly, they could not have caught them by mere contagion from the red boxes left in Downing-street by their predecessors—(a laugh)—and as certainly they had not had time to change their old opinions by a new study of Adam Smith and M'Culloch. The inference, therefore, was, that the new doctrines had been familiar to them before they came into office last autumn. Sir R. Peel had accused him of over-assurance; he would say in return, that the over-modesty of the Tory chiefs had led them, when in opposition, to conceal the progress they had made in self-improvement. Ministers had complained of a deficiency in finance, and yet had aggravated that deficiency by a needless reduction in the timber duties. No doubt they had supplied it, with a vengeance, by an income tax, which would bring them much money, and more discontent—(Hear.) Then came that topic, the most important of any, the distress of the country; and not only had nothing been done to relieve it, but parliament was about to be prorogued, leaving it sorer than ever. In the next session something or other must be done. His own foreign policy had been much inculcated during the present session, especially by Lord Stanley, who had dealt with matters not very well understood by him. He would deny the charges of that noble lord; and he would prove his own denial, though the noble lord had not proved his charges—(Hear.) The new Government had found nothing but facilities bequeathed to them for their foreign administration—Laughter. Gentlemen might laugh; but the fact was, that this cabinet had been living for months on the leavings of their predecessors. They had fed upon the provisions they had found in the larder; even the bonded corn bill, formerly the object of so much disgust, had now been gulped by them like men—(Laughter.) Exceptions had been taken to the policy pursued respecting China; but on that head he would appeal to the declarations of the Duke of Wellington in the House of Lords, and he must himself observe, that if our hostilities with the Chinese should terminate in a satisfactory arrangement of commerce with a nation containing 200,000,000 of people, a greater benefit to British manufactures could hardly be conceived—(Cheers.) The late Government had also done much to widen the field of British commerce, not only in China, but on the west of the Indus, throughout that Afghan territory which he had been taunted with assurance for alluding to; the disaster lately sustained there had no connexion with the policy or with the plans of the Government; and if the military arrangements had been what they ought, the result would have been as honourable as the defence of Jellalabad—(Cheers.) He construed Sir R. Peel's answer to his question of the preceding night as an admission that orders had been given to withdraw our troops, and he should congratulate the country, if since the transmission of those orders, an overland despatch had reached the Governor-General, which would avert so deep a disgrace to the British arms, and so ruinous a blow to British commerce. He then adverted to the exports and imports of this country, and showed that between the beginning and the end of the Whig administration, there had been a considerable increase on both these heads. On the whole, the present prospects of the country at home were rather cheering; for the Government must now go forward with the principles of free trade; and if their own friends should leave them in the lurch, the opposition would support them in such a career. Nor would that opposition be less willing to aid them, if abandoning the policy of submission and concession in their foreign diplomacy, they would resolutely maintain the independence of their country, making no encroachments and suffering none—(Prolonged cheering.)

Sir R. PEEL seconded the motion, and thanked the noble lord for putting on record the successful legislation of the present government. The motion itself was a mere copy from one made last year by Colonel Sibthorp, whose words the noble lord had borrowed without acknowledgment of the authorship—(Laughter.) The noble lord had assailed him with two contradictory charges—one, that his commercial principles were exhibited in words only, and not in acts; the other that his commercial reforms had gone so far as to be deceptions upon his own supporters. Both could not be true. The noble lord said this Government had not derived their commercial policy from their predecessors. Quite true—(Laughter.) The noble lord had attributed almost every good that had occurred to the late ministry, and, above all, to his own foreign policy—(Laughter.) The present Government had brought forward its measures, and, considering their magnitude, he could not complain of the protraction of the opposition; but it had occupied forty-eight nights. He had persevered, and at last he had succeeded. He had been accused of abandoning some bills. Why? Not from fear, but from absolute want of time. More business had been done in the last month than in any month of any former ministry; but during that month there had been the members of that ministry on whom the noble lord had pronounced so inflated a panegyric All Red—(Cheers.) Not another man of the late cabinet left on the benches. Nearer was so strong a proof of confidence in a ministry. The opposition had all shrunk from the struggle and sweat of the session, and left the noble lord, the last rose of summer, to waste his sweetness on the desert air—(A laugh.) Perhaps it would be said, there was nothing particular to defend or enforce. What say you to the bribery bill? Lord John Russell, the great leader of reform, left it to the late Attorney-General, the late Attorney-General to the late Secretary of the Admiralty, the late Secretary of the Admiralty to the Chairman of the Committee, and all these having successively quitted town, it was devolved on Mr C. Buller, who devolved it on the government—(Hear.) Was ever more conclusive proof of confidence in an administration? Now for the financial deficiency—a deficiency of millions—three wars on your hands, and a boat of being all the while at peace. Why had the noble lord maintained silence during sixteen nights' debate on the income tax, and now, on the last day of the session, fired this paltry popgun at the measure?—(Laughter.) The reason of that former silence was, that he and his late colleagues had at first proposed to support the income tax. With respect to the national distress, Lord Palmerston had now, as before, used language tending to aggravate discontent; but all his contribution to the relief of it had been a barren assertion that "something or other" must be done next session. He would now come to the foreign policy. The noble lord had paraded his treaties about the slave trade; was that the main topic of a foreign minister's boat? What was the state in which, after all his old professions of a liberal union throughout Europe, he had left the great nations of the continent? The late opposition had given every aid to preserve the friendship of the French. This country had no hostility to France—no feeling of fear, or of rivalry; she knew the interests of the two countries to be the same—(Cheers.) He then censured Lord Palmerston for having entered, at the close of the session, upon points of honor with France and with the United States, when every word he uttered was a two-edged sword; and for having employed, in some of his written negotiations, petulant terms, which were sure to widen any wound already made. So little had his diplomacy succeeded in conciliating even Portugal, that it had become necessary to pass an act of parliament authorizing English cruisers to search Portuguese vessels suspected of slave trading. The noble lord had alluded to the negotiation with Hanover; of which he would say, that when published it would be found in no wise inconsistent with the honour of England; and he read a document in vindication of the course taken by the present Government. The noble lord left, for the climax of his speech, Afghanistan! He had presumed much upon the forbearance of ministers—(Cheers); and had even asked who had ever contemplated the abandonment of Afghanistan. "I," said Sir R. Peel, "could tell the noble lord"—(Great applause.) "But, I" continued he, "I will make no disclosure on the present state of the subject, nor endanger one Indian soldier's life to relieve myself from these premature taunts." He went on to say, that he would not adopt the objects of the noble lord, nor make war for the sake of promoting the study of Adam Smith among the Afghans. That might be the noble lord's way of opening commerce for England; but by the time he had taught the lesson, India, exhausted by his hostilities, would have no money left for his cottons. Sir R. Peel concluded by declaring the vanity and futility to him of successful ambition and extensive power, unless accompanied with the consciousness of integrity, the hope of an honest reputation, and the satisfaction of having served his country—(Great cheering.)

NAVAL.

Rear-Adm. the Hon. D. Bouverie has been succeeded by Rear-Adm. Hyde Parker in the Superintendence of Portsmouth Dockyard. Adm. Sir E. Codrington's period of service does not expire until December next. Sir B. Martin and the Hon. Sir J. Talbot have been spoken of as his successors, but it is thought that Admiral Sir C. Rowley will be the next Port Admiral.

It is said that a hundred of the oldest Captains in the navy, not under sixty years of age, are to be allowed to retire with the rank of Rear-admiral, on twenty shillings per diem.

The anniversary of Prince Albert's birth, August 26, was selected for laying the keel of the first class ship Royal Albert, at Woolwich.

Sir C. Adam has declared the port of St. Juan de Nicaragua, in Central America, in a state of blockade; a mode of enforcing certain private British claims against the government of the country.

Mr. Bush is progressing most favourably with the foundation of "A Light for all Nations," to be erected on the Goodwin sands.

We learn with much pleasure that the operation of the Act 2d and 3d Victoria, relative to the disposal of proceeds of the bulls, cargoes, or specie of captured slave vessels, has been rescinded. By it, these proceeds were condemned to the Crown; but her Majesty's Government has now most liberally given the whole retroactively to the captors.

The recent orders of the present heads of the naval department for the construction of two steam-vessels of 800-horse power each has been a subject of incredulity to many, but there can be no doubt of the correctness of the statement previously given, and to add to the wonder of those not acquainted with the value of steam navigation, and to convey to Foreign Powers the unlimited resources of this country, the following is given as the dimensions and value alone of the engines of the Penelope, late 42-gun frigate, in progress of being converted into a steam-vessel at Chatham, by being lengthened sixty feet:—Weight of engines, 220 tons; weight of boilers, 95 tons; diameter of cylinder, 91 inches; diameter of paddle-wheel, 30 feet; breadth of paddle-wheel, 10 feet; diameter of paddle-shaft, 17½ inches.

She will carry 600 tons of coal, being the average quantity required for thirteen or fourteen days' consumption. The total cost of her engines will be 25,000 £., and the exact number of horses' power 625. At the same rate, nearly 451 per horse power, which the engines of the Penelope will cost, the expense of the engines alone of a vessel of 800 horse power will be about 35,000 £. These calculations, from correct data, show the immense wealth and resources which enable this country to keep a navy superior to any other Power in the world.

A letter from an officer belonging to H. M.'s brig Rada, 16, Com. C. Hall, dated Sierra Leone, 17th May, states, that a gallant but unsuccessful attack had been made, on the 23d of April, by three boats of that vessel, on an armed slave-brig, mounting 5 guns, and about 50 men. The boats were commanded by Mr. Samwell, Master; Mr. Marriott, mate; and Mr. Kennedy, gunner (since dead, but not from any wound). On approaching the slave, after a long pull, she opened a brisk fire of round and grape shot, and on attempting to board her she commenced a smart firing of musketry, which wounded Mr. Marriott, three seamen, and a marine severely (the latter since dead); also, three seamen and a marine slightly; when the boats were obliged to withdraw.

The George the Fourth, having landed the St. Helena Regt., will proceed to China with stores. The Albion, 50, will be launched from Plymouth Dockyard; the Superb 80, (a sister ship of Faugard and Goliath), from Pembroke; and the Firebrand first class steam-vessel, from Portsmouth, early this month. The Prote, 16, has been launched first in the latter port.

The Red Rover, under command of Col. Ellis, embarked from the Wellesley marched into the barracks at Stonehouse accompanied by the band, carrying various trophies taken from the Chinese. Thousands of persons lined the streets through which the Marines had to pass. The following is a description of these trophies:—A yellow banner, imperial colour, captured by the Rt. Marines from the Upper Fort of Chuenpee in Jan. 1841, who fought their way through the embrasures, where the gallantry of Serj. Bennett and Corporal Knight, then privates was most conspicuous; the inscription on it in Chinese characters is "Flag of the tower of Chuenpee." A large green flag with golden dragon, taken by the battalions at the assault of the citadel of Chiphar in Oct. 1841; a smaller and imperial colour, yellow and gold dragon, at the capture of Ningpo-foo, in the same month. A battleaxe and long-handled sword, taken from the Chinese, in Aug., at Kolon-fo, from the strong battery of 16 guns, where the Marines landed and took at the point of the bayonet.

The Sappho, 16, com. E. J. Parry, has arrived from the West Indies. The Orontes has been commissioned by the Hon. S. Carnarvon. The Brisk has arrived from the West Indies. The Wellesley, 72, capt. Maitland, has been paid off at Plymouth. The Wag, 18, com. Hayes, has sailed for China. The Calcutta, 84, capt. Rich, has arrived from Lisbon, and has sailed for America; she is to be employed, with the Pique, in bringing troops from Canada.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

MONEY AND EXCHANGES.—The most sanguine expectations of the harvest have been confirmed. Wheat has fallen 20s. per quarter; no fear is now entertained of a derangement in the Currency. Foreign exchanges continue most favourable to this country. The Bank has nearly 10 millions of bullion in its coffers, and has issued an advertisement offering loans on six months' Bills of Exchange at 3½ per cent. No extension of the currency is expected. There seems no extensive speculation in produce going forward; no investments are going forward in American securities, this country having already sunk 40 millions in them. The political aspect promises a lengthened period of repose; the workmen are returning peaceably to their work; prices are generally looking up. British stocks are higher; Foreign funds are not in demand. Increased consumption in the great staples, Sugar and Tea, indicate improvement in the condition of the people. East India Bills are in good request, and are done at the best rate. The E. I. Government rate of Exchange is expected soon to be lowered to 2s.; the present rate being Bengal, 2s. 1d., Madras and Bombay, 2s. 1½d.

The amount of Bills drawn by the Honourable the East India Company in the month ending the 6th of September, 1842:—

On Bengal.....	£41,056 16 s
Madras.....	3,303 16 s
Bombay.....	4,378 6 s

Total £48,734 16 s

The late accounts from Bengal have confirmed the credit of East India Houses. Considerable shipments of Bullion have been made.

RAW SILK.—Early in the past month there was considerable activity in the Bengals, and the value of some of the inferior qualities rather higher; the good and better classes are nominally as before, but in fact rather looking upwards. In China very little has been done at last month's quotations. In the Brussa and Persian markets there has been no material alteration in prices. Italian firm. The deliveries for this month are short, but this is mainly attributable to the temporary stoppage of business in some of the manufacturing districts. The deliveries last month were 244 Brussas, 17 Persians, and the present stocks 1552 Brussas, and 235 Persian.

	s.	d.	s.	d.
Tattee, 9-12 Moss
1st and 2d	19	0	22	0
do. 3d and inferior	16	0	18	0
Yu-un-fa 6-8 Moss
1st and 2d	18	0	19	0
do. 3d and inferior	16	0	17	0
Taysam			None.
Canton 1st and 2d	12	0	14	0
do. 3d and inferior	7	9	10	8
Chin Chew			None.
Persian 1st and 2d	10	0	11	6
do. 3d and inferior	7	0	9	0
Brussa short Reel
1st and 2d	14	0	19	0
do. 3d and inferior	10	6	13	0
Brussa long Reel
1st and 2d	11	6	12	0
do. 3d and inferior	10	6	11	0

TRA. Sept. 5.—The deliveries last week were 421,819 lbs., being rather above those of the preceding six days. The large public sales in progress since our last, 48,000 packages, have occupied very fully the attention of the trade, and after the first day went off better, the actual quantity taken being 27,000 packages, and prices being fully equal to those previously current, and in a few instances a shade higher. Hyson was the only quality that declined, viz. 1d to 1½d per lb. The news from China relative to the rather greater scarcity of teas, and the higher prices asked, has no particular effect on the market, the stock here being larger than at this time last year.

CASSIA LIGNA has been in brisk demand, and a further advance of 2s has been attained. Good thin quill sold at 95s 6d to 98s—good middling 92s to 92s 6d—middling 88s to 89s 6d—ordinary and broken 72s to 78s 6d per cwt. This article is much wanted.

TEA.—Batavia taken in at 16s to 22s; 100 China, bold mid sold at 24s to 25s.

E. I. Drugs Star Aniseed 70s. to 71s; Cubebs 56; Camphor 12½ 5s to 12½ 15s.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CANTON PRESS.

Mr. Editor,

As your paper was the organ of publishing to the world two or three statements, which affect our character, and have no foundation in truth, you will do us the justice to insert the following correction. "The circular attributed to American missionaries now at Amoy" was never issued nor asked to be issued by them, neither have any of them ever seen that circular. They heard of its existence, and made efforts to procure a copy of it; but notwithstanding "the widely spread paper in question" as you affirm "was generally circulated at Amoy and Kolungsoo" they were unable to get a sight of it. Perhaps your informant wished to purchase tea himself, or perhaps he was anxious to obtain the freight of tea as he was going to Macao. If so you have the probable clue to the origin and object of such a circular. As you have positively declared that we are the Agents of a Canton firm, we wish you now to publish that no such agency exists. Perhaps you consider that interpretation for parties makes us their agents. In this sense we acknowledge that we are extensively connected in business, being the only foreigners who understand this language we have been called upon to do a good account of interpretation principally for the British government, the army and navy, and English merchants, least of all for the Americans, although one of us did make enquiries respecting the prices of teas for a Canton firm, which probably accounts for part of the specification in the circular. This agency we have performed cheerfully neither asking, expecting, nor receiving any emoluments for our work.

In behalf of the American Missionaries at Amoy,

D. ABEL.

Kolungsoo, Dec. 25, 1842.

CANTON PRESS.

Macao, 31st Dec., 1842.

We copy below a letter from Sir Henry Pottinger, to British merchants, in answer to one addressed to H. E. by the latter, which we published last week. It will be seen from this that the Governor of Canton has in reply to a letter addressed to him by H. E., declared his anxiety and ability to protect all foreigners, and has also expressed his readiness to repay such losses as may have been incurred during the late riot "after they shall have been correctly ascertained, and submitted through her Majesty's government." This is on the whole satisfactory, and it appears that since the Canton riot, the people have gradually settled into more quiet, although the ferment has by no means totally subsided. Inflammatory placards continue to be published, calling upon the people to drive all the English away, and exhorting the artisans not to lend their aid in rebuilding the British Factory, and we have been told that workmen actually refuse to be employed on that building. The wall leading to the garden, which had during the riot been pulled down, to give admittance to the mob, has however been repaired to keep them out for the future. As late only as Wednesday last, information was received that a number of men had collected near the northern gate of the City, bent upon mischief, but the soldiers sent against, soon dispersed, them. It cannot be denied that this feeling of animosity towards the English lately displayed by so large a portion of the people of and near Canton is somewhat inauspicious to a speedy arrangement and pacific continuance of trade, and it remains to be seen whether, if the Government of Peking is really desirous, the authorities of Canton will have the power, to enforce the regulations, the result of the negotiations about to be entered into. We are perfectly aware that the sending of an armed force to Canton, in order that the trade there may be carried on without interruption, although for a time it may have the desired result, must ultimately only tend still more to exasperate that portion of the people already hostile, and fresh insurrections would probably soon follow the removal of such force. We think it not unlikely that in time people will begin to see clearly where their real interest lies, and that then they will prefer peace and industry to riot and destruction; the Chinese have been so deeply wounded in their selflove and patriotic vanity by the successes of the British arms, that they can hardly comprehend why their government should have consented to, in their opinion, humiliating terms, and sticklers as they are, for "old custom" the conservatives of China fear still further encroachment on the part of foreigners, and little accustomed to or acquainted with the effects of the art of war as now practiced, they fondly fancy that numbers, so much in their favor, may still prevail, and this causes them to bluster. It is however to be hoped that in time they will become more reasonable.

The Hong merchant Minqua and a number of Hongmerchant clerks arrived here from Canton a few days since; we have not learnt the object of their visit. The reports as to whether Elepoo is coming or not are conflicting; according to some he is within a few days journey of Canton, and others are to the effect that he is not coming at all—indeed some say that although the Commissioner is willing to come, the people of Canton province will not permit him to prosecute his journey, and he has accordingly been stopped on the road. By accounts the most to be relied on, he is expected to arrive about a fortnight from this. A report which was spread here on Thursday evening last of Howqua's and the Chowchow hong being in flames turns out to be a fabrication. A small fire had occurred near Howqua's hong, but was very soon extinguished.

We readily give insertion to Mr. Abel's letter contradicting the statement we made some weeks since of American Missionaries having circulated a paper proposing to purchase teas. We gave an exact (as we believe) translation of it, and when a friend of Mr. Abel's called on us, to look at the original, we requested him to keep it, telling him at same time that the letter we had seen from Amoy stated that it had been published by the American Missionaries there. We may therefore be absolved by our readers, as we are by our own conscience, from having stated or said anything knowing or even suspecting it to be false, but we altogether deny that our paper has been, as Mr. Abel states in the beginning of his letter an "organ of publishing to the world two or three statements which affect our characters and have no foundation in truth." We do not remember, on any occasion, to have deserved that remark.

The conservative party in and near Canton are very active in their endeavours of imposing on the public, and we only last night were favored, by a friend, with the sight of a chop purporting to be an answer from the Viceroy to a despatch received from Sir Henry Pottinger, in which the former functionary is made to address Her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in exactly the same language held by the writers of the address by the Gentry and people, we copied from the Chinese Repository some weeks since. This paper, of which there can be no doubt that it is a forgery, we having had the advantage of "good advice" upon it, professes to be an answer by the Viceroy to a communication sent to him by Sir Henry Pottinger, dated the 14th of the 11th moon (15th December), and is in as insolent a tone as possible, of course to make the people, who are to be gulled by it, to understand that the local authorities at Canton are, even now, free to insult whoever they chose, and that the authors of the proclamation above alluded to, have in their attempts at revolutionizing the country, the government to support them.

On Thursday last H. E. Sir Henry Pottinger issued a communication to H. M. subjects (which we have not yet been able to obtain sight or copy of) containing questions on some details of commerce to which H. E. wishes to have answers. We understand there will be a meeting of British merchants on this subject this morning.

H. E. Sir Henry Pottinger and suite left for Hongkong yesterday morning in the Proserpine Steamer. The Memoon Steamer, although advertised to be despatched this day for Bombay, will, it is supposed, be detained.

On Wednesday last at about three o'clock of the afternoon, Capt. Cécille of the French Frigate Erigone, Capt. Page of the Corvette Favorita, the Revd. Mr. Guillet, and another gentleman belonging to the French Mission, accompanied by two Chinese pupils, were walking on the Lappa, an island on the other side of the inner harbour, and were there met by a party of Portuguese just returning from a shooting excursion, who warned them to be on their guard, as there were a great many thieves about with some of whom they had just had a scuffle. The French party however disregarded the warning, and walked on to near a small village, when a Chinese came up to them shewing a wound he pretended to have received from the Portuguese just passed. Whilst he was engaging the attention of Captain Cécille, a number of idlers collected, but at first they excited no apprehension, when an attack was begun by one of the thieves snatching the hat from one of the missionaries, and Capt. Cécille, fearing that violence on their part was likely to lead to serious results, was in the act of exhorting his party to refrain from blows, when the mob, armed with heavy sticks, made an attack upon him, knocked him down by a cut over the head, and beating him even when prostrate. He was, however, raised by Capt. Page and his other companions, and the party made good their retreat to the waterside; altogether refraining from any violence, which could not have mended matters, they being totally unarmed and numbers so greatly against them. We much regret that Captain Cécille received a severe wound on the forehead, which bled profusely, and that one of his hands is also much injured, and his person bruised, although the wounds are not dangerous. The inhabitants of the Lappa have always been known as vagabonds, and it is worthy of notice that at the time of the assault the villagers were looking on, expressing by gestures their delight at the cowardly outrage of their countrymen, whose object seems to have been plunder. Capt. Cécille having in the scuffle lost his spectacles and cap, the latter an object probably much coveted on account of its gold lace. It is singular that about 7 years ago a party of officers from the French ship Bonite was similarly ill treated on very near the same spot. Notice of this occurrence was immediately given to the Chi-new authorities here and at Casa Branca, and the village was on that night surrounded by a strong body of Police, and assurances have been given that the offenders will be severely punished.

From the Canton Register, Dec. 27.

Imperial Edicts.

On the 5th day of the 11th moon (Dec. 7), the superior officers of Canton, received a post-haste despatch from the board of civil office, covering an imperial edict, which had been received on the 14th day of the 10th moon (Nov. 13th) and issued by the privy council.

We ordered our officers to lead forth our troops, conquer and exterminate those who had committed the crime (of rebellion—the English). The original intention was to protect the frontier, and explain the reasons of subjugation.—The said general (Yihshan), and his assistant colleagues have roused up and stimulated the officers and troops to strenuous exertions, and clearly explained the regulations of the army and articles of war. Both strategy and courage were required to be put in action, and a speedy report should have been made of meritorious services, bearing in mind the very important trust I, the emperor, had confided to him.

At the time when the English barbarians last year caused trouble and confusion in Canton, I appointed Yihshan to be the rebel-quelling general, and gave him the command of a large army, to advance on, attack and exterminate (the rebels). But when Yihshan arrived at Canton, he did not immediately enter the city, but delayed staring about, until the barbarians surrounded the city, and he was unable to excite my troops to fight and exterminate all the English. When the barbarian ships retired from the river of Canton, they pursued possession of Hongkong, and the troubles continued for another year; and he was regardless, did nothing but fall in with existing circumstances, and with fold arms did not devise any stratagems, and the said barbarians were allowed to enter, ratlike, the provinces of Fuhkien, Cheekang, and Keangsoo, acting disorderly, causing trouble and confusion, which was caused by his sitting still and losing the opportunity of acting, his crime is exceedingly great.

Now on account of the successive losses of Tinghae, Chinhae, and Ningpo, I especially appointed Yihking to the post of the awe-inspiring general, and Wanwei and Tihshan to be assistant great ministers, to go to Cheekang, to raise everywhere picked soldiers for the recapture of the three cities, and thus spread the fame of my troops, but Yihking tarried in the city of Soochow, for several moons, devising and settling his course of action, collecting troops and calling on the abe bodied and brave to join the army, expecting to gain the victory by beating his drums. Looking at his statements,—he delineated where in various places he had troops lying in ambush, and where he had stationed his war vessels; all this foresight was well enough, but he was careless in his stratagems, and suffered them to be disclosed before the time and intelligence of them reached the said barbarians, who were thus previously prepared for him; and when our troops arrived they could do nothing.

And because Tsopoo was lost, and my officers and soldiers killed, they then advanced direct to attack the Cheang river, and not the slightest effort was made to oppose their progress. So Yihking knows only to remain in a corner, without any ability to regain (the lost cities), fatiguing the troops and wasting money, impeding and injuring the public service, and ruining the people. Wanwei tarried at Shaouking, collecting troops, and sat still, looking on at the barbarian infelicitous queens and our daily losses, and his only plan was to take care of himself, without ability of effecting any great plan; he is utterly useless; what has he done in his offices of general and assistant great minister? my imperial will has been already made known that Yihshan, Yihking, and Wanwei be ordered to return to Peking, all to be delivered over to the criminal board for the punishment of their crimes, to manifest a warning to others.

Tih Eshun and Tieshin were too late in their arrival in the province of Cheekang, and were not engaged with the English barbarians; but Tih Eshun lost Tsopoo, and was incapable of establishing means of defence; and Tieshin, marching troops to Keangsoo, was unable to secure and keep Chinkang and afterwards was unable to send troops to recover that city; he also is guilty of crimes. I order that Tih Eshun and Tieshin be delivered over to the board of civil office to be punished with increased severity.—Respect this.

It is proper, that we respectfully record the imperial will, and send despatches to the governors of the said provinces, that they may respectfully obey accordingly.

By J. Slade, Ed. C. R.

Another imperial edict follows the foregoing, which was sent to the privy council on the 19th day of the 10th moon (Nov. 21) and received in Canton by despatch on the 9th day of the 11th moon (Dec. 10), in which the emperor orders that the decision of the board of punishments be carried into effect: that Yihshan, Yihking and Wanwei, be degraded and dismissed from the public service, be confined in prison, and their heads to be cut off next autumn.—We are obliged to postpone the publication of this edict until the issue of the next Register.—Ibid.

HONGKONG

From the Friend of China, Dec. 22.

General order by his excellency lieutenant general, Sir Hugh Gough, G. C. B. Commanding the Expeditionary Force in China, Head Quarters, Marion, Hong-kong Harbour, 19th December 1842.

The commander of the forces cannot allow this Army to separate, without finally expressing the gratification which he has uniformly derived from its exemplary conduct. The warm anticipations, which he entertained on assuming the command, have been amply fulfilled.

Patient endurance of fatigue and exposure in a warfare often harassing, steadily discipline in the midst of temptations of no ordinary kind, and enthusiastic gallantry whenever a foe appeared, whatever his numbers or how- ever strongly posted, have marked the conduct of this Army.

The happy termination to the war, now severs the tie which united the lieutenant general with his gallant comrades at Chusan, Kolungsoo and Hongkong—with those who return with him to India, a brief space more will dissolve his connection, but neither time nor circumstances will efface the deep interest, which he feels in the well-being and the honor of the Corps and individuals, that compose the Army of China, and with this assurance Sir Hugh Gough bids them farewell!

By order ARNOLD H. MOUNTAIN, Lieut. Col.
Deputy Adj. Genl. Expedy. Force.

THE CHINESE NAVY.—From the latest Peking Gazette, we perceive that much interest exists in the Imperial Cabinet, on the subject of constructing ships of war after Foreign models. It appears that Kin Ying Lin, one of the Ministers, laid drawings of ships of sundry forms before His Majesty, accompanied by strong recommendations for an increased number of efficient fighting ships. U. on this, the Emperor sends all the drawings to Yih shan, at Canton, ordering him to have vessels constructed, if he considered Kin Ying's plans the most feasible. Yih shan, in a very lengthy memorial, shows that no kinds of vessels are at all proper for fighting, except those constructed after Foreign models. He speaks of the wonderful reports of the high Officers of the U. S. Ships Constellation and Boston, during their visit at Whampoa, and proposes, that they be the models of all Chinese ships of war, hereafter to be built. The Emperor, therefore, orders ships to be built of the kind recommended, and of the best materials. His Majesty also states, that as the ships are now needed there will not be time to wait for them to be built, but orders Yih shan to send the Hong merchants, to buy the ships which the barbarians may have for sale, and at the same time, to dispatch proper officers, to purchase the strongest materials possible for ship building.

Yih shan states in his Memorial, that one ship after the Foreign model has been built at Canton, and which is able to go out to sea, and that two more are on the Stocks.

PIRACY.

The letter of our correspondent W. which appeared in our last number merits attention, as from the long acquaintance of the writer with the Chinese, and his knowledge of their language, we are sure he would not have so addressed us on the subject of Piracy, unless he had very good grounds for his statement.

We regret to learn, that the events of the past week, are but too confirmatory of the existence of a widely ramified system of Plutical Association; for in entering our harbour, several small vessels have been plundered and the Hope Cutter (passage boat) in coming hither from Macao, was attacked by two Pirate Junks. All the ammunition on board the Hope, was expended in its defence, when fortunately a breeze sprung up and she escaped.

These two Pirate boats were afterwards seen to board a Lorchu; bound from Canton to Macao. We should be sorry to be compelled to repeat the general complaints which reach us of the want of protection to life and property in our harbour, nay almost in sight of the Flag ship, as many can unhappily attest.

REPLY OF H. E. SIR HENRY POTTINGER TO THE MERCHANTS LETTER.—(See last week's Canton Press)

Macao, December 24th, 1842.

GENTLEMEN,—I am directed by Sir Henry Pottinger to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, and to inform you, that a copy of it will be transmitted (with the other correspondence) to her majesty's government by the steamer now under despatch.

His excellency further directs me to take this opportunity to mention to you, that the viceroy at Canton has, in reply to the letter which was addressed to him, declared his great anxiety, as well as perfect ability, to protect all foreigners, and has also expressed his readiness to repay such losses as may have been incurred during the late riots, "after they shall have been correctly ascertained and submitted through her majesty's government."

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your most obedient humble servant,
RICHARD WOONNAM,
Acting Secretary.

To, Messrs. Dent & Co.
Messrs. Turner & Co.
&c. &c.

H. M. SQUADRON to the NORTHWARD, AT CHUAN, CHINHAIE, &c.

H.M.S. Cornwallis, 72, Bearing the flag of vice-Admiral Sir W. Parker, K. C. B., commander in chief, captain Richards, Senior Commanding Officer.

" Thalia,	44,	" Hope.
" North Star,	26,	" Sir J. E. Home, Bart.
" Pelican,	18,	comr. Justice.
" Harlequin,	18,	" the honble F. Hastings.
" Childers,	16,	" Halsted.
" Wanderer,	16,	" Seymour.
" Serpent,	16,	" Nevill.
" Algerine,	10,	comr. W. H. Maitland.
" Royalist,	10,	" Chetwood.
" Hospital ship Minden,	capt. Quin.

SURVEYING SHIPS,

" Starling,	6,	comr. Kellett.
" Plover,	6,	" Collinson.
TROOPSHIPS,
comr. C. Frederick.
" Cole.

STEAMERS,
" Medusa,	comr. Hewett, I. N.
" Phlegethon,	lieut. McCleverty, R. N.
H.M. Driver,	" Farmer.

AT AMOY.

M.H.S. Cambrian,	36,	capt. Chada, c. n. senior com- manding officer.
" Pylades,	18,	comr. Tindal, (absent.)
" Chameleon,	10,	lieut. Hunter.

AT HONGKONG.

" Agincourt,	74,	Bearing the flag of Rear Ad- miral Sir T. Cochrane, c. n.
" Dido,	20,	comr. the hon'ble H. Keppell.
" Wolverine,	16,	" Johnson.
" Columbine,	16,	" Morhead.
" Young Hebe,	4,	" Wood.
H.C. St. Akbar,		Commodore Pepper, I. N.
" Proserpine,	comr. Hough, a. n.
H.M.T.S. Belleisle,	capt. Kingcomb.
" Jupiter,	mr. comr. G. B. Hoffmeister.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

December, ARRIVED

21, (B)	Inglewood, Kerr, Liverpool. 26th July.
23,	" Prince George, Foster, Halifax.
23,	" Bella Marina, Asbridge Jaffa.
26, (P)	Providencia, Pereira, do.
30, (B)	London, Johnston, Bombay.

December, SAILED

20, (B.) (Trapt.)	Alibi, Vooght, Singapore.
20,	" Asia, Davidson, do.
20,	" Rhundell, Trail, do.
20,	" Burhampostor, Brown, do.
20,	" City of Falace, Sherriff, do.
20,	" Coromandell, Lobban, do.
20,	" Cur. Cowagee, Campbell, do.
20,	" Duke of Bedford, Lay, do.
20,	" Ernaad, Hill, do.
20,	" Faise Allum, Bennett, do.
20,	" Faise Rabany, Stewart, do.
20,	" Flow, of Ugie, Annand, do.
20,	" Forth, Beckford, do.
20,	" Gertrude, Stead, do.
20,	" Gipsy, Stace, do.
20,	" John Wickliffe, Cheyde, do.
20,	" John Fleming, Rose, do.
20,	" Lady Flora, Ford, do.
20,	" Livingston, Rickerby, do.
20,	" Lysander, do.
20,	" Maria, Lusdale, do.
20,	" Martha, Donaldson, do.
20,	" Mel. Behar, Hutchison, do.
20,	" Minerva, Geere, do.
20,	" Peking, Laing, do.
20,	" Percy, Hickman, do.
20,	" Rahamany, Norris, do.
20,	" Roberts, Elder, do.

20,	"	"	Runnymede, McTaggart, do.
20,	"	"	Rust, Cowasjee, Gallie, do.
20,	"	"	Sophia, Saxon, do.
20,	"	"	Surat Merchant, Fewson, do.
20,	"	"	Tamerslane, Matkenzie, do.
20,	"	"	Teaser, Gilson, do.
20,	"	"	Thames, Baker, do.
20,	"	"	Tiro, Hall, do.
20,	"	"	Victory, Shilstone, do.
20,	"	"	Urgent, Marshall, do.
20,	"	"	Urgent, do.
20,	"	"	Walter Laitle, Campbell do.
20,	"	"	Warrior, Darley, do.
20,	"	"	William Money, Bickford do.
20,	"	"	William Turner, Roals, do.
20,	H. M. S.	Endymion, 36, hble.	Grey, do.
20,	H. C. St.	Queen, Warden, comr.	do.
20,	"	"	Pluto, lieut. Tudor, n. π., do.
25,	H. C. St.	Fiscen, comr. H. Bayes,	Sing. and
26,	(B.)	Matilda, Rowe, Liverpool,	[Bombay.
27,	(A.)	Probus, Sumner, New York.
28,	"	Oscar, do.
28,	(B.)	Lord Amherst, Zabell, Sing. and	Calcutta.
28,	"	Charlotte, Liebschwager, Manila.
28,	"	Wanderer, Smith, Chusan.
28,	(A.)	Splendid, Laud, New York.
29,	"	Akbar, Dumaresq, do.
29,	"	Carolina, do.
30,	(B.)	Christina, Primrose, Manila.
30,	"	Arrow, Geare, London.
31,	"	John Moore, Whitcomb, London.

PASSENGERS omitted last week: per John O'Gaunt, Mrs. Patterson; per Nemesis, Mr. W. D. Bernard.

The Bella Marina made a passage of only 25 days from Java; she spoke on the 10th December the William Todd in Gilolo Straits bound from Singapore to Hongkong.

UNDER DESPATCH

For London.—Ellora.
For Bombay.—Anthony Anderson.
For Calcutta.—Pantaloon.
For Madras.—Weraff.
For Singapore.—Penang, Colombo.

VESSELS EXPECTED

From England.—Julia, Alliance, Mary Ann Edie, Claudius, Louisa Jackson, Bolivar, Madras, Ursula, George IF. Ind, Will the Wisp, Liverpool, d'Arcy, Oracles, Christopher Rawson, Ann Jane, Coromandel, Childers, Edward Bonstead Greyhound, Little Catherine, Lady Raffles, Geo. Walks, Tapley, England's Queen, Siam.

From Bombay.—Asia, Diana, Corea, Woodman, Gilbert Henderson, Wm. Abrahams, Midlothian, England.

From Calcutta.—Clawm, Victory, Bengal Packet, Eitca, Nabal, Thomas Lowrie, Mary Bullantine, Anonyma Water Witch.

From Singapore.—Waterloo.

LATEST DATES,

ENGLAND, 6th Sept.	SINGAPORE, 18th Nov.
UNITED STATES, Aug. 11,	MANILA, 14th Dec.
CALCUTTA, 11th Oct.	AMOY, 25th December.
BOMBAY, 14th Oct.	CHUAN.
JAVA, 1st Dec.	NANKING.

British Shipping in the Chinese waters.

VESSELS.	TONS.	CAPTAINS.	CONSIGNEES.
AnatolianPa-	—	Nichols,	Dent and Co.
Arun,	—	Kellock,	"
Arethusa, [cket	—	Christian,	"
Abberton,	451	Catt,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Anna Eliza,	254	Butcher,	"
Anty Anderson,	498	Splatt,	Macvicar & Co.
Alex. Baring,	—	Hale,	Russell and Co.
Athenian,	—	Mann,	Jardine M. & Co.
Ann Lockerby,	—	Wightman,	"
Anne Mary,	—	Rackham,	"
Bekghamshire,	1463	McGregor,	"
Bucephalus,	—	Small,	Lindsay & Co.
Baboo,	—	Stewart,	Dirom and Co.
Birumen,	—	Cleland,	Holliday, Wise & Co.
Black Swan,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
British Isle,	—	Graham,	Fletcher, Larkins & Co.
Belle Alliance,	677	Pryce,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Bella Marina,	480	Asbridge,	"
Columbus,	—	Short,	Dirom and Co.
Columbine,	—	Major,	H. Pybas.
Chanticleer,	—	Grange,	Henry Gribble.
Chelyda,	—	Wishart,	Dent and Co.

Culdee,	—	Campbell,	"
Cacique,	—	Man,	C. Fearon.
Devon,	—	Mallory,	Fox Rawson and Co.
*Dindem,	—	Harland,	Macvicar & Co.
Ellora,	—	Turnbull,	"
Elizabeth,	—	Morris,	"
Equestrian,	801	Cromorty,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Edinburgh,	1414	Paterson,	"
Elphinstone,	—	Framlin,	Dent & Co.
Foam,	—	Greig,	Dallas and Co.
Frances Ann,	—	Thomson,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Frances Burn,	—	Edington,	Macvicar and Co.
*Fort William,	1248	Hogg,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Ganges,	—	Walker,	"
Good Success,	—	Eames,	"
*Geminl,	—	Mardon,	Turner and Co.
*Greenlaw,	—	Morrice,	Lindsay and Co.
*Grecian,	—	Watt,	"
*Gulzare,	313	wiloughby,	Dirom and Co.
*Hero of Malown,	480	Jackson,	"
Hongkong,	—	Fowler,	H. Holgate.
*Hygeia,	378	Woodbury,	G. Nye Jr.
Hymalaya,	—	Burn,	"
Helena,	—	Drenning,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Harlequin,	—	Oliver,	"
*Hindostan,	708	Bowen,	Dent and Co.
Isa. Robertson,	—	Kelly,	Pereira and Co.
Isabella,	—	Hardie,	Dent and Co.
Inglewood,	—	Kerr,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Islay,	—	Galt,	A. A. de Mello.
Inglis,	—	Isaacson,	C. S. Compton.
James Matheson	—	brauscomb,	Dirom and Co.
Jane,	—	Berg,	J. Burd and Co.
Lady Leith,	—	Lewis,	Jardine M. & Co.
*Lady Clarke,	—	Lawrence,	Turner and Co.
Lady of St. Kilda	—	Manton,	"
London,	—	Johnston,	Russell and Co.
Minerva,	—	Brown,	Dent and Co.
Manly,	—	Hart,	C. H. Hart.
Mercury,	—	W. Scott,	"
Mary Anne,	—	Holton,	Jardine M. & Co.
Malacca,	—	Shettler,	"
Medusa,	453	Purdie,	"
Mellish,	—	Fawcett,	Lindsay & Co.
Osprey,	—	Kirk,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Orator,	—	Terry,	"
Pantaloon,	—	Porter,	H. Pybas.
Parrock Hall,	—	Wharton,	"
Prince George,	—	Foster,	"
Queen Leitch	—	Gray,	Turner & Co.
Royal Exchange	—	"	D. & M. Rustonjee Co.
Raymond,	—	Mackay,	Jardine M. & Co.
Rockcliff,	323	Harrison,	Fletcher, Larkins & Co.
Ruparell,	—	Rigby,	A. & D. Furdonjee.
Roan,	—	"	C. H. Hart.
*St. Lawrence,	—	Newlands,	Russell and Co.
Siam,	—	Smith,	"
Surry,	—	Naylor,	Holliday Wise & Co.
Semiramis,	365	Cairnie,	Jamieson, How & Co.
Snipe,	—	High,	Hugheson Brothers.
Susan,	—	Neathy,	Fox Rawson & Co.
*Victoria,	—	Mordant,	Dent and Co.
Velocipede,	—	woodward,	"
*Wild Irish Girl	—	Gillet,	J. A. Durran Jr.
*Win. Gillies,	—	Clark,	Macvicar & Co.
Weeraff,	—	Hunt,	Jardine Matheson & Co.
Wm. Hyde,	—	Seward,	"
Urgent,	—	Thompson	Fox, Rawson & Co.

AMERICAN.

U. S. S. Constellation, Commodore Kearney.
*Levant,	—	Faulk,	J. D. Sword & Co.
*Ann MacKim,	—	Vasmer,	W. A. Lawrence.
Grafton,	—	Gardner,	I. M. Bull.
Panther,	—	Martin,	J. M. Bull.
Lowell,	—	Peirce,	W. H. Peirce.
Mary Ellen,	—	—	A. Heard & Co.
Lema,	—	Poor,	Russell and Co.
*Niantic,	—	Hepburn,	"
Oneyda,	—	Swift,	G. Nye Jr.
*Jessore,	—	Watkins,	Russell and Co.
Basar,	—	Kilham,	"
Zenobia,	—	Pratt,	"

FRENCH.

Fr. Frig. Erigone, 44, | Captain Cécille.
Fr. Corv. Favorite, 24, | Commander Page.
*L'Orient, | | Lagravier | Dent and Co.

SPANISH.

*Maria, | Cuculla, | A. Cuculla.
Gifana, | Salado, | J. Salado.

GERMAN.

Margarethe, | Klenke, | Jardine M. and Co.
Heloisa, | Steljes, | Russell and Co.

* At Whampoa.

Printed and published by EDMUND MOLLAY, at the Canton Press Office, Pede Monte.